VER. 14. Desire and expectation. Chap. xxii. 27. They meant to return as soon as the Chaldees had left the country: but their hopes were vain. The enemy would fall upon Egypt, after he had taken Tyre and the neighbouring provinces; and those who had not abandoned that country in time, would perish. Ver. 12, 26. C.

VER. 17. The queen of heaven; the moon, which they worshipped under this name, (Ch.) as also under that of the Celestial Venus, (Theod.,) Diana, and Isis.

VER. 19. Worship. Heb. "to represent." The cakes had a crescent on them. C.

VER. 26. Liveth. They swore by his name as well as by that of idols. God could not abide such company. C.—Not one of these obstinate Jews shall be spared. Ver. 14. Others, like Jeremias, the Sept., and the holy family, no doubt called upon the Lord in the land of Egypt. H.

VER. 30. Enemies. Herodotus (ii. 161, 169) informs us that Apries reigned fortunately twenty-five years, when he lost many of his men fighting against the Cyreneans, and was dethroned by Amasis, and strangled by his subjects. Usher (A. 3433) suspects that Amasis was assisted and confirmed by Nabuchodonosor, and he might thus fulfil the prophecies. Chap. xlii. 11, &c.; Eze. xxix., &c. Josephus (Ant. x. 11) and Berosus (c. Ap. 1) assert that Nabuchodonosor defeated and slew the king of Egypt, though Herodotus is silent on this subject, his account being communicated by the Egyptian priests, and full of fables. C.

CHAP. XLV. VER. 1. Book, which Joakim burnt, and sought the life of the prophets. Chap. xxxvi. C.

VER. 5. Great: the spirit of prophecy (Rabbins); or rather to be exempted from suffering, while all the neighbouring nations were perishing. C.—And save. Lit. "for salvation." Heb. "booty." H.—He seems to have been set at liberty with his master. Chap. xl. 1. C.

CHAP. XLVI. VER. 1. Gentiles, to whom Jeremias was sent. Chap. i. 1.

THE word of the Lord, that came to Jeremias, the prophet, against the Gentiles,

2 Against Egypt, against the army of Pharaoh Nechao, king of Egypt, which was by the river Euphrates, in Charcamis, whom Nabuchodonosor, the king of Babylon, defeated, in the fourth year^a of Joakim, the son of Josias, king of Juda.

3 Prepare ye the shield and buckler, and go forth to battle.

4 Harness the horses, and get up, ye horsemen; stand forth with helmets, furbish the spears, put on coats of mail.

5 What then? I have seen them dismayed, and turning their backs, their valiant ones slain: they fled apace, and they looked not back: terror was round about, saith the Lord.

6 Let not the swift flee away, nor the strong think to escape: they are overthrown, and fallen down, towards the north, by the river Euphrates.

7 Who is this that cometh up as a flood: and his streams swell like those of rivers?

8 Egypt riseth up like a flood, and the waves thereof shall be moved as rivers, and he shall say: I will go up, and will cover the earth: I will destroy the city and its inhabitants.

9 Get ye up on horses, and glory in chariots, and let the valiant men come forth, the Ethiopians, and the Libyans, that hold the shield, and the Lydians that take, and shoot arrows.

10 For this is the day of the Lord, the God of hosts, a day of vengeance, that he may revenge himself of his enemies: the sword shall devour, and shall be filled, and shall be drunk with their blood: for there is a sacrifice of the Lord God of hosts in the north country, by the river Euphrates.

11 Go up into Galaad, and take balm, O virgin daughter of Egypt: in vain dost thou multiply medicines, there shall be no cure for thee.

12 The nations have heard of thy disgrace, and thy howling hath filled the land: for the strong hath stumbled against the strong, and both are fallen together.

13 The word that the Lord spoke to Jeremias, the prophet, how Nabuchodonosor, king of Babylon, should come and strike the land of Egypt:

14 Declare ye to Egypt, and publish it in Magdal, and let it be known in Memphis, and in Taphnis: say ye: Stand up, and prepare thyself: for the sword shall devour all round about thee.

15 Why are thy valiant men come to nothing? they stood not: because the Lord hath overthrown them,

16 He hath multiplied them that fall, and one hath fallen upon another, and they shall say: Arise, and let us return to our own people, and to the land of our nativity, from the sword of the dove.

17 Call ye the name of Pharaoh, king of Egypt, a tumult time hath brought.

18 As I live, (saith the King, whose name is the Lord of hosts,) as Thabor is among the mountains, and as Carmel by the sea, so shall he come.

19 Furnish thyself to go into captivity, thou daughter inhabitant of Egypt: for Memphis shall be made desolate, and shall be forsaken and uninhabited.

20 Egypt is like a fair and beautiful heifer: there shall come from the north one that shall goad her.

21 Her hirelings also that lived in the midst of her, like fatted calves are turned back, and are fled away together, and they could not stand: for the day of their slaughter is come upon them, the time of their visitation.

22 Her voice shall sound like brass, for they shall hasten with an army, and with axes they shall come against her, as hewers of wood.

23 They have cut down her forest, saith the Lord, which cannot be counted: they are multiplied above locusts, and are without number.

24 The daughter of Egypt is confounded, and delivered into the hand of the people of the north.

25 The Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, hath said: Behold, I will visit upon the tumult of Alexandria, and upon Pharaoh, and upon Egypt, and upon her gods, and upon her kings, and upon Pharaoh, and upon them that trust in him.

26 And I will deliver them into the hand of them that seek their lives, and into the hand of Nabuchodonosor, king of Babylon, and into the hand of his servants: and afterwards it shall be inhabited^c as in the days of old, saith the Lord.

27 And thou, my servant, Jacob, fear not, and be not thou dismayed, O Israel: for behold I will save thee from afar off, and thy seed out of the land of thy captivity: and

^a A. M. 3397, A. C. 607.—^b Supra, xlv. 1.

^c Eze. xxix. 13.—^d Isa. xliii. 1, and xlv. 2.

What follows regards them, (C.) if we except the last chapter. H.—It was thought proper to place these predictions here, though out of their chronological order, to which the Sept. have more adhered, placing them after chap. xxv. C.

VER. 2. Nechao. He slew Josias, and took all as far as Charcamis. 4 Kings xxiii.

VER. 5. Seen. The prophets usually speak as if things were already past. W.

VER. 6. Away. It will be in vain. C.—Nechao went to defend Charcamis, but lost "many myriads in the battle," and all the country "as far as Pelusium, except Judea." Joseph. x. 7.

VER. 8. City; Babylon, and every fort which shall oppose my progress. C.

VER. 9. Men. Soldiers formed one of the principal classes among the Egyptians. Herod. ii. 164.—Ethiopians. Heb. "Chus," in Lower Egypt, on the Red Sea.

VER. 11. Of Egypt; or ye Egyptians, who have been wounded. The balm (H.) or resina of Galaad was then very famous. Gen. xxxvii. 25. C.—Egypt thought itself invulnerable, and is derided. Its cure was hopeless. Ver. 16. W.

VER. 16. Dove. Heb. also, "of the destroyer." Sept. "Greeks," or Ionians. C.—See chap. xxv. 35. Ch.

VER. 17. Pharao. Sept. add, "Nechao." But Apries seems rather to be meant. C.—All the boasts of Pharaoh ended in smoke. He lost the proper opportunity, and caused his own kingdom to be laid waste. Syr. "the disturber, who deranges the times." C

VER. 18. He, the destroyer (ver. 16); or "it," my word (H.) shall surely stand as long as the mountains, (C.) yea, longer than heaven and earth. H.—My decrees shall be put in execution in spite of the efforts of man. C.

VER. 19. Furnish. Lit. "make thyself vessels of captivity," or pack up what thou mayest want there. H. Eze. xii. 3, and xxix. 11.—Many returned under Cyrus. Ver. 26.

VER. 20. Goad her. Nabuchodonosor shall subdue the country.

VER. 22. Brass. Sept. "hissing serpent;" lamenting in secret. Isa. xxix. 4.—Wood. Battle-axes were then used. Great cities and monarchs shall fall. Zec. xi. 2; Eze. xxxi. 3. C.

VER. 23. Above, or "more than locusts," (H.) which destroy all herbs where they light.

VER. 25. Visit upon. That is, punish.—Alexandria. In the Heb. No; which was the ancient name of the city, to which Alexander gave afterwards the name of Alexandria (Ch.); or this city was built near Rachotes, the harbour. "Ammon of No" was rather Diospolis, (Eze. xxx. 14. Sept.,) in the Delta, north of Busiris.—Kings. Chap. xlii. 12. Apries was slain, (chap. xlv. 33. C.) and his two successors perished miserably by sentence of Cambyses. Herod. iii. 14, and 16.

VER. 26. Afterwards, forty years being expired (Eze. xxix. 14) from the time when Apries made his unsuccessful attack on Cyrene, and his subjects revolted

Jacob shall return, and be at rest, and prosper: and there shall be none to terrify him.

28 And thou, my servant, Jacob, fear not, saith the Lord: because I am with thee, for I will consume all the nations to which I have cast thee out: but thee I will not consume, but I will correct thee in judgment, neither will I spare thee, as if thou wert innocent.

CHAP. XLVII.

A prophecy of the desolation of the Philistines, of Tyre, Sidon, Gaza, and Ascalon.

THE word of the Lord that came to Jeremias, the prophet, against the people of Palestine, before Pharaoh took Gaza:

2 Thus saith the Lord: Behold there come up waters out of the north, and they shall be as an overflowing torrent, and they shall cover the land, and all that is therein, the city, and the inhabitants thereof: then the men shall cry, and all the inhabitants of the land shall howl,

3 At the noise of the marching of arms, and of his soldiers, at the rushing of his chariots, and the multitude of his wheels. The fathers have not looked back to the children, for feebleness of hands,

4 Because of the coming of the day, in which all the Philistines shall be laid waste, and Tyre, and Sidon shall be destroyed, with all the rest of their helpers. For the Lord hath wasted the Philistines, the remnant of the isle of Cappadocia.

5 Baldness is come upon Gaza: Ascalon hath held her peace, with the remnant of their valley: how long shalt thou cut thyself?

6 O thou sword of the Lord, how long wilt thou not be quiet? Go into thy scabbard, rest and be still.

7 How shall it be quiet, when the Lord hath given it a charge against Ascalon, and against the countries thereof by the sea side, and there hath made an appointment for it?

CHAP. XLVIII.

A prophecy of the desolation of Moab, for their pride: but their captivity shall at last be released.

AGAINST^b Moab, thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Woe to Nabo, for it is laid waste, and confounded: Cariathaim is taken; the strong city is confounded, and hath trembled.

^a Deut. ii. 23; Amos ix. 7.—^b Supra, xxvii.; Ezech. xxv.

VER. 27. Off from all countries, (C.) particularly from Egypt (H.); on occasion of which country's deliverance that of Jacob is foretold. C.

VER. 28. Nations of Assyria, Chaldea, &c. Chap. xxx. 11. C.

CHAP. XLVII. VER. 1. Gaza, going or returning from Chareamis. Apries also attacked Tyre, and would of course invade the Philistines. They had assisted the Tyrians against Nabuchodonosor, who therefore made incursions into their territory, and into that of Ammon, &c., while the main part of his army besieged Tyre for thirteen years. C.

VER. 4. Tyre. See Chap. xlvii. 4; Ezech. xxvi., &c.—Sidon. It had rejoiced at the downfall of its rival, (Isa. xxiii. 4,) and of the Jews. Joel iii. 4; Ezech. xviii. 24.—Helpers; Philistines, who came originally from the isle of Caphter, or Crete.—Cappadocia was not an island, or near the sea, (C.) but at a distance from the Jews. Sanct.

VER. 5. Baldness, the sign of mourning, (C.) or captivity. H.—Peace. Heb. "shall be destroyed." Sept. "cast away." She has afforded no assistance to Gaza. H.—Valley, along the Mediterranean. C.—Lit. "And ye remnants of their valley, how?" &c.—Cut, in despair or grief. Chap. xli. 5.

VER. 6. Sword. He is moved with pity to see so much carnage, but reflects that such is the will of God. Nabuchodonosor was his sword or scourge. C.

CHAP. XLVIII. VER. 1. Moab. This people broke their covenant with sedecias, yet were punished for having entered into it, five years after the taking of Jerusalem. Jos. S. Jer. in chap. xxv. 32.—The same war is described by Ezech. xiv. 8; Soph. ii. 8.—Naba, a town at the foot of that mountain where Moses

2 There is no more rejoicing in Moab over Hesebon: they have devised evil. Come, and let us cut it off from being a nation. Therefore, shalt thou in silence hold thy peace, and the sword shall follow thee.

3 A voice of crying from Oronaim: waste and great destruction.

4 Moab is destroyed; proclaim a cry for her little ones.

5 For by the ascent of Luith shall the mourner go up with weeping; for in the descent of Oronaim, the enemies have heard a howling of destruction:

6 Flee, save your lives; and be^c as heath in the wilderness.

7 For because thou hast trusted in thy bulwarks, and in thy treasures, thou also shalt be taken; and Chamos shall go into captivity, his priests, and his princes together.

8 And the spoiler shall come upon every city, and no city shall escape; and the valleys shall perish, and the plains shall be destroyed, for the Lord hath spoken:

9 Give a flower to Moab, for in its flower it shall go out; and the cities thereof shall be desolate, and uninhabited.

10 Cursed be he that doth the work of the Lord deceitfully; and cursed be he that withholdeth his sword from blood.

11 Moab hath been fruitful from his youth, and hath rested upon his lees; and hath not been poured out from vessel to vessel, nor hath gone into captivity: therefore his taste hath remained in him, and his scent is not changed.

12 Therefore, behold the days come, saith the Lord, and I will send him men that shall order and overturn his bottles, and they shall cast him down, and shall empty his vessels, and break their bottles one against another.

13 And Moab shall be ashamed of Chamos, "as the house of Israel was ashamed of Bethel, in which they trusted.

14 "How do you say: We are valiant, and stout men in battle?

15 Moab is laid waste, and they have cast down her cities; and her choice young men are gone down to the slaughter, saith the King, whose name is the Lord of hosts.

16 The destruction of Moab is near to come: the calamity thereof shall come on exceeding swiftly.

^c Supra, xvii. 6.—^d 3 Kings xii. 29.—^e Isa. xvi. 6.

died. Deut. xxxiv.—Cariathaim. This city, and most of the others, were repossessed by Moab after the Israelites were led into captivity. C.

VER. 2. Hesebon, at the foot of Phasga, and one of the strongest cities.—Shalt. Heb. "shall Medemena hold her peace." C.—"Thou shalt be cut down, O madmen." H.—It signifies "silence." Thou silent city, thou shalt be reduced to a mournful silence or destruction.

VER. 4. Little ones. Heb. "to Segor." Ver. 34; Isa. xv. 5. C.—Chal "princes" of the second rank. Vat.

VER. 6. Heath, or tamariek. Chap. xvii. 6. Heb. Aror.

VER. 7. Bulwarks. Heb. "works," or possessions of corn, cattle, &c. C.—Chamos, the idol of the Moabites. Ch.

VER. 8. Spoiler, or "thief," (prædo), a title which Nabuchodonosor deserved, on account of his unjust conquests. C.

VER. 9. Flower: a usual ceremony at funerals. A. Lapid. M.

VER. 10. Deceitfully. In the Greek, negligently. The work of God here spoken of, is the punishment of the Moabites. Ch.—Woe to those who spare those whom God orders to be destroyed, as Saul and Achab did. 1 Kings xv. 8, 23, and 3 Kings xx. 32, 42.

VER. 11. Fruitful as a vine.—Lees. The wine has not been disturbed. It was customary to keep it first in pits, (Mark xii. 1; Isa. v. 1,) and afterwards in large earthen vessels.—Changed. He alludes to the wine. H.—Moab has enjoyed a long peace and prosperity. C.

VER. 13. Of Bethel. That is, of their golden calves, which they worshipped in Bethel. Ch.

17 Comfort him, all you that are round about him; and all you that know his name, say: How is the strong staff broken, the beautiful rod?

18 Come down from thy glory, and sit in thirst. O dwelling of the daughter of Dibon; because the spoiler of Moab is come up to thee, he hath destroyed thy bulwarks.

19 Stand in the way, and look out, O habitation of Aroer: inquire of him that fleeth, and say to him that hath escaped: What is done?

20 Moab is confounded, because he is overthrown: howl ye, and cry, tell ye it in Arnon, that Moab is wasted.

21 And judgment is come upon the plain country; upon Helon, and upon Jasa, and upon Mephaath;

22 And upon Dibon, and upon Nabo, and upon the house of Deblathaim;

23 And upon Cariathaim, and upon Bethgamul, and upon Bethmaon;

24 And upon Carioth, and upon Bosra, and upon all the cities of the land of Moab, far or near.

25 The horn of Moab is cut off, and his arm is broken, saith the Lord.

26 Make him drunk, because he lifted up himself against the Lord; and Moab shall dash his hand in his own vomit, and he also shall be in derision.

27 For Israel hath been a derision unto thee; as though thou hadst found him amongst thieves: for thy words, therefore, which thou hast spoken against him, thou shalt be led away captive.

28 Leave the cities, and dwell in the rock, you that dwell in Moab; and be ye like the dove that maketh her nest in the mouth of the hole in the highest place.

29 *We have heard the pride of Moab; he is exceedingly proud; his haughtiness, and his arrogancy, and his pride, and the loftiness of his heart.

30 I know, saith the Lord, his boasting: and that the strength thereof is not according to it, neither hath it endeavoured to do according as it was able.

31 Therefore will I lament for Moab, and I will cry out to all Moab, for the men of the brick wall that mourn.

32 O vineyard of Sabama, I will weep for thee, with the mourning of Jazer; thy branches are gone over the sea, they are come even to the sea of Jazer: the robber hath rushed in upon thy harvest, and thy vintage.

33 *Joy and gladness is taken away from Carmel, and from the land of Moab, and I have taken away the wine out of the presses: the treader of the grapes shall not sing the accustomed cheerful time.

34 From the cry of Hesebon, even to Eleale, and to Jasa, they have uttered their voice; from Segor to Oronaim, as a heifer of three years old; the waters also of Nemrin shall be very bad.

35 And I will take away from Moab, saith the Lord, him that offereth in the high places, and that sacrificeth to his gods.

36 Therefore my heart shall sound for Moab like pipes; and my heart shall sound like pipes for the men of the brick wall; because he hath done more than he could, therefore they have perished.

37 *For every head shall be bald, and every beard shall be shaven: all hands shall be tied together, and upon every back there shall be haircloth.

38 Upon all the house-tops of Moab, and in the streets thereof general mourning; because I have broken Moab as an useless vessel, saith the Lord.

39 How is it overthrown, and they have howled? How hath Moab bowed down the neck, and is confounded? And Moab shall be a derision, and an example to all round about him.

40 Thus saith the Lord: Behold, he shall fly as an eagle, and shall stretch forth his wings to Moab.

41 Carioth is taken, and the strong holds are won; and the heart of the valiant men of Moab, in that day, shall be as the heart of a woman in labour.

42 And Moab shall cease to be a people: because he hath gloried against the Lord.

43 Fear, and the pit, and the snare come upon thee, O inhabitant of Moab, saith the Lord.

44 *He that shall flee from the fear, shall fall into the pit; and he that shall get up out of the pit, shall be taken in the snare; for I will bring upon Moab the year of their visitation, saith the Lord.

45 They that fled from the snare stood in the shadow of Hesebon, but there came a fire out of Hesebon, and a flame out of the midst of Seon, and it shall devour part of Moab, and the crown of the head of the children of tumult.

46 Woe to thee, Moab, thou hast perished, O people of Chamos; for thy sons, and thy daughters are taken captives.

47 And I will bring back the captivity of Moab in the last days, saith the Lord. Hitherto the judgments of Moab.

* Isa. xvi. 6.—b Isa. xvi. 10.

* Isa. xv. 2; Eze. vii. 13.—d Isa. xxiv. 18

VER. 16. Swiftly; about twenty-three years from the fourth of Joakim.

VER. 17. His name, as particular friends. Exod. xxxiii. 12, 17. People in the East had a secret name, which they disclosed to very few, to prevent incantations.

VER. 20. Arnon, on which river Aroer stood.

VER. 26. Drunk with the wine of God's wrath.

VER. 27. Thieves. Chap. ii. 26. C.—Prot. "was he found among thieves? for since thou speakest of him, thou skippest for joy." H.—Chaldee agrees with the Vulg., which is clearer. C.—Sept. "hath he been found stealing from thee, since thou hast fought against him?" Grabe subjoins, "Thou shalt go into banishment." H.

VER. 28. Place. Seek for shelter in the caverns and highest mountains. H.

VER. 31. Brick wall. Heb. Kir-heres, (Isa. xvi. 7. C.) "the city of the sun" (Grot.); Ar, the capital. The prophet joins in the mournful canticle, as was usual. Luke vii. 32. C.

VER. 32. Jazer, or "more than for Jazer;" about six leagues to the north of Sebama, which had a rivulet communicating with the sea of Jazer.

VER. 33. Carmel, which here denotes any fruitful vineyard or place

VER. 34. As a. Lit. "the heifer;" a title of Oronaim, which was proud and ungovernable. H.—Bad; abandoned. Isa. xv. 6. C.

VER. 36. Pipes. Heb. conur, (H.) lyre or flutes. Such were used at funerals of children (Matt. ix. 23); trumpets sounded for men. Servius.—Could; opposing the conqueror of Asia. Ver. 30, 31. C.

VER. 37. Shaven, or "clipt," (Prot. H.) as in mourning.—Tied. Heb. "cut." Chap. xxi. 6. C.—Such signs of mourning were usual in those countries.

VER. 39. Bowed. Sept. and Chal. "turned his back."

VER. 41. Carioth, probably Kir Hares, which the eagle of Babylon seized.

VER. 42. Cease for a time, till he regain his liberty under Cyrus. Ver. 47.

VER. 43. Fear. It was customary to hang feathers near a wood to frighten the prey into pits or nets. Isa. xxiv. 17. Sanct.

VER. 45. There . . . saith, &c. to the end of the chapter, is supplied by Grabe. His copy subjoins, "What Jeremias prophesied against all nations. Thus," &c. Chap. xxv. 15. H.—Hesebon, expecting shelter. But internal broils ruined them. C.

VER. 47. Days. When they, Elam and the other Gentiles, shall be converted to the faith of Christ. H.

CHAP. XLIX.

The like desolation of Ammon, of Idumea, of the Syrians, of the Agarenes, and of the Elamites.

A GAINST "the children of Ammon. Thus saith the Lord: Hath Israel no sons? or hath he no heir? Why then hath Melchom inherited Gad, and his people dwelt in his cities?

2 Therefore, behold the days come, saith the Lord, and I will cause the noise of war to be heard in Rabbath, of the children of Ammon, and it shall be destroyed into a heap, and her daughters shall be burnt with fire, and Israel shall possess them that have possessed him, saith the Lord.

3 Howl, O Hesebon, for Hai is wasted. Cry, ye daughters of Rabbath; gird yourselves with haircloth; mourn, and go about by the hedges; for Melchom shall be carried into captivity, his priests and his princes together.

4 Why gloriest thou in the valleys? thy valley hath flowed away, O delicate daughter, that hast trusted in thy treasures, and hast said: Who shall come to me?

5 Behold, I will bring a fear upon thee, saith the Lord God of hosts, from all that are round about thee; and you shall be scattered every one cut of one another's sight, neither shall there be any to gather together them that flee.

6 And afterwards I will cause the captives of the children of Ammon to return, saith the Lord.

7 Against Edom.^a Thus saith the Lord of hosts: Is wisdom no more in Theman? counsel is perished from her children: their wisdom is become unprofitable.

8 Flee, and turn your backs, go down into the deep hole, ye inhabitants of Dedan; for I have brought the destruction of Esau upon him, the time of his visitation.

9 If grape-gatherers had come to thee, would they not have left a bunch? if thieves in the night, they would have taken what was enough for them.

10 But I have made Esau bare, I have revealed his secrets, and he cannot be hid: his seed is laid waste, and his brethren and his neighbours, and he shall not be.

11 Leave thy fatherless children: I will make them live; and thy widows shall hope in thee.

12 For thus saith the Lord: Behold, they whose judgment was not to drink of the cup, shall certainly drink; and shalt thou come off as innocent? thou shalt not come off as innocent, but drinking thou shalt drink.

13 For I have sworn by myself, saith the Lord, that

^a Supra, xxvii.; Eze. xxv.—^b A. M. 3417.—^c Abdias i. 1.

CHAP. XLIX. VER. 1. Melchom, the idol of the Ammonites. Ch.—Gad, to whom a part of their country was assigned. After the captivity of this tribe the Ammonites seized the country, regardless of God's appointment. They joined the Chaldees afterwards; but the latter could not depend upon them, and sent them into captivity, to revenge the death of Godolias. Chap. xli. 2; Soph. ii. 8; Eze. xxv. 3. C.

VER. 3. Hai, or Je-abarim. Both these cities pertained also to Moab.—Hedges. Heb. Gadaroth, may be the city Gadara.

VER. 7. Edom. This nation was involved in the common ruin, for its barbarity towards God's people. Abd. 10; Psal. cxxxvi. 7; Eze. xxv. 12.—Theman, renowned formerly for wisdom. Job ii. 11. Yet at the approach of danger all were confounded. C.—They were only worldly wise. W.

VER. 8. Hole. The territory of Edom, from Eleutheropolis to Elath, is full of such. S. Jer. in Abd.—Dedan lies south of the Dead Sea. C.

VER. 10. Secrets, or lurking-places. VER. 8. H.—God permits the Chaldees to plunder all.—Brethren; Israelites.—Neighbours; Moab, &c.

VER. 12. Was not so much. There were some faithful Jews. Chap. xxv. 13. C.

Bosra shall become a desolation: and a reproach, and a desert, and a curse, and all her cities shall be everlasting wastes.

14 "I have heard a rumour from the Lord, and an ambassador is sent to the nations: Gather yourselves together, and come against her, and let us rise up to battle.

15 For behold I have made thee a little one among the nations, despicable among men.

16 Thy arrogancy hath deceived thee, and the pride of thy heart; O thou that dwellest in the cliffs of the rock, and endeavourest to lay hold on the height of the hill; "but though thou shouldst make thy nest as high as an eagle, I will bring thee down from thence, saith the Lord.

17 And Edom shall be desolate: every one that shall pass by it, shall be astonished, and shall hiss at all its plagues.

18 "As Sodom was overthrown and Gomorrha, and the neighbours thereof, saith the Lord: there shall not a man dwell there, and there shall no son of man inhabit it.

19 Behold one shall come up as a lion from the swelling of the Jordan, against the strong and beautiful: for I will make him run suddenly upon her: and who shall be the chosen one whom I may appoint over her? for who is like to me? and who shall abide me? "and who is that shepherd that can withstand my countenance?

20 Therefore, hear ye the counsel of the Lord, which he hath taken concerning Edom: and his thoughts, which he hath thought concerning the inhabitants of Theman: surely the little ones of the flock shall cast them down, of a truth they shall destroy them with their habitation.

21 The earth is moved at the noise of their fall: the cry of their voice is heard in the Red Sea.

22 Behold he shall come up as an eagle, and fly: and he shall spread his wings over Bosra: and in that day the heart of the valiant ones of Edom shall be as the heart of a woman in labour.

23 Against Damascus. Emath is confounded, and Arphad: for they have heard very bad tidings, they are troubled as in the sea: through care they could not rest.

24 Damascus is undone, she is put to flight, trembling hath seized on her: anguish and sorrows have taken her as a woman in labour.

25 How have they forsaken the city of renown, the city of joy?

26 Therefore, her young men shall fall in her streets

^d Abdias i. 4.—^e Gen. xix. 20.—^f Job xli. 1.

VER. 14. Ambassador; Jeremias: or rather this is a personification of the passions, which would sufficiently prompt the Chaldees. C.

VER. 16. Hill. The mountains were numerous, and full of caverns. VER. 8.

VER. 17. Desolate. The few who survived left their ancient territories, which are now a desert, like most of Stony Arabia. C.—Hiss, out of contempt. The punishment was so great as to excite surprise. W.

VER. 19. Swelling. Lit. "pride" (H.); or those banks which the Jordan reaches, when it overflows. They are lined with woods, from which lions rush to devour the sheep. C.—Strong "one's dwelling." Heb. 11. Zac. xi. 3.—Over her. What sort of men come to the attack? or, who shall dare to resist them? C.

VER. 20. Little. Chal. "chiefs of the people."

VER. 23. Damascus, the capital of Syria. Isa. vii. 8. W.—It was punished at the same time as the rest. Jos.—Arphad; Arad, an island near Tyre, or Ruphana. Theod.—Nabuchodonosor left Tyre to invade them. C.

VER. 25. They. Heb., Sept., and Chal. add "not." Why have they not spared this beautiful city? or, why have not its citizens given it up, to prevent its entire demolition?

and all the men of war shall be silent in that day, saith the Lord of hosts.

27 And I will kindle a fire in the wall of Damascus, and it shall devour the strong holds of Benadad.

28 Against Cedar, and against the kingdoms of Asor, which Nabuchodonosor, king of Babylon, destroyed. Thus saith the Lord: Arise, and go ye up to Cedar, and waste the children of the east.

29 They shall take their tents, and their flocks: and shall carry off for themselves their curtains, and all their vessels, and their camels: and they shall call fear upon them round about.

30 Flee ye, get away speedily, sit in deep holes, you that inhabit Asor, saith the Lord: for Nabuchodonosor, king of Babylon, hath taken counsel against you, and hath conceived designs against you.

31 Arise, and go up to a nation that is at ease, and that dwelleth securely, saith the Lord: they have neither gates, nor bars: they dwell alone.

32 And their camels shall be for a spoil, and the multitude of their cattle for a booty: and I will scatter into every wind them that have their hair cut round, and I will bring destruction upon them from all their confines, saith the Lord.

33 And Asor shall be a habitation for dragons, desolate for ever: no man shall abide there, nor son of man inhabit it.

34 The word of the Lord that came to Jeremias, the prophet, against Elam, in the beginning of the reign of Sedecias, king of Juda, saying:

35 Thus saith the Lord of hosts: Behold I will break the bow of Elam, and their chief strength.

36 And I will bring upon Elam the four winds from the four quarters of heaven: and I will scatter them into all these winds: and there shall be no nation, to which the fugitives of Elam shall not come.

37 And I will cause Elam to be afraid before their enemies, and in the sight of them that seek their life: and I will bring evil upon them, my fierce wrath, saith the Lord: and I will send the sword after them, till I consume them.

38 And I will set my throne in Elam, and destroy kings and princes from thence, saith the Lord.

39 But in the latter days I will cause the captives of Elam to return, saith the Lord.

VER. 28. Cedar and Asor were parts of Arabia; which, with Moab, Ammon, Edom, &c., were all brought under the yoke of Nabuchodonosor. Ch.—East; the Desert Arabia. Ver. 32. C.—Cedar was the son of Ismael, and Asor the chief city of the Agarens. W.

VER. 29. About. The enemy shall terrify them, and plunder all their riches.

VER. 31. Alone. We need not fear any resistance. They have no allies. C.

VER. 34. Elam. A part of Persia. Ch.—The Elamites had besieged Jerusalem, under Manasses, (C.) and are therefore punished. W.—They were subject to Asoradon; Nabuchodonosor subdued them after the other nations. Ver. 36. Cyrus set his countrymen at liberty, (C.) and thus began his conquests. H.

VER. 38. Thence. Daniel (viii. 2) governed at Susa, the capital of Elam, for Balthassar.

VER. 39. Return. They joined the standards of Cyrus, and became masters of the East. C.—This and similar texts are understood of the conversion of the Gentiles. Acts ii. 7. W.

CHAP. L. VER. 1. Prophet. He had spoken against them in the fourth year of Joachim, and now is more explicit in the fourth of Sedecias, (chap. li. 60.) sending his predictions to be read, and then thrown into the Euphrates. The fall of Babylon was gradual. It was in consequence of her pride and cruelty. Ver. 11. 17. 23. 29; Isa. xlvii. 6. C.—It had shown the greatest enmity to the Jews, and was at last overthrown by the Medes and Persians. W.

CHAP. L.

Babylon, which hath afflicted the Israelites, after their restoration, shall be utterly destroyed.

THE word *that the Lord hath spoken against Babylon, and against the land of the Chaldeans, in the hand of Jeremias, the prophet.

2 Declare ye among the nations, and publish it, lift up a standard: proclaim, and conceal it not: say: Babylon is taken, Bel is confounded, Merodach is overthrown, their graven things are confounded, their idols are overthrown.

3 For a nation is come up against her out of the north, which shall make her land desolate: and there shall be none to dwell therein, from man even to beast: yea, they are removed, and gone away.

4 In these days, and at that time, saith the Lord, the children of Israel shall come, they and the children of Juda together: going and weeping, they shall make haste, and shall seek the Lord their God.

5 They shall ask the way to Sion, their faces are hitherward. They shall come, and shall be joined to the Lord by an everlasting covenant, which shall never be forgotten.

6 My people hath been a lost flock, their shepherds have caused them to go astray, and have made them wander in the mountains: they have gone from mountain to hill, they have forgotten their resting place.

7 All that found them, have devoured them: and their enemies said: We have not sinned in so doing: because they have sinned against the Lord, the beauty of justice, and against the Lord, the hope of their fathers.

8 Remove out of the midst of Babylon, and go forth out of the land of the Chaldeans: and be ye as kids at the head of the flock.

9 For behold I raise up, and will bring against Babylon an assembly of great nations from the land of the north: and they shall be prepared against her, and from thence she shall be taken: their arrows, like those of a mighty man, a destroyer, shall not return in vain.

10 And Chaldea shall be made a prey: all that waste her shall be filled, saith the Lord.

11 Because you rejoice, and speak great things, pillaging my inheritance: because you are spread abroad as calves upon the grass, and have bellowed as bulls.

• A. M. 3409, A. C. 595.

VER. 2. Bel, &c. Bel and Merodach were worshipped for gods by the men of Babylon. Ch.—Merodach might be an ancient king deified. C.

VER. 3. A nation, &c., viz. the Medes, (Ch.) under Darius, (Dan. v. 31. Theod. Grot.) or rather under Cyrus, who came upon Babylon from the north, after conquering Asia; though he was born to the east of that city. Isa. lxi. 2, 25. He was a Mede by his mother, and ruler of that nation. He gave liberty to the Jews, as the prophet inlenates ten times.

VER. 4. Weeping for joy and compunction. Israel returns, as well as Juda. C.

VER. 5. Covenant. They renewed the old one under Nehemias, and never publicly broke it, as they had done. Yet the covenant of Christ is more properly meant.

VER. 6. Shepherds; kings, (C.) and false prophets. H.

VER. 7. Not sinned: the Jews were such notorious offenders. But in what had they injured the Chaldees?—Beauty. Heb. "dwelling or fold."

VER. 9. Nations. Cyrus had Armenians, &c. in his army. C.—Thence, by the bed of the Euphrates, the waters of which were mostly let out into the marshes. Thus the city was taken while the people were feasting. Herod. i. 191. C.

VER. 11. Bulls. You have rioted in Juda, and treated my people cruelly. H.

VER. 12. Dust, like a suppliant Isa. xlvii. 1. C.—Dry. The country should be equally unfruitful. The waters of the Euphrates being let off gave a passage to the enemy. Ver. 9. H.—Babylon soon lost its splendour. C.

12 Your mother is confounded exceedingly, and she that bore you is made even with the dust: behold she shall be the last among the nations, a wilderness unpassable, and dry.

13 Because of the wrath of the Lord, it shall not be inhabited, but shall be wholly desolate: every one that shall pass by Babylon, shall be astonished, and shall hiss at all her plagues.

14 Prepare yourselves against Babylon round about, all you that bend the bow: fight against her, spare not arrows: because she hath sinned against the Lord.

15 Shout against her, she hath every where given her hand, her foundations are fallen, her walls are thrown down, for it is the vengeance of the Lord. Take vengeance upon her: as she hath done, so do to her.

16 Destroy the sower out of Babylon, and him that holdeth the sickle in the time of harvest: for fear of the sword of the dove every man shall return to his people, and every one shall flee to his own land.

17 Israel is a scattered flock, the lions have driven him away: first the king of Assyria devoured him: and last this Nabuchodonosor, king of Babylon, hath broken his bones.

18 Therefore, thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Behold I will visit the king of Babylon and his land, as I have visited the king of Assyria.

19 And I will bring Israel again to his habitation: and he shall feed on Carmel, and Basan, and his soul shall be satisfied in Mount Ephraim, and Galaad.

20 In those days, and at that time, saith the Lord, the iniquity of Israel shall be sought for, and there shall be none: and the sin of Juda, and there shall none be found: for I will be merciful to them, whom I shall leave.

21 Go up against the land of the rulers, and punish the inhabitants thereof, waste, and destroy all behind them, saith the Lord: and do according to all that I have commanded thee.

22 A noise of war in the land, and a great destruction.

23 How is the hammer of the whole earth broken, and destroyed? how is Babylon turned into a desert among the nations?

24 I have caused thee to fall into a snare, and thou art taken, O Babylon, and thou wast not aware of it: thou art found and caught, because thou hast provoked the Lord.

25 The Lord hath opened his armoury, and hath brought forth the weapons of his wrath: for the Lord, the God of hosts, hath a work to be done in the land of the Chaldeans.

26 Come ye against her from the uttermost borders, open, that they may go forth that shall tread her down: take the stones out of the way, and make heaps, and destroy her: and let nothing of her be left.

27 Destroy all her valiant men, let them go down to the slaughter: woe to them, for their day is come, the time of their visitation.

28 The voice of them that flee, and of them that have escaped out of the land of Babylon: to declare in Sion the revenge of the Lord, our God, the revenge of his temple.

29 Declare to many against Babylon, to all that bend the bow: stand together against her round about, and let none escape: pay her according to her work: according to all that she hath done, do ye to her: for she hath lifted up herself against the Lord, against the Holy One of Israel.

30 Therefore shall her young men fall in her streets, and all her men of war shall hold their peace in that day, saith the Lord.

31 Behold I come against thee, O proud one, saith the Lord, the God of hosts: for thy day is come, the time of thy visitation.

32 And the proud one shall fall, he shall fall down, and there shall be none to lift him up: and I will kindle a fire in his cities, and it shall devour all round about him.

33 Thus saith the Lord of hosts: The children of Israel, and the children of Juda are oppressed together: all that have taken them captives, hold them fast, they will not let them go.

34 Their Redeemer is strong, the Lord of hosts is his name, he will defend their cause in judgment, to terrify the land, and to disquiet the inhabitants of Babylon.

35 A sword is upon the Chaldeans, saith the Lord, and upon the inhabitants of Babylon, and upon her princes, and upon her wise men.

36 A sword upon her diviners, and they shall be foolish: a sword upon her valiant ones, and they shall be dismayed.

37 A sword upon their horses, and upon their chariots, and upon all the people that are in the midst of her: and they shall become as women: a sword upon her treasures, and they shall be made a spoil.

38 A drought upon her waters, and they shall be dried

• Infra, li. 49.

VER. 16. Harvest. Such were usually unmolested. C.—Babylon was so large, that people sowed corn within the walls. Curt. v.—The environs were well cultivated. Pliny, xviii. 17.—Dove, or the destroyer; for the Hebrew word signifies either the one or the other. Ch. Chap. xxv. 38, and xlv. 16.—Lit. “from before the sword of the dove.” The power of Babylon is no more. H.—The king is compared to a dove, for his swiftness; or God is meek, though terrible. W.—Land. The other nations were set free as well as the Jews. C.

VER. 17. Bones. He completely ruined the nation, which the Assyrians had left. H.—They led the ten tribes away, and the Chaldees took the rest. 4 Kings xviii., and xxv. W.

VER. 19. Israel; the ten tribes, whose country is specified.

VER. 21. Rulers: the most potent empire of Babylon.—All. Heb. “anathematize them and their posterity.”

VER. 23. Hammer. The violent injustice of the Chaldees is thus entitled.

VER. 25. Armoury. Fire and war are the Lord's weapons. Job xxxviii. 22. —Work: punishment. Chap. xlviii. 10.

VER. 26. That. Heb. “her granaries; trample on her as on heaps of corn, destroy,” &c. He alludes to the custom of oxen trampling out the corn. Chap. li. 33.

VER. 30. Peace, in the grave (C.); or shall submit quietly. 1 Mac. i. 3. H.

VER. 31. Proud. So the Chaldees are often styled in the Psalms. C.—The prophet addresses Nabuchodonosor, or rather Baltassar, (M.) under whom the city was taken, (Jos. &c.) by Darius and Cyrus.

VER. 33. Israel. Samaria had been destroyed forty-four years before the fourth of Joakim, from which period many of Juda had been captives seventy years, till Cyrus became their deliverer, and chastised the Chaldees. C.

VER. 35. Wise men. They were styled Chaldees, and inhabited a certain part of the city, being employed in astronomical and mathematical observations.

VER. 36. Diviners. Heb. “impostors.” They were no where more plentiful Dan. i. 20.

VER. 38. Drought. Cyrus almost drained the Euphrates. Chap. li. 42; Isa.

up: because it is a land of idols, and they glory in monstrous things.

39 Therefore shall dragons dwell there with the fig-fauns: and ostriches shall dwell therein: and it shall be no more inhabited for ever, neither shall it be built up from generation to generation.

40 *As the Lord overthrew Sodom and Gomorcha, and their neighbour cities, saith the Lord: no man shall dwell there, neither shall the son of man inhabit it.

41 Behold a people cometh from the north, and a great nation, and many kings shall rise up from the ends of the earth.

42 They shall take the bow, and the shield: they are cruel and unmerciful: their voice shall roar like the sea, and they shall ride upon horses: like a man prepared for battle against thee, O daughter of Babylon.

43 The king of Babylon hath heard the report of them, and his hands are grown feeble: anguish hath taken hold of him, pangs as a woman in labour.

44 *Behold he shall come up like a lion from the swelling of the Jordan to the strong and beautiful: for I will make him run suddenly upon her: and who shall be the chosen one whom I may appoint over her? for who is like to me? and who shall bear up against me? *and who is that shepherd that can withstand my countenance?

45 Therefore, hear ye the counsel of the Lord, which he hath taken against Babylon: and his thoughts which he hath thought against the land of the Chaldeans: surely the little ones of the flocks shall pull them down, of a truth their habitation shall be destroyed with them.

46 At the noise of the taking of Babylon the earth is moved, and the cry is heard amongst the nations.

CHAP. LI.

The miseries that shall fall upon Babylon from the Medes: the destruction of her idols.

THUS saith the Lord: "Behold I will raise up as it were a pestilential wind against Babylon, and against the inhabitants thereof, who have lifted up their heart against me.

2 And I will send to Babylon fanners, and they shall fan her, and shall destroy her land: for they are come upon her on every side in the day of her affliction.

3 Let not him that bendeth, bend his bow, and let not him go up that is armed with a coat of mail: spare not her young men, destroy all her army.

* Gen. xix. 24.—b Supra, xlix. 19.—c Job xli. 1.—d A. 3409.

xxi.—Things, fit to terrify children. Bar. vi. 14. C.—Prot. "they are mad upon their idols." H.

VER. 39. Fig-fauns. Monsters of the desert, or demons in monstrous shapes; such as the ancients called fauns and satyrs: and as they imagined them to live upon wild figs, they called them fauni-ficarii, or fig-fauns. Ch.—Ever. Its situation is unknown. There is still a town of the same name, but not in the same place.

VER. 44. And beautiful. Heb. "habitation." H.—He will rush into the fold. Chap. xlix. 19. C.

CHAP. LI. VER. 1. Thereof. Heb. lob komi, "of the heart, rising up against me." H.

VER. 2. Fan her. After the corn was trodden out, it was heaved into the wind. This custom would insinuate the distress and captivity of the Chaldees.

VER. 3. Mail. There will be little or no resistance made. Chap. i. 3. H.—The Persians denounce destruction to all taken in arms; or, according to Sept. and Syr., they exhort each other to fight. C.—"Let him." &c. H.—Heb. of the Masor. "you who bend . . . spare not." C.—Prot. "against him that bendeth let no anchor bend his bow," &c. H.

VER. 5. Forsaken, as a widow, viduatus. H.—God still considers the nation

4 And the slain shall fall in the land of the Chaldeans, and the wounded in the regions thereof.

5 For Israel and Juda have not been forsaken by their God, the Lord of hosts: but their land hath been filled with sin against the Holy One of Israel.

6 Flee ye from the midst of Babylon, and let every one save his own life: be not silent upon her iniquity: for it is the time of revenge from the Lord, he will render unto her what she hath deserved.

7 Babylon hath been a golden cup in the hand of the Lord, that made all the earth drunk: the nations have drunk of her wine, and therefore they have staggered.

8 *Babylon is suddenly fallen, and destroyed: howl for her, take balm for her pain, if so she may be healed.

9 We would have cured Babylon, but she is not healed: let us forsake her, and let us go every man to his own land: because her judgment hath reached even to the heavens, and is lifted up to the clouds.

10 The Lord hath brought forth our justices: come and let us declare in Sion the work of the Lord our God.

11 Sharpen the arrows, fill the quivers: the Lord hath raised up the spirit of the kings of the Medes: and his mind is against Babylon, to destroy it, because it is the vengeance of the Lord, the vengeance of his temple.

12 Upon the walls of Babylon set up the standard, strengthen the watch: set up the watchmen, prepare the ambushes: for the Lord hath both purposed, and done all that he spoke against the inhabitants of Babylon.

13 O thou that dwellest upon many waters, rich in treasures, thy end is come for thy entire destruction.

14 *The Lord of hosts hath sworn by himself, saying. I will fill thee with men as with locusts, and they shall lift up a joyful shout against thee.

15 *He that made the earth by his power, that hath prepared the world by his wisdom, and stretched out the heavens by his understanding.

16 When he uttereth his voice the waters are multiplied in heaven: he lifteth up the clouds from the ends of the earth; he hath turned lightning into rain; and hath brought forth the wind out of his treasures.

17 Every man is become foolish by his knowledge; every founder is confounded by his idol, for what he hath cast is a lie, and there is no breath in them.

18 They are vain works, and worthy to be laughed at: in the time of their visitation, they shall perish.

* Isa. xxi. 9; Apoc. xiv. 8.—f Amos vi. 8.—g Gen. i. 1.

as his spouse.—Their land. That of the Chaldees, (C.) or of the Jews. Theodoret. —Sin, or punishment.

VER. 6. Silent. Jews proclaim that Babylon is justly punished, (C.) lest you partake in her crimes. Apoc. xviii. 4. Prot. "be not cut off in her," &c. H.

VER. 8. Suddenly. She has not lost many battles; but is fallen at once from being the greatest city of the East.

VER. 9. We. The guardian angels, or Jews, reply. Miracles are lost on her —Heavens. Her crimes call for punishment. Gen. xviii. 21; Jonah i. 2.

VER. 11. Sharpen. He addresses ironically the citizens of Babylon.—Medes. Thus the subjects of the Persian monarchs are commonly styled. C.

VER. 12. Standard. Call together thy subjects and allies. H.—This must be explained of Babylon. M.—Yet all will be in vain. Ver. 11. H.

VER. 13. Waters. Not far from the Tigris, and divided into two parts by the Euphrates. C.—Entire, being cut up by the roots, pedulis, (Lyran,) or according to the measure of thy crimes. Delrio. C.

VER. 14. Himself. Sept. "his hand" lifted up, or by his power.—Loensts Their ravages were equally dreaded. Joel ii. 4; Judg. vi. 5.

VER. 17. Every man, &c. That is, every maker of idols, however he boasts of his knowledge and skill, does but show himself a fool in pretending to make a 19 The portion of Jacob is not like them : for he that made all things he it is, and Israel is the sceptre of his inheritance : the Lord of hosts is his name.

20 Thou dashest together for me the weapons of war, and with thee I will dash nations together, and with thee I will destroy kingdoms :

21 And with thee I will break in pieces the horse, and his rider : and with thee I will break in pieces the chariot, and him that getteth up into it.

22 And with thee I will break in pieces man and woman, and with thee I will break in pieces the old man and the child, and with thee I will break in pieces the young man and the virgin :

23 And with thee I will break in pieces the shepherd and his flock, and with thee I will break in pieces the husbandman and his yoke of oxen, and with thee I will break in pieces captains and rulers.

24 And I will render to Babylon, and to all the inhabitants of Chaldea, all their evil that they have done in Sion, before your eyes, saith the Lord.

25 Behold, I come against thee, thou destroying mountain, saith the Lord, which corruptest the whole earth : and I will stretch out my hand upon thee, and will roll thee down from the rocks, and will make thee a burnt mountain.

26 And they shall not take of thee a stone for the corner, nor a stone for foundations, but thou shalt be destroyed for ever, saith the Lord.

27 Set ye up a standard in the land ; sound with a trumpet among the nations ; prepare the nations against her ; call together against her the kings of Ararat, Menni, and Ascenez ; number Taphsar against her ; bring the horse as the stinging locust.

28 Prepare the nations against her, the kings of Media, their captains, and all their rulers, and all the land of their dominion.

29 And the land shall be in a commotion, and shall be troubled ; for the design of the Lord against Babylon shall awake, to make the land of Babylon desert and uninhabitable.

30 The valiant men of Babylon have foreborne to fight, they have dwelt in holds : their strength hath failed, and they are become as women ; her dwelling-places are burnt, her bars are broken.

31 One running post shall meet another, and messenger shall meet messenger, to tell the king of Babylon that his city is taken from one end to the other :

32 And that the fords are taken, and the marshes are burnt with fire, and the men of war are affrighted.

33 For thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel : The daughter of Babylon is like a threshing-floor ; this is the time of her threshing : yet a little while, and the time of her harvest shall come.

34 Nabuchodonosor, king of Babylon, hath eaten me up, he hath devoured me ; he hath made me as an empty vessel ; he hath swallowed me up like a dragon, he hath filled his belly with my delicate meats, and he hath cast me out.

35 The wrong done to me, and my flesh, be upon Babylon, saith the habitation of Sion ; and my blood upon the inhabitants of Chaldea, saith Jerusalem.

36 Therefore, thus saith the Lord : Behold, I will judge thy cause, and will take vengeance for thee, and I will make her sea desolate, and will dry up her spring.

37 And Babylon shall be reduced to heaps, a dwelling-place for dragons, an astonishment and a hissing, because there is no inhabitant.

38 They shall roar together like lions, they shall shake their manes like young lions.

39 In their heat I will set them drink ; and I will make them drunk, that they may slumber, and sleep an everlasting sleep, and awake no more, saith the Lord.

40 I will bring them down like lambs to the slaughter, and like rams with kids.

41 How is Sesach taken, and the renowned one of all the earth surprised ? How is Babylon become an astonishment among the nations ?

42 The sea is come up over Babylon : she is covered with the multitude of the waves thereof.

43 Her cities are become an astonishment, a land uninhabited and desolate, a land wherein none can dwell, nor son of man pass through it.

44 And I will visit against Bel, in Babylon, and I will bring forth out of his mouth that which he had swallowed down : and the nations shall no more flow together to him, for the wall also of Babylon shall fall.

45 Go out of the midst of her, my people ; that every man may save his life from the fierce wrath of the Lord.

46 And lest your hearts faint, and ye fear for the rumour that shall be heard in the land : and a rumour a Supra, i. 38.

b Infra, v. 57.

god. Ch. Wisd. xiv. 18.—By his, or “by default of knowledge” (a scientia. H.) ; as the Heb. may also mean. The Babylonians were so confounded, they knew not what to do. C.

VER. 20. Thou, Cyrus, (Grot.) or more commonly the Chaldees are understood.

VER. 25. Mountain. So Babylon is styled in derision. See chap. xxi. 13 ; Isa. i. 10, and xx. 6, and xxii. 1. The city stood on a plain. Some think that its palaces and walls are designated.—Burnt ; unfruitful. This happened long after Cyrus, though it then ceased to be the capital, and became only a shadow of its former greatness.

VER. 27. Prepare. Lit. “sanctify.” H.—Call together all nations to fight against Babylon. W.—Many religious ceremonies were used.—Ararat, where the ark rested, (Gen. viii. 4,) near the Araxes, (S. Jer. in Isa. xxxvii.,) or in the Gordyeen mountains, in Armenia, where the Menni dwelt.—Caterpillar, or “locust,” (bruchum. H.) which resembles more a body of cavalry. C.—Sept. “Push forward the cavalry against her, as a multitude of locusts.” H.

VER. 28. Prepare ; “sanctify.” H.—Media. Cyrus. Ver. 11.—Captains : generals. C.—Rulers. Lit. “magistrates.” H

VER. 30. Bars, fastening the gates. C.—Those who entered by the channel of the river would seize the gates to let their companions enter. H.

VER. 31. King, feasting in his palace, (Herod. i. 191,) or at Borsippe Berosus.

VER. 32. Fords. Thus the enemy entered.—Marshes. Heb. “sedges,” which grew to the size of trees, and were burnt when the waters of the river and lakes were drained.

VER. 33. Threshing, performed by oxen treading, and by rollers, &c. Judg. viii. 16, and 2 Kings xii. 31.—Little ; about fifty-six years.

VER. 36. Spring ; commerce, the source of her riches ; or rather the waters shall be brought out of their usual channels.

VER. 38. Roar. They shall retain their haughty air and threaten others, when they themselves shall fall (C.) in the midst of their feasting. Dan. v. 30. Xen. vii.

VER. 42. Sea ; numerous armies of Cyrus, or the waters of the Euphrates let loose. C.

VER. 44. Down. His priests pretended that he eat. Dan. xiv. 11. The prophet derides this notion. C.—Fall, by means of Cyrus and of Darius. Chap. i. 3. H shall come in one year, and after this year another rumour : and iniquity in the land, and ruler upon ruler. .

47 Therefore, behold the days come, and I will visit the idols of Babylon : and her whole land shall be confounded, and all her slain shall fall in the midst of her.

48 And the heavens and the earth, and all things that are in them shall give praise for Babylon : for spoilers shall come to her from the north, saith the Lord.

49 And as Babylon caused that there should fall slain in Israel ; so of Babylon there shall fall slain in all the earth.

50 You that have escaped the sword, come away, stand not still ; remember the Lord afar off, and let Jerusalem come into your mind.

51 We are confounded, because we have heard reproach ; shame hath covered our faces ; because strangers are come upon the sanctuaries of the house of the Lord.

52 Therefore, behold the days come, saith the Lord, and I will visit her graven things, and in all her land the wounded shall groan.

53 If Babylon should mount up to heaven, and establish her strength on high ; from me there should come spoilers upon her, saith the Lord.

54 The noise of a cry from Babylon, and great destruction from the land of the Chaldeans :

55 Because the Lord hath laid Babylon waste, and destroyed out of her the great voice ; and their waves shall roar like many waters ; their voice hath made a noise :

56 Because the spoiler is come upon her, that is, upon Babylon, and her valiant men are taken, and their bow is weakened, because the Lord, who is a strong revenger, will surely repay.

57 And I will make her princes drunk, and her wise men, and her captains, and her rulers, and her valiant men ; and they shall sleep an everlasting sleep, and shall awake no more, saith the king, whose name is Lord of hosts.

58 Thus saith the Lord of hosts : That broad wall of Babylon shall be utterly broken down, and her high gates shall be burnt with fire, and the labours of the people shall come to nothing, and of the nations shall go to the fire and shall perish.

59 The word that Jeremias, the prophet, commanded

• A. M. 3414, A. C. 590. 4 Kings xxiv. 18 ; 2 Par. xxxvi. 11.

VER. 46. Faint. You may apprehend that your miseries will increase in the midst of such confusion ; but no, Baltassar, the last of your oppressor's race, shall be assassinated by Neriglissor, who will be succeeded by Loboarsorarchod and Nabonides. This last shall yield to Cyrus, who will grant you liberty. Baltassar reigned two years, Neriglissor four, his ill-tempered infant son nine months, when his followers murdered him, and gave the crown to a Babylonian called Nabonides, who kept it seventeen years, till Cyrus took him prisoner. This we learn from Berosus, quoted by Josephus, c. Ap. 1. On the other hand, Daniel, makes Darius, the Mede, succeed Baltassar, and after him Cyrus reigned. To these changes and continual alarms the prophet alludes.

VER. 47. Idols ; Bel, &c. ver. 41.—Slain. Heb. "dancers." The people were feasting. C.—It means also "slain," (Prot.,) or "soldiers."

VER. 50. Mind. Offer sacrifices of thanks on Sion, (H.) both Jews and other nations. C.

VER. 55. Great voice, or boasting and songs of joy, usual at public meetings. —Noise. They groan under affliction.

VER. 57. Drunk, with the wine of fury. Ver. 39 ; chap. xxv. 26.

VER. 58. Broad wall. The pagan historians agree not in the dimensions, but allow it was excessively broad and lofty. C.—Six chariots might go abreast. It was 360 stadia long, (Ctesias,) or 480 (Herod. i. 178) ; that is, above 23 leagues, allowing 2500 paces for each. This author says the breadth was 50 cubits of the king, 3 inches larger than the common one, or about 21 inches. C.—There were three different walls. Curt. 5.—Cyrus demolished the outer one Beros.—What remained,

Saraïas, the son of Nerias, the son of Naasias, when he went with king Sedecias, to Babylon, in the fourth year of his reign : now Saraïas was chief over the prophecy.

60 And Jeremias wrote in one book all the evil that was to come upon Babylon : all these words that are written against Babylon.

61 And Jeremias said to Saraïas : When thou shalt come into Babylon, and shalt see, and shalt read all these words, 62 Thou shalt say : O Lord, thou hast spoken against this place to destroy it ; so that there should be neither man nor beast to dwell therein, and that it should be desolate for ever.

63 And when thou shalt have made an end of reading this book, thou shalt tie a stone to it, and shalt throw it into the midst of the Euphrates :

64 And thou shalt say : Thus shall Babylon sink, and she shall not rise up from the affliction that I will bring upon her, and she shall be utterly destroyed. Thus far are the words of Jeremias.

CHAP. LII.

A recapitulation of the reign of Sedecias, and the destruction of Jerusalem. The number of the captives.

SEDECIAS ^a was one and twenty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem ; and the name of his mother was Amital, the daughter of Jeremias, of Lobna.

2 And he did that which was evil in the eyes of the Lord, according to all that Joakim had done.

3 For the wrath of the Lord was against Jerusalem, and against Juda, till he cast them out from his presence ; and Sedecias revolted from the king of Babylon.

4 ^b And it came to pass in the ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, the tenth day of the month, that Nabuchodonosor, the king of Babylon, came, he and all his army, against Jerusalem, and they besieged it, and built forts against it round about.

5 And the city was besieged until the eleventh year of king Sedecias.

6 And in the fourth month, the ninth day of the month, a famine overpowered the city ; and there was no food for the people of the land.

^b 4 Kings xxv. 1 ; Supra, xxxix. 1.

(C.) with the hundred brazen gates, Darius treated in like manner. Herod. i. 179, and iii. 159.—Thus was the prediction fulfilled, and the works of so many captive nations brought to nothing. It is asserted that 200,000 (C.) daily finished a stadium, (Curt. 5.) or 125 paces. C.

VER. 59. With. Heb. also, (C.) "on behalf of," Prot. marg. H.—It is no where else asserted that Sedecias went in person, and Sept., Chal., &c., explain it in this manner. Baruch accompanied his brother Saraïas, and probably took the letter. Bar. i. 2. Saraïas went to petition for the sacred vessels.—Prophecy, or of the embassy to speak (C.) in the king's name. Jeremias gave him charge of the parcel, perhaps before Baruch had determined to go.

VER. 64. Sink. The angel did the like (Apoc. xviii. 21. C.) ; and the Phoenicians, leaving their country, swore that they would return no more till a piece of red-hot iron, which they threw into the sea, should swim. Herod. i. 165.—Thus, &c., was added by the compiler.—Jeremias wrote a good deal, after the fourth year of Sedecias. Ver. 59. C.—He here finished his predictions against Babylon. W.

CHAP. LII. VER. 1. Sedecias. This is purely historical, taken from 4 Kings xxiv. 18, &c. Many doubt with reason that Jeremias inserted it, as he could not well be alive at the time when Joakim was honoured. Ver. 31. It seems, therefore, that Esdras or some other has inserted it, to explain the fall of Jerusalem and the Lamentations ; as a similar addition has been made to Isaiah. Chap. xxxvi., &c. See Grot. C.—The history occurs more at large. Par. ult. W.

VER. 7. Revolted, breaking his oath, which greatly offended God.

7 And the city was broken up, and the men of war fled, and went out of the city in the night by the way of the gate that is between the two walls, and leadeth to the king's garden, (the Chaldeans besieging the city round about,) and they went by the way that leadeth to the wilderness.

8 But the army of the Chaldeans pursued after the king; and they overtook Sedecias in the desert which is near Jericho: and all his companions were scattered from him.

9 And when they had taken the king, they carried him to the king of Babylon, to Reblatha, which is in the land of Emath; and he gave judgment upon him.

10 And the king of Babylon slew the sons of Sedecias before his eyes; and he slew all the princes of Juda, in Reblatha.

11 And he put out the eyes of Sedecias, and bound him with fetters, and the king of Babylon brought him to Babylon, and he put him in prison till the day of his death.

12 And in the fifth month, the tenth day of the month, the same is the nineteenth year of Nabuchodonosor, king of Babylon, came Nabuzardan, the general of the army, who stood before the king of Babylon, in Jerusalem.

13 And he burnt the house of the Lord, and the king's house, and all the houses of Jerusalem, and every great house he burnt with fire.

14 And all the army of the Chaldeans, that were with the general, broke down all the wall of Jerusalem, round about.

15 But Nabuzardan, the general, carried away captives some of the poor people, and of the rest of the common sort, who remained in the city, and of the fugitives that were fled over to the king of Babylon, and the rest of the multitude.

16 But the poor of the land, Nabuzardan, the general, left some for vine-dressers, and for husbandmen.

17 The Chaldeans also broke in pieces the brazen pillars that were in the house of the Lord, and the bases, and the sea of brass that was in the house of the Lord: and they carried all the brass of them to Babylon.

18 And they took the cauldrons, and the flesh-hooks, and the psalteries, and the bowls, and the little mortars, and all the brazen vessels that had been used in the ministry: and

19 The general took away the pitchers, and the censers, and the pots, and the basons, and the candlesticks, and the mortars, and the cups; as many as were of gold, in gold; and as many as were of silver, in silver:

20 And the two pillars, and one sea, and twelve oxen of brass that were under the bases, which king Solomon had made in the house of the Lord: there was no weight of the brass of all these vessels.

21 And concerning the pillars; one pillar was eighteen cubits high, and a cord of twelve cubits compassed it about; but the thickness thereof was four fingers, and it was hollow within.

22 And chapiters of brass were upon both: the height of one chapter was five cubits; and net-work, and pomegranates were upon the chapiters round about, all of brass. The same of the second pillar, and the pomegranates.

23 And there were ninety-six pomegranates hanging down; and the pomegranates, being a hundred in all, were compassed with net-work.

24 And the general took Saraias the chief priest, and Sophonias, the second priest, and the three keepers of the entry.

25 He also took out of the city, one eunuch, that was chief over the men of war; and seven men of them that were near the king's person, that were found in the city: and a scribe, an officer of the army, who exercised the young soldiers; and threescore men of the people of the land, that were found in the midst of the city.

26 And Nabuzardan, the general, took them, and brought them to the king of Babylon, to Reblatha.

27 And the king of Babylon struck them, and put them to death, in Reblatha, in the land of Emath: and Juda was carried away captive out of his land.

28 This is the people whom Nabuchodonosor carried away captive: In the seventh year, three thousand and twenty-three Jews.

29 In the eighteenth year of Nabuchodonosor, eight hundred and thirty-two souls from Jerusalem.

30 In the three and twentieth year of Nabuchodonosor, Nabuzardan, the general, carried away of the Jews, seven hundred and forty-five souls. So all the souls were four thousand six hundred.

31 And it came to pass in the seven and thirtieth year of the captivity of Joachin, king of Juda, in the twelfth month, the five and twentieth day of the month, that Evilmerodach, king of Babylon, in the first year of his reign, lifted up the head of Joachin, king of Juda, and brought him forth out of prison.

32 And he spoke kindly to him, and he set his throne above the thrones of the kings that were with him in Babylon.

33 And he changed his prison garments, and he eat bread before him always all the days of his life.

34 And for his diet a continual provision was allowed him by the king of Babylon, every day a portion, until the day of his death, all the days of his life.

* 4 Kings xxv. 27. A. M. 3442, A. C. 562.

VER. 12. Tenth: 4 Kings, seventh, on which day Nabuzardan set out from Reblatha, according to some. But it was above sixty leagues, or hours' journey, distant. C.—He entered the city on the seventh, and put his orders in execution on the tenth. Usher.

VER. 15. Poor. He took those of the city, and left the poor of the country. Ver. 16. C.

VER. 23. Hundred; four next the wall were not seen, or were fixed to the chapiters.

VER. 24. Second in dignity to the high priest, a chief officer of the temple.

VER. 25. Seven: 4 Kings has five. But this seems more correct, as seven were commonly employed. Esth. i. 10; Tob. xii. 15. C.—Two might be taken later. H.

VER. 28. Seventh year of Nabuchodonosor, and last of Joachin, 4 Kings. Sept. Rom. omits this and the next verse, which are found in Theodoret and the Compl. edit. C.—Grabe supplies all from, And Juda, ver. 27—31. H.

VER. 31. Joachin. He had been thrown into prison when eighteen years old, and continued there thirty-seven years. It is not probable that Jeremias wrote this. Evilmerodach had also been the same in prison.

VER. 32. Kings, who had been conquered, and kept at court for parade.

LAMENTATIONS OF JEREMIAS.

In these Jeremias laments in a most pathetic manner the miseries of his people, and the destruction of Jerusalem and the temple, in Hebrew verses, beginning with different letters according to the order of the Hebrew alphabet. Ch.—In the first chapter the order is exactly observed, but in the next three phe comes before ain, either for some mystery to us unknown, or by the derangement of transcribers. II.—The Greeks style this work Θρηνη, and Heb. kinuth, or “lamentations.” H.—S. Jerom (2 Par. xxxv. 25) thinks it was the first composition of Jeremias, and sung at the death of Josias. W. S. Jer. in Zac. xii. 11.—The eulogy of the king seems to belong to him rather than to Sedecias. Chap. iv. 20. C.—Yet it might afterwards be applied to the latter, (H.) and to the ruin of Jerusalem. Eccl. xlix. 8. S. Jer. Pref. Theod., &c.—The city is represented standing, and sometimes in ruins. Chap. v. seems to have been written after the rest. Ver. 4, 18. C.—It is not acrostic, like them. The prophet alludes to the wretched condition of the Jews, after the murder of their Messiah; and hence the Church makes use of the Lamentations on the anniversary of our Saviour’s passion, inviting all sinners, both Jews and Gentiles, to repent: “Jerusalem, Jerusalem, be converted to the Lord thy God.” W

And it came to pass, after Israel was carried into captivity, and Jerusalem was desolate, that Jeremias, the prophet, sat weeping, and mourned with this lamentation over Jerusalem; and with a sorrowful mind, sighing and moaning, he said:

CHAPTER I.

Aleph. HOW doth the city sit solitary that was full of people? how is the mistress of the Gentiles become as a widow; the princes of provinces made tributary?

2 Beth. *Weeping, she hath wept in the night, and her tears are on her cheeks: there is none to comfort her among all them that were dear to her: all her friends have despised her, and are become her enemies.

3 Ghimel. Juda hath removed her dwelling-place, because of her affliction, and the greatness of her bondage; she hath dwelt among the nations, and she hath found no rest; all her persecutors have taken her in the midst of straits.

4 Daleth. The ways of Sion mourn, because there are none that come to the solemn feast: all her gates are broken down; her priests sigh; her virgins are in affliction; and she is oppressed with bitterness.

5 He. Her adversaries are become her lords; her enemies are enriched; because the Lord hath spoken against her for the multitude of her iniquities; her children are led into captivity, before the face of the oppressor.

6 Vau. And from the daughter of Sion, all her beauty is departed; her princes are become like rams, that find no pastures; and they are gone away without strength before the face of the pursuer.

7 Zain. Jerusalem hath remembered the days of her affliction, and prevarication of all her desirable things which she had from the days of old, when her people fell in the enemy’s hand, and there was no helper; the enemies have seen her, and have mocked at her sabbaths.

8 Heth. Jerusalem hath grievously sinned, therefore is she become unstable; all that honoured her, have despised her, because they have seen her shame; but she sighed, and turned backward.

9 Teth. Her filthiness is on her feet, and she hath not remembered her end; she is wonderfully cast down, not having a comforter: behold, O Lord, my affliction, because the enemy is lifted up.

10 Jod. The enemy hath put out his hand to all her desirable things; for she hath seen the Gentiles enter into her sanctuary, of whom thou gavest commandment that they should not enter into thy church.

11 Caph. All her people sigh, they seek bread; they have given all their precious things for food to relieve the soul; see, O Lord, and consider, for I am become vile.

12 Lamed. O all ye that pass by the way, attend, and see if there be any sorrow like to my sorrow; for he hath made a vintage of me, as the Lord spoke in the day of his fierce anger.

13 Mem. From above he hath sent fire into my bones; and hath chastised me; he hath spread a net for my feet; he hath turned me back; he hath made me desolate, wasted with sorrow all the day long.

14 Nun. The yoke of my iniquities hath watched; they are folded together in his hand, and put upon my neck;

* Jer. xlii. 17.

And, &c. This preface was not written by Jeremias, but added by the seventy interpreters, to give the reader to understand upon what occasion the Lamentations were published. Ch.

CHAP. I. VER. 1. City. David had conquered many. Jerusalem was long considered as the finest city in those parts.—Tributary. It had been so to the Assyrians, Egyptians, and Chaldeans. 4 Kings xxiv. 1. From this and similar passages it would seem that the city was still existing; yet in others it appears to have been demolished. H.

VER. 2. Night; privately, or without ceasing.—Friends, who had made a league with Sedecias. Chap. xxvii. 3, and xlviii. 26.

VER. 4. Feast, thrice a year. This was the most charming sight, when all the nation met to adore God, and to renew their friendship with one another. C.

VER. 5. Lords. Lit. “at the head,” (H.) which Moses had threatened. Dent. xxv. 1, and 43. C.

VER. 6. Beauty; princes’ palaces, but particularly the temple. Ver. 10. C. Rams, fleeing from place to place to seek relief. W.

VER. 7. Of all. She compares her past happiness with her present chastisement.—Sabbaths, or days of rest. The pagans derided them as so much lost time.

VER. 8. Unstable. Heb. also, “removed,” (H.) like a woman unclean. C.—Such were excluded from places of prayer, and were not allowed to touch a sacred book, or to pronounce God’s name.—No condition could be more distressing. C.

VER. 9. End in her prosperity, to avert this misfortune. H.

VER. 10. Church. Deut. xxxiii. 1; Eze. xlv. 9. The Chaldees disregarded the ordinance.

VER. 11, 12. O. Heb. of the Masor. “It is.” C.—Prot. “Is it nothing to you, all?” &c. H.—But the Vulg. is much clearer, and approved by many Protestants; tu being often used as an exclamation. Gen. xvii. 18. C.—Vintage. H. has plundered all. Ver. 22. H.

VER. 13. Bones; fortresses. Theod.—I am like one in a burning fever. Eze. xxiv. 4. C.—Chastised. Lit. “instructed.” This is the good effect of affliction. H.

my strength is weakened; the Lord hath delivered me into a hand, out of which I am not able to rise.

15 Samech. The Lord hath taken away all my mighty men out of the midst of me; he hath called against me the time, to destroy my chosen men; the Lord hath trodden the wine-press for the virgin daughter of Juda.

16 Ain. "Therefore do I weep, and my eyes run down with water, because the comforter, the relief of my soul, is far from me: my children are desolate, because the enemy hath prevailed.

17 Phe. Sion hath spread forth her hands, there is none to comfort her: the Lord hath commanded against Jacob, his enemies are round about him: Jerusalem is as a menstruous woman among them.

18 Sade. The Lord is just, for I have provoked his mouth to wrath; hear, I pray you, all ye people, and see my sorrow: my virgins and my young men are gone into captivity.

19 Coph. I called for my friends, but they deceived me: my priests and my ancients pined away in the city, while they sought their food, to relieve their souls.

20 Res. Behold, O Lord, for I am in distress, my bowels are troubled; my heart is turned within me, for I am full of bitterness: abroad the sword destroyeth, and at home there is death alike.

21 Sin. They have heard that I sigh, and there is none to comfort me; all my enemies have heard of my evil, they have rejoiced that thou hast done it: thou hast brought a day of consolation, and they shall be like unto me.

22 Thau. Let all their evil be present before thee; and make vintage of them, as thou hast made vintage of me for all my iniquities: for my sighs are many, and my heart is sorrowful.

CHAP. II.

Aleph. HOW hath the Lord covered with obscurity the daughter of Sion in his wrath! how hath he cast down from heaven to the earth the glorious one of Israel, and hath not remembered his footstool in the day of his anger.

2 Beth. The Lord hath cast down headlong, and hath not spared all that was beautiful in Jacob: he hath destroyed in his wrath the strong holds of the virgin of Juda, and brought them down to the ground: he hath made the kingdom unclean, and the princes thereof.

3 Ghimel. He hath broken, in his fierce anger, all the

^a Jer. xiv. 17.

VER. 14. Watched. This metaphor is not too harsh. Chap. xxxi. 28. God lays the yoke on my neck suddenly. My iniquities are like bands, and Nabuchodonosor has power over me.

VER. 15. Mighty. Heb. "magnificent" princes, (Luke xxii. 25,) or warriors. —Time of vengeance. All is animated. Heb. also, "a troop" of Chaldees. Chap. ii. 22.

VER. 17. Them. They surround the city to starve the inhabitants. Ver. 8.

VER. 19. Me. Egypt attempted to relieve Juda to no purpose. Ver. 2. C.

VER. 20. Alike, by famine, &c. C. W.

VER. 21. Done it. They conclude that I am cast off for ever. But when I shall be comforted, their turn will come (C.); or rather they will feel the scourge soon after me. —Consolation. Heb. "which thou hast appointed." H. Chap. xlviii. 26. &c.; Eze. xxv. &c.

VER. 22. Let. H. plays not for their ruin, but predicts it; and wishes rather that they would be converted. C.

CHAP. II. VER. 1. Obscurity. He continues to bewail the misery of Jerusalem. —Heaven, the highest glory. Isa. xiv. 12. —Stool; the temple, and the land. The ark fell into the hands of the enemy. C.

horn of Israel: he hath drawn back his right hand from before the enemy, and he hath kindled in Jacob as it were a flaming fire, devouring round about.

4 Daleth. He hath bent his bow as an enemy; he hath fixed his right hand as an adversary; and he hath killed all that was fair to behold in the tabernacle of the daughter of Sion; he hath poured out his indignation like fire.

5 He. The Lord is become as an enemy: he hath cast down Israel headlong, he hath overthrown all the walls thereof: he hath destroyed his strong holds, and hath multiplied in the daughter of Juda the afflicted, both men and women.

6 Vau. And he hath destroyed his tent as a garden, he hath thrown down his tabernacle: the Lord hath caused feasts and sabbaths to be forgotten in Sion: and hath delivered up king and priest to reproach, and to the indignation of his wrath.

7 Zain. The Lord hath cast off his altar, he hath cursed his sanctuary: he hath delivered the walls of the towers thereof into the hand of the enemy: they have made a noise in the house of the Lord, as in the day of a solemn feast.

8 Heth. The Lord hath purposed to destroy the wall of the daughter of Sion: he hath stretched out his line, and hath not withdrawn his hand from destroying: and the bulwark hath mourned, and the wall hath been destroyed together.

9 Teth. Her gates are sunk into the ground: he hath destroyed, and broken her bars: her king and her princes are among the Gentiles: the law is no more, and her prophets have found no vision from the Lord.

10 Jod. The ancients of the daughter of Sion sit upon the ground, they have held their peace: they have sprinkled their heads with dust, they are girded with haircloth, the virgins of Jerusalem hang down their heads to the ground.

11 Caph. My eyes have failed with weeping, my bowels are troubled: my liver is poured out upon the earth, for the destruction of the daughter of my people, when the children, and the sucklings, fainted away in the streets of the city.

12 Lamed. They said to their mothers: Where is corn and wine? when they fainted away, as the wounded in the streets of the city: when they breathed out their souls in the bosoms of their mothers.

13 Mem. To what shall I compare thee? or to what

VER. 2. Unclean, or treated it as such. C.—Sept. "he hath accounted profane the kings." H.

VER. 3. Horn: beanty and power, (H.) the two kingdoms, the fortresses (C.) and all their strength, denoted by horns. W.—Land; refusing us protection, and aiding the Chaldees.

VER. 6. Tent: the temple, with the same indifference as if it had been a hut, built to guard the fruit of a garden. Isa. v. 5; Psal. lxxix. 13. —Sabbaths. The Jews rested, but could offer no sacrifices in captivity. —Priest. Saraias was slain and Sedecias imprisoned, &c. Chap. iii. 10. C.

VER. 7. Cursed, or suffered it to be polluted, (W.) as he looked on it with horror after it had been profaned by Achaz, &c. —Towers. Sept. "palaces:" βασιλειαι.

VER. 8. Line, to level it with the ground, (Isa. xxxiv. 11. C.) or to treat it with just severity. Theod.—Bulwark. Lit. "the first wall" (H.) or ditch, lined with palisades.

VER. 9. Among, as slaves, or in prison.—No vision. When Jeremiah was consulted he had to pray for ten days. Chap. xlii. 7.

VER. 10. Ancients, even magistrates. C.

shall I liken thee, O daughter of Jerusalem? to what shall I equal thee, that I may comfort thee, O virgin daughter of Sion? for great as the sea is thy destruction: who shall heal thee?

14 Nun. Thy prophets have seen false and foolish things for thee: and they have not laid open thy iniquity, to excite thee to penance: but they have seen for thee false revelations and banishments.

15 Samech. All they that passed by the way have clapped their hands at thee: they have hissed, and wagged their heads at the daughter of Jerusalem, saying: Is this the city of perfect beauty, the joy of all the earth?

16 Phe. All thy enemies have opened their mouth against thee: they have hissed, and gnashed with the teeth, and have said: We will swallow her up: lo, this is the day which we looked for: we have found it, we have seen it.

17 Ain. The Lord hath done that which he purposed, he hath fulfilled his word, which he commanded in the days of old: he hath destroyed, and hath not spared, and he hath caused the enemy to rejoice over thee, and hath set up the horn of thy adversaries.

18 Sade. Their heart cried to the Lord upon the walls of the daughter of Sion:^b Let tears run down like a torrent day and night: give thyself no rest, and let not the apple of thy eye cease.

19 Coph. Arise, give praise in the night, in the beginning of the watches: pour out thy heart like water, before the face of the Lord: lift up thy hands to him for the life of thy little children, that have fainted for hunger at the top of all the streets.

20 Res. Behold, O Lord, and consider whom thou hast thus dealt with: shall women then eat their own fruit, their children of a span long: shall the priest and the prophet be slain in the sanctuary of the Lord?

21 Sin. The child and the old man lie without on the ground: my virgins and my young men are fallen by the sword: thou hast slain them in the day of thy wrath: thou hast killed, and shown them no pity.

22 Thau. Thou hast called, as to a festival, those that should terrify me round about, and there was none in the day of the wrath of the Lord that escaped and was left: those that I brought up, and nourished, my enemy hath consumed them.

CHAP. III.

Aleph. I AM the man that see my poverty by the rod of his indignation.

^a Lev. xxvi. 14; Deut. xxviii. 15.

VER. 14. Revelations. Heb. Mossauth, "burdens" for the enemy. This sentence ought to come before and they, &c., as it is in the Vulg. H.

VER. 15. Mouth, with scorn. Isa. lvii. 4; Psal. xxxiv. 21.

VER. 17. Old, by Moses, (Deut. xxviii. 15, 49; Lev. xxvi. 14.) Micheas, (chap. xxvi. 18,) Holda, &c. C.

VER. 20. Dealt. Lit. "gathered grapes." Chap. i. 12. 11.—Long; quite small. Psal. xxxviii. 9. This had been denounced, chap. xix. 9; Deut. xxviii. 53. C.—It took place at Samaria, and in the last siege of Jerusalem, (Jos. Bel. vii., and viii. W.) as well as at this time. H.

VER. 22. About. The troops of the enemy resemble those multitudes, which come from all parts to Jerusalem. Many kings could not raise such an army. C.

CHAP. III. VER. 1. Man. Jeremiah had a share in the common misery, (W) and bewails his own condition, as a figure of Christ. Psal. lxxxvii. 16; Isa. liii. 3. C.

VER. 2. Lod, or driven me with the rod. H.—God employs two. Zac. xi. 7.

2 Aleph. He hath led me, and brought me into darkness, and not into light.

3 Aleph. Only against me he hath turned, and turned again his hand all the day.

4 Beth. My skin and my flesh he hath made old, he hath broken my bones.

5 Beth. He hath built round about me, and he hath compassed me with gall, and labour.

6 Beth. He hath set me in dark places, as those that are dead for ever.

7 Ghimel. He hath built against me round about, that I may not get out: he hath my fetters heavy.

8 Ghimel. Yea, and when I cry, and entreat, he hath shut out my prayer.

9 Ghimel. He hath shut up my ways with square stones, he hath turned my paths upside down.

10 Daleth. He is become to me as a bear lying in wait: as a lion in secret places.

11 Daleth. He hath turned aside my paths, and hath broken me in pieces, he hath made me desolate.

12 Daleth. He hath bent his bow, and set me as a mark for his arrows.

13 He. He hath shot into my reins the daughters of his quiver.

14 He. I am made a derision to all my people their song all the day long.

15 He. He hath filled me with bitterness, he hath inebriated me with wormwood.

16 Vau. And he hath broken my teeth one by one, he hath fed me with ashes.

17 Vau. And my soul is removed far off from peace, I have forgotten good things.

18 Vau. And I said: My end, and my hope is perished from the Lord.

19 Zain. Remember my poverty, and transgression, the wormwood, and the gall.

20 Zain. I will be mindful, and remember, and my soul shall languish within me.

21 Zain. These things I shall think over in my heart, therefore will I hope.

22 Heth. The mercies of the Lord that we are not consumed: because his compassions have not failed.

23 Heth. They are new every morning, great is thy faithfulness.

24 Heth. The Lord is my portion, said my soul therefore will I wait for him.

^b Jer. xiv. 17; Supra, i. 16.

That of rigour was reserved for this prophet (chap. xxxviii.); none of them suffered more.

VER. 5. Gall. Sept. "head." Chal. "he hath seized the chief." Job xvi. 13. He speaks in the name of the besieged, who had been threatened with this punishment. Ver. 19; chap. viii. 14. C.

VER. 6. Ever indeed. Eccles. xii. 5; Psal. xlviii. 12. Jeremiah (xxxviii. 6) was in imminent danger.

VER. 8. Prayer. God would not allow him to pray for the people. Chap. vii. 16.

VER. 10. Places. This may refer to the prophet or to the people.

VER. 14. Song. True prophets were derided on account of impostors, and because their declarations were unpleasant, &c. Chap. xvii. 15; Ezec. xii. 22.

VER. 16. One. Heb. "against a stone." My bread is full of them. Psal. ci. 10. C.—He describes his afflictions, as if his teeth had been broken. W.

VER. 21. Hope. The remembrance fills him with grief and hope. Chap. xx. 12. 11.

25 Teth. The Lord is good to them that hope in him, to the soul that seeketh him.

26 Teth. It is good to wait with silence for the salvation of God.

27 Teth. It is good for a man, when he hath borne the yoke from his youth.

28 Jod. He shall sit solitary, and hold his peace: because he hath taken it up upon himself.

29 Jod. He shall put his mouth in the dust, if so be there may be hope.

30 Jod. He shall give his cheek to him that striketh him, he shall be filled with reproaches.

31 Caph. For the Lord will not cast off for ever.

32 Caph. For if he hath cast off, he will also have mercy, according to the multitude of his mercies.

33 Caph. For he hath not willingly afflicted, nor cast off the children of men, 34 Lamed. To crush under his feet all the prisoners of the land.

35 Lamed. To turn aside the judgment of a man before the face of the Most High.

36 Lamed. To destroy a man wrongfully in his judgment, the Lord hath not approved.

37 Mem*. Who is he that hath commanded a thing to be done, when the Lord commandeth it not?

38 Mem. Shall not both evil and good proceed out of the mouth of the Highest?

39 Mem. Why hath a living man murmured, man suffering for his sins?

40 Nun. Let us search our ways, and seek, and return to the Lord.

41 Nun. Let us lift up our hearts with our hands to the Lord in the heavens.

42 Nun. We have done wickedly, and provoked thee to wrath: therefore thou art inexorable.

43 Samech. Thou hast covered in thy wrath, and hast struck us: thou hast killed, and hast not spared.

44 Samech. Thou hast set a cloud before thee, that our prayer may not pass through.

45 Samech. Thou hast made me as an outcast, and refuse, in the midst of the people.

46 Phe. All our enemies have opened their mouths against us.

47 Phe. Prophecy is become to us a fear, and a snare, and destruction.

48 Phe. My eye hath run down with streams of water, for the destruction of the daughter of my people.

* Amos iii. 6.

VER. 23. New. Novi should be novæ, to agree with miserationes. C.—Chal. “new miracles” occur daily. H.

VER. 30. Him. We cannot verify this of the prophet as we can of Christ, (Matt. xxvi. 62. C.) to whom this particularly refers. W.

VER. 33. Men. He punishes with regret. Ezech. xviii. 23. Our crimes force him to chastise. Ver. 36. C.

VER. 37. Commaned. Heb. “said: It cometh to pass,” as if by chance.

VER. 39. Sins? If all happen by inevitable necessity, or according to the laws of Providence, why should any one complain?

VER. 42. Inexorable. Heb. and Sept. “Thou hast not shown pity.” H.

VER. 43. Covered thyself, as if not to see our distress.

VER. 47. Prophecy. Mary would read, vastatio. Heb. “ruin.” Sept. “taking away” C.—Prot. “Fear and a snare is come upon us, desolation and destruction.” The prophets were continually in danger. H.

49 Ain. My eye is afflicted, and hath not been quiet, because there was no rest:

50 Ain. Till the Lord regarded, and looked down from the heavens.

51 Ain. My eye hath wasted my soul, because of all the daughters of my city.

52 Sade. My enemies have chased me, and caught me like a bird, without cause.

53 Sade. My life is fallen into the pit, and they have laid a stone over me.

54 Sade. Waters have flowed over my head: I said: I am cut off.

55 Coph. I have called upon thy name, O Lord, from the lowest pit.

56 Coph. Thou hast heard my voice: turn not away thy ear from my sighs and cries.

57 Coph. Thou drewest near in the day, when I called upon thee: thou saidst: Fear not.

58 Res. Thou hast judged, O Lord, the cause of my soul, thou the Redeemer of my life.

59 Res. Thou hast seen, O Lord, their iniquity against me: judge thou my judgment.

60 Res. Thou hast seen all their fury, and all their thoughts against me.

61 Sin. Thou hast heard their reproach, O Lord, all their imaginations against me

62 Sin. The lips of them that rise up against me: and their devices against me all the day.

63 Sin. Behold, their sitting down, and their rising up, I am their song.

64 Thau. Thou shalt render them a recompense, O Lord, according to the works of their hands.

65 Thau. Thou shalt give them a buckler of heart, thy labour.

66 Thau. Thou shalt persecute them in anger, and shalt destroy them from under the heavens, O Lord.

CHAP. IV.

Aleph. HOW is the gold become dim, the finest colour is changed, the stones of the sanctuary are scattered in the top of every street?

2 Beth. The noble sons of Sion, and they that were clothed with the best gold: how are they esteemed as earthen vessels, the work of the potter's hands?

3 Ghimel. Even the sea-monsters have drawn out the breast, they have given suck to their young, the daughter of my people is cruel, like the ostrich in the desert.

4 Daleth. The tongue of the suckling child hath stuck to the roof of his mouth for thirst: the little ones have

VER. 51. Wasted. Lit. “robbed.” H.—I have felt more for my people than they have themselves. Moral writers often produce this text to show the dangers of an unguarded glance (C.) at women.

VER. 53. Over me, as if I were buried. H.—Jeremias was in prison (chap. xxxviii. 6) when he prayed. Ver. 54; chap. xx. 7. C.

VER. 65. Buckler, to cover all the body. They shall be surrounded with misery, (Psal. cviii. 29,) while God will protect his servants. Psal. v. 13. C. CHAP. IV. VER. 1. Colour. Heb. “gold.” Sept. “silver” (H.); denoting the patriarchs, (Theod.) chiefs, (Vatab.) or ornaments of the temple. C.

VER. 2. Best. Heb. “gold of Phaz,” in Colchis. Gen. ii. 11. C.

VER. 3. Sea-monsters. Lit. Lamia. Heb. Thonim. H.—Ostrich. Heb. janim, (H.) “swans.” Isa. xlii. 21; Job xxix. 14. Though the ostrich has wings it never flies, but dwells in desert places. Such is the condition of the Israelites. Theodoret.—The ostrich forsakes its eggs. W.

asked for bread, and there was none to break it unto them.

5 He. They that were fed delicately have died in the streets: they that were brought up in scarlet, have embraced the dung.

6 Vau. And the iniquity of the daughter of my people is made greater than the sin of Sodom, "which was overthrown in a moment, and hands took nothing in her.

7 Zain. Her Nazarites were whiter than snow, purer than milk, more ruddy than the old ivory, fairer than the sapphire.

8 Heth. Their face is now made blacker than coals, and they are not known in the streets: their skin hath stuck to their bones, it is withered, and is become like wood.

9 Teth. It was better with them that were slain by the sword, than with them that died with hunger: for these pined away, being consumed for want of the fruits of the earth.

10 Jod. The hands of the pitiful women have sodden their own children: they were their meat in the destruction of the daughter of my people.

11 Caph. The Lord hath accomplished his wrath, he hath poured out his fierce anger; and he hath kindled a fire in Sion, and it hath devoured the foundations thereof.

12 Lamed. The kings of the earth, and all the inhabitants of the world would not have believed, that the adversary and the enemy should enter in by the gates of Jerusalem.

13 Mem. For the sins of her prophets, and the iniquities of her priests, that have shed the blood of the just in the midst of her.

14 Nun. They have wandered as blind men in the streets, they were defiled with blood: and when they could not help walking in it, they held up their skirts.

15 Samech. Depart, ye that are defiled, they cried out to them: Depart, get ye hence, touch not: for they quarrelled, and being removed, they said among the Gentiles: He will no more dwell among them.

16 Phe. The face of the Lord hath divided them, he will no more regard them: they respected not the

* Gen. xix. 4.

VER. 5. Scarlet. Lit. "yellow;" croceis. H.—Heb. means purple. Those who have been educated in the most delicate manner are forced to feed on the most disgusting things. 4 Kings vi. 25, and xviii. 27; Deut. xxviii. 54.

VER. 6. In her. Sodom was destroyed by God. Her temporal misery was short. H.—Jerusalem was exposed to greater afflictions (C.) here, (H.) and her ingratitude and abominations were greater. Ezech. xvi. 46.

VER. 7. Old ivory. As it grows old, it turns yellow, and loses much of its value. But the ancients had the art of dyeing it scarlet. Æneid. xii. Iliad. iv. Ovid, li. Am. 5. C.—Heb. poninim, may signify (H.) "pearls," the shells of which are stained with a delicate red; though the epithet ruddy may mean "shining," in which sense purpureus is used. Hor. iv. Od. 1.—The complexion of the Nazarites was fair, with a mixture of red. Cant. v. 10. C.

VER. 8. Counts. Heb. "blackness." Sept. "soot." H.—The people were naturally brown. Fasting and distress cause them to turn black. Chap. v. 10; Joel ii. 6. C.

VER. 9. For. Lit. "by the barrenness of the earth." H.—Such a death was, no doubt, more painful than to perish quickly by the sword. C.

VER. 10. Pitiful. So their nature dictates. W.—But hunger made them the reverse. Some think they slew their children to prevent them being exposed to more cruel torments, (C.) as the people of Colchis do their sick. Chardin.—Sodden: boiled or roasted; cozerunt. Ver. 5; Deut. xxviii. 55. At the last siege of Jerusalem, this barbarity was manifested. C. Jos. Bel. vii. 8. Gr. 21. See chap. ii. 20.—Daughter. So cities are styled. W.

VER. 13. Priests. They too generally favoured (H.) the false prophets. Chap. ii. 26, &c. They were judges, and condemned the innocent; or exposed (C.) the citizens to destruction, by not warning them to amend, (H.) and to submit to the Chaldees. C.

VER. 14. They. Sept. "Her guards have tottered in," &c.—When. Prot.

persons of the priests, neither had they pity on the ancient.

17 Ain. While we were yet standing, our eyes failed, expecting help for us in vain, when we looked attentively towards a nation that was not able to save.

18 Sade. Our steps have slipped in the way of our streets, our end draweth near: our days are fulfilled, for our end is come.

19 Coph. Our persecutors were swifter than the eagles of the air: they pursued us upon the mountains, they lay in wait for us in the wilderness.

20 Res. The breath of our mouth, Christ the Lord, is taken in our sins: to whom we said: Under thy shadow we shall live among the Gentiles.

21 Sin. Rejoice and be glad, O daughter of Edom, that dwellest in the land of Hus: to thee also shall the cup come, thou shalt be made drunk, and naked.

22 Thau. Thy iniquity is accomplished, O daughter of Sion, he will no more carry thee away into captivity: he hath visited thy iniquity, O daughter of Edom, he hath discovered thy sins.

CHAP. V.

THE PRAYER OF JEREMIAS, THE PROPHET.

REMEMBER, O Lord, what is come upon us: consider and behold our reproach.

2 Our inheritance is turned to aliens: our houses to strangers.

3 We are become orphans without a father: our mothers are as widows.

4 We have drunk our water for money: we have bought our wood.

5 We were dragged by the necks, we were weary, and no rest was given us.

6 We have given our hand to Egypt, and to the Assyrians, that we might be satisfied with bread.

7 Our fathers have sinned, and are not: and we have borne their iniquities.

8 Servants have ruled over us: there was none to redeem us out of their hand.

"so that men could not touch their garments," as they were defiled. H.—These hypocrites were afraid of touching blood, as they observed external ceremonies, while they disregarded the spirit of religion.

VER. 15. Depart. They were not ashamed to speak thus to others, or the citizens address the priests contaminated with blood.

VER. 16. They, the Jews; or rather the prophet thus describes the Chaldees Chap. v. 12; Deut. xxviii. 50.

VER. 17. Save. The Egyptians attempted it in vain. Chap. xxxiv. 8, and xxxvii. 10.

VER. 20. Christ, &c. This, according to the letter, is spoken of their king, who is called the Christ; that is, the anointed of the Lord. But it also relates, in the spiritual sense, to Christ our Lord, suffering for our sins. Ch. Isa. liii. 5 S. Aug. de Civ. Dei, xviii. 33.—It literally speaks of Josias, or of Sedecias. W.—Josias was slain by the Egyptians. S. Jer. in Zac. xii.—But Sedecias seems chiefly to be meant. The people were much attached to him, though he was wicked; and they expected that he would have rescued them from the power of the Chaldees as his league with the neighbouring Gentiles (C.) seemed to insure, (H.) if they had proved faithful. C.—But all was useless against the Lord. H.

VER. 21. Rejoice. Edom had manifested her joy at the misfortunes of Juda. The prophet hints at this with a cutting irony. Psal. cxxxvi. 7; Abd. 11.

VER. 22. Accomplished, and sufficiently punished by exile. Chap. i. 20; Isa. xl. 2.—Discovered. Gen. xlv. 16, and 3 Kings xvii. 18. C.

CHAP. V. VER. 1. The prayer, &c. This title is not in Heb., Sept., &c. Theodoret has passed over the chapter, as if he doubted of its authenticity. It does not follow the order of Heb. letters, like the preceding, and seems to be a form of prayer for those who retired into Egypt. C.

VER. 2. Aliens. The Idumeans seized and kept possession of the southern parts. C.

9 We fetched our bread at the peril of our lives, because of the sword in the desert.

10 Our skin was burnt as an oven, by reason of the violence of the famine.

11 They oppressed the women in Sion, and the virgins in the cities of Juda.

12 The princes were hanged up by their hand: they did not respect the persons of the ancient.

13 They abused the young men indecently: and the children fell under the wood.

14 The ancients have ceased from the gates: the young men from the choir of the singers.

15 The joy of our heart is ceased, our dancing is turned into mourning.

VER. 7. Iniquities. This was the usual complaint of the Jews, (chap. xxxi. 29,) as if they had committed no offence themselves. If any virtuous people were involved in the common ruin, they bore it with resignation, and acknowledged that they had deserved it. 1 Esd. ix. 6, and 2 Esd. i. 6; Esth. xiv. 6; Dan. iii. 29.

VER. 8. Servants. One had command over another. Matt. xxiv. 45. The Chaldees were like slaves, and the race of Cham was condemned to servitude. Gen. ix. 26. C.

VER. 13. Indecently. Heb. "they made the young men grind" at the mill, in their prison, (H.) as Samson (Judg. xvi. 21) and Sedecias (according to the Sept. chap. lii. 11) were forced to do. C.—The Chaldees treated their captives without pity or shame. H.—Wood; hurdens, or stumbling-blocks, unless they were crucified; or, "roasted," if we admit a small alteration in the Heb. Chap. iv. 10. C.

16 The crown is fallen from our head: woe to us, because we have sinned.

17 Therefore is our heart sorrowful, therefore are our eyes become dim.

18 For Mount Sion, because it is destroyed, foxes have walked upon it.

19 But thou, O Lord, shalt remain for ever, thy throne from generation to generation.

20 Why wilt thou forget us for ever? why wilt thou forsake us for a long time?

21 Convert us, O Lord, to thee, and we shall be converted: renew our days, as from the beginning.

22 But thou hast utterly rejected us, thou art exceedingly angry with us.

VER. 14. Gates, where sentence was usually passed. H.—The Jews had judges at Babylon, (Dan. xiii. 5,) but not at first, nor every where.

VER. 17. Dim, the natural consequence of extreme want. 1 Kings xiv. 27.

VER. 18. Foxes, which were very common. Judg. xv. 4.

VER. 21. Convert. Thy grace must work upon our hearts, (C.) before we can expect redress, (H.) and an end of our banishment. T. Grot.—Beginning, when our fathers observed the law. S. Tho. M. See chap. xxxi. 18. S. Aug. de Civ. Dei, ii. and iv. W.

VER. 22. Thou hast. We might read with an interrogation, (H.) in Heb. "Hast thou?" &c. C.—Having treated us so severely, stop thy hand. W.—But I perceive it will be in vain to beg for redress till the seventy years be expired. M.

THE PROPHECY OF BARUCH.

BARUCH was a man of noble extraction, and learned in the law, secretary and disciple to the prophet Jeremias, and a sharer in his labours and persecutions; which is the reason why the ancient Fathers have considered this book as a part of the prophecy of Jeremias, and have usually quoted it under his name. Ch.—The frequent Heb. idioms show it to have been originally in that language. Baruch wrote by inspiration of the Holy Ghost the letter comprising the first five chapters, which he carried to the Jews from their brethren at Babylon. The martyrologies place his death, Dec. 28. The sixth chapter contains a letter of Jeremias, to which allusion is clearly made 2 Mac. ii. 2. The Church still recites the works of Baruch under the name of Jeremias. Sub. Pent. prop. 6. C.—Many Fathers did so formerly, though they doubted not but Baruch was the author. See S. Iren. v. 35. S. Aug. de Civ. Dei, xviii. 33, &c. Others, with Origen, (Prin. ii. 3,) specify the writer; and the Councils of Laodicea, Florence, and Trent, decide that it is canonical. S. Jerom alleged it not against the Jews, as they denied its authority. W.—See Jer. xxxii. 44. H.—In his preface on Jer. he testifies that "it contains many things relating to Christ and the latter times." W.

CHAPTER I.

The Jews of Babylon send the book of Baruch, with money, to Jerusalem, requesting their brethren there to offer sacrifice, and to pray for the king and for them, acknowledging their manifold sins.

AND these are the words of the book, which Baruch, the son of Nerias, the son of Maasias, the son of Sedecias, the son of Sedei, the son of Helcias, wrote in Babylon.

2 In the fifth year, in the seventh day of the month, at the time that the Chaldeans took Jerusalem, and burnt it with fire.

3 And Baruch read the words of this book, in the hearing of Jechonias, the son of Joakim, king of Juda, and in the hearing of all the people that came to hear the book.

* A. M. circiter, 3404, A. C. 600.

CHAP. I. VER. 1. Babylonia. Sept. "Babylon," where Jechonias was in prison, (H.) now the 5th year. Ver. 2. Baruch accompanied his brother Saraias. Jer. li. 59. C.

VER. 2. Month, in which the king was taken. C.—This was the fifth anniversary. H.—Fire: but soon extinguished. Usher.—The taking of the city was effected at intervals, (H.) during eleven years, in the fifth of which this book was written. Jerusalem was at last reduced to ashes. C.

4 And in the hearing of the nobles, the sons of the kings, and in the hearing of the ancients, and in the hearing of the people, from the least even to the greatest of them, that dwelt in Babylonia, by the river Sodi.

5 And when they heard it they wept, and fasted, and prayed before the Lord.

6 And they made a collection of money, according to every man's power.

7 And they sent it to Jerusalem, to Joakim, the priest, the son of Helcias, the son of Salom, and to the priests, and to all the people, that were found with him in Jerusalem:

8 At the time when he received the vessels of the temple of the Lord, which had been taken away out of the temple, to return them into the land of Juda, the tenth

VER. 4. Sodi. Heb. zud, (H.) means "pride," and probably denotes the great river Euphrates. C.

VER. 7. Joakim, or Eliacim, high priest under Manasses, &c. Isa. xxii. 20. C.—The text only says that he was priest, and Cappel. asserts there was no pontiff then. Houtigant.

VER. 8. Sican; a Syriac month, corresponding with our May. M.—Vessels; or, "the vessels were of silver." H.—By retrenching z, which, it would seem that day of the month Sivan, the silver vessels, which Sedecias, the son of Josias, king of Juda, had made.

9 After that Nabuchodonosor, the king of Babylon, had carried away Jechonias, and the princes, and all the powerful men, and the people of the land from Jerusalem, and brought them bound to Babylon.

10 And they said: Behold, we have sent you money, buy with it holocausts, and frankincense, and make meat-offerings, and offerings for sin at the altar of the Lord our God:

11 And pray ye for the life of Nabuchodonosor, the king of Babylon, and for the life of Baltassar, his son, that their days may be upon earth as the days of heaven:

12 And that the Lord may give us strength, and enlighten our eyes, that we may live under the shadow of Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon, and under the shadow of Baltassar his son, and may serve them many days, and may find favour in their sight.

13 And pray ye for us to the Lord our God; for we have sinned against the Lord our God, and his wrath is not turned away from us even to this day.

14 And read ye this book, which we have sent to you to be read in the temple of the Lord, on feasts and proper days.

15 And you shall say: To the Lord our God belongeth justice; but to us confusion of our face, as it is come to pass at this day to all Juda, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem;

16 To our kings, and to our princes, and to our priests, and to our prophets, and to our fathers.

17 We have sinned before the Lord our God, and have not believed him, nor put our trust in him:

18 And we were not obedient to him, and we have not hearkened to the voice of the Lord our God, to walk in his commandments, which he hath given us.

19 From the day that he brought our fathers out of the land of Egypt, even to this day, we were disobedient to the Lord our God; and going astray, we turned away from hearing his voice.

20 And many evils have cleaved to us, and the curses which the Lord foretold by Moses his servant: who brought our fathers out of the land of Egypt, to give us a land flowing with milk and honey, as at this day.

21 And we have not hearkened to the voice of the Lord our God, according to all the words of the prophets, whom he sent to us:

22 And we have gone away every man after the inclinations of his own wicked heart, to serve strange gods, and to do evil in the sight of the Lord our God.

* Infra, li. 6.—b Dan. ix. 5.—c Deut. xxviii. 15.—d Deut. xxviii. 53.

they asked for the golden vessels. Sedecias had made silver ones to supply their place. These also might have been taken away. C.—Baltassar had still those of gold, (Dan. v. 2. M.) or at least some of them. H.

VER. 9. All. Cunctos should be vincitos, according to the Gr. "prisoners." C.

VER. 1. King. Gratitude and duty prompted them. Jer. xxix. 7, and 1 Tim. ii. 2.—Baltassar. Evilmerodach, his elder brother, was in disgrace. LAM. Jer. lii. 31. C.—Heaven, as long and prosperous as possible. H.—It was a customary salutation to say, O king, live for ever. Dan. ii. 4; Psal. lxxxviii. 30. C.

VER. 12. Eyes, putting an end to our captivity, (Badwell,) or causing us to detest our sins. C.—Days. This they knew was God's decree, and they submit. H.

VER. 20. Curses against transgressors. Lev. xxvi.; Dan. ix. 11. C.—Day.

CHAP. II.

A further confession of the sins of the people, and of the justice of God.

WHEREFORE the Lord our God hath made good his word, that he spoke to us, and to our judges that have judged Israel, and to our kings, and to our princes, and to all Israel and Juda:

2 That the Lord would bring upon us great evils, such as never happened under heaven, as they have come to pass in Jerusalem, according to the things that are written in the law of Moses:

3 That a man should eat the flesh of his own son, and the flesh of his own daughter.

4 And he hath delivered them up to be under the hand of all the kings that are round about us, to be a reproach and desolation among all the people, among whom the Lord hath scattered us.

5 And we are brought under, and are not uppermost; because we have sinned against the Lord our God by not obeying his voice.

6 To the Lord our God belongeth justice; but to us, and to our fathers, confusion of face, as at this day.

7 For the Lord hath pronounced against us all these evils that are come upon us:

8 And we have not entreated the face of the Lord our God, that we might return every one of us from our most wicked ways.

9 And the Lord hath watched over us for evil, and hath brought it upon us; for the Lord is just in all his works which he hath commanded us.

10 And we have not hearkened to his voice, to walk in the commandments of the Lord, which he hath set before us.

11 And now, O Lord God of Israel, who hast brought thy people out of the land of Egypt with a strong hand, and with signs, and with wonders, and with thy great power, and with a mighty arm, and hast made thee a name as at this day:

12 We have sinned, we have done wickedly, we have acted unjustly, O Lord our God, against all thy justices.

13 Let thy wrath be turned away from us; for we are left a few among the nations, where thou hast scattered us.

14 Hear, O Lord, our prayers, and our petitions, and deliver us for thy own sake; and grant that we may find favour in the sight of them that have led us away:

15 That all the earth may know that thou art the Lord our God, and that thy name is called upon Israel, and upon his posterity.

16 Look down upon us, O Lord, from thy holy house, and incline thine ear, and hear us.

* Supra, l. 15.— Dan. ix. 15.—c Deut. xxvi. 15; Isa. lxiii. 15.

We feel the effects of sin. The land of Juda was not flourishing, though not yet laid waste. H.

CHAP. II. VER. 2. Heaven. After the death of Josias the nation was exposed to the greatest misery. Its kings were imprisoned by the Egyptians, and then by the Chaldees; and surprising changes took place, all during the space of eight or nine years.

VER. 3. Daughter. This is not mentioned in sacred history to have happened when this was written, (C.) except in the siege of Samaria. But all distinction of the kingdoms was now at an end: and some might have been reduced to this extremity when Joakim or Jechonias were besieged and taken. H.—We should not know that a similar distress prevailed under Sedecias, if it had not been specified Lam. ii. 20, and iv. 10. This prayer greatly resembles that of Daniel, ix. 4.

VER. 12. Justices. So God's law is frequently called, (Psal. cxviii.) because its observance makes us just. W.

17 *Open thy eyes, and behold; for the dead that are in hell, whose spirit is taken away from their bowels, shall not give glory and justice to the Lord:

18 But the soul that is sorrowful for the greatness of evil she hath done, and goeth bowed down and feeble, and the eyes that fail, and the hungry soul, giveth glory and justice to thee, the Lord.

19 For it is not for the justices of our fathers that we pour out our prayers, and beg mercy in thy sight, O Lord our God;

20 But because thou hast sent out thy wrath and thy indignation upon us, as thou hast spoken by the hand of thy servants the prophets, saying:

21 Thus saith the Lord: Bow down your shoulder and your neck, and serve the king of Babylon; and you shall remain in the land which I have given to your fathers.

22 But if you will not hearken to the voice of the Lord your God, to serve the king of Babylon, I will cause you to depart out of the cities of Juda, and from without Jerusalem;

23 And I will take away from you the voice of mirth, and the voice of joy, and the voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride, and all the land shall be without any footstep of inhabitants.

24 And they hearkened not to thy voice, to serve the king of Babylon; and thou hast made good thy words, which thou spakest by the hands of thy servants the prophets, that the bones of our kings and the bones of our fathers should be removed out of their place.

25 And behold they are cast out to the heat of the sun, and to the frost of the night; and they have died in grievous pains, by famine, and by the sword, and in banishment.

26 And thou hast made the temple, in which thy name was called upon, as it is at this day, for the iniquity of the house of Israel, and of the house of Juda.

27 *And thou hast dealt with us, O Lord our God, according to all thy goodness, and according to all that great mercy of thine:

28 As thou spakest by the hand of thy servant Moses, in the day wherein thou didst command him to write thy law before the children of Israel,

29 Saying: *If you will not hear my voice, this great multitude shall be turned into a very small number among the nations where I will scatter them:

30 For I know that the people will not hear me, for it is a people of a stiff neck; but they shall turn to their heart, in the land of their captivity:

* Isa. xxxvii. 17, and lxiv. 9.—b Psal. cxlii. 17.

31 And they shall know that I am the Lord their God, and I will give them a heart, and they shall understand, and ears, and they shall hear.

32 And they shall praise me in the land of their captivity, and shall be mindful of my name.

33 And they shall turn away themselves from their stiff neck, and from their wicked deeds; for they shall remember the way of their fathers, that sinned against me.

34 And I will bring them back again into the land which I promised with an oath to their fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and they shall be masters thereof; and I will multiply them, and they shall not be diminished.

35 And I will make with them another covenant, that shall be everlasting, to be their God, and they shall be my people; and I will no more remove my people, the children of Israel, out of the land that I have given them.

CHAP. III.

They pray for mercy, acknowledging that they are justly punished for foregoing true wisdom. A prophecy of Christ.

AND now, O Lord almighty, the God of Israel, the soul in anguish, and the troubled spirit, crieth to thee.

2 Hear, O Lord, and have mercy, for thou art a merciful God; and have pity on us, for we have sinned before thee.

3 For thou remainest for ever; and shall we perish everlastingly?

4 O Lord almighty, the God of Israel, hear now the prayer of the dead of Israel, and of their children, that have sinned before thee, and have not hearkened to the voice of the Lord their God; wherefore evils have cleaved fast to us.

5 Remember not the iniquities of our fathers, but think upon thy hand, and upon thy name, at this time:

6 For thou art the Lord our God, and we will praise thee, O Lord:

7 Because for this end thou hast put thy fear in our hearts, to the intent that we should call upon thy name, and praise thee in our captivity; for we are converted from the iniquity of our fathers, who sinned before thee.

8 And behold we are at this day in our captivity, whereby thou hast scattered us, to be a reproach, and a curse, and an offence, according to all the iniquities of our fathers, who departed from thee, O Lord our God.

9 Hear, O Israel, the commandments of life; give ear, that thou mayest learn wisdom.

10 How happeneth it, O Israel, that thou art in thy enemies' land?

* Lev. xxvi. 14; Deut. xxviii. 15.

VER. 17. Justice, &c. They that are in hell shall not give justice to God: that is, they shall not acknowledge and glorify his justice, as penitent sinners do upon earth. Ch.—And all in the grave are incapable of making known God's perfections. An appeal to his glory is thus often made. Isa. xxxviii. 18; Psal. cxlii. 17; Eccli. vii. 24.

VER. 18. Of evil is not in the Greek. A soul that bears grandeur with pain, like Esther, and humbles herself before God, is most graciously received. H.—Fail, by fasting. Such are the dispositions required for prayer. Psal. lxxviii. 3.

VER. 19. Fathers. Gr. adds, "and kings."—Prayers. Gr. "mercy." We boast not of our good works. H.—Mercy may denote prayer or humiliation. Theodoret gives a better sense (C.): "We trust not in the just works of our fathers, or of ourselves, to receive any pity." H.

VER. 24. Place. The soldiers ransacked the tombs in hopes of plunder. Joakim was left unburied. C.

VER. 26. Day. Its vessels were taken away, (chap. i. 8,) and few were left to attend. C.

VER. 33. Neck. Lit. "back," insensible of stripes. C.

VER. 35. Another. Gr. "an everlasting covenant," (H.) by Christ, (Maldon) prefigured by that which Nehemias renewed. 2 Esd. ix. 38. C.

CHAP. III. VER. 3. Everlastingly? Is such a short-lived creature an object of thy eternal wrath? Job xiii. 25, and xiv. 1; Psal. cii. 13.

VER. 4. Dead; banished, (ver. 11; Ezec. xxxvii. 5,) or of the ancient patriarchs. This motive is frequently urged. Exod. xxxii. 13; Lev. xxvi. 41; Deut. ix. 27; Dan. iii. 35; Jer. xv. 1. C.—People in sin and misery seem dead, (ver. 11,) yet many revive by grace. W.

VER. 8. Offence. Gr. "debt." Parents might sell their children. Matt. xviii. 25. God threatens his rebellious people, that they shall be forced to borrow. Deut. xxviii. 44. C.

11 Thou art grown old in a strange country, thou art joined with the dead : thou art counted with them that go down into hell.

12 Thou hast forsaken the fountain of wisdom ;

13 For if thou hadst walked in the way of God, thou hadst surely dwelt in peace for ever.

14 Learn where is wisdom, where is strength, where is understanding ; that thou mayest know also where is length of days and life, where is the light of the eyes, and peace

15 Who hath found out her place ? and who hath gone into her treasures ?

16 Where are the princes of the nations, and they that rule over the beasts that are upon the earth ?

17 That take their pastime with the birds of the air ;

18 That hoard up silver and gold, wherein men trust, and there is no end of their getting ? who work in silver, and are solicitous, and their works are unsearchable ?

19 They are cut off, and are gone down to hell, and others are risen up in their place.

20 Young men have seen the light, and dwelt upon the earth ; but the way of knowledge they have not known.

21 Nor have they understood the paths thereof, neither have their children received it, it is far from their face.

22 It hath not been heard of in the land of Chanaan, neither hath it been seen in Theman.

23 The children of Agar also, that search after the wisdom that is of the earth, the merchants of Merrha, and of Theman, and the tellers of fables, and searchers of prudence and understanding ; but the way of wisdom they have not known, neither have they remembered her paths.

24 O Israel, how great is the house of God, and how vast is the place of his possession.

25 It is great, and hath no end ; it is high, and immense.

26 There were the giants, those renowned men that were from the beginning, of great stature, expert in war.

27 The Lord chose not them, neither did they find the way of knowledge ; therefore did they perish.

28 And because they had not wisdom, they perished through their folly.

29 Who hath gone up into heaven, and taken her, and brought her down from the clouds ?

30 Who hath passed over the sea, and found her, and brought her preferably to chosen gold ?

31 There is none that is able to know her ways, nor that can search out her paths :

32 But he that knoweth all things, knoweth her, and hath found her out with his understanding : he that prepared the earth for evermore, and filled it with cattle and four-footed beasts :

33 He that sendeth forth light, and it goeth ; and hath called it, and it obeyeth him with trembling.

34 And the stars have given light in their watches, and rejoiced.

35 They were called, and they said : Here we are : and with cheerfulness they have shined forth to Him that made them.

36 This is our God, and there shall no other be accounted of in comparison of him.

37 He found out all the way of knowledge, and gave it to Jacob his servant, and to Israel his beloved.

38 Afterwards he was seen upon earth, and conversed with men.

CHAP. IV.

The prophet exhorts to the keeping of the law of wisdom : and encourages the people to be patient, and to hope for their deliverance.

THIS is the book of the commandments of God, and the law that is for ever ; all they that keep it, shall come to life ; but they that have forsaken it, to death.

2 Return, O Jacob, and take hold of it ; walk in the way by its brightness, in the presence of the light thereof.

3 Give not thy honour to another, nor thy dignity to a strange nation.

4 We are happy, O Israel ; because the things that are pleasing to God, are made known to us.

5 Be of good comfort, O people of God, the memorial of Israel ;

6 You have been sold to the Gentiles, not for your destruction ; but because you provoked God to wrath, you are delivered to your adversaries.

7 For you have provoked him who made you, the eternal God ; offering sacrifice to devils, and not to God.

8 For you have forgotten God, who brought you up ; and you have grieved Jerusalem, that nursed you.

9 For she saw the wrath of God coming upon you, and she said : Give ear, all you that dwell near Sion, for God hath brought upon me great mourning :

10 For I have seen the captivity of my people, of my sons, and my daughters, which the Eternal hath brought upon them.

11 For I nourished them with joy ; but I sent them away with weeping and mourning.

12 Let no man rejoice over me a widow, and desolate : I am forsaken of many, for the sins of my children, because they departed from the law of God.

VER. 11. Grown. Houbigant, "growing." Five years had not elapsed (Cappel.) : yet they knew their captivity would be long.—Dead. Some might yield to idolatry. Dan. iii. 7, 12. 11.—They were in a manner buried, (Psal. lxxxvii. 5,) and forced to dwell among people where they were exposed to many defilements, as if they had been near a dead body. Lev. xi. 25.

VER. 13. Peace. There is none for the wicked ; but only for the observers of the law.—For ever. Many read, "upon the land," conformably to the Greek.

VER. 20. Men ; heirs of those conquerors, and equally in the dark. C.

VER. 22. Theman, the capital city of Edom. Ch.—Eliphaz was king. Jer. xlix. 7. The Phœnicians, so famous for industry, had no idea of true wisdom, so more than the Ismaelites, &c. C.

VER. 23. Agar the mother of the Ismaelites. Ch.—Merrha, probably in Arabia.

VER. 24. Possession. All the world belongs to him : yet how few partake of his wisdom !

VER. 33. Trembling. The sun stops, goes back, or withdraws its light, at his command. Jos. x. 12, and 4 Kings xx. 9 ; Matt. xxvii. 45 ; Job xxxvi. 30.

VER. 34. Watches. They are like his soldiers. Judg. v. 20 ; Eccli. xliii. 12. C.

VER. 38. Earth, &c., by the mystery of the incarnation, by means of which the Son of God came visibly amongst us, and conversed with men. The prophets often speak of things to come as if they were past, to express the certainty of the event of the things foretold. Ch. C.—Most of the Fathers prove Christ's Divinity from this text. W. See Tert. c. Prax. 6. 2. Cyp. c. Jud. ii. 5. Eus. Dem. vi. 19, &c.—If we explain it of wisdom it comes to the same purpose, as Christ is the wisdom of God. 1 Cor. i. 30. Compare Prov. viii. 30 ; Eccli. xxiv. 12 ; Wisd. ix. 10, which no one ever suspected to be interpolated. C. Pref.

CHAP. IV. VER. 1. Ever. True wisdom may be found in the law. It constitutes the happiness of Israel. Deut. iv. 7. Christ perfected and fulfilled it. Matt. v. 17.

VER. 8. God. Lit. "Him." Gr. "the Eternal." H.—This is taken from Deut. xxxii. 15. C.—Nursed you. The city is beautifully personified as a widow. Ver. 12. H.

VER. 9. Near. Heb. would be "daughters of Sion." Ver. 14.

13 And they have not known his justices, nor walked by the ways of God's commandments, neither have they entered by the paths of his truth and justice.

14 Let them that dwell about Sion come, and remember the captivity of my sons and daughters, which the Eternal hath brought upon them.

15 For he hath brought a nation upon them from afar, a wicked nation, and of a strange tongue :

16 Who have neither revered the ancient, nor pitied children, and have carried away the darlings of the widow, and have left me all alone without children.

17 But as for me, what help can I give you ?

18 But he that hath brought the evils upon you, he will deliver you out of the hands of your enemies.

19 Go your way, my children, go your way ; for I am left alone.

20 I have put off the robe of peace, and have put upon me the sackcloth of supplication ; and I will cry to the Most High in my days.

21 Be of good comfort, my children, cry to the Lord, and he will deliver you out of the hand of the princes your enemies.

22 For my hope is in the Eternal, that he will save you . and joy is come upon me from the Holy One, because of the mercy which shall come to you from our everlasting Saviour.

23 For I sent you forth with mourning, and weeping : but the Lord will bring you back to me with joy and gladness for ever.

24 For as the neighbours of Sion have now seen your captivity from God, so shall they also shortly see your salvation from God, which shall come upon you with great honour, and everlasting glory.

25 My children, suffer patiently the wrath that is come upon you : for thy enemy hath persecuted thee, but thou shalt quickly see his destruction : and thou shalt get up upon his neck.

26 My delicate ones have walked rough ways, for they were taken away as a flock made a prey by the enemies.

27 Be of good comfort, my children, and cry to the Lord : for you shall be remembered by him that hath led you away.

28 For as it was your mind to go astray from God ; so when you return again, you shall seek him ten times as much.

29 For he that hath brought evils upon you, shall bring you everlasting joy again with your salvation.

30 Be of good heart, O Jerusalem : for he exhorteth thee, that named thee.

^a Infra, v. 5.—^b Supra, iv. 36.

VER. 15. Tongue. So the Chaldees are described, Deut. xxviii. 49 ; Isa. xxxiii. 19. C.

VER. 16. Children. Gr. "daughters." H.—Many of both sexes were taken with Jeconias. C.

VER. 28. When. Gr. "now ten times as much, being converted, seek him." V.—The Jews became much more docile and attached to the law.

VER. 30. Named thee as his servant, spouse, (C.) and intimate friend

VER. 32. She ; Babylon. Ch.—Gr. "Wretched she," &c. H.—Babylon shall fall a prey to Cyrus.

VER. 37. East and west. From Babylon and from the islands. Isa. xi. 11 ; Zac. viii. 7.

CHAP. V. VER. 2. Garment. Heb. "cloak," (Sanct.,) such as were worn by people under no disgrace. Chap. iv. 20.

31 The wicked that have afflicted thee, shall perish, and they that have rejoiced at thy ruin, shall be punished.

32 The cities which thy children have served, shall be punished : and she that received thy sons.

33 For as she rejoiced at thy ruin, and was glad of thy fall : so shall she be grieved for her own desolation.

34 And the joy of her multitude shall be cut off, and her gladness shall be turned to mourning.

35 For fire shall come upon her from the Eternal, long to endure, and she shall be inhabited by devils for a great time.

36 Look about thee, O Jerusalem, towards the east and behold the joy that cometh to thee from God.

37 For behold thy children come, whom thou sentest away scattered, they come gathered together from the east even to the west, at the word of the Holy One, rejoicing for the honour of God.

CHAP. V.

Jerusalem is invited to rejoice, and behold the return of her children out of their captivity.

PUT off, O Jerusalem, the garment of thy mourning, and affliction : and put on the beauty, and honour of that everlasting glory which thou hast from God.

2 God will clothe thee with the double garment of justice, and will set a crown on thy head of everlasting honour.

3 For God will show his brightness in thee, to every one under heaven.

4 For thy name shall be named to thee by God for ever : the peace of justice, and honour of piety.

5 Arise, O Jerusalem, and stand on high : and look about towards the east, and behold thy children gathered together from the rising to the setting sun, by the word of the Holy One, rejoicing in the remembrance of God.

6 For they went out from thee on foot, led by the enemies : but the Lord will bring them to thee, exalted with honour, as children of the kingdom.

7 For God hath appointed to bring down every high mountain, and the everlasting rocks, and to fill up the valleys, to make them even with the ground : that Israel may walk diligently to the honour of God.

8 Moreover, the woods, and every sweet-smelling tree, have overshadowed Israel, by the commandment of God.

9 For God will bring Israel with joy in the light of his majesty, with mercy, and justice, that cometh from him.

CHAP. VI.

The epistle of Jeremias to the captives, as a preservative against idolatry.

A COPY^c of the epistle that Jeremias sent to them that were to be led away captives into Babylon by ^c A. N. 3405, A. C. 599.

VER. 3. His. Gr. "thy." Christ, the sun of justice, would effect this. Isa. lx. 1.

VER. 4. Piety. Thus shall Jerusalem be distinguished after the captivity : but still more so when Christ shall appear, and give peace to his Church, after the ages of persecution.

VER. 5. Arise. Chap. iv. 36 ; Isa. lii. 2.—Cod. They remember his law with pleasure.

VER. 6. Children. Gr. "the throne." The return of the captives was a triumph. Isa. xlv. 20, and xlix. 22. They had abundance of horses, &c. 1 Esd. ii. 66. Darius gave them a convoy of a thousand horsemen. 3 Esd. v. 2. Jos. Ant. xi. 4.

CHAP. VI. A copy. Sept. place this after the Lamentations, which follow Baruch. H.—Jeremias wrote it before the captives departed. Baruch read it to them at Babylon, and it was sent back to Jerusalem. W.—It might be deli-the king of Babylon, to declare to them according to what was commanded him by God.

1 *FOR the sins that you have committed before God, you shall be carried away captives into Babylon by Nabuchodonosor, the king of Babylon.

2 And when you are come into Babylon, you shall be there many years, and for a long time, even to seven generations; and after that I will bring you away from thence with peace.

3 ^bBut now, you shall see in Babylon gods of gold, and of silver, and of stone, and of wood, borne upon shoulders, causing fear to the Gentiles.

4 Beware, therefore, that you imitate not the doings of others, and be afraid; and the fear of them should seize upon you.

5 But when you see the multitude behind, and before, adoring them, say you in your hearts: Thou oughtest to be adored, O Lord.

6 For my angel is with you: And I myself will demand an account of your souls.

7 For their tongue that is polished by the craftsman, and themselves laid over with gold and silver, are false things, and they cannot speak.

8 And as if it were for a maiden that loveth to go gay: so do they take gold and make them up.

9 Their gods have golden crowns upon their heads: whereof the priests secretly convey away from them gold, and silver, and bestow it on themselves.

10 Yea, and they give thereof to prostitutes, and they dress out harlots: and again when they receive it of the harlots, they adorn their gods.

11 And these gods cannot defend themselves from the rust, and the moth.

12 But when they have covered them with a purple garment, they wipe their face, because of the dust of the house, which is very much among them.

13 ^{Trs} holdeth a sceptre as a man, as a judge of the country, but cannot put to death one that offendeth him.

14 And this hath in his hand a sword, or an axe, but cannot save himself from war, or from robbers, whereby be it known to you, that they are not gods.

15 Therefore, fear them not. For as a vessel that a man uses when it is broken becometh useless, even so are their gods:

16 When they are placed in the house, their eyes are full of dust by the feet of them that go in.

* Jer. xxv. 9.—^b Isa. xlv. 10.

vered to the captives at Bēlathā. We have it not entire, as another circumstance respecting the ark is mentioned 2 Mac. ii. 5. C.

VER. 2. Seven generations; that is, seventy years. Ch.—A generation sometimes consisted of seven, ten, fifteen, thirty, thirty-five, fifty, or a hundred years.—A. Lap. Menage.—Eighteen years of the seventy had already elapsed. C.—Seven is often put for many, (H.) or a general number, (W.) because so many days form a week. H.

VER. 4. Fear. Worship not such things. H.

VER. 6. Angel Michael, the conductor of Israel in the desert, &c. Dan. x. 13; Exod. xxxiii. 2. C.—He protected them also in Babylon. W.

VER. 12. Them, on account of the many votaries. Ver. 16. C.—Prot. adopt similar arguments against the real presence, as if we believed that Christ was hurt when the sacramental species were broken or devoured by vermin. A little more boldness will prompt them to reject the Divinity of Christ, who was pleased to give up his body to those who treated him shamefully. Almost every argument which is levelled against Christ's real presence in the blessed Eucharist may be turned against the incarnation; and hence so many now become Socinians, being willing to submit their understanding to the mysteries of religion. H.

17 And as the gates are made sure on every side upon one that hath offended the king, or like a dead man carried to the grave, so do the priests secure the doors with bars and locks, lest they be stripped by thieves.

18 They light candles to them, and in great number, of which they cannot see one: but they are like beams in the house.

19 And they say that the creeping things which are of the earth, gnaw their hearts, while they eat them and their garments, and they feel it not.

20 Their faces are black with the smoke that is made in the house.

21 Owls, and swallows, and other birds, fly upon their bodies, and upon their heads, and cats in like manner.

22 Whereby you may know that they are no gods. Therefore fear them not.

23 The gold also which they have, is for show, but except a man wipe off the rust, they will not shine: for neither when they were molten, did they feel it.

24 Men buy them at a high price, whereas there is no breath in them.

25 *And having not the use of feet, they are carried upon shoulders, declaring to men how vile they are. Be they confounded also that worship them.

26 Therefore if they fall to the ground, they rise not up again of themselves, nor if a man set them upright, will they stand by themselves, but their gifts shall be set before them, as to the dead.

27 The things that are sacrificed to them, their priests sell and abuse: in like manner also their wives take part of them, but give nothing of it either to the sick, or to the poor.

28 The child-bearing and menstruous women touch their sacrifices: knowing, therefore, by these things that they are not gods, fear them not.

29 For how can they be called gods? because wouner set offerings before the gods of silver, and of gold, and of wood:

30 And priests sit in their temples, having their garments rent, and their heads and beards shaven, and nothing upon their heads.

31 And they roar and cry before their gods, as men do at the feast when one is dead.

32 The priests take away their garments, and clothe their wives and their children.

33 And whether it be evil that one doth unto them, or

* Isa. xlv. 7.

VER. 13. Judge, or ruler. C.

VER. 15. Vessel; armour, or any utensil. C.

VER. 18. Candles. Lit. "lamps." H.—Some temples in Egypt were famous for their numbers. Herod. ii. 62.—The Lord prescribed them to be used.

VER. 19. Hearts: the wood is worm-eaten. C.

VER. 24. Price, foolishly believing that they have Divine power. W.

VER. 26. Gifts. The Chaldees supposed that Bel could eat. Dan. xiv.—Dead. Food was placed on the tombs. S. Aug. abolished this custom in Africa.

VER. 27. Take. Gr. "salt." They give none to the poor, for fear of their imposture being detected, though they allow even the unclean to eat. Ver. 28. Lev. xii. 2; Deut. xiv. 29.

VER. 30. Shaven, as in mourning, contrary to the custom of Israel. Lev. xxi. 10. C.—Heads. The Jewish priests wore mitres or caps.

VER. 31. Dead, even of Adonis, (H.) whose worship is here ridiculed. C.—At Biblos people bewailed his death, and the next day proclaimed that he was alive.

VER. 34. Requite. Gr. "brass," much less gold. H.

good, they are not able to recompense it: neither can they set up a king, nor put him down:

34 In like manner they can neither give riches, nor requite evil. If a man make a vow to them, and perform it not: they cannot require it.

35 They cannot deliver a man from death, nor save the weak from the mighty.

36 They cannot restore the blind man to his sight: nor deliver a man from distress.

37 They shall not pity the widow, nor do good to the fatherless.

38 Their gods, of wood, and of stone, and of gold, and of silver, are like the stones that are hewn out of the mountains: and they that worship them shall be confounded.

39 How then is it to be supposed, or to be said, that they are gods?

40 Even the Chaldeans themselves dishonour them: who when they hear of one dumb that cannot speak, they present him to Bel, entreating him, that he may speak.

41 As though they could be sensible that have no motion themselves: and they, when they shall perceive this, will leave them: for their gods themselves have no sense.

42 The women also, with cords about them, sit in the ways, burning olive-stones.

43 And when any one of them, drawn away by some passenger, lieth with him, she upbraideth her neighbour, that she was not thought as worthy as herself, nor her cord broken.

44 But all things that are done about them, are false: how is it then to be thought, or to be said, that they are gods?

45 And they are made by workmen, and by goldsmiths. They shall be nothing else but what the priests will have them to be.

46 For the artificers themselves that make them, are of no long continuance. Can those things then that are made by them, be gods?

47 But they have left false things and reproach to them that come after.

48 For when war cometh upon them, or evils: the priests consult with themselves, where they may hide themselves with them.

49 How then can they be thought to be gods, that can neither deliver themselves from war, nor save themselves from evils?

50 For seeing they are but of wood, and laid over with gold, and with silver, it shall be known hereafter that they are false things, by all nations, and kings: and it shall be manifest that they are no gods, but the work of men's hands, and that there is no work of God in them.

51 Whence, therefore, is it known that they are not gods, but the work of men's hands, and no work of God is in them?

52 They cannot set up a king over the land, nor give rain to men.

53 They determine no causes, nor deliver countries from oppression: because they can do nothing, and are as daws between heaven and earth.

54 For when fire shall fall upon the house of these gods of wood, and of silver, and of gold, their priests indeed will flee away, and be saved: but they themselves shall be burnt in the midst like beams.

55 And they cannot withstand a king and war. How then can it be supposed, or admitted, that they are gods?

56 Neither are these gods of wood, and of stone, and laid over with gold, and with silver, able to deliver themselves from thieves or robbers: they that are stronger than them,

57 Shall take from them the gold, and silver, and the raiment wherewith they are clothed, and shall go their way, neither shall they help themselves.

58 Therefore it is better to be a king that showeth his power: or else a profitable vessel in the house, with which the owner thereof will be well satisfied: or a door in the house, to keep things safe that are therein, than such false gods.

59 The sun, and the moon, and the stars being bright, and sent forth for profitable uses, are obedient.

60 In like manner the lightning, when it breaketh forth, is easy to be seen; and after the same manner the wind bloweth in every country.

61 And the clouds, which God commandeth them to go over the whole world, do that which is commanded them.

62 The fire also being sent from above to consume mountains, and woods, doth as it is commanded. But these neither in show, nor in power, are like to any one of them.

63 Wherefore it is neither to be thought, nor to be said, that they are gods: since they are neither able to judge causes, nor to do any good to men.

64 Knowing, therefore, that they are not gods, fear them not.

65 For neither can they curse kings, nor bless them.

66 Neither do they show signs in the heaven to the nations, nor shine as the sun, nor give light as the moon.

67 Beasts are better than they, which can fly under a covert, and help themselves.

68 Therefore there is no manner of appearance that they are gods: so fear them not.

69 For as a scarecrow in a garden of cucumbers ke p

VER. 40. Chaldeans. The priests themselves despise the idols most, (C.) and expose them to contempt, by pretending that they work miracles. H.

VER. 41. They. Gr. "he could perceive. And they reflecting on this, cannot still abandon them; for they have no sense." H.—They are so stupid, that they will not quit such impotent idols. C.

VER. 42. Women. Aristophanes calls harlots, "corded bodies." Eccles. Act. 1.—Stones. Lit. "bones" (H.); or the refuse of what had been crushed, (πύρρα, Athen. ii. 14.) to excite impure love. M. T.—Theocritus (Phar.) represents a witch doing the like; and Sanchez tells us that some were taken in the fact in Spain. C.—Fumigation, used by the Babylonians after marriage, (Herod. i. 198,) may be insinuated. Grotius.

VER. 45. To be. Isa. xlv. 14. Sept. "they are nothing but what the workmen wish to form." H.

VER. 51. Them. Gr. has simply, (C.) "Who then knows not that they are no gods?" H.

VER. 53. Daws. They have no greater influence (C.) than jackdaws.

VER. 58. Gods. Sept. repeat this after satisfied, or "will use;" and here add, "or a pillar of wood in palaces, than," &c. H.

VER. 59. Obedient to God. They were appointed to mark out the seasons, &c., (Gen. i. 14,) and if any creature were worthy of adoration, they would. C.—The Babylonians adored them as well as statues, and therefore their proper destination is specified here and by Moses.

eth nothing, so are the gods of wood, and of silver, and laid over with gold.

70 They are no better than a white thorn in a garden, upon which every bird sitteth. In like manner also their gods of wood, and laid over with gold, and with silver, are like to a dead body cast forth in the dark.

VER. 71. Scarlet. Gr. "marble" coloured wood. Grotius would substitute παργαρον, "a pearl," which decays through age. C.

71 By the purple also and the scarlet which are moth-eaten upon them, you shall know that they are not gods. And they themselves at least are consumed, and shall be a reproach in the country.

72 Better, therefore, is the just man that hath no idols for he shall be far from reproach.

VER. 72. Reproach, provided he also avoid the idols of the mind and of the heart. H.

THE PROPHECY OF EZECHIEL.

EZECHIEL, whose name signifies the strength of God, was of the priestly race, and of the number of the captives that were carried away to Babylon with king Joachin. He was contemporary with Jeremias, and prophesied to the same effect in Babylon as Jeremias did in Jerusalem; and is said to have ended his days in like manner, by martyrdom. Ch.—He strove to comfort the captives, who began to repine that they had listened too readily to Jeremias, exhorting them to submit to the king of Babylon. Some think that part of his prophecies is lost, as Josephus mentions two books: but the last nine chapters, regarding the new city and temple, might form the second division. C.—His style may be compared to that of Homer (Grot.) and Alcæus. Many have thought that (C.) Pythagoras was his disciple (Eus. Præp. 13); yet the latter seems to have lived after the prophet, who was led into captivity with Jechonias, A. 3410, and prophesied twenty years. He dates from this period, (C.) and from the renewal of the covenant under Josias, (chap. i. 1. H.) when the captivity was first announced. W.—The Jews allowed none to read the first and the last nine (H.) chapters, nor the beginning of Gen., nor the Cant., before they were thirty years old; and they never attempted to explain the vision nor the building of the temple, supposing it to be above the power of man. S. Jerom.

CHAPTER I.

The time of Ezechiel's prophecy: he sees a glorious vision.

NOW it came to pass in the thirtieth year, ^ain the fourth month, on the fifth day of the month, when I was in the midst of the captives, ^bby the river Chobar, the heavens were opened, and I saw the visions of God.

2 On the fifth day of the month, the same was the fifth year of the captivity of king Joachin,

3 The word of the Lord came to Ezechiel, the priest, the son of Buzi, in the land of the Chaldeans, by the river Chobar: and the hand of the Lord was there upon him.

4 And I saw, and behold a whirlwind came out of the north: and a great cloud, and a fire infolding it, and brightness was about it: and out of the midst thereof, that is, out of the midst of the fire, as it were the resemblance of amber:

5 And in the midst thereof the likeness of four living

^a A. M. 3409, A. C. 595.

CHAP. I. VER. 1. And is either superfluous, as at the beginning of most of the sacred books, (C.) or shows the connexion of what is written with what the prophet saw or heard internally. S. Aug. in Psal. iv. S. Greg. W.—Year: either of the age of Ezechiel, or (as others will have it) from the solemn covenant made in the eighteenth year of Josias (4 Kings xxiii. Ch. W. C.); or he alludes to the era of Nabopolassar, used at Babylon, (M.) or to the last jubilee. See Sanct. The thirtieth year, from the prediction of Hoida to Josias, (H.) concurs with the fifth of the prophet's captivity. Chap. xvii. 12. Usher, A. 3410.—Fourth of the sacred year, (C.) on Friday, 24th July, (Usher,) or in Jan. S. Jer.—Chobar, or Aboras, which runs westward into the Euphrates, above Thapsacus. Strabo.—The captives were in those parts, though not present. C.—Opened, in spirit, (H.) by faith. S. Jerom.—The prophet fell prostrate. Chap. ii. 1. H.

VER. 4. North, denoting the invasion of Judea by the Chaldeans. Isa. xiv. 31. Sanct.—Amber, (electri), a compound of four parts of gold and of one of silver, (Pliny, xxxiii. 4,) more precious than either. S. Jer.—It may also mean orichalcum, or a mixture of gold and brass, (Bochart, Anim. ii. b. 6, 16,) which was also preferred before gold alone, as it had the hardness of brass. C.

VER. 5. Living creatures. Cherubims, (as appears from Eccl. xlix. 10,) represented to the prophet under these mysterious shapes, as supporting the throne of God, and as it were drawing his chariot. All this chapter appeared so obscure and full of mysteries to the ancient Hebrews, that, as we learn from S. Jerom. (ep. ad Paulin.) they suffered none to read it before they were thirty years old. Ch.—In them. They stood upright, and had some parts of the human figure. C.

VER. 7. Straight. Heb. "a straight foot." Prot. prefer "feet." H.—Of a creatures: and this was their appearance: there was the likeness of a man in them.

6 Every one had four faces, and every one four wings

7 Their feet were straight feet, and the sole of their foot was like the sole of a calf's foot, and they sparkled like the appearance of glowing brass.

8 And they had the hands of a man under their wings on their four sides: and they had faces, and wings on the four sides.

9 And the wings of one were joined to the wings of another. They turned not when they went: but every one went straight forward.

10 And as for the likeness of their faces: there was the face of a man, and the face of a lion, on the right side of all the four: and the face of an ox, on the left side of all the four: and the face of an eagle over all the four.

11 And their faces, and their wings, were stretched calf. Aquila reads to the same import agul, "round," instead of āgol, (H.) "a calf." Sym. has "winged feet," like Mercury. C.—Sept. omit this, says S. Jerom, though we have his version of Sym. as if it belonged to the Sept.; and it occurs in Grabe as genuine.—Brass. Sept. add, "and their feathers were very light." H.

^b Infra, iii. 23, and x. 20, and xliii. 3.

VER. 8. Wings. Their arms were covered with feathers, and the hand appeared at the extremity; or they had four arms under the wings. Chap. x. 8. They all came from the shoulders, so as to correspond with the four-faced animal, ver. 6. C.—Others believe that each face had four wings, so that the animal would have sixteen. Maldonat.—In Isa. ix. 2, the cherub has six wings. The form was variable, as there was nothing in nature similar. They were perhaps designed to represent the eternity and dominion of God over the whole creation. Ver. 23. H.

VER. 9. Another. Two above were extended so as to support the throne, which seemed to rest on these eight wings connected together. The others were joined so as perfectly to cover what was below the breast. C.—The wings did not imitate those of birds, going to and fro, but were constantly in the same direction; or the animals did not change their respective situations: as they had four faces, there was always one of them turned to the opposite quarters of the world. C.

VER. 10. Over. This is not specified in Heb., Chal., Sept., or S. Jer. C.—"The face of an eagle for all the four." It must have been above or behind the man, as the situation of the other two faces is here determined. Ver. 6. H.

VER. 11. Faces. Sept. "wings:" and indeed it does not appear how their faces were stretched upwards, (C.) unless they looked earnestly that way; though, out of respect, they covered their faces with two wings.

upward: two wings of every one were joined, and two covered their bodies:

12 And every one of them went straight forward: whither the impulse of the spirit was to go, thither they went: and they turned not when they went.

13 And as for the likeness of the living creatures, their appearance was like that of burning coals of fire, and like the appearance of lamps. This was the vision running to and fro in the midst of the living creatures, a bright fire, and lightning going forth from the fire.

14 And the living creatures ran, and returned like flashes of lightning.

15 Now, as I beheld the living creatures, there appeared upon the earth by the living creatures one wheel with four faces.

16 And the appearance of the wheels, and the work of them, was like the appearance of the sea: and the four had all one likeness: and their appearance and their work was as it were a wheel in the midst of a wheel.

17 When they went, they went by their four parts: and they turned not when they went.

18 The wheels had also a size, and a height, and a dreadful appearance: and the whole body was full of eyes round about all the four.

19 And when the living creatures went, the wheels also went together by them: and when the living creatures were lifted up from the earth, the wheels also were lifted up with them.

20 Whithersoever the spirit went, thither as the spirit went the wheels also were lifted up withal, and followed it: for the spirit of life was in the wheels.

21 When those went these went, and when those stood these stood, and when those were lifted up from the earth, the wheels also were lifted up together, and followed them: for the spirit of life was in the wheels.

22 And over the heads of the living creatures was the likeness of the firmament, as the appearance of crystal, terrible to behold, and stretched out over their heads above.

23 And under the firmament were their wings straight, the one toward the other, every one with two wings covered his body, and the other was covered in like manner.

24 And I heard the noise of their wings, like the noise of many waters, as it were the voice of the most high God: when they walked, it was like the voice of a multitude, like the noise of an army, and when they stood, their wings were let down.

25 For when a voice came from above the firmament, that was over their heads, they stood, and let down their wings.

26 And above the firmament, that was over their heads, was the likeness of a throne, as the appearance of the sapphire-stone, and upon the likeness of the throne, was a likeness as of the appearance of a man above upon it.

27 And I saw as it were the resemblance of amber, as the appearance of fire within it round about: from his loins and upward, and from his loins downward, I saw as it were the resemblance of fire shining round about.

28 As the appearance of the rainbow when it is in a cloud on a rainy day: this was the appearance of the brightness round about.

CHAP. II.

The prophet receives his commission.

THIS was the vision of the likeness of the glory of the Lord. And I saw, and I fell upon my face, and I heard the voice of one that spoke. And he said to me: Son of man, stand upon thy feet, and I will speak to thee.

2 And the spirit entered into me after that he spoke to me, and he set me upon my feet: and I heard him speaking to me,

3 And saying: Son of man, I send thee to the children of Israel, to a rebellious people, that hath revolted from me: they, and their fathers, have transgressed my covenant even unto this day.

4 And they to whom I send thee are children of a hard face, and of an obstinate heart: and thou shalt say to them: Thus saith the Lord God:

5 If so be they at least will hear, and if so be they will forbear, for they are a provoking house: and they shall know that there hath been a prophet in the midst of them.

6 And thou, O son of man, fear not, neither be thou afraid of their words: for thou art among unbelievers and destroyers, and thou dwellest with scorpions. Fear not their words, neither be thou dismayed at their looks, for they are a provoking house.

7 And thou shalt speak my words to them, if perhaps they will hear, and forbear: for they provoke me to anger.

8 But thou, O son of man, hear all that I say to thee: and do not thou provoke me, as that house provoketh me: open thy mouth, and eat what I give thee.

a Infra, x. 12.

VER. 14. Flashes. Heb. Bozok. H.—Theodotion retains the original. His version seems to have been inserted in the Sept., (C.) who omitted this verse, as seeming to contradict ver. 9 and 12. S. Jer.—Yet it only signifies that the motion was quick as lightning, though they did not alter their situation with respect to each other.

VER. 15. Faces. One wheel crossed another at right angles, so that it was ready to move in any direction, (ver. 17. C.) like a globe. H.

VER. 16. Sea: sky blue. Heb. "Tharsis," which Sym. renders "the hyacinth," a precious stone. Exod. xxviii. 20. C.

VER. 17. Parts. When they went, they went by their four parts. That is, indifferently to any of their sides, either forward or backward, to the right or to the left. Ch.

VER. 22. Crystal, or sapphire. Ver. 26; chap. x. 1. This shining sky was like the footstool of the Lord, and rested on eight wings. Ver. 9, 23.

VER. 24. Voice. The motion of the wings made a noise like a torrent, or thunder.—God. Heb. "self-sufficient," as Sept., &c. render it, καυov. C.—Prot. "like the voice of the Almighty." H.

VER. 28. Rainbow, encircling the sky-blue throne and the flame. Nothing could be more dazzling, nor better manifest the subjection of man. C.—The prophet saw four visions at once; the whirlwind, (ver. 4,) the living creatures, (ver. 5,) the wheels, (ver. 15,) and the man seated on a throne, in the sky, ver. 26. To explain all these mysteries, a large commentary would scarcely suffice. W.—The tempest, cloud, and fire, show the impending ruin of the Jews. The ministers of God are ever ready to execute his orders. The wisdom of Providence is denoted by the name of the cherubim, the connexion of causes by the four wheels, &c. M.—God appears in his chariot going to war. He denounces vengeance on the guilty. Chap. ii., and xliii. See Corn. a Lapide. H.

b A. M. 3409.

CHAP. II. VER. 1. Face, to adore God. M.—Son of man. Our Saviour, out of humility, takes this title, which no other gave him; as the angel does commonly to this prophet, who was his figure: few else have received it, (Dan. vii. 17,) but the reason is not known. W.

VER. 5. Forbear to sin. H.—He thus insinuates free-will. S. Jer.—If they refuse to hear my prophet, they will at least perceive that they are inexcusable. C.

VER. 6. Scorpions. This people is no less destructive (H.) and hardened. Psal. cxvii. 12.—For might be better rendered "though." C.

VER. 8. Eat. "If we do not eat the open book, we cannot teach." S. Jer.

9 And I looked, and behold, a hand was sent to me, wherein was a book rolled up: and he spread it before me, and it was written within and without: and there were written in it lamentations, and canticles, and woe.

CHAP. III.

The prophet eats the book, and receives further instructions. the office of a watchman.

AND he said to me: Son of man, eat all that thou shalt find: eat this book, and go speak to the children of Israel.

2 And I opened my mouth, and he caused me to eat that book:

3 And he said to me: Son of man, thy belly shall eat, and thy bowels shall be filled with this book, which I give thee.^a And I did eat it: and it was sweet as honey in my mouth.

4 And he said to me: Son of man, go to the house of Israel, and thou shalt speak my words to them.

5 For thou art not sent to a people of a profound speech, and of an unknown tongue, but to the house of Israel:

6 Nor to many nations of a strange speech, and of an unknown tongue, whose words thou canst not understand: and if thou wert sent to them, they would hearken to thee.

7 But the house of Israel will not hearken to thee: because they will not hearken to me: for all the house of Israel are of a hard forehead, and an obstinate heart.

8 Behold I have made thy face stronger than their faces, and thy forehead harder than their foreheads.

9 I have made thy face like an adamant and like flint: fear them not, neither be thou dismayed at their presence: for they are a provoking house.

10 And he said to me: Son of man, receive in thy heart, and hear with thy ears, all the words that I speak to thee:

11 And go get thee in to them of the captivity, to the children of thy people, and thou shalt speak to them, and shalt say to them: Thus saith the Lord: If so be they will hear, and will forbear.

12 And the spirit took me up, and I heard behind me the voice of a great commotion, saying: Blessed be the glory of the Lord, from his place.

^a Apoc. i. 5.—^b A. M. 3409.—^c Apoc. x. 9, and 10.

13 And the noise of the wings of the living creatures striking one against another, and the noise of the wheels following the living creatures, and the noise of a great commotion.

14 The spirit also lifted me, and took me up: and I went away in bitterness, in the indignation of my spirit: for the hand of the Lord was with me, strengthening me.

15 And I came to them of the captivity, to the heap of new corn, to them that dwelt by the river Chobar, and I sat where they sat: and I remained there seven days mourning in the midst of them.

16 And at the end of seven days the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

17 "Son of man, I have made thee a watchman to the house of Israel: and thou shalt hear the word out of my mouth, and shalt tell it them from me.

18 If, when I say to the wicked, Thou shalt surely die: thou declare it not to him, nor speak to him, that he may be converted from his wicked way, and live: the same wicked man shall die in his iniquity, but I will require his blood at thy hand.

19 But if thou give warning to the wicked, and he be not converted from his wickedness, and from his evil way: he indeed shall die in his iniquity, but thou hast delivered thy soul.

20 Moreover, if the just man shall turn away from his justice, and shall commit iniquity: I will lay a stumbling-block before him, he shall die, because thou hast not given him warning: he shall die in his sin, and his justices, which he hath done, shall not be remembered: but I will require his blood at thy hand.

21 But if thou warn the just man, that the just may not sin, and he doth not sin: living he shall live, because thou hast warned him, and thou hast delivered thy soul.

22 And the hand of the Lord was upon me, and he said to me: Rise, and go forth into the plain, and there I will speak to thee.

23 And I rose up, and went forth into the plain: and behold the glory of the Lord stood there, like the glory which I saw by the river Chobar: and I fell upon my face.

24 And the spirit entered into me, and set me upon my feet: and he spoke to me, and said to me: Go in, and shut thyself up in the midst of thy house.

^d Infra, xxxiii. 7.—^e Supra, i. 3.

CHAP. III. VER. 1. Eat this book, and go speak to the children of Israel. By this eating of the book, was signified the diligent attention and affection with which we are to receive and embrace the word of God; and to let it, as it were, sink into our interior by devout meditation. Ch.

VER. 3. Mouth. I readily accepted the commission, but soon found the difficulties to which it would expose me. Ver. 12; Jer. xv. 16; Apoc. x. 10.

VER. 6. Unknown. Heb. "heavy," C.—Prot. "hard." H.—It is not above thy strength, Deut. xxx. 12.—To thee. He insinuates that the Gentiles would obey the apostles. S. Jer.—But the time was not yet come. C.—From this text and Matt. xi. 21, it appears that "the same grace" is accepted by some, and rejected by others, as "more grace is added to the former, which was sufficient before, and by this . . . is made effectual" through God's mercy. Rom. ix. W.—Those who reject the first grace can blame only themselves, if they receive no more. The same grace falling on a heart better prepared by God, like seed on good soil, is more fruitful.

VER. 7. Hard. Lit. "rubbed" like a stone, or brass; attritá. H.

VER. 8. Harder. If they will not blush, thou shalt not be ashamed to lay their disorders before their eyes, though they be such as ought not to be mentioned, as becomes saints. H. See chap. xvi., and xxii. C.

VER. 12. Spirit; wind, (Hugo,) or angel, took me through the air (Prado.); or, I went willingly. S. Jer.—Commotion, like an earthquake. (Heb. Sept.) occasioned by the motion of the chariot, or the voice of the cherubim. Ver. 13.

VER. 15. The heap of new corn. It was the name of a place; in Hebrew, Tebabib, (Ch.) as the Chal. leaves it (M.) with the three Greek interpreters. C.—Thol means "a heap," and abib "new corn." H.—There was no new wheat in the fourth month, but rather in May or June. Chap. i. 1.

VER. 17. Watchman: the usual title of those placed over others. Chap. xxxiii. 2; Isa. xxi. 6. C.

VER. 20. Iniquity, for want of thy instruction (H.); or, if thou neglect to reclaim him, (C.) and he perish, or owe his conversion to another, when duty requires thee to take care of him, thou shalt answer for the possible bad consequences. Thy sin is great, whatever become of him. But if he be damned, though he must blame himself chiefly, yet the blood of his soul shall cry for vengeance more than Abel's. H.—Before him, taking away my grace in punishment of his revolt. W.—If thou neglect to attempt reclaiming him, thou shalt perish with him (S. Greg.); or if he be exposed to trial, and thou abandon him, (Vat.,) or if thou neglect to husband well the precious moments, when I open his eyes, and fill him with apprehensions of his dangerous state, I will require, &c. Orig. S. Jer.

VER. 21. Warn. It is the duty of a pastor to warn the just as well as sinners. W.—It will not suffice to do this publicly: sometimes we must go from house to house, like S. Paul, and compel those who are in the hedges to enter the marriage feast, by the most persuasive arguments. H.

VER. 25. Bands. It is uncertain whether by his order, or they supposed he 25 And thou, O son of man, behold they shall put hands upon thee, and they shall bind thee with them: and thou shalt not go forth from the midst of them.

26 And I will make thy tongue stick fast to the roof of thy mouth, and thou shalt be dumb, and not as a man that reproveth: because they are a provoking house.

27 But when I shall speak to thee, I will open thy mouth, and thou shalt say to them: Thus saith the Lord God: He that heareth, let him hear: and he that forbear-eth, let him forbear: for they are a provoking house.

CHAP. IV.

A prophetic description of the siege of Jerusalem, and the famine that shall reign there.

AND *thou, O son of man, take thee a tile, and lay it before thee: and draw upon it the plan of the city of Jerusalem.

2 And lay siege against it, and build forts, and cast up a mount, and set a camp against it, and place battering-rams round about it.

3 And take unto thee an iron pan, and set it for a wall of iron between thee and the city: and set thy face resolutely against it, and it shall be besieged, and thou shalt lay siege against it: it is a sign to the house of Israel.

4 And thou shalt sleep upon thy left side, and shalt lay the iniquities of the house of Israel upon it, according to the number of the days that thou shalt sleep upon it, and thou shalt take upon thee their iniquity.

5 And I have laid upon thee the years of their iniquity, according to the number of the days, three hundred and ninety days; and thou shalt bear the iniquity of the house of Israel.

6 And when thou hast accomplished this, thou shalt sleep again upon thy right side: and ^bthou shalt take upon thee the iniquity of the house of Juda forty days: a day for a year, yea, a day for a year I have appointed to thee.^c was deranged, as our Saviour's brethren meant to treat him. Mark iii. 21. The Chal. explains it figuratively of God's order, attaching the prophet to his service. C.

* A. M. 3409.—^b Num. xiii. 34.—^c Jer. lii. 30.

VER. 26. House. "When there is a multitude of sins, (or sinners, peccatorum.) the offenders are unworthy of being corrected by the Lord." S. Jer. C.

VER. 27. Forbear-eth. Sept. "disbelieveth, let him disbelieve." So we read, He that is unjust, let him be unjust still (Apoc. xxii. 11); which denotes the most desperate condition. H.—The man who makes good use of grace shall receive more; but he who despises the offers of God, shall be justly deprived of them in his greatest need. C.

CHAP. IV. VER. 1. Tile, pretty large. C.—Those of Italy were two feet long and one broad. Pallad.—This might be soft clay (Grot. M.); or the siege might be marked out upon it with chalk or a sharp stile. C.

VER. 2. Cast up. The ditch would be about three feet deep, and the earth being thrown up, people might approach the town with less danger. W.—The besieged were thus also prevented from going out. 4 Kings xxv. 1. Forts or towers were erected to overlook and clear the walls.—Rams. This is the first time we find them mentioned.

VER. 3. Pan, or plate, on which bread was usually baked. This was to represent the walls of the city. C.

VER. 5. Three, &c. S. Jerom says some "Vulgate," (H.) Latin, (C.) or rather incorrect Greek (H.) copies read 100, others 150. See Origen, &c. C.—The Alex. copy has the former, (H.) the Rom. edit. the latter number; and is followed by Theodoret and Maldonat. C.—But the more accurate Sept. agree with the Heb., &c. The captivity of Israel must be dated from Phacee, (4 Kings xv. 29,) to the end of the reign of Darius Memnon, who espoused Esther, and granted liberty "to all the Jews;" or rather from Manathem, (4 Kings xv. 19,) to the 28th of the same king Assuerus. Thus God's "grace, we think, and we may so speak without arrogance, has enabled us to explain this difficulty, which no other has done." S. Jer.—The chastisement of Juda must be dated from the destruction of Jerusalem under Sedecias, till Darius, the Mede, favoured the Jews about forty years afterwards. C.—S. Jerom only allows forty years to have elapsed from the first of Jehonias till the first of Cyrus. The want of an exact chronology gives rise to many such difficulties. H.—The iniquity of Israel, from Solomon to 7 And thou shalt turn thy face to the siege of Jerusalem, and thy arm shall be stretched out: and thou shalt prophesy against it.

8 Behold I have encompassed thee with bands: and thou shalt not turn thyself from one side to the other, till thou hast ended the days of thy siege.

9 And take to thee wheat and barley, and beans, and lentils, and millet, and fitches: and put them in one vessel, and make thee bread thereof, according to the number of the days that thou shalt lie upon thy side: three hundred and ninety days shalt thou eat thereof.

10 And thy meat that thou shalt eat, shall be in weight twenty staters a day: from time to time thou shalt eat it.

11 And thou shalt drink water by measure, the sixth part of a hin: from time to time thou shalt drink it.

12 And thou shalt eat it as barley-bread baked under the ashes: and thou shalt cover it, in their sight, with the dung that cometh out of a man.

13 And the Lord said: So shall the children of Israel ^deat their bread, all filthy, among the nations whither I will cast them out.

14 And I said: Ah, ah, ah, O Lord God, behold my soul hath not been defiled, and from my infancy even till now, I have not eaten any thing that died of itself, or was torn by beasts, and no unclean flesh hath entered into my mouth.

15 And he said to me: Behold I have given thee neat's dung for man's dung, and thou shalt make thy bread therewith.

16 And he said to me: Son of man: ^eBehold, I will break in pieces the staff of bread in Jerusalem: and they shall eat bread by weight, and with care: and they shall drink water by measure, and in distress.

17 So that when bread and water fail, every man may fall against his brother, and they may pine away in their iniquities.

^d Osce ix. 4.—^e Infra, v. 16, and xiv. 13.

Salmanasar, lasted 390 years; and that of Juda, under the reign of Manasses, was most abominable for the space of forty years (Tournemine); or it continued so long from the 18th of Josias till the 4th, after the city was destroyed, and the land became a desert. Usher, A. 3380 to 3420.—But how shall the reign of the virtuous Josias be included in this period? H.—The action of the prophet lying 430 days, denoted the length of the siege of Jerusalem, during which extreme scarcity should be felt, and also the captivity of the people. Some have thought that he could not remain 390 days on one side, and that all passed in spirit. But what impression would that make upon the people? He was chained down, (C.) to represent their miserable condition. H.

VER. 7. Siege, which shall be most terrible (H.); 390 days: the pillage shall last other forty. T.—So many years have the people transgressed.—Out. Heb. "naked." Thus various barbarians fight.—Prophecy, not by words, (chap. viii. 26,) but by actions. M.

VER. 10. Staters, or sicles, each being equal to 9 dwt. 2.57 gr. Eng. The hin contained 1 gal. 2 pints. Arbuthnot. H.—He had an allowance of ten ounces a day. C. T.

VER. 12. Barley, the worst or usual food of the poor. H.—Ashes, to denote hurry. C.—Cover with hot ashes, (H.) formed of dry excrements. C.—That of oxen is still used in Egypt, (Val. ep. 11,) and in some parts of England, by the poor people. Hooke.—This was more tolerable, (C.) and God agrees to substitute it. Ver. 15. Heb. "Thou shalt eat it as barley cakes, and shalt bake," (Prot.) or "hide it," &c. Sept. H.

VER. 13. Filthy. Israel was less careful to avoid uncleanness than Juds. Hence the prophet eats only during 390 days. Osce ix. 3. C.—While the city was pillaged for forty days, the prisoners would procure better food. Ver. 7. H.

VER. 14. Ah. He makes the same exclamation as Jeremias, i. 6. Heb. nee. Theodot. "Oh!" Sept. and Sym. "by no means." H.—God forbid.

VER. 16. Staff. As this supports the weak, so bread nourishes all men, (W.) particularly the bread of life. S. Jer.—Very little food, (C.) and that of a nauseous kind, (H.) would be found during the siege. C.

VER. 17. When. Prot. "they may want bread and water, and be astonished one with another, and consume away for their iniquity." H.

CHAP. V.

The judgments of God upon the Jews are foreshown under the type of the prophet's hair.

AND thou, son of-man, take thee a sharp knife, that shaveth the hair, and cause it to pass over thy head, and over thy beard; and take thee a balance to weigh in, and divide the hair.

2 A third part thou shalt burn with fire in the midst of the city, according to the fulfilling of the days of the siege; and thou shalt take a third part, and cut it in pieces with the knife all round about; and the other third part thou shalt scatter in the wind, and I will draw out the sword after them.

3 And thou shalt take thereof a small number; and thou shalt bind them in the skirt of thy cloak.

4 And thou shalt take of them again, and shalt cast them in the midst of the fire, and shalt burn them with fire; and out of it shall come forth a fire into all the house of Israel.

5 Thus saith the Lord God: This is Jerusalem; I have set her in the midst of the nations, and the countries round about her.

6 And she hath despised my judgments, so as to be more wicked than the Gentiles; and my commandments, more than the countries that are round about her; for they have cast off my judgments, and have not walked in my commandments.

7 Therefore, thus saith the Lord God: Because you have surpassed the Gentiles that are round about you, and have not walked in my commandments, and have not kept my judgments, and have not done according to the judgments of the nations that are round about you:

8 Therefore, thus saith the Lord God: Behold, I come against thee, and I myself will execute judgments in the midst of thee in the sight of the Gentiles.

9 And I will do in thee that which I have not done: and the like to which I will do no more, because of all thy abominations.

10 Therefore, the fathers shall eat the sons in the midst of thee, and the sons shall eat their fathers: and I will execute judgments in thee, and I will scatter thy whole remnant into every wind.

11 Therefore, as I live, saith the Lord God: Because thou hast violated my sanctuary with all thy offences, and with all thy abominations: I will also break thee in pieces,

* A. M. 3409.—b Zac. i. 8.

CHAP. V. VER. 1. That. Heb. "the scissors of clippers." The same term is used for clipping sheep as for cutting hair. Shaving was not probably then in use.—Beard, as in mourning or for ignominy. 2 Kings x. 4; Jer. xlvii. 5.—Balance, to show that God does nothing unjustly. C.—The hair. Lit. "them." H.—This was to be done before he lay down. He was to burn, cut, and divide the hair as the siege represented on the tile advanced, to denote that some should perish in the city by famine, others by the sword, while a few should be scattered among the nations: yet of these a small number should be gathered round Godolias, and perish with him, or in Egypt, &c., and the rest be thence led captive to Babylon.

VER. 2. Third. Sept. and Theod. read, "a fourth," as also ver. 12, (C.) thus assigning half to be burnt by death (pestilence) and famine. The other half of the people falls a prey to the sword and to captivity. The pestilence, famine, and the sword, were the three usual scourges left to David's choice, (2 Kings xxiv.) which here destroy each a fourth part, while the rest become captives. Yet even of this third or fourth part, many engage in civil broils, and perish.—Take. Sept. add here, "a fourth part; and shalt burn it in the midst of it; and a fourth thou shalt cut," &c. H.—He was thus to deal with a part of the hair during 390 days, (M.) or at the end of them. R. Salom.

VER. 5. Midst, distinguished above the rest. C.

and my eye shall not spare, and I will not have any pity.

12 A third part of thee shall die with the pestilence, and shall be consumed with famine in the midst of thee: and a third part of thee shall fall by the sword round about thee: and a third part of thee will I scatter into every wind, and I will draw out a sword after them.

13 And I will accomplish my fury, and will cause my indignation to rest upon them, and I will be comforted; and they shall know, that I the Lord have spoken it in my zeal, when I shall have accomplished my indignation in them.

14 And I will make thee desolate, and a reproach among the nations that are round about thee, in the sight of every one that passeth by.

15 And thou shalt be a reproach, and a scoff, an example, and an astonishment amongst the nations that are round about thee, when I shall have executed judgments in thee in anger, and in indignation, and in wrathful rebukes.

16 I the Lord have spoken it: When I shall send upon them the grievous arrows of famine, which shall bring death, and which I will send to destroy you; and I will gather together famine against you, and I will break among you the staff of bread.

17 And I will send in upon you famine, and evil beasts, unto utter destruction: and pestilence, and blood shall pass through thee, and I will bring in the sword upon thee. I, the Lord, have spoken it.

CHAP. VI.

The punishment of Israel for their idolatry: a remnant shall be blessed.

AND the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 Son of man, set thy face towards the mountains of Israel, and prophesy against them,

3 And say: Ye mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord God: Thus saith the Lord God to the mountains, and to the hills, and to the rocks, and the valleys: Behold, I will bring upon you the sword, and I will destroy your high places,

4 And I will throw down your altars, and your idols shall be broken in pieces: and I will cast down your slain before your idols.

5 And I will lay the dead carcasses of the children of Israel before your idols: and I will scatter your bones round about your altars,

6 In all your dwelling-places. The cities shall be laid

* Supra, iv. 16; Infra, xiv. 13.—d A. M. 3410.—e Infra, xxxvi. 2.

VER. 7. Surpassed in numbers, (Sym.) or rather in wickedness. Chal. C.—Sept. "because you have been incited by the," &c. H.—Judgments. You have been less attached to my service than the Gentiles have been to their idols. Some think that not is here superfluous, as it is omitted chap. xi. 12. But it is wrong to imitate the Gentiles, and worse to surpass them in crimes.

VER. 10. Fathers. This is not specified in history. Famine prevailed, 4 Kings xxv. 3; and we find something similar, Lam. iv. 10. C. Bar. ii. W.—It is probable, therefore, that these threats were realized. Theod. Deut. xxviii. 53.—Scatter. Lit. "winnow." H.—The Jewish nation was never again all together in the promised land.

VER. 13. Comforted, or revenged. Chap. xxiv. 14; Isa. i. 24.

VER. 14. And a. Sept. "and thy daughters (dependences. C.) round," &c. H.

VER. 15. Scoff. Lit. "blasphemy;" which is here used improperly, to denote derision. W.

VER. 16. Arrows; inclemency of the seasons, &c., which bring on famine. M. CHAP. VI. VER. 2. Mountains, where idols were chiefly adored. Here their votaries find death. W.—Israel, including all God's people, as the sacred writers make no distinction (C.) after the destruction of Samaria.

VER. 4. Idols. Prot. marg. "sun-images," as ver. 6. The sun was much worshipped. Chap. viii. 16. H.

waste, and the high places shall be thrown down, and destroyed, and your altars shall be abolished, and shall be broken in pieces; and your idols shall be no more, and your temples shall be destroyed, and your works shall be defaced.

7 And the slain shall fall in the midst of you; and you shall know that I am the Lord.

8 And I will leave in you some that shall escape the sword among the nations, when I shall have scattered you through the countries.

9 And they that are saved of you shall remember me amongst the nations to which they are carried captives: because I have broken their heart that was faithless, and revolted from me: and their eyes that went a fornicating after their idols: and they shall be displeased with themselves, because of the evils which they have committed in all their abominations.

10 And they shall know that I, the Lord, have not spoken in vain that I would do this evil to them.

11 Thus saith the Lord God: Strike with thy hand, and stamp with thy foot, and say: Alas, for all the abominations of the evils of the house of Israel: for they shall fall by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence.

12 He that is far off, shall die of the pestilence: and he that is near, shall fall by the sword: and he that remaineth, and is besieged, shall die by the famine: and I will accomplish my indignation upon them.

13 And you shall know that I am the Lord, when your slain shall be amongst your idols, round about your altars, in every high hill, and on all the tops of mountains, and under every woody tree, and under every thick oak, the place where they burnt sweet-smelling frankincense to all their idols.

14 And I will stretch forth my hand upon them: and I will make the land desolate and abandoned from the desert of Deblatha, in all their dwelling-places, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

CHAP. VII.

The final desolation of Israel, from which few shall escape.

AND the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 And thou son of man, thus saith the Lord God to the land of Israel: The end is come, the end is come upon the four quarters of the land.

3 Now is an end come upon thee, and I will send my wrath upon thee, and I will judge thee according to thy ways: and I will set all thy abominations against thee.

4 And my eye shall not spare thee, and I will show thee no pity: but I will lay thy ways upon thee, and thy abominations shall be in the midst of thee: and you shall know that I am the Lord.

* A. M. 3410.—b Isa. xv. 2; Jer. xlviii. 37.

VER. 11. Foot, through indignation or pity. C.

CHAP. VII. VER. 2. Israel, or Judea, in all its parts. W.—In five or six years' time all shall be destroyed.

VER. 5. One. A second shall not be necessary. Nah. i. 9. C.

VER. 7. Destruction (contritio). S. Jerom reads "contraction," as also ver. 10. Prot. "the morning." H.—Chal. "the reign" C.—Heb. etspire, is variously rendered. G.—Joy. Heb. "echo or cry" of people in the vintage.

VER. 10. Budded; figurative expressions, denoting a speedy vengeance. C.—Chal. "the reign is open, the ruler has flourished, the wicked hath appeared." In this reign of Nabuchodonosor ye shall be chastised. H.

5 Thus saith the Lord God: One affliction, behold an affliction is come.

6 An end is come, the end is come, it hath awaked against thee: behold it is come.

7 Destruction is come upon thee that dwellest in the land: the time is come, the day of slaughter is near, and not of the joy of mountains.

8 Now very shortly I will pour out my wrath upon thee, and I will accomplish my anger in thee, and I will judge thee according to thy ways, and I will lay upon thee all thy crimes.

9 And my eye shall not spare, neither will I show mercy: but I will lay thy ways upon thee, and thy abominations shall be in the midst of thee: and you shall know that I am the Lord that strike.

10 Behold the day, behold it is come: destruction is gone forth, the rod hath blossomed, pride hath budded.

11 Iniquity is risen up into a rod of impiety: nothing of them shall remain, nor of their people, nor of the noise of them: and there shall be no rest among them.

12 The time is come, the day is at hand: let not the buyer rejoice, nor the seller mourn, for wrath is upon all the people thereof.

13 For the seller shall not return to that which he hath sold, although their life be yet among the living. For the vision which regardeth all the multitude thereof, shall not go back: neither shall man be strengthened in the iniquity of his life.

14 Blow the trumpet, let all be made ready, yet there is none to go to the battle: for my wrath shall be upon all the people thereof.

15 The sword without, and the pestilence and the famine within: he that is in the field, shall die by the sword; and they that are in the city, shall be devoured by the pestilence and the famine.

16 And such of them as shall flee, shall escape: and they shall be in the mountains like doves of the valleys, all of them trembling, every one for his iniquity.

17 All hands shall be made feeble, and all knees shall run with water.

18 And they shall gird themselves with hair-cloth, and fear shall cover them, and shame shall be upon every face, and baldness upon all their heads.

19 Their silver shall be cast forth, and their gold shall become a dunghill. Their silver and their gold shall not be able to deliver them in the day of the wrath of the Lord. They shall not satisfy their soul, and their bellies shall not be filled: because it hath been the stumbling-block of their iniquity.

20 And they have turned the ornament of their jewels into pride, and have made of it the images of their

* Prov. xi. 4; Soph. i. 18; Eccl. v. 10, and 13.

VER. 13. Sold, as in the year of jubilee. Lev. xxv. 25. C.—Now there shall be no recovery. W.—They shall be driven from the land.—Although. By supplying the former negation, (C.) we may render "Nor," &c., (H.) which seems better. C.—It may also mean, "those who are now alive" shall witness these things. H.—Back. It is not a mere threat.

VER. 16. Doves, not daring to vent their complaints. C.

VER. 18. Heads. They cut their hair in times of penance and of mourning.

VER. 19. Iniquity. Riches have fostered their passions: they will not now procure food or liberty. Soph. i. 18. C.

VER. 20. And. Prot. "As for the beauty of his ornament, he set it in majesty:

abominations, and idols; therefore, I have made it an uncleanness to them.

21 And I will give it in the hands of strangers for spoil, and to the wicked of the earth for a prey, and they shall defile it.

22 And I will turn away my face from them, and they shall violate my secret place: and robbers shall enter into it, and defile it.

23 Make a shutting up: for the land is full of the judgment of blood, and the city is full of iniquity.

24 And I will bring the worst of the nations, and they shall possess their houses: and I will make the pride of the mighty to cease, and they shall possess their sanctuary.

25 When distress cometh upon them, they will seek for peace, and there shall be none.

26 Trouble shall come upon trouble, and rumour upon rumour, and they shall seek a vision of the prophet; and the law shall perish from the priest, and counsel from the ancients.

27 The king shall mourn, and the prince shall be clothed with sorrow, and the hands of the people of the land shall be troubled. I will do to them according to their way, and will judge them according to their judgments: and they shall know that I am the Lord.

CHAP. VIII.

The prophet sees, in a vision, the abominations committed in Jerusalem, which determine the Lord to spare them no longer.

AND ^ait came to pass in the sixth year, in the sixth month, in the fifth day of the month, as I sat in my house, and the ancients of Juda sat before me, that the hand of the Lord God fell there upon me.

2 And I saw, and behold a likeness as the appearance of fire: from the appearance of his loins, and downward, fire: and from his loins, and upward, as the appearance of brightness, as the appearance of amber.

3 And the likeness of a hand was put forth, and took me by a lock of my head: and the spirit lifted me up between the earth and the heaven, and brought me in the vision of God into Jerusalem, near the inner gate, that looked towards the north, where was set the idol of jealousy to provoke to jealousy.

4 And behold the glory of the God of Israel was there, according to the vision which I had seen in the plain.

5 And he said to me: Son of man, lift up thy eyes towards the way of the north. And I lifted up my eyes towards the way of the north: and behold on the north but they made the," &c. The sacred ornaments of the temple, appointed by God, (H.) have been converted into idols, and shall be carried to Babylon. Ver. 21. C.

^a A. M. 3410.

VER. 22. Secret: the inward sanctuary, the holy of holies. Ch.

VER. 23. Shutting up. Heb. "chain," for imprisonment and captivity. Ch.

VER. 26. Ancients. Priests shall afford no consolation, nor counsellors any advice. They shall be all confounded. C.—During the captivity, a few only were found to give instruction. Mal. ii. W.

CHAP. VIII. VER. 1. Sixth of the prophet's captivity, (C.) in August, A. 3411. Usher.—He had rested on his left or right side, whenever he slept during 430 days, and on the following had this vision. W.—He was stationed in spirit at the northern gate leading to the court of the priests, and beheld the glory of God and the idol of jealousy. He saw the people, men and women, adoring idols, and priests worshipping the sun. Chap. ix. God rests on the gate of the temple, and orders a man to sign those who were to live, and six others to destroy the rest. The prophet prays. Chap. x. God orders the man clothed in linen to take coals from the cherubim, and sprinkle them through the city. The throne goes to receive the Lord. Chap. xi. Pzechiel prophesies against many at the eastern gate; and God informs him that the former captives shall return, but that the wicked at Jerusalem side of the gate of the altar the idol of jealousy in the very entry.

6 And he said to me: Son of man, dost thou see, thinkest thou, what these are doing, the great abominations that the house of Israel committeth here, that I should depart far off from my sanctuary? and turn thee yet again, and thou shalt see greater abominations.

7 And he brought me into the door of the court: and I saw, and behold a hole in the wall.

8 And he said to me: Son of man, dig in the wall. And when I had digged in the wall, behold a door.

9 And he said to me: Go in, and see the wicked abominations which they commit here.

10 And I went in and saw, and behold every form of creeping things, and of living creatures, the abomination, and all the idols of the house of Israel were painted on the wall all round about.

11 And seventy men of the ancients of the house of Israel, and Jezonias, the son of Saaphan, stood in the midst of them, that stood before the pictures: and every one had a censer in his hand: and a cloud of smoke went up from the incense.

12 And he said to me: Surely thou seest, O son of man, what the ancients of the house of Israel do in the dark, every one in private in his chamber: for they say: The Lord seeth us not, the Lord hath forsaken the earth.

13 And he said to me: If thou turn thee again, thou shalt see greater abominations which these commit.

14 And he brought me in by the door of the gate of the Lord's house, which looked to the north: and behold women sat there mourning for Adonis.

15 And he said to me: Surely thou hast seen, O son of man: but turn thee again, and thou shalt see greater abominations than these.

16 And he brought me into the inner court of the house of the Lord: and behold at the door of the temple of the Lord, between the porch and the altar, were about five and twenty men, having their backs towards the temple of the Lord, and their faces to the east: and they adored towards the rising of the sun.

17 And he said to me: Surely thou hast seen, O son of man: Is this a light thing to the house of Juda, that they should commit these abominations which they have committed here: because they have filled the land with iniquity, and have turned to provoke me to anger? and behold they put a branch to their nose.

^b Dan. xiv. 35.

shall perish. His chariot then rests on the mountain to the east of the city. Thus his reasons for punishing the people become evident.

VER. 3. Lock, like Ilabacue (Dan. xiv. 35); or by a bandage, on which parts of the law were written. Heb. C.

VER. 10. About. This was the council-chamber. Jer. xxvi. 10.

VER. 14. Adonis, the favourite of Venus, slain by a wild boar, as feigned by the heathen poets, and which being here represented by an idol, is lamented by the female worshippers of that goddess. In Heb. the name is Tammuz, (Ch.) which means "concealed," as Adonis signifies "my lord." This idol, which the Egyptians called Osiris, was placed in a coffin, and bewailed till it was pretended he was come to life, when rejoicings took place.

VER. 16. Men. Twelve priests and as many Levites officiated daily. The high priest made the twenty-fifth. 1 Par. xxiv.—Sun. They prayed to God, turning their faces to the west: but here they despise him, and adore the sun. Job xxxi. 26. C.

VER. 17. Nose, to hide their faces respectfully, (C.) when they look at the sun rising. H.—It may signify, Heb. "they threw their instruments down before their faces," like the twenty-four elders, Apoc. v. 8. C.

18 Therefore I also will deal with them in my wrath: my eyes shall not spare them, neither will I show mercy: and when they shall cry to my ears with a loud voice, I will not hear them.

CHAP. IX.

All are ordered to be destroyed that are not marked in their foreheads. God will not be entreated for them.

AND^a he cried in my ears with a loud voice, saying: The visitations of the city are at hand, and every one hath a destroying weapon in his hand.

2 And behold six men came from the way of the upper gate, which looketh to the north: and each one had his weapon of destruction in his hand: and there was one man in the midst of them clothed with linen, with a writer's inkhorn at his reins: and they went in, and stood by the brazen altar.

3 And the glory of the Lord of Israel went up from the cherub, upon which he was, to the threshold of the house: and he called to the man that was clothed with linen, and had a writer's inkhorn at his loins.

4 And the Lord said to him: Go through the midst of the city, through the midst of Jerusalem:^b and mark Thau upon the foreheads of the men that sigh, and mourn for all the abominations that are committed in the midst thereof.

5 And to the others he said in my hearing: Go ye after him through the city, and strike: let not your eye spare, nor be ye moved with pity.

6 Utterly destroy old and young, maidens, children, and women: but upon whomsoever you shall see Thau, kill him not, and begin ye at my sanctuary. So they began at the ancient men, who were before the house.

7 And he said to them: Defile the house, and fill the courts with the slain: go ye forth. And they went forth, and slew them that were in the city.

8 And the slaughter being ended, I was left: and I fell upon my face, and crying, I said: Alas, alas, alas, O Lord God, wilt thou then destroy all the remnant of Israel, by pouring out thy fury upon Jerusalem?

9 And he said to me: The iniquity of the house of Israel, and of Juda, is exceedingly great, and the land is filled with blood, and the city is filled with perverseness: for they have said: The Lord hath forsaken the earth, and the Lord seeth not.

10 Therefore neither shall my eye spare, nor will I have pity: I will requite their way upon their head.

^a A. M. 3410.—^b Exod. xii. 7; Apoc. vii. 3.

CHAP. IX. VER. 2. Upper, leading to the court of the priests. These were six angels, representing the army coming from Babylon. The seventh was an angel of peace. C.

VER. 4. Mark Thau. Thau, or Tau, is the last letter in the Hebrew alphabet, and signifies a sign or a mark: which is the reason why some translators render this place, set a mark, or mark a mark, without specifying what this mark was. But S. Jerom, and other interpreters, conclude it was the form of the letter thau, which, in the ancient Hebrew character, was the form of a cross. Ch.—Of this many inscriptions still extant bear witness. Montfaucon.—The virtuous would be discriminated from the guilty, as if they were marked. C.—The door-posts of the Hebrews were stained with blood, in Egypt, to show that all should be redeemed by that of Christ; and here those who shall be saved receive the mark of his cross. This sign has always been held in veneration among Christians, (W.) and used in conferring baptism, consecrating the blessed Eucharist, &c. S. Chrys. hom. 55, in Matt. and 84, in John. S. Aug. tr. 118, in John, Ser. 101, de Temp., &c.—It appeared to Constantine with this inscription, "In this conquer" (Eus. Vit. i. 22): and again over Jerusalem (S. Cyr. ep. ad Constantium); and will be borne before Christ, at his last coming, (Matt. xxiv.) to the joy of those who have performed 11 And behold the man that was clothed with linen, that had the inkhorn at his back, returned the word, saying: I have done as thou hast commanded me.

CHAP. X.

Fire is taken from the midst of the wheels under the cherubims, and scatters over the city. A description of the cherubims.

AND^c I saw, and behold in the firmament that was over the heads of the cherubims, there appeared over them as it were the sapphire-stone, as the appearance of the likeness of a throne.

2 And he spoke to the man that was clothed with linen, and said: Go in between the wheels that are under the cherubims, and fill thy hand with the coals of fire that are between the cherubims, and pour them out upon the city. And he went in, in my sight:

3 And the cherubims stood on the right side of the house, when the man went in, and a cloud filled the inner court.

4 And the glory of the Lord was lifted up from above the cherub to the threshold of the house: and the house was filled with the cloud, and the court was filled with the brightness of the glory of the Lord.

5 And the sound of the wings of the cherubims was heard even to the outward court, as the voice of God Almighty speaking.

6 And when he had commanded the man that was clothed with linen, saying: Take fire from the midst of the wheels that are between the cherubims: he went in and stood beside the wheel.

7 And one cherub stretched out his arm from the midst of the cherubims to the fire that was between the cherubims: and he took, and put it into the hands of him that was clothed with linen: who took it and went forth.

8 And there appeared in the cherubims the likeness of a man's hand under their wings.

9 And I saw, and behold there were four wheels by the cherubims: one wheel by one cherub, and another wheel by another cherub: and the appearance of the wheels was to the sight like the chrysolite-stone:

10 And as to their appearance, all four were alike: as if a wheel were in the midst of a wheel:

11 And when they went, they went by four ways: and they turned not when they went: but to the place, whither they first turned, the rest also followed, and did not turn back.

12 And their whole body, and their necks, and their

^c A. M. 3410.

their baptismal promises, and to the confusion (W.) of the enemies of the cross of Christ. H.

VER. 6. Sanctuary. Aquila, "temple," or people (C.) consecrated to my service, (Sept. T.) particularly (C.) the twenty-five idolaters, the ancients and women. C. Chap. viii. 16.

CHAP. X. VER. 1. Throne. It was a sky-blue crystal or sapphire colour, (chap. i. 22, 26,) and was now empty. Chap. i. The Lord spoke from the temple door. VER. 4. H.

VER. 3. Right, south of the priests' court.

VER. 4. Lifted up, before chap. ix. 3. C.—A man seemed to be on the throne (W.) or rather over the door of the holy place.

VER. 11. By four ways. That is, by any of the four ways, forward, backward, to the right, or to the left. Ch. W.

VER. 12. Wheels. These, as well as (H.) the cherubim, (Theod.,) were full of eyes. C.

VER. 13. Voluble. That is, rolling wheels; galgal, (Ch.) which means "rolling" (H.): or "he said to the wheels, Turn round about." Theodor.

VER. 14. Cherub, or "ox." All four seem to have had the resemblance of hands, and their wings, and the circles were full of eyes, round about the four wheels.

13 And these wheels he called voluble, in my hearing.

14 And every one had four faces: one face was the face of a cherub, and the second face, the face of a man: and in the third was the face of a lion: and in the fourth the face of an eagle.

15 And the cherubims were lifted up: this is the living creature that I had seen by the river Chobar.

16 And when the cherubims went, the wheels also went by them: and when the cherubims lifted up their wings, to mount up from the earth, the wheels staid not behind, but were by them.

17 When they stood, these stood: and when they were lifted up, these were lifted up: for the spirit of life was in them.

18 And the glory of the Lord went forth from the threshold of the temple: and stood over the cherubims.

19 And the cherubims lifting up their wings, were raised from the earth before me: and as they went out, the wheels also followed: and it stood in the entry of the east gate of the house of the Lord: and the glory of the God of Israel was over them.

20 *This is the living creature, which I saw under the God of Israel by the river Chobar: and I understood that they were cherubims.

21 Each one had four faces, and each one had four wings: and the likeness of a man's hand was under their wings.

22 And as to the likeness of their faces, they were the same faces which I had seen by the river Chobar, and their looks, and the impulse of every one to go straight forward.

CHAP. XI.

*A prophecy against the presumptuous assurance of the great ones. * A remnant shall be saved, and receive a new spirit and a new heart.*

AND the spirit lifted me up, and brought me into the east gate of the house of the Lord, which looketh towards the rising of the sun: and behold in the entry of the gate five and twenty men: and I saw in the midst of them Jezonias, the son of Azur, and Pheltias, the son of Banaias, princes of the people.

2 And he said to me: Son of man, these are the men that study iniquity, and frame a wicked counsel in this city,

3 Saying: Were not houses lately built? This city is the cauldron, and we the flesh.

* Supra, i. 1, and 3.

man, but one more than the rest, which had respectively the appearance rather of an ox, a lion, or an eagle (W.); or the ox was predominant in all, as both the head and feet were of it (C.); which, however, does not constitute the greatest part. Chap. i. 5. H.

VER. 15. Creature. What I saw, was properly called cherubim. Charab, in Syr., means "to labour" (Spencer); or cherubim may imply any composed and unusual figure, or "mixture." Exod. xxv. 18. C.

VER. 19. East gate, leading from the city to the court of the people. C.

CHAP. XI. VER. 1. Me. The prophet in Chaldea saw in spirit what was doing at Jerusalem W.

VER. 3. Built, &c. These men despised the predictions and threats of the prophets; who declared to them from God, that the city should be destroyed and the inhabitants carried into captivity: and they made use of this kind of argument against the prophets, that the city, so far from being like to be destroyed, had lately been augmented by the building of new houses; from whence they further inferred, by way of a proverb, using the similitude of a cauldron, out of which the flesh is not taken till it is thoroughly boiled and fit to be eaten, that they should not be carried away out of their city, but there end their days in peace. Ch.

4 Therefore prophesy against them, prophesy, thou son of man.

5 And the Spirit of the Lord fell upon me, and said to me: Speak: Thus saith the Lord: Thus have you spoken, O house of Israel, for I know the thoughts of your heart.

6 You have killed a great many in this city, and you have filled the streets thereof with the slain.

7 Therefore thus saith the Lord God: Your slain, whom you have laid in the midst thereof, they are the flesh, and this is the cauldron: and I will bring you forth out of the midst thereof.

8 You have feared the sword, and I will bring the sword upon you, saith the Lord God.

9 And I will cast you out of the midst thereof, and I will deliver you into the hand of the enemies, and I will execute judgments upon you.

10 You shall fall by the sword: I will judge you in the borders of Israel, and you shall know that I am the Lord.

11 This shall not be as a cauldron to you, and you shall not be as flesh in the midst thereof: I will judge you in the borders of Israel.

12 And you shall know that I am the Lord: because you have not walked in my commandments, and have not done my judgments, but you have done according to the judgments of the nations that are round about you.

13 And it came to pass, when I prophesied, that Pheltias, the son of Banaias, died: and I fell down upon my face, and cried with a loud voice, and said: Alas, alas, O Lord God: wilt thou make an end of all the remnant of Israel.

14 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

15 Son of man, thy brethren, thy brethren, thy kinsmen, and all the house of Israel, all they to whom the inhabitants of Jerusalem have said: Get ye far from the Lord, the land is given in possession to us.

16 Therefore thus saith the Lord God: Because I have removed them far off among the Gentiles, and because I have scattered them among the countries, I will be to them a little sanctuary in the countries whither they are come.

17 Therefore, speak to them: Thus saith the Lord God: I will gather you from among the peoples, and assemble you out of the countries wherein you are scattered, and I will give you the land of Israel.

18 And they shall go in thither, and shall take away

b A. M. 3410.

VER. 6. Slain, under Manasses, &c. T.

VER. 7. Cauldron. I will explain the prediction, which you turn to ridicule. Those whom you have slain are like the flesh (C.) boiled. H.—But you shall be treated still worse, being led captives and slain. C.

VER. 10. Israel. They pretended that they should die in peace in Jerusalem. God tells them it should not be so, but that they should be judged and condemned, and fall by the sword in the borders of Israel; viz. in Reblatha, in the land of Emath, where all their chief men were put to death by order of Nabuchodonosor. 4 Kings xxv., and Jer. lii. 10, 27. Ch.

VER. 13. Pheltias, the prince, (ver. 1. H.) or false prophet, whose death Ezechiel does not bewail, but fears the great destruction of the people (W. M.); though, if Pheltias died impenitent, his death might justly call for tears. H.

VER. 15. Thy brethren, &c. He speaks of them that had been carried away captives before, who were despised by them that remained in Jerusalem; but, as the prophet here declares to them from God, should be in a more happy condition than they, and after some time return from their captivity. Ch.

VER. 16. A little. Heb. "for a short time a sanctuary," or temple. They shall find all things in me. C.

all the scandals, and all the abominations thereof from thence.

19 *And I will give them one heart, and will put a new spirit in their bowels: and I will take away the stony heart out of their flesh, and will give them a heart of flesh:

20 That they may walk in my commandments, and keep my judgments, and do them: and that they may be my people, and I may be their God.

21 But as for them whose heart walketh after their scandals and abominations, I will lay their way upon their head, saith the Lord God.

22 And the cherubims lifted up their wings, and the wheels with them: and the glory of the God of Israel was over them.

23 And the glory of the Lord went up from the midst of the city, and stood over the mount that is on the east side of the city.

24 And the spirit lifted me up, and brought me into Chaldea to them of the captivity, in vision, by the spirit of God: and the vision which I had seen was taken up from me.

25 And I spoke to them of the captivity all the words of the Lord, which he had shown me.

CHAP. XII.

The prophet foresheweth, by signs, the captivity of Sedecias, and the desolation of the people: all which shall quickly come to pass.

AND ^bthe word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 Son of man, thou dwellest in the midst of a provoking house: who have eyes to see, and see not: and ears to hear, and hear not: for they are a provoking house.

3 Thou, therefore, O son of man, prepare thee all necessities for removing, and remove by day in their sight: and thou shalt remove out of thy place to another place in their sight, if so be they will regard it: for they are a provoking house.

4 And thou shalt bring forth thy furniture as the furniture of one that is removing by day in their sight: and thou shalt go forth in the evening in their presence, as one goeth forth that removeth his dwelling.

5 Dig thee a way through the wall before their eyes: and thou shalt go forth through it.

6 In their sight thou shalt be carried out upon men's shoulders, thou shalt be carried out in the dark: thou shalt cover thy face, and shalt not see the ground: for I have set thee for a sign of things to come to the house of Israel.

7 I did, therefore, as he had commanded me: I brought forth my goods by day, as the goods of one that removeth: and in the evening I digged through the wall with my hand: and I went forth in the dark, and was carried on men's shoulders in their sight.

8 And the word of the Lord came to me in the morning, saying:

9 Son of man, hath not the house of Israel, the provoking house, said to thee: What art thou doing?

10 Say to them: Thus saith the Lord God: This burden concerneth the prince that is in Jerusalem, and all the house of Israel, that are among them.

11 Say: I am a sign of things to come to you: as I have done, so shall it be done to them: they shall be removed from their dwellings, and go into captivity.

12 And the prince that is in the midst of them, shall be carried on shoulders, he shall go forth in the dark: they shall dig through the wall to bring him out: his face shall be covered, that he may not see the ground with his eyes.

13 *And I will spread my net over him, and he shall be taken in my net: and I will bring him into Babylon, into the land of the Chaldeans, and he shall not see it, and there he shall die.

14 And all that are about him, his guards, and his troops, I will scatter into every wind: and I will draw out the sword after them.

15 And they shall know that I am the Lord, when I shall have dispersed them among the nations, and scattered them in the countries.

16 And I will leave a few men of them from the sword, and from the famine, and from the pestilence: that they may declare all their wicked deeds among the nations whither they shall go: and they shall know that I am the Lord.

17 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

18 Son of man, eat thy bread in trouble: and drink thy water in hurry and sorrow.

19 And say to the people of the land: Thus saith the Lord God to them that dwell in Jerusalem, in the land of Israel: They shall eat their bread in care, and drink their water in desolation: that the land may become desolate from the multitude that is therein, for the iniquity of all that dwell therein.

20 And the cities that are now inhabited, shall be laid waste, and the land shall be desolate: and you shall know that I am the Lord.

21 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

22 Son of man, what is this proverb that you have in the land of Israel? saying: The days shall be prolonged, and every vision shall fail.

23 Say to them, therefore: Thus saith the Lord God: I will make this proverb to cease, neither shall it be any

* Jer. xxxi. 39; Infra, xxxvi. 26.

VER. 18. Scandals: idols. They relapsed no more into idolatry, (C.) as a nation, though some fell in the persecution of Epiphanes. H.

VER. 23. Mount Olivet, whence he might behold the conflagration of the city, before his ascent into heaven. M.—He leaves his habitation ^b degrees, to show how Jerusalem would be treated; and the Jews suffer after the ascension of our Saviour. C.

CHAP. XII. VER. 3. Removing. Lit. "vessels of transmigration," (H.) or bundles, (C.) and what was requisite for travelling, (W.) or in exile. H.—All this, to chap. xx., happened five years before the fall of Jerusalem. C.—See chap. viii. 1. H.

VER. 6. Be carried. Sept. S. Jerom reads, "thou shalt carry thy bundles on the shoulder," as many explain the Heb. (C.) and also ver. 7. "I bear it 220 upon my shoulder." Ver. 12. Prot. H.—Cover, to denote the blindness of Sedecias, (C.) or his attempt to disguise himself. H.—The faces of criminals were covered. Est. vii. The king and nobles escaped through a breach. Jer. xxxix. 4. C.

b A. M. 3411, A. C. 593.—Infra, xvii. 20.

VER. 10. Jerusalem. The people regarded not Jeremias. This prediction would be sent to them to confirm what he said, while it would tend to keep up the spirits of those who were in captivity. Theod. C.

VER. 13. Net, as was done in war, and to catch wild beasts. Jer. xvi. 16. C.—Not see it, because his eyes shall be put out by Nabuchodonosor. Ch. H.—The unhappy prince saw too late the true meaning. C.—He was put in a cage, like a wild beast, and conveyed blind to Babylon. S. Jer.

VER. 22. Proverb, or common saying. W.—Prolonged. They took occasion from God's long-suffering to become more wicked, (C.) and even asserted that the more a common saying in Israel: and tell them that the days are at hand, and the effect of every vision.

24 For there shall be no more any vain visions, nor doubtful divination in the midst of the children of Israel.

25 For I the Lord will speak: and what word soever I shall speak, it shall come to pass, and shall not be prolonged any more: but in your days, ye provoking house, I will speak the word, and will do it, saith the Lord God.

26 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

27 Son of man, behold the house of Israel, they that say: The vision that this man seeth, is for many days to come: and this man prophesieth of times afar off.

28 Therefore say to them: Thus saith the Lord God: Not one word of mine shall be prolonged any more: the word that I shall speak shall be accomplished, saith the Lord God

CHAP. XIII.

God declares against false prophets and prophetesses, that deceive the people with lies.

AND the word of the Lord came to me, saying:
2 Son of man, prophesy thou against the prophets of Israel that prophesy: and thou shalt say to them that prophesy out of their own heart: Hear ye the word of the Lord:

3 Thus saith the Lord God: "Woe to the foolish prophets that follow their own spirit, and see nothing.

4 Thy prophets, O Israel, were like foxes in the deserts.

5 You have not gone up to face the enemy, nor have you set up a wall for the house of Israel, to stand in battle in the day of the Lord.

6 They see vain things, and they foretell lies, saying: The Lord saith: whereas the Lord hath not sent them: and they have persisted to confirm what they have said.

7 Have you not seen a vain vision, and spoken a lying divination: and you say: The Lord saith: whereas I have not spoken.

8 Therefore thus saith the Lord God: Because you have spoken vain things, and have seen lies: therefore, behold I come against you, saith the Lord God.

9 And my hand shall be upon the prophets that see vain things, and that divine lies: they shall not be in the counsel of my people, nor shall they be written in the writing of the house of Israel, neither shall they enter into the land of Israel: and you shall know that I am the Lord God prophets told nothing but lies, (Theod.,) and spoke of events at a great distance, that they might not be detected. If what they announced came to pass, they attributed it to chance (C.); if it did not, being only conditional, they ridiculed this idea as a mere subterfuge. H.—Every vision, on this head. Ver. 28. Many events were revealed that regarded the times of Christ. Dan. ix., &c. H.

* A. M. 3411.

CHAP. XIII. VER. 2. Heart; what pleases them, without being inspired. There were always such impostors. H.

VER. 5. Enemy. You do not admonish sinners of their evil ways, nor strive to avert God's indignation, in imitation of true prophets, (Exod. xxxii. 10.) but rather undermine the wall like foxes.

VER. 9. Upon, to punish.—Counsel. They shall not be consulted, or have any credit.

VER. 10. Straw. Iniquity ruins my people, (C.) and these do not endeavour to reform their manners. H.—They ought to demolish such a work, and not daub it over. Theod.—One false prophet builds, and another strives to support his authority (Jun.); or God has given the people his law, but these people corrupt it. S. Jer 10 Because they have deceived my people, saying. Peace, and there is no peace: and the people built up a wall, and they daubed it with dirt without straw.

11 Say to them that daub without tempering, that it shall fall: for there shall be an overflowing shower, and I will cause great hailstones to fall violently from above, and a stormy wind to throw it down.

12 Behold, when the wall is fallen: shall it not be said to you: Where is the daubing wherewith you have daubed it?

13 Therefore thus saith the Lord God: Lo, I will cause a stormy wind to break forth in my indignation, and there shall be an overflowing shower in my anger: and great hailstones in my wrath to consume.

14 And I will break down the wall that you have daubed with untempered mortar: and I will make it even with the ground, and the foundation thereof shall be laid bare: and it shall fall, and shall be consumed in the midst thereof: and you shall know that I am the Lord.

15 And I will accomplish my wrath upon the wall, and upon them that daub it without tempering the mortar, and I will say to you: The wall is no more, and they that daub it are no more.

16 Even the prophets of Israel that prophesy to Jerusalem, and that see visions of peace for her: and there is no peace, saith the Lord God.

17 And thou, son of man, set thy face against the daughters of thy people that prophesy out of their own heart: and do thou prophesy against them,

18 And say: Thus saith the Lord God: Woe to them that sew cushions under every elbow: and make pillows for the heads of persons of every age to catch souls: and when they caught the souls of my people, they gave life to their souls.

19 And they violated me among my people, for a handful of barley, and a piece of bread, to kill souls which should not die, and to save souls alive which should not live, telling lies to my people that believe lies.

20 Therefore thus saith the Lord God: Behold I declare against your cushions, wherewith you catch flying souls: and I will tear them off from your arms; and I will let go the souls that you catch, the souls that should fly.

21 And I will tear your pillows, and will deliver my people out of your hand, neither shall they be any more in your hands to be a prey: and you shall know that I am the Lord.

b Jer. xxiii. 1; Infra, xiv. 9, and xxxiv. 2.

VER. 11. Hailstones. Lit. "stones," like those which fell on the enemies of Josue, (x. 11. H.) or thunderbolts. Grot. C.—Such will be the fate of all the buildings of the wicked. Matt. vii. 27. H.

VER. 17. Daughters: so the false prophets are styled in scorn, (Vat.,) or witches (Rabbins); though it seems rather that there were false prophetesses as well as true ones. C.

VER. 18. Cushions, by making people easy in their sins, and promising them impunity, (Ch.) by disguising the truth, or not admonishing people of their danger. Chap. iii. 17.—Pillows. Sym. "veils;" (Sept. and Kimeli,) or "nets" designed "to take" the unwary; as mospēuth may be properly rendered. Ver. 20, 21; Isa. v. 7. C.—Souls. That is, they flattered them with promises of life, peace, and security. Ch. W.

VER. 19. Violated me. That is, dishonoured and discredited me. Ch.—Prot. "and will ye pollute?" &c. H.—They employed the name of God to give credit to their lies, for the smallest advantage.—Souls, &c. That is, to sentence souls to death, which are not to die: and to promise life to them who are not to live. Ch.—They contradicted Jeremiah, who exhorted the people to surrender. C.

22 Because with lies you have made the heart of the just to mourn, whom I have not made sorrowful; and have strengthened the hands of the wicked, that he should not return from his evil way, and live.

23 Therefore, you shall not see vain things, nor divine divinations any more, and I will deliver my people out of your hand; and you shall know that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XIV.

God suffers the wicked to be deceived, in punishment of their wickedness. The evils that shall come upon them for their sins: from which they shall not be delivered by the prayers of Noe, Daniel, and Job. But a remnant shall be preserved.

AND ^asome of the ancients of Israel came to me, and sat before me.

2 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

3 Son of man, these men have placed their uncleanness in their hearts, and have set up before their face the stumbling-block of their iniquity; and shall I answer when they inquire of me?

4 Therefore, speak to them, and say to them: Thus saith the Lord God: Every man of the house of Israel, that shall place his uncleanness in his heart, and set up the stumbling-block of his iniquity before his face, and shall come to the prophet, inquiring of me by him: I the Lord will answer him, according to the multitude of his uncleannesses.

5 That the house of Israel may be caught in their own heart, with which they have departed from me through all their idols.

6 Therefore, say to the house of Israel: Thus saith the Lord God: Be converted, and depart from your idols, and turn away your faces from all your abominations.

7 For every man of the house of Israel, and every stranger among the proselytes in Israel, if he separate himself from me, and place his idols in his heart, and set the stumbling-block of his iniquity before his face, and come to the prophet to inquire of me by him: I the Lord will answer him by myself.

8 And I will set my face against that man, and will make him an example, and a proverb, and will cut him off from the midst of my people; and you shall know that I am the Lord.

9 ^bAnd when the prophet shall err, and speak a word, I the Lord have deceived that prophet; and I will stretch forth my hand upon him, and will cut him off from the midst of my people Israel.

10 And they shall bear their iniquity; according to the

^a A. M. 3411.—^b Supra, xlii. 3.

VER. 22. Just. Jeremias, or any other, particularly the more simple, who were easily seduced and filled with apprehensions. You shall therefore die, (ver. 23,) and your imposture shall be made known. C.

CHAP. XIV. VER. 3. Uncleanness. That is, their filthy idols, upon which they have set their hearts: and which are a stumbling-block to their souls. Ch.

VER. 4. According. Heb. "in (C.) the multitude of his idols." H.—I will still disclose the truth (Chal.); or a false prophet is here spoken of, whom God will suffer to deceive those who wish to be deluded. He will not have his own prophets to speak an untruth. See 3 Kings xxii. 10.

VER. 7. By myself, or on my own account. God does not encourage falsehood. C.

VER. 9. Err. He speaks of false prophets, answering out of their own heads, and according to their own corrupt inclinations.—Deceived, &c. God Almighty deceives false prophets, partly by withdrawing his light from them; and abandoning them to their own corrupt inclinations, which push them on to prophesy such things as are agreeable to those that consult them: and partly by disappointing iniquity of him that inquireth, so shall the iniquity of the prophet be.

11 That the house of Israel may go no more astray from me, nor be polluted with all their transgressions: but may be my people, and I may be their God, saith the Lord of hosts.

12 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

13 Son of man, when a land shall sin against me, so as to transgress grievously, I will stretch forth my hand upon it, and will break the staff of the bread thereof: and I will send famine upon it, and will destroy man and beast out of it.

14 And if these three men, Noe, Daniel, and Job, shall be in it: they shall deliver their own souls by their justice, saith the Lord of hosts.

15 And if I shall bring mischievous beasts also upon the land to waste it; and it be desolate, so that there is none that can pass because of the beasts:

16 If these three men shall be in it, as I live, saith the Lord, they shall deliver neither sons nor daughters: but they only shall be delivered, and the land shall be made desolate.

17 Or if I bring the sword upon that land, and say to the sword: Pass through the land: and I destroy man and beast out of it:

18 And these three men be in the midst thereof: as I live, saith the Lord God, they shall deliver neither sons nor daughters, but they themselves alone shall be delivered.

19 Or if I also send the pestilence upon that land, and pour out my indignation upon it in blood, to cut off from it man and beast:

20 And Noe, and Daniel, and Job, be in the midst thereof: as I live, saith the Lord God, they shall deliver neither son nor daughter: but they shall only deliver their own souls by their justice.

21 For thus saith the Lord: Although I shall send in upon Jerusalem my four grievous judgments, the sword, and the famine, and the mischievous beasts, and the pestilence, to destroy out of it man and beast:

22 Yet there shall be left in it some that shall be saved, who shall bring away their sons and daughters: behold they shall come among you, and you shall see their way, and their doings: and you shall be comforted concerning the evil that I have brought upon Jerusalem, in all things that I have brought upon it.

23 And they shall comfort you, when you shall see their ways, and their doings: and you shall know that I them, and causing all things to happen contrary to what they have said. Ch.—God permits the deception, to punish both the impostor and his hearers. W.—Thus was Balaam treated. C. Num. xxii. H.—He could do nothing of himself. S. Jer. 2 Kings xxii. 22. C.

^c Supra, iv. 16, and v. 16.

VER. 10. Be. They shall be punished alike. C.

VER. 14. ob. He and Noe were dead, yet undoubtedly interceded for the people, or their names would not here be mentioned. Jer. xv. 1. W.—When God is resolved to treat all with rigour, he will save only the just. They shall not be able to protect even their children. But Jerusalem shall not experience such severity. Ver. 21. C.—Noe could not avert the deluge, nor Job the death of his children, neither could Daniel rescue his people from captivity. S. Jer.

VER. 22. Left. Pastors will always remain to instruct God's children. W.—Doings. Their words (C.) and conduct even in captivity, will evince that they have not been punished unjustly. S. Jer.—From them you may judge what sort of men their fathers were; or, as they have been spared for their virtue, you may conclude that the rest would not have perished, if they had been innocent. H.

have not done without cause all that I have done in it, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XV.

As a vine cut down is fit for nothing but the fire: so it shall be with Jerusalem, for her sins.

AND^a the word of the Lord came to me, saying:
2 Son of man, what shall be made of the wood of the vine, out of all the trees of the woods that are among the trees of the forests?

3 Shall wood be taken of it, to do any work, or shall a pin be made of it, for any vessel to hang thereon?

4 Behold it is cast into the fire for fuel; the fire hath consumed both ends thereof, and the midst thereof is reduced to ashes: shall it be useful for any work?

5 Even when it was whole it was not fit for work, how much less, when the fire hath devoured, and consumed it, shall any work be made of it?

6 Therefore, thus saith the Lord God: As the vine-tree among the trees of the forests which I have given to the fire to be consumed, so will I deliver up the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

7 And I will set my face against them: they shall go out from fire; and fire shall consume them: and you shall know that I am the Lord, when I shall have set my face against them.

8 And I shall have made their land a wilderness, and desolate, because they have been transgressors, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XVI.

Under the figure of an unfaithful wife, God upbraids Jerusalem with her ingratitude and manifold disloyalties: but promiseth mercy by a new covenant.

AND^a the word of the Lord came to me, saying:
2 Son of man, make known to Jerusalem her abominations:

3 And thou shalt say: Thus saith the Lord God to Jerusalem: Thy root, and thy nativity is of the land of Chanaan, thy father was an Amorhite, and thy mother a Cethite.

4 And when thou wast born, in the day of thy nativity thy navel was not cut, neither wast thou washed with water for thy health, nor salted with salt, nor swaddled with clouts.

^a A. M. 3411.

5 No eye had pity on thee to do any of these things for thee, out of compassion to thee: but thou wast cast out upon the face of the earth in the abjection of thy soul, in the day that thou wast born.

6 And passing by thee, I saw that thou wast trodden under foot in thy own blood: and I said to thee when thou wast in thy blood: Live: I have said to thee: Live in thy blood.

7 I caused thee to multiply as the bud of the field: and thou didst increase and grow great, and advancedst, and camest to woman's ornament: thy breasts were fashioned, and thy hair grew: and thou wast naked, and full of confusion.

8 And I passed by thee, and saw thee: and behold thy time was the time of lovers: and I spread my garment over thee, and covered thy ignominy. And I swore to thee, and I entered into a covenant with thee, saith the Lord God: and thou becamest mine.

9 And I washed thee with water, and cleansed away thy blood from thee: and I anointed thee with oil.

10 And I clothed thee with embroidery, and shod thee with violet-coloured shoes: and I girded thee about with fine linen, and clothed thee with fine garments.

11 I decked thee also with ornaments, and put bracelets on thy hands, and a chain about thy neck.

12 And I put a jewel upon thy forehead, and ear-rings in thy ears, and a beautiful crown upon thy head.

13 And thou wast adorned with gold, and silver, and wast clothed with fine linen, and embroidered work, and many colours: thou didst eat fine flour, and honey, and oil, and wast made exceedingly beautiful: and wast advanced to be a queen.

14 And thy renown went forth among the nations for thy beauty: for thou wast perfect through my beauty, which I had put upon thee, saith the Lord God.

15 But trusting in thy beauty, thou playedst the harlot because of thy renown, and thou hast prostituted thyself to every passenger, to be his.

16 And taking of thy garments thou hast made thee high places sewed together on each side: and hast played the harlot upon them, as hath not been done before, nor shall be hereafter.

17 And thou tookest thy beautiful vessels, of my gold,

^b A. M. 3411.

CHAP. XV. VER. 2. Wood. Small branches or tendrils. The vines of that country were probably small. C.—But the prophet speaks of the small branches, which are fit only for the fire. C.—God's Church is often compared to a vine on account of its fruit, and the branches separated from her resemble the useless cuttings. S. Aug. tr. 81, in John. W.

VER. 4. Ashes. It is not even solid enough for fuel. C.—The wicked Jews shall surely suffer. Ver. 6. II.

VER. 7. From fire. If they escape one misery they shall fall into another, as the event showed. C.—They shall be thrown back into the fire. M.

CHAP. XVI. VER. 3. Cethite, or "Hethite." These two were probably the most abandoned of Chanaan. Daniel (xiii. 56) gives the infamous judges the like appellation; and Isaias (I. 10) calls the Jews princes of Sodom. C.

VER. 4. Health. Many plunged the infant in cold water to brace its nerves, (C.) or to wash it. Salt was also used to dry up the humidity and stop the pores, (S. Jer.) or it was mixed with water to harden the skin. Avicen. Gall. San. i. 7.

VER. 5. Born, as it were in Egypt. He represents the Jews as a female from her infancy, till she be advanced in years.

VER. 6. Thy blood, unwashed after being born. Ver. 4. C.—The prophet sends this admonition from Chaldea, and shows how God had selected his people from among barbarous nations, and decorated them with many privileges of the law, sacrifices, &c. W.

VER. 7. Woman's. Heb. "the ornament of ornaments:" ādīm instead of ārim in Sept. "the cities of cities," (C.) or the highest glory, being arrived at that age when decorations are most sought after.

VER. 9. Oil, used after bathing, or with perfumes. C.

VER. 10. Embroidery. Lit. "various colours." H.—But this is the import. Psal. xlv. 10.—Violet, or dark blue, appropriated to princes.—Linen, or cotton. Exod. xxv.; Prov. xxxi. 24. C.—Fine. Lit. "thin." Heb. Mossi, (H.) "silken." Jarchi. Pagn., &c. Silk was used much later at Rome, (C.) and was reprobated as not covering the body sufficiently.

VER. 12. Forehead. Lit. "mouth." Heb. "nose." H.—Women wore rings where spectacles are placed, and had others hung at their noses, so as to touch the mouth. People who are not acquainted with this odd custom, which is still prevalent in Africa and Asia, suppose that the ornament hung upon the forehead, as S. Jerom docs. See Gen. xxiv. 22. C.

VER. 13. Linen. Heb. mossi. Ver. 11. H.—Chal. understands these ornaments to pertain to the tabernacle, which was set up in the wilderness.—Oil, enjoying a most fertile country, (C.) and the noblest sacrifices. H.—And wast, &c. The kingdom had subsisted 1500 years. C.—Sept. omit this, for fear of giving umbrage to the Egyptians, according to S. Jerom, as if they could be ignorant of this circumstance. C.—Grabe supplies, "thou wast directed to the kingdom." H.

VER. 15. Renown, or name; thus dishonouring me, thy husband. Isa. iv. 1

VER. 16. Places: pavilions. (A. Lap. 4 Kings xvii. 30. C.) or idols stuffed, (S. Jer. Theod.) and outwardly adorned. Such might easily be procured or reand my silver, which I gave thee, and thou madest thee images of men, and hast committed fornication with them.

18 And thou tookest thy garments of divers colours, and covered them: and settest my oil and my sweet incense before them.

19 And my bread which I gave thee, the fine flour, and oil, and honey, wherewith I fed thee, thou hast set before them for a sweet odour; and it was done, saith the Lord God.

20 And thou hast taken thy sons, and thy daughters, whom thou hast borne to me: and hast sacrificed the same to them to be devoured. Is thy fornication small?

21 Thou hast sacrificed and given my children to them, consecrating them by fire.

22 And after all thy abominations, and fornications, thou hast not remembered the days of thy youth, when thou wast naked, and full of confusion, trodden under foot in thy own blood.

23 And it came to pass after all thy wickedness, (woe, woe to thee, saith the Lord God,)

24 That thou didst also build thee a common stew, and madest thee a brothel house in every street.

25 At every head of the way thou hast set up a sign of thy prostitution: and hast made thy beauty to be abominable: and hast prostituted thyself to every one that passed by, and hast multiplied thy fornications.

26 And thou hast committed fornication with the Egyptians thy neighbours, men of large bodies, and hast multiplied thy fornications to provoke me.

27 Behold, I will stretch out my hand upon thee, and will take away thy justification: and I will deliver thee up to the will of the daughters of the Philistines that hate thee, that are ashamed of thy wicked way.

28 Thou hast also committed fornication with the Assyrians, because thou wast not yet satisfied: and after thou hadst played the harlot with them, even so thou wast not contented.

29 Thou hast also multiplied thy fornications in the land of Chanaan with the Chaldeans: and neither so wast thou satisfied.

30 Wherein shall I cleanse thy heart, saith the Lord God: seeing thou dost all these the works of a shameless prostitute?

31 Because thou hast built thy brothel house at the head of every way, and thou hast made thy high place in every street: and wast not as a harlot that by disdain enhanceth her price, 32 But as an adulteress, that bringeth in strangers over her husband.

33 Gifts are given to all harlots: but thou hast given hire to all thy lovers, and thou hast given them gifts to come to thee from every side, to commit fornication with thee.

34 And it hath happened in thee contrary to the custom of women in thy fornications, and after thee there shall be no such fornication: for in that thou gavest rewards, and didst not take rewards, the contrary hath been done in thee.

35 Therefore, O harlot, hear the word of the Lord.

36 Thus saith the Lord God: Because thy money hath been poured out, and thy shame discovered through thy fornications with thy lovers, and with the idols of thy abominations by the blood of thy children whom thou gavest them:

37 Behold, I will gather together all thy lovers with whom thou hast taken pleasure, and all whom thou hast loved, with all whom thou hast hated: and I will gather them together against thee on every side, and will discover thy shame in their sight, and they shall see all thy nakedness.

38 *And I will judge thee as adulteresses, and they that shed blood are judged: and I will give thee blood in fury and jealousy.

39 And I will deliver thee into their hands, and they shall destroy thy brothel house, and throw down thy stews: and they shall strip thee of thy garments, and shall take away the vessels of thy beauty: and leave thee naked, and full of disgrace.

40 And they shall bring upon thee a multitude, and they shall stone thee with stones, and slay thee with their swords.

41 *And they shall burn thy houses with fire, and shall execute judgments upon thee in the sight of many women: and thou shalt cease from fornication, and shalt give no hire any more.

42 And my indignation shall rest in thee: and my jealousy shall depart from thee, and I will cease and be angry no more.

43 Because thou hast not remembered the days of thy youth, but hast provoked me in all these things: wherefore I also have turned thy ways upon thy head, saith the

* Infra, xxiii. 10.

b 4 Kings xxv. 9.

moved. 1 Kings xix. 13.—Hereafter, with impunity. The Jews were guilty of greater ingratitude than other nations.

VER. 17. My gold, for the temple, or thy most precious ornaments, which were sacrificed to gratify thy lubricity, (C.) or to form the golden calf, &c. Exod. xxxii. H.

VER. 18. Oil, or perfume, which no man was allowed to use. Exod. xxx. 9, 38.

VER. 20. Thy sons: so he calls them to show his indignation, though he acknowledges them for his, (ver. 21,) to enhance the crime. C.

VER. 25. Sign; altars of idols. H.—She makes no secret of her apostasy. The Greeks and Romans marked the houses of prostitutes, that honest men might avoid them. "They deemed the profession of such a crime a sufficient punishment to repress impure women." Tacit. Annal.

VER. 26. Bodies. Lit. "flesh." H. Juv. ix. 34. M.

VER. 27. Justification; law, &c. Heb. "thy right," or allowance. Exod. xxi. 16.—Hate thee. To be abandoned to the will of a rival, is most dreadful for a woman. The Jews were subjected to the nations which they had despised, as they are still to Christians. Even other less favoured idolaters were astonished (C.) at their apostasy. H.

VER. 31. Price, before she will yield, (H.) or who follow such practices for a livelihood. C.

VER. 34. Fornication unpunished, or comparable with thine. Ver. 16. H.

VER. 36. Money. Lit. "brass," (H.) to adorn idols. C.

VER. 37. Nakedness. Friends and enemies (H.) saw that idols afforded no protection. Chap. vi. 3; Jer. xiii. 26.

VER. 38. Judge; punish thee by stoning to death. Lev. xx. 10. The walls of the Jews were battered to the ground.

VER. 41. Women: nations assembled against Jerusalem.

VER. 42. No more. I will entirely repudiate thee, so as to observe thy conduct no longer (C.) with the eye of a husband. H.—This is the most terrible effect of God's wrath, (C.) when the sinner is left to himself. Osee iv. 14. S. Jerom.

VER. 43. Youth, when thou wast destitute, (ver. 4,) and more grateful for my favours. Jer. ii. 2.—Head. I have punished thee, yet not as thy deeds require. H.

Lord God, and I have not done according to thy wicked deeds in all thy abominations.

44 Behold, every one that useth a common proverb, shall use this against thee, saying: As the mother was, so also is her daughter.

45 Thou art thy mother's daughter, that cast off her husband, and her children: and thou art the sister of thy sisters, who cast off their husbands, and their children: your mother was a Cethite, and your father an Amorhite.

46 And thy elder sister is Samaria, she and her daughters that dwell at thy left hand: and thy younger sister that dwelleth at thy right hand is Sodom, and her daughters.

47 But neither hast thou walked in their ways, nor hast thou done a little less than they according to their wickedness: thou hast done almost more wicked things than they in all thy ways.

48 As I live, saith the Lord God, thy sister Sodom herself, and her daughters, have not done as thou hast done, and thy daughters.

49 Behold this was the iniquity of Sodom thy sister, pride, fulness of bread, and abundance, and the idleness of her, and of her daughters: and they did not put forth their hand to the needy, and to the poor.

50 And they were lifted up, and committed abominations before me: and I took them away as thou hast seen.

51 And Samaria committed not half thy sins: but thou hast surpassed them with thy crimes, and hast justified thy sisters by all thy abominations which thou hast done.

52 Therefore do thou also bear thy confusion, thou that hast surpassed thy sisters with thy sins, doing more wickedly than they: for they are justified above thee: therefore be thou also confounded, and bear thy shame, thou that hast justified thy sisters.

53 And I will bring back and restore them by bringing back Sodom with her daughters, and by bringing back Samaria, and her daughters: and I will bring those that return of thee in the midst of them.

54 That thou mayest bear thy shame, and mayest be confounded in all that thou hast done, comforting them.

^a Gen. xix. 24.

VER. 44. Daughter. They too commonly (C.) follow bad parents. Juv. vi. 239, and xiv. 25.—Jerusalem is more wicked than the Cethite, (H.) her mother. Ver. 3. C.

VER. 46. Right; southward.—Sodom. The city was more ancient than Jerusalem. Hence it here designates Ruben, (H.) and the Jews east of the Jordan (Prado); or rather Moab and Ammon, (ver. 55. C.) and the rest of the Gentiles. H.

VER. 47. Ways, but hast done even worse.—Almost. He seems to diminish their crimes, (C.) as if it could hardly be believed that Jerusalem should be more abandoned. Heb. and Sept. "that would be but little: yea, thou hast done more," &c. H.

VER. 49. Sodom, &c. That is, these were the steps by which the Sodomites came to fall into those abominations for which they were destroyed. For pride, gnatyony, and idleness, are the high roads to all kinds of lust; especially when they are accompanied with a neglect of the works of mercy. Ch.

VER. 50. Seen. This would seem to allude to the Israelites beyond the Jordan, who had been led away into Assyria. The Moabites, &c. beheld the downfall of Jerusalem, (H.) and were treated in like manner, only five years later. Jos. Jer. xlviii., &c.

VER. 51. Justified, as they are comparatively innocent. S. Aug. c. Faust. xxii. 61.—They had not the like advantages, (Matt. xi. 23.) nor the example of others' punishment to open their eyes. Thou hast pleaded, for or with them, and hast lost thy cause, C.

VER. 53. Back, &c. This relates to the conversion of the Gentiles out of all nations, and many of the Jews, to the Church of Christ. Ch. C.—And restore.

55 And thy sister Sodom and her daughters shall return to their ancient state: and Samaria and her daughters shall return to their ancient state: and thou and thy daughters shall return to your ancient state.

56 And Sodom, thy sister, was not heard of in thy mouth, in the day of thy pride, 57 Before thy malice was laid open: as it is at this time, making thee a reproach of the daughters of Syria, and of all the daughters of Palestine round about thee, that encompass thee on all sides.

58 Thou hast borne thy wickedness, and thy disgrace, saith the Lord God.

59 For thus saith the Lord God: I will deal with thee, as thou hast despised the oath, in breaking the covenant:

60 And I will remember my covenant with thee in the days of thy youth: and I will establish with thee an everlasting covenant.

61 And thou shalt remember thy ways, and be ashamed: when thou shalt receive thy sisters, thy elder and thy younger: and I will give them to thee for daughters, but not by thy covenant.

62 And I will establish my covenant with thee: and thou shalt know that I am the Lord, 63 That thou mayest remember, and be confounded, and mayest no more open thy mouth because of thy confusion, when I shall be pacified towards thee for all that thou hast done, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XVII.

The parable of the two eagles and the vine. A promise of the cedar of Christ and his Church.

AND ^bthe word of the Lord came to me, saying: 2 Son of man, put forth a riddle, and speak a parable to the house of Israel,

3 And say: Thus saith the Lord God: A large eagle with great wings, long-limbed, full of feathers, and of variety, came to Libanus, and took away the marrow of the cedar.

4 He cropped off the top of the twigs thereof: and carried it away into the land of Chanaan, and he set it in a city of merchants.

5 And he took of the seed of the land, and put it in

^b A. M. 3411.

Heb. "the captivity, even the captivity of Sodom." Sept. "I will turn away their aversions, &c." &c. I will give them a more docile spirit. H.

VER. 55. Ancient state. That is, to their former state of liberty, and their ancient possessions. In the spiritual sense, to the true liberty and the happy inheritance of the children of God, through faith in Christ. Ch.—All will be treated alike, whether Jew or Gentile. H.—When Sodom or the Gentiles shall have embraced the gospel, then also will the Jews. Rom. x. W.

VER. 59. Covenant at Sinai, or under Josue, viii.; Exod. xix. 7.

VER. 60. Covenant. After punishing thee I will fulfil my promises, as we see was done (C.) after the captivity, and (H.) in the Christian Church. C.

VER. 61. Daughters. The countries were conquered by the Machabees. All nations embrace the gospel.—Covenant. It is broken. I will, out of pity, re-establish it, or a better, to last for ever under Christ, free from the servitude and fear of the old law. C.

CHAP. XVII. VER. 2. Riddle. Thus the prophets and Christ often delivered their doctrine. C.

VER. 3. A large eagle. Nabuchodonosor, king of Babylon. Ch.—The multitude of his subjects, and his rapid and cruel conquests, are designated. C.—He spoils the vineyard of Jerusalem, notwithstanding the Jews had applied to another eagle, the king of Egypt. Ver. 12. W.—Libanus. That is, Jerusalem (Ch.); or invaded the country, (C.) entering by Libanus. H.—Cedar. King Jechonias, (Ch.) and his nobles, (4 Kings xxiv. 11,) with the most precious effects.

VER. 4. Twigs. The young king and his officers, who had scarcely got established. C.—Chanaan. This name, which signifies traffic, is not taken here for Palestine, but for Chaldea; and the city of merchants here mentioned is Babylon. Ch.

the ground for seed, that it might take a firm root over many waters: he planted it on the surface of the earth.

6 And it sprung up and grew into a spreading vine of low stature, and the branches thereof looked towards him: and the roots thereof were under him. So it became a vine, and grew into branches, and shot forth sprigs.

7 And there was another large eagle, with great wings, and many feathers: and behold this vine, bending as it were her roots towards him, stretched forth her branches to him, that he might water it by the furrows of her plantation.

8 It was planted in a good ground upon many waters, that it might bring forth branches, and bear fruit, that it might become a large vine

9 Say thou: Thus saith the Lord God: Shall it prosper then? shall he not pull up the roots thereof, and strip off its fruit, and dry up all the branches it hath shot forth, and make it wither: and this without a strong arm, or many people, to pluck it up by the root?

10 Behold, it is planted: shall it prosper then? shall it not be dried up when the burning wind shall touch it, and shall it not wither in the furrows where it grew?

11 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

12 Say to the provoking house: Know you not what these things mean? Tell them: Behold, the king of Babylon cometh to Jerusalem: and he shall take away the king and the princes thereof, and carry them with him to Babylon.

13 And he shall take one of the king's seed, and make a covenant with him, and take an oath of him. Yea, and he shall take away the mighty men of the land.

14 That it may be a low kingdom, and not lift itself up, but keep his covenant and observe it.

15 But he hath revolted from him and sent ambassadors to Egypt, that it might give him horses and much people. And shall he that hath done thus prosper, or be saved? and shall he escape that hath broken the covenant?

16 As I live, saith the Lord God: In the place where the king dwelleth that made him king, whose oath he hath made void, and whose covenant he broke, even in the midst of Babylon shall he die.

17 And not with a great army, nor with much people shall Pharaoh fight against him: when he shall cast up mounds, and build forts, to cut off many souls.

18 For he hath despised the oath, breaking his cove-

* Supra, xii. 13; Infra, xxxii. 3.

VER. 5. Land. Sedecias, whom he made king. Ch.—He was brother of the de-throned king, and had every prospect of reigning long, if he had proved faithful. C.

VER. 6. Towards him. Nabuchodonosor, to whom Sedecias swore allegiance. Ch.

VER. 7. Eagle. The king of Egypt, (Ch.) Vaphres, who came at the request of Sedecias to oppose the Chaldeans, but was routed; and they returned to the siege of Jerusalem. Jer. xxxvii. 4.

VER. 12. Shall, or "hath taken," &c., (Ch.) as also (ver. 13) Sedecias was seized five years after. Chap. viii. 1.

VER. 20. Net. Chap. xii. 13. C.—Judge, punish. H.—His sentence was pronounced at Reblatha. 4 Kings xxv. 7. C.

VER. 22. Cedar. Of the royal stock of David.—Twig. Jesus Christ, whom God hath planted in Mount Zion, that is, the high mountain of his Church, to which all nations flow. Ch.—The Jews in vain apply this to Zorobabel or to the Machabees. Their power was never great enough to verify these expressions. C.—But Christ has united in his Church all the birds, or those who have strength enough to raise themselves above earthly things. S. Jer. Theod., &c nant, and behold he hath given his hand: and having done all these things, he shall not escape.

19 Therefore thus saith the Lord God: As I live, I will lay upon his head the oath he hath despised, and the covenant he hath broken.

20 "And I will spread my net over him, and he shall be taken in my net: and I will bring him into Babylon, and will judge him there for the transgression by which he hath despised me.

21 And all his fugitives with all his bands shall fall by the sword: and the residue shall be scattered into every wind: and you shall know that I the Lord have spoken.

22 Thus saith the Lord God: I myself will take of the marrow of the high cedar, and will set it: I will crop off a tender twig from the top of the branches thereof, and I will plant it on a mountain high and eminent.

23 On the high mountains of Israel will I plant it, and it shall shoot forth into branches, and shall bear fruit, and it shall become a great cedar: and all birds shall dwell under it, and every fowl shall make its nest under the shadow of the branches thereof.

24 And all the trees of the country shall know that I the Lord have brought down the high tree, and exalted the low tree: and have dried up the green tree, and have caused the dry tree to flourish. I the Lord have spoken, and have done it.

CHAP. XVIII.

One man shall not bear the sins of another, but every one his own: if a wicked man truly repent, he shall be saved: and if a just man leave his justice, he shall perish.

AND^b the word of the Lord came to me, saying: What is the meaning

2 That you use among you this parable as a proverb in the land of Israel, saying: "The fathers have eaten sour grapes, and the teeth of the children are set on edge?"

3 As I live, saith the Lord God, this parable shall be no more to you a proverb in Israel.

4 Behold all souls are mine: as the soul of the father, so also the soul of the son is mine: the soul that sinneth, the same shall die.

5 And if a man be just, and do judgment and justice.

6 And hath not eaten upon the mountains, nor lifted up his eyes to the idols of the house of Israel: and hath not defiled his neighbour's wife, nor come near to a menstruous woman:

7 And hath not wronged any man: but hath restored

^b A. M. 3411.—Jer. xxxi. 29.

VER. 24. High and green denote Sedecias; low and dry, Jechonias, who was exalted at Babylon, while his rival was hurled down from his present high estate. The prophets speak of that as past, which God has decreed. See Jer. xxii. 30. C.

CHAP. XVIII. VER. 2. Edge. They knew that he often visited the sins of the fathers upon the children, (Exod. xx. 5, and xxiv. 5. C.) when they also hated him, (H.) and that many had suffered for their parents' faults, like those of Saul, David, &c. C.—God seems to allow that the complaints had hitherto had some grounds, (Jer. xxxi.) but that they should be removed after the captivity, and still more effectually by the death of Christ, who came to redeem sinners, and rejected none. By baptism he cancels original sin, the sour grape, and those who cannot receive it are not innocent. C.

VER. 6. Mountains: of the sacrifices there offered to idols (Ch.); or partaken in their usual feasts. Some irregularly worshipped God in these high places, under many pious kings; and were tolerated, (C.) though condemned for so doing. H.

VER. 7. Wronged. Lit. "contristated." H.—Heb. "oppressed" malicious.

the pledge to the debtor, hath taken nothing away by violence: *hath given his bread to the hungry, and hath covered the naked with a garment:

8 Hath not lent upon usury, nor taken any increase: hath withdrawn his hand from iniquity, and hath executed true judgment between man and man:

9 Hath walked in my commandments, and kept my judgments, to do truth: he is just, he shall surely live, saith the Lord God.

10 And if he beget a son that is a robber, a shedder of blood, and that hath done some one of these things:

11 Though he doth not all these things, but that eateth upon the mountains, and that defileth his neighbour's wife:

12 That grieveth the needy and the poor, that taketh away by violence, that restoreth not the pledge, and that lifteth up his eyes to idols, that committeth abomination:

13 That giveth upon usury, and that taketh an increase: shall such a one live? he shall not live. Seeing he hath done all these detestable things, he shall surely die, his blood shall be upon him.

14 But if he beget a son, who seeing all his father's sins, which he hath done, is afraid, and shall not do the like to them:

15 That hath not eaten upon the mountains, nor lifted up his eyes to the idols of the house of Israel, and hath not defiled his neighbour's wife:

16 And hath not grieved any man, nor withholden the pledge, nor taken away with violence, but hath given his bread to the hungry, and covered the naked with a garment:

17 That hath turned away his hand from injuring the poor, hath not taken usury and increase, but hath executed my judgments, and hath walked in my commandments: this man shall not die for the iniquity of his father, but living he shall live.

18 As for his father: because he oppressed, and offered violence to his brother, and wrought evil in the midst of his people, behold he is dead in his own iniquity.

19 And you say: Why hath not the son borne the iniquity of his father? Verily, because the son hath wrought judgment and justice, hath kept all my commandments, and done them, living he shall live.

20 *The soul that sinneth, the same shall die: the son shall not bear the iniquity of the father, and the father shall not bear the iniquity of the son: the justice of the just shall be upon him, and the wickedness of the wicked shall be upon him.

21 But if the wicked do penance for all his sins which he hath committed, and keep all my commandments, and do judgment, and justice, living he shall live, and shall not die.

22 I will not remember all his iniquities that he hath done: in his justice which he hath wrought, he shall live.

23 *Is it my will that a sinner should die, saith the Lord God, and not that he should be converted from his ways, and live?

24 But if the just man turn himself away from his justice, and do iniquity according to all the abominations which the wicked man useth to work, shall he live? all his justices which he had done, shall not be remembered: in the prevarication, by which he hath prevaricated, and in his sin, which he hath committed, in them he shall die.

25 And you have said: "The way of the Lord is not right. Hear ye, therefore, O house of Israel: Is it my way that is not right, and are not rather your ways perverse?"

26 For when the just turneth himself away from his justice, and committeth iniquity, he shall die therein: in the injustice that he hath wrought he shall die.

27 And when the wicked turneth himself away from his wickedness, which he hath wrought, and doth judgment, and justice: he shall save his soul alive.

28 Because he considereth and turneth away himself from all his iniquities which he hath wrought, he shall surely live, and not die.

29 And the children of Israel say: The way of the Lord is not right. Are not my ways right, O house of Israel, and are not rather your ways perverse?

30 Therefore will I judge every man according to his ways, O house of Israel, saith the Lord God. *Be converted, and do penance for all your iniquities: and iniquity shall not be your ruin.

31 Cast away from you all your transgressions, by which you have transgressed, and make to yourselves a new heart, and a new spirit: and why will you die, O house of Israel?

32 *For I desire not the death of him that dieth, saith the Lord God, return ye, and live.

CHAP. XIX.

The parable of the young lions: and of the vine that is wasted.

MOREOVER *take thou up a lamentation for the princes of Israel,

2 And say: Why did thy mother, the lioness, lie down among the lions, and bring up her whelps in the midst of young lions?

3 And she brought out one of her whelps, and he became a lion: and he learned to catch the prey, and to devour men.

* Isa. lviii. 7; Matt. xxv. 35.—b Deut. xxiv. 16; 4 Kings xiv. 6; 2 Par. xxv. 4.—c Infra, xxi. 23, and xxxiii. 11; 2 Pet. iii. 9.

VER. 8. *Increase more than what he lent, on any pretext. S. Jer. C.

VER. 10. Robber. Heb. "breaker;" rule and lawless. Sept. "pestilent."

VER. 12. Abomination. This refers to the woman, (ver. 6,) or to idolatry.

VER. 13. Him. He alone is answerable, and shall suffer.

VER. 20. Sinmeth. God never acted otherwise, though the Jews seem to have thought so. Temporal afflictions are the source of merit, and generally fall to the share of the saints, particularly under the new law.

VER. 23. Will. God sincerely wishes that the sinner should be converted. If he refuse grace, it is only in punishment of former transgressions. S. Aug. Ep. 217.—He will antecedently their salvation, (1 Tim. ii. 4,) though he has a consequent will to punish them, as they speak in the schools, because they themselves will not be saved. Sanct. C.—God's absolute will is always fulfilled, not that which is cond Infra, xxxiii. 20.—e Matt. iii. 2; Luke iii. 3.—f Supra, xviii. 23; Infra, xxxiii. 11; 2 Pet. iii. 9.—g A. M. 3411.

ditional. S. Jo. Dam. (Fide ii. 29,) S. Tho. p. 1. q. 19. a. 6.—He does enough by offering his graces and the death of Christ, to show that his will is sincere; though by a consequent will his justice punishes the impenitent. W.

VER. 27. Alive. Mortal sin destroys that life of grace. C.

VER. 31. New. We can do no good of ourselves: but we are admonished or our free-will, that we may do what we can, and ask for grace. Trid. Ses. vi. 5, 11: James i. 5, and 2 Cor. iii. 5. S. Aug., &c. C.

CHAP. XIX. VER. 2. Lioness; Jerusalem, (Ch.) which made alliances with the lions, or nations. C.

VER. 5. Whelps; Joachaz, or Sellum, (Ch.) who reigned only three months, like his brother Jechouias. H.

VER. 4. But. Heb. "he was taken in their pit," (Prot. 11.) as also ver. 8

4 And the nations heard of him, and took him, but not without receiving wounds: and they brought him in chains into the land of Egypt.

5 But she seeing herself weakened, and that her hope was lost, took one of her young lions, and set him up for a lion.

6 And he went up and down among the lions, and became a lion: and he learned to catch the prey, and to devour men.

7 He learned to make widows, and to lay waste their cities: and the land became desolate, and the fulness thereof, by the noise of his roaring.

8 And the nations came together against him on every side out of the provinces, and they spread their net over him, in their wounds he was taken.

9 And they put him into a cage, they brought him in chains to the king of Babylon: and they cast him into prison, that his voice should no more be heard upon the mountains of Israel.

10 Thy mother is like a vine in thy blood, planted by the water: her fruit and her branches have grown out of many waters.

11 And she had strong rods, to make sceptres for them that bear rule, and her stature was exalted among the branches: and she saw her height in the multitude of her branches.

12 But she was plucked up in wrath, and cast on the ground: and the burning wind dried up her fruit: her strong rods are withered and dried up: the fire hath devoured her.

13 And now she is transplanted into the desert, in a land not passable, and dry.

14 And a fire is gone out from a rod of her branches, which hath devoured her fruit: so that she now hath no strong rod, to be a sceptre of rulers. This is a lamentation, and it shall be for a lamentation.

CHAP. XX.

God refuses to answer the ancients of Israel, inquiring by the prophet: but by him setteth his benefits before their eyes, and their heinous sins: threatening yet greater punishments, but still mixt with mercy.

AND it came to pass in the seventh year, in the fifth month, the tenth day of the month, there came men of the ancients of Israel to inquire of the Lord; and they sat before me.

2 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

^a Osee xlii. 15.—^b A. M. 3411.—^c Lev. xviii. 5; Rom. x. 5.

Sept. "in his or their corruption." We do not read that Joachaz fought, (C.) though this passage insinuates as much. Sanct. 4 Kings xxlii. 30, &c.

VER. 5. Lions: Joakim. Ch.

VER. 9. Nations: rovers of Chaldea, Syria, &c. 4 Kings xxiv. 2. W.—Wounds. Heb. "pit." He was besieged, (4 Kings xxiv. 11. C.) and gave himself up. H.

VER. 10. Blood. She has given birth to many kings. M.—The original may be inaccurate, and perhaps should be "a vine-tree or branch" (C.): cormoc instead of badmoc. Sept. read crimun, "like a rose-flower," planted, &c. H.—He speaks of Sedecias more obscurely. C.

VER. 11. Rods. The king had many children, and confided in them, but they were slain.

VER. 13. Dry; unfit for vine-trees. He speaks of the prison of Babylon. C.

VER. 14. Fire. Ismahel, who slew Godolias, was of the royal family. Jer. xli. &c. C.

CHAP. XX. VER. 1. Month: A. 3411, Aug. 27. Usher.—Ezekiel had prophesied in the fourth year; then was silent a year and two months, or 430 days. He opened his mouth again in the sixth year, (chap. viii. 1.) and now in the seventh year he is ordered not to answer. W

3 Son of man, speak to the ancients of Israel, and say to them: Thus saith the Lord God: Are you come to inquire of me? As I live, I will not answer you, saith the Lord God.

4 If thou judgest them, if thou judgest, O son of man, declare to them the abominations of their fathers.

5 And say to them: Thus saith the Lord God: In the day when I chose Israel, and lifted up my hand for the race of the house of Jacob: and appeared to them in the land of Egypt, and lifted up my hand for them, saying: I am the Lord your God:

6 In that day I lifted up my hand for them, to bring them out of the land of Egypt, into a land which I had provided for them, flowing with milk and honey, which excellet amongst all lands.

7 And I said to them: Let every man cast away the scandals of his eyes, and defile not yourselves with the idols of Egypt: I am the Lord your God.

8 But they provoked me, and would not hearken to me: they did not every man cast away the abominations of his eyes, neither did they forsake the idols of Egypt: and I said I would pour out my indignation upon them, and accomplish my wrath against them, in the midst of the land of Egypt.

9 But I did otherwise for my name's sake, that it might not be violated before the nations, in the midst of whom they were, and among whom I made myself known to them, to bring them out of the land of Egypt.

10 Therefore I brought them out from the land of Egypt, and brought them into the desert.

11 And I gave them my statutes, and I showed them my judgments, which if a man do, he shall live in them.

12 Moreover, I gave them also my sabbaths, to be a sign between me and them: and that they might know that I am the Lord that sanctify them.

13 But the house of Israel provoked me in the desert: they walked not in my statutes, and they cast away my judgments, which if a man do he shall live in them: and they grievously violated my sabbaths. I said, therefore, that I would pour out my indignation upon them in the desert, and would consume them.

14 But I spared them for the sake of my name, lest it should be profaned before the nations, from which I brought them out, in their sight.

15 So I lifted up my hand over them in the desert, not

^d Exod. xx. 8, and xxxi. 13; Deut. v. 12.

VER. 4. Judgeth them; or, if thou wilt enter into the cause and plead against them. Ch.—Lay before them the iniquities of their fathers, and their own, which bring on the reprobation of the greatest part.

VER. 7. Scandals, &c., (offensiones), that is, the abominations or idols, to the worship of which they were allured by their eyes. Ch.

VER. 8. Egypt. Their disorders called for such severity. But God was restrained by the dangers (C.) of blasphemy, &c., to which the faithful and idolaters would thus have been exposed. H.

VER. 11. Live, and enjoy temporal felicity, which was chiefly promised, though the faithful observers of the law would obtain an eternal reward.

VER. 12. Sign, as also to promote piety and instruction.

VER. 13. Sabbaths. We only read of one man gathering sticks, and the people manna once on those days. Exod. xv. and xvi. But Moses does not mention all. C.—Sabbath often denotes the whole law, which they transgressed; and as long as they retained an affection for idols, they could not observe the sabbaths so as to please God.

VER. 14. But. Lit. "And I did for." &c. This motive caused me to spare them. H.—I punished only the most guilty adorers of the calf, and murriners, &c. Num. xiv. 28. C.

to bring them into the land which I had given them, flowing with milk and honey, the best of all lands.

16 Because they cast off my judgments, and walked not in my statutes, and violated my sabbaths: for their heart went after idols.

17 Yet my eye spared them, so that I destroyed them not: neither did I consume them in the desert.

18 And I said to their children in the wilderness: Walk not in the statutes of your fathers, and observe not their judgments, nor be ye defiled with their idols:

19 I am the Lord your God: walk ye in my statutes, and observe my judgments, and do them.

20 And sanctify my sabbaths, that they may be a sign between me and you: and that you may know that I am the Lord your God.

21 But their children provoked me, they walked not in my commandments, nor observed my judgments, to do them: which if a man do, he shall live in them: and they violated my sabbaths: and I threatened to pour out my indignation upon them, and to accomplish my wrath in them in the desert.

22 But I turned away my hand, and wrought for my name's sake, that it might not be violated before the nations, out of which I brought them forth in their sight.

23 Again I lifted up my hand upon them in the wilderness, to disperse them among the nations, and scatter them through the countries:

24 Because they had not done my judgments, and had cast off my statutes, and had violated my sabbaths, and their eyes had been after the idols of their fathers.

25 Therefore I also gave them statutes that were not good, and judgments, in which they shall not live.

26 And I polluted them in their own gifts, when they offered all that opened the womb, for their offences: and they shall know that I am the Lord.

27 Wherefore speak to the house of Israel, O son of man, and say to them: Thus saith the Lord God: Moreover, in this also your fathers blasphemed me, when they had despised and contemned me:

28 And I had brought them into the land, for which I lifted up my hand to give it them: they saw every high hill, and every shady tree, and there they sacrificed their victims, and there they presented the provocation of their offerings, and there they set their sweet odours, and poured forth their libations.

29 And I said to them: What meaneth the high place to which you go? and the name thereof was called high-place even to this day.

VER. 23. Again, or also, H.—Four times are specified, ver. 13, 15, 21, which may allude to the adoration of the calf, the graves of concupiscence, the murmuring, and commerce with the women and idols of Moab. Exod. xxiii.; Num. x., and xiv., and xxv. C.

VER. 25. Not good. The laws and ordinances of their enemies: or those imposed upon them by that cruel tyrant the devil, to whose power they were delivered up for their sins (Ch.); which may be styled the statutes of your fathers, &c. VER. 18. H.—God is often said to do what he only permits. C.—He abandoned them to their own perversity. S. Jer. Deut. xxxii. 21, 37.—If God had spoken of the Decalogue, &c., would he say such laws were not good, after he had testified that the observers shall live in them? VER. 11. He established the ceremonial law at the same time. See Kimchi, M., &c. Chal. "I have given them up to their foolish desires. They have established bad statutes and laws, which will not give them life." This seems the best explanation. C.

VER. 26. I polluted them, &c. That is, I gave them up to such blindness, in punishment of their offences, as to pollute themselves with the blood of all their 30 Wherefore say to the house of Israel: Thus saith the Lord God: Verily, you are defiled in the way of your fathers, and you commit fornication with their abominations.

31 And you defile yourselves with all your idols unto this day, in the offering of your gifts, when you make your children pass through the fire: and shall I answer you, O house of Israel? As I live, saith the Lord God, I will not answer you.

32 Neither shall the thought of your mind come to pass, by which you say: We will be as the Gentiles, and as the families of the earth, to worship stocks and stones.

33 As I live, saith the Lord God, I will reign over you with a strong hand, and with a stretched out arm, and with fury poured out.

34 And I will bring you out from the people, and I will gather you out of the countries, in which you are scattered, I will reign over you with a strong hand, and with a stretched out arm, and with fury poured out.

35 And I will bring you into the wilderness of people, and there will I plead with you face to face.

36 As I pleaded against your fathers in the desert of the land of Egypt: even so will I judge you, saith the Lord God.

37 And I will make you subject to my sceptre, and will bring you into the bands of the covenant.

38 And I will pick out from among you the transgressors, and the wicked, and will bring them out of the land where they sojourn, and they shall not enter into the land of Israel; and you shall know that I am the Lord.

39 And as for you, O house of Israel: thus saith the Lord God: Walk ye every one after your idols, and serve them. But if in this also you hear me not, but defile my holy name any more with your gifts, and with your idols.

40 In my holy mountain, in the high mountain of Israel, saith the Lord God, there shall all the house of Israel serve me: all of them, I say, in the land in which they shall please me, and there will I require your first-fruits, and the chief of your tithes, with all your sanctifications.

41 I will accept of you for an odour of sweetness, when I shall have brought you out from the people, and shall have gathered you out of the lands in which you are scattered, and I will be sanctified in you in the sight of the nations.

42 And you shall know that I am the Lord, when I shall have brought you into the land of Israel, into the first-born, whom they offered up to their idols in compliance with their wicked devices. Ch.

VER. 29. Called high. Heb. "Bamah," (H.) out of contempt. C.

VER. 35. Of people. That is, a desert, in which there are no people (Ch.); meaning Judea, to which they should return.

VER. 37. Covenant of the gospel, by the powerful attractions of grace. Luke xiv. 24; John vi. 69, and vii. 46, and 2 Cor. x. 4.

VER. 39. Walk, &c. It is not an allowance, much less a commandment, to serve idols; but a figure of speech, by which God would have them to understand, that if they would walk after their idols, they must not pretend to serve him at the same time: for that he would by no means suffer such a mixture of worship. Ch. S. Jer.

VER. 40. Mountain. The foregoing verse, to make the sense complete, must be understood so as to condemn and reject that mixture of worship which the Jews then followed. In this verse God promises to the true Israelites, especially to those of the Christian Church, that they shall serve him in another manner in his holy mountain, the spiritual Sion, and shall be accepted of by him. Ch.

land for which I lifted up my hand to give it to your fathers.

43 And there you shall remember your ways, and all your wicked doings with which you have been defiled: and you shall be displeased with yourselves in your own sight, for all your wicked deeds which you committed.

44 And you shall know that I am the Lord, when I shall have done well by you for my own name's sake, and not according to your evil ways, nor according to your wicked deeds, O house of Israel, saith the Lord God.

45 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

46 Son of man, set thy face against the way of the south, and drop towards the south, and prophesy against the forest of the south field.

47 And say to the south forest: Hear the word of the Lord: Thus saith the Lord God: Behold I will kindle a fire in thee, and will burn in thee every green tree, and every dry tree: the flame of the fire shall not be quenched: and every face shall be burned in it, from the south even to the north.

48 And all flesh shall see, that I the Lord have kindled it, and it shall not be quenched.

49 And I said: Ah, ah, ah, O Lord God: they say of me: Doth not this man speak by parables?

CHAP. XXI.

The destruction of Jerusalem by the sword is further described. The ruin also of the Ammonites is foreshown. And finally Babylon, the destroyer of others, shall be destroyed.

AND the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 Son of man, set thy face toward Jerusalem, and let thy speech flow towards the holy places, and prophesy against the land of Israel:

3 And say to the land of Israel: Thus saith the Lord God: Behold I come against thee, and I will draw forth my sword out of its sheath, and will cut off in thee the just, and the wicked.

4 And forasmuch as I have cut off in thee the just, and the wicked, therefore shall my sword go forth out of its sheath against all flesh, from the south even to the north.

5 That all flesh may know that I the Lord have drawn my sword out of its sheath, not to be turned back.

6 And thou, son of man, mourn with the breaking of thy loins, and with bitterness sigh before them.

7 And when they shall say to thee: Why mournest thou? thou shalt say: For that which I hear: because it cometh, and every heart shall melt, and all hands shall be made feeble, and every spirit shall faint, and water shall run down every knee: behold it cometh, and it shall be done, saith the Lord God.

8 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

9 Son of man, prophesy, and say: Thus saith the Lord God: Say: The sword, the sword is sharpened, and furbished.

10 It is sharpened to kill victims: it is furbished that it may glitter: thou removest the sceptre of my son, thou hast cut down every tree.

11 And I have given it to be furbished, that it may be handled: this sword is sharpened, and it is furbished, that it may be in the hand of the slayer.

12 Cry, and howl, O son of man, for this sword is upon my people, it is upon all the princes of Israel, that are fled: they are delivered up to the sword with my people; strike, therefore, upon thy thigh,

13 Because it is tried: and that, when it shall overthrow the sceptre, and it shall not be, saith the Lord God:

14 Thou, therefore, O son of man, prophesy, and strike thy hands together, and let the sword be doubled, and let the sword of the slain be tripled: this is the sword of a great slaughter, that maketh them stand amazed,

15 And languish in heart, and that multiplieth ruins. In all their gates I have set the dread of the sharp sword, the sword that is furbished to glitter, that is made ready for slaughter.

16 Be thou sharpened, go to the right hand, or to the left, which way soever thou hast a mind to set thy face.

17 And I will clap my hands together, and will satisfy my inclination: I the Lord have spoken.

18 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

19 And thou, son of man, set thee two ways, for the sword of the king of Babylon to come: both shall come forth out of one land: and with his hand he shall draw lots, he shall consult at the head of the way of the city.

20 Thou shalt make a way, that the sword may come to Rabbath of the children of Ammon, and to Juda, unto Jerusalem, the strong city.

21 For the king of Babylon stood in the highway, at the head of two ways, seeking divination, shuffling arrows: he inquired of the idols, and consulted entrails.

22 On his right hand was the divination for Jerusalem, to set battering-rams, to open the mouth in slaughter, to lift up the voice in howling, to set engines against the gates, to cast up a mount, to build forts.

• A. M. 3411.

VER. 43. Committed. This is a picture of the converts to Christianity. C.

VER. 46. Of the south. Jerusalem lay towards the south of Babylon, where the prophet then was, and is here called the forest of the south field, and is threatened with utter desolation. Ch. See chap. xxi. C.

VER. 47. Burned, with war and famine. Jer. xxi. 14. C.—North, from Egypt to Mesopotamia. Theod.—Nabuchodonosor invaded those parts. H.

CHAP. XXI. VER. 3. Just. But had not God declared the contrary, chap. xviii. ? The time was not yet arrived; or, he rescued the just from death, though he permitted them to experience the other common miseries. C.—He preserved them from eternal death. E.—The just often means those who are so only in appearance. Chap. xvi. 51. C.

VER. 10. My son. He speaks, according to S. Jerom, to the sword of Nabuchodonosor; which was about to remove the sceptre of Israel, whom God here calls his son. Ch.—This title belonged to all Israel. Exod. iv. 22. W.—The Heb. seems to be corrupt, and we may stick to the Vulg., or to the Sept., (C.) which has, (9) "Sword be sharp, and raging to slay victims; be sharp to shine, ready for destruction; cut, reduce to nothing, remove all wood" H.—Syr. "be ready to scatter the race of my son," &c. Heb. "Where shall we rejoice, sceptre of my son, thou sword which despisest every tree?" C.

VER. 12. Fled, with Sedecias, by night.—Thigh, in surprise and grief. Ver. 17.

VER. 13. God. Perhaps you will say it is only a trial: but what will be your sentiments, when you behold the king and his people led away? C.—Prot. "Because it is a trial; and what if the sword condemn even the rod? it shall be no more, saith." H.

VER. 14. Tripled. Let the war be very bloody. Nabuchodonosor often invaded Judea. C.—He raised the siege, but returned. Vat.

VER. 20. Rabbath. They had formed a league with Sedecias, and Nabuchodonosor thought of punishing them first. H.—But they joined his forces. Jer. xii. 6, and xxvii. 3.

VER. 21. Shuffling. Heb. "polishing." Syr., &c., "shooting an arrow upwards." He was undetermined which to attack first, and perhaps wrote Jerusalem on one and Rabbath on another arrow (S. Jer., &c. C.); or which way the arrow fell the army followed. fl.

VER. 22. Right of one going by Thapsacus and Damascus, and not through 23 And he shall be in their eyes as one consulting the oracle in vain, and imitating the leisure of sabbaths: but he will call to remembrance the iniquity, that they may be taken.

24 Therefore thus saith the Lord God: Because you have remembered your iniquity, and have discovered your prevarications, and your sins have appeared in all your devices: because, I say, you have remembered, you shall be taken with the hand.

25 But thou profane wicked prince of Israel, whose day is come that hath been appointed in the time of iniquity:

26 Thus saith the Lord God: Remove the diadem, take off the crown: is it not this that hath exalted the low one, and brought down him that was high?

27 I will show it to be iniquity, iniquity, iniquity: but this was not done, till he came to whom judgment belongeth, and I will give it him.

28 *And thou, son of man, prophesy, and say: Thus saith the Lord God concerning the children of Ammon, and concerning their reproach, and thou shalt say: O sword, O sword, come out of the scabbard to kill, be furnished to destroy, and to glitter.

29 Whilst they see vain things in thy regard, and they divine lies; to bring thee upon the necks of the wicked that are wounded, whose appointed day is come in the time of iniquity.

30 Return into thy sheath. I will judge thee in the place wherein thou wast created, in the land of thy nativity.

31 And I will pour out upon thee my indignation: in the fire of my rage will I blow upon thee, and will give thee into the hands of men that are brutish and contrive thy destruction.

32 Thou shalt be fuel for the fire, thy blood shall be in the midst of the land, thou shalt be forgotten; for I, the Lord, have spoken it.

CHAP. XXII.

The general corruption of the inhabitants of Jerusalem: for which God will consume them as dross in his furnace.

AND the word of the Lord came to me,^b saying:
2 And thou, son of man, dost thou not judge, dost thou not judge the city of blood?

3 And thou shalt show her all her abominations, and shalt say: Thus saith the Lord God: This is the city that sheddeth blood in the midst of her, that her time may the Desert Arabia, for thus Rabbath would have been to the right. God permitted this divination to succeed in his wrath. The devil pushed the Chaldeans forward, lest the Jews might be converted. C.—If they had attacked Rabbath first, they would probably have succeeded, as they did five years after. But the time of vengeance was come for Jerusalem, (H.) and they were directed to assault it. W.

^a Gen. xlix. 10.—^b A. M. 3411.

VER. 25. Thou profane, &c. He speaks to king Sedecias, who had broken his oath, and was otherwise a wicked prince. Ch.

VER. 26. Diadem (cydarim). Some think this was the ornament of the high priest, (S. Jer. Chal.,) denoting that he should perish as well as the king. H.—This. The royal crown of Juda had exalted Sedecias from a private state and condition to the sovereign power, as the loss of it brought down Jechonias, &c. Ch.

VER. 27. Iniquity. Or, I will overturn it, viz. the crown of Juda, for the manifold iniquities of the kings: but it shall not be utterly removed till Christ come, whose right it is; and who shall reign in the spiritual house of Jacob (that is, in his Church) for evermore. Ch.—Heb. also, “sideways.” Thou shalt no more wear the tiara erect, (H.) like a king (Hesyc.); or rather, thy iniquity or punishment shall be most grievous.—Him; Christ, or (C.) Nabuchodonosor. Ver. 31.

come: and that hath made idols against herself, to defile herself.

4 Thou art become guilty in thy blood, which thou hast shed: and thou art defiled in thy idols which thou hast made: and thou hast made thy days to draw near, and hast brought on the time of thy years: therefore have I made thee a reproach to the Gentiles, and a mockery to all countries.

5 Those that are near, and those that are far from thee, shall triumph over thee: thou filthy one, infamous, great in destruction.

6 Behold the princes of Israel, every one hath employed his arm in thee, to shed blood.

7 They have abused father and mother in thee; they have oppressed the stranger in the midst of thee; they have grieved the fatherless and widow in thee.

8 Thou hast despised my sanctuaries and profaned my sabbaths.

9 Slanderers have been in thee to shed blood, and they have eaten upon the mountains in thee, they have committed wickedness in the midst of thee.

10 They have discovered the nakedness of their father in thee, they have humbled the uncleanness of the menstruous woman in thee.

11 *And every one hath committed abomination with his neighbour's wife, and the father-in-law hath wickedly defiled his daughter-in-law, the brother hath oppressed his sister, the daughter of his father, in thee.

12 They have taken gifts in thee to shed blood; thou hast taken usury and increase, and hast covetously oppressed thy neighbours; and thou hast forgotten me, saith the Lord God.

13 Behold, I have clapped my hands at thy covetousness, which thou hast exercised; and at the blood that hath been shed in the midst of thee.

14 Shall thy heart endure, or shall thy hands prevail, in the days which I will bring upon thee? I, the Lord, have spoken, and will do it.

15 And I will disperse thee in the nations, and will scatter thee among the countries, and I will put an end to thy uncleanness in thee.

16 And I will possess thee in the sight of the Gentiles: and thou shalt know that I am the Lord.

17 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

18 Son of man, the house of Israel is become dross to me: all these are brass, and tin, and iron, and lead, in the ^c Jer. v. 8.

VER. 28. Reproach, by which they had reproached and insulted over the Jews, at the time of the destruction of Jerusalem. Ch. Chap. xxv. 6; Soph. ii. 8.

VER. 36. Sheath. The sword of Babylon, after raging against many nations, was shortly to be judged and destroyed at home by the Medes and Persians. Ch.—After Nabuchodonosor had chastised the nations around for eighteen years, after the ruin of Jerusalem, he returned and died in peace. Yet he first became like a beast. Ver. 31; Dan. iv. 30. The rest of the prophecy regards his successors Cyrus waged war upon them, and Baltassar was slain in a conspiracy. See Isa. xlvii.; Jer. l. C.

CHAP. XXII. VER. 2. Blood? Why dost thou cease to admonish and rebuke the people? W.—Pronounce sentence on Jerusalem, (H.) for her cruelties. C. VER. 10. Father, his widow, their mother-in-law, or one of his wives.

VER. 13. Hands, through surprise and sorrow. C.—God wishes the sinner's salvation. Gen. vi. 6. W.

VER. 16. Possess, “as an inheritance” (Sept. H.): “I will defile” (Aq.) “wound thee.” Sym. Heb. is very different (C.): “Thou hast inherited in thyself,” (H.) being no longer willing to be subject.

midst of the furnace: they are become the dross of silver.

19 Therefore, thus saith the Lord God: Because you are all turned into dross, therefore, behold, I will gather you together in the midst of Jerusalem.

20 As they gather silver, and brass, and tin, and iron, and lead, in the midst of the furnace, that I may kindle a fire in it to melt it: so will I gather you together in my fury and my wrath, and will take my rest: and I will melt you down.

21 And I will gather you together, and will burn you in the fire of my wrath, and you shall be melted in the midst thereof.

22 As silver is melted in the midst of the furnace, so shall you be in the midst thereof: and you shall know that I am the Lord, when I have poured out my indignation upon you.

23 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

24 Son of man, say to her: Thou art a land that is unclean, and not rained upon in the day of wrath.

25 There is a conspiracy of prophets in the midst thereof: like a lion that roareth and catcheth the prey, they have devoured souls; they have taken riches and hire, they have made many widows in the midst thereof.

26 Her priests have despised my law, and have defiled my sanctuaries: they have put no difference between holy and profane: nor have distinguished between the polluted and the clean: and they have turned away their eyes from my sabbaths, and I was profaned in the midst of them.

27 Her princes in the midst of her, are like wolves ravaging the prey to shed blood, and to destroy souls, and to run after gains, through covetousness.

28 And her prophets have daubed them without tempering the mortar, seeing vain things, and divining lies unto them, saying: Thus saith the Lord God: when the Lord hath not spoken.

29 The people of the land have used oppression, and committed robbery: they afflicted the needy and poor, and they oppressed the stranger by calumny without judgment.

30 And I sought among them for a man that might set up a hedge, and stand in the gap before me in favour of the land, that I might not destroy it: and I found none.

31 And I poured out my indignation upon them; in the fire of my wrath I consumed them: I have rendered their way upon their own head, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XXIII.

Under the names of the two harlots, Oolla and Ooliba, are described the manifold disloyalties of Samaria and Jerusalem, with the punishment of them both.

^a Mic. iii. 11; Soph. iii. 3.

VER. 25. Conspiracy. The false prophets defend each other, (C.) while the priests connive at their proceedings, (H.) and set the example of wickedness.

VER. 30. None like Abraham, Moses, &c. C.—The prayers of the just are very powerful; and God wishes them to exert themselves for sinners. S. Jerom. W. CHAP. XXIII. VER. 3. Fornication. That is, idolatry. Ch.

VER. 4. Oolla and Ooliba. God calls the king of Israel Oolla, which signifies their own habitation, because they separated themselves from his temple; and the kingdom of Juda Ooliba, which signifies his habitation in her, because of his temple among them in Jerusalem. Ch.—The ten tribes first gave way to idolatry, and were more numerous. C.

AND the word of the Lord came to me," saying:
2 Son of man, there were two women, daughters of one mother:

3 And they committed fornication in Egypt, in their youth they committed fornication: there were their breasts pressed down, and the teats of their virginity were bruised.

4 And their names were, Oolla, the elder, and Ooliba, her younger sister: and I took them, and they bore sons and daughters. Now for their names: Samaria is Oolla, and Jerusalem is Ooliba.

5 And Oolla committed fornication against me, and doted on her lovers, on the Assyrians that came to her,

6 Who were clothed with blue, princes, and rulers, beautiful youths, all horsemen, mounted upon horses.

7 And she committed her fornications with those chosen men, all sons of the Assyrians: and she defiled herself with the uncleanness of all them on whom she doted.

8 Moreover also, she did not forsake her fornications which she had committed in Egypt: for they also lay with her in her youth, and they bruised the breasts of her virginity, and poured out their fornication upon her.

9 Therefore have I delivered her into the hands of her lovers, into the hands of the sons of the Assyrians, upon whose lust she doted.

10 They discovered her disgrace, took away her sons and daughters, and slew her with the sword: and they became infamous women, and they executed judgments in her.

11 And when her sister, Ooliba, saw this, she was mad with lust more than she: and she carried her fornication beyond the fornication of her sister,

12 Impudently prostituting herself to the children of the Assyrians, the princes, and rulers that came to her, clothed with divers colours, to the horsemen that rode upon horses, and to young men, all of great beauty.

13 And I saw that she was defiled, and that they both took one way.

14 And she increased her fornications: and when she had seen men painted on the wall, the images of the Chaldeans set forth in colours,

15 And girded with girdles about their reins, and with dyed turbans on their heads, the resemblance of all the captains, the likeness of the sons of Babylon, and of the land of the Chaldeans, wherein they were born, 16 She doted upon them with the lust of her eyes, and she sent messengers to them into Chaldea.

17 And when the sons of Babylon were come to her to the bed of love, they defiled her with their fornications, and she was polluted by them, and her soul was gluttoned with them.

^b A. M. 3411.—^c Supra, xvi. 38.

VER. 5. Assyrians. That is, the idols of the Assyrians: for all that is said in this chapter of the fornications of Israel and Juda, is to be understood in a spiritual sense of their disloyalty to the Lord, by worshipping strange gods. Ch. W.

VER. 10. Disgrace: satisfying their passions. VER. 29. C.—Women. Having once lost all sense of decorum, they became more abandoned. H.

VER. 11. This; not chastisement, but dissolution.

VER. 14. Colours. She was enamoured at the account or picture of these people, without ever having seen them.

VER. 16. Messengers. Achaz invited the Assyrians, and imitated their altars, &c. 4 Kings xvi. 2, &c. C.—The Chaldeans afterwards possessed the country. H.

18 And she discovered her fornications, and discovered her disgrace: and my soul was alienated from her, as my soul was alienated from her sister.

19 For she multiplied her fornications, remembering the days of her youth, in which she played the harlot in the land of Egypt.

20 And she was mad with lust after lying with them, whose flesh is as the flesh of asses: and whose issue as the issue of horses.

21 And thou hast renewed the wickedness of thy youth, when thy breasts were pressed in Egypt, and the paps of thy virginity broken.

22 Therefore, Ooliba, thus saith the Lord God: Behold I will raise up against thee all thy lovers, with whom thy soul hath been gluttled: and I will gather them together against thee round about.

23 The children of Babylon, and all the Chaldeans, the nobles, and the kings, and princes, all the sons of the Assyrians, beautiful young men, all the captains, and rulers, the princes of princes, and the renowned horsemen.

24 And they shall come upon thee well appointed with chariot and wheel, a multitude of people: they shall be armed against thee on every side with breastplate, and buckler, and helmet: and I will set judgment before them, and they shall judge thee by their judgments.

25 And I will set my jealousy against thee, which they shall execute upon thee with fury: they shall cut off thy nose and thy ears: and what remains shall fall by the sword: they shall take thy sons, and thy daughters, and thy residue shall be devoured by fire.

26 And they shall strip thee of thy garments, and take away the instruments of thy glory.

27 And I will put an end to thy wickedness in thee, and thy fornication brought out of the land of Egypt: neither shalt thou lift up thy eyes to them, nor remember Egypt any more.

28 For thus saith the Lord God: Behold, I will deliver thee into the hands of them whom thou hatest, into their hands with whom thy soul hath been gluttled.

29 And they shall deal with thee in hatred, and they shall take away all thy labours, and shall let thee go naked, and full of disgrace, and the disgrace of thy fornications shall be discovered, thy wickedness, and thy fornications.

30 They have done these things to thee, because thou hast played the harlot with the nations among which thou wast defiled with their idols.

31 Thou hast walked in the way of thy sister, and I will give her cup into thy hand.

32 Thus saith the Lord God: Thou shalt drink thy sister's cup, deep, and wide: thou shalt be had in derision and scorn, which containeth very much.

33 Thou shalt be filled with drunkenness, and sorrow: with the cup of grief, and sadness, with the cup of thy sister, Samaria.

34 And thou shalt drink it, and shalt drink it up even to the dregs, and thou shalt devour the fragments thereof, thou shalt rend thy breasts: because I have spoken it, saith the Lord God.

35 Therefore thus saith the Lord God: Because thou hast forgotten me, and hast cast me off behind thy back, bear thou also thy wickedness, and thy fornications.

36 And the Lord spoke to me, saying: Son of man, dost thou judge Oolla, and Ooliba, and dost thou declare to them their wicked deeds?

37 Because they have committed adultery, and blood is in their hands, and they have committed fornication with their idols: moreover also their children, whom they bore to me, they have offered to them to be devoured.

38 Yea, and they have done this to me. They polluted my sanctuary on the same day, and profaned my sabbaths.

39 And when they sacrificed their children to their idols, and went into my sanctuary the same day, to profane it: they did these things even in the midst of my house.

40 They sent for men coming from afar, to whom they had sent a messenger: and behold they came: for whom thou didst wash thyself, and didst paint thy eyes, and wast adorned with women's ornaments.

41 Thou satest on a very fine bed, and a table was decked before thee: whereupon thou didst set my incense, and my ointment.

42 And there was in her the voice of a multitude rejoicing: and to some that were brought of the multitude of men, and that came from the desert, they put bracelets on their hands, and beautiful crowns on their heads.

43 And I said to her that was worn out in her adulteries: Now will this woman still continue in her fornication.

44 And they went in to her, as to a harlot: so went they in unto Oolla, and Ooliba, wicked women.

45 They, therefore, are just men: these shall judge them as adulteresses are judged, and as shedders of blood are judged: because they are adulteresses, and blood is in their hands.

46 For thus saith the Lord God: Bring a multitude upon them, and deliver them over to tumult and rapine:

47 And let the people stone them with stones, and let them be stabbed with their swords: they shall kill their

VER. 19. Remembering, or "causing to be remembered" by God, who seemed to have forgotten those ancient scenes of wickedness. Chap. xxi. 24.

VER. 20. Asses. He means the Egyptians, (chap. xvi. 26,) in whom the kings of Juda trusted. C.

VER. 23. Nobles. Prot. "Pekod, and Shoah, and Roa" (H.); which Junius takes to be the three great divisions of the empire. Others suppose they denote the dignities, though they occur not in Daniel.—Captains. Heb. "Phachat, and Saganum, (ver. 6, 12,) and Schalischim;" officers mentioned Exod. xiv. 7, and 2 Kings xxiii. 8.—Renowned: called to the assemblies and councils of the prince. Num. i. 16. C.

VER. 25. Jealousy, the most violent of passions. C.—So the Chaldeans are styled, as Assur is the rod. Isa. x. 5. W.—Ears, the punishment of adulteresses: both king and priests suffer. S. Jer.—Thus the captives were probably treated. C.—Fire, by Ismahel. Chap. xix. 14.

VER. 34. Fragments, as drunkards sometimes bite (H.) the cup in their rage.

VER. 40. Paint, with antimony. Sept. See 4 Kings ix. 3.

VER. 41. Bed: it seems at table. Amos ii. 8; Tob. ii. 3.—Ointment; using them for thyself, or presenting them to idols. Exod. xxx. 23, and 33. C.

VER. 42. And that. Prot. "Sabeams (marg. and Sept. drunkards) from," &c. Any were admitted (H.) to the priesthood and to her favours, even the most rustic and deformed. 3 Kings xii. 32.

sons and daughters, and their houses they shall burn with fire.

48 And I will take away wickedness out of the land : and all women shall learn not to do according to the wickedness of them.

49 And they shall render your wickedness upon you, and you shall bear the sins of your idols : and you shall know that I am the Lord God.

CHAP. XXIV.

Under the parable of a boiling pot, is shown the utter destruction of Jerusalem : for which the Jews at Babylon shall not dare to mourn.

AND ^athe word of the Lord came to me in the ninth year, in the tenth month, the tenth day of the month, saying :

2 Son of man, write thee the name of this day, on which the king of Babylon hath set himself against Jerusalem to-day.

3 And thou shalt speak by a figure, a parable, to the provoking house, and say to them : Thus saith the Lord God : Set on a pot ; set it on, I say ; and put water into it.

4 Heap together into it the pieces thereof, every good piece, the thigh and the shoulder, choice pieces and full of bones.

5 Take the fattest of the flock, and lay together piles of bones under it : the seething thereof is boiling hot, and the bones thereof are thoroughly sodden in the midst of it.

6 Therefore, thus saith the Lord God : Woe to the bloody city, to the pot whose rust is in it, and its rust is not gone out of it : cast it out piece by piece, there hath no lot fallen upon it.

7 For her blood is in the midst of her, she hath shed it upon the smooth rock : she hath not shed it upon the ground, that it might be covered with dust.

8 And that I might bring my indignation upon her, and take my vengeance : I have shed her blood upon the smooth rock, that it should not be covered.

9 Therefore, thus saith the Lord God : ^bWoe to the bloody city, of which I will make a great bonfire.

10 Heap together the bones, which I will burn with fire : the flesh shall be consumed, and the whole composition shall be sodden, and the bones shall be consumed.

11 Then set it empty upon burning coals, that it may be hot, and the brass thereof may be melted ; and let the filth of it be melted, in the midst thereof, and let the rust of it be consumed.

^a A. M. 3414, A. C. 590.

CHAP. XXIV. VER. 1. Month ; Jan. 30, A. 3414. Usher.—Ezekiel was then in Mesopotamia, and when the news of the siege, commencing on that very day, should arrive, it would make a great impression upon the people, so that they would have confidence in him, (C.) as the certainty of the prediction would appear. 4 Kings xxv. 1. W.

VER. 3. Pot, to denote Jerusalem : the flesh boiled and consumed in the fire with the bones, would show the future dismal condition of its chiefs and inhabitants. H.

VER. 4. Choice. Heb. "the choice of the bones," or the finest pieces separated from the bones, as the Sept. and the sequel seem to require. C.

VER. 6. Rust : the inveterate malice of the city. Ver. 12.—Upon it. Hurl the pieces of meat out of the pot, without any choice. C.—All the people shall feel my indignation, the rich as well as the poor. Ver. 13. H.

VER. 7. She hath. Sept. "I have let it corrupt upon. I have not," &c., (ver. 8. H.) as if God spoke. The Jews had committed murder without fear. They had naturally a horror for blood, and the law ordered even that of beasts to be covered. Lev. xvii. 13. Now innocent blood cries for vengeance. Gen. iv. 10.

VER. 13. Thy. Heb. "In thy crime there is design," or malice. This rendered the Jews so hateful (C.) and irreclaimable. H.—God had given them abundant instructions (C.) and graces ; but all was contemned. H.

12 Great pains have been taken, and the great rust thereof is not gone out, not even by fire.

13 Thy uncleanness is execrable : because I desired to cleanse thee, and thou art not cleansed from thy filthiness : neither shalt thou be cleansed, before I cause my indignation to rest in thee.

14 I, the Lord, have spoken : it shall come to pass, and I will do it : I will not pass by, nor spare, nor be pacified : I will judge thee according to thy ways, and according to thy doings, saith the Lord.

15 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying :

16 Son of man, behold I take from thee the desire of thy eyes with a stroke : and thou shalt not lament, nor weep : neither shall thy tears run down.

17 Sigh in silence ; make no mourning for the dead : let the tire of thy head be upon thee, and thy shoes on thy feet, and cover not thy face, nor eat the meat of mourners.

18 So I spoke to the people in the morning, and my wife died in the evening : and I did in the morning as he had commanded me.

19 And the people said to me : Why dost thou not tell us what these things mean that thou dost ?

20 And I said to them : The word of the Lord came to me, saying :

21 Speak to the house of Israel : Thus saith the Lord God : Behold, I will profane my sanctuary, the glory of your realm, and the thing that your eyes desire, and for which your soul feareth : your sons and your daughters, whom you have left, shall fall by the sword.

22 And you shall do as I have done : you shall not cover you faces, nor shall you eat the meat of mourners.

23 You shall have crowns on your heads, and shoes on your feet ; you shall not lament nor weep, but you shall pine away for your iniquities ; and every one shall sigh with his brother.

24 And Ezekiel shall be unto you for a sign of things to come : according to all that he hath done, so shall you do, when this shall come to pass : and you shall know that I am the Lord God.

25 And thou, O son of man, behold in the day wherein I will take away from them their strength, and the joy of their glory, and the desire of their eyes, upon which their souls rest, their sons and their daughters.

26 In that day when he that escapeth shall come to thee, to tell thee ;

27 In that day, I say, shall thy mouth be opened to

^b Nah. iii. 1 ; Hab. ii. 12.

dured the Jews so hateful (C.) and irreclaimable. H.—God had given them abundant instructions (C.) and graces ; but all was contemned. H.

VER. 16. Stroke ; pestilence, or sudden death. This would make the loss of a dear wife still more afflicting. Yet such distress will fall upon the whole nation, (C.) and misery shall increase so much, that a private loss will be almost forgotten. H.

VER. 17. Silence, for such manifold calamities, if thou canst screen thyself from the enemy, who will otherwise take offence, as he has brought them on. H.—Dead. Priests were allowed to mourn only for father or mother, and their unmarried brothers and sisters. Lev. xxi. 1. Ezekiel (xliv. 25) adds, son and daughter. Many think the wife must also be understood, as she is nearer than a brother. The reasons for these prohibitions did not then subsist, as no sacrifice could be offered in Chaldea ; and therefore God here specifies what the prophet was not to do, (C.) though lawful on other occasions. Sanct.—Feet. They were bare at funerals, and in times of sorrow. 2 Kings xv. 30.

VER. 21. Profane, or esteem it no more, (H.) but abandon it to the Gentiles. C.—Fearful to lose ; or on which it rests, ver. 25. H.

VER. 27. No more, if thou darest to speak before the Chaldeans. Ver. 1. Reserve thy tears and lamentations for that time. C him that hath escaped, and thou shalt speak, and shalt be silent no more: and thou shalt be unto them for a sign of things to come: and you shall know that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXV.

A prophecy against the Ammonites, Moabites, Edomites, and Philistines, for their malice against the Israelites.

AND the word of the Lord came to me, saying:
2 Son of man, set thy face against the children of Ammon, and thou shalt prophesy of them.

3 *And thou shalt say to the children of Ammon: Hear ye the word of the Lord God: Thus saith the Lord God: Because thou hast said, Ha, ha, upon my sanctuary, because it was profaned; and upon the land of Israel, because it was laid waste; and upon the house of Juda, because they are led into captivity:

4 Therefore, will I deliver thee to the men of the east for an inheritance, and they shall place their sheepcotes in thee, and shall set up their tents in thee: they shall eat thy fruits, and they shall drink thy milk.

5 And I will make Rabbath a stable for camels, and the children of Ammon a couching-place for flocks: and you shall know that I am the Lord.

6 For thus saith the Lord God: Because thou hast clapped thy hands, and stamped with thy foot, and hast rejoiced with all thy heart against the land of Israel;

7 Therefore, behold, I will stretch forth my hand upon thee, and will deliver thee to be the spoil of nations, and will cut thee off from among the people, and destroy thee out of the lands, and break thee in pieces: and thou shalt know that I am the Lord.

8 Thus saith the Lord God: Because Moab and Seir have said: Behold, the house of Juda is like all other nations:

9 Therefore, behold, I will open the shoulder of Moab from the cities, from his cities, I say, and his borders, the noble cities of the land of Bethiesimoth, and Beelmeon, and Cariathaim,

10 To the people of the east with the children of Ammon, and I will give it them for an inheritance, that there may be no more any remembrance of the children of Ammon among the nations.

11 And I will execute judgments in Moab: and they shall know that I am the Lord.

12 ^bThus saith the Lord God: Because Edom hath

^a Jer. xxvii. 3, and xlviii. 39.

taken vengeance to revenge herself of the children of Juda, and hath greatly offended, and hath sought revenge of them:

13 Therefore, thus saith the Lord God: I will stretch forth my hand upon Edom, and will take away out of it man and beast, and will make it desolate from the south: and they that are in Dedan, shall fall by the sword.

14 And I will lay my vengeance upon Edom, by the hand of my people Israel; and they shall do in Edom according to my wrath and my fury: and they shall know my vengeance, saith the Lord God.

15 Thus saith the Lord God: Because the Philistines have taken vengeance, and have revenged themselves with all their mind, destroying and satisfying old enmities:

16 Therefore, thus saith the Lord God: Behold, I will stretch forth my hand upon the Philistines, and will kill the killers, and will destroy the remnant of the sea coast.

17 And I will execute great vengeance upon them, rebuking them in fury: and they shall know that I am the Lord, when I shall lay my vengeance upon them.

CHAP. XXVI.

A prophecy of the destruction of the famous city of Tyre by Nabuchodonosor.

AND^c it came to pass in the eleventh year, the first day of the month, that the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 Son of man, because Tyre hath said of Jerusalem: Aha, the gates of the people are broken, she is turned to me: I shall be filled, now she is laid waste.

3 Therefore thus saith the Lord God: Behold, I come against thee, O Tyre, and I will cause many nations to come up to thee, as the waves of the sea rise up.

4 And they shall break down the walls of Tyre, and destroy the towers thereof: and I will scrape her dust from her, and make her like a smooth rock.

5 She shall be a drying-place for nets in the midst of the sea, because I have spoken it, saith the Lord God: and she shall be a spoil to the nations.

6 Her daughters also that are in the field, shall be slain by the sword: and they shall know that I am the Lord.

7 For thus saith the Lord God: Behold, I will bring against Tyre Nabuchodonosor, king of Babylon, the king of kings, from the north, with horses, and chariots, and horsemen, and companies, and much people.

8 Thy daughters that are in the field, he shall kill with

^b A. M. 3417, A. C. 387. Jer. xlix. 7.—^c A. M. 3416.

CHAP. XXV. VER. 2, 3. Ammon. These nations were punished five years after the Jews. Chap. xxi. 19; Jer. xxvii. 3. C.

VER. 4. East; the Chaldeans, (Sanct.,) who conquered them, (H.) though the Scenite Arabs, who occupied the country after the inhabitants were removed, or the Armenians and Agarens, are rather meant than the Chaldees. W.

VER. 5. Rabbath, the capital city of the Ammonites: it was afterwards called Philadelphia. Ch.

VER. 8. Seir: Idumea.—Nations, whose gods could not defend them. C.

VER. 9. Shoulder; reduce to slavery, (H.) or take the strong places, (Jer. xlviii. 7. C.) or cities and strength of Moab. W.

VER. 12. Revenge; exhorting the Chaldeans to destroy utterly, (Psal. cxxxvi. 7,) and seizing every opportunity of injuring the Jews. 2 Par. xxviii. 18; Amos i. 11.

VER. 13. South. Heb. "Theman," a city at one extremity. The Chaldeans laid waste the country. (chap. xxxii. 29,) but did not remove the people, who seized the southern parts of Juda, till they were forced to submit to the Machabees.

VER. 15. Enmities. They also watched every moment to injure the Jews. Amos i. 5. But Nabuchodonosor was irritated, because they had assisted Tyre. ^a Jer. xlvii. 4.

VER. 16. Killers Heb. "Ceretheans." David's guards were of this nation

2 Kings viii. 18. They came originally from Crete; and the Sept. have here, "Cretans" (C.); as Grabe substitutes for "judges of Sidon." H.—Chal "archers."

CHAP. XXVI. VER. 1. Year of the prophet's captivity. H.—He still dates from the transmigration of Joachim. Chap. i., &c. W.—Some think he speaks of the first, fourth, or fifth month.

VER. 2. Gates: places of resort and commerce. The Jews came to Jerusalem frequently from all parts, which increased her beauty and trade.

VER. 3. Up. Nabuchodonosor besieged the city for thirteen years.

VER. 4. Dust. She shall be demolished, and the rubbish thrown into the sea, to make a road by which New Tyre in the island might be attacked. Ver. 12. H.

VER. 5. Sea. S. Jerom explains this of New Tyre; Marsham of the Old. To reconcile the different texts, we only need to suppose that both cities were connected by a road thrown up in the sea by Hiram, and repaired by Nabuchodonosor with great labour, (chap. xxix. 18,) after it had been destroyed by the inhabitants of New Tyre, when they saw the old city on the continent fall a prey. S. Jer. C.

VER. 8. Daughters. Many towns were subject to Tyre: almost all Phœnicia acknowledged her dominion, as well as (C.) the seas to which her fleets went. Ver. 15. Selden. Marc. i. 6. Curt. 4.

the sword : and he shall compass thee with forts, and shall cast up a mount round about : and he shall lift up the buckler against thee.

9 And he shall set engines of war and battering-rams against thy walls, and shall destroy thy towers with his arms.

10 By reason of the multitude of his horses, their dust shall cover thee : thy walls shall shake at the noise of the horsemen, and wheels, and chariots, when they shall go in at thy gates, as by the entrance of a city that is destroyed.

11 With the hoofs of his horses he shall tread down all thy streets : thy people he shall kill with the sword : and thy famous statues shall fall to the ground.

12 They shall waste thy riches, they shall make a spoil of thy merchandise : and they shall destroy thy walls, and pull down thy fine houses : and they shall lay thy stones, and thy timber, and thy dust, in the midst of the waters.

13 And I will make the multitude of thy songs to cease, and the sound of thy harps shall be heard no more.

14 And I will make thee like a naked rock, thou shalt be a drying-place for nets, neither shalt thou be built any more : for I have spoken it, saith the Lord God.

15 Thus saith the Lord God to Tyre : Shall not the islands shake at the sound of thy fall, and the groans of thy slain, when they shall be killed in the midst of thee?

16 Then all the princes of the sea shall come down from their thrones : and take off their robes, and cast away their brodered garments, and be clothed with astonishment : they shall sit on the ground, and with amazement shall wonder at thy sudden fall.

17 And taking up a lamentation over thee, they shall say to thee : How art thou fallen, that dwellest in the sea, renowned city, that wast strong in the sea, with thy inhabitants, whom all did dread?

18 Now shall the ships be astonished in the day of thy terror : and the islands in the sea shall be troubled, because no one cometh out of thee.

19 For thus saith the Lord God : When I shall make thee a desolate city, like the cities that are not inhabited : and shall bring the deep upon thee, and many waters shall cover thee :

20 And when I shall bring thee down with those that descend into the pit to the everlasting people, and shall a Jer. vii. 34.

VER. 9. Engines. Lit. "vines." H.—A covert was thus made for the soldiers, (Veget. iv. 15,) when they approached the walls. M.

VER. 10. Destroyed. Old Tyre was taken by storm. It is doubtful whether it was pillaged. Chap. xxix. 18. C.

VER. 11. Statues. The citizens chained the golden statue of Apollo to the altar of Hercules, for fear of its leaving them, when Alexander attacked the town. Curt. 4.—Hiram placed a pillar of gold in the temple of Hercules. Jos. c. Ap. 1.

VER. 14. More, for seventy years. Isa. xxiii. 15. The people returned at the same time as the Jews. A. 3468. Soon after, Zacharias (chap. ix.) speaks of Tyre as then subsisting. It was very strong in Alexander's time, (who took it with difficulty, as Antigonius did eighteen years later,) and had a very extensive commerce when S. Jerom wrote. But all this must be understood of New Tyre. The old city never regained much splendour. C.—It is still in ruins. A modern traveller was struck with the completion of this prophecy, beholding a few miserable fishermen drying their nets on the spot!

VER. 16. Sea : colonies, or tributary to Tyre. Ver. 8. H.—Astonishment. Heb. "troubles," or mourning. C.

VER. 19. Waters ; great armies, (ver. 3,) or when thou art in the regions below. Job xxvi. 5. C.—Tyre was humbled for her pride, but restored after seventy years. Isa. xxiii.

VER. 20. Everlasting ; in the grave, till the day of judgment. Psal. xlviii. 12 ; Wisd. xii. 5.

set thee in the lowest parts of the earth as places desolate of old, with them that are brought down into the pit, that thou be not inhabited : and when I shall give glory in the land of the living.

21 I will bring thee to nothing, and thou shalt not be, and if thou be sought for, thou shalt not be found any more for ever, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XXVII.

A description of the glory and riches of Tyre : and of her irrecoverable fall.

AND ^bthe word of the Lord came to me, saying :

2 Thou, therefore, O son of man, take up a lamentation for Tyre :

3 And say to Tyre, that dwelleth at the entry of the sea, being the mart of the people for many islands : Thus saith the Lord God : O Tyre, thou hast said : I am of perfect beauty,

4 And situate in the heart of the sea. Thy neighbours, that built thee, have perfected thy beauty :

5 With fir-trees of Sanir they have built thee, with all sea planks : they have taken cedars from Libanus to make thee masts.

6 They have cut thy oars out of the oaks of Busan, and they have made thee benches of Indian ivory, and cabins, with things brought from the islands of Italy.

7 Fine brodered linen from Egypt was woven for thy sail, to be spread on thy mast : blue and purple from the islands of Elisa, were made thy covering.

8 The inhabitants of Sidon, and the Aradians were thy rowers : thy wise men, O Tyre, were thy pilots.

9 The ancients of Gebal, and the wise men thereof, furnished mariners, for the service of thy various furniture : all the ships of the sea, and their mariners, were thy factors.

10 The Persians, and Lydians, and the Libyans, were thy soldiers, in thy army : they hanged up the buckler and the helmet in thee for thy ornament.

11 The men of Arad were with thy army upon thy walls round about : the Pygmeans also that were in thy towers, hung up their quivers on thy walls round about : they perfected thy beauty.

12 The Carthaginians, thy merchants, supplied thy fairs with a multitude of all kinds of riches, with silver, iron, tin, and lead.

b A. M. 3416, A. C. 588.

VER. 21. For ever ; for a long time, (Theod.) nor at all in thy ancient glory 11.—The city subsisted after the days of Nabuchodonosor and of Alexander. C. Ver. 14.—But the ancient city was reduced to a mere nothing. H.

CHAP. XXVII. VER. 4. Neighbours of Sidon. Jos. xix. 29. C.—Sept. "thy children." Prot. "thy builders." H.—The description of the Tyrian grandeur shows their more woeful ruin. W.

VER. 5. Thee. Heb. "all thy ship-boards." Sept. Prot. H.—S. Jer. has divided (C.) leuthim, "decks of the sea," as in denotes the sea. H.

VER. 7. Linen. Cotton, (Exod. xxv. 4,) used for standards. Sept. "for bed coverlets," or for sails.

VER. 8. Aradians. Sidon and Arad were then subject to Tyre, and supplied rowers.—Pilots. They studied no other science.

VER. 9. Gebal. Sept. "Biblos," which is the same. 3 Kings v. 18.—Furnished. Heb. "were in thee to repair thy breaches." Sept. "strengthened thy designs."

VER. 10. Libyans. Heb. "Phut." They had been expelled by the Cyrenians. Tyre had in her pay the most warlike nations of Persia, &c. Cyrus soon after shook off the yoke of the Medes, and conquered the Lydians.

VER. 11. The Pygmeans. That is, strong and valiant men. In Heb. Gammadin. Ch.

VER. 12. Carthaginians. Heb. "Tharsis," in Cilicia (Gen. x. 4. C.) : distant merchants, who came by sea. H.

13 Greece, Thubal, and Mosoch, they were thy merchants: they brought to thy people slaves and vessels of brass.

14 From the house of Thogorma they brought horses, and horsemen, and mules, to thy market.

15 The men of Dedan were thy merchants: many islands were the traffic of thy hand, they exchanged for thy price teeth of ivory, and ebony.

16 The Syrian was thy merchant, by reason of the multitude of thy works, they set forth precious stones, and purple, and brodered works, and fine linen, and silk, and chodchod, in thy market.

17 Juda, and the land of Israel, they were thy merchants with the best corn: they set forth balm, and honey, and oil, and rosin, in thy fairs.

18 The men of Damascus were thy merchants in the multitude of thy works, in the multitude of divers riches, in rich wine, in wool of the best colour.

19 Dan, and Greece, and Mosel, have set forth in thy marts wrought iron: stacte, and calamus were in thy market.

20 The men of Dedan were thy merchants in tapestry for seats.

21 Arabia, and all the princes of Cedar, they were the merchants of thy hand: thy merchants came to thee with lambs, and rams, and kids.

22 The sellers of Saba, and Reema, they were thy merchants: with all the best spices, and precious stones, and gold, which they set forth in thy market.

23 Haran, and Chene, and Eden, were thy merchants: Saba, Assur, and Chelmad, sold to thee.

24 They were thy merchants in divers manners, with bales of blue cloth, and of embrodered work, and of precious riches, which were wrapped up, and bound with cords: they had cedars also in thy merchandise.

25 The ships of the sea were thy chief in thy merchandise: and thou wast replenished, and glorified exceedingly in the heart of the sea.

26 Thy rowers have brought thee into great waters: the south wind hath broken thee in the heart of the sea.

27 Thy riches, and thy treasures, and thy manifold furniture, thy mariners, and thy pilots, who kept thy goods, and were chief over thy people: thy men of war also, that were in thee, with all thy multitude that is in the midst of thee: shall fall in the heart of the sea, in the day of thy ruin.

28 Thy fleets shall be troubled at the sound of the cry of thy pilots.

29 And all that handled the oar, shall come down from their ships: the mariners, and all the pilots of the sea, shall stand upon the land.

30 And they shall mourn over thee with a loud voice, and shall cry bitterly: and they shall cast up dust upon their heads, and shall be sprinkled with ashes.

31 And they shall shave themselves bald for thee, and shall be girded with hair-cloth: and they shall weep for thee with bitterness of soul, with most bitter weeping.

32 And they shall take up a mournful song for thee, and shall lament thee: What city is like Tyre, which is become silent in the midst of the sea?

33 Which by thy merchandise, that went from thee by sea, didst fill many people: which by the multitude of thy riches, and thy people, didst enrich the kings of the earth.

34 Now thou art destroyed by the sea, thy riches are in the bottom of the waters, and all the multitude that was in the midst of thee is fallen.

35 All the inhabitants of the islands are astonished at thee: and all their kings, being struck with the storm, have changed their countenance.

36 The merchants of people have hissed at thee: thou art brought to nothing, and thou shalt never be any more.

CHAP. XXVIII.

The king of Tyre, who affected to be like to God, shall fall under the like sentence with Lucifer. The judgment of Sidon. The restoration of Israel.

AND ^athe word of the Lord came to me, saying:
2 Son of man, say to the prince of Tyre: Thus saith the Lord God: Because thy heart is lifted up, and thou hast said: I am God, and I sit in the chair of God, in the heart of the sea: whereas, thou art a man, and not God: and hast set thy heart as if it were the heart of God.

3 Behold, thou art wiser than Daniel: no secret is hid from thee.

4 In thy wisdom, and thy understanding, thou hast made thyself strong: and hast gotten gold, and silver, into thy treasures.

5 By the greatness of thy wisdom, and by thy traffic, thou hast increased thy strength: and thy heart is lifted up with thy strength.

6 Therefore, thus saith the Lord God: Because thy heart is lifted up as the heart of God:

7 Therefore behold, I will bring upon thee strangers, the strongest of the nations: and they shall draw their swords against the beauty of thy wisdom, and they shall defile thy beauty.

8 They shall kill thee, and bring thee down: and thou shalt die the death of them that are slain in the heart of the sea.

• A. M. 3415.

VER. 15. Dedan. Sept. "Rhodians;" or rather Arabs are meant. Ver. 20. They might receive ivory from Ethiopia.—Teeth. Heb. "horns or tusks," which the elephant casts every year. The ivory is less brittle. 3 Kings x. 18. C.—Ebony; a hard black wood, like horn. Bochart.

VER. 16. Syrian: always much addicted to commerce. S. Jer.—Sept. read Adam for Aram, as if the traffic in men was meant (C.): "ivory, and to those who brought, thou gavest thy rewards. (16) Men of thy traffic," &c. H.—Linen. Heb. buts, "silk" extracted from the pinna fish. 1 Par. xv. 27.—Silk. Heb. ramuth, may rather denote unicorns. Job xxviii. 18. C.—Chodchod. It is the Hebrew name for some precious stone, but of what kind in particular interpreters are not agreed. Ch.

VER. 17. Rosin. Our version generally renders this balm. H.—It was much used to heal. Jer. viii. 22; Gen. xxxvii. 25.

VER. 19. Dan: the citizens of Peneas, the tribe of Dan was in captivity. Grotius places these nations in Zeilan, (C.) or Ceylon. H.

VER. 20. Seats, such as the Turks still use, or to throw over horses instead of saddles.

VER. 23. Haran, or Charæ, famous for the residence of Abraham and the defeat of Crassus.—Eden, the province where Paradise was situated.

VER. 26. South. Heb. kodim, (H.) "eastern," or rather "burning," i.e. means Nabuchodonosor, who came from the north, (chap. xxvi. 7. C.) or cast. The fall of Tyre is described as a shipwreck. H.

VER. 30. Ashes. They followed the same customs as the Jews. C.—The latter were ordered to avoid cutting the hair, like them; yet did so. Deut. xiv.; Isa. xxii. 12. W.

CHAP. XXVIII. VER. 2. Prince. The king who was taken and slain at this siege, was probably (C.) Ithobalos. Jos. Ant. x. 11.

VER. 3. Than Daniel; viz. in thy own conceit. The wisdom of Daniel was so much celebrated in his days, that it became a proverb amongst the Chaldeans, when any one would express an extraordinary wisdom, to say he was as wise as 9 Wilt thou yet say before them that slay thee: I am God; whereas thou art a man, and not God, in the hand of them that slay thee?

10 Thou shalt die the death of the uncircumcised by the hand of strangers: for I have spoken it, saith the Lord God.

11 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying: Son of man, take up a lamentation upon the king of Tyre:

12 And say to him: Thus saith the Lord God: Thou wast the seal of resemblance, full of wisdom, and perfect in beauty,

13 Thou wast in the pleasures of the paradise of God: every precious stone was thy covering: the sardius, the topaz, and the jasper, the chrysolite, and the onyx, and the beryl, the sapphire, and the carbuncle, and the emerald: gold, the work of thy beauty: and thy pipes were prepared in the day that thou wast created.

14 Thou a cherub stretched out, and protecting, and I set thee in the holy mountain of God, thou hast walked in the midst of the stones of fire.

15 Thou wast perfect in thy ways from the day of thy creation, until iniquity was found in thee.

16 By the multitude of thy merchandise, thy inner parts were filled with iniquity, and thou hast sinned: and I cast thee out from the mountain of God, and destroyed thee, O covering cherub, out of the midst of the stones of fire.

17 And thy heart was lifted up with thy beauty: thou hast lost thy wisdom in thy beauty, I have cast thee to the ground: I have set thee before the face of kings, that they might behold thee.

18 Thou hast defiled thy sanctuaries by the multitude of thy iniquities, and by the iniquity of thy traffic: therefore, I will bring forth a fire from the midst of thee, to devour thee; and I will make thee as ashes upon the earth, in the sight of all that see thee.

19 All that shall see thee among the nations, shall be astonished at thee: thou art brought to nothing, and thou shalt never be any more.

20 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

21 Son of man, set thy face against Sidon: and thou shalt prophesy of it,

22 And shalt say: Thus saith the Lord God: Behold I come against thee, Sidon, and I will be glorified in the midst of thee: and they shall know that I am the Lord, when I shall execute judgments in her, and shall be sanctified in her.

23 And I will send into her pestilence, and blood in her streets: and they shall fall, being slain by the sword, on all sides, in the midst thereof: and they shall know that I am the Lord.

24 And the house of Israel shall have no more a stumbling-block of bitterness, nor a thorn causing pain on every side round about them, of them that are against them: and they shall know that I am the Lord God.

25 Thus saith the Lord God: When I shall have gathered together the house of Israel, out of the people among whom they are scattered: I will be sanctified in them before the Gentiles: and they shall dwell in their own land, which I gave to my servant, Jacob.

26 And they shall dwell therein secure, and they shall build houses, and shall plant vineyards, and shall dwell with confidence, when I shall have executed judgments upon all that are their enemies round about: and they shall know that I am the Lord their God.

CHAP. XXIX.

The king of Egypt shall be overthrown, and his kingdom wasted. It shall be given to Nabuchodonosor, for his service against Tyre.

IN the tenth year, the tenth month, the eleventh day of the month, the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 Son of man, set thy face against Pharaoh, king of Egypt: and thou shalt prophesy of him, and of all Egypt:

3 Speak, and say: Thus saith the Lord God: Behold I come against thee, Pharaoh, king of Egypt, thou great dragon that liest in the midst of thy rivers, and sayest: The river is mine, and I made myself.

4 But I will put a bridle in thy jaws: and I will cause the fish of thy rivers to stick to thy scales: and I will draw thee out of the midst of thy rivers, and all thy fish shall stick to thy scales.

5 And I will cast thee forth into the desert, and all the fish of thy river: thou shalt fall upon the face of the earth; thou shalt not be taken up nor gathered together: I have given thee for meat to the beasts of the earth, and to the fowls of the air.

6 And all the inhabitants of Egypt shall know that I

• A. M. 3415, A. C. 589.

Daniel. Ch. W.—He was now at court, and had explained the dream of Nabuchodonosor. Dan. ii. 27.

VER. 12. Resemblance. The king of Tyre, by his dignity and his natural perfections, bore in himself a certain resemblance of God, by reason of which he might be called the seal of resemblance, &c. But what is here said to him is commonly understood of Lucifer, the king over all the children of pride. Ch.

VER. 13. Paradise. Thou hadst every thing delightful at Tyre. C.—Covering. Heb. “bandage,” diadem, (H.) or belt. Sept. specify twelve stones. See Exod. xxviii. 17.—Pipes; music used at the coronation, which was celebrated as a birth-day. C.

VER. 14. Stretched out. That is, thy wings extended. This alludes to the figure of the cherubims, in the sanctuary, which with stretched out wings covered the ark, (Ch.) on the holy mountain. S. Jer. &c.—Fire. That is, bright and precious stones, which sparkle like fire. Ch.—With these the king’s robes glittered; or he walked upon them. Est. i. 6. C.

VER. 18. Sanctuaries, or temples, which was a crime (C.) in an idolater, as he took them to be the temples of a real deity. H.

VER. 22. Sidon. It gave rise to Tyre, yet was now inferior, though independent of it, (Isa. xxiii. 4,) or subject to Egypt. Diod. ii. 2.—It was now pillaged.

VER. 24. Bitterness. Jezebel came hence (4 Kings xvi. 31); and the Phœnicians hemmed in the Israelites as much as possible, and fought against them. C.—Sidon was near Tyre, and imitating her crimes was also punished.

CHAP. XXIX. VER. 1. Eleventh. Heb. “twelfth.” Sept. “first of the twelfth month of the twelfth year.” There are other variations in the versions. S. Jerom reads the first in Heb., as Theodoret does, who says that it and the Syr. have the twelfth year; which is true, if we neglect the points. C.—The prophets do not observe the order of times. What is here delivered, was sooner fulfilled; or Tyre and Sidon lay nearer than Egypt. W.—The next three chapters regard that country.

VER. 2. Pharaoh Ephree. Jer. xlv. 30. He came to assist Sedecias; but the Chaldeans raised the siege, went to meet him, and defeated his army. After they had subdued the neighbouring nations, Tyre, &c., they fell upon Egypt. A. 3433. C.

VER. 3. Dragon. Heb. Thonin, (H.) whence Thunnus may be derived means any water monster, and seems here put for the crocodile, (C.) which Pharaoh signifies. Grot.—It was the symbol of Egypt, (C.) and adored by the people. Juv. xv. 2.—Myself. I owe my power to no other. C.

VER. 4. Bridle. The Tentyrians jump upon the crocodile’s back, give it a club to bite at, which they seize with both hands, and bring it to the shore. Pliny, viii. 25.—Apries sent an army against Cyrene, which being defeated as it was thought by the king’s fault, many of the Egyptians revolted. He sent Amasis to reduce them, but they gave him the crown. Herod. ii. 101, and iv. 159.—Nabuchodonosor, taking advantage of these disturbances, and perhaps invited by Amasis, entered Egypt, drove Apries into the Higher Egypt, slew many of the inhabitants and Jews, &c., and left Amasis to govern the wretched remains of that kingdom.

am the Lord :^a because thou hast been a staff of a reed to the house of Israel.

7 When they took hold of thee with the hand, thou didst break and rent all their shoulders; and when they leaned upon thee, thou brokest and weakenedst all their loins.

8 Therefore, thus saith the Lord God: Behold, I will bring the sword upon thee, and cut off man and beast out of thee.

9 And the land of Egypt shall become a desert and a wilderness: and they shall know that I am the Lord: because thou hast said: The river is mine, and I made it.

10 Therefore, behold I come against thee and thy rivers: and I will make the land of Egypt utterly desolate, and wasted by the sword, from the tower of Syene even to the borders of Ethiopia.

11 The foot of man shall not pass through it, neither shall the foot of beast go through it; nor shall it be inhabited during forty years.

12 And I will make the land of Egypt desolate in the midst of the lands that are desolate, and the cities thereof in the midst of the cities that are destroyed, and they shall be desolate for forty years: and I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations, and will disperse them through the countries.

13 For thus saith the Lord God: At the end of forty years, I will gather the Egyptians from the people among whom they had been scattered.

14 And I will bring back the captivity of Egypt, and will place them in the land of Phatures, in the land of their nativity, and they shall be there a low kingdom:

15 It shall be the lowest among other kingdoms, and it shall no more be exalted over the nations; and I will diminish them, that they shall rule no more over the nations.

16 And they shall be no more a confidence to the house of Israel, teaching iniquity, that they may flee, and follow them: and they shall know that I am the Lord God.

17 And it came to pass in the seven and twentieth year,^b in the first month, in the first of the month, that the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

18 Son of man, Nabuchodonosor, king of Babylon, hath made his army to undergo hard service against Tyre: every head was made bald, and every shoulder was peeled: and there hath been no reward given him, nor his army for Tyre, for the service that he rendered me against it.

19 Therefore, thus saith the Lord God: Behold I will set Nabuchodonosor, the king of Babylon, in the land of Egypt: and he shall take her multitude, and take the booty thereof for a prey, and rifle the spoils thereof: and it shall be wages for his army,

20 And for the service that he hath done me against it: I have given him the land of Egypt, because he hath laboured for me, saith the Lord God.

21 In that day a horn shall bud forth to the house of Israel, and I will give thee an open mouth in the midst of them: and they shall know that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXX.

The desolation of Egypt and her helpers: all her cities shall be wasted.

AND the word of the Lord came to me,^d saying:

2 Son of man, prophesy and say: Thus saith the Lord God: Howl ye, woe, woe to the day:

3 For the day is near, yea the day of the Lord is near, a cloudy day, it shall be the time of the nations.

4 And the sword shall come upon Egypt: and there shall be dread in Ethiopia, when the wounded shall fall in Egypt, and the multitude thereof shall be taken away, and the foundations thereof shall be destroyed.

5 Ethiopia, and Libya, and Lydia, and all the rest of the crowd, and Chub, and the children of the land of the covenant, shall fall with them by the sword.

6 Thus saith the Lord God: They also that uphold Egypt shall fall, and the pride of her empire shall be brought down: from the tower of Syene shall they fall in it by the sword, saith the Lord, the God of hosts.

7 And they shall be desolate in the midst of the lands that are desolate, and the cities thereof shall be in the midst of the cities that are wasted.

8 And they shall know that I am the Lord, when I shall have set a fire in Egypt, and all the helpers thereof shall be destroyed.

9 In that day shall messengers go forth from my face, in ships, to destroy the confidence of Ethiopia; and there shall be dread among them in the day of Egypt: because it shall certainly come.

10 Thus saith the Lord God: I will make the multitude of Egypt to cease by the hand of Nabuchodonosor, the king of Babylon.

11 He, and his people with him, the strongest of nations, shall be brought to destroy the land: and they shall draw their swords upon Egypt, and shall fill the land with the slain.

12 And I will make the channels of the rivers dry, and will deliver the land into the hand of the wicked: and will lay waste the land, and all that is therein, by the hands of strangers: I, the Lord, have spoken it.

^a Isa. xxxvi. 6.—^b A. M. 3432, A. C. 572.

^c Jer. xli. 2.—^d Jer. xliii., and xli., and xli.

Usher, A. 3430. The Scripture, however, seems to say that Pharaoh was slain. Jer. xliii., &c. C.

VER. 6. Israel, tempting them to rebel. S. Jer.

VER. 7. Loins. They fell upon thee, and thou didst wound (C.) or "dis-solve" their loins. H.

VER. 10. Tower; or rather (C.) Heb. and Sept. "from Magdol to Syene." H.—This was on the frontiers of Ethiopia, below the cataracts. Pliny, v. 9.

VER. 11. Years, till the third of Cyrus, who gave liberty to all the captives at the beginning of his reign. Ver. 13. C.

VER. 14. Low. The Jews were no more tempted to apply to them for aid. C.—Amasis strove to shake off the yoke: but Cambyzes came and slew many. Psammis killed himself (Herod. iii. 9); or was taken to Susa, and the country laid waste. Ctesias.—Egypt has almost ever since been subject to foreign princes, (H.) Persians, Greeks, Romans, Saracens, Mamelukes, and Turks.

VER. 17. Year; fifteen (C.) or seventeen years after the preceding prophecy, (ver. 1. W.) but on the same subject.

VER. 18. Pealed, with carrying machines of war and burdens for thirteen years.—No reward worth the labour. The new city surrendered upon terms, (C.) or the citizens shipped off their most valuable goods, and retired to Carthage, &c. W.

CHAP. XXX. VER. 2. Day of vengeance, (C.) when the Lord shall judge. (1 Cor. v. 2,) and Egypt shall fall a prey to the most powerful nation of the Chaldees. W.

VER. 5. Lydia. Heb. "Phut," near Egypt. C.—These troops were paid H.—Chub, in Marootis.—Covenant: the Jews or auxiliaries. Sept. add, "The Persians and Cretans." C.

VER. 9. Messengers; the Chaldeans. C.—The Nile was navigable as far as Syene. S. Jer.

13 *Thus saith the Lord God: I will also destroy the idols, and I will make an end of the idols of Memphis: and there shall be no more a prince of the land of Egypt: and I will cause a terror in the land of Egypt.

14 And I will destroy the land of Phatures, and will make a fire in Taphnis, and will execute judgments in Alexandria.

15 And I will pour out my indignation upon Pelusium, the strength of Egypt, and will cut off the multitude of Alexandria.

16 And I will make a fire in Egypt: Pelusium shall be in pain, like a woman in labour, and Alexandria shall be laid waste, and in Memphis there shall be daily distresses.

17 The young men of Heliopolis, and of Bubastus, shall fall by the sword; and they themselves shall go into captivity.

18 And in Taphnis, the day shall be darkened when I shall break there the sceptres of Egypt, and the pride of her power shall cease in her: a cloud shall cover her, and her daughters shall be led into captivity.

19 And I will execute judgments in Egypt: and they shall know that I am the Lord.

20 And it came to pass in the eleventh year, in the first month, in the seventh day of the month, that the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

21 Son of man, I have broken the arm of Pharaoh, king of Egypt; and behold it is not bound up, to be healed, to be tied up with clothes, and swathed with linen, that it might recover strength and hold the sword.

22 Therefore, thus saith the Lord God: Behold I come against Pharaoh, king of Egypt, and I will break into pieces his strong arm, which is already broken: and I will cause the sword to fall out of his hand:

23 And I will disperse Egypt among the nations, and scatter them through the countries.

24 And I will strengthen the arms of the king of Babylon, and will put my sword in his hand: and I will break the arms of Pharaoh, and they shall groan bitterly, being slain before his face.

25 And I will strengthen the arms of the king of Babylon, and the arms of Pharaoh shall fall: and they shall know that I am the Lord, when I shall have given my sword into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he shall have stretched it forth upon the land of Egypt.

26 And I will disperse Egypt among the nations, and will scatter them through the countries, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

* Zach. xiii. 2.—b A. M. 3416.

VER. 12. Dry. The canals were obstructed, (C.) which rendered cavalry useless. Herod. ii. 108.

VER. 13. Memphis, the capital of Lower Egypt, (C.) where the idol or bull (H.) Apis was fed. C.

VER. 14. Taphnis, or Tanis, famous for the miracles of Moses. C.—Alexandria. In the Heb. No, which was the ancient name of that city, which was afterwards rebuilt by Alexander the Great, and from his name called Alexandria. Ch.—Sept., “Memphis or Diospolis” (C.); or Thebes, capital of Higher Egypt (Boch.); though it seems rather a maritime town. Nah. iii. 8. C.

VER. 15. Pelusium. Heb. Sin, (H.) “muddy,” has the same import as πηλος. C.—The place is now called Damietta. H.

VER. 18. Darkened: war and misery shall ensue.—Sceptres, by dethroning princes.—Pride: overflowing of the Nile. See Jer. xlix. 19.

VER. 20. Year. in which Jerusalem was taken. Pharaoh lost a battle. H. 240

CHAP. XXXI.

The Assyrian empire fell for their pride: the Egyptian shall fall in like manner.

AND it came to pass in the eleventh year, the third month, the first day of the month, that the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 Son of man, speak to Pharaoh, king of Egypt, and to his people: To whom art thou like, in thy greatness:

3 Behold, the Assyrian was like a cedar in Libanus, with fair branches, and full of leaves, of a high stature, and his top was elevated among the thick boughs.

4 The waters nourished him, the deep set him up on high, the streams thereof ran round about his roots, and it sent forth its rivulets to all the trees of the country.

5 Therefore was his height exalted above all the trees of the country: and his branches were multiplied, and his boughs were elevated because of many waters.

6 And when he had spread forth his shadow, all the fowls of the air made their nests in his boughs, and all the beasts of the forest brought forth their young under his branches, and the assembly of many nations dwelt under his shadow.

7 And he was most beautiful for his greatness, and for the spreading of his branches: for his root was near great waters.

8 The cedars in the paradise of God were not higher than he, the fir-trees did not equal his top, neither were the plane-trees to be compared with him for branches: no tree in the paradise of God, was like him in his beauty.

9 For I made him beautiful, and thick set with many branches: and all the trees of pleasure, that were in the paradise of God, envied him.

10 Therefore, thus saith the Lord God: Because he was exalted in height, and shot up his top green and thick, and his heart was lifted up in his height:

11 I have delivered him into the hands of the mighty one of the nations, he shall deal with him: I have cast him out according to his wickedness.

12 And strangers and the most cruel of the nations shall cut him down, and cast him away upon the mountains, and his boughs shall fall in every valley, and his branches shall be broken on every rock of the country: and all the people of the earth shall depart from his shadow, and leave him.

13 All the fowls of the air dwelt upon his ruins, and all the beasts of the field were among his branches.

14 For which cause none of the trees by the waters shall exalt themselves for their height: nor shoot up their country was afterwards invaded, (C.) and his subjects rebelled. Ver. 21. H.—Part of the kingdom had been already subdued. 4 Kings xxiv. 7. W.

* A. M. 3416.

CHAP. XXXI. VER. 1. Year, about a month before the fall of Jerusalem. VER. 3. Assyrian. The ruin of this great empire (C.) might have admonished the king of Egypt of his frail condition. H.—Cedar. Sept. “cypress.”—Top; the king of Ninive. C.

VER. 4. Roots. Various nations paid tribute to the Assyrian, (S. Jer. C.) while he sent his troops, like rivulets, to keep all in subjection. Theod.

VER. 11. I have delivered. Here the time past is put for the future; i. e. I shall deliver.—The mighty one, &c., viz. Nabuchodonosor, who conquered both the Assyrians and Egyptians (Ch.); or rather his father, Nabopolassar, subdued the former. Ver. 3. H.

VER. 12. Strangers; revolted Assyrians. See Psal. xvii. 46.

VER. 13. Branches. The nations continued, but submitted to another master tops among the thick branches and leaves, neither shall any of them that are watered stand up in their height: for they are all delivered unto death to the lowest parts of the earth, in the midst of the children of men, with them that go down into the pit.

15 Thus saith the Lord God: In the day when he went down to hell, I brought in mourning, I covered him with the deep: and withheld its rivers, and restrained the many waters: Libanus grieved for him, and all the trees of the field trembled.

16 I shook the nations with the sound of his fall, when I brought him down to hell with them that descend into the pit: and all the trees of pleasure, the choice and best in Libanus, all that were moistened with waters, were comforted in the lowest parts of the earth.

17 For they also shall go down with him to hell to them that are slain by the sword: and the arms of every one shall sit down under his shadow in the midst of the nations.

18 To whom art thou like, O thou that art famous and lofty among the trees of pleasure? Behold, thou art brought down with the trees of pleasure, to the lowest parts of the earth: thou shalt sleep in the midst of the uncircumcised, with them that are slain by the sword: this is Pharaoh, and all his multitude, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XXXII.

The prophet's lamentation for the king of Egypt.

AND it came to pass in the twelfth year,^a in the twelfth month, in the first day of the month, that the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 Son of man, take up a lamentation for Pharaoh, the king of Egypt, and say to him: Thou art like the lion of the nations, and the dragon that is in the sea: and thou didst push with the horn in thy rivers, and didst trouble the waters with thy feet, and didst trample upon their streams.

3 Therefore, thus saith the Lord God: ^bI will spread out my net over thee with the multitude of many people, and I will draw thee up in my net.

4 And I will throw thee out on the land; I will cast thee away in the open field; and I will cause all the fowls of the air to dwell upon thee; and I will fill the beasts of all the earth with thee.

5 And I will lay thy flesh upon the mountains, and will fill thy hills with thy corruption.

6 And I will water the earth with thy stinking blood upon the mountains, and the valleys shall be filled with thee.

7 And I will cover the heavens, when thou shalt be put out, and I will make the stars thereof dark: I will cover the sun with a cloud, and the moon shall not give her light.

8 I will make all the lights of heaven to mourn over thee, and I will cause darkness upon thy land, saith the Lord God, when thy wounded shall fall in the midst of the land, saith the Lord God.

9 And I shall provoke to anger the heart of many people, when I shall have brought in thy destruction among the nations upon the lands which thou knowest not.

10 And I will make many people to be amazed at thee, and their kings shall be horribly afraid for thee, when my sword shall begin to fly upon their faces: and they shall be astonished on a sudden, every one for his own life, in the day of their ruin.

11 For thus saith the Lord God: The sword of the king of Babylon shall come upon thee.

12 By the swords of the mighty I will overthrow thy multitude: all these nations are invincible: and they shall waste the pride of Egypt, and the multitude thereof shall be destroyed.

13 I will destroy also all the beasts thereof, that were beside the great waters: and the foot of man shall trouble them no more, neither shall the hoof of beasts trouble them.

14 Then will I make their waters clear, and cause their rivers to run like oil, saith the Lord God:

15 When I shall have made the land of Egypt desolate: and the land shall be destitute of her fulness, when I shall have struck all the inhabitants thereof: and they shall know that I am the Lord.

16 This is the lamentation, and they shall lament therewith: the daughters of the nation shall lament therewith: for Egypt, and for the multitude thereof they shall lament therewith, saith the Lord God.

17 And it came to pass in the twelfth year, ^cin the fifteenth day of the month, that the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

18 Son of man, sing a mournful song for the multitude of Egypt: and cast her down, both her, and the daughters of the mighty nations to the lowest part of the earth, with them that go down into the pit.

19 Whom dost thou excel in beauty? go down and sleep with the uncircumcised.

20 They shall fall in the midst of them that are slain with the sword: the sword is given, they have drawn her down, and all her people.

21 The most mighty among the strong ones shall speak to him from the midst of hell, they that went down with his helpers, and slept uncircumcised, slain by the sword.

^a A. M. 3417, A. C. 567.—^b Supra, xii. 13, and xvii. 20.

^c Isa. xlii. 10; Joel ii. 10, and iii. 15; Matt. xxiv. 29.—^d A. M. 3417.

VER. 15. Waters, as if they bewailed his fate. C.

VER. 16. Comforted. The ghosts of princes who had been subject to Sereac, seeing his fall, bore their own misfortune with greater content. In the grave there is no distinction of master and slave. C.—Surviving princes expected some emolument from the change. H.

VER. 17. Arms; those in power. Sept. "his seed." Heb. Zora, (H.) means both.

CHAP. XXXII. VER. 1. Twelfth. He counts from the captivity of Jecho-nias, as Sedecias reigned only eleven years. W.

VER. 3. Net. Sept. "hook." Chap. xxix. 4. C.

VER. 5. Corruption. Sept. "blood." But romuth (H.) means rather "worms." Syr. C.

VER. 7, 8. Out, like a candle, by death; extinctus. H.—The glory of Egypt was so great, that at its fall the light of heaven seemed diminished. W.—Great desolation is thus intimated.

VER. 9. Anger, as they will not know why I have treated thee so severely—or rather, they shall be afraid for themselves. Ver. 10. C.

VER. 12. Invincible, when they wield God's sword. Cyrus easily conquered them. H.—Heb. "strong." Sept. "pestiferous."

VER. 14. Oil. It is very transparent. It seems the Nile was rendered muddy by cattle, &c.

VER. 15. Fulness, or all of it shall be desolate.

VER. 18. Down: announce this catastrophe. C.

VER. 21. Most. Sept. "giants shall say to thee: Remain in the depth of the pit. Whom dost thou excel? descend," &c. H.—They vary much in this chap. from the Heb. S. Jer.—Helpers; Libyans, &c. Chap. xxx. 5. These shall come 22 Assur is there, and all his multitude: their graves are round about him, all of them slain, and that fell by the sword.

23 Whose graves are set in the lowest parts of the pit: and his multitude lay round about his grave: all of them slain, and fallen by the sword, they that heretofore spread terror in the land of the living.

24 There is Elam, and all his multitude, round about his grave, all of them slain, and fallen by the sword: that went down uncircumcised to the lowest parts of the earth: that caused their terror in the land of the living, and they have borne their shame with them that go down into the pit.

25 In the midst of the slain they have set him a bed among all his people: their graves are round about him: all these are uncircumcised, and slain by the sword: for they spread their terror in the land of the living, and have borne their shame with them that descend into the pit: they are laid in the midst of the slain.

26 There is Mosoch, and Thubal, and all their multitude: their graves are round about him: all of them uncircumcised, and slain, and falling by the sword, though they spread their terror in the land of the living.

27 And they shall not sleep with the brave, and with them that fell uncircumcised, that went down to hell with their weapons, and laid their swords under their heads, and their iniquities were in their bones: because they were the terror of the mighty in the land of the living.

28 So thou also shalt be broken in the midst of the uncircumcised, and shalt sleep with them that are slain by the sword.

29 There is Edom and her kings, and all her princes, who with their army are joined with them that are slain by the sword: and have slept with the uncircumcised, and with them that go down into the pit.

30 There are all the princes of the north, and all the hunters: who were brought down with the slain, fearing and confounded in their strength: who slept uncircumcised with them that are slain by the sword, and have borne their shame with them that go down into the pit.

31 Pharaoh saw them, and he was comforted concerning all his multitude, which was slain by the sword: Pharaoh, and all his army, saith the Lord God:

32 Because I have spread my terror in the land of the living, and he hath slept in the midst of the uncircumcised with them that are slain by the sword: Pharaoh, and all his multitude, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XXXIII.

The duty of the watchman appointed by God: the justice of God's ways: his judgments upon the Jews.

AND the word of the Lord came to me, saying:
2 Son of man, speak to the children of thy people, and say to them: When I bring the sword upon land, if the people of the land take a man, one of their meanest, and make him a watchman over them:

3 And he see the sword coming upon the land, and sound the trumpet, and tell the people:

4 Then he that heareth the sound of the trumpet, who-soever he be, and doth not look to himself, if the sword come and cut him off, his blood shall be upon his own head.

5 He heard the sound of the trumpet, and did not look to himself; his blood shall be upon him: but if he look to himself, he shall save his life.

6 And if the watchman see the sword coming, and sound not the trumpet, and the people look not to themselves, and the sword come and cut off a soul from among them; he indeed is taken away in his iniquity, but I will require his blood at the hand of the watchman.

7 "So thou, O son of man, I have made thee a watchman to the house of Israel: therefore, thou shalt hear the word from my mouth, and shalt tell it them from me.

8 When I say to the wicked: O wicked man, thou shalt surely die: if thou dost not speak to warn the wicked man from his way, that wicked man shall die in his iniquity, but I will require his blood at thy hand.

9 But if thou tell the wicked man, that he may be converted from his ways, and he be not converted from his way, he shall die in his iniquity; but thou hast delivered thy soul.

10 Thou therefore, O son of man, say to the house of Israel: Thus you have spoken, saying: Our iniquities and our sins are upon us, and we pine away in them; how then can we live?

11 "Say to them: As I live, saith the Lord God, I desire not the death of the wicked, but that the wicked turn from his way, and live. Turn ye, turn ye from your evil ways; and why will you die, O house of Israel?

12 Thou therefore, O son of man, say to the children of thy people: The justice of the just shall not deliver to compliment the king. C.—After a battle, those of the same nation were buried together. Ver. 22. Theod.

^a Supra, iii. 17.

^b Supra, xviii. 32.

VER. 27. Not. Some copies of Sept. omit the negation. Others render the Heb. "Have they not slept?" &c. These nations were deprived of military honours, dying like cowards; and therefore their swords were not placed with them in the grave. C.—It was customary to inter such things as the deceased had liked the most. C.

VER. 28. Midst. This threat would make great impression on the Egyptians, who were particularly solicitous to be buried with their fathers.

VER. 29. Edom. Sept. add, "and all the Assyrian princes." Some copies omit Edom. H.—This nation had laid aside circumcision, which Hircan forced them to resume. They had been present at the siege of Jerusalem. Chap. xxxv. C.

VER. 30. Hunters of men, like Nemrod, the first king of Assyria. H.

VER. 32. My. Heb., Sept. "his," (C.) alluding to the ravages of Nebuchadnezzar (Grot.); though the Heb. may also signify my, as the Jews read Egypt, and Palestine, the land of the living, were filled with terror. After the latter had been chastised, Pharaoh might dread (C.) a worse fate (H.); and the multitudes slain before him might afford him some (C.) wretched consolation. H.

CHAP. XXXIII. VER. 2. Take. Before (chap. iii. 17) God made the choice, (C.) as he does here, ver. 7. He confirms the authority of those who are appointed to govern.—Meanest. Lit. "last," (H.) which seems to denote such as are chosen without regard to their dignity or obscurity in life. Gen. xlvii. 2, and 3 Kings xii. 31. C.

VER. 6. Iniquity, not regarding the admonitions of his pastor (chap. iii. 18. C.); or rather of conscience, when the guide proves faithless and silent, as in this instance. H.—The people were persuaded that none suffered except for some fault. Ver. 10; Jer. xxxi. 30; Dan. xiii. 52; Gen. xlv. 16. The author of the Book of Job takes great pains to remove this mistake. God sometimes sends crosses for a trial, (C.) and to increase the merit of his servants; though it be very true, (H.) "no one is miserable except he deserve it." S. Aug.

VER. 10. Live? They suppose their case to be desperate, as their fathers had sinned. Chap. xviii. The prophet shows that none are punished except for their own faults, (C.) and that "each one has free-will to be saved or to be lost." S. Jer.

VER. 11. Desire. The sinner's damnation is not an object of God's pleasure. Chap. xviii. 23. C.—He has an antecedent will to save all. He knocks at the door of our heart, (Apoc. iii. 20,) and if man do what depends on him, nothing will be wanting on the part of God. S. Tho. i. 2, q. 109, and 112. W him, in what day soever he shall sin; and the wickedness of the wicked shall not hurt him, in what day soever he shall turn from his wickedness; and the just shall not be able to live in his justice, in what day soever he shall sin.

13 Yea, if I shall say to the just that he shall surely live, and he, trusting in his justice, commit iniquity, all his justices shall be forgotten; and in his iniquity, which he hath committed, in the same shall he die.

14 And if I shall say to the wicked: Thou shalt surely die: and he do penance for his sin, and do judgment and justice;

15 And if that wicked man restore the pledge, and render what he had robbed, and walk in the commandments of life, and do no unjust thing, he shall surely live, and shall not die.

16 None of his sins, which he hath committed, shall be imputed to him; he hath done judgment and justice, he shall surely live.

17 And the children of thy people have said: The way of the Lord is not equitable: whereas, their own way is unjust.

18 For when the just shall depart from his justice, and commit iniquities, he shall die in them.

19 And when the wicked shall depart from his wickedness, and shall do judgments and justice, he shall live in them.

20 And you say: "The way of the Lord is not right. I will judge every one of you according to his ways, O house of Israel.

21 And it came to pass in the twelfth year^b of our captivity, in the tenth month, in the fifth day of the month, that there came to me one that was fled from Jerusalem, saying: The city is laid waste.

22 And the land of the Lord had been upon me in the evening, before he that was fled came; and he opened my mouth till he came to me in the morning, and my mouth being opened, I was silent no more.

23 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

24 Son of man, they that dwell in these ruinous places in the land of Israel, speak, saying: Abraham was one, and he inherited the land; but we are many, the land is given us in possession.

25 Therefore say to them: Thus saith the Lord God: You that eat with the blood, and lift up your eyes to your uncleannesses, and that shed blood: shall you possess the land by inheritance?

26 You stood on your swords, you have committed abominations, and every one hath defiled his neighbour's wife: and shall you possess the land by inheritance?

27 Say thou thus to them: Thus saith the Lord God: As I live, they that dwell in the ruinous places shall fall by the sword: and he that is in the field, shall be given to the beasts to be devoured: and they that are in holds and caves, shall die of the pestilence.

28 And I will make the land a wilderness and a desert, and the proud strength thereof shall fail; and the mountains of Israel shall be desolate, because there is none to pass by them.

29 And they shall know that I am the Lord, when I shall have made their land waste and desolate, for all their abominations which they have committed.

30 And thou, son of man: the children of thy people, that talk of thee by the walls, and in the doors of the houses, and speak one to another, each man to his neighbour, saying: Come, and let us hear what is the word that cometh forth from the Lord.

31 And they come to thee, as if a people were coming in, and my people sit before thee: and hear thy words, and do them not: for they turn them into a song of their mouth, and their heart goeth after their covetousness.

32 And thou art to them as a musical song, which is sung with a sweet and agreeable voice: and they hear thy words, and do them not.

33 And when that which was foretold shall come to pass, (for behold it is coming,) then shall they know that a prophet hath been among them.

CHAP. XXXIV.

Evil pastors are reproved: Christ, the true pastor, shall come and gather together his flock from all parts of the earth, and preserve it for ever.

AND the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

2 Son of man, prophesy concerning the shepherds of Israel; prophesy, and say to the shepherds: Thus saith the Lord God: "Woe to the shepherds of Israel, that fed themselves: should not the flocks be fed by the shepherds?"

3 You eat the milk, and you clothed yourselves with the wool, and you killed that which was fat: but my flock you did not feed.

4 The weak you have not strengthened, and that which was sick you have not healed; that which was broken you have not bound up, and that which was driven away you have not brought again, neither have you sought that which was lost: but you ruled over them with rigour, and with a high hand.

5 And my sheep were scattered, because there was no

^a Supra, xviii. 25.—^b A. M. 3417, A. C. 587.

VER. 17. Equitable; as we are much more inclined to vice than to virtue. This argumentation is inconclusive, as God owes nothing to man; and what good the latter does is an effect of his grace. The propensity to evil is no excuse, as man is still free.

VER. 21. Twelfth. Rom. Sept. "tenth." Syr. "eleventh year, . . in the twelfth month;" which Theodoret thinks more probable, as the city was taken on the ninth of the fourth month of that year. Yet even so, it is strange that the news should not arrive before.—Captivity. Here it is evident that the prophet dates from that event. Chap. i., &c. II.—As he prophesied on the very day when the city was besieged, (chap. xxiv. 2,) so (ver. 26) he foretold that one should come three years after to inform him of the capture. W.—Then the people would believe him, (chap. xxiv. 27. C.) and he would open his mouth boldly. Ver. 22. H.

VER. 25. The blood. It must be carefully extracted. Gen. ix. 4; Lev. vii. 25.—Uncleannesses; idols, in which you trust.

VER. 26. Swords, thinking to live thereby, (Gen. xxvii. 40,) and to be secure. But I will disarm you. The pestilence shall find out those in the rocks. Ver. 27.

VER. 30. Walls, the resort of idle people. C.

VER. 31. In to a religious meeting. Chal. Perhaps they came on the sabbath to his house. Yet they made a jest and song of his instructions. C.—They heard them with pleasure, but did not reform their lives. H.

VER. 33. Coming. The desolation of Jerusalem, (H.) and what I have foretold, hath already taken place; or, the news will presently arrive: as it did the following morning. Ver. 21. C.

CHAP. XXXIV. VER. 2. Shepherds. That is, princes, magistrates, chief priests, and scribes. Ch.—Excellent instructions are here given for all in authority. C.

VER. 4. Healed. God alone can restore to life. But pastors will not be excused by ignorance, if they know not the maladies and the remedies of their flock.—Hand. This was blamed in the Pharisees, and is contrary to the spirit of the gospel. Matt. xxiii. 4, and 1 Pet. v. 2.

VER. 5. Field. The people, being neglected, followed false prophets and idols. Their teachers were so far from striving to reclaim them, that they perhaps showed them the example. C.

shepherd ; and they became the prey of all the beasts of the field, and were scattered.

6 My sheep have wandered in every mountain, and in every high hill ; and my flocks were scattered upon the face of the earth, and there was none that sought them ; there was none, I say, that sought them.

7 Therefore, ye shepherds, hear the word of the Lord :

8 As I live, saith the Lord God, forasmuch as my flocks have been made a spoil, and my sheep are become a prey to all the beasts of the field, because there was no shepherd ; for my shepherds did not seek after my flock, but the shepherds fed themselves, and fed not my flocks :

9 Therefore, ye shepherds, hear the word of the Lord :

10 Thus saith the Lord God : Behold, I myself come upon the shepherds, I will require my flock at their hand, and I will cause them to cease from feeding the flock any more ; neither shall the shepherds feed themselves any more : and I will deliver my flock from their mouth, and it shall no more be meat for them.

11 For thus saith the Lord God : Behold, I myself will seek my sheep, and will visit them.

12 As the shepherd visiteth his flock, in the day when he shall be in the midst of his sheep that were scattered ; so will I visit my sheep, and will deliver them out of all the places where they have been scattered, in the cloudy and dark day.

13 And I will bring them out from the peoples, and will gather them out of the countries, and will bring them to their own land ; and I will feed them in the mountains of Israel, by the rivers, and in all the habitations of the land :

14 I will feed them in the most fruitful pastures, and their pastures shall be in the high mountains of Israel ; there shall they rest on the green grass, and be fed in fat pastures upon the mountains of Israel.

15 I will feed my sheep : and I will cause them to lie down, saith the Lord God.

16 I will seek that which was lost ; and that which was driven away, I will bring again ; and I will bind up that which was broken, and I will strengthen that which was weak, and that which was fat and strong I will preserve : and I will feed them in judgment.

17 And as for you, O my flocks, thus saith the Lord God : Behold, I judge between cattle and cattle, of rams and of he goats.

18 Was it not enough for you to feed upon good pastures ? but you must also tread down with your feet the residue of your pastures ; and when you drank the clearest water, you troubled the rest with your feet.

19 And my sheep were fed with that which you had trodden with your feet ; and they drank what your feet had troubled.

20 Therefore, thus saith the Lord God to you : Behold, I myself will judge between the fat cattle and the lean.

21 Because you thrust with sides and shoulders, and struck all the weak cattle with your horns, till they were scattered abroad.

22 I will save my flock, and it shall be no more a spoil ; and I will judge between cattle and cattle.

23 ^aAND I WILL SET UP ONE SHEPHERD OVER THEM, and he shall feed them, even my servant David ; he shall feed them, and he shall be their shepherd.

24 And I, the Lord, will be their God, and my servant David the prince, in the midst of them : I, the Lord, have spoken it.

25 And I will make a covenant of peace with them, and will cause the evil beasts to cease out of the land : and they that dwell in the wilderness, shall sleep secure the forests.

26 And I will make them a blessing round about my hill : and I will send down the rain in its season, there shall be showers of blessing.

27 And the tree of the field shall yield its fruit, and the earth shall yield her increase, and they shall be in their land without fear : and they shall know that I am the Lord, when I shall have broken the bonds of their yoke, and shall have delivered them out of the hand of those that rule over them.

28 And they shall be no more for a spoil to the nations ; neither shall the beasts of the earth devour them, but they shall dwell securely without any terror.

29 And I will raise up for them a bud of renown : and they shall be no more consumed with famine in the land, neither shall they bear any more the reproach of the Gentiles.

30 And they shall know that I, the Lord, their God, am with them, and that they are my people, the house of Israel, saith the Lord God.

31 ^bAnd you my flocks, the flocks of my pasture, are men ; and I am the Lord your God, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XXXV.

The judgment of Mount Seir, for their hatred of Israel.

AND the word of the Lord came to me, saying :

2 Son of man, set thy face against Mount Seir, and prophesy concerning it, and say to it :

3 Thus saith the Lord God : Behold, I come against thee, Mount Seir, and I will stretch forth my hand upon thee, and I will make thee desolate and waste.

4 I will destroy thy cities, and thou shalt be desolate : and thou shalt know that I am the Lord.

^a Isa. xl. 11 ; Osee iii. 5 ; John i. 45, and x. 11, and 14.

^b John x. 11.

VER. 10. Cease. Both the leaders and the people were led into captivity.

VER. 13. Land. All this cannot be understood of the synagogue alone.

VER. 16. Preserve, (Sept. Syr.,) which seems more natural than Heb. and Chal. "destroy." I will not eat them, like bad shepherds. Ver. 3. C.

VER. 17. Cattle. The crimes of the pastors do not excuse the flock. In it there are people of different dispositions. The rich often destroy, and these are brought to an account. Ver. 24. C.

VER. 23. David ; Christ, who is of the house of David. Ch.—That king had been dead long before, so that no Jew or heretic can deny but that the Messiah is here meant, as chap. xxxvii. 24, &c. W.

VER. 25. Peace. Christ pacifies all. Rom. xv. 33 ; Mic. v. 5 ; Eph. vi. 15.

—Beasts : those who promote idolatry ; or, speaking of Christians, who teach heretical doctrine and persecute the Church. C.

VER. 29. A bud of renown (germen nominatum). He speaks of Christ, our Lord, the illustrious bud of the house of David, renowned over all the earth. See Jer. xxxiii. 15. Ch.—Sept., Syr., "a plant of peace." Chal. "established." C.

VER. 31. Men. What has been said of sheep (M.) relates to you.

CHAP. XXXV. VER. 2. Face. Address, or speak without fearing any man. W.—Seir : Idumea. He speaks of its devastation, both by Nabuchodonosor on the side of Moab, and by the Machabees in what remained. Jer. xlvii 7, and : Mac. iv. 60, and xiv. 33. C.

5 Because thou hast been an everlasting enemy, and hast shut up the children of Israel, in the hands of the sword in the time of their affliction, in the time of their last iniquity.

6 Therefore as I live, saith the Lord God, I will deliver thee up to blood, and blood shall pursue thee: and whereas thou hast hated blood, blood shall pursue thee.

7 And I will make Mount Seir waste and desolate; and I will take away from it him that goeth and him that returneth.

8 And I will fill his mountains with his men that are slain: in thy hills, and in thy valleys, and in thy torrents they shall fall that are slain with the sword.

9 I will make thee everlasting desolations, and thy cities shall not be inhabited: and thou shalt know that I am the Lord God.

10 Because thou hast said: The two nations, and the two lands shall be mine, and I will possess them by inheritance: whereas the Lord was there.

11 Therefore as I live, saith the Lord God, I will do according to thy wrath, and according to the envy which thou hast exercised in hatred to them: and I will be made known by them, when I shall have judged thee.

12 And thou shalt know that I, the Lord, have heard all thy reproaches, that thou hast spoken against the mountains of Israel, saying: They are desolate, they are given to us to consume.

13 And you rose up against me with your mouth, and have derogated from me by your words: I have heard them.

14 Thus saith the Lord God: When the whole earth shall rejoice, I will make thee a wilderness.

15 As thou hast rejoiced over the inheritance of the house of Israel, because it was laid waste, so will I do to thee: thou shalt be laid waste, O Mount Seir, and all Idumea: and they shall know that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXXVI.

The restoration of Israel, not for their merits, but by God's special grace. Christ's baptism.

AND thou, son of man, prophesy to the mountains of Israel, and say: "Ye mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord:

2 Thus saith the Lord God: Because the enemy hath said of you: Aha, the everlasting heights are given to us for an inheritance.

* Supra, vi. 3.

VER. 5. Enemy. God revenges the injuries done to his Church, as if they were done to himself. Acts ix. 4. W.—The enmity of Jacob and of Esau seemed to commence in the womb, and was increased by the purchase of the birth-right, till Jacob's prudence disarmed his brother. Their descendants sought every opportunity to injure one another.

VER. 9. Inhabited for a considerable time, as chap. xxvi. 20.

VER. 10. Two. I will add the country of the Jews to my own, or will possess the land belonging to the kingdoms of Juda and of Israel. Their hopes were blasted. They never occupied any thing belonging to the Israelites, and what they had taken from Juda, as far as Hebron, was recovered.—There, witness of these designs, and guardian of his temple, &c.

VER. 11. Wrath. The Jews shall treat you as you have threatened to do unto them.—By them, my people. Sept. "to thee."

VER. 13. Derogated. Sept. "bawled;" or Heb. "multiplied your words against me," as if I could not protect my inheritance. H.—You would pretend to judge me, and to fathom my designs.

VER. 14. Rejoice. After the captivity, the Machabees shall conquer Edom.

CHAP. XXXVI. VER. 1. Israel. The restoration of the Jews and the redemption of Christ, constitute this fourth division. W.

3 Therefore prophesy, and say: Thus saith the Lord God: Because you have been desolate, and trodden underfoot on every side, and made an inheritance to the rest of the nations, and are become the subject of the talk, and the reproach of the people:

4 Therefore, ye mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord God: Thus saith the Lord God to the mountains, and to the hills, to the brooks, and to the valleys, and to desolate places, and ruinous walls, and to the cities that are forsaken, that are spoiled, and derided by the rest of the nations round about.

5 Therefore thus saith the Lord God: In the fire of my zeal I have spoken of the rest of the nations, and of all Edom, who have taken my land to themselves, for an inheritance with joy, and with all the heart, and with the mind: and have cast it out to lay it waste.

6 Prophecy therefore concerning the land of Israel, and say to the mountains, and to the hills, to the ridges, and to the valleys: Thus saith the Lord God: Behold, I have spoken in my zeal, and in my indignation, because you have borne the shame of the Gentiles.

7 Therefore thus saith the Lord God: I have lifted up my hand, that the Gentiles who are round about you, shall themselves bear their shame.

8 But as for you, O mountains of Israel, shoot ye forth your branches, and yield your fruit to my people of Israel: for they are at hand to come.

9 For lo I am for you, and I will turn to you, and you shall be ploughed and sown.

10 And I will multiply men upon you, and all the house of Israel: and the cities shall be inhabited, and the ruinous places shall be repaired.

11 And I will make you abound with men and with beasts: and they shall be multiplied, and increase: and I will settle you as from the beginning, and will give you greater gifts than you had from the beginning: and you shall know that I am the Lord.

12 And I will bring men upon you, my people Israel, and they shall possess thee for their inheritance: and thou shalt be their inheritance, and shalt no more henceforth be without them.

13 Thus saith the Lord God: Because they say of you: Thou art a devourer of men, and one that suffocatest thy nation:

14 Therefore thou shalt devour men no more, nor destroy thy nation any more, saith the Lord God:

VER. 2. Heights. Sept. "deserts." The mountains are often styled eternal, as being the best symbols of durability. Deut. xxxiii. 15.

VER. 8. Israel. Some apply what follows to the captives returning: others, perceiving that the expressions were not then literally verified, have recourse to the reign of a thousand years. Others, again, explain the whole of Christ's Church. But some expressions refer to it, and others to the captives; which, though mixed together, induce no confusion, as what belongs to the Jews was a figure of what regarded Christ; and the predictions of the Messias might be applied to the Jews in an hyperbolical sense. S. Aug. Doct. iii. 34. S. Jer. M. T. C.

VER. 11. Greater. Sept. "similar." H.—It would be difficult to show that the Jews arrived at greater eminence after the captivity than before, (C.) though they were less addicted to idolatry. Their kingdom was not independent: they had no prophets, &c. But the superior numbers and excellence of the Christian Church is manifest.

VER. 12. Them. Antiochus and the Romans laid waste the country (C.); and Adrian would not allow the Jews to come near Jerusalem. S. Jer. Eps. iv. 6.—The people were not indeed removed together, as they had been. But all this is verified only in the Church, which in the midst of persecutions always subsists. Theodoret thinks these promises were conditional with regard to the Jews.

15 Neither will I cause men to hear in thee the shame of the nations any more, nor shalt thou bear the reproach of the people, nor lose thy nation any more, saith the Lord God.

16 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying :

17 Son of man, when the house of Israel dwelt in their own land, they defiled it with their ways, and with their doings : their way was before me like the uncleanness of a menstruous woman.

18 And I poured out my indignation upon them for the blood which they had shed upon the land, and with their idols they defiled it.

19 And I scattered them among the nations, and they are dispersed through the countries : I have judged them according to their ways, and their devices.

20 And when they entered among the nations whither they went,* they profaned my holy name, when it was said of them : This is the people of the Lord, and they are come forth out of his land.

21 And I have regarded my own holy name, which the house of Israel had profaned among the nations to which they went in.

22 Therefore thou shalt say to the house of Israel : Thus saith the Lord God : It is not for your sake that I will do this, O house of Israel, but for my holy name's sake, which you have profaned among the nations whither you went.

23 And I will sanctify my great name, which was profaned among the Gentiles, which you have profaned in the midst of them : that the Gentiles may know that I am the Lord, saith the Lord of hosts, when I shall be sanctified in you before their eyes.

24 For I will take you from among the Gentiles, and will gather you together out of all the countries, and will bring you into your own land.

25 And I will pour upon you clean water, and you shall be cleansed from all your filthiness, and I will cleanse you from all your idols.

26 ^b And I will give you a new heart, and put a new spirit within you : and I will take away the stony heart out of your flesh, and will give you a heart of flesh.

27 And I will put my spirit in the midst of you : and I will cause you to walk in my commandments, and to keep my judgments, and do them.

28 And you shall dwell in the land which I gave to your fathers, and you shall be my people, and I will be your God.

29 And I will save you from all your uncleannesses ; and I will call for corn, and will multiply it, and will lay no famine upon you.

30 And I will multiply the fruit of the tree, and the increase of the field, that you bear no more the reproach of famine among the nations.

* Isa. lii. 5 ; Rom. ii. 24.

31 And you shall remember your wicked ways, and your doings that were not good : and your iniquities, and your wicked deeds shall displease you.

32 It is not for your sakes that I will do this, saith the Lord God, be it known to you : be confounded, and ashamed at your own ways, O house of Israel.

33 Thus saith the Lord God : In the day that I shall cleanse you from all your iniquities, and shall cause the cities to be inhabited, and shall repair the ruinous places.

34 And the desolate land shall be tilled, which before was waste in the sight of all that passed by.

35 They shall say : This land that was untilled is become as a garden of pleasure : and the cities that were abandoned, and desolate, and destroyed, are peopled and fenced.

36 And the nations, that shall be left round about you, shall know that I, the Lord, have built up what was destroyed, and planted what was desolate, that I, the Lord, have spoken and done it.

37 Thus saith the Lord God : Moreover in this shall the house of Israel find me, that I will do it for them : I will multiply them as a flock of men.

38 As a holy flock, as the flock of Jerusalem in her solemn feasts : so shall the waste cities be full of flocks of men : and they shall know that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXXVII.

A vision of the resurrection of dry bones, foreshowing the deliverance of the people from their captivity. Juda and Israel shall be all one kingdom under Christ. God's everlasting covenant with the Church.

THE hand of the Lord was upon me, and brought me forth in the spirit of the Lord ; and set me down in the midst of a plain that was full of bones.

2 And he led me about through them on every side : now they were very many upon the face of the plain, and they were exceedingly dry.

3 And he said to me : Son of man, dost thou think these bones shall live ? And I answered : O Lord God, thou knowest.

4 And he said to me : Prophecy concerning these bones : and say to them : Ye dry bones, hear the word of the Lord.

5 Thus saith the Lord God to these bones : Behold, I will send spirit into you, and you shall live.

6 And I will lay sinews upon you, and will cause flesh to grow over you, and will cover you with skin ; and I will give you spirit, and you shall live, and you shall know that I am the Lord.

7 And I prophesied as he had commanded me : and as

^b Supra, xi. 19.

VER. 20. Land. Yet their conduct is no better than that of infidels. Thus they throw the blame on the law, and upon God himself. Jer. xlviii. 9, &c. C.

VER. 25. Water. R. David and the Chal. explain this of the remission of sin ; and all Christians understand it of baptism in water, remitting all offences. Eph. v. 26 ; Tit. iii. 5. W.—He alludes to the purification of the Jews, which prefigured baptism and penance, in which the blood of Christ is applied to our souls. This of course was only fulfilled in his Church.

VER. 26. Flesh. The Jews at their return fell not so often into the sins of idolatry, &c., of which the prophets complained. But yet they were far from answering this character. Great irregularities prevailed under Nehemias, and in the days of the Machabees the priests publicly worshipped idols. 1 Esd. ix., and 2 Esd. v. and viii., and 2 Mac. iv. and v. C.

VER. 37. Find. Heb. "seek." I will cause great multitudes to come to the solemn feasts. This was still more seen after the conversion of the Gentiles. C.

CHAP. XXXVII. VER. 1. Spirit, by a Divine impulse. He was not really removed. M. C.—Bones. "This passage is very famous." S. Jer.—It insinuates the liberation of the captives and of the Gentiles, as well as the mystery of the resurrection. W.

VER. 5. Spirit. That is, life, soul, and breath. Ch.—At the resurrection the same souls shall return to their respective bodies.

I prophesied there was a noise, and behold a commotion : and the bones came together, each one to its joint.

8 And I saw, and behold the sinews, and the flesh came up upon them : and the skin was stretched out over them, but there was no spirit in them.

9 And he said to me: Prophecy to the spirit, prophecy, O son of man, and say to the spirit: Thus saith the Lord God: Come spirit, from the four winds, and blow upon these slain, and let them live again.

10 And I prophesied as he had commanded me : and the spirit came into them, and they lived : and they stood up upon their feet, an exceeding great army.

11 And he said to me: Son of man: All these bones are the house of Israel: they say: Our bones are dried up, and our hope is lost, and we are cut off.

12 Therefore prophecy, and say to them: Thus saith the Lord God: Behold, I will open your graves, and will bring you out of your sepulchres, O my people: and will bring you into the land of Israel.

13 And you shall know that I am the Lord, when I shall have opened your sepulchres, and shall have brought you out of your graves, O my people:

14 And shall have put my spirit in you, and you shall live, and I shall make you rest upon your own land: and you shall know that I, the Lord, have spoken, and done it, saith the Lord God:

15 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

16 And thou, son of man, take thee a stick, and write upon it: Of Juda, and of the children of Israel, his associates: and take another stick, and write upon it: For Joseph, the stick of Ephraim, and for all the house of Israel, and of his associates.

17 And join them one to the other into one stick, and they shall become one in thy hand.

18 And when the children of thy people shall speak to thee, saying: Wilt thou not tell us what thou meanest by this?

19 Say to them: Thus saith the Lord God: Behold, I will take the stick of Joseph, which is in the hand of Ephraim, and the tribes of Israel that are associated with him: and I will put them together with the stick of Juda, and will make them one stick: and they shall be one in his hand.

20 And the sticks whereon thou hast written, shall be in thy hand, before their eyes.

21 And thou shalt say to them: Thus saith the Lord God: Behold, I will take the children of Israel from the midst of the nations whither they are gone; and I will gather them on every side, and will bring them to their own land.

22 And I will make them one nation in the land on the mountains of Israel, and one king shall be king over them all; and they shall no more be two nations, neither shall they be divided any more into two kingdoms.

23 Nor shall they be defiled any more with their idols, nor with their abominations, nor with all their iniquities: and I will save them out of all the places in which they have sinned, and I will cleanse them; and they shall be my people, and I will be their God.

24 And my servant David shall be king over them, and they shall have one shepherd; they shall walk in my judgments, and shall keep my commandments, and shall do them.

25 And they shall dwell in the land which I gave to my servant Jacob, wherein your fathers dwelt, and they shall dwell in it, they and their children, and their children's children, for ever; and David, my servant, shall be their prince for ever.

26 And I will make a covenant of peace with them, it shall be an everlasting covenant with them; and I will establish them, and will multiply them, and will set my sanctuary in the midst of them for ever.

27 And my tabernacle shall be with them: and I will be their God, and they shall be my people.

28 And the nations shall know that I am the Lord, the sanctifier of Israel, when my sanctuary shall be in the midst of them for ever.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

Gog shall persecute the Church in the latter days. He shall be overthrown.

AND the word of the Lord came to me, saying: 2 Son of man, set thy face against Gog, the land of Magog, the chief prince of Mosoch and Thubal: and prophecy of him,

3 And say to him: Thus saith the Lord God: Behold I come against thee, O Gog, the chief prince of Mosoch and Thubal.

4 And I will turn thee about, and I will put a bit in thy jaws; and I will bring thee forth, and all thy army, horses and horsemen, all clothed with coats of mail, a great multitude, armed with spears, and shields, and swords.

5 The Persians, Ethiopians, and Libyans with them, all with shields and helmets.

6 Gomer, and all his bands, the house of Thogorma, the northern parts, and all his strength, and many peoples with thee.

* John x. 16.—b Isa. xl. 11; Jer. xxxiii. 5; Supra, xxxiv. 23; Dan. ix. 24; John i. 45.

VER. 9. Spirit; wind or soul. The latter animates the body, as the grace (C.) of the Holy Spirit does the soul. H.

VER. 11. Off, like branches. Notwithstanding these desponding thoughts, God will restore his people, (W.) by means of Cyrus.

VER. 16. Associates. When Jeroboam caused the division, some of Israel adhered to Juda. The prophet glued the pieces of wood together, or ingrafted them one into the other, to show that all the people should be united, and the Jews and Gentiles concur to form one church. C. Rom. xi. 17.

VER. 22. King. The Jews were long without kings, after the captivity; then they were not of the tribe of Juda, and all did not return. Christ fulfils the prediction.

VER. 24. David; Christ, the one Shepherd, (John x.,) over all nations. W. —Shepherd. David had been one. C.

VER. 25. Ever. Let the Jews show how this has been accomplished. We know that Christ preserves and rules his Church unto the end.

* Psal. cix. 4, and cxvi. 2; John xii. 34.—d Infra, xxxix. 1; Apoc. xx. 7.

VER. 26. Peace. Can this regard the synagogue? Not a century passed without some flagrant misconduct, or chastisement. But our Saviour is the mediator of peace. Phil. iv. 7. C.

CHAP. XXXVIII. VER. 2. Gog. This name, which signifies hidden or covered, is taken in this place either for the persecutors of the Church of God in general, or some arch-persecutor in particular; such as antichrist shall be in the latter days. See Apoc. xx. 8. And what is said of the punishment of Gog, is verified by the unhappy ends of persecutors.—Magog. Scythia or Tartary, from whence the Turks and other enemies of the Church of Christ originally sprung. Ch.—This prophecy is very difficult. It seems literally to refer to Cambyzes, who invaded Judea about seventy years after the temple had been destroyed, and perished by the hand of God, at Ecbatana, upon Mount Carmel. It is very usual with the prophets to give fictitious names: a. the king of Tyre is called a cherrub, and Jerusalem Ooliba. Cambyzes ruled over Scythia, in Iberia; styled Gogartza, by Strabo, xi. C.

7 Prepare and make thyself ready, and all thy multitude that is assembled about thee: and be thou commander over them.

8 After many days thou shalt be visited: at the end of years thou shalt come to the land that is returned from the sword, and is gathered out of many nations, to the mountains of Israel, which have been continually waste: but it hath been brought forth out of the nations, and they shall all of them dwell securely in it.

9 And thou shalt go up and come like a storm, and like a cloud to cover the land, thou and all thy bands, and many people with thee.

10 Thus saith the Lord God: In that day projects shall enter into thy heart, and thou shalt conceive a mischievous design.

11 And thou shalt say: I will go up to the land which is without a wall, I will come to them that are at rest, and dwell securely: all these dwell without a wall, they have no bars nor gates:

12 To take spoils, and lay hold on the prey, to lay thy hand upon them that had been wasted, and afterwards restored, and upon the people that is gathered together out of the nations, which hath begun to possess and to dwell in the midst of the earth.

13 Saba, and Dedan, and the merchants of Tharsis, and all the lions thereof, shall say to thee: Art thou come to take spoils? behold, thou hast gathered thy multitude to take a prey, to take silver, and gold, and to carry away goods and substance, and to take rich spoils.

14 Therefore, thou son of man, prophesy and say to Gog: Thus saith the Lord God: Shalt thou not know, in that day, when my people of Israel shall dwell securely?

15 And thou shalt come out of thy place from the northern parts, thou and many people with thee, all of them riding upon horses, a great company and a mighty army.

16 And thou shalt come upon my people of Israel like a cloud, to cover the earth. Thou shalt be in the latter days, and I will bring thee upon my land; that the nations may know me, when I shall be sanctified in thee, O God, before their eyes.

17 Thus saith the Lord God: Thou then art he, of whom I have spoken in the days of old, by my servants, the prophets of Israel, who prophesied in the days of those times, that I would bring thee upon them.

18 And it shall come to pass in that day, in the day of the coming of Gog upon the land of Israel, saith the Lord God, that my indignation shall come up in my wrath.

19 And I have spoken in my zeal, and in the fire of my anger, that in that day there shall be a great commotion upon the land of Israel:

20 So that the fishes of the sea, and the birds of the air, and the beasts of the field, and every creeping thing that creepeth upon the ground, and all men that are upon the face of the earth, shall be moved at my presence: and the mountains shall be thrown down, and the hedges shall fall, and every wall shall fall to the ground.

21 And I will call in the sword against him in all my mountains, saith the Lord God: every man's sword shall be pointed against his brother.

22 And I will judge him with pestilence, and with blood, and with violent rain, and vast hailstones: I will rain fire and brimstone upon him, and upon his army, and upon the many nations that are with him.

23 And I will be magnified; and I will be sanctified: and I will be known in the eyes of many nations; and they shall know that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXXIX.

God's judgments upon Gog. God's people were punished for their sins: but shall be favoured with everlasting kindness.

AND thou, son of man, prophesy against Gog, and say. Thus saith the Lord God: Behold, I come against thee, O Gog, the chief prince of Mosoch and Thubal.

2 And I will turn thee round, and I will lead thee out, and will make thee go up from the northern parts; and will bring thee upon the mountains of Israel.

3 And I will break thy bow in thy left hand, and I will cause thy arrows to fall out of thy right hand.

4 Thou shalt fall upon the mountains of Israel, thou and all thy bands, and thy nations that are with thee: I have given thee to the wild beasts, to the birds, and to every fowl, and to the beasts of the earth to be devoured.

5 Thou shalt fall upon the face of the field; for I have spoken it, saith the Lord God.

6 And I will send a fire on Magog, and on them that dwell confidently in the islands; and they shall know that I am the Lord.

7 And I will make my holy name known in the midst of my people Israel, and my holy name shall be profaned no more; and the Gentiles shall know that I am the Lord, the Holy One of Israel.

8 Behold, it cometh, and it is done, saith the Lord God; this is the day whereof I have spoken.

9 And the inhabitants shall go forth of the cities of Israel, and shall set on fire and burn the weapons, the shields, and the spears, the bows and the arrows, and the handstaves and the pikes; and they shall burn them with fire seven years.

* Matt. xxiv. 29; Luke xxi. 25.

VER. 8. Visited, or rather "shalt visit" Judea. Chal. Grot.—Cambyses invaded Egypt twelve years after the Jews had returned, and came upon them two years later, designing to plunder them, at the instigation of their malevolent neighbours. He had sustained great losses in Egypt, and was arrived at Carmel when news was brought that the false Smerdis had declared himself king. See Herod. iii. 61.

VER. 12. Midst. Lit. "navel." Heb. "Thabor," intimating a mountain rising in a plain. Judg. ix. 7. C.

VER. 13. Tharsis. Sept. "Carthage, and all their villages." The merchants or naval forces of Cambyses spurred him forward, (see Psal. lxxvii. 6,) as well as the Arabs, Cushites, &c. 1 Esd. iv. 8. C.

VER. 16. Latter. Antichrist shall persecute the Church at the end of the world. W.

VER. 17. Prophets. See Isa. xiv. &c., xvi. 21, and xxvi. 1; Jer. xxx. 3, and 23; Joel ii. 30; iii. 1, &c.

VER. 21. Sword. The Jews were not in a condition to make resistance. C.—Cambyses had his brother Smerdis slain. But another was set on the throne: whereupon, mounting his horse in a fury, he wounded himself with his sword in the thigh, which mortifying, caused his death after twenty days. Herod. iii. 21, &c. C.

VER. 22. Pestilence. His wound might be thus described.—Blood. Thus was he punished for shedding that of innocent people. C.

CHAP. XXXIX. VER. 3. Arrows. Cambyses thought himself the most skillful at shooting. This was the usual weapon of the Persians (C.) and Parthians. H.

VER. 6. Islands; in the naval forces, or in the places of his dominion where discord shall prevail. C.

VER. 9.—Years: for a long time. Ver. 12 Little fuel is there necessary

10 And they shall not bring wood out of the countries, nor cut down out of the forests; for they shall burn the weapons with fire, and shall make a prey of them to whom they had been a prey, and they shall rob those that robbed them, saith the Lord God.

11 And it shall come to pass in that day, that I will give Gog a noted place for a sepulchre in Israel; the valley of the passengers on the east of the sea, which shall cause astonishment in them that pass by; and there shall they bury Gog, and all his multitude, and it shall be called the valley of the multitude of Gog.

12 And the house of Israel shall bury them for seven months, to cleanse the land.

13 And all the people of the land shall bury him, and it shall be unto them a noted day, wherein I was glorified, saith the Lord God.

14 And they shall appoint men to go continually about the land, to bury and to seek out them that were remaining upon the face of the earth, that they may cleanse it; and after seven months they shall begin to seek.

15 And they shall go about passing through the land; and when they shall see the bone of a man, they shall set up a sign by it, till the buriers bury it in the valley of the multitude of Gog.

16 And the name of the city shall be Amona, and they shall cleanse the land.

17 And thou, O son of man, saith the Lord God, say to every fowl, and to all the birds, and to all the beasts of the field: Assemble yourselves, make haste, come together from every side to my victim, which I slay for you, a great victim upon the mountains of Israel: to eat flesh, and drink blood.

18 You shall eat the flesh of the mighty, and you shall drink the blood of the princes of the earth: of rams, and of lambs, and of he-goats, and bullocks, and of all that are well fed and fat.

19 And you shall eat the fat till you be full, and shall drink blood till you be drunk of the victim which I shall slay for you.

20 And you shall be filled at my table with horses, and mighty horsemen, and all the men of war, saith the Lord God.

21 And I will set my glory among the nations: and all nations shall see my judgment that I have executed, and my hand that I have laid upon them.

22 And the house of Israel shall know that I am the Lord their God, from that day and forward.

23 And the nations shall know that the house of Israel were made captives for their iniquity, because they forsook me, and I hid my face from them: and I delivered them into the hands of their enemies, and they fell all by the sword.

24 I have dealt with them according to their uncleanness and wickedness, and hid my face from them.

25 Therefore, thus saith the Lord God: Now will I bring back the captivity of Jacob, and will have mercy on all the house of Israel: and I will be jealous for my holy name.

26 And they shall bear their confusion, and all the transgressions wherewith they have transgressed against me, when they shall dwell in their land securely, fearing no man:

27 And I shall have brought them back from among the nations, and shall have gathered them together out of the lands of their enemies, and shall be sanctified in them, in the sight of many nations.

28 And they shall know that I am the Lord their God, because I caused them to be carried away among the nations; and I have gathered them together unto their own land, and have not left any of them there.

29 And I will hide my face no more from them, for I have poured out my spirit upon all the house of Israel, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XL.

The prophet sees in a vision the rebuilding of the temple: the dimensions of several parts thereof.

IN the five and twentieth year of our captivity, in the beginning of the year, the tenth day of the month, the fourteenth year^b after the city was destroyed: in the self-same day the hand of the Lord was upon me, and he brought me thither.

^b A. M. 3430, A. C. 574.

VER. 11. East of the Mediterranean and of Carmel, the high road from Assyria to Egypt, (Gen. xxxvii. 2. C.) where the Romans had a station at Legion. Eus. Called, or shall be. Isa. vii. 14, and lx. 14. C.—Valley. Sept. "Gai, the grave of Gog." Prot. "the valley of Haimon-Gog." Ver. 16. H.

VER. 12. Land, to prevent infection, and to comply with the law. Num. xix. 16.

VER. 13. Day. It does not occur in the calendar. Yet Comestor and the Carthusian mention Cambysa, the day when Bethulia was delivered. Jnd. xvi. 31. The history of Judith may perhaps relate to the defeat of this prince. The embellishments will not injure the truth. The Jews immediately after his death recommence the building of the temple, (1 Esd. iv.; Agg. i. 14,) which they are forced to discontinue, till Hystaspes confirmed the decree of Cyrus. This was the grand object of their desires, and therefore the day when Cambyses fell was ever memorable to them. C. Diss.

VER. 15. Buriers. These might be foreign slaves, or Jews, who followed this employment. C.—They would be habitually (H.) unclean, and their company would be carefully avoided. Those who sought after the dead remains contracted no uncleanness. C.

VER. 16. Amona. Heb. emune, (H.) means "a multitude." C.—Sept. "a place for many graves:" πολυανέριον. H.—So many would be buried there, that the place might justly receive such a name; though we find no such city in the neighbourhood. C.

VER. 23. Scord. I could as easily have protected them against the Chaldeans as against this prince, if their sins had not been in the way. C.

VER. 25. Israel. All who please may now return. Hystaspes was very favorable to them. He married Esther, raised Mardochai to great power, and sent Esdras into Judea with ample privileges. Many returned under him, Artaxerxes, and Alexander.

VER. 28. There, except such as refused to return. They have entire liberty. This and what follows was not fully accomplished till the propagation of the gospel. God wished all to embrace it; and though Israel has been partly blind, they will enter the Church after the Gentiles. Rom. xii. 26. C.

CHAP. XL. VER. 1. Month; April 30, A. 3430. Usher. C.—In explaining this last most obscure vision: I. The Jews say it was verified after the captivity. But thus the temple would be four miles round, and the city thirty-six, which never was the case. II. Hence more modern Jews assert it will be fulfilled by the Messias. III. Rejecting these errors, Lyran, &c. suppose that the promise was conditional, and that the sins of the Jews prevented the city and temple from being so large; and that the mystical temple of the Church is also insinuated, into which both Jews and Gentiles shall enter. IV. Though this opinion be probable it seems better to follow S. Jerom. S. Greg., &c. who cannot apply all to the Old Testament, nor think that such a huge temple and city were indeed promised, but explain some parts of the captives at their return, as a figure of those redeemed by Christ, and brought into his Church, which is adorned with all graces. Yet the greatest part must be understood of the Church triumphant. W.—S. Jerom confesses his ignorance on this subject; and those who have come after him, though they imitate not his modesty, add little to dissipate the mist with which this vision is surrounded. If some things appear to be too grand for the temple of Solomon, and of Zerobabel, we must reflect that the prophet passes from the figure to the Church of Christ, which is not unusual. M.—Alcasar and Bossuet explain it wholly of the Church, so that the letter requires few notes. D.

2 In the visions of Goa he brought me into the land of Israel, and set me upon a very high mountain: upon which there was as the building of a city, bending towards the south.

3 And he brought me in thither: and behold a man, whose appearance was like the appearance of brass, with a line of flax in his hand, and a measuring reed in his hand: and he stood in the gate.

4 And this man said to me: Son of man, see with thy eyes, and hear with thy ears, and set thy heart upon all that I shall show thee: for thou art brought hither that they may be shown to thee: declare all that thou seest to the house of Israel.

5 And behold there was a wall on the outside of the house round about, and in the man's hand a measuring reed of six cubits and a hand breadth: and he measured the breadth of the building one reed, and the height one reed.

6 And he came to the gate that looked toward the east, and he went up the steps thereof: and he measured the breadth of the threshold of the gate one reed; that is, one threshold was one reed broad:

7 And every little chamber was one reed long, and one reed broad: and between the little chambers were five cubits:

8 And the threshold of the gate by the porch of the gate within, was one reed.

9 And he measured the porch of the gate eight cubits, and the front thereof two cubits, and the porch of the gate was inward.

10 And the little chambers of the gate that looked eastward were three on this side, and three on that side: all three were of one measure, and the fronts of one measure, on both parts.

11 And he measured the breadth of the threshold of the gate ten cubits: and the length of the gate thirteen cubits:

12 And the border before the little chambers one cubit: and one cubit was the border on both sides: and the little chambers were six cubits on this side and that side.

13 And he measured the gate from the roof of one little chamber to the roof of another, in breadth five and twenty cubits: door against door.

14 He made also fronts of sixty cubits: and to the front the court of the gate on every side round about.

15 And before the face of the gate, which reached even the face of the porch of the inner gate, fifty cubits.

16 And slanting windows in the little chambers, and in their fronts, which were within the gate on every side round about: and in like manner there were also in the porches windows round about within, and before the fronts the representation of palm-trees.

17 And he brought me into the outward court, and behold there were chambers, and a pavement of stone in the court round about: thirty chambers encompassed the pavement.

18 And the pavement in the front of the gates, according to the length of the gates, was lower.

19 And he measured the breadth, from the face of the lower gate to the front of the inner court without, a hundred cubits to the east, and to the north.

20 He measured also both the length and the breadth of the gate of the outward court, which looked northward.

21 And the little chambers thereof, three on this side, and three on that side; and the front thereof, and the porch thereof, according to the measure of the former gate, fifty cubits long, and five and twenty cubits broad.

22 And the windows thereof, and the porch, and the gravings, according to the measure of the gate that looked to the east, and they went up to it by seven steps, and a porch was before it.

23 And the gate of the inner court was over against the gate of the north, and that of the east; and he measured from gate to gate a hundred cubits.

24 And he brought me out to the way of the south, and behold the gate that looked to the south; and he measured the front thereof, and the porch thereof, according to the former measures.

25 And the windows thereof, and the porches round about, as the other windows; the length was fifty cubits and the breadth five and twenty cubits.

26 And there were seven steps to go up to it; and a porch before the doors thereof; and there were graven palm-trees, one on this side, and another on that side, in the front thereof.

27 And there was a gate of the inner court towards the south; and he measured from gate to gate towards the south, a hundred cubits.

28 And he brought me into the inner court at the south gate; and he measured the gate according to the former measures.

29 The little chamber thereof, and the front thereof, and the porch thereof, with the same measures; and the windows thereof, and the porch thereof, round about it, was fifty cubits in length, and five and twenty cubits in breadth.

VER. 2. Mountain; Moria, in spirit. On the eastern side, the road to the city was level. Walls were added after the captivity, on the other sides. Jos. Bel. vi. 6.—City, the temple was so large.—South, to one coming from the north, though the temple lay on that side of the town. Psal. xlvii. 2. C.—Sept. read mongod, "over against," instead of mongob, "south," which has perplexed many. Houbig.

VER. 3. Brass; shining. H.—This angel waited for the prophet at the northern gate, but introduced him by that looking towards the east. Ver. 16.—Line. It seems never to have been used. C.

VER. 5. Breadth. Heb., Chal., Sept., "of six cubits, in a cubit and a palm;" intimating that the sacred cubit contained six palms, while the common one had only five, (chap. xliii. 13. W.) being half a yard (Arbutnot); or the Hebrew cubit was a hand's breadth larger than the Babylonian, or about 21½ inches, (C.) which may be styled (M.) the sacred cubit. Arb. H.—Reed. This outer wall (C. M.) was to prevent it any from falling down the precipice. It was about four yards nine inches in height and thickness, being so solid in order that the ground might not give way. C.

VER. 6. Steps. The ground was not quite level, which caused the buildings to rise one above another more elegantly. There were four great gates.

VER. 7. Chamber, for the porters, (C.) three on each side of the porch. Ver. 10. H.

VER. 11. Thirteen, or twenty-six feet high.

VER. 14. Cubits high, or else the elevation is no where specified. C.

VER. 16. Slanting, or "lattice." Sept. "dark." See 3 Kings vii. 4. H.—They were larger within, to afford light, as in Solomon's temple, and in castles.—About. The other gates had the like ornaments. C.

VER. 17. There were chambers. Guzophylacia, so called, because the priests and Levites kept in them the stores and vessels that belonged to the temple. Ch.—They went all round the courts. The women were in the second story. Villalpand and Capel, who are deemed the most accurate, suppose that there were no chambers below, but an open gallery. There seem, however, to have been chambers also. Chap. viii. 7. C.

VER. 18. Lower. So that there was a step up to the threshold. H.

30 And the porch round about was five and twenty cubits long, and five cubits broad.

31 And the porch thereof to the outward court, and the palm-trees thereof in the front: and there were eight steps to go up to it.

32 And he brought me into the inner court by the way of the east; and he measured the gate according to the former measures.

33 The little chamber thereof, and the front thereof, and the porch thereof as before; and the windows thereof, and the porches thereof, round about it, was fifty cubits long, and five and twenty cubits broad.

34 And the porch thereof, that is, of the outward court; and the graven palm-trees in the front thereof, on this side and on that side; and the going up thereof was by eight steps.

35 And he brought me into the gate that looked to the north; and he measured according to the former measures.

36 The little chamber thereof, and the front thereof, and the porch thereof, and the windows thereof, round about it, was fifty cubits long, and five and twenty cubits broad.

37 And the porch thereof looked to the outward court; and the graving of palm-trees, in the front thereof, was on this side and on that side; and the going up to it was by eight steps.

38 And at every chamber was a door in the fore fronts of the gates; there they washed the holocaust.

39 And in the porch of the gate were two tables on this side, and two tables on that side; that the holocaust, and the sin-offering, and the trespass-offering might be slain thereon.

40 And on the outward side, which goeth up to the entry of the gate that looketh toward the north, were two tables; and at the other side, before the porch of the gate, were two tables.

41 Four tables were on this side, and four tables on that side: at the sides of the gate were eight tables, upon which they slew the victims.

42 And the four tables for the holocausts were made of square stones; one cubit and a half long, and one cubit and a half broad, and one cubit high, to lay the vessels upon, in which the holocaust, and the victim is slain.

43 And the borders of them were of one hand breadth, turned inwards round about: and upon the tables was the flesh of the offering.

44 And without the inner gate were the chambers of the singing men in the inner court, which was on the side of the gate that looketh to the north; and their prospect was towards the south, one at the side of the east gate, which looked toward the north.

45 And he said to me: This chamber, which looketh towards the south, shall be for the priests that watch in the wards of the temple.

46 But the chamber that looketh towards the north, shall be for the priests that watch over the ministry of the altar. These are the sons of Sadoc, who, among the sons of Levi, come near to the Lord, to minister to him.

47 And he measured the court a hundred cubits long, and a hundred cubits broad, four-square; and the altar that was before the face of the temple.

48 And he brought me into the porch of the temple; and he measured the porch five cubits on this side, and five cubits on that side; and the breadth of the gate three cubits on this side, and three cubits on that side.

49 And the length of the porch was twenty cubits, and the breadth eleven cubits, and there were eight steps to go up to it. And there were pillars in the fronts; one on this side, and another on that side.

CHAP. XLI.

A description of the temple, and of all the parts of it.

AND he brought me into the temple, and he measured the fronts six cubits broad on this side, and six cubits on that side, the breadth of the tabernacle.

2 And the breadth of the gate was ten cubits; and the sides of the gate five cubits on this side, and five cubits on that side; and he measured the length thereof forty cubits, and the breadth twenty cubits.

3 Then going inward he measured the front of the gate two cubits; and the gate six cubits; and the breadth of the gate seven cubits.

4 And he measured the length thereof twenty cubits, and the breadth twenty cubits, before the face of the temple; and he said to me: This is the holy of holies.

5 And he measured the wall of the house six cubits, and the breadth of every side chamber four cubits round about the house on every side.

6 And the side chambers one by another, were twice thirty-three; and they bore outwards, that they might enter in through the walls of the house in the sides round about, to hold in, and not to touch the wall of the temple.

7 And there was a broad passage round about, going up by winding stairs, and it led into the upper loft of the temple all round; therefore was the temple broader in the higher parts; and so from the lower parts they went to the higher by the midst.

VER. 30. Five cubits. The parallel passages would intimate "fifty." C. Villalp.—But the texts all read five, and Maldon t understands the four vacant spaces between the chambers. Ver. 7. M.

VER. 38. Gates. Heb. is very obscure. The holocausts were slain on the north side of the altar. Lev. i. 11.

VER. 43. Borders, to prevent any thing falling. Chal., &c. have "hooks."

VER. 46. Altar. Not on actual service, (chap. xli. 13,) but to prepare the victims.

VER. 48. That side. Sept. add, "and the opening (εὐρος, width) of the gate was fourteen cubits, and the breadth (projections, εἰσχωμένης) of the," &c. (H.); or the wall on each side of the door was three cubits, so that the porch was twenty cubits broad. C.

VER. 49. Eleven. 3 Kings vi. says ten. The exact breadth was ten and a half, (Vill. T.) or what the pavement covered is there specified according to some. Sept. Rom. has "twelve." But the edit. of Basil reads more correctly, ten. C.—Yet both ten and eleven may be right, if this temple be different. H.

CHAP. XLI. VER. 1. The temple. This plan of a temple, which was here shown to the prophet in a vision, partly had relation to the material temple, which was to be rebuilt; and partly, in a mystical sense, to the spiritual temple of God, the Church of Christ. Ch.

VER. 3. Front, or door-posts. The temple was twenty cubits broad.

VER. 6. One by another, or one over another: literally, side to side, or side upon side. Ch.—The word side is here equivocal, like Heb. tsolā, sometimes denoting the boards, and at other times the apartments round the temple, except on the west, over against the sanctuary, which seems to be the case here. It is true we shall not easily find sixty-six chambers. But the Heb., &c. have only thirty-three. C.—Twice. Heb. pānim. Yet he afterwards places in his commentary, pedes, "thirty-three feet, that is, twenty-two cubits," though feet be never used at all as a measure in Scripture. Houbigant.

VER. 7. Broader, as the wall was not so thick. H.

VER. 9. House. Because these side chambers were in the very walls of the temple all around: or it may also be rendered, (more agreeably to the Heb.,) as

8 And I saw in the house the height round about, the foundations of the side chambers, which were the measure of a reed, the space of six cubits :

9 And the thickness of the wall for the side chamber without, which was five cubits ; and the inner house was within the side chambers of the house.

10 And between the chambers was the breadth of twenty cubits round about the house on every side.

11 And the door of the side chambers was turned towards the place of prayer : one door was toward the north, and another door was toward the south : and the breadth of the place for prayer, was five cubits round about.

12 And the building that was separate, and turned to the way that looked toward the sea, was seventy cubits broad : and the wall of the building, five cubits thick round about : and ninety cubits long.

13 And he measured the length of the house, a hundred cubits : and the separate building, and the walls thereof, a hundred cubits in length.

14 And the breadth before the face of the house, and of the separate place toward the east, a hundred cubits.

15 And he measured the length of the building over against it, which was separated at the back of it : and the galleries on both sides a hundred cubits : and the inner temple, and the porches of the court.

16 The thresholds, and the oblique windows, and the galleries round about on three sides, over against the threshold of every one, and floored with wood all round about : and the ground was up to the windows, and the windows were shut over the doors.

17 And even to the inner house, and without all the wall round about, within and without, by measure.

18 And there were cherubims and palm-trees wrought, so that a palm-tree was between a cherub and a cherub, and every cherub had two faces.

19 The face of a man was toward the palm-tree on one side, and the face of a lion was toward the palm-tree on the other side : set forth through all the house round about.

20 From the ground even to the upper parts of the gate, were cherubims and palm-trees wrought in the wall of the temple.

21 The threshold was four-square, and the face of the sanctuary, sight to sight.

22 The altar of wood was three cubits high : and the length thereof was two cubits : and the corners thereof, and the length thereof, and the walls thereof, were of wood. And he said to me : This is the table before the Lord.

as to signify, that the thickness of the wall for the side chambers within was the same as that of the wall without ; that is, equally five cubits. Ch.—Prot. “and that which was left, was the place of the side chambers that were within.” H.

VER. 11. Prayer, or “separated ;” monē, (H.) the inner house. Ver. 9.

VER. 13. Separate, different from that, ver. 9, (C. Heb. gozre. H.) between the temple and the priests’ apartments, which it may also designate, (C.) unless it (H.) mean the temple itself, which was divided from the rest, (M.) and set aside for prayer, &c. H.

VER. 16. About. Thus he intimates the inner temple, which was covered with boards.

VER. 18. Two. Before, he describes them with four faces. But they varied, (Exod. xxv. 18,) or the other two might be against the wall. C.—The cherub signified “knowledge,” and the palm-tree victory, to show that man must be instructed with Divine knowledge, and so fight for the victory. The face of man 23 And there were two doors in the temple, and in the sanctuary.

24 And in the two doors on both sides were two little doors, which were folded within each other : for there were two wickets on both sides of the doors.

25 And there were cherubims also wrought in the doors of the temple, and the figures of palm-trees, like as were made on the walls : for which cause also the planks were thicker in the front of the porch without.

26 Upon which were the oblique windows, and the representation of palm-trees on this side and on that side, in the sides of the porch : according to the sides of the house, and the breadth of the walls.

CHAP. XLII.

A description of the courts, chambers, and other places belonging to the temple.

AND he brought me forth into the outward court, by the way that leadeth to the north, and he brought me into the chamber that was over against the separate building, and over against the house toward the north.

2 In the face of the north door was the length of a hundred cubits : and the breadth of fifty cubits.

3 Over against the twenty cubits of the inner court, and over against the pavement of the outward court that was paved with stone, where there was a gallery joined to a triple gallery.

4 And before the chambers was a walk ten cubits broad, looking to the inner parts of a way of one cubit. And their doors were toward the north :

5 Where were the store-chambers lower above : because they bore up the galleries, which appeared above out of them from the lower parts, and from the midst of the building.

6 For they were of three stories, and had not pillars, as the pillars of the courts : therefore did they appear above out of the lower places, and out of the middle places, fifty cubits from the ground.

7 And the outward wall that went about by the chambers, which were towards the outward court on the forepart of the chambers, was fifty cubits long.

8 For the length of the chambers of the outward court was fifty cubits : and the length before the face of the temple, a hundred cubits.

9 And there was under these chambers, an entrance from the east, for them that went into them out of the outward court.

10 In the breadth of the outward wall of the court that was toward the east, over against the separate building, and there were chambers before the building.

implied that Christ would suffer, and that of a lion announced that he would overcome all his enemies. W.

VER. 21. The threshold was four-square. That is, the gate of the temple was four-square, and so placed as to answer the gate of the sanctuary within. Ch.

VER. 22. Table, or altar of incense, larger than that of Moses. Exod. xxx. 1.

VER. 23. Sanctuary. One folding door opened into it, the other into the temple.

CHAP. XLII. VER. 1. Outward, with respect to the temple. It is styled inner court, with reference to that of the people.—Separate. Chap. xli. 9.

VER. 3. Triple, one over another, (ver. 6,) or on a level with the priests’ court.

VER. 4. One cubit, projecting out perhaps for seats, or for the pilasters.

VER. 6. Fifty cubits. We only allow thirty, as this is not in Heb., &c. The text, ver. 10 and 12, seem incorrect. C.

11 And the way before them was like the chambers which were toward the north: they were as long as they, and as broad as they: and all the going into them, and their fashions, and their doors were alike.

12 According to the doors of the chambers that were toward the south: there was a door in the head of the way, which way was before the porch, separated towards the east as one entereth in.

13 And he said to me: The chambers of the north, and the chambers of the south, which are before the separate building: they are holy chambers, in which the priests shall eat, that approach to the Lord into the holy of holies: there shall they lay the most holy things, and the offering for sin, and for trespass: for it is a holy place.

14 And when the priests shall have entered in, they shall not go out of the holy places into the outward court: but there they shall lay their vestments, wherein they minister, for they are holy: and they shall put on other garments, and so they shall go forth to the people.

15 Now when he had made an end of measuring the inner house, he brought me out, by the way of the gate that looked toward the east: and he measured it on every side round about.

16 And he measured toward the east, with the measuring reed, five hundred reeds with the measuring reed round about.

17 And he measured toward the north, five hundred reeds, with the measuring reed round about.

18 And towards the south he measured five hundred reeds, with the measuring reed round about.

19 And toward the west he measured five hundred reeds, with the measuring reed.

20 By the four winds he measured the wall thereof on every side round about, five hundred cubits long, and five hundred cubits broad, making a separation between the sanctuary and the place of the people.

CHAP. XLIII.

The glory of God returns to the new temple. The Israelites shall no more profane God's name by idolatry: the prophet is commanded to show them the dimensions, and form of the temple, and of the altar, with the sacrifices to be offered thereon.

AND he brought me to the gate that looked towards the east.

2 And behold the glory of the God of Israel came in ^a Supra, ix. 1.

VER. 14. People. Chap. xlv. 17; Exod. xxxiii. 42. Christian priests use their vestments only when they are officiating. Durand and Durant Rit. ii. 9. C.

VER. 16. Five. Heb. amuth should be mauth, "three hundred, as it is printed (yet not in the Prot. version. H.) thrice just after, and as it is writ here in MS. 4, Camb. i. 2." Kennicott.—Reeds. Sept. "cubits," as Heb., S. Jer., &c. insinuate.

VER. 20. Cubits. This confirms the former correction. Ver. 16. H.—Heb. has only, "of five hundred." Maldonat and A. Lapidé would understand reeds, to agree with what goes before. M.

CHAP. XLIII. VER. 2. Majesty. The world is enlightened by the preaching of the gospel; and the Church triumphant shall shine in perfection, when that which is sown in corruption shall put on incorruption. 1 Cor. xv. S. Jer.

VER. 3. He came. Heb. "I came to destroy (Sept. to anoint) the city," marking such as should be spared. Chap. ix. The glorious chariot entered by the eastern gate, and the prophet followed to the court of the priests. Ver. 5, 13. C.

VER. 7. Said. The Lord spoke, (Chal., Theod.,) or the angel, (S. Jer.,) in human shape. H.—He addresses the prophet, ver. 12 to chap. xlv. 5, though what follows immediately seems to belong to the Lord, (C.) in whose name he speaks.—Name. God hath abandoned the synagogue, but will remain with his church unto the end. Matt. xxiii. 38, and xxviii. 20.—Carcasses. Idols, according to some; or rather by the kings being buried on Sion. This is no where else by the way of the east: and his voice was like the noise of many waters, and the earth shone with his majesty.

3 "And I saw the vision according to the appearance which I had seen when he came to destroy the city: and the appearance was according to the vision^b which I had seen by the river Chobar: and I fell upon my face.

4 And the majesty of the Lord went into the temple by the way of the gate that looked to the east.

5 And the spirit lifted me up, and brought me into the inner court: and behold the house was filled with the glory of the Lord.

6 And I heard one speaking to me out of the house, and the man that stood by me,

7 Said to me: Son of man, the place of my throne, and the place of the soles of my feet, where I dwell in the midst of the children of Israel for ever: and the house of Israel shall no more profane my holy name, they and their kings by their fornications, and by the carcasses of their kings, and by the high places.

8 They who have set their threshold by my threshold, and their posts by my posts: and there was but a wall between me and them: and they profaned my holy name by the abominations which they committed: for which reason I consumed them in my wrath.

9 Now, therefore, let them put away their fornications, and the carcasses of their kings far from me: and I will dwell in the midst of them for ever.

10 But thou, son of man, show to the house of Israel the temple, and let them be ashamed of their iniquities, and let them measure the building:

11 And be ashamed of all that they have done. Show them the form of the house, and of the fashion thereof, the goings out, and the comings in, and the whole plan thereof, and all its ordinances, and all its order, and all its laws, and thou shalt write it in their sight: that they may keep the whole form thereof, and its ordinances, and do them.

12 This is the law of the house upon the top of the mountain: All its border round about is most holy; this then is the law of the house.

13 And these are the measures of the altar by the truest cubit, which is a cubit and a hand breadth: the bottom thereof was a cubit, and the breadth a cubit: and the border thereof unto its edge, and round about, one hand breadth: and this was the trench of the altar.

^b Supra, i. 2.

reprehended; neither is their building too near the temple, which the prophet here condemns. Ver. 8. C.

VER. 8. Wall. The kings of Juda had a door communicating with the temple, by which they entered on the west. It was guarded by Levites. 1 Par. xxvi. 16. Ezechiel places no door on that side.

VER. 9. Carcasses. Lit. "ruins." H.—The remains of the dead were probably not disturbed; but no more, that we know of, were placed on Sion. C.—Kings may signify idols, Moloc, &c., which they had worshipped, and which some had even placed in the holy place, to the nation's ruin. H.

VER. 10. Measure, that they may be convinced of their ingratitude, (M.) which has deprived them of so noble a structure, and put them under the necessity of beginning so great a work again. It required all the exertions of the prophets to make them go forward with it. Agg. i. H.

VER. 12. Border. Nothing but the temple shall be on this mountain. It shall be wholly consecrated to the Lord. This was ill observed. The Asmonean princes erected the famous tower Antonia, at the north side. Jos. See ver. 8.

VER. 13. By. Heb. "by cubits." This cubit is a common cubit, &c. The Babylonian, (H.) or sacred one, was a palm longer. W. Chap. xl. 5.—Breadth. It was the same as the depth, being designed to convey the blood by a conduit to the torrent Cedron.—Trench, or bottom aforesaid. Sept. "the height." H.—Chal. "disposition of the altar," which seems best.

14 And from the bottom of the ground to the lowest brim two cubits, and the breadth of one cubit: and from the lesser brim to the greater brim four cubits, and the breadth one cubit.

15 And the ariel itself was four cubits: and from the ariel upward were four horns.

16 And the ariel was twelve cubits long, and twelve cubits broad, four-square, with equal sides.

17 And the brim was fourteen cubits long, and fourteen cubits broad in the four corners thereof: and the crown round about it was half a cubit, and the bottom of it one cubit round about: and its steps turned toward the east.

18 And he said to me: Son of man, thus saith the Lord God: These are the ceremonies of the altar, in what day soever it shall be made: that holocausts may be offered upon it, and blood poured out.

19 And thou shalt give to the priests, and the Levites, that are of the race of Sadoc, who approach to me, saith the Lord God, to offer to me a calf of the herd for sin.

20 And thou shalt take of his blood, and shalt put it upon the four horns thereof, and upon the four corners of the brim, and upon the crown round about: and thou shalt cleanse, and expiate it.

21 And thou shalt take the calf, that is offered for sin: and thou shalt burn him in a separate place of the house without the sanctuary.

22 And in the second day thou shalt offer a he-goat without blemish for sin: and they shall expiate the altar, as they expiated it with the calf.

23 And when thou shalt have made an end of the expiation thereof, thou shalt offer a calf of the herd without blemish, and a ram of the flock without blemish.

24 And thou shalt offer them in the sight of the Lord: and the priests shall put salt upon them, and shall offer them a holocaust to the Lord.

25 Seven days shalt thou offer a he-goat for sin daily: they shall offer also a calf of the herd, and a ram of the flock without blemish.

26 Seven days shall they expiate the altar, and shall cleanse it: and they shall consecrate it.

27 And the days being expired, on the eighth day and thenceforward, the priests shall offer your holocausts upon the altar, and the peace-offerings: and I will be pacified towards you, saith the Lord God.

VER. 14. Cubit. They were each a cubit broad, but this greater means higher up. Some assert that the priests stood on this base to avoid treading on the altar, when they placed the wood or victims. But it would be too low; and steps were made for that purpose. The altar was ten, or rather twelve cubits high, and as many broad. Solomon's was ten high and twenty broad. Herod's was a square of forty cubits, raised fifteen from the ground. C.

VER. 15. The ariel. That is, the altar itself, or rather the highest part of it, upon which the burnt-offerings were laid. In the Heb. it is harel, that is, the mountain of God; but in the following verse haariel, that is, the lion of God; a figure, from its consuming, and as it were devouring the sacrifices as a lion devours its prey. Ch.—Fire descending sometimes from heaven. S. Jer. W.—It also appeared like a little mountain in the court. See Isa. xxix. 1. The altar was probably made of brass, like Solomon's.

VER. 17. Crown, which was usually placed round altars and tables, that nothing might fall down.—Bottom of the altar, or base, mentioned ver. 13.—Steps, boarded on each side. Exod. xx. 26.

VER. 19. Levites. Heb. "of the race of Levi, of the family of Sadoc." He had obtained the dignity under Saul, (C.) and after the deposition of Abiathar, under Solomon, (3 Kings ii. 26. H.) his posterity always preserved it. C. Disa.

VER. 21. Sanctuary, out of the precincts of the temple, but on the mountain. Lev. iv. 3, and vi. 11. C.

CHAP. XLIV.

The east gate of the sanctuary shall be always shut. The uncircumcised shall not enter into the sanctuary: nor the Levites that have served idols: but the sons of Sadoc shall do the priestly functions, who stood firm in the word of times.

AND he brought me back to the way of the gate of the outward sanctuary, which looked towards the east: and it was shut.

2 And the Lord said to me: This gate shall be shut: it shall not be opened, and no man shall pass through it: because the Lord, the God of Israel, hath entered in by it, and it shall be shut.

3 For the prince. The prince himself shall sit in it, to eat bread before the Lord: he shall enter in by the way of the porch of the gate, and shall go out by the same way.

4 And he brought me by the way of the north gate in the sight of the house: and I saw, and behold the glory of the Lord filled the house of the Lord: and I fell on my face.

5 And the Lord said to me: Son of man, attend with thy heart, and behold with thy eyes, and hear with thy ears all that I say to thee concerning all the ceremonies of the house of the Lord, and concerning all the laws thereof: and mark well the ways of the temple, with all the goings out of the sanctuary.

6 And thou shalt say to the house of Israel, that provoketh me: Thus saith the Lord God: Let all your wicked doings suffice you, O house of Israel:

7 In that you have brought in strangers uncircumcised in heart, and uncircumcised in flesh, to be in my sanctuary, and to defile my house: and you offer my bread, the fat, and the blood: and you have broken my covenant by all your wicked doings.

8 And you have not kept the ordinances of my sanctuary: but you have set keepers of my charge in my sanctuary for yourselves.

9 Thus saith the Lord God: No stranger uncircumcised in heart, and uncircumcised in flesh, shall enter into my sanctuary, no stranger that is in the midst of the children of Israel.

10 Moreover, the Levites that went away far from me, when the children of Israel went astray, and have wandered from me after their idols, and have borne their iniquity:

11 They shall be officers in my sanctuary, and door-keepers of the gates of the house, and ministers to the

VER. 26. Consecrate it. Lit. "fill his hand;" that is, dedicate and apply it to holy service, (Ch.) as the Heb., &c. speak of the altar. Sept. "they shall fill their hands," seems more natural, (Exod. xxviii. 41,) and is adopted by Pagn., Vat., &c. C.

CHAP. XLIV. VER. 2, 3. Opened. No man perfectly understands the Scriptures but the Son of God. Matt. xi. 27. S. Jer.—This also insinuates that Mary ever remained a pure virgin. S. Aug., &c. W.—Shut, even for the prince.

VER. 5. Ways, or "the going in," and all that concerns the temple and sacrifices.

VER. 7. Flesh. People of this description were not to enter the temple, which is here called the sanctuary, even though they adored God. In some cases pagans were admitted into any part, except the most holy.—Doings. You observe the exterior, and not the spirit of religion.

VER. 8. Yourselves, out of ambition, contrary to the regulations of David. C.

VER. 10. Levites, or priests, (H.) who were seduced by Jeroboam, or offered victims on the high places. 4 Kings xxiii. 9. Such lost their privileges, and were condemned to serve in the meanest offices. It seems the race of Ithamar was alone guilty, and the threat against his house was now put in execution. 1 King ii. 39, and iii. 14; Lev. xxi. 17, and 2 Esd. vii. 64. C.

VER. 11. Slay. Levites might do this, but the priests poured the blood round the altar. Ver. 15. They could not well slay all the victims.

house: they shall slay the holocausts, and the victims of the people: and they shall stand in their sight, to minister to them.

12 Because they ministered to them before their idols, and were a stumblingblock of iniquity to the house of Israel: therefore have I lifted up my hand against them, saith the Lord God, and they shall bear their iniquity:

13 And they shall not come near to me, to do the office of priest to me, neither shall they come near to any of my holy things that are by the holy of holies: but they shall bear their shame, and their wickednesses which they have committed.

14 And I will make them door-keepers of the house, for all the service thereof, and for all that shall be done therein.

15 But the priests, and Levites, the sons of Sadoc, who kept the ceremonies of my sanctuary, when the children of Israel went astray from me, they shall come near to me, to minister to me: and they shall stand before me, to offer me the fat, and the blood, saith the Lord God.

16 They shall enter into my sanctuary, and they shall come near to my table, to minister unto me, and to keep my ceremonies.

17 And when they shall enter in at the gates of the inner court, they shall be clothed with linen garments: neither shall any woollen come upon them, when they minister in the gates of the inner court, and within.

18 They shall have linen mitres on their heads, and linen breeches on their loins, and they shall not be girded with any thing that causeth sweat.

19 And when they shall go forth to the outward court to the people, they shall put off their garments wherein they ministered, and lay them up in the stone chamber of the sanctuary, and they shall clothe themselves with other garments: and they shall not sanctify the people with their vestments.

20 Neither shall they shave their heads, nor wear long hair: but they shall only poll their heads.

21 And no priest shall drink wine when he is to go into the inner court.

22 *Neither shall they take to wife a widow, nor one that is divorced, but they shall take virgins of the seed of the house of Israel: but they may take a widow also, that is the widow of a priest.

23 And they shall teach my people the difference be-

* Lev. xxi. 14.—b Num. xviii. 20: Deut. xviii. 1.

VER. 15. And Levites, of the higher order. H.—No simple Levites were of this family. It enjoyed the high priesthood from the time of Solomon.

VER. 17. Court; that is, to do duty.

VER. 18. Siccat, or so as to make them perspire. Sept. "girded violently." H.—They must have liberty to move, (S. Jer.) and have the girdle about their breast. Braun.

VER. 19. Sanctify, by exposing them to the danger of touching the sacred vestments, which none were to touch but they that were sanctified. Ch.—Sanctify here means to defile. Exod. xxx. 29, (C.) and xxix. 37. Holy things must be done in holy places. W.

VER. 21. Wine. Lev. x. 9. The priests on duty abstained from wine. Jos. Bel. vi. 15.

VER. 22. Widow. Moses laid this restraint upon the high priest. Lev. xxi. 13. C.

VER. 25. Unclean, attending the funeral, which inferior priests alone might do. Lev. xxi. 10. M.

VER. 27. Day, after the seven first, (C.) though this would be a new regulation M.

VER. 28. No. This is omitted in Heb., Sept., &c. God was their portion. C.—They had no land but what lay near their cities. H.

tween holy and profane, and show them how to discern between clean and unclean.

24 And when there shall be a controversy, they shall stand in my judgments, and shall judge: they shall keep my laws, and my ordinances in all my solemnities, and sanctify my sabbaths.

25 And they shall come near no dead person, lest they be defiled, only their father and mother, and son and daughter, and brother and sister, that hath not had another husband: for whom they may become unclean.

26 And after one is cleansed, they shall reckon unto him seven days.

27 And in the day that he goeth into the sanctuary to the inner court, to minister unto me in the sanctuary, he shall offer for his sin, saith the Lord God.

28 ^bAnd they shall have no inheritance, I am their inheritance: neither shall you give them any possession in Israel, for I am their possession.

29 They shall eat the victim both for sin and for trespass: and every vowed thing in Israel shall be theirs.

30 ^cAnd the first-fruits of all the first-born, and all the libations of all things that are offered, shall be the priest's: and you shall give the first-fruits of your meats to the priest, that he may return a blessing upon thy house.

31 "The priests shall not eat of any thing that is dead of itself, or caught by a beast, whether it be fowl or cattle

CHAP. XLV.

*Portions of land for the sanctuary, for the city, and for the prince.
Ordinances for the prince.*

AND when you shall begin to divide the land by lot, separate ye first-fruits to the Lord, a portion of the land to be holy, in length twenty-five thousand, and in breadth ten thousand: it shall be holy in all the borders thereof round about.

2 And there shall be for the sanctuary on every side five hundred by five hundred, four-square round about: and fifty cubits for the suburbs thereof round about.

3 And with this measure thou shalt measure the length of five and twenty thousand, and the breadth of ten thousand, and in it shall be the temple, and the holy of holies.

4 The holy portion of the land shall be for the priests the ministers of the sanctuary, who come near to the ministry of the Lord: and it shall be a place for their houses, and for the holy place of the sanctuary.

5 And five and twenty thousand of length, and ten

^c Exod. xxii. 29.—^d Lev. xxii. 8.

CHAP. XLV. VER. 1. By lot. MS. 2 reads hogurt (printed bonole); so the Vulg. sortito. Kennicott.—Heb. "when you shall make the land fall," which usually implies by lot: yet the partition was not made thus, (chap. xlviii. 1.) nor at all, (C.) otherwise the prophet might mention how the lots would have fallen to Dan, in the north, &c. H.—The Jews either could not comply, or did not take this to be a command. If they had returned all together, they might probably have put it in execution. But many of them preferred staying where they had gotten a settlement, and the rest only returned in small parties, some not before the reign of Alexander. C.—Thousand: reeds, or cubits. Ch.—Many prefer the latter, which is specified ver. 2, (H.) as it agrees with the dimensions of the temple. Chap. xlii. 16. If reeds or toises were meant, the city would be disproportionate with the rest of the divisions: 50,000 would make 25 leagues, of 2500 paces each; and if each tribe had as much, the country must have comprised 325 leagues, whereas from Emath to Cadesbarne (chap. xlvii. 17) there are not above 150. C.—About. It could not be alienated to private men, or for any other purpose. W.

VER. 3. Measure, from the centre of the temple; so that the dimensions given must be doubled, (chap. xlviii. 10,) as also ver. 5.

VER. 5. Chambers for the Levites on duty. Sept. read, "towns." But only one seems to be specified, 18,000 cubits in circumference.

thousand of breadth shall be for the Levites, that minister in the house : they shall possess twenty store-chambers.

6 And you shall appoint the possession of the city five thousand broad, and five and twenty thousand long, according to the separation of the sanctuary, for the whole house of Israel.

7 For the prince also on the one side and on the other side, according to the separation of the sanctuary, and according to the possession of the city, over against the separation of the sanctuary, and over against the possession of the city : from the side of the sea even to the sea, and from the side of the east even to the east. And the length according to every part from the west border to the east border.

8 He shall have a portion of the land in Israel : and the princes shall no more rob my people : but they shall give the land to the house of Israel, according to their tribes.

9 Thus saith the Lord God : Let it suffice you, O princes of Israel : cease from iniquity and robberies, and execute judgment and justice, separate your confines from my people, saith the Lord God.

10 You shall have just balances, and a just ephi, and a just bate.

11 The ephi and the bate shall be equal, and of one measure : that the bate may contain the tenth part of a core, and the ephi the tenth part of a core : their weight shall be equal according to the measure of a core.

12 *And the sicle hath twenty obols. Now twenty sicles, and five and twenty sicles, and fifteen sicles make a mna.

13 And these are the first-fruits which you shall take : the sixth part of an ephi of a core of wheat, and the sixth part of an ephi of a core of barley.

14 The measure of oil also, a bate of oil is the tenth part of a core : and ten bates make a core : for ten bates fill a core.

15 And one ram out of a flock of two hundred, of those that Israel feedeth for sacrifice, and for holocausts, and for peace-offerings, to make atonement for them, saith the Lord God.

16 All the people of the land shall be bound to these first-fruits, for the prince in Israel.

17 And the prince shall give the holocaust, and the sacrifice, and the libations on the feasts, and on the new moons, and on the sabbaths, and on all the solemnities of the house of Israel : he shall offer the sacrifice for sin, and the holocaust, and the peace-offerings, to make expiation for the house of Israel.

* Exod. xxx. 13; Lev. xxvii. 25; Num. iii. 47.

VER. 6. According. Heb. "along or (C.) over against the oblation of the holy portion." Prot.—Israel, destined to serve the priests. H.

VER. 7. Border. Two equal lots, one on the east and the other on the west, were assigned the prince, each 20,000 cubits broad and 12,500 long. Chap. xlviii. 21. C.—He dwelt near the priests, for their protection ; as the people were on both sides of him, that he might sustain no injury. W.

VER. 8. Rob. Instead of their right, (1 Kings viii. 11,) the source of continual vexations, a certain revenue is specified, ver. 13.

VER. 9. Confines: encroach not. C.—Heb. and Sept. "take away your oppressions" (H.); Chal. "scandals." C.

VER. 11. The ephi and the bate. These measures were of equal capacity ; but the bate served for liquids, and the ephi for dry things. Ch. Ver. 13, 14. W.

VER. 13. Take, for the prince's revenue. He had the sixtieth part of corn and of oil ; or rather (C.) he had an exact tithe of the latter. Ver. 14. Chal. M.

18 Thus saith the Lord God : In the first month, first of the month, thou shalt take a calf of the herd, without blemish, and thou shalt expiate the sanctuary.

19 And the priest shall take of the blood of the sin-offering : and he shall put it on the posts of the house, and on the four corners of the brim of the altar, and on the posts of the gate of the inner court.

20 And so shalt thou do in the seventh day of the month, for every one that hath been ignorant, and hath been deceived by error, and thou shalt make expiation for the house.

21 In the first month, the fourteenth day of the month, you shall observe the solemnity of the Pasch : seven days unleavened bread shall be eaten.

22 And the prince on that day shall offer for himself, and for all the people of the land, a calf for sin.

23 And in the solemnity of the seven days he shall offer for a holocaust to the Lord, seven calves, and seven rams without blemish daily, for seven days : and for sin a he-goat daily.

24 And he shall offer the sacrifice of an ephi for every calf, and an ephi for every ram : and a hin of oil for every ephi.

25 In the seventh month, in the fifteenth day of the month, in the solemn feast, he shall do the like for the seven days : as well in regard to the sin-offering, as to the holocaust, and the sacrifice, and the oil.

CHAP. XLVI.

Other ordinances for the prince and for the sacrifices.

THUS saith the Lord God : The gate of the inner court, that looketh toward the east, shall be shut the six days on which work is done ; but on the sabbath day it shall be opened ; yea, and on the day of the new moon it shall be opened.

2 And the prince shall enter by the way of the porch of the gate from without, and he shall stand at the threshold of the gate : and the priests shall offer his holocaust, and his peace-offerings : and he shall adore upon the threshold of the gate, and shall go out : but the gate shall not be shut till the evening.

3 And the people of the land shall adore at the door of that gate before the Lord, on the sabbaths, and on the new moons.

4 And the holocaust that the prince shall offer to the Lord on the sabbath day, shall be six lambs without blemish, and a ram without blemish.

5 And the sacrifice of an ephi for a ram : but for the lambs what sacrifice his hand shall allow ; and a hin of oil for every ephi.

6 And on the day of the new moon a calf of the herd

VER. 15. One ram. He shall receive the tithe of sheep, &c., and take one out of two hundred, on condition that he furnish victims. Ver. 17. C.—The obligation was mutual. S. Jerom explains it of the high priest and people. W.

VER. 18. Take, or order the priests to do this annually, to prepare for the Passover. Ver. 21. C.

VER. 20. Seventh, or so many days before the solemn feast. Sept. "on the first of the seventh month," the feast of trumpets. Num. xxix. 1. C.

VER. 25. Day ; the feast of tabernacles, to be observed like the Pasch. Num. xxix. 12. C.

CHAP. XLVI. VER. 2. Prince. After the captivity, although the race of David continued in Salathiel, Zorobabel, &c., yet they had not the state of kings. Hence Christians, R. David, and other Jews, understand this of the Messiah and the rites of his Church, with a literal allusion to the old law. W.

VER. 5. Sacrifice. See chap. xlv. 24. Flour and oil accompanied the victim.

without blemish : and the six lambs, and the rams shall be without blemish.

7 And he shall offer in sacrifice an ephi for a calf, an ephi also for a ram : but for the lambs, as his hand shall find : and a hin of oil for every ephi.

8 And when the prince is to go in, let him go in by the way of the porch of the gate, and let him go out the same way.

9 But when the people of the land shall go in before the Lord, in the solemn feasts, he that goeth in by the north gate to adore, shall go out by the way of the south gate : and he that goeth in by the way of the south gate, shall go out by the way of the north gate : he shall not return by the way of the gate whereby he came in, but shall go out at that over against it.

10 And the prince in the midst of them, shall go in when they go in, and go out when they go out.

11 And in the fairs, and in the solemnities, there shall be the sacrifice of an ephi to a calf, and an ephi to a ram : and to the lambs, the sacrifice shall be as his hand shall find : and a hin of oil to every ephi.

12 But when the prince shall offer a voluntary holocaust, or voluntary peace-offerings to the Lord : the gate that looketh towards the east shall be opened to him, and he shall offer his holocaust, and his peace-offerings, as it is wont to be done on the sabbath day : and he shall go out, and the gate shall be shut after he is gone forth.

13 And he shall offer every day for a holocaust to the Lord, a lamb of the same year without blemish : he shall offer it always in the morning.

14 And he shall offer the sacrifice for it morning by morning, the sixth part of an ephi : and the third part of a hin of oil, to be mingled with the fine flour : a sacrifice to the Lord by ordinance, continual and everlasting.

15 He shall offer the lamb, and the sacrifice, and the oil, morning by morning : an everlasting holocaust.

16 Thus saith the Lord God : If the prince give a gift to any of his sons : the inheritance of it shall go to his children, they shall possess it by inheritance.

17 But if he give a legacy out of his inheritance to one of his servants, it shall be his until the year of release, and it shall return to the prince : but his inheritance shall go to his sons.

18 And the prince shall not take of the people's inheritance by violence, nor of their possession : but out of his own possession he shall give an inheritance to his sons : that my people be not dispersed every man from his possession.

19 And he brought me in by the entry, that was at the

When lambs were presented this was left to the prince's devotion (ver. 7, and 11. C.) only. If he gave three or four ephies of flour, he must give as many hins of oil.

VER. 10. Out. The prince went in and out by the same gate, (ver. 8,) and might order that on the east to be opened when he had to offer a voluntary sacrifice. In other respects he was like a simple Israelite, and was to attend the temple and use the same gates as the rest. Before, the kings had a gate on the west leading to their palace. But this was no longer to subsist, and the palace was to be far removed. Chap. xlviii. 21.

VER. 17. Sons. If any portion of his land was made over to them, it still remained in the family ; but if any other had a present of it, the land must revert to the royal family agreeably to the law. Lev. xxv. 10. C.—This insinuates that works done by the true children of God, in the state of grace, merit an eternal reward, while moral good works performed in the state of sin, can only have a temporal one. W.

side of the gate, into the chambers of the sanctuary that were for the priests, which looked toward the north. And there was a place bending to the west.

20 And he said to me : This is the place where the priests shall boil the sin-offering, and the trespass-offering : where they shall dress the sacrifice, that they may not bring it out into the outward court, and the people be sanctified.

21 And he brought me into the outward court, and he led me about by the four corners of the court : and behold there was a little court in the corner of the court, to every corner of the court there was a little court.

22 In the four corners of the court were little courts disposed, forty cubits long, and thirty broad : all the four were of one measure.

23 And there was a wall round about compassing the four little courts, and there were kitchens built under the rows round about.

24 And he said to me : This is the house of the kitchens wherein the ministers of the house of the Lord shall boil the victims of the people.

CHAP. XLVII.

The vision of the holy waters issuing out from under the temple : the borders of the land to be divided among the twelve tribes.

AND he brought me again to the gate of the house, and behold waters issued out from under the threshold of the house toward the east : for the fore-front of the house looked toward the east : but the waters came down to the right side of the temple, to the south part of the altar.

2 And he led me out by the way of the north gate, and he caused me to turn to the way without the outward gate, to the way that looked toward the east : and behold there ran out waters on the right side.

3 And when the man that had the line in his hand went out towards the east, he measured a thousand cubits : and he brought me through the water up to the ancles.

4 And again he measured a thousand, and he brought me through the water up to the knees.

5 And he measured a thousand, and he brought me through the water up to the loins. And he measured a thousand, and it was a torrent, which I could not pass over : for the waters were risen so as to make a deep torrent, which could not be passed over.

6 And he said to me : Surely, thou hast seen, O son of man. And he brought me out, and he caused me to turn to the bank of the torrent.

7 And when I had turned myself, behold on the bank of the torrent were very many trees on both sides.

VER. 19. Gate, on the north. Chap. xlv. 4.—West. At this corner was the kitchen for victims, which could only be eaten in the inner court. If they had been brought into that without, the people would have become unclean ; as it is equally wrong to touch holy or impure things when they are forbidden. Chap. xlv. 13.

CHAP. XLVII. VER. 1. Waters. These waters are not to be understood literally, (for there were none such that flowed from the temple,) but mystically of the baptism of Christ, and of his doctrine and his grace. The trees that grow on the banks, are Christian virtues ; the fishes are Christians, that spiritually live in and by these holy waters ; the fishermen are the apostles, and apostolic preachers ; the fenny places, where there is no health, are such as by being out of the Church are separated from these waters of life. Ch.—Villalpand understands it of waters brought into the temple to wash the victims ; but it seems to refer more to the grace and doctrine of Christ. M.

VER. 2. East. This gate was shut, and therefore he went out at the north gate. C.

8 And he said to me: These waters that issue forth toward the hillocks of sand to the east, and go down to the plains of the desert, shall go into the sea, and shall go out, and the waters shall be healed.

9 And every living creature that creepeth whithersoever the torrent shall come, shall live: and there shall be fishes in abundance after these waters shall come thither, and they shall be healed, and all things shall live to which the torrent shall come.

10 And the fishers shall stand over these waters, from Engaddi even to Engallim there shall be drying of nets: there shall be many sorts of the fishes thereof, as the fishes of the great sea, a very great multitude:

11 But on the shore thereof, and in the fenny places they shall not be healed, because they shall be turned into salt pits.

12 And by the torrent on the banks thereof, on both sides, shall grow all trees that bear fruit: their leaf shall not fall off, and their fruit shall not fail: every month shall they bring forth first-fruits, because the waters thereof shall issue out of the sanctuary: and the fruits thereof shall be for food, and the leaves thereof for medicine.

13 Thus saith the Lord God: This is the border, by which you shall possess the land according to the twelve tribes of Israel: for Joseph hath a double portion.

14 And you shall possess it, every man in like manner as his brother: concerning which I lifted up my hand to give it to your fathers: and this land shall fall unto you for a possession.

15 And this is the border of the land: toward the north side, from the great sea by the way of Hethalon, as men go to Sedada.

16 Emath, Berotha, Sabarim, which is between the border of Damascus and the border of Emath, the house of Tichon, which is by the border of Auran.

17 And the border from the sea even to the court of Enon, shall be the border of Damascus, and from the north to the north: the border of Emath, this is the north side.

18 And the east side is from the midst of Auran, and from the midst of Damascus, and from the midst of Galaad, and from the midst of the land of Israel, Jordan making the bound to the east sea, and thus you shall measure the east side.

19 And the south side southward is from Thamar, even to the waters of contradiction of Cades: and the torrent even to the great sea: and this is the south side southward.

20 And the side toward the sea, is the great sea, from the borders straight on, till thou come to Emath: this is the side of the sea.

21 And you shall divide this land unto you by the tribes of Israel:

22 And you shall divide it by lot for an inheritance to you, and to the strangers that shall come over to you, that shall beget children among you: and they shall be unto you as men of the same country born among the children of Israel: they shall divide the possession with you in the midst of the tribes of Israel.

23 And in what tribe soever the stranger shall be, there shall you give him possession, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XLVIII.

The portions of the twelve tribes, of the sanctuary, of the city, and of the prince. The dimensions and gates of the city.

AND these are the names of the tribes from the borders of the north, by the way of Hethalon, as they go to Emath, the court of Enan, the border of Damascus northward, by the way of Emath. And from the east side thereof, to the sea shall be one portion for Dan.

2 And by the border of Dan, from the east side, even to the side of the sea, one portion for Aser:

3 And by the border of Aser, from the east side, even to the side of the sea, one portion for Nephtali.

4 And by the border of Nephtali, from the east side, even to the side of the sea, one portion for Manasses.

5 And by the border of Manasses, from the east side, even to the side of the sea, one portion for Ephraim.

6 And by the border of Ephraim, from the east side, even to the side of the sea, one portion for Ruben.

7 And by the border of Ruben, from the east side, even to the side of the sea, one portion for Juda.

8 And by the border of Juda, from the east side, even to the side of the sea, shall be the first-fruits which you shall set apart, five and twenty thousand in breadth, and in length, as every one of the portions from the east side, to the side of the sea: and the sanctuary shall be in the midst thereof.

9 The first-fruits which you shall set apart for the Lord: shall be the length of five and twenty thousand, and the breadth of ten thousand.

VER. 8. The. Heb. "the east country," (Prot. H.) or "the frontiers (Gelilah) eastward," by which some improperly suppose that the rivulet went to the sea of Galilee.—And shall. Heb. "the sea of the going out," where the Jordan empties itself into the Dead Sea; or, the second rivulet ran into the Mediterranean. Zac. xiv. 8. But this passage relates to the Dead Sea alone, (ver. 18.) and Gelilah is a place near it, where the Israelites erected an altar of union. Jos. xxii. 10. C.

VER. 10. Engallim, or "the fountain of Gallim," in the tribe of Benjamin. Isa. xxv. 44.

VER. 11. Salt, or bitumen pits. Schismatics and bad Christians, who do not live by the spirit of Christ, are ineant. C.

VER. 12. First-fruits, or most excellent. H.—S. John saw such (W.) a tree of life. Apoc. xxii. 11.

VER. 13. Double portion. Lit. "cord." H.—His two sons would each have a share, as Levi was better provided for. W.—He had no portion of the land assigned to him by Josue, but here one part is appointed (C.) for the sacred ministers and the prince. Chap. xiv. 1.

VER. 14. Brother. The seven tribes to the north have each an equal share, as the five who lay to the south of the Levites had with respect to each other, though their portion must have been only about half of what the former possessed, according to the map. Chap. xiv. 1. H.—Lifted. People taking an oath acted in this manner. M.

VER. 16. Berotha, conquered by David. 2 Kings viii. 8.

VER. 17. Emath was about the middle of the northern limits, between the Mediterranean and the Euphrates.

VER. 18. Auran. Hence a line must be drawn through Damascus over Mount Galaad to the eastern or Dead Sea, to form the eastern borders. C.—The Jordan flowing from Genesareth to Sodom marked out this side. (M.) or rather was in this division; though the land as far as Galaad was to belong to Israel, as it had done before the captivity. Prot. "by Jordan from the border unto," &c. H.

VER. 20. Emath, not that it was on the sea: but a line was to be drawn over against this city, eastward from the Mediterranean. Sept. "to opposite the entrance of Emath, as far as its entrance." But the territory extended further Num. xxxiv.

VER. 22. Strangers. This was never done by the Jews. It signifies that Christ would give an inheritance, in the true land of promise, (C.) to all nations which should practise his religion. Rom. x. 12. H.

CHAP. XLVIII. VER. 1. Dan. This division is very different from that of Josue, and was never literally executed, being rather of a mystical nature. The limits are not marked out, as each lot was equal. C. See chap. xiv. 1, and xlvii. 14. H.

VER. 8. Apart, for the Levitical tribe and the prince. C.—Thousand cubits, (chap. xiv. 1.) or 12,500 paces, (11.) allowing two cubits for each. This would not reach to the Jordan. But thrice that space must be reckoned, the king having 10 And these shall be the first-fruits of the sanctuary for the priests: toward the north, five and twenty thousand in length, and toward the sea, ten thousand in breadth, and toward the east, also ten thousand in breadth, and toward the south, five and twenty thousand in length: and the sanctuary of the Lord shall be in the midst thereof.

11 The sanctuary shall be for the priests of the sons of Sadoc, who kept my ceremonies, and went not astray when the children of Israel went astray, as the Levites also went astray.

12 And for them shall be the first-fruits of the first-fruits of the land holy of holies, by the border of the Levites.

13 And the Levites in like manner shall have by the borders of the priests five and twenty thousand in length, and ten thousand in breadth. All the length shall be five and twenty thousand, and the breadth ten thousand.

14 And they shall not sell thereof, nor exchange, neither shall the first-fruits of the land be alienated, because they are sanctified to the Lord.

15 But the five thousand that remain in the breadth over against the five and twenty thousand, shall be a profane place for the city for dwelling, and for suburbs: and the city shall be in the midst thereof.

16 And these are the measures thereof: on the north side four thousand and five hundred: and on the south side four thousand and five hundred: and on the east side four thousand and five hundred: and on the west side four thousand and five hundred.

17 And the suburbs of the city shall be to the north two hundred and fifty, and to the south two hundred and fifty, and to the east two hundred and fifty, and to the sea two hundred and fifty.

18 And the residue in length by the first-fruits of the sanctuary, ten thousand toward the east, and ten thousand toward the west, shall be as the first-fruits of the sanctuary: and the fruits thereof shall be for bread to them that serve the city.

19 And they that serve the city, shall serve it out of all the tribes of Israel.

20 All the first-fruits, of five and twenty thousand, by five and twenty thousand, four-square, shall be set apart for the first-fruits of the sanctuary, and for the possession of the city.

21 And the residue shall be for the prince on every side of the first-fruits of the sanctuary, and of the possession of the city over against the five and twenty thousand of the first-fruits, unto the east border: toward the sea also, over against the five and twenty thousand, unto the border of the sea, shall likewise be the portion of the prince: and the first-fruits of the sanctuary, and the sanctuary of the temple, shall be in the midst thereof.

22 And from the possession of the Levites, and from the possession of the city, which are in the midst of the prince's portions: what shall be to the border of Juda, and to the border of Benjamin, shall also belong to the prince.

23 And for the rest of the tribes: from the east side to the west side, one portion for Benjamin.

24 And over against the border of Benjamin, from the east side to the west side, one portion for Simeon.

25 And by the border of Simeon, from the east side to the west side, one portion for Issachar.

26 And by the border of Issachar, from the east side to the west side, one portion for Zabulon.

27 And by the border of Zabulon, from the east side to the side of the sea, one portion for Gad.

28 And by the border of Gad, the south side southward: and the border shall be from Thamar, even to the waters of contradiction of Cades, the inheritance over against the great sea.

29 This is the land which you shall divide by lot to the tribes of Israel: and these are the portions of them, saith the Lord God.

30 And these are the goings out of the city: on the north side thou shalt measure four thousand and five hundred.

31 And the gates of the city, according to the names of the tribes of Israel, three gates on the north side, the gate of Ruben one, the gate of Juda one, the gate of Levi one.

32 And at the east side, four thousand and five hundred: and three gates, the gate of Joseph one, the gate of Benjamin one, the gate of Dan one.

33 And at the south side, thou shalt measure four thousand and five hundred: and three gates, the gate of Simeon one, the gate of Issachar one, the gate of Zabulon one.

34 And at the west side, four thousand and five hundred, and their three gates, the gate of Gad one, the gate of Aser one, the gate of Nephtali one.

35 Its circumference was eighteen thousand: and the name of the city from that day, The Lord is there.

two of them (C.) on each side of the temple, namely, towards the sea, and on the other side of the Jordan. H.

VER. 11. Astray, &c. By this we see, that in the worst of times God always preserved some of the priests from going astray; and that the synagogue never fell so universally into idolatry but that a remnant was still left free from this corruption. Ch.

VER. 15. Profane, where servants of the priests may reside. C.

VER. 16. Five. Heb. has, "five five hundred:" but one five is properly omitted in several MSS., and in all the ancient versions. Kennicott.—4500 cubits was the length and breadth of the town and temple, which were 18,000 cubits round, (C.) or so many reeds, which would make 36 miles of 1000 paces each. Catholic doctors understand it mystically of the Church. Thus S. John saw the New Jerusalem or Church triumphant. Apoc. xxi., and xxii. W.

VER. 18. As the, &c. They shall not be alienated, as some might infer from its being said to be profane, which term is used because it was the habitation of iniquity.

VER. 19. Israel. People from all parts might serve the Levites. This tribe was not to engage in laborious or sordid employments, being attached to the service of the Lord, and bound to instruct others. But this was more perfectly fulfilled in the Christian Church, where the clergy enjoy great immunities, and are forbidden to exercise any trade or employment which may take them off from their more important spiritual concerns, or render their ministry contemptible. See Exod. xix. 6.

VER. 21. Thereof. The domains of the prince touched the limits of Juda or the north, and of Benjamin on the south, as the portion of Levi did also. The prince occupied the east and west square of this division. H.

VER. 35. The Lord is there. This name is here given to the city; that is, the Church of Christ; because the Lord is always with her till the end of the world Matt. xxviii. 20. Ch.—Jerusalem certainly never bore this name, nor is it requisite that she should, if the prophecy had been literally understood. It would suffice if she could justly claim such a prerogative. See Isa. vii. 14. and 2 Kings xii 25. C.

THE PROPHECY OF DANIEL.

DANIEL, whose name signifies "the judgment of God," was of the royal blood of the kings of Juda, and one of those that were first of all carried away into captivity. He was so renowned for wisdom and knowledge, that it became a proverb among the Babylonians, "as wise as Daniel" (Ezec. xxviii. 3); and his holiness was great from his very childhood, that at the time when he was as yet but a young man, he is joined by the Spirit of God with Noe and Job, as three persons most eminent for virtue and sanctity. Ezec. xiv. He is not commonly numbered by the Hebrews among the prophets, because he lived at court, and in high station in the world: but if we consider his many clear predictions of things to come, we shall find that no one better deserves the name and title of a prophet; which also has been given him by the Son of God himself. Matt. xxiv.; Mark xiii.; Luke xxi. Ch.—The ancient Jews ranked him among the greatest prophets. Jos. Ant. x. 12 and 1 Mac. ii. 59. Those who came after Christ began to make frivolous exceptions, because he so clearly pointed out the coming of our Saviour, (Theod.,) the Porphyrians has no other method of evading this authority, except by saying, that the book was written under Epiphanes after the event of many of the predictions. S. Jer.—But this assertion is contrary to all antiquity. Some parts have indeed been questioned, which are found only in Greek. They must, however, have sometime existed in Heb. or Chal., else how should we have the version of Theodotion, which the Church has substituted instead of the Sept., as that copy was become very incorrect, and is now lost? C.—Some hopes of its recovery are nevertheless entertained; and its publication, at Rome, has been announced. Kennicott.—This version of course proves that the original was formerly known; and the loss of it, at present, is no more decisive against the authenticity of these pieces, than that of S. Matthew's Heb. original, and of the Chaldee of Judith, &c., will evince that their works are spurious. H.—Extracts of (C.) Aquila and Sym., seen by S. Jerom (W.) are also given in the Hexapla. Origen has answered the objections of Africanus respecting the history of Susanna; and his arguments are equally cogent when applied to the other contested works. The Jews and Christians were formerly both divided in their sentiments about these pieces. C. See S. Jer. in Jer. xxix. 12, and xxxii. 44.—But now as the Church (the pillar of truth) has spoken, all further controversy ought to cease (H.); and we should follow the precept, Remove not the landmarks which thy fathers have placed. Deut. xix. 14. See N. Alex. t. 2. S. Jerom, who sometimes calls these pieces "fables," explains himself by observing, that he had delivered "not his own sentiments," but those of the Jews: quid illi contra nos dicere soleant. C.—If he really denied their authority, his opinion ought not to outweigh that of so many other (H.) Fathers and Councils who receive them. They admit all the parts, as the Council of Trent expressly requires us to do. See S. Cyp., &c., also the observations prefixed to Tobias, (W.) and p. 667. H.—Daniel, according to Sir Isaac Newton, resembles the Apoc. (as both bring us to the fall of the Roman empire,) and is "the most distinct in order of time, and easiest to be understood; and therefore, in things that relate to the last times, he must be made a key to the rest." Bp. Newton.—Yet there are many difficulties which require a knowledge of history (S. Jer. W.); and we must reflect on the words of Christ, He that readeth, let him understand. Matt. xxiv. 15. Daniel (H.) is supposed to have died at court, (C.) aged 110, having written many things of Christ. W.—His name is not prefixed to his book; yet, as Prideaux observes, he sufficiently shows himself in the sequel to be the author. H.

CHAPTER I.

Daniel and his companions are taken into the palace of the king of Babylon: they abstain from his meat and wine, and succeed better with pulse and water. Their excellence in wisdom.

IN the third year^a of the reign of Joakim, king of Juda, Nabuchodonosor, king of Babylon, came to Jerusalem, and besieged it.

2 And the Lord delivered into his hands Joakim, the king of Juda, and part of the vessels of the house^b of God: and he carried them away into the land of Sennaar, to the house of his god, and the vessels he brought into the treasure-house of his god.

3 And the king spoke to Asphenez, the master of the eunuchs, that he should bring in some of the children of Israel, and of the king's seed, and of the princes,

4 Children in whom there was no blemish, well favoured, and skilful in all wisdom, acute in knowledge, and instructed in science, and such as might stand in the king's palace, that he might teach them the learning, and the tongue of the Chaldeans.

5 And the king appointed them a daily provision, of his own meat, and of the wine of which he drank himself, that being nourished three years, afterwards they might stand before the king.

^a A. M. 3398, A. C. 606.

CHAP. I. VER. 1. Third, at the conclusion, so that it is called the fourth, Jer. xxv. 1. A. Lap. M.—Nabuchodonosor began his expedition into Syria a year before he was king (Salien, A. 3428. Jos., &c.); or he had the title before his father Nabopolassar's death. Usher, A. 3397.—The following year he took Joakim, with a design to convey him to Babylon; but he left him on hard terms, and seized many of the sacred vessels, Daniel, &c. C.—Joakim reigned other eight years. 2 Par. xxxvi. 5. W.

VER. 2. His god; Bel, or Belus, the principal idol of the Chaldeans. Ch.

VER. 3. Eunuchs, or chief officers. The Jews assert that Daniel was made an eunuch. Isa. xxxix. 7. But he might be so styled on account of his dignity. C.—Princes. Lit. "tyrants." H.—This name was afterwards only rendered odious by the misconduct of several kings. C.

VER. 4. Blemish. Deformed people were excluded the throne, or the king's presence. Procop. 1.—Science: well-educated, o. apt to learn. C

6 Now there was among them of the children of Juda, Daniel, Ananias, Misael, and Azarias.

7 And the master of the eunuchs gave them names, to Daniel, Baltassar: to Ananias, Sidrach: to Misael, Misach: and to Azarias, Abdenago.

8 But Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not be defiled with the king's table, nor with the wine which he drank: and he requested the master of the eunuchs that he might not be defiled.

9 And God gave to Daniel grace and mercy in the sight of the prince of the eunuchs.

10 And the prince of the eunuchs said to Daniel: I fear my lord, the king, who hath appointed you meat and drink: who if he should see your faces leaner than those of the other youths, your equals, you shall endanger my head to the king.

11 And Daniel said to Malasar, whom the prince of the eunuchs had appointed over Daniel, Ananias, Misael, and Azarias:

12 Try, I beseech thee, thy servants for ten days, and let pulse be given us to eat, and water to drink:

13 And look upon our faces, and the faces of the children that eat of the king's meat: and as thou shalt see, deal with thy servants.

^b Jer. xxv. 1.

VER. 5. Meat: more exquisite. De Dieu.—All was first served on the king's table. Athen. vi. 14.

VER. 6. Juda. It is thought all four were of royal blood. C.

VER. 7. Baltassar, or as Chaldees (C. or Masorets. H) pronounce, Beltesara "the treasurer of Baal." The names were changed to testify their subjection, (C) and that they might embrace the manners of the Chaldees. M.

VER. 8. Daniel, as head and nearer the throne, gave good example to the rest. W.—Defiled, either by eating meat forbidden by the law, or which had before been offered to idols. Ch.

VER. 11. Malasar. Another inferior officer.

VER. 12. Pulse. That is, peas, beans, and such like. Ch.—S. Basil hence shows the advantages of fasting; and Catholics, who imitate Daniel, may expect the like reward in heaven: and hope that such a pattern would not displease the dissenting brethren, but rather screen them from their profane sarcasms. H.

14 And when he had heard these words, he tried them for ten days.

15 And after ten days, their faces appeared fairer and fatter than all the children that eat of the king's meat

16 So Malasar took their portions, and the wine that they should drink: and he gave them pulse.

17 And to these children God gave knowledge, and understanding in every book, and wisdom: but to Daniel the understanding also of all visions and dreams.

18 And when the days were ended, after which the king had ordered they should be brought in: "the prince of the eunuchs brought them in before Nabuchodonosor.

19 And when the king had spoken to them, there were not found among them all such as Daniel, Ananias, Misael, and Azarias: and they stood in the king's presence.

20 And in all matters of wisdom and understanding, that the king inquired of them, he found them ten times better than all the diviners, and wise men, that were in all his kingdom.

21 ^aAnd Daniel continued even to the first year of king Cyrus.

CHAP. II.

Daniel, by Divine revelation, declares the dream of Nabuchodonosor, and the interpretation of it. He is highly honoured by the king.

IN "the second year of the reign of Nabuchodonosor, Nabuchodonosor had a dream, and his spirit was terrified, and his dream went out of his mind.

2 Then the king commanded to call together the diviners and the wise men, and the magicians, and the Chaldeans: to declare to the king his dreams: so they came and stood before the king.

3 And the king said to them: I saw a dream: and being troubled in mind I know not what I saw.

4 And the Chaldeans answered the king in Syriac: O king, live for ever: tell to thy servants thy dream, and we will declare the interpretation thereof.

5 And the king, answering, said to the Chaldeans: The thing is gone out of my mind: unless you tell me the dream, and the meaning thereof, you shall be put to death, and your houses shall be confiscated.

6 But if you tell the dream, and the meaning of it, you shall receive of me rewards, and gifts, and great honour: therefore, tell me the dream, and the interpretation thereof.

^a A. M. 3401.—^b Infra, vi. 28.

VER. 17. Dreams. He was learned in all the sciences of the country, like Moses. Acte vii. 22. C.—The Chaldeans paid great attention to dreams. Daniel acquired the knowledge of such as were sent from heaven by the gift of God, as Joseph had done. To pay any regard to common dreams would be childish (C.) and sinful, if the person depend on them for the knowledge of futurity. H.

VER. 20. Diviners, or fortune-tellers.—Wise men. Sept. "philosophers." C.

VER. 21. Cyrus; and also to the third, (chap. x.) and of course during the whole of the captivity. W.—He was maintained in power by the conqueror of Babylon. Chap. vi. 18, and xiv. 1. He first displayed his sagacity in the cause of Susanna, (chap. xiii. C.) whose history was placed at the head of the book, in Theodotion, (S. Jer. in Isa. iii. 1.) as in its natural order. C.

CHAP. II. VER. 1. Year, from the death of his father, Nabopolassar; for he had reigned before as partner with his father, in the empire. Ch.—In that quality he conquered Syria, (A. 3397,) took Daniel, &c., in 3399. He succeeded his father. Usher. C.—After he had enlarged his empire by the conquest of Egypt, &c., he had this dream. A. R. 25. W.

VER. 2. The Chaldeans. That is, the astrologers, that pretended to divine by stars. Ch.—They dwelt on the banks of the Euphrates, and were highly esteemed. Diod. Sic. 1.

VER. 4. Syriac. It was originally the same as the Chaldee. Daniel understood this language as well as Heb., and writes in it what concerned the Chaldees,

7 They answered again and said: Let the king tell his servants the dream, and we will declare the interpretation of it.

8 The king answered and said: I know for certain, that you seek to gain time, since you know that the thing is gone from me.

9 If, therefore, you tell me not the dream, there is one sentence concerning you, that you have also framed a lying interpretation, and full of deceit, to speak before me till the time pass away. Tell me, therefore, the dream, that I may know that you also give a true interpretation thereof.

10 Then the Chaldeans answered before the king, and said: There is no man upon earth, that can accomplish thy word, O king; neither doth any king, though great and mighty, ask such a thing of any diviner, or wise man, or Chaldean.

11 For the thing that thou askest, O king, is difficult nor can any one be found that can show it before the king, except the gods, whose conversation is not with men.

12 Upon hearing this, the king in fury, and in great wrath, commanded that all the wise men of Babylon should be put to death.

13 And the decree being gone forth, the wise men were slain: and Daniel and his companions were sought for, to be put to death.

14 Then Daniel inquired concerning the law and the sentence, of Arioch, the general of the king's army, who was gone forth to kill the wise men of Babylon.

15 And he asked him that had received the orders of the king, why so cruel a sentence was gone forth from the face of the king. And when Arioch had told the matter to Daniel, 16 Daniel went in, and desired of the king, that he would give him time to resolve the question, and declare it to the king.

17 And he went into his house, and told the matter to Ananias, and Misael, and Azarias, his companions:

18 To the end that they should ask mercy at the face of the God of heaven, concerning this secret, and that Daniel and his companions might not perish with the rest of the wise men of Babylon.

19 Then was the mystery revealed to Daniel by a vision in the night: and Daniel blessed the God of heaven, to chap. viii. This shows his accuracy, as he makes his speakers use their own tongue.

^c A. M. 3401, A. C. 603.

VER. 5. Put. Chal. "torn to pieces, and your houses become infamous places" (C.); Prot. "a dunghill." H.—Such cruel punishments were not uncommon. 1 Esd. vi. 11. C.

VER. 8. Gain. Lit. "redeem." H.—S. Paul uses a similar expression, exhorting us to save our souls even at the expense of our temporal interest. C.—The diviners wished to give the king's fury time to abate, (H.) and to save their lives (C.); or delay punishment, at least, as much as possible. H.

VER. 11. Men. They acknowledged greater and less gods. Stanley, p. 13 Chap. i.—They pretend not to have any communication with the superior ones (C.) and by their answer unguardedly bear testimony to the excellence of the God whom Daniel served. S. Jer.

VER. 14. General. He occupied the same office as Putiphar, in Egypt. Ger xxxix. 1. It was no disgrace for such a one to execute himself the king's order as Banaia slew the brother of Solomon. 3 Kings E.

VER. 15. Cruel. Chal. also, "precipitate." C.

VER. 16. Declare the dream, H.—The Chaldeans had promised only to explain it, and the king knew the superior merit of Daniel. Chap. i. 13. C.

VER. 18. Secret. Lit. "sacrament." Gr. "mystery," which seems to be derived from (C.) mosthor, "a secret." H.

20 And speaking, he said: Blessed be the name of the Lord from eternity and for evermore: for wisdom and fortitude are his.

21 And he changeth times and ages: taketh away kingdoms, and establisheth them: giveth wisdom to the wise, and knowledge to them that have understanding:

22 He revealeth deep and hidden things, and knoweth what is in darkness: and light is with him."

23 To thee, O God of our fathers, I give thanks, and I praise thee: because thou hast given me wisdom and strength: and now thou hast shown me what we desired of thee, for thou hast made known to us the king's discourse.

24 After this Daniel went in to Arioch, to whom the king had given orders to destroy the wise men of Babylon, and he spoke thus to him: Destroy not the wise men of Babylon: bring me in before the king, and I will tell the solution to the king.

25 Then Arioch in haste brought in Daniel to the king, and said to him: I have found a man of the children of the captivity of Juda, that will resolve the question to the king.

26 The king answered, and said to Daniel, whose name was Baltassar: Thinkest thou indeed that thou canst tell me the dream that I saw, and the interpretation thereof?

27 And Daniel made answer before the king, and said: The secret that the king desireth to know, none of the wise men, or the philosophers, or the diviners, or the soothsayers, can declare to the king.

28 But there is a God in heaven that revealeth mysteries, who hath shown to thee, O king Nabuchodonosor, what is to come to pass in the latter times. Thy dream, and the visions of thy head upon thy bed, are these:

29 Thou, O king, didst begin to think in thy bed, what should come to pass hereafter: and he that revealeth mysteries showed thee what shall come to pass.

30 To me also this secret is revealed, not by any wisdom that I have more than all men alive: but that the interpretation might be made manifest to the king, and thou mightest know the thoughts of thy mind.

31 Thou, O king, sawest, and behold there was as it were a great statue: this statue, which was great and high, tall of stature, stood before thee, and the look thereof was terrible.

• 1 Cor. iv. 5; 1 John i. 6; John i. 9, and viii. 12.

VER. 20. His. He grants them to whom he pleases, and disposes of kingdoms (C.) without control. Ver. 21.

VER. 28. Times. In the Old Test. this commonly signifies when Christ shall appear; but in the New, it refers to the end of the world. C.

VER. 31. Terrible, or unusual. C.—The statue denoted the four great empires of the Chaldees, Persians, Greeks, and Romans. The metals did not mean that the empire of gold was greater than the rest, as that signified by the iron was far more powerful; but only that the empire of the Chaldees was then the greatest, and that the Persians would acquire still more power, and be surpassed by the Greeks, as they were by the Romans, till the kingdom of Christ should be spread over all the earth. W.

VER. 37. Of kings. This title was used by the Persians. Nabuchodonosor was at that time the most potent monarch on earth. C.

VER. 39. Another kingdom; viz. that of the Medes and Persians. Ch.—Inferior; later, of less duration and extent. C.—Third, &c. That of Alexander the Great. Ch.

VER. 40. The fourth kingdom, &c. Some understand this of the successors of Alexander, the kings of Syria and Egypt; others, of the Roman empire and its civil wars. Ch.—The former supposition seems best, though the latter is almost universally received, and will be explained hereafter. C.—The Roman empire did not immediately rise out of Alexander's, and had no relation to the Jews, &c.

32 The head of this statue was of fine gold, but the breast and the arms of silver, and the belly and the thigh of brass.

33 And the legs of iron, the feet part of iron and part of clay.

34 Thus thou sawest, till a stone was cut out of a mountain without hands: and it struck the statue upon the feet thereof that were of iron and clay, and broke them in pieces.

35 Then was the iron, the clay, the brass, the silver, and the gold broken to pieces together, and became like the chaff of a summer's threshing-floor, and they were carried away by the wind: and there was no place found for them: but the stone that struck the statue became a great mountain, and filled the whole earth.

36 This is the dream: we will also tell the interpretation thereof before thee, O king.

37 Thou art a king of kings: and the God of heaven hath given thee a kingdom, and strength, and power, and glory:

38 And all places wherein the children of men, and the beasts of the field do dwell: he hath also given the birds of the air into thy hand, and hath put all things under thy power: thou, therefore, art the head of gold.

39 And after thee shall rise up another kingdom, inferior to thee, of silver: and another third kingdom of brass, which shall rule over all the world.

40 And the fourth kingdom shall be as iron. As iron breaketh into pieces, and subdueth all things, so shall that break and destroy all these.

41 And whereas thou sawest the feet, and the toes, part of potter's clay, and part of iron: the kingdom shall be divided, but yet it shall take its origin from the iron, according as thou sawest the iron mixed with the miry clay.

42 And as the toes of the feet were part of iron, and part of clay: the kingdom shall be partly strong, and partly broken.

43 And whereas thou sawest the iron mixt with miry clay, they shall be mingled indeed together with the seed of man, but they shall not stick fast one to another, as iron cannot be mixed with clay.

44 But in the days of those kingdoms, the God of heaven will set up a kingdom that shall never be destroyed, and his kingdom shall not be delivered up to another

Grot. L'Empereur. — But it surely swallowed up all that he had left to his generals, and proved the greatest scourge to the Jewish nation; which has been ever since scattered, while the kingdom of Christ gains ground, and will flourish till that of Rome shall be no more. Antichrist will then appear to east a cloud over, but not destroy it, for three years and a half. It is the opinion of many Fathers, &c. that the Roman empire will subsist till that event take place (see 2 Thess. ii. 3, 7); and thus it may be said that the fourth empire shall not be given to another people. For antichrist will not strive to exalt a particular nation, but to rule over all. Yet his dominion will be short, and will end in the general dissolution of nature: so that the Roman empire may be deemed to last for a long time, or even for ever. Ver. 44. Those who adopt the former system, allow (H.) that the stone designates both the Roman empire and that of Christ; so that some parts of the prediction may refer to one and some to the other. C.

VER. 41. Clay. The iron was in a rude state, mixed with earth. The Roman power was at last partly exercised by consuls and partly by emperors. M.

VER. 43. Miry. Pompey and Cesar, Anthony and Augustus, married each other's relations; but they soon quarrelled, and the race of the Cæsars was extinct in Nero. But this is better understood of the kings of Syria and of Egypt. C.

VER. 44. Kingdom of Christ, in the Catholic Church, which cannot be destroyed. Ch.—All other empires change. C.—Kingdoms. That of Rome com people: and it shall break in pieces, and shall consume all these kingdoms: and itself shall stand for ever.

45 According as thou sawest, that the stone was cut out of the mountain without hands, and broke in pieces the clay and the iron, and the brass, and the silver, and the gold, the great God hath shown the king what shall come to pass hereafter, and the dream is true, and the interpretation thereof is faithful.

46 Then king Nabuchodonosor fell on his face, and worshipped Daniel, and commanded that they should offer in sacrifice to him victims and incense.

47 And the king spoke to Daniel, and said: Verily, your God is the God of gods, and Lord of kings, and a revealer of hidden things: seeing thou couldst discover this secret.

48 Then the king advanced Daniel to a high station, and gave him many and great gifts: and he made him governor over all the provinces of Babylon: and chief of the magistrates over all the wise men of Babylon.

49 And Daniel requested of the king, and he appointed Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago, over the works of the province of Babylon: but Daniel himself was in the king's palace.

CHAP. III.

Nabuchodonosor sets up a golden statue; which he commands all to adore: the three children, for refusing to do it, are cast into the fiery furnace; but are not hurt by the flames. Their prayer, and canticle of praise.

KING Nabuchodonosor^a made a statue of gold, of sixty cubits high, and six cubits broad, and he set it up in the plain of Dura, of the province of Babylon.

2 Then Nabuchodonosor, the king, sent to call together the nobles, the magistrates, and the judges, the captains, the rulers, and governors, and all the chief men of the provinces, to come to the dedication of the statue which king Nabuchodonosor had set up.

3 Then the nobles, the magistrates, and the judges, the captains, and rulers, and the great men that were placed in authority, and all the princes of the province, were gathered together to come to the dedication of the statue, which king Nabuchodonosor had set up. And they stood before the statue which king Nabuchodonosor had set up.

4 Then a herald cried with a strong voice: To you it is commanded, O nations, tribes, and languages:

• A. M. 3417, A. C. 587.

ruised all the former. The persecuting emperors are forced to yield, and the colossal power of infidelity and vice falls before the gospel. Christ's dominion is spiritual, exercised against wickedness (C.); is heavenly and eternal. H.—The blood of martyrs was more efficacious in the establishing of Christianity, than fire and sword had been in forming other empires. M.

VER. 45. Hands. Prot. marg. "mountain, which was not in hand." H.—Christ was born of a virgin; and his kingdom was not established by ambition, like others. Yet it presently became a mountain, and filled the earth. S. Just. Dial. S. Aug. tr. 9 in John.—God himself sets up this kingdom. C.

VER. 46. Daniel, taking him for a little god, under the great one. Ver. 17. W.—Victims. Chal. monée, (H.) of flour, &c. But the prophet had already declared his sentiments on this head, (ver. 28,) and abhorred such honours, like S. Paul, (Acts xiv. 10. C.) though this be not here recorded. M.

VER. 47. Of gods, above all those of the country for explaining hidden things: yet he did not acknowledge him to be the only true God. C.

VER. 48. Provinces, or that of Babylonia, which was the first.—Wise men. This would not engage him in any idolatrous practices.

VER. 49. Works of agriculture, (C.) which the ancient kings of Persia encouraged with great attention, appointing officers to reward or punish according as their land was cultivated. Xenophon, Cyr. S. and Ctes.—S. Jerome thinks they

5 That in the hour that you shall hear the sound of the trumpet, and of the flute, and of the harp, of the sackbut, and of the psaltery, and of the symphony, and of all kind of music; ye fall down and adore the golden statue which king Nabuchodonosor hath set up.

6 But if any man shall not fall down and adore, he shall the same hour be cast into a furnace of burning fire.

7 Upon this, therefore, at the time when all the people heard the sound of the trumpet, the flute, and the harp, of the sackbut, and the psaltery, of the symphony, and of all kind of music: all the nations, tribes, and languages fell down and adored the golden statue which king Nabuchodonosor had set up.

8 And presently at that very time some Chaldeans came and accused the Jews,

9 And said to king Nabuchodonosor: O king, live for ever:

10 Thou, O king, hast made a decree, that every man that shall hear the sound of the trumpet, the flute, and the harp, of the sackbut, and the psaltery, of the symphony, and of all kind of music, shall prostrate himself, and adore the golden statue:

11 And that if any man shall not fall down and adore, he should be cast into a furnace of burning fire.

12 Now there are certain Jews, whom thou hast set over the works of the province of Babylon, Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago: these men, O king, have slighted thy decree: they worship not thy gods, nor do they adore the golden statue which thou hast set up.

13 Then Nabuchodonosor in fury, and in wrath, commanded that Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago should be brought: who immediately were brought before the king.

14 And Nabuchodonosor, the king, spoke to them, and said: Is it true, O Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago, that you do not worship my gods, nor adore the golden statue that I have set up?

15 Now, therefore, if you be ready, at what hour soever, you shall hear the sound of the trumpet, flute, harp, sackbut, and psaltery, and symphony, and of all kind of music, prostrate yourselves, and adore the statue which I have made: but if you do not adore, you shall be cast the same hour into the furnace of burning fire: and who is the God that shall deliver you out of my hand?

16 Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago, answered, and were appointed judges, (C.) or assistants of Daniel. Grot.—Palace. Lit. "gates," (H.) as receiver of the taxes, particularly at Susa. Chap. viii. 2. Marsham, Egypt. Sac. 18.

CHAP. III. VER. 1. Statue. It was not the figure of a man. (C.) the dimensions, 90 feet high and 9 broad, (W.) being disproportionate; though a man might be represented on the pillar. Some take it for Nabopolassar, (C.) or for the king himself. S. Jer. W.—But he never complains of the injury shown to his own person, and therefore it probably was meant for Bel, the chief god. Chap. iv. 5. and xiv. 1. C.—Dura. Sept. "enclosed." S. Jer.—This happened towards the end of the king's reign, (ver. 98, &c.) of course the three young men might be about fifty years old. C.

VER. 2. Nobles. Lit. "satraps," or "the king's domestics." Sept. in 1 Esd viii. 36.—Judges, or "governors of provinces." Ib. Theodot., &c.—Captains of the soothsayers.—Rulers; "tyrants," here denoting treasurers. C.—Governors Lit. "the grandees who were in power" (H.); counsellors. The original adds. (C.) Thophthia, (H.) "lawyers" and orators.

VER. 5. Symphony. This and several other terms seem taken from the Greek, though the scythara and sambuca came originally from Chaldea. C.

VER. 8. Jews: the three children, whom they viewed with a jealous eye. Daniel was too much exalted, or was absent with other Jews.

said to king Nabuchodonosor: We have no occasion to answer thee concerning this matter.

17 For behold our God, whom we worship, is able to save us from the furnace of burning fire, and to deliver us out of thy hands, O king.

18 But if he will not, be it known to thee, O king, that we will not worship thy gods, nor adore the golden statue which thou hast set up.

19 Then was Nabuchodonosor filled with fury: and the countenance of his face was changed against Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago, and he commanded that the furnace should be heated seven times more than it had been accustomed to be heated.

20 And he commanded the strongest men that were in his army, to bind the feet of Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago, and to cast them into the furnace of burning fire.

21 And immediately these men were bound, and were cast into the furnace of burning fire, with their coats, and their caps, and their shoes, and their garments.

22 For the king's commandment was urgent, and the furnace was heated exceedingly. And the flame of the fire slew those men that had cast in Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago.

23 But these three men, that is, Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago, fell down bound in the midst of the furnace of burning fire.

24 And they walked in the midst of the flame, praising God, and blessing the Lord.

25 Then Azarias standing up, prayed in this manner, and opening his mouth in the midst of the fire, he said:

26 Blessed art thou, O Lord, the God of our fathers, and thy name is worthy of praise, and glorious for ever:

27 For thou art just in all that thou hast done to us, and all thy works are true, and thy ways right, and all thy judgments true.

28 For thou hast executed true judgments in all the things that thou hast brought upon us, and upon Jerusalem, the holy city of our fathers: for according to truth and judgment, thou hast brought all these things upon us for our sins.

29 For we have sinned, and committed iniquity, departing from thee: and we have trespassed in all things:

30 And we have not hearkened to thy commandments, nor have we observed nor done as thou hadst commanded us, that it might go well with us.

31 Wherefore, all that thou hast brought upon us, and every thing that thou hast done to us, thou hast done in true judgment:

32 And thou hast delivered us into the hands of our enemies that are unjust, and most wicked, and prevaricators, and to a king unjust, and most wicked beyond all that are upon the earth.

33 And now we cannot open our mouths: we are become a shame, and a reproach to thy servants, and to them that worship thee.

34 Deliver us not up for ever, we beseech thee, for thy name's sake, and abolish not thy covenant.

35 And take not away thy mercy from us, for the sake of Abraham, thy beloved, and Isaac, thy servant, and Israel, thy holy one:

36 To whom thou hast spoken, promising that thou wouldst multiply their seed as the stars of heaven, and as the sand that is on the sea shore.

37 For we, O Lord, are diminished more than any nation, and are brought low in all the earth this day for our sins.

38 Neither is there at this time prince, or leader, or prophet, or holocaust, or sacrifice, or oblation, or incense, or place of first-fruits before thee,

39 That we may find thy mercy: nevertheless, in a contrite heart and humble spirit let us be accepted.

40 As in holocausts of rams, and bullocks, and as in thousands of fat lambs: so let our sacrifice be made in thy sight this day, that it may please thee: for there is no confusion to them that trust in thee.

41 And now we follow thee with all our heart, and we fear thee, and seek thy face.

42 Put us not to confusion, but deal with us according to thy meekness, and according to the multitude of thy mercies.

43 And deliver us, according to thy wonderful works, and give glory to thy name, O Lord:

44 And let all them be confounded that show evils to thy servants, let them be confounded in all thy might, and let their strength be broken:

45 And let them know that thou art the Lord, the only God, and glorious over all the world.

46 Now the king's servants that had cast them in, ceased not to heat the furnace with brimstone and tow and pitch, and dry sticks,

47 And the flame mounted up above the furnace nine and forty cubits:

48 And it broke forth, and burnt such of the Chaldeans as it found near the furnace.

VER. 18. He. Chal. "not." C.—By this modest yet resolute answer, they testified their faith in God's power, and their determination rather to suffer death (W.) than to go against their conscience. H.

VER. 20. Strongest. Chal. "mighty in strength" (H.); his own guards, the usual executioners.

VER. 21. Coats, or various coloured bandages for the thighs, used by men and women. Aquila and Th. retain the original term, Σαραβάρις. Chal. saraballa. C.—Caps: "tiaras." H.—The king alone wore them upright.

VER. 22. Slew. They were working still at the furnace, when it burst out and destroyed them, (C.) while the three Jews were praising God below. H. Ver. 46, 48.

VER. 24. And, &c. "What follows I have not found in the Heb. volumes." S. Jer. H.—Here S. Jerom takes notice, that from this verse to ver. 31 was not in the Heb. in its time. But as it was in all the Greek Bibles, (which were originally translated from the Hebrew,) it is more than probable that it had been formerly in the Hebrew; or rather in the Chaldaic, in which the Book of Daniel was written.

But this is certain: that it is, and has been of old, received by the Church, and read as canonical Scripture in her liturgy and divine offices. Ch.

VER. 27. True; not fickle, and liable to change. C.

VER. 35. One. Moses used the like terms, and pacified God. Exod xxxii. W.

VER. 38. Thee, in Jerusalem, (H.) or Judea. There were chiefs and judges, (chap. xiii.,) as well as prophets. (Ezech., &c.,) among the captives. Yet the republic was in disorder. C.—Sedccias was dead, Joakim in prison, so that no Jewish king ruled over the people; nor was there any prophet in the promised land, Jerusalem being either dead or in Egypt. W.

VER. 40. Sacrifice of ourselves. H.—They knew not yet whether they would escape. When they beheld the angel they had greater confidence, and broke forth into a hymn of praise. Houbig.

VER. 43. Name, by rescuing us, that all may confess thy power. C.

VER. 46. Brimstone. Lit. naphta, (H.) or bitumen, which was very inflammable.—Tow, besmeared with pitch. C.

49 But the angel of the Lord went down with Azarias and his companions into the furnace: and he drove the flame of the fire out of the furnace,

50 And made the midst of the furnace like the blowing of a wind bringing dew, and the fire touched them not at all, nor troubled them, nor did them any harm.

51 Then these three, as with one mouth, praised and glorified and blessed God, in the furnace, saying:

52 Blessed art thou, O Lord, the God of our fathers; and worthy to be praised, and glorified, and exalted above all for ever: and blessed is the holy name of thy glory: and worthy to be praised and exalted above all, in all ages.

53 Blessed art thou in the holy temple of thy glory: and exceedingly to be praised, and exceeding glorious for ever.

54 Blessed art thou on the throne of thy kingdom, and exceedingly to be praised and exalted above all for ever.

55 Blessed art thou that beholdest the depths, and sittest upon the cherubims: and worthy to be praised and exalted above all for ever.

56 Blessed art thou in the firmament of heaven: and worthy of praise, and glorious for ever.

57 All ye works of the Lord, bless the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

58 O ye angels of the Lord, bless the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

59 O ye heavens, bless the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

60 O all ye waters that are above the heavens, bless the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

61 O all ye powers of the Lord, bless the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

62 O ye sun and moon, bless the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

63 O ye stars of heaven, bless the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

64 O every shower and dew, bless ye the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

65 O all ye spirits of God, bless the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

66 O ye fire and heat, bless the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

67 O ye cold and heat, bless the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

68 O ye dews and hoar frost, bless the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

69 O ye frost and cold, bless the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

70 O ye ice and snow, bless the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

a Psal. cxlviii. 4.

VER. 48. Furnace. These might be other victims, (H.) or he recapitulates what had been said ver. 22, (C.) which is by no means unusual.

VER. 49. Furnace: so that it destroyed the Chaldeans, while it had no power to hurt God's servants. H.

VER. 53. Temple; heaven, styled the throne, ver. 54. The temple was now in ruins.

VER. 65. Spirits: winds. Angels and men are mentioned elsewhere. C.

VER. 67. Heat. Winter and summer. Some copies have, æstas. C.

VER. 86. Souls, in a separate state. Angels are invited before. C.

VER. 63. Ananias, &c. They retain their Hebrew names, despising those im-

71 O ye nights and days, bless the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

72 O ye light and darkness, bless the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

73 O ye lightnings and clouds, bless the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

74 O let the earth bless the Lord: let it praise and exalt him above all for ever.

75 O ye mountains and hills, bless the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

76 O all ye things that spring up in the earth, bless the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

77 O ye fountains, bless the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

78 O ye seas and rivers, bless the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

79 O ye whales, and all that move in the waters, bless the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

80 O all ye fowls of the air, bless the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

81 O all ye beasts and cattle, bless the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

82 O ye sons of men, bless the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

83 O let Israel bless the Lord: let them praise and exalt him above all for ever.

84 O ye priests of the Lord, bless the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

85 O ye servants of the Lord, bless the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

86 O ye spirits and souls of the just, bless the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

87 O ye holy and humble of heart, bless the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever.

88 O Ananias, Azarias, and Misael, bless ye the Lord: praise and exalt him above all for ever. For he hath delivered us from hell, and saved us out of the hand of death, and delivered us out of the midst of the burning flame, and saved us out of the midst of the fire.

89 O give thanks to the Lord, because he is good: because his mercy endureth for ever and ever.

90 O all ye religious, bless the Lord, the God of gods: praise him, and give him thanks, because his mercy endureth for ever and ever.

91 Then Nabuchodonosor, the king, was astonished, and rose up in haste, and said to his nobles: Did we not cast three men bound into the midst of the fire? They answered the king, and said: True, O king.

92 He answered, and said: Behold, I see four men loose, and walking in the midst of the fire, and there is no hurt in them, and the form of the fourth is like the son of God.

posed by the Chaldeans, with their impious manners. Chap. i. 7. The inanimate creation is invited to praise God in its way, (Psal. cxlviii.,) as well as those endued with reason. H.—Hell: the grave. C.

VER. 91. Then, hearing these praises, and seeing people walking in the fire. Grabe's edit. after ver. 24, has only, "And Nabuchodonosor heard them singing, hymns, and was." &c.

VER. 92. The son, or rather (H.) "a son;" viq. Lowth's Gram.—It was the same angel who descended (W.) with them. Ver. 49. Some have taken him for Jesus Christ. But S. Aug. observes, that most of these apparitions were made by angels, (Trin. iii. 11,) who are often styled "sons of God." Job i. 6. T. C.

93 Then Nabuchodonosor came to the door of the burning fiery furnace, and said: Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago, ye servants of the most high God, go ye forth, and come. And immediately Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago, went out from the midst of the fire.

94 And the nobles, and the magistrates, and the judges, and the great men of the king, being gathered together, considered these men, that the fire had no power on their bodies, and that not a hair of their head had been singed, nor their garments altered, nor the smell of the fire had passed on them.

95 Then Nabuchodonosor breaking forth, said: Blessed be the God of them, to wit, of Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago, who hath sent his angel, and delivered his servants that believed in him: and they changed the king's word, and delivered up their bodies, that they might not serve nor adore any god except their own God.

96 By me, therefore, this decree is made: That every people, tribe, and tongue, which shall speak blasphemy against the God of Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago, shall be destroyed, and their houses laid waste: for there is no other God that can save in this manner.

97 Then the king promoted Sidrach, Misach, and Abdenago, in the province of Babylon.

98 Nabuchodonosor, the king, to all peoples, nations, and tongues, that dwell in all the earth, peace be multiplied unto you.

99 The most high God hath wrought signs and wonders towards me. It hath seemed good to me, therefore, to publish 100 His signs, because they are great: and his wonders, because they are mighty: and his kingdom is an everlasting kingdom,^a and his power to all generations.

CHAP. IV.

Nabuchodonosor's dream, by which the judgments of God are denounced against him for his pride, is interpreted by Daniel, and verified by the event.

I NABUCHODONOSOR, was at rest in my house, and flourishing in my palace:

2 I saw a dream that affrighted me: and my thoughts in my bed, and the visions of my head, troubled me.

3 Then I set forth a decree, that all the wise men of

^a Infra, iv. 31, and vii. 14.

VER. 94. Smell, such as is felt when people, (H.) or their garments, come too near the fire. C.—Here the fire burnt only the bands. Ver. 23. 92. H.

VER. 96. Destroyed. Chal. "torn limb from limb, (C.) and their houses be made a dunghill." Chap. ii. 5. H.—Manner. One would suppose that he was really converted; but his heart was not changed. Chap. iv. C.

VER. 97. Promoted. He granted them greater power (W.); or Chal. "re-established" them in their former dignities.

VER. 98. Nabuchodonosor, &c. These last three verses are a kind of preface to the following chapter, which is written in the style of an epistle from the king. Ch.

CHAP. IV. VER. 1. Palace. He continues the edict, having subdued all his enemies. C.—Daniel recites his words. The king had the dream in the 34th year of his reign, which continued in all forty-three, including the seven of absence. W.

VER. 5. Colleague. Chal. also "another, or afterwards, (H.) or at last." C.—My god. He says this, because the name of Baltassar, or Beltshazzar, is derived from the name of Bel, the chief god of the Babylonians. Ch.—Gods. He speaks conformably to his false opinion (S. Jer.); or, being instructed by Daniel, he testifies that the Holy Spirit enlightens the prophet. C.

VER. 6. And the. He is convinced that Daniel could do both, but could send now to relate his dream. H.

VER. 7. Trees often denotes princes. Ezec. xxxi. 3. C.

VER. 10. A watcher. A vigilant angel, perhaps the guardian of Israel. Ch.—The scholiast (Rov. ed.) says, "the Sept. render it an angel, the rest a watcher." These supernatural agents (H.) and saints are represented as judges, ver. 14. C.

Babylon should be brought in before me, and that they should show me the interpretation of the dream.

4 Then came in the diviners, the wise men, the Chaldeans, and the soothsayers, and I told the dream before them: but they did not show me the interpretation thereof.

5 Till their colleague, Daniel, came in before me, whose name is Baltassar, according to the name of my god, who hath in him the spirit of the holy gods: and I told the dream before him.

6 Baltassar, prince of the diviners, because I know that thou hast in thee the spirit of the holy gods, and that no secret is impossible to thee, tell me the visions of my dreams that I have seen, and the interpretation of them?

7 This was the vision of my head in my bed: I saw, and behold a tree in the midst of the earth, and the height thereof was exceeding great.

8 The tree was great and strong, and the height thereof reached unto heaven: the sight thereof was even to the ends of all the earth.

9 Its leaves were most beautiful, and its fruit exceeding much: and in it was food for all: under it dwelt cattle and beasts, and in the branches thereof the fowls of the air had their abode: and all flesh did eat of it.

10 I saw in the vision of my head upon my bed, and behold a watcher, and a holy one came down from heaven.

11 He cried aloud, and said thus: Cut down the tree, and chop off the branches thereof: shake off its leaves, and scatter its fruits: let the beasts fly away that are under it, and the birds from its branches.

12 Nevertheless, leave the stump of its roots in the earth, and let it be tied with a band of iron and of brass, among the grass, that is without, and let it be wet with the dew of heaven, and let its portion be with the wild beasts in the grass of the earth.

13 Let his heart be changed from man's, and let a beast's heart be given him: and let seven times pass over him.

14 This is the decree by the sentence of the watchers, and the word and demand of the holy ones: till the living know, that the Most High ruleth in the kingdom of men:

^b A. M. 3434, A. C. 570.

VER. 11. Branches, to show that all (H.) the king's subjects should abandon him.

VER. 13. Changed, &c. It does not appear, by Scripture, that Nabuchodonosor was changed from human shape, much less that he was changed into an ox, but only that he lost his reason, and became mad; and in this condition remained abroad in the company of beasts eating grass like an ox, till his hair grew in such a manner as to resemble the feathers of eagles, and his nails to be like birds' claws. Ch.—Origen represents the whole as an allegorical description of the fall of Lucifer. See S. Jer. But his arguments have made little impression: and it is universally believed that Nabuchodonosor was thus punished for his pride, after a whole year had been allowed him to see if he would repent. His son, Evilmerodac, probably ruled during his absence. Most of the Chaldean writings have perished; so that we need not be surprised if they take no notice of this event, which was so disgraceful to the nation. Yet Megasthenes (in Eus. Prep. 9, ult.) seems to hint at it, when he represents the king seized by a Divine fury, and crying out (C. Diss.): "I, the same Nabuchodonosor, foretell unto you, Babylonians, a fatal calamity, which neither my ancestor Belus, nor even the kingdom of Bel (H. the gods) have power to avert. For a Persian mule (Cyrus. C.) shall come, assisted by your demons, and bring on slavery. Having uttered this oracle, he suddenly disappeared." H.—Beast's heart. In his hypocritical temper he imagined himself (C.) to be an ox. (H.) avoided the society of men, going naked and feeding on grass, upon his hands and feet, till (after seven years) God restored him to his senses and kingdom. W.—Times. This usually denotes years, in Daniel (vii. 25, and xii. 7); and of course (C.) we must understand it here in this sense (W.); though some have explained it of an indeterminate length.

and he will give it to whomsoever it shall please him, and he will appoint the basest^a man over it.

15 I, king Nabuchodonosor, saw this dream: thou, therefore, O Baltassar, tell me quickly the interpretation: for all the wise men of my kingdom are not able to declare the meaning of it to me: but thou art able, because the spirit of the holy gods is in thee.

16 Then Daniel, whose name was Baltassar, began silently to think within himself for about one hour: and his thoughts troubled him. But the king answering, said: Baltassar, let not the dream and the interpretation thereof trouble thee. Baltassar answered, and said: My lord, the dream be to them that hate thee, and the interpretation thereof to thy enemies.

17 The tree which thou sawest, which was high and strong, whose height reached to the skies, and the sight thereof into all the earth:

18 And the branches thereof were most beautiful, and its fruit exceeding much, and in it was food for all, under which the beasts of the field dwelt, and the birds of the air had their abode in its branches.

19 It is thou, O king, who art grown great, and become mighty: for thy greatness hath grown, and hath reached to heaven, and thy power unto the ends of the earth.

20 And whereas the king saw a watcher, and a holy one come down from heaven, and say: Cut down the tree, and destroy it, but leave the stump of the roots thereof in the earth, and let it be bound with iron and brass, among the grass without, and let it be sprinkled with the dew of heaven, and let his feeding be with the wild beasts, till seven times pass over him.

21 This is the interpretation of the sentence of the Most High, which is come upon my lord, the king.

22 They shall cast thee out from among men, and thy dwelling shall be with cattle, and with wild beasts. ^band thou shalt eat grass, as an ox, and shalt be wet with the dew of heaven: and seven times shall pass over thee, till thou know that the Most High ruleth over the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whomsoever he will.

23 But whereas he commanded, that the stump of the roots thereof, that is, of the tree, should be left: thy kingdom shall remain to thee, after thou shalt have known that power is from heaven.

24 Wherefore, O king, let my counsel be acceptable to thee, and redeem thou thy sins with alms, and thy iniquities with works of mercy to the poor: perhaps he will forgive thy offences.

25 All these things came upon king Nabuchodonosor.

26 At the end of twelve months he was walking in the palace of Babylon.

27 And the king answered, and said: Is not this the great Babylon, which I have built, to be the seat of the kingdom, by the strength of my power, and in the glory of my excellence?

28 And while the word was yet in the king's mouth, a voice came down from heaven: To thee, O king Nabuchodonosor, it is said: Thy kingdom shall pass from thee.

29 And they shall cast thee out from among men, and thy dwelling shall be with cattle and wild beasts: thou shalt eat grass like an ox, and seven times shall pass over thee, till thou know that the Most High ruleth in the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whomsoever he will.

30 The same hour the word was fulfilled upon Nabuchodonosor, and he was driven away from among men, and did eat grass, like an ox, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven: till his hairs grew like the feathers of eagles, and his nails like birds' claws.

31 Now at the end of the days, ^dI, Nabuchodonosor, lifted up my eyes to heaven, and my sense was restored to me: and I blessed the Most High, and I praised and glorified him that liveth for ever: for his power is an everlasting power, and his kingdom is to all generations.

32 And all the inhabitants of the earth are reputed as nothing before him: for he doth according to his will, as well with the powers of heaven, as among the inhabitants of the earth: and there is none that can resist his hand, and say to him: Why hast thou done it?

33 At the same time my sense returned to me, and I came to the honour and glory of my kingdom: and my shape returned to me: and my nobles, and my magistrates, sought for me, and I was restored to my kingdom: and greater majesty was added to me.

34 Therefore I, Nabuchodonosor, do now praise, and magnify, and glorify the King of heaven: because all his works are true, and his ways judgments, and them that walk in pride he is able to abase.

CHAP. V.

Baltassar's profane banquet: his sentence is denounced by a hand-writing on the wall, which Daniel reads and interprets.

^d A. M. 3412, A. C. 562.—^a Supra, iii. 100.—^b Jer. xxiii. 13; Psal. cxv. 3.

of time, or of weeks, months, or seasons. Only winter and summer were admitted, so that half this period would thus suffice. See Theod. C.

VER. 16. Hour. Chal. ssâe, (H.) implies "a little while" (Grot.); yet of some duration, not precisely like one of the modern hours. The prophet was silent, being troubled by the Divine Spirit, (chap. x. 8,) at the view of impending misery; or unwilling to hurt the king's feelings, till he should urge him to speak. C.—He was sorry to denounce such calamities, yet must speak the truth. W.—Trouble. Theodot. "make thee hurry." He perceived the prophet's anxiety, and encouraged him.

VER. 23. Remain. His son and the nobles should act in his name. Ver. 13.

VER. 24. Alms. Chal. "justice," is often taken in this sense. Syr., &c. 2 Cor. ix. 9. C.

VER. 25. Came. Daniel informs us of this event, unless the king speak of himself in the third person, from ver. 26 to 31, giving an account of what he had heard and experienced. H.

VER. 27. Answered his own vain thoughts. H.—He was admiring the city, which he had greatly enlarged and beautified. Beros., &c.

VER. 31. Heaven: God having looked on me with pity. S. Aug. (Ep. 111, C. or 122. W.) seems to think that he was saved; and the author of the B. on Pred. and Grace, (chap. xv.) attributed to him, remarks that his repentance was different from that of Pharaoh. Hence none must despair. S. Jer. Ep. 7, to Leta. —see Theod., A. Lap., &c., who maintain the same opinion: but S. Thomas expresses his doubts.

VER. 32. With, or "by the powers (angels, ver. 10) . . . as by men." —et.—The stars are also frequently thus described. Matt. xxiv. 29.

VER. 33. Shape. He had not assumed that of an ox. (H.) but had greatly neglected his person, (C.) so that he was covered with hair, &c. Ver. 30. H.

VER. 34. I, &c. From this place some commentators infer that this king became a true convert, and dying not long after, was probably saved. Ch. Jos. Ant. 10.—This is the last act of his which is recorded. If he had lived much longer he would probably have restored the Jews. W.—But the time decreed by heaven for their liberation was not yet arrived. H.

CHAP. V. VER. 1. Baltassar. He is believed to be the same as Nabonides, the last of the Chaldean kings, grandson to Nabuchodonosor. He is called his son.

BALTASSAR, "the king, made a great feast for a thousand of his nobles: and every one drank according to his age.

2 And being now drunk, he commanded that they should bring the vessels of gold and silver, which Nabuchodonosor, his father, had brought away out of the temple, that was in Jerusalem, that the king and his nobles, and his wives, and his concubines, might drink in them.

3 Then were the golden and silver vessels brought, which he had brought away out of the temple that was in Jerusalem: and the king and his nobles, his wives, and his concubines, drank in them.

4 They drank wine, and praised their gods of gold, and of silver, of brass, of iron, and of wood, and of stone.

5 In the same hour there appeared fingers, as it were of the hand of a man, writing over against the candlestick, upon the surface of the wall of the king's palace: and the king beheld the joints of the hand that wrote.

6 Then was the king's countenance changed, and his thoughts troubled him: and the joints of his loins were loosed, and his knees struck one against the other.

7 And the king cried out aloud to bring in the wise men, the Chaldeans, and the soothsayers. And the king spoke, and said to the wise men of Babylon: Whosoever shall read this writing, and shall make known to me the interpretation thereof, shall be clothed with purple, and shall have a golden chain on his neck, and shall be the third man in my kingdom.

8 Then came in all the king's wise men, but they could neither read the writing, nor declare the interpretation to the king.

9 Wherewith king Baltassar was much troubled, and his countenance was changed: and his nobles also were troubled.

10 Then the queen, on occasion of what had happened to the king, and his nobles, came into the banquet-house: and she spoke, and said: O king, live for ever: let not thy thoughts trouble thee, neither let thy countenance be changed.

11 There is a man in thy kingdom that hath the spirit of the holy gods in him: and in the days of thy father knowledge and wisdom were found in him: for king Nabuchodonosor, thy father, appointed him prince of the wise men, enchanters, Chaldeans, and soothsayers, thy father, I say, O king:

12 Because a greater spirit, and knowledge, and understanding, and interpretation of dreams, and showing of secrets, and resolving of difficult things, were found in him, that is, in Daniel: whom the king named Baltassar. Now, therefore, let Daniel be called for, and he will tell the interpretation.

13 Then Daniel was brought in before the king. And the king spoke, and said to him: Art thou Daniel, of the children of the captivity of Juda, whom my father, the king, brought out of Judea?

14 I have heard of thee, that thou hast the spirit of the gods, and excellent knowledge, and understanding, and wisdom are found in thee.

15 And now the wise men, the magicians, have come in before me, to read this writing, and show me the interpretation thereof; and they could not declare to me the meaning of this writing.

16 But I have heard of thee, that thou canst interpret obscure things, and resolve difficult things: now if thou art able to read the writing, and to show me the interpretation thereof, thou shalt be clothed with purple, and shalt have a chain of gold about thy neck, and shalt be the third prince in my kingdom.

17 To which Daniel made answer, and said before the king: Thy rewards be to thyself, and the gifts of thy house give to another: but the writing I will read to thee, O king, and show thee the interpretation thereof.

18 O king, the most high God gave to Nabuchodonosor, thy father, a kingdom, and greatness, and glory, and honour.

19 And for the greatness that he gave to him, all people, tribes, and languages trembled, and were afraid of him: whom he would, he slew: and whom he would, he destroyed: and whom he would, he set up: and whom he would, he brought down.

20 But when his heart was lifted up, and his spirit hardened unto pride, he was put down from the throne of his kingdom, and his glory was taken away.

21 And he was driven out from the sons of men, and his heart was made like the beasts, and his dwelling was with the wild asses, and he did eat grass like an ox, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven: till he knew that the Most High ruled in the kingdom of men, and that he will set over it whomsoever it shall please him.

22 Thou also, his son, O Baltassar, hast not humbled thy heart, whereas thou knewest all these things:

23 But hast lifted thyself up against the Lord of heaven: and the vessels of his house have been brought

* A. M. 1346, A. C. 538.

† Eupra, iv. 22.

ver. 2, 11, &c., according to the style of the Scriptures, because he was a descendant from him. Ch. S. Jer. in Isa. xiii. Usher, &c.—Some think that he was brother of Evilmerodac. Ver. 11. Bar. i. 11. But he seems rather to have been his son. Jer. xxvii. 7. Profane authors place Neriglissor and Laborosoarchod between them. They were not of the royal family, and might be looked upon as usurpers, or reigned in some other place; or they did not meddle with the Jews. C.—Thousand; or, "for his officers over a thousand men." Theodot.—Every. Chal. "and drank wine before the thousand," more than any, for this was deemed a great perfection; or he drank in their presence, but apart. C.—The Persian monarchs used to sit in a separate apartment, with a veil before the door, so that they could see the guests without being seen.—According to the order of time, this chapter should be placed after the 7th and 8th. C.—But those contain visions. H.

VER. 6. Loosed, so that he quaked for fear. Ezech. xxix. 7. C.—He was not so drunk as to be deprived of sense. H.

VER. 7. Purple. This and the chain were reserved for the highest nobility.—Third, or one of the three great officers. Chap. vi. 1, and 2 Kings xxiii. 8, 19.

VER. 10. The queen. Not the wife, but the mother of the king (Ch.); Amyit, widow of Nabuchodonosor, and sister of Darius, the Mede; or (C.) Nitocris, the mother of Labynithus, (Herod. 1.) whom many confound with Baltassar. C.

VER. 11. Father. So a grandfather might be styled. Jer. xxvii. 7. W.—Daniel was not perhaps at the head of the wise men. C.—He was probably (H.) in some office, at Susa, yet happened to be then in Babylon, (C.) which was besieged, and thither he might have retired at the approach of Cyrus.

VER. 19. Slew. He was an absolute monarch, and considered his subjects as so many slaves. C.

VER. 21. Beasts. His disordered imagination made him dwell with them. W.—It is strange that such an example should have been so soon forgotten, that Daniel is forced to repeat it so explicitly. Chap. iv. 13.

VER. 23. Vessels. Only part had been returned to Sedecias (chap. i. 2): but they were taken again, and kept in the palace, or in the temple of Bel. H.—Breath, or soul. Gen. ii. 7. C.

before thee: and thou, and thy nobles, and thy wives, and thy concubines, have drunk wine in them: and thou hast praised the gods of silver, and of gold, and of brass, of iron, and of wood, and of stone, that neither see, nor hear, nor feel: but the God who hath thy breath in his hand, and all thy ways, thou hast not glorified.

24 Wherefore, he hath sent the part of the hand which hath written this that is set down.

25 And this is the writing that is written: MANE, THECEL, PHARES.

26 And this is the interpretation of the word. MANE: God hath numbered thy kingdom, and hath finished it.

27 THECEL: thou art weighed in the balance, and art found wanting.

28 PHARES: thy kingdom is divided, and is given to the Medes and Persians.

29 Then by the king's command, Daniel was clothed with purple, and a chain of gold was put about his neck: and it was proclaimed of him that he had power as the third man in the kingdom.

30 The same night Baltassar, the Chaldean king, was slain.*

31 And Darius, the Mede, succeeded to the kingdom, being threescore and two years old.

CHAP. VI.

Daniel is promoted by Darius: his enemies procure a law forbidding prayer: for the transgression of this law, Daniel is cast into the lion's den: but miraculously delivered.

IT seemed good to Darius, and he appointed over the kingdom a hundred and twenty governors, to be over his whole kingdom.

2 And three princes over them, of whom Daniel was one: that the governors might give an account to them, and the king might have no trouble.

3 And Daniel excelled all the princes, and governors: because a greater spirit of God was in him.

4 And the king thought to set him over all the kingdom: whereupon the princes, and the governors, sought to find occasion against Daniel, with regard to the king: and they could find no cause, nor suspicion, because he was faithful, and no fault, nor suspicion was found in him.

5 Then these men said: We shall not find any occasion against this Daniel, unless perhaps concerning the law of his God.

6 Then the princes, and the governors, craftily suggested to the king, and spoke thus unto him: King Darius, live for ever:

7 All the princes of the kingdom, the magistrates, and governors, the senators, and judges, have consulted together, that an imperial decree, and an edict be published: That whosoever shall ask any petition of any god, or man, for thirty days, but of thee, O king, shall be cast into the den of the lions.

8 Now, therefore, O king, confirm the sentence, and sign the decree: that what is decreed by the Medes and Persians may not be altered, nor any man be allowed to transgress it.

9 So king Darius set forth the decree, and established it.

10 Now, when Daniel knew this, that is to say, that the law was made, he went into his house: and opening the windows in his upper chamber towards Jerusalem, he knelt down three times a day, and adored and gave thanks before his God, as he had been accustomed to do before.

11 Wherefore those men carefully watching him, found Daniel praying and making supplication to his God.

12 And they came and spoke to the king concerning the edict: O king, hast thou not decreed, that every man that should make a request to any of the gods, or men, for thirty days, but to thyself, O king, should be cast into the den of the lions? And the king answered them, saying: The word is true, according to the decree of the Medes and Persians, which it is not lawful to violate.

13 Then they answered, and said before the king: Daniel, who is of the children of the captivity of Juda, hath not regarded thy law, nor the decree that thou hast made: but three times a day he maketh his prayer.

14 Now when the king had heard these words, he was very much grieved, and in behalf of Daniel he set his heart to deliver him, and even till sun-set he laboured to save him.

15 But those men perceiving the king's design, said to him: Know thou, O king, that the law of the Medes and

* A. M. 3466, A. C. 538.

b Est. i. 19.

VER. 25. Phares. These words consist of three letters, mona, thohol, pros, as we add o merely for pronunciation. Being unconnected and almost destitute of vowels, (H.) it was not easy even for the learned to read these words, or to ascertain their meaning. C.—Mane is twice repeated, to show the certainty and exactitude of the numbering. M.—Yet in the sequel each word occurs once and unconnected, as it is here in the Vulg.; not Mene, Mene, Tekel Upharsin, (Prot. H.) "He hath numbered, numbered, weighed, and the dividers or the Persians" are upon thee, (T.) as Dalila said to Samson. Only three words (H.) were written. S. Jer.

VER. 29. Third, or over a third part. S. Jer. Ver. 7. H.—The honours were conferred without delay, and they would have been made public in the morning. But death prevented the king; and Daniel did not enjoy them till they were ratified by Darius, to whom he adhered. C.—The Medes then besieged the city, which they took that night, when most part were drunk. W.—It was a solemn festival. Isa. xxi. S. Jer.—Cyrus rushed in by the channel of the Euphrates, and two of the king's guards slew him to revenge themselves. Xenoph. 7. Beros.

VER. 31. Darius. He is called Cyaxares by the historians, and was the son of Astyages, and uncle to Cyrus (Ch.) as well as to Baltassar, by the mother's side. He is styled Astyages, (chap. xiii. 65,) or Artaxerxes. Sept. Chap. vi. 1. He takes the title of king both of the Medes and Persians. Chap. vi. 8, &c. C.

CHAP. VI. VER. 1. Kingdom. Josephus, &c. say Darius had returned into Media, where he made these regulations. But if this did not take place at Babylon, it would be rather at Susa. Chap. viii.

VER. 4. Kingdom, as prime minister, to whom the three princes should be accountable, as the inferior governors were to them. H.—The king was now advanced in years, and wished to ease himself of part of the burden, (C.) as he could entirely confide in Daniel. H.—He reigned only one year. Chap. xiii. 65. W.—King. Chal. "kingdom," (H.) to accuse him of treason, (Grot.) or to get him removed. C.

VER. 6. Craftily. Chal. "came tumultuously to," &c. C.—They hoped thus to convince the king, as they were so unanimous. He would not perceive the drift of their petition, and was flattered with the idea of being like a god. Daniel was not consulted, though on other occasions the king reposed such confidence in him, as the deputies so impudently asserted that the wish was universal! So easily are princes deceived! H.

VER. 9. It. Nabuchodonosor of Babylon, and of Ninive, had both pretended to be gods. Chap. iii. 15; Judith v. 29. C.

VER. 10. Before. He did not open the windows that he might be seen, as that would have been rashness; nor did many perceive what he was doing, (ver. 11. W.) as it was in an upper room, but only those who rushed in. H.—It was the usual practice of the Jews, (C.) to pray turning towards the temple, as Solomon had directed, (3 Kings viii. 48. S. Jer. in Ezech. viii. 16,) though it was now 't' ashes. H.

VER. 11. Carefully. Chal. "came in a tumultuous manner," as ver. 6, and 15. C.

VER. 15. Perceiving. Chal. "assembled," (Prot. H.) or "came quickly to a body." C.

Persians is, that no decree which the king hath made, may be altered.

16 Then the king commanded, and they brought Daniel, and cast him into the den of the lions. And the king said to Daniel: Thy God, whom thou always servest, he will deliver thee.

17 And a stone was brought, and laid upon the mouth of the den: which the king sealed with his own ring, and with the ring of his nobles, that nothing should be done against Daniel.

18 And the king went away to his house, and laid himself down without taking supper, and meat was not set before him, and even sleep departed from him.

19 Then the king rising very early in the morning, went in haste to the lions' den:

20 And coming near to the den, cried with a lamentable voice to Daniel, and said to him: Daniel, servant of the living God, hath thy God, whom thou servest always, been able, thinkest thou, to deliver thee from the lions?

21 And Daniel answering the king, said: O king, live for ever:

22 "My God hath sent his angel, and hath shut up the mouths of the lions, and they have not hurt me: forasmuch as before him justice hath been found in me: yea, and before thee, O king, I have done no offence.

23 Then was the king exceeding glad for him, and he commanded that Daniel should be taken out of the den: and Daniel was taken out of the den, and no hurt was found in him, because he believed in his God.

24 And by the king's commandment, those men were brought that had accused Daniel: and they were cast into the lions' den, they and their children, and their wives: and they did not reach the bottom of the den, before the lions caught them, and broke all their bones in pieces.

25 Then king Darius wrote to all people, tribes, and languages, dwelling in the whole earth: PEACE be multiplied unto you.

26 It is decreed by me, that in all my empire and my kingdom, all men dread and fear the God of Daniel. For he is the living and eternal God for ever: and his kingdom shall not be destroyed, and his power shall be for ever.

27 He is the deliverer, and saviour, doing signs and wonders in heaven, and in earth: who hath delivered Daniel out of the lions' den.

28 Now Daniel continued unto the reign of Darius, and the reign of Cyrus, the Persian.

CHAP. VII.

Daniel's vision of the four beasts, signifying four kingdoms: of God sitting on his throne: and of the opposite kingdoms of Christ and antichrist.

IN the first year of Baltassar, king of Babylon, Daniel saw a dream: and the vision of his head was upon his bed: and writing the dream, he comprehended it in a few words: and relating the sum of it in short, he said:

2 I saw in my vision by night, and behold the four winds of the heaven strove upon the great sea.

3 And four great beasts, different one from another, came up out of the sea.

4 The first was like a lioness, and had the wings of an eagle: I beheld till her wings were plucked off, and she was lifted up from the earth, and stood upon her feet as a man, and the heart of a man was given to her.

5 And behold another beast, like a bear, stood up on one side: and there were three rows in the mouth thereof, and in the teeth thereof, and thus they said to it: Arise, devour much flesh.

6 After this I beheld, and lo, another like a leopard, and it had upon it four wings, as of a fowl, and the beast had four heads, and power was given to it.

7 After this I beheld in the vision of the night, and lo, a fourth beast, terrible and wonderful, and exceeding strong, it had great iron teeth, eating and breaking in pieces, and treading down the rest with its feet: and it was unlike to the other beasts which I had seen before it, and had ten horns.

8 I considered the horns, and behold another little horn sprung out of the midst of them: and three of the first horns were plucked up at the presence thereof: and behold eyes like the eyes of a man were in this horn, and a mouth speaking great things.

a 1 Mac. ii. 60.

b Supra, i. 21.

VER. 17. Own ring, that none of his enemies might injure Daniel. The nobles also affixed their seal, (H.) that the king might not liberate him. M.

VER. 18. Meat. Chal. "music," (C.) or "incense." De Dieu.

VER. 22. Offence, as I neglected thy decree to obey a higher Master. C.

VER. 23. Believed, or trusted. C.—S. Paul alludes to this miracle. Heb. xi. 33. W.

VER. 24. Accused. They were punished as false witnesses (C.); and the king justly made them suffer what they would have inflicted on the innocent, being convinced that Daniel had only acted according to his devotion. W.—Wives. Many examples of such punishments occur, (C.) as it was presumed the children and wives were infected by the bad example, and would imitate it, (Jun.) if they had not concurred already. M.

CHAP. VII. VER. 1. Baltassar. Chal. a letter is wanting. H.—This Baltassar was slain. Chap. v. C.—The two visions happened before that event. W.

VER. 3. Four great beasts; viz. the Chaldean, Persian, Grecian, and Roman empires. But some rather choose to understand the fourth beast of the successors of Alexander the Great, more especially of them that reigned in Asia and Syria, (Ch.) or in Egypt. Chap. ii. 40. H.

VER. 4. Man. The emperors of Babylon were forced to confess that they were nothing more. C.—Their cruel and rapid conquests (W.) are denoted by this monstrous animal. Its wings show how the lands were divided between the Medes and Persians. Perhaps Neriglissor, &c. shared a part. Chap. v. 1. C.

VER. 5. Bear, which is cruel, and eats what is set before it greedily. W.—Side. Cyrus did not attack the Jews. S. Jer.—He stood ready to attack the Chaldeans.—Three. He ruled over the Medes and Chaldeans, as well as over the Persians. C.—Rows. Gr. "wings or sides" of an animal, (H.) or "bones"

Grot.—Cyrus was always at war; and Justin (I.) says that Tomyris II., of Scythia, ordered his head to be cut off, and thrown into a vessel full of blood.

VER. 6. Leopard, a small spotted beast, may denote the size and disposition of Alexander, as well as his rapid conquests. When he was asked how he had subdued so many, he answered, "by never putting off." C.—Four. He led his forces on all sides (H.); and after his death his empire was divided into four, (W.) Egypt, Syria, Asia, and Macedon, (Theod.) as he had united in his person the empire of the Chaldees, Medes, Persians, and Greeks. C.

VER. 7. Unlike. It is not named; but shows the incomparable power of the Romans, governed by kings, consuls, tribunes, dictators, and emperors, at different times. W.—This is the opinion generally received, which we shall explain. Yet many think that the kingdoms of Syria and Egypt are designated, as chap. ii. 40.—Horns. That is, ten kingdoms, (as Apoc. xvii. 12,) among which the empire of the fourth beast shall be parcelled: or ten kings of the number of the successors of Alexander, as figures of such as shall be about the time of antichrist. Ch.—Epiphanes was the eighth king, and Laomedon, Antigonos, and Demetrius, had been governors of Syria before. Most understand this of antichrist, whom Epiphanes foreshadowed. Others think that it points out Vespasian, the tenth successor of Cæsar, who made war on the Jews. Others apply this to the Turkish empire, which may be paving the way for the great antagonist of Christ. C.

VER. 8. Little horn. This is commonly understood of antichrist. It may also be applied to that great persecutor, Antiochus Epiphanes, as a figure of antichrist. Ch.—He was the youngest son of Antiochus the Great, and was a hostage at Rome.—Man. He gained several at first, by his affability.—Things: blasphemy. 1 Mac. i. 23, 43. C.

VER. 9. Ancient. The Son is born of the Father, and the Holy Ghost.

9 I beheld till thrones were placed, and the ancient of days sat: his garment was white as snow, and the hair of his head like clean wool: his throne like flames of fire: the wheels of it like a burning fire.

10 A swift stream of fire issued forth from before him: thousands of thousands ministered to him, and ten thousand times a hundred thousand stood before him: the judgment sat, and the books were opened.

11 I beheld, because of the voice of the great words which that horn spoke: and I saw that the beast was slain, and the body thereof was destroyed, and given to the fire to be burnt:

12 And that the power of the other beasts was taken away: and that times of life were appointed them for a time, and a time.

13 I beheld, therefore, in the vision of the night, and lo, one like the Son of man came with the clouds of heaven, and he came even to the ancient of days: and they presented him before him.

14 And he gave him power, and glory, and a kingdom: and all peoples, tribes, and tongues shall serve him: his power is an everlasting power that shall not be taken away: and his kingdom, that shall not be destroyed.

15 My spirit trembled; I, Daniel, was affrighted at these things, and the visions of my head troubled me.

16 I went near to one of them that stood by, and asked the truth of him concerning all these things, and he told me the interpretation of the words, and instructed me:

17 These four great beasts, are four kingdoms, which shall arise out of the earth.

18 But the saints of the most high God shall take the kingdom: and they shall possess the kingdom for ever and ever.

19 And after this I would diligently learn concerning the fourth beast, which was very different from all, and exceeding terrible: his teeth and claws were of iron: he devoured and broke in pieces, and the rest he stamped upon with his feet:

20 And concerning the ten horns that he had on his head: and concerning the other that came up, before which three horns fell: and of that horn that had eyes, and a mouth speaking great things, and was greater than the rest.

^a Apoc. v. 11.—^b Supra, iii. 100, and iv. 31; Mic. iv. 7; Luke i. 32.

seeds from both, yet all three are co-eternal. W.—Hence the Father is sometimes painted in this manner, though he be a pure spirit. His throne resembled that seen by Ezechiel, chap. i. H.

VER. 10. Fire. Psal. xvi. 3.—Thousands. Gr. implies one million and one hundred millions. M.

VER. 11. Spoke. I wished to see how the king would be punished. He felt the hand of God as he was going to destroy all the Jews, when he pretended to repent. 1 Mac. vi., and 2 Mac. ix. 4.

VER. 12. Time. Each of the four empires had its period assigned. That of Rome attracted the prophet's attention most, and is mentioned first. M.

VER. 13. Heaven. Christ appeared about sixty years after the subversion of the Syrian monarchy. Yet these expressions literally refer to his second coming. Matt. xxvi. 64. C.—He had the form of man, as he had the nature. M.

VER. 14. Destroyed. The eternal dominion of Christ could not be expressed in stronger terms. He seems to allude to them, Matt. xxviii. 18. C.

VER. 18. Most High, (Th.) or rather Chal. "the very high saints of God;" as also ver. 22, 25, and 27.

VER. 24. Mightier. Chal. again, "unlike." Antiochus the Great had lost many provinces: but his son was the most implacable enemy of God's people. He subdued them, Egypt, and Armenia; or his three competitors. Ver. 8.

VER. 25. Against, or "over against," like an accuser. Sym. "as if he were 21 I beheld, and lo, that horn made war against the saints, and prevailed over them,

22 Till the ancient of days came and gave judgment to the saints of the Most High, and the time came, and the saints obtained the kingdom.

23 And thus he said: The fourth beast shall be the fourth kingdom upon earth, which shall be greater than all the kingdoms, and shall devour the whole earth, and shall tread it down, and break it in pieces.

24 And the ten horns of the same kingdom, shall be ten kings: and another shall rise up after them, and he shall be mightier than the former, and he shall bring down three kings.

25 And he shall speak words against the High One, and shall crush the saints of the Most High: and he shall think himself able to change times and laws, and they shall be delivered into his hand until a time, and times, and half a time.

26 And a judgment shall sit, that his power may be taken away, and be broken in pieces, and perish even to the end.

27 And that the kingdom, and power, and the greatness of the kingdom, under the whole heaven, may be given to the people of the saints of the Most High: whose kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and all kings shall serve him, and shall obey him.

28 Hitherto is the end of the word. I, Daniel, was much troubled with my thoughts, and my countenance was changed in me: but I kept the word in my heart.

CHAP. VIII.

Daniel's vision of the ram and he-goat, interpreted by the angel Gabriel.

IN the third year of the reign of king Baltassar, a vision appeared to me. I, Daniel, after what I had seen in the beginning,

2 Saw in my vision when I was in the castle of Susa, which is in the province of Elam: and I saw in the vision that I was over the gate of Ulai.

3 And I lifted up my eyes, and saw: and behold a ram stood before the water, having two high horns, and one higher than the other, and growing up. Afterward

4 I saw the ram pushing with his horns against the west, and against the north, and against the south: and no beasts could withstand him, nor be delivered out of his hand: and he did according to his own will, and became great.

^c A. M. 3451, A. C. 553.

God."—Laws. He did this with regard to the Jews, (1 Mac. i. 41. C.) prohibiting their festivals. Antichrist will do the like, and pretend to work miracles. H.—A time, &c. That is, three years and a half; which is supposed to be the length of the duration of the persecution of antichrist. Ch. Apoc. xi. 2, and xii. 14.

VER. 27. Him. The power of the Machabees was too limited, to be here understood. The Church and Christ must be meant.

CHAP. VIII. VER. 1. Beginning. This vision was to explain what he had seen (chap. vii) respecting the four monarchies. The conflict of the Persians with Alexander, after two hundred and twenty years, is here described. W.

VER. 2. Castle; some read, "city." Here the kings had a palace; and Hystaspes, &c. generally resided in it. C.—Gate, or "stagnant water" (paludem. Ver. 3. H.); though most understand the river Euleus, on the side of Susiana. C.

VER. 3. A ram. The empire of the Medes and Persians. Ch. W.—Cyrus, the founder, was allied to both.—Higher, denoting the Persians; or Hystaspes, and his posterity, the second branch of the royal family, which reigned to the end. whereas Cambyses was the only one of the race of Cyrus who succeeded to the throne. Others think that he alludes to Codomannus, whom Alexander certainly attacked.

VER. 4. South. Codomannus reigned in peace for two years, when he was invaded. But his predecessors had made war chiefly in Greece, Scythia, and Egypt. C.

5 And I understood : and behold a he-goat came from the west on the face of the whole earth, and he touched not the ground, and the he-goat had a notable horn between his eyes.

6 And he went up to the ram that had the horns, which I had seen standing before the gate, and he ran towards him in the force of his strength.

7 And when he was come near the ram, he was enraged against him, and struck the ram : and broke his two horns, and the ram could not withstand him : and when he had cast him down on the ground, he stamped upon him, and none could deliver the ram out of his hand.

8 And the he-goat became exceeding great : and when he was grown, the great horn was broken, and there came up four horns under it towards the four winds of heaven.

9 And out of one of them came forth a little horn : and it became great against the south, and against the east, and against the strength.

10 And it was magnified even unto the strength of heaven : and it threw down of the strength, and of the stars, and trod upon them.

11 And it was magnified even to the prince of the strength : and it took away from him the continual sacrifice, and cast down the place of his sanctuary.

12 And strength was given him against the continual sacrifice because of sins : and truth shall be cast down on the ground, and he shall do and shall prosper.

13 And I heard one of the saints speaking, and one saint said to another, I know not to whom that was speaking : How long shall be the vision, concerning the continual sacrifice, and the sin of the desolation that is made : and the sanctuary, and the strength be trodden under foot ?

14 And he said to him : Unto evening and morning two thousand three hundred days : and the sanctuary shall be cleansed.

15 And it came to pass when I, Daniel, saw the vision, and sought the meaning, that behold there stood before me as it were the appearance of a man.

VER. 5. A he-goat. The empire of the Greeks, or Macedonians.—He touched not the ground. He conquered all before him with so much rapidity, that he seemed rather to fly than to walk upon the earth.—A notable horn. Alexander the Great. Ch.—He succeeded his father when only twenty years old, and the next year was chosen generalissimo of the Greeks against Persia, which he invaded at the head of 30,000 foot and 4000 horse, having only seventy talents of silver and provisions for one month. With this he attacked the most flourishing empire, and conquered it in less than four years' time, when Darius was slain, A. 3674. Alexander survived only six years and ten months, yet subdued so many nations that it is almost incredible that he should have travelled over them. He is the belly of brass and the leopard, chap. ii. 39, and vii. 6. C.

VER. 7. Hand. He routed all the forces of his enemy (H.) at the Granicus, at Issus; and at Gaugamela, (C.) or Arbela, Darius escaped, but was slain by his own servants. II.

VER. 8. Broken, by death. Usher, A. 3681.—Four. Seleucus, Antigonus, Philip, and Ptolemus, the successors of Alexander, who divided his empire among them. Ch.—Other generals held out for some time. Philip was only a nominal king; Antipater governed Macedon and Greece. Syria, Asia, and Egypt formed three other kingdoms. All four are marked out by the four heads of the leopard. Chap. vii. 6. C.

VER. 9. A little horn. Antiochus Epiphanes, a descendant of Seleucus. He grew against the south and the east, by his victories over the kings of Egypt and Armenia; and against the strength, that is, against Jerusalem and the people of God. Ch.—He persecuted God's people, and set up the idol of Jupiter Olympius in the very temple. W.

VER. 10. Even unto, or against the strength of heaven. So are here called the army of the Jews, the people of God, (Ch.) and particularly the teachers. Many priests gave way to idolatry. 1 Mac. i. 48, and 2 Mac. iv. 14. C.

VER. 12. Strength. Heb. "the army was delivered up to him, for the," &c. While several contended for the high priesthood, and imitated the manners of the 16 And I heard the voice of a man between Ulai: and he called, and said : Gabriel, make this man to understand the vision.

17 And he came, and stood near where I stood : and when he was come, I fell on my face, trembling, and he said to me : Understand, O son of man, for in the time of the end the vision shall be fulfilled.

18 And when he spoke to me, I fell flat on the ground : and he touched me, and set me upright, 19 And he said to me : I will show thee what things are to come to pass in the end of the malediction : for the time hath its end.

20 The ram, which thou sawest with horns, is the king of the Medes and Persians.

21 And the he-goat, is the king of the Greeks, and the great horn that was between his eyes, the same is the first king.

22 But whereas when that was broken, there rose up four for it : four kings shall rise up of his nation, but not with his strength.

23 And after their reign, when iniquities shall be grown up, there shall arise a king of a shameless face, and understanding dark sentences.

24 And his power shall be strengthened, but not by his own force : and he shall lay all things waste, and shall prosper, and do more than can be believed. And he shall destroy the mighty, and the people of the saints,

25 According to his will, and craft shall be successful in his hand : and his heart shall be puffed up, and in the abundance of all things he shall kill many : and he shall rise up against the prince of princes, and shall be broken without hand.

26 And the vision of the evening and the morning, which was told, is true : thou, therefore, seal up the vision, because it shall come to pass after many days.

27 And I, Daniel, languished, and was sick for some days : and when I was risen up, I did the king's business, and I was astonished at the vision, and there was none that could interpret it.

Greeks, the sacrifices were neglected, and then Antiochus prevailed. 2 Mac. iv. 7.

VER. 14. Days. That is, six years and almost four months; which was the whole time from the beginning of the persecution of Antiochus till his death. Ch.—He began A. 143, and died A. 149, according to the era of Seleucus. H.—The temple was purified in the mean time. 1 Mac. i. 21, and vi. 16. W.—Full days are specified. Sacrifice entirely ceased for three years, A. 145. Chap. vii. 25.

VER. 16. Between, in an island formed by the river. It was the Son of God, (C.) or S. Michael, (S. Jer.) directing Gabriel to explain the vision.

VER. 17. Man. So Ezechiel is usually styled, to show that the human nature is different from that of angels, and would be greatly honoured by Jesus Christ, who takes this appellation. W.

VER. 19. Malediction. Heb. "wrath" against the people of God, and their enemies. C.

VER. 21. Is. Heb. "are the kings," (H.) including all. Ver. 3.

VER. 22. Nation, yet not his children. Ver. 8.

VER. 23. Shameless. Heb. "hard," cruel, and impudent, as Epiphanes was. 1 Mac. i. 2. Marcellinus styles him "wrathful and savage."—Sentences, making use of artifice to seize the estates of his nephew Philometor, and to oppress the Jews. 2 Mac. v. 24. C.

VER. 24. By. Heb. "not to his (Alexander's) strength." Ver. 22.

VER. 25. Prince: God.—Hand of man. He confessed that he was justly punished. 1 Mac. vi. 10.

VER. 26. Morning of this day, or of what shall happen in certain full days. Ver. 14.—Seal. When the predictions were to take place soon, they were dated and published. C.—This will remain obscure till after the event. S. Jer.—What regarded the temple, happened in 300 years' time. But it alluded also to antichrist. S. Greg. Mor. xxx. 12. W.

VER. 27. Business, at Susa. Nabuchodonosor had given him the price of Babylon

CHAP. IX.

Daniel's confession and prayer: Gabriel informs him concerning the seventy weeks to the coming of Christ.

IN the first year of Darius, the son of Assuerus, of the seed of the Medes, who reigned over the kingdom of the Chaldeans:

2 The first year of his reign I, Daniel, understood by books the number of the years, concerning which the word of the Lord came to Jeremias, the prophet, that seventy years should be accomplished of the desolation of Jerusalem.

3 And I set my face to the Lord, my God, to pray and make supplication with fasting, and sackcloth, and ashes.

4 And I prayed to the Lord, my God, and I made my confession, and said: "I beseech thee, O Lord God, great and terrible, who keepest the covenant, and mercy to them that love thee, and keep thy commandments.

5 "We have sinned, we have committed iniquity, we have done wickedly, and have revolted: and we have gone aside from thy commandments, and thy judgments.

6 We have not hearkened to thy servants, the prophets, that have spoken in thy name to our kings, to our princes, to our fathers, and to all the people of the land.

7 To thee, O Lord, justice: but to us confusion of face, as at this day to the men of Juda, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and to all Israel, to them that are near, and to them that are far off, in all the countries whither thou hast driven them, for their iniquities, by which they have sinned against thee.

8 O Lord, to us belongeth confusion of face, to our princes, and to our fathers, that have sinned.

9 But to thee, the Lord our God, mercy and forgiveness, for we have departed from thee:

10 And we have not hearkened to the voice of the Lord, our God, to walk in his law, which he set before us by his servants, the prophets.

11 And all Israel have transgressed thy law, and have turned away from hearing thy voice, and the malediction, and the curse, which is written in the book of Moses, the servant of God, is fallen upon us, because we have sinned against him.

12 And he hath confirmed his words which he spoke against us, and against our princes that judged us, that he would bring in upon us a great evil, such as never was under all the heaven, according to that which hath been done in Jerusalem.

13 As it is written in the law of Moses, all this evil is

* A. M. 3467, A. C. 537.—^b Jer. xxv. 11, and xxix. 10.—^c 2 Esd. i. 5.—^d Bar. i. 17.
• Deut. xxvii. 14.

CHAP. IX. VER. 1. Darius, the Mede. Chap. v. 31. If his reign had commenced at the same time with that of Cyrus, at Babylon, as it is commonly supposed, Daniel would have been under no anxiety respecting the people's liberation, as it took place that year, (C.) though perhaps not at the commencement. H.—Cyrus had now ruled over the Persians above two years, so that the first of Darius at Babylon agrees with the third of his reign over his countrymen. Chap. x. C.—Assuerus, or Achasuerus, is not a proper name, but means "a great prince." W.

VER. 2. Jerusalem. He read attentively the sacred volumes, particularly the prophecy of Jer. xxv. 11, and xxix. 10. Daniel perceiving that the time of the Jews' deliverance was at hand, prayed with great zeal and confidence. W.

VER. 4. Covenant. God never breaks it first. C.

VER. 11. Fallen, by drops, (stillavit. Deut. xxvii. 13, &c. H.) like an inundation.

VER. 13. Against. Heb. "according to."—Justice. Sept. "mercy." Let not the enemy boast that he has ruined thy temple, &c. Ver. 17. C.

come upon us: and we entreated not thy face, O Lord, our God, that we might turn from our iniquities, and think on thy truth.

14 And the Lord hath watched upon the evil, and hath brought it upon us: the Lord, our God, is just in all his works which he hath done: for we have not hearkened to his voice.

15 "And now, O Lord, our God, who hast brought forth thy people out of the land of Egypt, with a strong hand, and hast made thee a name as at this day: we have sinned, we have committed iniquity, 16 O Lord, against all thy justice: let thy wrath and thy indignation be turned away, I beseech thee, from thy city, Jerusalem, and from thy holy mountain. For by reason of our sins, and the iniquities of our fathers, Jerusalem, and thy people, are a reproach to all that are round about us.

17 Now, therefore, O our God, hear the supplication of thy servant, and his prayers: and show thy face upon thy sanctuary, which is desolate, for thy own sake.

18 Incline, O my God, thy ear, and hear: open thy eyes, and see our desolation, and the city upon which thy name is called: "for it is not for our justifications that we present our prayers before thy face, but for the multitude of thy tender mercies.

19 O Lord, hear: O Lord, be appeased: hearken, and do: delay not, for thy own sake, O my God: because thy name is invoked upon thy city, and upon thy people.

20 Now while I was yet speaking, and praying, and confessing my sins, and the sins of my people of Israel, and presenting my supplications in the sight of my God, for the holy mountain of my God:

21 As I was yet speaking in prayer, behold the man, Gabriel, whom I had seen in the vision at the beginning,^h flying swiftly, touched me at the time of the evening sacrifice.

22 And he instructed me, and spoke to me, and said: O Daniel, I am now come forth to teach thee, and that thou mightest understand.

23 From the beginning of thy prayers the word came forth: and I am come to show it to thee, because thou art a man of desires: therefore, do thou mark the word, and understand the vision.

24 "Seventy weeks are shortened upon thy people, and upon thy holy city, that transgression may be finished, and sin may have an end, and iniquity may be abolished; and everlasting justice may be brought; and vision and

^f Bar. i. 1; Exod. xiv. 22.—^g Jer. xxv. 29; Psal. xlviii. 2, 9, and ci. 8.—^h Supra, viii. 16.
ⁱ Matt. xxiv. 15; John i. 45.

VER. 21. The man, Gabriel. The angel Gabriel in the shape of a man. Ch. Chap. viii. 16.

VER. 24. Seventy weeks (viz. of years, or seventy times seven, that is, 490 years) are shortened; that is, fixed and determined, so that the time shall be no longer. Ch.—This is not a conditional prophecy. Daniel was solicitous to know when the seventy years of Jeremias would terminate. But something of far greater consequence is revealed to him, (W.) even the coming and death of the Messiah, four hundred and ninety years after the order for rebuilding the walls should be given, (C.) at which period Christ would redeem the world, (W.) and abolish the sacrifices of the law. C.—Finished, or arrive at its height by the crucifixion of the Son of God (Theod.); or rather sin shall be forgiven. Heb. "to finish crimes, to seal (cover or remit) sins, and to expiate iniquity."

VER. 25. Word, &c. That is, from the twentieth year of king Artaxerxes, when, by his commandment, Nehemias rebuilt the walls of Jerusalem. 2 Esd. ii. From which time, according to the best chronology, there were just sixty-nine prophecy may be fulfilled; and the Saint of saints may be anointed.

25 Know thou, therefore, and take notice: that from the going forth of the word, to build up Jerusalem again, unto Christ, the prince, there shall be seven weeks, and sixty-two weeks: and the street shall be built again, and the walls, in straitness of times.

26 And after sixty-two weeks Christ shall be slain: and the people that shall deny him shall not be his. And a people, with their leader, that shall come, shall destroy the city, and the sanctuary: and the end thereof shall be waste, and after the end of the war the appointed desolation.

27 And he shall confirm the covenant with many, in one week: and in the half of the week the victim and the sacrifice shall fail: and there shall be in the temple the abomination of desolation: and the desolation shall continue even to the consummation, and to the end.

CHAP. X.

Daniel, having humbled himself by fasting and penance, seeth a vision, with which he is much terrified: but he is comforted by an angel.

IN ^athe third year of Cyrus, king of the Persians, a word was revealed to Daniel, surnamed Baltassar, and a true word, and great strength: and he understood the word: for there is need of understanding in a vision.

2 In those days I, Daniel, mourned the days of three weeks.

3 I eat no desirable bread, and neither flesh, nor wine, entered into my mouth, neither was I anointed with ointment: till the days of three weeks were accomplished.

4 And in the four and twentieth day of the first month, I was by the great river, which is the Tigris.

5 And I lifted up my eyes, and I saw: and behold a man clothed in linen, and his loins were girded with the finest gold:

6 And his body was like the chrysolite, and his face as the appearance of lightning, and his eyes as a burning weeks of years, that is, 483 years, to the baptism of Christ, when he first began to preach and execute the office of Messiah. Ch.—The prophecy is divided into three periods; the first of forty-nine years, during which the walls were completed (they had been raised in fifty-two days, (2 Esd. vi. 15,) but many other fortifications were still requisite); the second of four hundred and thirty-four years, at the end of which Christ was baptized, in the 15th of Tiberius; the third of three years and a half, during which Christ preached. In the middle of this last week the ancient sacrifices became useless, (C.) as the true Lamb of God had been immolated. Theod.—A week of years denotes seven years, as Lev. xxv., and thus seventy of these weeks would make four hundred and ninety years. V. Bede. Rat. Temp. 6, &c. W. C.—All the East was persuaded that a great king should arise about the time; when our Saviour actually appeared, and fulfilled all that had been spoken of the Messiah. C. Diss.—Ferguson says, “We have an astronomical demonstration of the truth of this ancient prophecy, seeing that the prophetic year of the Messiah being cut off was the very same with the astronomical.” In a dispute between a Jew and a Christian, at Venice, the Rabbi who presided . . . put an end to the business by saying, “Let us shut up our Bibles; for if we proceed in the examination of this prophecy, it will make us all become Christians.” Watson, Let. 6.—Hence probably the Jews denounce a curse on those who calculate the times, (11.) and they have purposely curtailed their chronology. C.—Times, &c., (angustia temporum,) which may allude both to the difficulties and opposition they met with in building, and to the shortness of the time in which they finished the wall, viz. fifty-two days. Ch.

^a A. M. 3478, A. C. 536.

VER. 26. Weeks, or four hundred and thirty-eight years, which elapsed from the twentieth of Artaxerxes to the death of Christ, according to the most exact chronologists. C.—Slain. Prot. “cut off, but not for himself, and the people of the prince that,” &c. H.—S. Jerom and some MSS. read, Christus, et non erit eius. The sense is thus suspended. The Jews lose their prerogative of being God’s people. C.—Christ will not receive them again. S. Jer.—Gr. “the unction shall be destroyed, and there shall not be judgment in him.” The priesthood and royal lamp: and his arms, and all downward even to the feet, like in appearance to glittering brass: and the voice of his word like the voice of a multitude.

7 And I, Daniel, alone saw the vision: for the men that were with me saw it not: but an exceeding great terror fell upon them, and they fled away, and hid themselves.

8 And I, being left alone, saw this great vision: and there remained no strength in me, and the appearance of my countenance was changed in me, and I fainted away, and retained no strength.

9 And I heard the voice of his words: and when I heard I lay in a consternation upon my face, and my face was close to the ground.

10 And behold a hand touched me, and lifted me up upon my knees, and upon the joints of my hands.

11 And he said to me: Daniel, thou man of desires, understand the words that I speak to thee, and stand upright: for I am sent now to thee. And when he had said this word to me, I stood trembling.

12 And he said to me: Fear not, Daniel: for from the first day that thou didst set thy heart to understand, to afflict thyself in the sight of thy God, thy words have been heard: and I am come for thy words.

13 But the prince of the kingdom of the Persians resisted me one and twenty days: and behold Michael, one of the chief princes, came to help me, and I remained there by the king of the Persians.

14 But I am come to teach thee what things shall befall thy people in the latter days, for as yet the vision is for days.

15 And when he was speaking such words to me, I cast down my countenance to the ground, and held my peace.

16 And behold as it were the likeness of a son of man touched my lips: then I opened my mouth and spoke, and said to him that stood before me: O my lord, at the sight of thee my joints are loosed, and no strength hath remained in me.

dignity is taken from the Jews. Theod.—The order of succession among the high priests was quite deranged, while the country was ruled by the Romans, and by Herod, a foreigner. C.—Leader. The Romans, under Titus. Ch. C.

VER. 27. Many. Christ seems to allude to this passage, Matt. xxvi. 28. He died for all; but several of the Jews, particularly, would not receive the proffered grace. C.—Of the week, or in the middle of the week, &c. Because Christ preached three years and a half; and then, by his sacrifice upon the cross, abolished all the sacrifices of the law. Ch.—Temple. Heb. “the wing,” (C.) or pinnacle, (11.) the highest part of the temple. C.—Desolation. Some understand this of the profanation of the temple by the crimes of the Jews, and by the bloody faction of the zealots. Others, of the bringing in thither the ensigns and standard of the pagan Romans. Others, in fine, distinguish three different times of desolation: viz. that under Antiochus; that when the temple was destroyed by the Romans and the last near the end of the world, under antichrist. To all which, as they suppose, this prophecy may have a relation. Ch.

CHAP. X. VER. 1. Third. This concurs with the first of Darius. Cyrus then reigned in Persia, and the king is here often mentioned, as the vision happened near it, on the banks of the Tigris. Only twenty-one days had elapsed since the former. C.

VER. 13. The prince, &c. That is, the angel guardian of Persia; who, according to his office, seeking the spiritual good of the Persians, was desirous that many of the Jews should remain among them. Ch.—S. Jerom, &c. explain it of the angel guardian. W.—Each country has an archangel over it, as individuals have an angel. Others assert that this was an evil angel; for how could a good one oppose so long the will of God? Yet this argument may be retorted, as evil spirits themselves must comply. It seems, therefore, that Cyrus was exhorted by the good angels to invade the Chaldeans, and thus to liberate God’s people. He was afraid of the hazardous attempt, and free-will may resist the inspirations of God.—One, or “prince.” C.—Michael, and the guardian of Daniel, joined their prayers for the liberation of the Jews. Ver. 20. W.

17 And how can the servant of my lord speak with my lord? for no strength remaineth in me; moreover, my breath is stopped.

18 Therefore, he that looked like a man, touched me again, and strengthened me.

19 And he said: Fear not, O man of desires, peace be to thee: take courage, and be strong. And when he spoke to me, I grew strong, and I said: Speak, O my lord, for thou hast strengthened me.

20 And he said: Dost thou know wherefore I am come to thee? And now I will return, to fight against the prince of the Persians. When I went forth, there appeared the prince of the Greeks coming.

21 But I will tell thee what is set down in the scripture of truth: and none is my helper in all these things, but ^aMichael, your prince.

CHAP. XI.

The angel declares to Daniel many things to come, with regard to the Persian and Grecian kings: more especially with regard to Antiochus, as a figure of antichrist.

AND from the first year of Darius, the Mede, I stood up, that he might be strengthened, and confirmed.

2 And now I will show thee the truth. Behold, there shall stand yet three kings in Persia, and the fourth shall be enriched exceedingly above them all: and when he shall be grown mighty by his riches, he shall stir up all against the kingdom of Greece.

3 But there shall rise up a strong king, and shall rule with great power: and he shall do what he pleaseth.

4 And when he shall come to his height, his kingdom shall be broken, and it shall be divided towards the four winds of the heaven: but not to his posterity, nor according to his power with which he ruled. For his kingdom shall be rent in pieces, even for strangers, besides these.

5 And the king of the south shall be strengthened, and one of his princes shall prevail over him, and he shall rule with great power: for his dominions shall be great.

^a Apoc. xii. 7.

VER. 20. To thee? He awakens his attention (ver. 14. C.) and gratitude. H.—Prince, angel guardian; or Alexander, who would one day rout the Persians. Chap. xi. 2. C.

VER. 21. Of truth, in the former sealed visions. C.—Your prince. The guardian general of the Church of God, (Ch.) as he was of the synagogue. C.

CHAP. XI. VER. 1. Confirmed. Gabriel assisted Michael to comply with God's orders. Chap. x. 21. C.

VER. 2. Three, &c. Cambyzes, Smerdis Magus, and Darius, the son of Hystaspes. Ch. W.—Cyrus had been mentioned before. Chap. x. 13, 20. Smerdis, or Artaxerxes, (1 Esd. iv. 7,) was the chief of the seven magi, and usurped the throne for six months after the death of Cambyzes. C.—He had been declared king before (H.) by Patizites, his own brother. Herod. iii. 21. See Ezec. xxxviii. 21. H.—Fourth: Xerxes. Ch.

VER. 3. A strong king: Alexander. Ch.—The sequel clearly points him out. Before fifteen years had elapsed, his mother, brother, and children were slain. Arideus, his brother, was declared regent till it should be seen what Roxana should bring forth. After the death of those who might be heirs of Alexander, four generals took the title of kings. Others governed in different places, but were destroyed by degrees.

VER. 4. These four; Ptolemy, Selencus, Antigonus, and Antipater, kings of Egypt, Syria, Asia, and Greece. Chap. vii. 6, and viii. 22.

VER. 5. South: Ptolemy, the son of Lagus, king of Egypt, which lies south of Jerusalem. Ch.—His princes (that is, one of Alexander's princes) shall prevail over him; that is, shall be stronger than the king of Egypt. He speaks of Seleucus Nicator, king of Asia and Syria, whose successors are here called the kings of the north, because their dominions lay to the north in respect to Jerusalem. Ch.

VER. 6. South. Bernice, daughter of Ptolemy Philadelphus, given in marriage to Antiochus Theos, grandson of Seleucus, (Ch.) and king of Syria. She brought a great "dowry," and was therefore styled Phernophoros. Antiochus agreed to repudiate Laodicea; but he soon took her back. Fearing his inconstancy, she poisoned him, and slew his son by Bernice. This lady in a rage mounted her chariot and having knocked down the cruel minister of such bar-

6 And after the end of years they shall be in league together: and the daughter of the king of the south shall come to the king of the north to make friendship, but she shall not obtain the strength of the arm, neither shall her seed stand: and she shall be given up, and her young men that brought her, and they that strengthened her in these times.

7 And a plant of the bud of her roots shall stand up: and he shall come with an army, and shall enter into the province of the king of the north: and he shall abuse them, and shall prevail.

8 And he shall also carry away captive into Egypt their gods, and their graven things, and their precious vessels of gold and silver: he shall prevail against the king of the north.

9 And the king of the south shall enter into the kingdom, and shall return to his own land.

10 And his sons shall be provoked, and they shall assemble a multitude of great forces: and he shall come with haste like a flood: and he shall return, and be stirred up, and he shall join battle with his forces.

11 And the king of the south being provoked, shall go forth, and shall fight against the king of the north, and shall prepare an exceeding great multitude, and a multitude shall be given into his hands.

12 And he shall take a multitude, and his heart shall be lifted up, and he shall cast down many thousands: but he shall not prevail.

13 For the king of the north shall return, and shall prepare a multitude much greater than before: and in the end of times, and years, he shall come in haste with a great army, and much riches.

14 ^bAnd in those times many shall rise up against the king of the south, and the children of prevaricators of thy people shall lift up themselves to fulfil the vision, and they shall fall.

15 And the king of the north shall come, and shall cast barity, trampled upon his body. The rest pretended that the infant was still living, and delivered up a part of the palace to Bernice, yet slew her as soon as they had an opportunity. S. Jer. Usher, A. 3758. V. Max. ix. 10, &c. C.—Young. Heb. "her conductors, her child, and he that," &c. H.—Her physician, Aristarchus, persuaded her to enter the palace. Her women and Egyptian guards defended her for some time. Polygen. Strat. 8. C.

^b Isa. xix. 1.

VER. 7. A plant, &c. Ptolemy Evergetes, the son of Philadelphus. Ch. Three of Bernice's maids of honour (H.) covered her body, and pretended that she was only wounded, till her brother Evergetes came and seized almost all Asia, Callinicus not daring to give him battle. S. Jer., &c. Vaillant. A. 79. Lagid. C.—He laid waste Syria. W.

VER. 8. Gods. He took back what Cambyzes had conveyed out of Egypt, and it was on this account that the people styled him "benefactor." S. Jer. C.—North. Seleucus Callinicus. Ch.

VER. 10. His sons. Seleucus Ceraunius and Antiochus the Great, the sons of Callinicus. Ch.—He shall, &c. Antiochus the Great. Ch.

VER. 11. South. Ptolemy Philopator, son of Evergetes. Ch.—He was an indolent prince; but his generals gained the victory. C.

VER. 12. Prevail. Many fell on both sides. H.—But Antiochus did not prevail (W.); or rather Philopator neglected the opportunity of dethroning his rival, (C.) as he might have seized all his dominions, if he had not been too fond of ease. Just. 30.—He followed the suggestions of his proud heart, when he attempted to enter the most holy place of the temple; and though he was visibly chastised by God, he would have vented his resentment on the Jews, if Providence had not miraculously protected them. 3 Mac. C. See Eccl. i. H.

VER. 13. Times, seventeen years after the battle of Raphia. When Philopator was dead, and his son Epiphanes not above five years old, Antiochus and Philip of Macedon basely attempted to divide his dominions. Scopas engaged Antiochus, but lost the battle, and all that Philopator had recovered. C.

VER. 14. Vision. Many Jews, deceived by Onias, erected a temple in Egypt, falsely asserting that they fulfilled the prophecy of Isaiah, xix. 19. W.—This Onias was the son of Onias III., who was slain at Antioch. Chap. ix. 25. H.

up a mount. and shall take the best fenced cities : and the arms of the south shall not withstand, and his chosen ones shall rise up to resist, and they shall not have strength.

16 And he shall come upon him, and do according to his pleasure, and there shall be none to stand against his face : and he shall stand in the glorious land, and it shall be consumed by his hand.

17 And he shall set his face to come to possess all his kingdom, and he shall make upright conditions with him : and he shall give him a daughter of women, to overthrow it : and she shall not stand, neither shall she be for him.

18 And he shall turn his face to the islands, and shall take many : and he shall cause the prince of his reproach to cease, and his reproach shall be turned upon him.

19 And he shall turn his face to the empire of his own land, and he shall stumble, and fall, and shall not be found.

20 And there shall stand up in his place one most vile, and unworthy of kingly honour : and in a few days he shall be destroyed, not in rage nor in battle.

21 And there shall stand up in his place one despised, and the kingly honour shall not be given him : and he shall come privately, and shall obtain the kingdom by fraud.

22 And the arms of the fighter shall be overcome before his face, and shall be broken : yea, also the prince of the covenant.

23 And after friendships, he will deal deceitfully with him : and he shall go up, and shall overcome with a small people.

24 And he shall enter into rich and plentiful cities : and he shall do that which his fathers never did, nor his fathers' fathers : he shall scatter their spoils, and their prey, and their riches, and shall forecast devices against the best fenced places : and this until a time.

25 And his strength, and his heart, shall be stirred up against the king of the south, with a great army : and the king of the south shall be stirred up to battle with many and very strong succours : and they shall not stand, for they shall form designs against him.

26 And they that eat bread with him, shall destroy him, and his army shall be overthrown : and many shall fall down slain.

27 And the heart of the two kings shall be to do evil, and they shall speak lies at one table, and they shall not prosper : because as yet the end is unto another time.

28 And he shall return into his land with much riches : and his heart shall be against the holy covenant, and he shall succeed, and shall return into his own land.

29 At the time appointed he shall return, and he shall come to the south, but the latter time shall not be like the former.

30 And the galleys and the Romans shall come upon him, and he shall be struck, and shall return, and shall have indignation against the covenant of the sanctuary, and he shall succeed : and he shall return, and shall devise against them that have forsaken the covenant of the sanctuary.

31 And arms shall stand on his part, and they shall defile the sanctuary of strength, and shall take away the continual sacrifice : and they shall place there the abomination unto desolation.

32 And such as deal wickedly against the covenant shall deceitfully dissemble : but the people that know their God shall prevail and succeed.

33 And they that are learned among the people shall teach many : and they shall fall by the sword, and by fire, and by captivity, and by spoil for many days.

34 And when they shall have fallen, they shall be relieved with a small help : and many shall be joined to them deceitfully.

35 And some of the learned shall fall, that they may be tried, and may be chosen, and made white, even to the appointed time : because yet there shall be another time.

VER. 15. Cities ; Sidon, Gaza, and the citadel of Jerusalem, &c. C.

VER. 16. Upon him. Antiochus shall come upon the king of the south.—Land : Judea. Ch.—Consumed, or “perfected.” Antiochus was very favourable to the Jews (C.) ; invited all to return to Jerusalem, and furnished what was requisite for the sacrifices. Jos. Ant. xii. 3.

VER. 17. Kingdom, viz. all the kingdom of Ptolemeus Epiphanes, son of Philopator. Ch.—Of women. That is, a most beautiful woman, viz. his daughter Cleopatra.—It, viz. the kingdom of Epiphanes ; but his policy shall not succeed ; for Cleopatra shall take more to heart the interest of her husband than that of her father. Ch.—He came with her to Raphia, and gave her Judea, &c. for her dowry, reserving half of the revenues.

VER. 18. Islands, near Asia. He also went into Greece, and was master of that country when the Romans declared war against him. C.—Of his reproach. Scipio, the Roman general, called the prince of his reproach, because he overthrew Antiochus, and obliged him to submit to very dishonourable terms, before he would cease from the war. Ch.—Prot. “for a prince for his own behalf shall cause the reproach offered by him to cease, without his own reproach he shall cause it to turn upon him.” H.

VER. 19. Found. Antiochus plundered the temple of the Elymaites to procure money ; but they, (S. Jer.) or the neighbouring barbarous nations, rose up and slew him. Just. 32.

VER. 20. One most vile. Seleucus Philopator, who sent Heliodorus to plunder the temple ; and was shortly after slain by the same Heliodorus. Ch.

VER. 21. One despised ; viz. Antiochus Epiphanes, who at first was despised and not received for king. What is here said of this prince, is accommodated by S. Jerom and others to antichrist, of whom this Antiochus was a figure. Ch.—All that follows, to the end of chap. xii., regards Epiphanes. He had no title to the crown, which he procured by cunning, and held in the most shameful manner.

VER. 22. Fighter. That is, of them that shall oppose him, and shall fight against him. Ch.—Heliodorus, who had murdered his brother and usurped the throne, and Ptolemy Epiphanes, were discomfited. The latter was making preparations against Seleucus, and said that his riches were in the purses of his friends, upon which they poisoned him. S. Jer. C.—Covenant, or of the league.

The chief of them that conspired against him ; or the king of Egypt, his most powerful adversary. Ch.

VER. 23. People. Epiphanes pretended to be tutor of Philometor. But the nobles of Egypt distrusted him ; whereupon he came to a battle, near Pelusium, and the young king surrendered himself. His uncle thus took possession of Egypt with surprising facility. Yet the people of Alexandria crowned Evergetes, which occasioned a civil war. C.

VER. 25. The king. Ptolemeus Philometor. Ch.—Epiphanes came under the pretext of restoring Philometor, and gained a victory over Evergetes ; but returned into Syria, that the two brothers might weaken each other, (C.) while the Syrians formed designs against both. H.

VER. 26. Slain. This was the perfidious policy of Epiphanes, who expected that the two brothers would destroy each other, so that he might easily seize Egypt, of which he kept the key, retaining the city of Pelusium. They were however reconciled, and reigned together. The Scripture often represents that as done which is only intended.

VER. 27. Two kings : Epiphanes and Philometor.—Time. Epiphanes, vexed that he should thus be duped, returned into Egypt. Ver. 29.

VER. 28. Riches, taken in Egypt (C.) and in Jerusalem. H.

VER. 30. Galleys. Heb. “ships of Chittim.” H.—The ambassadors probably came in vessels belonging to Macedonia, (C.) which they found at Delos. Livy, 44.—Romans. Popilius and the other Roman ambassadors, who came in galleys, and obliged him to depart from Egypt. Ch.—Succeed. Apollonius massacred many Jews on the sabbath. 1 Mac. i. 30.

VER. 31. Arms, (brachia,) or strong men, Apollonius, Philip, &c., (2 Mac. vi.) and likewise the senator from Antioch, who executed his decrees. C.—Abomination. The idol of Jupiter Olympius, which Antiochus ordered to be set up in the sanctuary of the temple, which is here called the sanctuary of strength, from the Almighty that was worshipped there. Ch.

VER. 32. Dissemble. Thus acted the officers and apostate Jews.

VER. 33. Learned ; the priests, Matthatias, &c. Mal. ii. 7.

VER. 34. Help. The victories of the Machabees were miraculous. —Deceitfully, like those who took the spoils of idols, and were slain. C.

36 And the king shall do according to his will, and he shall be lifted up, and shall magnify himself against every god: and he shall speak great things against the God of gods, and shall prosper, till the wrath be accomplished. For the determination is made.

37 And he shall make no account of the God of his fathers: and he shall follow the lust of women, and he shall not regard any gods: for he shall rise up against all things.

38 But he shall worship the god Maozim, in his place: and a god whom his fathers knew not, he shall worship with gold, and silver, and precious stones, and things of great price.

39 And he shall do this to fortify Maozim with a strange god, whom he hath acknowledged, and he shall increase glory, and shall give them power over many, and shall divide the land gratis.

40 And at the time prefixed the king of the south shall fight against him, and the king of the north shall come against him like a tempest, with chariots, and with horsemen, and with a great navy, and he shall enter into the countries, and shall destroy, and pass through.

41 And he shall enter into the glorious land, and many shall fall: and these only shall be saved out of his hand, Edom, and Moab, and the principality of the children of Ammon.

42 And he shall lay his hand upon the lands: and the land of Egypt shall not escape.

43 And he shall have power over the treasures of gold, and of silver, and all the precious things of Egypt: and he shall pass through Libya, and Ethiopia.

44 And tidings out of the east, and out of the north, shall trouble him: and he shall come with a great multitude to destroy and slay many.

45 And he shall fix his tabernacle, Apadno, between

• Apoc. xii. 7.—^b Matt. xxv. 46; John v. 29.

VER. 35. Fall, or become martyrs. H.—Such were Eleazar, &c. C.—Another time, after death (H.); or the perfect deliverance shall take place later. Ver. 27.

VER. 36. Every god. "He plundered many (C. or most; πλεστα. H.) temples." Polyb. Athen. v. 6.—Accomplished against the Jews, when Epiphanes shall be punished.

VER. 37. God. He laughed at religion, yet sometimes offered splendid presents and victims, which showed his inconstancy. C.

VER. 38. The god Maozim. That is, the god of forces or strong holds. Ch.—Māzin denotes "strong ones," (H.) guardians, &c.—Others suppose that Mars, Hercules, Azizus, or Jupiter, may be designated. Heb. "He will rise up against all, (38) and against the strong God (of Israel. Ver. 31; chap. viii. 10. C.) He will, in his place, worship a strange god," &c. Jun.—None of the ancestors of Epiphanes had ever adored Jupiter on the altar of holocausts. C.—He and antichrist adore either the great Jupiter or their own strength. W.

VER. 39. To. Heb. "in the most strong holds, with," &c. H.—He built a fortress near the temple, styled Muoz, (Ezec. xxiv. 25,) on account of its strength. C.—Glory. He shall bestow honours, riches, and lands, upon them that shall worship his god. Ch.

VER. 40. Fight. Epiphanes made war on Egypt, till the Romans forced him to desist.

VER. 41. Land; Egypt, or rather Judea. C.—Ammon. He will not divide his forces. S. Jer.

VER. 43. Ethiopia. Heb. "the Lubim and Chusehim shall be at his steps." Theodot. reads, "in their fortresses."

VER. 44. North. Judas continued victorious. Armenia (C.) and Parthia rebelled. Tacit. v. 8.—Many. Epiphanes left three generals and half his army to destroy the Jews. C.

VER. 45. Apadno. Some take it for the proper name of a place; others, from the Heb. translate it, his palace. Ch.—He fixed his royal tent between the Mediterranean and the Dead Sea. W.—Porphyrius explains this of the march beyond the Euphrates, which S. Jerom does not disapprove. Apadno may denote Mesopotamia, which is styled Padan Aram.—Glorious. Heb. Zobi, (C.) or Tsobi, (H.) may allude to Mount Taba, where the king perished, without help. 1 Mac. vi. 11, and 2 Mac. ix. 9. S. Jerom and many others explain all this of antichrist, and no doubt he was prefigured. C.

the seas, upon a glorious and holy mountain: and he shall come even to the top thereof, and none shall help him.

CHAP. XII.

Michael shall stand up for the people of God: with other things relating to antichrist, and the end of the world.

BUT *at that time shall Michael rise up, the great prince, who standeth for the children of thy people: and a time shall come, such as never was from the time that nations began, even until that time. And at that time shall thy people be saved, every one that shall be found written in the book.

2 And many of those that sleep in the dust of the earth, shall awake: ^bsome unto life everlasting, and others unto reproach, to see it always.

3 But they that are learned, ^cshall shine as the brightness of the firmament: and they that instruct many to justice, as stars for all eternity.

4 But thou, O Daniel, shut up the words, and seal the book, even to the time appointed: many shall pass over, and knowledge shall be manifold.

5 And I, Daniel, looked, and behold as it were two others stood: one on this side upon the bank of the river, and another on that side, on the other bank of the river.

6 And I said to the man that was clothed in linen, that stood upon the waters of the river: How long shall it be to the end of these wonders?

7 And I heard the man that was clothed in linen, that stood upon the waters of the river, ^dwhen he had lifted up his right hand, and his left hand to heaven, and had sworn by him that liveth for ever, that it should be unto a time, and times, and half a time. And when the scattering of the band of the holy people shall be accomplished, all these things shall be finished.

8 And I heard, and understood not. And I said: O my lord, what shall be after these things?

• Wisd. iii. 7.—^d Apoc. x. 5.

CHAP. XII. VER. 1. Michael, "who is like God," alludes to the name of the Machabees; Who is like unto thee among the gods? The archangel protected the Jews, while Epiphanes was engaged beyond the Euphrates.—Time. The nation was in the utmost distress. Only about seven thousand ill-armed men adhered to Judas: yet these delivered the country by God's decree.

VER. 2. Many. This shows the great number. All shall rise again. In a figurative sense, the Jews who seemed buried shall appear and fight.—To see. Heb. "everlasting." C.—This text is express for eternal happiness or misery. C.

VER. 3. Learned in the law of God and true wisdom, which consists in knowing and loving God. Ch.—Heb. "instructors."—Instruct. Heb. "justify," in the same sense. The Machabees, and other priests, &c. who instructed people in the law, and stood up for its defence, may be meant. C.—Many. Th. and the Vulg. read, "and of the just many shall be like for an age and after." S. Jer.

VER. 4. Shut. The vision will not be understood till the event. C.—It is not to be interpreted by human wit, but by the Spirit of God, wherewith the Church is enlightened and governed. S. Jer. in Gal. W.

VER. 5. Two angels of Persia and Greece, near the Tigris. Maldon.

VER. 6. I. Heb. "He." Theod., Syr., and Arab., "they said" to Gabriel. Chap. x. 5. Angels ask questions of each other. Chap. viii. 13.—Wonders. How long shall this be in the dark, and the misery continue?

VER. 7. Heaven. He thus shows that he is not God. C.—Time often implies a year. Chap. iv. 13. Hence he means three years and a half. Christ assures us that those days shall be shortened, (Matt. xxiv. 22,) and the persecutor shall tarry a short time. Apoc. xvii. 10, and xii. 14. The same period is insinuated by 1290 days, (ver. 11,) and 1330, ver. 12. The two witnesses prophesy 1260 days, during which the Church shall be fed in the wilderness. Apoc. xii. 6. But the term is most exactly specified by forty-two months. Apoc. xi. 2, and xiii. 5. Hence all the Fathers agree that the last persecution shall continue no longer. W.—Half a time. The idol of Jupiter remained just three years. Yet the temple was not ready for sacrifices till other ten days had elapsed. They had been interrupted six months before that idol was set up. C.—We must date from the profanation and distress caused by Apollonius. 1 Mac. iv. 52. Jos. S. Hypol. Usher, A. 3836. C.—Band. Lit. "hand." H.—When the people shall be destitute of strength, God will miraculously deliver them.

VER. 8. Understood not. The prophets were obliged to pray, and sometimes 9 And he said: Go, Daniel, because the words are shut up, and sealed until the appointed time.

10 Many shall be chosen, and made white, and shall be tried as fire: and the wicked shall deal wickedly, and none of the wicked shall understand, but the learned shall understand.

11 And from the time when the continual sacrifice shall be taken away, and the abomination unto desolation shall be set up, there shall be a thousand two hundred ninety days.

12 Blessed is he that waiteth, and cometh unto a thousand three hundred thirty-five days.

13 But go thou thy ways until the time appointed: and thou shalt rest, and stand in thy lot unto the end of the days.

CHAP. XIII.

The history of Susanna, and the two elders.

NOW *there was a man that dwelt in Babylon, and his name was Joakim:

2 And he took a wife, whose name was Susanna, the daughter of Helcias, a very beautiful woman, and one that feared God.

3 For her parents being just, had instructed their daughter according to the law of Moses.

4 Now Joakim was very rich, and had an orchard near his house: and the Jews resorted to him, because he was the most honourable of them all.

5 And there were two of the ancients of the people appointed judges that year, of whom the Lord said: Iniquity came out from Babylon, from the ancient judges, that seemed to govern the people.

6 These men frequented the house of Joakim, and all that had any matters of judgment came to them.

7 And when the people departed away at noon, Susanna went in, and walked in her husband's orchard.

8 And the old men saw her going in every day, and walking: and they were inflamed with lust towards her:

9 And they perverted their own mind, and turned away their eyes, that they might not look unto heaven, nor remember just judgments.

10 So they were both wounded with the love of her, yet they did not make known their grief one to the other.

11 For they were ashamed to declare to one another their lust, being desirous to have to do with her:

12 And they watched carefully every day to see her. And one said to the other:

13 Let us now go home, for it is dinner time. So going out, they departed one from another.

14 And turning back again, they came both to the same place: and asking one another the cause, they acknowledged their lust: and then they agreed upon a time, when they might find her alone.

15 And it fell out, as they watched a fit day, she went in on a time, as yesterday and the day before, with two maids only, and was desirous to wash herself in the orchard: for it was hot weather.

16 And there was nobody there but the two old men that had hid themselves, and were beholding her.

17 So she said to the maids: Bring me oil, and washing balls, and shut the doors of the orchard, that I may wash me.

18 And they did as she bade them: and they shut the doors of the orchard, and went out by a back door to fetch what she had commanded them, and they knew not that the elders were hid within.

19 Now when the maids were gone forth, the two elders arose, and ran to her, and said:

20 Behold the doors of the orchard are shut, and nobody seeth us, and we are in love with thee: wherefore consent to us, and lie with us.

21 But if thou wilt not, we will bear witness against thee, that a young man was with thee, and therefore thou didst send away thy maids from thee.

22 Susanna sighed, and said: I am straitened on every side: for if I do this thing, it is death to me: and if I do it not, I shall not escape your hands.

23 But it is better for me to fall into your hands without doing it, than to sin in the sight of the Lord.

24 With that Susanna cried out with a loud voice: and the elders also cried out against her.

25 And one of them ran to the door of the orchard, and opened it.

26 So when the servants of the house heard the cry in the orchard, they rushed in by the back door, to see what was the matter.

27 But after the old men had spoken, the servants were greatly ashamed: for never had there been any such word said of Susanna. And on the next day,

28 When the people were come to Joakim, her hus-

* A. M. 3398, A. C. 606.

to receive a fresh revelation to explain what they had seen. Chap. ix. 2; 1 Pet. i. 11, and 1 Cor. xiv. 26.

VER. 10. White, by persecution endured with patience. Chap. xi. 35.

VER. 11. Days: thirteen more than three years and a half, as we reckon. The odd numbers might be neglected. Ver. 7. The abomination continued three years and ten days, but the sacrifices had been discontinued six months and three days before. See chap. viii. 14. If Daniel speak of lunar years, as it is probable, the difference would only be two days. C.

VER. 12. Days. After the three years and a half, fifty-eight days will occur before the death of Antiochus, when Judas will disperse the troops of his three generals. C.—Some respite will be granted for forty-five days, during which sinners may repent. M.—It is difficult to say why forty-five days are here added to the former number. We are content to depart with Daniel, (ver. 9,) without searching any further into these high mysteries. W.

VER. 13. Lot. Thou shalt enjoy a glorious resurrection, (M.) and thy dignities till death, for which thou must prepare. C.—Days. "Hitherto," says S. Jerom, "we read Daniel, in the Heb. volume; what follows, to the end, is translated from Theodotion's edition." H.—The history of Susanna is there placed at the beginning. C.—According to the order of time, it should be placed after the first chapter. M.

CHAP. XIII. This history of Susanna, in all the ancient Greek and Latin Bibles, was placed in the beginning of the Book of Daniel, till S. Jerom, in his translation, detached it from thence, because he did not find it in the Hebrew; which is also the case of the history of Bel and the dragon. But both the one and the other are received by the Catholic Church, and were from the very beginning a part of the Christian Bible. Ch.—Daniel seems not to have written the history of Susanna, at least in the volume which contains his prophecies, though it be unquestionably canonical. A. Lapide.—Susanna means "a lily," and is proposed as a pattern of conjugal chastity. C.

VER. 5. Judges. The Jews say they were Achab and Sedecias, (Orig.) as this text seems to allude to Jer. xxix. 21, or xxxiii. 14. But how were they burnt? since the Jews appear to have stoned them, unless they were delivered up to the king's officers. Ver. 61. C.—It is not said that Joakim was one of the captives. He might have settled long before at Babylon, where Helcias probably brought up his daughter in the fear of God. Ver. 3. The judges might also have had authority before over the Israelites, in Assyria, who were now all under the same government. Ver. 57. Houbigant. Pref.

VER. 18. Back door, leading from the house. Strangers came by the other gates. C.

VER. 22. Death of the soul, (S. Jer.,) and also of the body, if the adultery were detected.

VER. 24. Out. So the law ordained, when a woman was assaulted. H band, the two elders also came full of wicked device against Susanna, to put her to death.

29 And they said before the people: Send to Susanna, daughter of Helcias, the wife of Joakim. And presently they sent.

30 And she came with her parents, and children, and all her kindred.

31 Now Susanna was exceeding delicate, and beautiful to behold.

32 But those wicked men commanded that her face should be uncovered, (for she was covered,) that so at least they might be satisfied with her beauty.

33 Therefore her friends, and all her acquaintance wept.

34 But the two elders rising up in the midst of the people, laid their hands upon her head.

35 And she weeping, looked up to heaven, for her heart had confidence in the Lord.

36 And the elders said: As we walked in the orchard alone, this woman came in with two maids, and shut the doors of the orchard, and sent away the maids from her.

37 Then a young man that was there hid came to her, and lay with her.

38 But we that were in a corner of the orchard, seeing this wickedness, ran up to them, and we saw them lie together.

39 And him indeed we could not take, because he was stronger than us, and opening the doors, he leaped out:

40 But having taken this woman, we asked who the young man was, but she would not tell us: of this thing we are witnesses.

41 The multitude believed them, as being the elders, and the judges of the people, and they condemned her to death.

42 Then Susanna cried out with a loud voice, and said: O eternal God, who knowest hidden things, who knowest all things before they come to pass, 43 Thou knowest that they have borne false witness against me: and behold I must die, whereas I have done none of these things, which these men have maliciously forged against me.

44 And the Lord heard her voice.

45 And when she was led to be put to death, the Lord raised up the holy spirit of a young boy, whose name was Daniel:

46 And he cried out with a loud voice: I am clear from the blood of this woman.

47 Then all the people turning themselves towards him, said: What meaneth this word that thou hast spoken?

^a Exod. xxii. 7.

VER. 29. People, for greater show of justice. W.

VER. 32. Uncovered, pretending that respect for the company required it, or perhaps that they might detect her guilt by her blushes. C.—But their real motive is here disclosed. H.

VER. 34. Head, saying, "Thy malice brings on this chastisement, and not we." Lyran.—They appear to discharge their conscience, (Lev. i. 4, and xxiv. 14,) not as judges, but as accusers. The people pass sentence. Ver. 41. Adulteresses were stoned. Lev. xx. 10. C.

VER. 41. Death. The multitude approved of this sentence, which the judges pronounced, pretending to act agreeably to the law. Deut. xvii. W.

VER. 45. Boy. He was about twelve years old. S. Ign. ad Magn. Sulpit. 2. Theod.—God enabled him to declare that Susanna was innocent. W.

48 But he standing in the midst of them, said: Are ye so foolish, ye children of Israel, that without examination or knowledge of the truth, you have condemned a daughter of Israel?

49 Return to judgment, for they have borne false witness against her.

50 So all the people turned again in haste, and the old men said to him: Come, and sit thou down among us, and show it us: seeing God hath given thee the honour of old age.

51 And Daniel said to the people: Separate these two far from one another, and I will examine them.

52 So when they were put asunder one from the other, he called one of them, and said to him: O thou that art grown old in evil days, now are thy sins come out, which thou hast committed before:

53 In judging unjust judgments, oppressing the innocent, and letting the guilty to go free, whereas the Lord saith: ^a The innocent and the just thou shalt not kill.

54 Now then if thou sawest her, tell me under what tree thou sawest them conversing together. He said Under a mastic tree.

55 And Daniel said: Well hast thou lied against thy own head: for behold the angel of God having received the sentence of him, shall cut thee in two.

56 And having put him aside, he commanded that the other should come, and he said to him: O thou seed of Chanaan, and not of Juda, beauty hath deceived thee, and lust hath perverted thy heart:

57 Thus did you do to the daughters of Israel, and they for fear conversed with you: but a daughter of Juda would not abide your wickedness.

58 Now, therefore, tell me, under what tree didst thou take them conversing together. And he answered: Under a holm tree.

59 And Daniel said to him: Well hast thou also lied against thy own head: for the angel of the Lord waiteth with a sword to cut thee in two, and to destroy you.

60 With that all the assembly cried out with a loud voice, and they blessed God, who saveth them that trust in him.

61 And they rose up against the two elders, (for Daniel had convicted them of false witness by their own mouth,) and they did to them as they had maliciously dealt against their neighbour,

62 ^b To fulfil the law of Moses: and they put them to death, and innocent blood was saved in that day.

63 But Helcias, and his wife, praised God, for their daughter, Susanna, with Joakim, her husband, and all her kindred, because there was no dishonesty found in her.

^b Deut. xix. 18, and 19.

VER. 46. Clear. This form is often used. Acts xviii. 6; Matt. xxvii. 24.

VER. 48. Truth. They had taken no precautions to ascertain it; which they ought to have done the more, as Susanna had always been highly esteemed. C.

VER. 50. Old men. They speak sarcastically; or rather other senators, who had not been in the plot, address Daniel.

VER. 55. Two. This punishment was not unusual: yet it is probable that the two old men were stoned to death by the law of retaliation. Ver. 61; Exod. xix. 4. There is an allusion, in Greek, between schinon and schisci, and also between Prinos and prisi (ver. 58, 59); and hence it is concluded that this work was originally in that language. But there might be a similar allusion in Heb. or Chal., or the translator might think it lawful to put one tree for another. C.—We find a tree called shinar, in Persia. Tavern. iv. 6.

64 And Daniel became great in the sight of the people from that day, and thence forward.

65 And king Astyages was gathered to his fathers; and Cyrus, the Persian, received his kingdom.

CHAP. XIV.

The history of Bel: and of the great serpent, worshipped by the Babylonians.

AND Daniel was the king's guest, and was honoured above all his friends.

2 Now the Babylonians had an idol called Bel: and there was spent upon him every day twelve great measures of fine flour, and forty sheep, and sixty vessels of wine.

3 The king also worshipped him, and went every day to adore him: but Daniel adored his God. And the king said to him: Why dost thou not adore Bel?

4 And he answered, and said to him: Because I do not worship idols made with hands, but the living God, that created heaven and earth, and hath power over all flesh.

5 And the king said to him: Doth not Bel seem to thee to be a living god? Seest thou not how much he eateth and drinketh every day?

6 Then Daniel smiled, and said: O king, be not deceived: for this is but clay within, and brass without, neither hath he eaten at any time.

7 And the king being angry, called for his priests, and said to them: If you tell me not who it is that eateth up these expenses, you shall die.

8 But if you can show that Bel eateth these things, Daniel shall die, because he hath blasphemed against Bel. And Daniel said to the king: Be it done according to thy word.

9 Now the priests of Bel were seventy, beside their wives, and little ones, and children. And the king went with Daniel into the temple of Bel.

10 And the priests of Bel said: Behold, we go out: and do thou, O king, set on the meats, and make ready the wine, and shut the door fast, and seal it with thy own ring:

11 And when thou comest in the morning, if thou findest not that Bel hath eaten up all, we will suffer death, or else Daniel, that hath lied against us.

12 And they little regarded it, because they had made under the table a secret entrance, and they always came in by it, and consumed those things.

13 So it came to pass after they were gone out, the king set the meats before Bel: and Daniel commanded his servants, and they brought ashes, and he sifted them all over the temple before the king: and going forth, they shut the door, and having sealed it with the king's ring, they departed.

14 But the priests went in by night, according to their custom, with their wives, and their children: and they eat and drank up all.

15 And the king arose early in the morning, and Daniel with him.

16 And the king said: Are the seals whole, Daniel? And he answered: They are whole, O king.

17 And as soon as he had opened the door, the king looked upon the table, and cried out with a loud voice: Great art thou, O Bel, and there is not any deceit with thee.

18 And Daniel laughed: and he held the king, that he should not go in: and he said: Behold the pavement, mark whose footsteps these are.

19 And the king said: I see the footsteps of men, and women, and children. And the king was angry.

20 Then he took the priests, and their wives, and their children: and they showed him the private doors by which they came in, and consumed the things that were on the table.

21 The king, therefore, put them to death, and delivered Bel into the power of Daniel: who destroyed him and his temple.

22 And there was a great dragon in that place, and the Babylonians worshipped him.

23 And the king said to Daniel: Behold thou canst not say now, that this is not a living god: adore him, therefore.

24 And Daniel said: I adore the Lord, my God: for he is the living God: but that is no living god.

25 But give me leave, O king, and I will kill this dragon without sword or club. And the king said: I give thee leave.

26 Then Daniel took pitch, and fat, and hair, and boiled them together: and he made lumps, and put them into the dragon's mouth, and the dragon burst asunder. And he said: Behold him whom you worshipped.

27 And when the Babylonians had heard this, they took great indignation: and being gathered together against the king, they said: The king is become a Jew. He hath destroyed Bel, he hath killed the dragon, and he hath put the priests to death.

28 And they came to the king, and said: Deliver us Daniel, or else we will destroy thee and thy house.

29 And the king saw that they pressed upon him violently: and being constrained by necessity, he delivered Daniel to them.

30 And they cast him into the den of lions, and he was there six days.

31 And in the den there were seven lions, and they had given to them two carcasses every day, and two sheep: but then they were not given unto them, that they might devour Daniel.

VER. 65. Astyages, or Darius. Chap. 1 31 This belongs to the following chap. (C.) or to the 9th. W.

CHAP. XIV. VER. 1. Guest. It seems most probable that the king here spoken of was Evilmerodac, the son and successor of Nabuchodonosor, and a great favourer of the Jews (Ch. W.); or it might be Darius, (Houbig.) or Cyrus, under whose reign S. Irenæus (iv. 11) and others place this history. C.—The more correct Greek editions begin with the preceding verse. M.

VER. 19. Angry. Cappel thinks the priests would not be so easily caught, or that such an imposture would not be so long concealed. But it was their interest to keep the secret, particularly if the king furnished the provisions; and in the night time they would not perceive the small ashes. Houbig.—All the objections against this history are refuted by Jer. li. 5. Houbigant.

VER. 22. Dragon. The devil had seduced our first parents in the form of a serpent, and caused most nations to adore it. C.

VER. 27. Jew, or "a Jew is king;" Daniel governs all. Grot.

VER. 30. The den of lions. Daniel was twice cast into the den of lions: once under Darius, the Mede, because he had transgressed the king's edict, by praying three times a day; and another time under Evilmerodac, by a sedition of the people. This time he remained six days in the lions' den; the other time only one night. Ch.

32 Now there was in Judea a prophet called Habacuc, and he had boiled pottage, and had broken bread in a bowl: and was going into the field, to carry it to the reapers.

33 And the angel of the Lord said to Habacuc: Carry the dinner which thou hast into Babylon, to Daniel, who is in the lions' den.

34 And Habacuc said: Lord, I never saw Babylon, nor do I know the den.

35 And the angel of the Lord took him by the top of his head, and carried him by the hair of his head, and set him in Babylon, over the den, in the force of his spirit.

36 And Habacuc cried, saying: O Daniel, thou servant of God, take the dinner that God hath sent thee.

37 And Daniel said: Thou hast remembered me, O God, and thou hast not forsaken them that love thee.

^a Ezec. viii. 3.

VER. 32. Habacuc. The same, as some think, whose prophecy is found among the lesser prophets: but others believe him to be different. Ch.—About twenty years before there was no prophet in Judea. Chap. iii. 38. Habacuc, the eighth of the minor prophets, lived before the Babylonian monarchy was formed. Chap. i. G. W.

VER. 39. Seventh. He had not come before, supposing he was dead, till at last a rumour got to his ears, notwithstanding the precautions of the Babylonians, 38 And Daniel arose, and eat. And the angel of the Lord presently set Habacuc again in his own place.

39 And upon the seventh day the king came to bewail Daniel: and he came to the den, and looked in, and behold Daniel was sitting in the midst of the lions.

40 And the king cried out with a loud voice, saying: Great art thou, O Lord, the God of Daniel. And he drew him out of the lions' den.

41 But those that had been the cause of his destruction, he cast into the den, and they were devoured in a moment before him.

42 Then the king said: Let all the inhabitants of the whole earth fear the God of Daniel: for he is the Saviour, working signs, and wonders in the earth: who hath delivered Daniel out of the lions' den.

who hoped that Daniel would be starved to death. Houbigant, Proleg. p. 2, p. 425, which end here.

VER. 40. Daniel. Gr. adds, "and besides thee there is no other." II.

VER. 41. Den, by the law of retaliation. Chap. vi. 24. M.

VER. 42. Then, &c. is not in Greek, nor in the ancient MSS. of S. Jerome. The verse may be taken from chap. ii. 26. C.

THE PROPHECY OF OSEE.

OSEE, or Hosea, whose name signifies a saviour, was the first in the order of time among those who are commonly called lesser prophets, because their prophecies are short. He prophesied in the kingdom of Israel (that is, of the ten tribes) about the same time that Isaiah prophesied in the kingdom of Juda. Ch.—The chronological order is not observed in any edition. The Sept. vary from the rest. They place the less before the greater prophets, and read some of the names rather differently, as Prot. do also, though they have nothing but novelty to recommend the change. It is not known who collected them into one volume. But the Book of Ecclesiasticus (xlix. 12) speaks of the twelve; and 4 Esd. i. 39, specifies them as they are found in the Sept., Osee, Amos, Micah, Joel, Abdias, Jonas, Nahum, &c., as in the Vulg. C.—Many other prophets appeared before these, (W.) but Osee is the first of the sixteen whose works are extant. He must have continued his ministry about eighty-five years, and lived above one hundred and ten, if the first verse speak of him alone. But some take it to regard the whole collection, and may be added by another hand. C.—The style of Osee is sententious, and very hard to be understood, (S. Jer.), as but little is known of the last kings of Israel, in whose dominions he lived, and to whom he chiefly refers, though he speak sometimes of Juda, &c. C.—We must observe that the prophets often style the kingdom of the two tribes, Juda, Benjamin, Jerusalem, or the house of David; and that of the ten tribes, Ephraim, Joseph, Samaria, Jezrahel, Bethel, or Bethaven; and often Israel or Jacob; till after the captivity of these tribes, when the latter titles refer to Juda, who imitated the virtues of Jacob better than the other kingdom. W.

CHAPTER I.

By marrying a harlot, and by the names of his children, the prophet sets forth the crimes of Israel, and their punishment. He foretells their redemption by Christ.

THE word of the Lord, that came to Osee, the son of Beeri, in the days of Ozias, Joathan, Achaz, and Ezechias, kings of Juda, and in the days of Jeroboam, the son of Joas, king of Israel.

2 The beginning of the Lord's speaking by Osee: and the Lord said to Osee: Go, take thee a wife of fornications, and have of her children of fornications: for the land by fornication shall depart from the Lord.

^a A. M. 3179, A. C. 825.

CHAP. I. VER. 1. Israel. He reigned forty-one years, till A. M. 3220. Usher.—The prophets usually give the date, that the prediction may be verified.

VER. 2. Fornications. That is, a wife that hath been given to fornication. This was to represent the Lord's proceedings with his people Israel, who, by spiritual fornication, were continually offending him. Ch.—The prophet reclaimed her. S. Jer.—She denoted Samaria, abandoned to idolatry. Ezec. xvi. 15. Several such actions were prophetic. Many have supposed that this was only a parable; but the sequel proves the contrary. C.—Of fornications. So called from the character of their mother, if not also from their own wicked dispositions. Ch.—

3 So he went, and took Gomer, the daughter of Debelaim: and she conceived, and bore him a son.

4 And the Lord said to him: Call his name Jezrahel: for yet a little while, and I will visit the blood of Jezrahel upon the house of Jehu, and I will cause to cease the kingdom of the house of Israel.

5 And in that day I will break in pieces the bow of Israel in the valley of Jezrahel.

6 And she conceived again, and bore a daughter, and he said to him: Call her name, Without mercy: for I will not add any more to have mercy on the house of Israel, but I will utterly forget them.

7 And I will have mercy on the house of Juda, and I shall, or rather "have departed;" and therefore he denounces future chastisements.

VER. 4. Jezrahel. Jehu slew Joram in this place. He was the instrument of God's justice, yet acted himself through malice and ambition, and was therefore deservedly punished. Zacharias, the fourth of his family, lost the crown, and was slain by Sellum, at Jezrahel. 4 Kings ix., &c. C.—The offspring of Jehu, now on the throne, solicited Jezrahel or the ten tribes to idolatry, which God will revenge. W.

VER. 6. Without mercy. Lo-Rukamah. Ch.—Some copies of Sept. and S. Paul read, "not beloved." Rom. ix. 25. Samaria shall surely perish.

will save them by the Lord, their God: and I will not save them by bow, nor by sword, nor by battle, nor by horses, nor by horsemen.

8 And she weaned her that was called Without mercy. And she conceived, and bore a son.

9 And he said: Call his name, Not my people: for you are not my people, and I will not be yours.

10 And the number of the children of Israel shall be as the sand of the sea, that is without measure, and shall not be numbered. "And it shall be in the place where it shall be said to them: You are not my people: it shall be said to them. Ye are the sons of the living God.

11 And the children of Juda, and the children of Israel, shall be gathered together: and they shall appoint themselves one head, and shall come up out of the land: for great is the day of Jezrahel.

CHAP. II.

Israel is justly punished for leaving God. The abundance of grace in the Church of Christ.

SAY ye to your brethren: You are my people: and to your sister: Thou hast obtained mercy.

2 Judge your mother, judge her: because she is not my wife, and I am not her husband. Let her put away her fornications from her face, and her adulteries from between her breasts.

3 Lest I strip her naked, and set her as in the day that she was born: and I will make her as a wilderness, and will set her as a land that none can pass through, and will kill her with drought.

4 And I will not have mercy on her children: for they are the children of fornications.

5 For their mother hath committed fornication, she that conceived them is covered with shame: for she said: I will go after my lovers, that give me my bread, and my water, my wool, and my flax, my oil, and my drink.

6 Wherefore, behold, I will hedge up thy way with thorns, and I will stop it up with a wall, and she shall not find her paths.

7 And she shall follow after her lovers, and shall not overtake them: and she shall seek them, and shall not find, and she shall say: I will go, and return to my a Rom. ix. 26.

VER. 9. Not my people. Lo-ammi. Ch.—The kingdom of Israel seemed to be quite cast off; and in captivity it was hardly distinguished from other nations. Juda was preserved longer, and at all times was under the Divine protection. Ezechiel, Daniel, &c. comforted the people in the worst of their afflictions. C.

VER. 10. The number, &c., viz. of the true Israelites, the children of the Church of Christ. Ch.—This is the primary sense. Rom. ix. 25. Yet the Israelites are here also assured of their return from captivity. C.

VER. 11. Head: Christ, (Ch.) the head of all the faithful, (W.) consisting both of Jews and of Gentiles. Israel and Juda returned under Zerobabel, &c. C.—The prophets blend present and future transactions together. S. Jer. in chap. iii. —Jezrahel. That is, of the seed of God; for Jezrahel signifies the seed of God. Ch.—For may also be rendered, "when or though."

CHAP. II. VER. 1. Brethren, &c. Or, call your brethren, My people; and your sister, Her that hath obtained mercy. This is connected with the latter end of the foregoing chapter, and relates to the converts of Israel. Ch.—I seemed to have abandoned them at the great day of carnage (H.); but I will still receive (C.) this portion of my people, as well as Juda. H.

VER. 2. Your mother: the synagogue. Ch.—He addresses Juda, (ver. 11, 15,) or all God's people. Chap. i. 11.

VER. 3. Drought. In Egypt the people were plunged into idolatry, and oppressed. C.

VER. 4. Fornications. They imitate their parents. H.—I will not spare them, as I did some in the wilderness. S. Jer.

VER. 5. Lovers: idols, and foreign nations. Ezech. xvi. 15, 33.

VER. 6. Paths. The aid which she sought from foreigners shall prove vain. C.—It is often an effect of mercy, when our wicked plans miscarry. S. Jer.

first husband: because it was better with me then than now.

8 And she did not know that I gave her corn, and wine, and oil, and multiplied her silver, and gold, which they have used in the service of Baal.

9 Therefore will I return, and take away my corn in its season, and my wine in its season, and I will set at liberty my wool, and my flax, which covered her disgrace.

10 And now I will lay open her folly in the eyes of her lovers: and no man shall deliver her out of my hand:

11 And I will cause all her mirth to cease, her solemnities, her new moons, her sabbaths, and all her festival times.

12 And I will destroy her vines, and fig-trees, of which she said: These are my rewards, which my lovers have given me: and I will make her as a forest, and the beasts of the field shall devour her.

13 And I will visit upon her the days of Baalim, to whom she burnt incense, and decked herself out with her ear-rings, and with her jewels, and went after her lovers, and forgot me, saith the Lord.

14 Therefore, behold I will allure her, and will lead her into the wilderness: and I will speak to her heart.

15 And I will give her vine-dressers out of the same place, and the valley of Achor for an opening of hope: and she shall sing there according to the days of her youth, and according to the days of her coming up out of the land of Egypt.

16 And it shall be in that day, saith the Lord: That she shall call me: My husband, and she shall call me no more Baali.

17 And I will take away the names of Baalim out of her mouth, and she shall no more remember their name.

18 And in that day I will make a covenant with them, with the beasts of the field, and with the fowls of the air, and with the creeping things of the earth: and I will destroy the bow, and the sword, and war out of the land: and I will make them sleep secure.

19 And I will espouse thee to me for ever: and I will espouse thee to me in justice, and judgment, and in mercy, and in commiserations.

20 And I will espouse thee to me in faith: and thou shalt know that I am the Lord.

VER. 8. Baal; or they formed idols.

VER. 9. Season. When the harvest is ripe, the loss is more afflicting. God withdraws what proves an occasion of sin.—Liberty. The creature serves unwillingly. Rom. viii. 21.

VER. 13. Ear. Heb. "nose-rings," or ornaments hanging from the nose. C.

VER. 14. I will allure her, &c. After all her disloyalties, I will still allure her by my grace, &c., and send her vine-dressers, viz. the apostles, originally her own children, who shall open to her the gates of hope; as heretofore, at her coming into the land of promise, she had all good success after she had satisfied the Divine justice by the execution of Achan, in the valley of Achor. Jos. vii. Ch.—Sept. "I will seduce or make her stray:" πλανω. H.

VER. 15. Vine. Heb. "vineyards there," (C.) or "from," &c. H.—Achor. The environs of Jericho were very enchanting. Isa. lxx. 10.—Sing is better than Sept. "shall be humbled." Heb. "shall answer," as people singing alternately. C.

VER. 16. My husband. In Heb. Ishi.—Baali; my lord. The meaning of this verse is: that, whereas Ishi and Baali were used indifferently in those days by wives speaking to their husbands, the synagogue, whom God was pleased to consider as his spouse, should call him only Ishi, and abstain from the name of Baali, because of its affinity with the name of the idol Baal. Ch.

VER. 17. Baalim. It is the plural number of Baal; for there were diverse idols of Baal. Ch.

VER. 19. I will espouse thee, &c. This relates to the happy espousals of Christ with his Church, which shall never be dissolved. Ch.

VER. 20. Faith, the root of all virtues. We shall be true to each other. This has been realized only in the Church of Christ. C.

21 And it shall come to pass in that day : I will hear, saith the Lord, I will hear the heavens, and they shall hear the earth.

22 And the earth shall hear the corn, and the wine, and the oil, and these shall hear Jezrahel.

23 And I will sow her unto me in the earth, and I will have mercy on her that is without mercy.

24 *And I will say to that which is not my people : Thou art my people : and they shall say : Thou art my God.

CHAP. III.

The prophet is again commanded to love an adulteress : to signify God's love to the synagogue. The wretched state of the Jews for a long time, till at last they shall be converted.

AND the Lord said to me : Go yet again, and love a woman beloved of her friend, and an adulteress : as the Lord loveth the children of Israel, and they look to strange gods, and love the husks of the grapes.

2 And I bought her to me for fifteen pieces of silver, and for a core of barley, and for half a core of barley.

3 And I said to her : Thou shalt wait for me many days : thou shalt not play the harlot, and thou shalt be no man's, and I also will wait for thee.

4 For the children of Israel shall sit many days without king, and without prince, and without sacrifice, and without altar, and without ephod, and without theraphim.

5 *And after this the children of Israel shall return, and shall seek the Lord, their God, and David, their king : and they shall fear the Lord, and his goodness, in the last days.

CHAP. IV.

God's judgment against the sins of Israel. Juda is warned not to follow their example.

HEAR the word of the Lord, ye children of Israel, for the Lord shall enter into judgment with the inhabitants of the land : for there is no truth, and there is no mercy, and there is no knowledge of God in the land.

2 Cursing, and lying, and killing, and theft, and adultery, have overflowed, and blood hath touched blood.

* Rom. ix. 25 ; 1 Pet. ii. 10.

VER. 21. Hear the heavens, &c. All shall conspire in favour of the Church, which in the following verse is called Jezrahel, that is, the seed of God. Ch.—Harmony shall subsist between all the parts of the universe. The earth shall receive rain, &c. This happiness was enjoyed in figure by the Jews, after their return, and in reality by Christians. Theod.

VER. 22. Jezrahel. This most fruitful valley shall again be covered with abundant crops. The whole nation of the Jews shall be happy. C.

VER. 24. That which is not my people, &c. This relates to the conversion of the Gentiles, (Ch.) as the apostles explain it. 1 Pet. ii. 10 ; Rom. ix. W.

CHAP. III. VER. 1. Woman. This second woman denotes the penitent Israel, yet not quite reconciled. The people in captivity are separated both from her idols and from God, though the latter still retains an affection for them. Osee does not marry this woman, but gives his word. We must not urge the parable too far. He acts as a figure of the Lord, who has received an outrage. C.

VER. 2. Core. Sept. "gomer of barley, and for a nebel of wine." The woman must consequently have been of very mean condition. In the East wives are still, even among Christians, purchased according to their rank, often without being seen or consulted. The parents give part of the price to the bride. C.

VER. 3. Man's. After the person was espoused, any infidelity was punished as if she had been married. It does not appear that Osee took this woman to wife. C.—But he signified that the people must wait for God, in captivity. Theod. Sanct. 55.

VER. 4. Altar. Heb. "statue ;" motsbe instead of mozbe, as (H.) others agree with S. Jerom, and there seems to have been no variation in his time.—Theraphim. Images or representations, (Ch.) either good or bad. As the other things mentioned were good, such lawful images as were used in the temple must be meant. 3 Kings vii. 36. W.—S. Jerom explains it of eberubim. Sept. "altar, priesthood, and manifestations (Urim, &c.) being wanting." H.

VER. 5. David, their king. That is, Christ, who is of the house of David. Ch.—After the captivity, the Jews submit to Zorobabel. Yet this only foreshowed a more sincere conversion to Jesus Christ. In fact, the house of David never re-

3 Therefore shall the land mourn, and every one that dwelleth in it shall languish with the beasts of the field, and with the fowls of the air : yea, the fishes of the sea also shall be gathered together.

4 But yet let not any man judge : and let not a man be rebuked : for thy people are as they that contradict the priest.

5 And thou shalt fall to-day, and the prophet also shall fall with thee : in the night I have made thy mother to be silent.

6 My people have been silent, because they had no knowledge : because thou hast rejected knowledge, I will reject thee, that thou shalt not do the office of priesthood to me : and thou hast forgotten the law of thy God, I also will forget thy children.

7 According to the multitude of them, so have they sinned against me : I will change their glory into shame.

8 They shall eat the sins of my people, and shall lift up their souls to their iniquity.

9 *And there shall be like people like priest : and I will visit their ways upon them, and I will repay them their devices.

10 And they shall eat and shall not be filled : they have committed fornication, and have not ceased : because they have forsaken the Lord in not observing his law.

11 Fornication, and wine, and drunkenness, take away the understanding.

12 My people have consulted their stocks, and their staff hath declared unto them : for the spirit of fornication hath deceived them, and they have committed fornication against their God.

13 They offered sacrifice upon the tops of the mountains, and burnt incense upon the hills : under the oak, and the poplar, and the turpentine-tree, because the shadow thereof was good : therefore shall your daughters commit fornication, and your spouses shall be adulteresses.

14 I will not visit upon your daughters, when they shall commit fornication, and upon your spouses when b Eze. xxxiv. 23.—c Isa. xxiv. 2.

gained the throne, (C.) and it is not clear that Zorobabel had any authority over the people. H.—Christ is the literal object of this prediction. C.

CHAP. IV. VER. 1. Israel. They are chiefly addressed, (Chal. S. Jer. C.) or what follows to ver. 15, regards all. W.—Judgment. Heb. "a trial."—Mercy The want of humanity and of practical knowledge is urged. C.

VER. 3. Together. The waters shall be dried up, or infected. C.

VER. 4. Judge, &c. As if he would say. It is in vain to strive with them, or reprove them, they are so obstinate in evil. Ch.

VER. 5. Prophet, both true and false.—Night of tribulation. Heb. and Sept. "I have compared thy mother to the night."

VER. 6. Silent. Sept. "like those who had," &c.—Knowledge. Jeroboam I. had appointed unlawful priests, and some of the house of Aaron went over to him, and were excluded from officiating at Jerusalem after the captivity. 1 Kings xii. 31 ; Eze. xlv. 10.

VER. 7. Me. A father rejoices in a numerous offspring. But my people take occasion to offend me the more they increase. C.

VER. 8. Sins ; victims. W.—Iniquity ; or "they seek for support in their propitiatory offerings," and lull the people asleep in their sins. The priests of the golden calf imitated the sacred rites of Moses.

VER. 9. Priest. They are equally dissolute, and shall meet the like punishment.—Devices, or thoughts. C.

VER. 10. Ceased. Heb. "increased." They have no children living. C.—Sept. "let them not succeed."

VER. 11. Understanding. Lft. "heart." H.

VER. 12. Staff. It was customary to use this mode of divination, (Eze. xxi 21.) and likewise incense.

VER. 13. Oak. These terms are variously rendered, as the trees and stones mentioned in Scripture will probably never be ascertained.

VER. 14. Visit. This is the most dreadful of God's judgments. He punishes those who offend him to receive discontent from their own families.

they shall commit adultery: because themselves conversed with harlots, and offered sacrifice with the effeminate, and the people that doth not understand shall be beaten.

15 If thou play the harlot, O Israel, at least let not Juda offend: and go ye not into Galgal, and come not up into Bethaven, and do not swear: The Lord liveth.

16 For Israel hath gone astray like a wanton heifer: now will the Lord feed them, as a lamb in a spacious place.

17 Ephraim is a partaker with idols, let him alone.

18 Their banquet is separated, they have gone astray by fornication: they that should have protected them have loved to bring shame upon them.

19 The wind hath bound them up in its wings, and they shall be confounded because of their sacrifices.

CHAP. V.

God's threats against the priests, the people, and princes of Israel, for their idolatry.

HEAR ye this, O priests, and hearken, O ye house of Israel, and give ear, O house of the king: for there is a judgment against you, because you have been a snare to them whom you should have watched over, and a net spread upon Thabor.

2 And you have turned aside victims into the depth: and I am the teacher of them all.

3 I know Ephraim, and Israel is not hid from me: for now Ephraim hath committed fornication, Israel is defiled.

4 They will not set their thoughts to return to their God: for the spirit of fornication is in the midst of them, and they have not known the Lord.

5 And the pride of Israel shall answer in his face: and Israel and Ephraim shall fall in their iniquity, Juda also shall fall with them.

6 With their flocks, and with their herds, they shall go to seek the Lord, and shall not find him: he is withdrawn from them.

7 They have transgressed against the Lord, for they have begotten children that are strangers: now shall a month devour them with their portions.

VER. 15. Offend. It was more culpable for Juda to commit idolatry (as they had the temple, &c. of the true God) than for Israel, whom Jeroboam hindered from going to Jerusalem, after he had set up his golden calves. W.—Galgal and Bethaven. Places where idols were worshipped. Bethel, which signifies the house of God, is called by the prophet Bethaven, that is, the house of vanity, from Jeroboam's golden calf which was worshipped there. Ch.—Lord. Profane not this sacred name by giving it to idols. Theod. Use not this expression, since you do not worship me. S. Jer.

VER. 16. Wanton. Sept. "stung," or rendered furious. Thus Israel gives way to ungovernable passions. The people shall be led into captivity, and have room to range about.

VER. 17. Partaker. Heb. "tied to abominations."—Alone. His case is desperate. C.—Sept. "he has placed stumbling-blocks for himself." H.

VER. 18. Separated from that allowed to God's people. Deut. xii. 12. Heb. "insip'id," or spoiled. Chal. "their princes have sought after banquets." Sept. "He has provoked (surpassed) the Chanaanites." These two have not read as we do.

CHAP. V. VER. 1. O priests. What is said of priests in this prophecy, is chiefly understood of the priests of the kingdom of Israel; who were not true priests of the race of Aaron, but served the calves at Bethel and Dan. Ch.—They had the name of priests, and pretended to act as such. 3 Kings xii. W.—There were some apostates among them. Chap. iv. 6. But they lost all authority.—To them. Lit. "to the watch:" speculationi. Heb. "at Maspha," (II.) in Galaad, where a profane altar was erected. Chap. vi. 8. C.

VER. 2. Depth, or pits of fire, where victims were sometimes thrown. Iphigen. Grot.

VER. 5. Answer. Sept. "be humbled." It appears openly, so as to deserve condemnation. H.

VER. 6. Them. He will receive their victims no longer. Isa. i. 11. C.—In 8 Blow ye the cornet in Gabaa, the trumpet in Rama: howl ye in Bethaven, behind thy back, O Benjamin.

9 Ephraim shall be in desolation in the day of rebuke: among the tribes of Israel I have shown that which shall surely be.

10 The princes of Juda are become as they that take up the bound: I will pour out my wrath upon them like water.

11 Ephraim is under oppression, and broken in judgment: because he began to go after filthiness.

12 And I will be like a moth to Ephraim: and like rottenness to the house of Juda.

13 And Ephraim saw his sickness, and Juda his band: and Ephraim went to the Assyrian, and sent to the avenging king: and he shall not be able to heal you, neither shall he be able to take off the band from you.

14 For I will be like a lioness to Ephraim, and like a lion's whelp to the house of Juda: I, I will catch, and go: I will take away, and there is none that can rescue.

15 I will go and return to my place: until you are consumed, and seek my face.

CHAP. VI.

Affliction shall be a means to bring many to Christ: a complaint of the unthankfulness of the Jews. God loves mercy more than sacrifice.

IN their affliction they will rise early to me: Come, and let us return to the Lord:

2 For he hath taken us, and he will heal us: he will strike, and he will cure us.

3 "He will revive us after two days: on the third day he will raise us up, and we shall live in his sight. We shall know, and we shall follow on, that we may know the Lord. His going forth is prepared as the morning light, and he will come to us as the early and the latter rain to the earth.

4 What shall I do to thee, O Ephraim? what shall I do to thee, O Juda? your mercy is as a morning cloud, and as the dew that goeth away in the morning.

5 For this reason have I hewed them by the prophets:

* 1 Cor. xv. 4.

vain do they expect to escape by this appearance of sanctity, while they continue in sin. H.

VER. 7. Strangers. That is, aliens from God: and therefore they are threatened with speedy destruction. Ch.—Their offspring is rebellious, and deserves no longer to be called my people. Chap. i. 9.—Month. Every month the Assyrians shall come upon them (Chal. S. Jer.); or, in the space of one month, they shall perish. C.—Sept. "the mildew shall eat them and their portions." H.

VER. 10. Bound. This was a capital crime, under Numa, and forbidden, Deut. xix. 14. C.—Juda hoped to seize what was abandoned. S. Jer.—They deferred doing penance, and removed the boundaries set by their fathers, (Theod. C.) the virtuous patriarchs, whom they would not imitate.

VER. 13. Avenging. Heb. and Sept. Jarib, (S. Jer.,) which some explain of the king of Egypt; others understand the Assyrian (chap. x. 6); while most suppose that Ephraim applied to Phul, and Juda sent to a protecting king, Theglath-phalassar. 4 Kings xvi. 7, and xvii. 4. C.

VER. 15. Place; to heaven. I will abandon my temple. C.—Face: "they will seek the absent." S. Jer.

CHAP. VI. VER. 1. Early, or in haste. All the people will repent. C.

VER. 3. Third. In a short time the Lord will easily set us free. But the prophet refers more directly to the resurrection of the faithful, and of Christ. Eph. ii. 5, and 1 Cor. xv. 4. C.—S. Paul mentions the third day according to the Scriptures, which no where else so clearly specify it. W. See S. Jer. S. Cyp. Sanct. 9.

VER. 4. Mercy. Heb. esod, (H.) "piety," &c., (Grot.,) whence the word Assideans is derived. 1 Mac. ii. 42. The captives flattered themselves, that as soon as they began to entertain sentiments of repentance, God would relieve them. But he answers, that their virtue is inconstant, and that they must suffer in proportion to their crimes.

VER. 5. Mouth. I have ordered my prophets to denounce death unto them.

I have slain them by the words of my mouth: and thy judgments shall go forth as the light.

6 For I desire mercy, and not sacrifice: and the knowledge of God more than holocausts.

7 But they, like Adam, have transgressed the covenant, here have they dealt treacherously against me.

8 Galaad is a city of workers of idols, supplanted with blood.

9 And like the jaws of highway robbers, they conspire with the priests, who murder in the way those that pass out of Sichem: for they have wrought wickedness.

10 I have seen a horrible thing in the house of Israel, the fornications of Ephraim there: Israel is defiled.

11 And thou also, O Juda, set thee a harvest, when I shall bring back the captivity of my people.

CHAP. VII.

The manifold sins of Israel, and of their kings, hinder the Lord from healing them.

WHEN I would have healed Israel, the iniquity of Ephraim was discovered, and the wickedness of Samaria, for they have committed falsehood, and the thief is come in to steal, the robber is without.

2 And lest they may say in their hearts, that I remember all their wickedness: their own devices now have beset them about, they have been done before my face.

3 They have made the king glad with their wickedness: and the princes with their lies.

4 They are all adulterers, like an oven heated by the baker: the city rested a little from the mingling of the leaven, till the whole was leavened.

5 The day of our king, the princes began to be mad with wine: he stretched out his hand with scorners.

6 Because they have applied their heart like an oven, when he laid snares for them: he slept all the night baking them, in the morning he himself was heated as a flaming fire.

* 1 Kings xv. 22; Eccl. iv. 17; Matt. ix. 13, and xii. 17.

and to treat them roughly, like a piece of marble designed for a statue. Sept., &c. "I have slain thy prophets," &c., by Elias, Jehu, &c. The former sense is preferable.—Thy judgments, or condemnation. C.

VER. 6. Mercy: sincere piety. VER. 4.—Sacrifice. They had offered many. Chap. v. 6. C.—"My victims are the salvation of the faithful, and the conversion of sinners." S. Jer.—Knowledge, of a practical nature, which was deficient. Chap. iv. 6, and vi. 4. C.

VER. 7. Adam. A compact was made with him, that if he continued faithful or otherwise, his posterity should be born in original justice or sin. H.—He transgressed, and was expelled from paradise, as the Jews were from their land. Sept. "like a man:" like any who had not been so highly favoured with the law, &c. C.—Adam means "a man," and sometimes it would be as well rendered in this sense. H.

VER. 8. Supplanted with blood. That is, undermined and brought to ruin for shedding of blood; and, as it is signified in the following verse, for conspiring with the priests, (of Bethel,) like robbers, to murder in the way such as passed out of Sichem to go towards the temple of Jerusalem. Or else supplanted with blood signifies, flowing in such manner with blood, as to suffer none to walk there without imbruing the soles of their feet in blood. Ch.

VER. 9. Robbers. Jephthah had infested those parts, and the country was noted for murders; whence more cities of refuge were appointed in it. Judg. xi. and Jos. xx. 8. The prophet alludes to what had been said to Gad. Gen. xlix. 19.

VER. 11. Harvest. This implies punishment or felicity. The turn of Juda shall come, and he shall be chastised; but after the captivity, he shall enjoy plenty. Chap. ii. 15; Isa. ix. 3. C.

CHAP. VII. VER. 1. Israel. God divided the kingdom, that by this chastisement the people might be converted. But Jeroboam set up calves, and caused them to grow worse. W.

VER. 3. Glad, &c. To please Jeroboam and their other kings, they have given themselves up to the worship of idols, which are mere falsehood and lies. Ch.—We do not find one good king of Israel. C.—But Jeroboam principally caused Israel to sin. 11.

VER. 5. Princes. The chief men joined in the schism and idolatry. W.—

7 They were all heated like an oven, and have devoured their judges: all their kings have fallen: there is none amongst them that calleth unto me.

8 Ephraim himself is mixed among the nations. Ephraim is become as bread baked under the ashes, that is not turned.

9 Strangers have devoured his strength, and he knew it not: yea, grey hairs also are spread about upon him, and he is ignorant of it.

10 And the pride of Israel shall be humbled before his face: and they have not returned to the Lord, their God, nor have they sought him in all these.

11 And Ephraim is become as a dove that is decoyed, not having a heart: they called upon Egypt, they went to the Assyrians.

12 And when they shall go, I will spread my net upon them: I will bring them down as the fowl of the air, I will strike them as their congregation hath heard.

13 Woe to them, for they have departed from me: they shall be wasted, because they have transgressed against me: and I redeemed them: and they have spoken lies against me.

14 And they have not cried to me with their heart, but they howled in their beds: they have thought upon wheat and wine, they are departed from me.

15 And I have chastised them, and strengthened their arms: and they have imagined evil against me.

16 They returned, that they might be without yoke: they became like a deceitful bow: their princes shall fall by the sword, for the rage of their tongue. This is their derision in the land of Egypt.

CHAP. VIII.

The Israelites are threatened with destruction for their impiety and idolatry.

LET there be a trumpet in thy throat, like an eagle upon the house of the Lord: because they have transgressed my covenant, and have violated my law.

Mad, with drinking at the king's coronation, or at his coming to the crown. C.—Scorners. Sept. "pestilent people," who turn religion and piety to ridicule. Instead of repressing them, the king admits them to favour.

VER. 6. Them. Jeroboam seduces the subjects of the house of David, by indulging the passions of the great and small. He may then sleep; the poison gains ground. C.—But soon his own family will feel the direful effects of his policy. H.

VER. 7. Judges, or rulers. Idolatry proved fatal to all. VER. 3. VER. 8. Mixed, like oil and flour. Heb.—Ashes. Thin cakes (C.) of this kind are used by the poor in Spain, (Sanct,) and by the Arabs. Thevenot. Levant. 32.—Turned. There was no time allowed by the enemy, who came and took the Israelites away. C.

VER. 9. Strangers: kings of Assyria, Damascus, &c. VER. 10. Humbled. Heb. "answer." Chap. v. 5. Pride is visible on his face, though he be so much reduced. C.

VER. 11. Decoyed. Heb. "stupid." Chap. iv. 11. The dove is the only bird which is not grieved at the loss of its young. S. Jer.—It returns to the same nest, though repeatedly robbed, forgetting past dangers. Theod.—Thus Israel is not reclaimed, though idolatry has so often proved its ruin.—Egypt. Jeroboam had retired thither, and at his return brought about a division of the kingdom. 3 Kings xi. 40. Osee, the last king, applied to Suez, and this provoked the Assyrians to destroy the kingdom. They pretended that it was tributary to them, after Phul had been invited to assist Manahem for a thousand talents. 4 Kings xv. 19, and xvii. 4. Thus was a worldly policy confounded.

VER. 14. Thought: "ruminated." H.—Heb. "assembled, or been afraid." Sept. "they were cut," (C.) in honour of idols, hoping to avert the famine. S. Cyr.

VER. 15. Arms. I gave them my laws and power to resist the enemy. M. VER. 16. Returned, imitating Apis, the folly of Egypt. They have repeatedly followed idols in Egypt, and in the desert, under Jeroboam, Achab, Jehu, &c.

CHAP. VIII. VER. 1. Eagle. It makes a noise like a trumpet. Pliny, x. 3. —Osee denounces judgments on the house of Israel, which, though schismatical, was not entirely abandoned by the Lord.

2 They shall call upon me: O my God, we, Israel, know thee.

3 Israel hath cast off the thing that is good, the enemy shall pursue him.

4 They have reigned, but not by me: they have been princes, and I knew not: of their silver and their gold they made idols to themselves, that they might perish.

5 Thy calf, O Samaria, is cast off, my wrath is kindled against them. How long will they be incapable of being cleansed?

6 For itself also is the invention of Israel: a workman made it, and it is no god: for the calf of Samaria shall be turned to spiders' webs.

7 For they shall sow wind, and reap a whirlwind: there is no standing stalk in it, the bud shall yield no meal: and if it should yield, strangers shall eat it.

8 Israel is swallowed up: now is he become among the nations like an unclean vessel.

9 For they are gone up to Assyria, a wild ass alone by himself: Ephraim hath given gifts to his lovers.

10 But even though they shall have hired the nations, now will I gather them together: and they shall rest a while from the burden of the king, and the princes.

11 Because Ephraim hath made many altars to sin: altars are become to him unto sin.

12 I shall write to him my manifold laws, which have been accounted as foreign.

13 They shall offer victims, they shall sacrifice flesh, and shall eat it, and the Lord will not receive them: now will he remember their iniquity, and will visit their sins: they shall return to Egypt.

14 And Israel hath forgotten his Maker, and hath built temples: and Juda hath built many fenced cities: and I will send a fire upon his cities, and it shall devour the houses thereof.

CHAP. IX.

The distress and captivity of Israel for their sins and idolatry.

VER. 3. Him. Sept. "they have pursued the enemy." But the former sense is better. II.—The Assyrian prevailed. S. Jer.—They carried Israel into captivity, before Juda. Ver. 9. W.

VER. 4. They. Jeroboam and Jchu were assured by the prophets that they should reign, yet this was not a sanction of their right. God condemned their ambition and wicked conduct. The successors of Zacharias had still less pretensions to the throne. God permits such things. The people had not consulted him in these changes. C.

VER. 5. Calf. The idol is broken in pieces, and carried away by the victorious enemy. Thus does the vanity of such gods appear. Their captivity is therefore often foretold. Jer. xliii. 12.

VER. 6. Israel. This enhances the crime. Can a people so highly favoured adore the work of an artist!—Webs, such as appear on a fine day in autumn. S. Jerom's master suggested that this was the sense. Interpreters vary. C.

VER. 7. Whirlwind. They shall be punished for their folly, nor shall they reap any advantage from idols.—In it, or in Israel. The seed which I have sown yields no fruit. If any come up, the mildew destroys it. Yea, though any should come to perfection, which is impossible, it should be given to strangers. My people perform no acts of religion; or at least they render them useless, by adoring idols. C.

VER. 8. Vessel. The nations around despised them, after they had applied to the Assyrians, who were looked upon as enemies of all independent states.

VER. 10. Princes. Heb. "king of kings." This proud title was afterwards taken by the monarchs of Babylon and of Persia. Israel shall cease to pay taxes, having nothing left. They shall cease to be a people. C.—Sept. "I will receive them, and they shall cease a little to anoint a king and princes." H.—They had none during the captivity, as they would not consult God before in their appointment. Ver. 4.

VER. 12. Foreign. Shall I give them laws again to despise? Sept. "I shall write down their number." It will be an easy task, they shall be so diminished. "His laws," &c., (C.) or, "I will describe to him a multitude, and his regulations: The beloved altars have been deemed foreign." S. Jerom's and Grabe's edit. H.

REJOICE not, O Israel: rejoice not as the nations do: for thou hast committed fornication against thy God, thou hast loved a reward upon every corn-floor.

2 The floor and the wine-press shall not feed them, and the wine shall deceive them.

3 They shall not dwell in the Lord's land: Ephraim is returned to Egypt, and hath eaten unclean things among the Assyrians.

4 They shall not offer wine to the Lord, neither shall they please him: their sacrifices shall be like the bread of mourners: all that shall eat it shall be defiled: for their bread is life for their soul, it shall not enter into the house of the Lord.

5 What will you do in the solemn day, in the day of the feast of the Lord?

6 For behold they are gone, because of destruction: Egypt shall gather them together, Memphis shall bury them: nettles shall inherit their beloved silver, the bur shall be in their tabernacles.

7 The days of visitation are come, the days of repaying are come: know ye, O Israel, that the prophet was foolish, the spiritual man was mad, for the multitude of thy iniquity, and the multitude of thy madness.

8 The watchman of Ephraim was with my God: the prophet is become a snare of ruin upon all his ways, madness is in the house of his God.

9 *They have sinned deeply, as in the days of Gabaa: he will remember their iniquity, and will visit their sin.

10 I found Israel like grapes in the desert: I saw their fathers like the first-fruits of the fig-tree in the top thereof: but they went in to Beelphegor, and alienated themselves to that confusion, and became abominable, as those things were, which they loved.

11 As for Ephraim, their glory hath flown away, like a bird from the birth, and from the womb, and from the conception.

* Judg. xix. 25.

VER. 13. Egypt, to escape the Assyrian. Chap. ix. 3. C.—They have imitated the Egyptian idols. S. Jer.—Osee had applied to their king for aid. 4 Kings xvii. 4.

VER. 14. Temples, or "palaces." C.—Cities. The two tribes, witnessing the calamities of their brethren, will not avoid a similar conduct, but trust in their fortifications. W.—Fire of war destroys both kingdoms.—Thereof. Sept. of S. Jerom adds, "and among the Assyrians they have eaten unclean things," which may be taken from chap. ix. 3. H.—It is not found in the present Heb. or Gr. copies. C.

CHAP. IX. VER. 1. Reward, or "present." The kings took the tithe. 1 Kings viii. 15. Other infidel nations rejoice in their wealth. Israel ought not to do so; and, in punishment of idolatry, it shall be despoiled. After Jeroboam II. all went to ruin.

VER. 2. Deceive. The grapes shall yield no wine. C.

VER. 3. Egypt, through distress. Chap. viii. 13. S. Jer. ver. 6. W.—Sua afforded no protection, and the country proved a grave to those who retired thither.—Unclean. The people observed these prescriptions, though they neglected the more important duties. Only some pious souls, like Tobias, Daniel, &c., refrained from such meats in exile. C.

VER. 4. Wine. They shall be at a distance from the temple, and in a country where the wine will not be deemed pure.—Sacrifices. The Israelites had long neglected to offer any in the temple, (H.) though they had no hinderance. In exile, the fruits, &c. were all accounted unclean, like meats used in mourning, (C.) which defiled those who partook of them. Deut. xxvi. 14; Num. xix. 11.

VER. 5. Lord, when he shall punish you. Isa. xxiv. 6. H.

VER. 6. Gather into the grave. Yet some shall escape. Chap. xi. 11.—Sleeve which they have buried at the approach of the enemy, hoping to recover it when they should depart.—Bur. Heb. "thorns." C.

VER. 7. Mad. Israel shall promise itself all prosperity, not being inspired by God, but full of madness. W.

VER. 8. My God. I am such; but the false prophets strive to seduce you. C.—Jeroboam ought to have restrained the people, and he did the reverse, setting up a calf at Bethel, which proved more ruinous than the crime of Gabaa, (Judg. xix.), or the election of Saul.

VER. 10.—Top. These are the best. 11.—The patriarchs were pleasing to God

12 And though they should bring up their children, I will make them without children among men : yea, and woe to them, when I shall depart from them.

13 Ephraim, as I saw, was a Tyre, founded in beauty : and Ephraim shall bring out his children to the murderer.

14 Give them, O Lord. What wilt thou give them ? Give them a womb without children, and dry breasts.

15 *All their wickedness is in Galgal, for there I hated them : for the wickedness of their devices I will cast them forth out of my house : I will love them no more, all their princes are revolvers.

16 Ephraim is struck, their root is dried up, they shall yield no fruit. And if they should have issue, I will slay the best beloved fruit of their womb.

17 My God will cast them away, because they hearkened not to him : and they shall be wanderers among the nations.

CHAP. X.

After many benefits, great affliction shall fall upon the ten tribes, for their ingratitude to God.

ISRRAEL, a vine full of branches, the fruit is agreeable to it : according to the multitude of his fruit, he hath multiplied altars, according to the plenty of his land, he hath abounded with idols.

2 Their heart is divided, now they shall perish : he shall break down their idols, he shall destroy their altars.

3 For now they shall say : We have no king : because we fear not the Lord : and what shall a king do to us ?

4 You speak words of an unprofitable vision, and you shall make covenant : and judgment shall spring up as bitterness in the furrows of the field.

5 The inhabitants of Samaria have worshipped the kine of Bethaven : for the people thereof have mourned over it, and the wardens of its temple, that rejoiced over it in its glory, because it is departed from it.

* 1 Kings viii. 5.—b Isa. li. 19 ; Luke xxiii. 30 ; Apoc. vi. 16.

VER. 12. When. Sept., Th. "my flesh is taken from them," which Theodoret, Lyran, &c. explain of the incarnation ; but Aquila, &c. agree with the Vulg., which is more natural. C.

VER. 13. Tyre. The kingdom of Israel was no less proud. Eze. xxvi. W. —It was in the highest prosperity under Jeroboam II. Osee saw this and the subsequent overthrow. Tyre was a most populous and wealthy city. C.—Other interpreters have, "a rock ;" Sept. "a prey." The latter read d for r. S. Jer. II.—The Vulg. seems best. C.—Tsur denotes "Tyre and a rock." II.

VER. 14. Children, as they have exposed them to the fury of the Assyrians, (C.) or to their idols. Drus.—The prophet appears to demand vengeance through zeal ; but it is only a prediction. C.

VER. 15. Galgal : "heaped together." II.—When they erected profane altars here, I could spare them no longer. C.—No more, so as to suffer them to pass unpunished. H.—He afterwards restored them to favour. Chap. i. 10, and ii. 14. C.—At Galgal they rejected the Lord's spiritual and temporal dominion. M.

VER. 16. Dried up. They are compared to a vine. Chap. x. 1, C.

CHAP. X. VER. 1. Branches. Sept. "Wood." Sym. This is all : it yields no fruit. Prot. "empty." II.—Heb. "plucked." The grapes are taken away, as the Israelites were ; though they boasted of their numbers. Chap. ix. 16. They are often compared to a vine, the symbol of fecundity. Isa. v. 3 ; Psal. cxxvii. 3. C.—The greater benefits of God enhanced their ingratitude. W.—On every noted hill (H.) profane altars were erected.

VER. 2. Divided between the Lord and idols. 3 Kings xviii. 21. C.

VER. 3. No king, in captivity ; or they give this title to the golden calf. Manahem had destroyed one, so that they could not but see its vanity. The neighbouring nations looked upon their idols as their kings.

VER. 4. Covenant with Phul, who seeks only your destruction. 4 Kings xv. 19. C.—Bitterness. Heb. "poison," (H.) or a bitter herb. C.

VER. 5. The kine of Bethaven. The golden calves of Jeroboam, (Ch.) one of which (H.) was set up at Bethel. W.—Rejoiced. If (C.) we substitute e for g, in igiv, (H.) we may give a good sense to the Heb. "The people shouting, or in black, (chamarim,) have been in sorrow, because their glory is taken from them." * The idol is called Psal. c. 20. C.

6 For itself also is carried into Assyria, a present to the avenging king : shame shall fall upon Ephraim, and Israel shall be confounded in his own will.

7 Samaria hath made her king to pass as froth upon the face of the water.

8 And the high places of the idol, the sin of Israel, shall be destroyed : the bur and the thistle shall grow up over their altars ; and they shall say to the mountains : ^bCover us ; and to the hills : Fall upon us.

9 *From the days of Gabaa, Israel hath sinned, there they stood : the battle in Gabaa against the children of iniquity shall not overtake them.

10 According to my desire, I will chastise them : and the nation shall be gathered together against them, when they shall be chastised for their two iniquities.

11 Ephraim is a heifer taught to love, to tread out corn, but I passed over upon the beauty of her neck : I will ride upon Ephraim, Juda shall plough, Jacob shall break the furrows for himself.

12 *Sow for yourselves in justice, and reap in the mouth of mercy, break up your fallow ground : but the time to seek the Lord is, when he shall come that shall teach you justice.

13 You have ploughed wickedness, you have reaped iniquity, you have eaten the fruit of lying : because thou hast trusted in thy ways, in the multitude of thy strong ones.

14 A tumult shall arise among thy people : and all thy fortresses shall be destroyed, as *Salmana was destroyed by the house of him that judged Baal in the day of battle, the mother being dashed in pieces upon her children.

15 So hath Bethel done to you, because of the evil of your iniquities.

CHAP. XI.

God proceeds in threatening Israel for their ingratitude ; yet he will not utterly destroy them.

c Judg. xx. 1.—d Jer. iv. 3.—e Judg. viii. 12.

VER. 6. Itself also is carried, &c. One of the golden calves was given by king Manahem to Phul, king of the Assyrians, to engage him to stand by him. Ch.—Avenging. Chap. v. 13.—Will, or expectation of aid. C.

VER. 8. Us, as the Jews would do at the last siege, and sinners before the day of judgment. Luke xxiii. 30 ; Apoc. vi. 16. Too happy, if they could by a speedy death escape eternal torments ! C.

VER. 9. Gabaa. Sept. "high places ;" or he alludes to the brutality of the citizens. Judg. xx. 13.—Stood. Those of Gabaa were speedily punished by the other tribes. Now, all are perverse. At that time one tribe was guilty, and yet some were spared ; but all Israel shall be now led into captivity. C.

VER. 10. Their two iniquities. Their two calves (Ch.) ; or because they have abandoned God, and followed idols. Jer. ii. 13.

VER. 11. Nech. I will confine her to harder labour. While the oxen tread out corn, they may eat. Dent. xxv. 4.—Himself. Juda shall be chastised after the ten tribes ; so that none of my people shall escape.

VER. 12. Mouth. Heb. "in proportion to (C.) your piety." Sept. "gather a vintage of the fruit of life." II.—Ground. Reform your conduct. C.—Justice, when Christ shall appear, the source of all our grace and justice. S. Jer., &c. C.

VER. 13. Ploughed. Sept. "Why have you concealed impiety," refusing to confess ? H.—Iniquity, or punishment.—Lying. Your hopes are frustrated, and no fruit is seen. C.—Ways, idols. S. Jer.

VER. 14. Tumult. Heb. ssaun ; the din of war, (H.) or cry of soldiers. C.—Salmana, king of the Medianites, was destroyed by the house ; that is, by the followers of him that judgeth Baal ; that is, of Gedeon, who threw down the altar of Baal, and was therefore called Jerobaal. See Judg. vi., and viii. Ch.—Of him. Sept. Rom. "of Jeroboam." But S. Jer., &c. have, Jerobaal. Theodoret, "in the house of Arbcl." Heb. "as Salmana ruined the house of Arbela."

VER. 15. Bethel. This place, defiled by an idol, shall be the scene of your misery. Sept. "So I will treat you, O house of Israel," &c., (H.) which is not in Heb., (S. Jer.,) but seems as good. II.

CHAP. XI. VER. 1. Away. The last kings of Israel lived in the midst of troubles. H.—Osee, though one of the best, brought ruin on the nation. C.—Son : Israel. But as the calling of Israel out of Egypt was a figure of the calling

AS the morning passeth, so hath the king of Israel passed away. Because Israel was a child, and ^aI loved him: and I called my son out of Egypt.

2 As they called them, they went away from before their face: they offered victims to Baalim, and sacrificed to idols.

3 And I was like a foster-father to Ephraim, I carried them in my arms: and they knew not that I healed them.

4 I will draw them with the cords of Adam, with the bands of love: and I will be to them as one that taketh off the yoke on their jaws: and I put his meat to him, that he might eat.

5 He shall not return into the land of Egypt, but the Assyrian shall be his king: because they would not be converted.

6 The sword hath begun in his cities, and it shall consume his chosen men, and shall devour their heads.

7 And my people shall long for my return: but a yoke shall be put upon them together, which shall not be taken off.

8 How shall I deal with thee, O Ephraim, shall I protect thee, O Israel? how shall I make thee as Adama, shall I set thee as Seboim? my heart is turned within me, my repentance is stirred up.

9 I will not execute the fierceness of my wrath: I will not return to destroy Ephraim: because I am God, and not man: the holy one in the midst of thee, and I will not enter into the city.

10 They shall walk after the Lord, he shall roar as a lion: because he shall roar, and the children of the sea shall fear.

11 And they shall fly away like a bird out of Egypt, and like a dove out of the land of the Assyrians: and I will place them in their own houses, saith the Lord.

12 Ephraim hath compassed me about with denials, of Christ from thence; therefore this text is also applicable to Christ, as we learn from S. Matt. ii. 15. Ch.—This is literally spoken of Israel, (styled God's son, Exod. iv. 23,) and mystically, (W.) though no less (H.) truly, of Jesus Christ, as the inspired evangelist shows. W.

^a Matt. ii. 15.—^b Gen. xix. 24.

VER. 2. They called: viz. Moses and Aaron called; but they went away after other gods, and would not hear. Ch.—Sept. "As I called them back, (or repeatedly; μετακαλεσα. Grabe has, 'he called;' meaning any of God's ministers.) so they rushed away from my presence." H.—This sense appears preferable to the Heb. C.

VER. 3. Healed them. My laws were designed to counteract idolatry. H.—I treated them with the utmost tenderness. Deut. i. 31, and xxxii. 11.

VER. 4. Adam. I placed my people in a sort of paradise, (C.) like the first man; and as they have imitated him, they shall suffer accordingly. Rufin. Haimo.—But Sept., &c. render, "of a man." They shall be treated like the rest. C.—Grace draws man by sweet means. His free-will is not destroyed, nor is he impelled, like beasts, by force or fear, (W.) though the latter is often used for the most salutary purposes.—Yoke, or muzzle, which prevents them from eating. H.—I furnish them with manna. Can it be suspected that I wish to oppress them? C.

VER. 5. Egypt. Many went, contrary to this prohibition. H.—Yet they did not prosper, as they expected.

VER. 6. Heads. Heb. "counsellors." Civil war desolated the kingdom, and made way for the Assyrians. Sept. "they are devoured on account of their projects." C.

VER. 7. Off, for a long time; and indeed Israel never recovered its former state after the captivity. H.—Then they became more docile.

VER. 8. Adama, &c. Adama and Seboim were two cities in the neighbourhood of Sodom, and underwent the like destruction. Ch.

VER. 9. Not man. I am not actuated by the spirit of revenge, nor do I fear lest my enemy escape. C.—I punish in order to reclaim, (S. Jer.,) and reserve eternal vengeance only for those who die impenitent.—Holy one. If there be one just man in Israel, I will spare the nation (Gen. xviii. 22); or there are some just, like Tobias, and therefore a part shall be reserved; or, (C.) I am the just (H.) God. S. Jer.

VER. 10. Lion. His power is most terrible, and his commands must be obeyed. C.—All nations shall permit the return of Israel. H.

and the house of Israel with deceit: but Juda went down as a witness with God, and is faithful with the saints.

CHAP. XII.

Israel is reproved for sin. God's favours to them.

EPHRAIM feedeth on the wind, and followeth the burning heat: all the day long he multiplied lies and desolation: and he hath made a covenant with the Assyrians, and carried oil into Egypt.

2 Therefore there is a judgment of the Lord with Juda, and a visitation for Jacob; he will render to him according to his ways, and according to his devices.

3 In the womb he supplanted his brother: and by his strength he had success with an angel.

4 And he prevailed over the angel, and was strengthened: he wept, and made supplication to him: he found him in Bethel, and there he spoke with us.

5 Even the Lord God of hosts, the Lord is his memorial.

6 Therefore turn thou to thy God: keep mercy and judgment, and hope in thy God always.

7 He is like Chanaan, there is a deceitful balance in his hand, he hath loved oppression.

8 And Ephraim said: But yet I am become rich, I have found me an idol: all my labours shall not find me the iniquity that I have committed.

9 And I that am the Lord, thy God, from the land of Egypt, will yet cause thee to dwell in tabernacles, as in the days of the feast.

10 And I have spoken by the prophets, and I have multiplied visions, and I have used similitudes by the ministry of the prophets.

11 If Galaad be an idol, then in vain were they in Galgal offering sacrifices with bullocks: for their altars also are as heaps in the furrows of the field.

^c Gen. xxv. 25, and xxxii. 24.

VER. 12. Denials; refusing to adhere to my worship. H.—They wished to unite it with that of idols. 3 Kings xviii. C.—Saints. The priests and temple are preserved in Juda. Ezechias brought the people to serve God faithfully, while Israel was led captive. Sept. "the house of Israel and Juda with impiety. Now God hath known them lovingly, and it shall be called the holy people of God." Thus both kingdoms were criminal, and God exercised his mercy towards both. 11.

CHAP. XII. VER. 1. On. Lit. the wind. H.—To trust in men is no less vain. W.—Sept. "Ephraim is an evil spirit," &c.—Heat. Heb. "eastern or burning wind." H.—Manahem attempted to engage Egypt on his side, but he was frustrated in his hopes, (4 Kings xv. S. Jer.,) as Osee was likewise; to which king the sense conducts us better. Chap. xiii. 15.—Oil. That of Palestine was very excellent. Ezech. xxvii. 17.

VER. 2. Judgment. Heb. "trial." What follows refers to all the people, whose impiety is contrasted with Jacob's virtue.

VER. 3. Brother Esau, thus foreshowing what would happen. Gen. xxv.

VER. 4. Wept. Sept. "they wept, and besought me." Other interpreters agree with the Vulg.—Bethaven was the name of Bethel, among the pious Jews, in the days of Osee. H.

VER. 5. Memorial, and the object of worship; or this great Jehovah spoke to Jacob.

VER. 7. Chanaan. The Phœnicians were so called, and all merchants. Here the title is given reproachfully (C.) to all the posterity of Jacob. H.—Thus Rome is styled Babylon.

VER. 8. Idol. Heb. also, "vanity." Riches are vain, and lead to idolatry when people place their affections on them. Matt. xiii. 22; Eph. v. 5.—Committed. I am conscious of no injustice. C.—Yet he had used a deceitful balance and his judgment is equally perverse. H.

VER. 9. Egypt. At Sinai the covenant between God and Israel was chiefly ratified. The former ceased not to perform the conditions, but the latter repaid him with ingratitude.

VER. 10. Prophets. They have represented me as it were under visible forms, that you cannot plead ignorance. The prophets prefigured Christ, the end of the law, &c. C.

VER. 11. Idol. That is, if Galaad, with all its idols and sacrifices, be like a mere idol itself, being brought to nothing by Theglathphalassar, how vain is it to expect that the idols worshipped in Galgal shall be of any service to the tribes that 12 ^a Jacob fled into the country of Syria, and Israel served for a wife, and was a keeper for a wife.

13 ^b But the Lord, by a prophet, brought Israel out of Egypt: and he was preserved by a prophet.

14 Ephraim hath provoked me to wrath with his bitterness, and his blood shall come upon him, and his Lord will render his reproach unto him.

CHAP. XIII.

The judgments of God upon Israel for their sins. Christ shall one day redeem them.

WHEN Ephraim spoke, a horror seized Israel: and he sinned in Baal, and died.

2 And now they have sinned more and more: and they have made to themselves a molten thing of their silver, as the likeness of idols, the whole is the work of craftsmen: to those they say: Sacrifice men, ye that adore calves.

3 Therefore they shall be as a morning cloud, and as the early dew that passeth away, as the dust that is driven with a whirlwind out of the floor, and as the smoke out of the chimney.

4 ^c But I am the Lord, thy God, from the land of Egypt: and thou shalt know no God but me, and there is no saviour beside me.

5 I knew thee in the desert, in the land of the wilderness.

6 According to their pastures they were filled, and were made full: and they lifted up their heart, and have forgotten me.

7 And I will be to them as a lioness, as a leopard in the way of the Assyrians.

8 I will meet them as a bear that is robbed of her whelps, and I will rend the inner parts of their liver: and I will devour them there as a lion, the beast of the field shall tear them.

9 Destruction is thy own, O Israel: thy help is only in me.

10 Where is thy king? now especially let him save

^a Gen. xxviii. 5.—^b Exod. xiv. 21, and 22.—^c Isa. xliii. 11.

remain. Ch.—Heaps of stones. They are in ruins, or very numerous (C.): yet have not secured the country. H.

VER. 12. Jacob. The history of the patriarch, and of his posterity, serves to place the ingratitude of the people in the clearest light. W.

VER. 13. Prophet. Josue put the people in possession of the country, and offered sacrifice at Gai, where the rite of circumcision was performed. C.

CHAP. XIII. VER. 1. Spoke. When Jeroboam proposed to erect the golden calves, people were seized with horror; yet they consented, and soon after Baal and other idols were worshipped. W.

VER. 2. Calves. A cutting reproach! Those who could stoop to adore a calf, might be so blind as to sacrifice men! Heb. "sacrifice, ye men who," &c. Jeroboam issues this edict. C.—Sept. "immolate men; calves are wanting." H.

VER. 3. Away. Chap. vi. 4.—Chimney, or hole, at the side or top of the room. C.

VER. 6. Pastures: the more they were indulged. H. Deut. xxxii. 15.

VER. 8. Whelps; with the greatest fury. 2 Kings xvii. 8.—Inner. Heb. "what encloses the heart;" or, I will break their hard heart. C.

VER. 9. Own. Evils are brought on by the sins of men, which God does not cause. W.—Sept. "who will aid to prevent thy perdition, O Israel." H.

VER. 10. Princes. It was on this pretext that a king was demanded. 1 Kings vii. 20. Will any now save you? M.

VER. 11. King; Saul, Jeroboam, or the Assyrian.—Away. Osee, (C.) so that you shall have no more kings of Israel. H.—Sept. alone have, "I took (C.) or had him in," &c. S. Jer.

VER. 13. Him. He shall be taken when he least expects it. His fruit shall come forth. Jer. iv. 31.—Children. He shall have no share in the division of property, or shall not escape when the father shall bring his children to an account. C.

VER. 14. Death. This must be understood of eternal misery, from which the ^d are preserved. All must die, and many suffered a violent death from the thee in all thy cities: and thy judges, of whom thou saidst: "Give me kings and princes.

11 I will give thee a king in my wrath, and will take him away in my indignation.

12 The iniquity of Ephraim is bound up, his sin is hidden.

13 The sorrows of a woman in labour shall come upon him, he is an unwise son: for now he shall not stand in the breach of the children.

14 I will deliver them out of the hand of death. I will redeem them from death: "O death, I will be thy death, O hell, I will be thy bite: comfort is hidden from my eyes, 15 Because he shall make a separation between brothers: 'the Lord will bring a burning wind that shall rise from the desert: and it shall dry up his springs, and shall make his fountain desolate, and he shall carry off the treasure of every desirable vessel.

CHAP. XIV.

Samaria shall be destroyed. An exhortation to repentance: God's favour, through Christ, to the penitent.

LET Samaria perish, because she hath stirred up her God to bitterness: let them perish by the sword, let their little ones be dashed, and let the women with child be ript up.

2 Return, O Israel, to the Lord, thy God: for thou hast fallen down by thy iniquity.

3 Take with you words, and return to the Lord, and say to him: 'Take away all iniquity, and receive the good: and we will render the calves of our lips.

4 Assyria shall not save us, we will not ride upon horses, neither will we say any more: The works of our hands are our gods: for thou wilt have mercy on the fatherless that is in thee.

5 I will heal their breaches, I will love them freely: for my wrath is turned away from them.

6 I will be as the dew, Israel shall spring as the lily, and his root shall shoot forth as that of Libanus.

^d 1 Kings viii. 5.—^e 1 Cor. xv. 54; Heb. ii. 14.—^f Ezec. xix. 12.

Assyrians. W.—After denouncing the severest judgments, the prophet promises redress and a sort of resurrection, which was a figure of the real sufferings and rising of Jesus Christ. The apostle applies this text to him, but follows not the Heb. or Sept. 1 Cor. xv. 55. C.—Death is swallowed up in victory. O death, where is thy victory? O death, where is thy sting?—Eyes. I can find no consolation, (S. Jer.) because the people cause dissension by their perseverance in evil. Heb. also, "repentance," &c. I will utterly destroy Ephraim; or rather, "vengeance . . because he shall flourish," &c. If Ephraim would repent, this should not take place; but now, the Lord will bring Salmanasar, a burning wind. Ver. 15. C.

VER. 15. Springs of death; or the sins which Christ, born of a virgin, shall destroy, and liberate the vessels of election from hell. S. Jer. H.

CHAP. XIV. VER. 1. Perish, because she hath stirred up her God to bitterness. It is not a curse or imprecation, but a prophecy of what should come to pass (Ch.) to Israel, in Assyria. Many such expressions occur. Psal. lxxviii. 25, &c. S. Jer.—Sometimes they are the effects of zeal, conformable to Divine justice. Psal. cxi. 6. W.—Heb. "Samaria has sinned, or shall perish." C.—Bitterness Sept. "she hath resisted her God." H.

VER. 3. Words. In captivity, legal victims cannot be offered. C.—But a contrite heart is always acceptable. Psal. i.—Good. While engaged in sin, (H.) "we can offer thee nothing good."—Calves: victims of praise. S. Jer.—Heb. prim. Sept. omit m. (H.) and render fruit. They are followed by the Arab. and Syr., as well as by the apostle. Heb. xiii. 15. C.

VER. 4. Gods. The Assyrians, instead of protecting, oppress us; while Egypt, famous for horses, sits unconcerned. C.—In thee: adheres to the true faith in practice. H.

VER. 5. Breaches, when Israel shall be converted, as some were to Christ, and many will be at the end of the world. W.—Heb. "their return." Sept "dwellings." They shall be purified.

7 His branches shall spread, and his glory shall be as the olive-tree: and his smell as that of Libanus.

8 They shall be converted, that sit under his shadow: they shall live upon wheat, and they shall blossom as a vine: his memorial shall be as the wine of Libanus.

9 Ephraim shall say, What have I to do any more with VER. 6. Dew. Israel has been like a plant dried up. Chap. xiii. 15.—Libanus. The cedars were tall and bulky, being well rooted.

VER. 7. Glory. Sept. "he shall be as fruitful as the olive-tree."

VER. 8. His. This may refer to the tree, or to God. The captives shall return, and be happy. But in a more sublime sense it refers to the nations which shall embrace the gospel.

idols? I will hear him, and I will make him flourish like a green fir-tree: from me is thy fruit found.

10 Who is wise, and he shall understand these things? prudent, and he shall know these things? for the ways of the Lord are right, and the just shall walk in them: but the transgressors shall fall in them.

VER. 9. Idols? or God will no more reproach them, as their conversion is sincere.—Make. Heb. "be to him like," &c. C.

VER. 10. Wise. This denotes the obscurity of the prophecy. Theod.—No human wit can explain the prophets; yet the just shall understand as much as shall be necessary. S. Jer. S. Aug. de Civ. Dei, xviii. 28. W

THE PROPHECY OF JOEL.

JOEL, whose name, according to S. Jerom, signifies the Lord God, (or, as others say, the coming down of God,) prophesied about the same time in the kingdom of Juda as Osee did in the kingdom of Israel. He foretells, under figures, the great evils that were coming upon the people for their sins; earnestly exhorts them to repentance; and comforts them with the promise of a teacher of justice, viz. Christ Jesus, our Lord, and of the coming down of his Holy Spirit (Ch.) upon the hundred and twenty faithful assembled in Sion. He describes the land of the twelve tribes made desolate, and the people cast off. S. Jer. ad Paulin.—Yet he speaks chiefly of the kingdom of Juda, and mentions the house of God, sacrifices, &c. W.—S. Jerom infers from his being placed after Osee, without any fresh title, (C.) that he lived in that order of time. W.—But this rule is not general, as Jonas lived before Amos; and Sept. observe not the same disposition of the prophets as we do. He paints every thing with great force and beauty of style. C.

CHAPTER I.

The prophet describes the judgments that shall fall upon the people, and invites them to fasting and prayer.

THE word of the Lord, that came to Joel, the son of Phatuel.

2 Hear this, ye old men, and give ear, all ye inhabitants of the land: did this ever happen in your days, or in the days of your fathers?

3 Tell ye of this to your children, and let your children tell their children, and their children to another generation.

4 That which the palmer-worm hath left, the locust hath eaten: and that which the locust hath left, the bruchus hath eaten: and that which the bruchus hath left, the mildew hath destroyed.

5 Awake, ye that are drunk, and weep, and mourn, all ye that take delight in drinking sweet wine: for it is cut off from your mouth.

6 For a nation is come up upon my land, strong, and without number: his teeth are like the teeth of a lion: and his cheek-teeth as of a lion's whelp.

7 He hath laid my vineyard waste, and hath pillled off the bark of my fig-tree: he hath stripped it bare, and cast it away: the branches thereof are made white.

* A. M. circiter 3204, A. C. 800.

CHAP. I. VER. 1. Phatuel. Sept. "Bathuel." He was born in the tribe of Gad, at Bethaven, the town which Herod styled Livias. Jos. xiii. 27. C.

VER. 2. Men. Magistrates, and all who have children. H.—He speaks to Juda, as the kingdom of Israel was ruined. Chap. iii. 2.

VER. 4. Left, &c. Some understand this literally of the desolation of the land by these insects; others understand it of the different invasions of the Chaldeans, or other enemies. Ch.—Jerusalem was four times plundered by the Babylonians, and every time worse than before, as these four sorts of destructive things show.—Others suppose that the Assyrians, Chaldeans, Greeks, (particularly Epiphanes,) and Romans, are meant. We explain it simply of the devastation by insects. C.—Mildew. Heb. ēsil, (H.) is often rendered "a locust," by Sept. (chap. ii. 25, &c.,) and most suppose this is here the sense. The mildew destroys corn chiefly in low damp situations. C.

8 Lament like a virgin girded with sackcloth for the husband of her youth.

9 Sacrifice and libation is cut off from the house of the Lord: the priests, the Lord's ministers, have mourned:

10 The country is destroyed, the ground hath mourned: for the corn is wasted, the wine is confounded, the oil hath languished.

11 The husbandmen are ashamed, the vine-dressers have howled for the wheat, and for the barley, because the harvest of the field is perished.

12 The vineyard is confounded, and the fig-tree hath languished: the pomegranate-tree, and the palm-tree, and the apple-tree, and all the trees of the field are withered: because joy is withdrawn from the children of men.

13 Gird yourselves, and lament, O ye priests, howl, ye ministers of the altars: go in, lie in sackcloth, ye ministers of my God: because sacrifice and libation is cut off from the house of your God.

14 ^bSanctify ye a fast, call an assembly, gather together the ancients, all the inhabitants of the land into the house of your God: and cry ye to the Lord:

15 Ah, ah, ah, for the day: because the day of the Lord is at hand, and it shall come like destruction from the mighty.

^b Infra, ii. 15.

VER. 6. Nation. Some understand the Assyrians or Chaldeans. But locusts are here styled a nation. Prov. xxx. 25.—Lion. Such locusts are described, Apoc. ix. 8. C.

VER. 8. Youth, whom she espoused first. Such are more tenderly loved particularly where polygamy prevails. C.

VER. 9. Lord. No harvest being reaped, the fruits could not be paid. Yet it is thought that what was requisite for sacrifice would be procured from other countries. C.

VER. 13. Go in to the temple, or sleep on sackcloth, Judith iv. 9. C.

VER. 14. Sanctify. Appoint (H.) or proclaim a general fast, as was usual in such emergencies. 3 Kings xxi. 9, and 2 Par. xx. 2. Fasting and other good works are calculated to appease God's wrath. W.

VER. 16. God. None can bring the first-fruits. All appear in mourning.

16 Is not your food cut off before your eyes, joy and gladness from the house of our God?

17 The beasts have rotted in their dung, the barns are destroyed, the store-houses are broken down: because the corn is confounded.

18 Why did the beast groan, why did the herds of cattle low? because there is no pasture for them: yea, and the flocks of sheep are perished.

19 To thee, O Lord, will I cry: because fire hath devoured the beautiful places of the wilderness, and the flame hath burnt all the trees of the country.

20 Yea, and the beasts of the field have looked up to thee, as a garden bed that thirsteth after rain, for the springs of waters are dried up, and fire hath devoured the beautiful places of the wilderness.

CHAP. II.

The prophet foretells the terrible day of the Lord: exhorts sinners to a sincere conversion: and comforts God's people with promises of future blessings under Christ.

BLOW ye the trumpet in Sion, sound an alarm in my holy mountain, let all the inhabitants of the land tremble: because the day of the Lord cometh, because it is nigh at hand.

2 A day of darkness, and of gloominess, a day of clouds and whirlwinds: a numerous and strong people as the morning spread upon the mountains: the like to it hath not been from the beginning, nor shall be after it, even to the years of generation and generation.

3 Before the face thereof a devouring fire, and behind it a burning flame: the land is like a garden of pleasure before it, and behind it a desolate wilderness, neither is there any one that can escape it.

4 The appearance of them is as the appearance of horses, and they shall run like horsemen.

5 They shall leap like the noise of chariots upon the tops of mountains, like the noise of a flame of a fire devouring the stubble, as a strong people prepared to battle.

6 At their presence the people shall be in grievous pains: all faces shall be made like a kettle.

7 They shall run like valiant men: like men of war they shall scale the wall: the men shall march every one

* Isa. xlii. 10; Ezech. xxxii. 7; Infra, iii. 15; Matt. xxiv. 29; Mark xlii. 24; Luke xxi. 25.

VER. 17. Houses. Heb. mongruth. Prot. "barns, (H.) or country-houses;" which means cabins erected for the season, (Ruth ii. 7,) the Magaria (C.) or Mopalia of the Africans. S. Jer. pref. Amos.—Sept. "the wine-presses." Wine and corn were preserved in pits carefully covered over. Agg. ii. 20. These fell to decay, as there was nothing to do with them.

CHAP. II. VER. 1. Blow. The prophets often order, to signify what will take place. W.—The people were gathered by the sound of trumpets. The danger from the locusts was imminent; and all are exhorted to avert it, by praying in the temple, &c.—Tremble at the sound. Amos iii. 6. C.—Lord. That is, the time when he will execute justice on sinners, (Ch.) and suffer affliction to fall upon them. W. Chap. i. 15.

VER. 2. Darkness. This implies great misery. Ver. 10. C.—People. The Assyrians or Chaldeans. Others understand all this of the army of locusts laying waste the land. Ch.—Morning; unexpectedly, (C.) and soon. H.—No human force can prevent the ravages of the locusts.—Beginning, in Palestine. Moses says the same; but speaks of Egypt. Exod. x. 14.

VER. 3. Flame. They destroy all by their bite. Chap. i. 12. C. Theod.—Pleasure. Heb. "Eden." So luxuriant was Palestine.

VER. 7. Ranks. Locusts march like a regular army. Theod.—No fortification can keep them out. H.

VER. 8. Brother. S. Jerom saw a cloud of them in Judea. They were not a finger-nail's breadth from each other." C.—The Arabs discover the military art in them. Bochart.—Windows. They eat the wood, (H.) and the windows were simple lattices or curtains. C.—Heb. "they fall upon the sword, and shall not be hurt." Sept. "consumed or filled." H.—They are never satisfied. Theod.

on his way, and they shall not turn aside from their ranks.

8 No one shall press upon his brother: they shall walk every one in his path: yea, and they shall fall through the windows, and shall take no harm.

9 They shall enter into the city: they shall run upon the wall, they shall climb up the houses, they shall come in at the windows, as a thief.

10 At their presence the earth hath trembled, the heavens are moved: *the sun and moon are darkened, and the stars have withdrawn their shining.

11 And the Lord hath uttered his voice before the face of his army: for his armies are exceedingly great, for they are strong, and execute his word: *for the day of the Lord is great and very terrible: and who can stand it?

12 Now, therefore, saith the Lord: Be converted to me with all your heart, in fasting, and in weeping, and mourning.

13 And rend your hearts, and not your garments, and turn to the Lord your God: *for he is gracious and merciful, patient and rich in mercy, and ready to repent of the evil.

14 *Who knoweth but he will return, and forgive, and leave a blessing behind him, sacrifice and libation to the Lord your God?

15 Blow the trumpet in Sion, *sanctify a fast, call a solemn assembly, 16 Gather together the people, sanctify the church, assemble the ancients, gather together the little ones, and them that suck at the breasts: let the bridegroom go forth from his bed, and the bride out of her bride-chamber.

17 Between the porch and the altar the priests, the Lord's ministers, shall weep, and shall say: Spare, O Lord, spare thy people: and give not thy inheritance to reproach, that the heathens should rule over them. Why should they say among the nations: Where is their God?

18 The Lord hath been zealous for his land, and hath spared his people.

19 And the Lord answered, and said to his people: Behold I will send you corn, and wine, and oil, and you

b Jer. xxx. 7; Amos v. 18; Soph. i. 15.—c Psal. lxxxv. 5; John iv. 2. d John iii. 9.—e Supra, i. 14.

VER. 10. Shining. The cloud of locusts intercepts the light; or, people in distress think all nature is in confusion. S. Jer. Ezech. xxxii.; Jer. iv. 23.—They frequently occasion a famine in Ethiopia. C.

VER. 11. Voice; thunder, (H.) or the noise of locusts. Ver. 5. C.

VER. 12. Mourning. For moving the heart to repentance these external works are requisite, at least in will: if they be wilfully omitted, it is a sure sign that the heart is not moved. S. Jer. W.

VER. 13. Garments, as was customary in great distress. God will not be satisfied with mere external proofs of repentance. C.—Evil. He will forego his threats if we do penance. S. Jer.—He punishes unwillingly. Isa. xxviii. 21.

VER. 14. Who knoweth. Confidence in God and repentance must accompany prayer.—Blessing; plentiful crops, so that the usual sacrifices may be performed again. Chap. i. 9.

VER. 15. Trumpet. Thus were festivals announced. Num. x. 7.

VER. 16. Sanctify. Let all make themselves ready to appear.

VER. 17. Altar of holocausts. They turned towards the holy place, lying prostrate. 1 Esd. x. 1, and 2 Mac. x. 26. C.

VER. 18. Zealous. Indignation is excited when a person perceives any thing contemned which he loves. So God resented the injuries done maliciously by the Gentiles towards his people; though he often punished them for their correction or greater merit. W.—He will resent the blasphemies uttered by infidels against his holy name, and will restore fertility to the land. C.

VER. 19. Nations. This did not take place till after the seventy years' captivity, nor then fully. It is verified in true believers, and after death in the glory of the saints. W.

shall be filled with them: and I will no more make you a reproach among the nations.

20 And I will remove far off from you the northern enemy: and I will drive him into a land unpassable, and desert, with his face towards the east sea, and his hinder part towards the utmost sea: and his stench shall ascend, and his rottenness shall go up, because he hath done proudly.

21 Fear not, O land, be glad, and rejoice: for the Lord hath done great things.

22 Fear not, ye beasts of the fields: for the beautiful places of the wilderness are sprung, for the tree hath brought forth its fruit, the fig-tree and the vine have yielded their strength.

23 And you, O children of Sion, rejoice, and be joyful in the Lord your God: because he hath given you a teacher of justice, and he will make the early and the latter rain to come down to you as in the beginning.

24 And the floors shall be filled with wheat, and the presses shall overflow with wine, and oil.

25 And I will restore to you the years which the locust, and the bruchus, and the mildew, and the palmer-worm hath eaten; my great host which I sent upon you.

26 And you shall eat in plenty, and shall be filled: and you shall praise the name of the Lord your God, who hath done wonders with you, and my people shall not be confounded for ever.

27 And you shall know that I am in the midst of Israel: and I am the Lord your God, and there is none besides: and my people shall not be confounded for ever.

28 And it shall come to pass after this, ^athat I will pour out my spirit upon all flesh: and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy: your old men shall dream dreams, and your young men shall see visions.

29 Moreover, upon my servants and handmaids in those days I will pour forth my spirit.

30 And I will show wonders in heaven; and in earth, blood, and fire, and vapour of smoke.

31 ^bThe sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood: before the great and dreadful day of the Lord doth come.

32 And it shall come to pass, ^cthat every one that shall call upon the name of the Lord, shall be saved: for in ^a Isa. xlv. 3; Acts ii. 17.

VER. 20. The northern enemy. Some understand this of Holofernes and his army, others of the locusts. Ch.—Prot. “the northern army.” Heb. may denote (H.) wind. This often drives away locusts. Those here spoken of were drowned in the Mediterranean and Dead Seas. C.—Proudly. Heb. “great things.” God, or the locusts are meant.

VER. 22. Strength; fruit, as formerly.

VER. 23. Teacher; Joel, &c., or rather the Messiah. John i. 9; Matt. xxiii. 8.

VER. 25. Host. God could have hurled his thunderbolts, or mountains, to destroy all mankind; but he chooses to show their insignificance, (C.) by employing the vilest insects, which they cannot withstand. S. Jer.

VER. 28. After. From this verse to the end, the prophet speaks of the times succeeding the captivity, and more especially of the propagation of the gospel. The enemies of God's people shall be destroyed, (chap. iii. 1,) which seems to refer to Cambyzes. Eze. xxxviii. C.—My spirit. This plainly foretells the coming of the Holy Ghost. Acts ii. W.—The Jews had never such a multitude of prophets after the captivity as the Church had. 1 Cor. xiv. 24.

VER. 30. Wonders. Many prodigies preceded the persecution of Epiphanes, the death of Christ, the ruin of the temple, and more will be seen before the day of judgment. Though we cannot prove the same with respect to Cambyzes, it suffices that the people were thrown into the utmost consternation, (ver. 2, 11,) when he forbade the building of the temple, (1 Esd. iv. 6,) and designed to plunder them. Ezechiel (xxxviii. 11) speaks of the same event, as the Jews assert.

Mount Sion, and in Jerusalem shall be salvation, as the Lord hath said, and in the residue whom the Lord shall call.

CHAP. III.

The Lord shall judge all nations in the valley of Josaphat. The evils that shall fall upon the enemies of God's people: his blessing upon the Church of the saints.

FOR behold in those days, and in that time when I shall bring back the captivity of Juda, and Jerusalem:

2 I will gather together all nations, and will bring them down into the valley of Josaphat: and I will plead with them there for my people, and for my inheritance, Israel, whom they have scattered among the nations, and have parted my land.

3 And they have cast lots upon my people: and the boy they have put in the stews, and the girl they have sold for wine, that they might drink.

4 But what have you to do with me, O Tyre, and Sidon, and all the coast of the Philistines? will you revenge yourselves on me? and if you revenge yourselves on me, I will very soon return you a recompense upon your own head.

5 For you have taken away my silver, and my gold and my desirable and most beautiful things you have carried into your temples.

6 And the children of Juda, and the children of Jerusalem, you have sold to the children of the Greeks, that you might remove them far off from their own country.

7 Behold, I will raise them up out of the place wherein you have sold them: and I will return your recompense upon your own heads.

8 And I will sell your sons, and your daughters, by the hands of the children of Juda, and they shall sell them to the Sabeans, a nation far off, for the Lord hath spoken it.

9 Proclaim ye this among the nations: prepare war, rouse up the strong: let them come, let all the men of war come up.

10 Cut your plough-shares into swords, and your spades into spears. Let the weak say: I am strong.

11 Break forth, and come, all ye nations from round about, and gather yourselves together: there will the Lord cause all thy strong ones to fall down.

^b Supra, ii. 10; Matt. xxiv. 29; Luke xxi. 25; Acts ii. 10.—^c Rom. x. 13.

VER. 32. Call. Amid these fears, those who trust in the Lord shall have nothing to suffer. Cambyzes could not execute his designs. But the prophet here alludes still more to the conversion of the Gentiles. Acts ii. 21; Rom. x. 13. C.

CHAP. III. VER. 1. Back. The people were just returned when the nations around fell upon them, and were miraculously defeated. Theod.

VER. 2. Josaphat, “the judgment of the Lord,” (H.) marks the place where the Judge will sit, on the east of Jerusalem, between the temple and Olivet, whence our Lord ascended into heaven. W.—There also he had been seized and treated contumeliously. H.—But many of the Fathers assert that the whole world will be the scene of judgment, and the first author who determines the situation of Josaphat, is one in the works of V. Bede. Here it may denote the great plain reaching from Carmel to the Jordan, where the army of Cambyzes perished with its chief. People of almost all nations were there. Eze. xxxviii.

VER. 4. Me. These cities and nations had rejoiced at the ruin of the Jews. Eze. xxv. C.—Coast. Sept. “Galilee of strangers.” H.

VER. 5. Temples, or palaces. The Chaldeans had done so, and perhaps had sold some to others.

VER. 7. Them, particularly under Hystaspes and Artaxerxes.

VER. 8. Sabeans; probably at the bottom of Arabia. C.

VER. 9. Prepare. Lit. “sanctify.” H.—God sends Cambyzes to chastise Egypt. His turn will then come.

VER. 11. Down. Many perished in Egypt, the rest in Judea. Ver. 2.

12 Let them arise, and let the nations come up into the valley of Josaphat: for there I will sit to judge all nations round about.

13 "Put ye in the sickles, for the harvest is ripe: come and go down, for the press is full, the fats run over: for their wickedness is multiplied.

14 Nations, nations in the valley of destruction: for the day of the Lord is near in the valley of destruction.

15 "The sun and the moon are darkened, and the stars have withdrawn their shining.

16 "And the Lord shall roar out of Sion, and utter his voice from Jerusalem: and the heavens and the earth shall be moved, and the Lord shall be the hope of his people, and the strength of the children of Israel.

17 And you shall know that I am the Lord your God,

* Apoc. xiv. 15.—b Supra, ii. 10, and 31.

VER. 12. Valley, at Jezrehel, the valley of destruction. Ver. 14.

VER. 13. Harvest, the time of vengeance. Matt. xiii. 30; Apoc. xiv. 15. C.

VER. 14. Nations. Heb. emunim, "multitudes." H.—This alludes to the place Amona, where Gog was buried. Ezec. xxx. 15, 18. C.

VER. 15. Shining. All shall be amazed at the fall of Cambyzes. Chap. ii. 30; Ezech. xxviii. 30. A storm shall overwhelm his army. C.

VER. 18. Sweetness; oil and honey. C.—Fountain, &c., viz. the fountain of grace in the Church militant, and of glory in the Church triumphant; which shall water the torrent or valley of thorns, that is, the souls that before, like barren dwelling in Sion, my holy mountain: and Jerusalem shall be holy, and strangers shall pass through it no more.

18 And it shall come to pass in that day, "that the mountains shall drop down sweetness, and the hills shall flow with milk: and waters shall flow through all the rivers of Juda: and a fountain shall come forth of the house of the Lord, and shall water the torrent of thorns.

19 Egypt shall be a desolation, and Edom a wilderness destroyed: because they have done unjustly against the children of Juda, and have shed innocent blood in their land.

20 And Judea shall be inhabited for ever, and Jerusalem to generation and generation.

21 And I will cleanse their blood, which I had not cleansed: and the Lord will dwell in Sion.

* Jer. xxv. 30; Amos i. 2.—d Amos ix. 13.

ground, brought forth nothing but thorns, or that were afflicted with the thorns of crosses and tribulations. Ch.—Sept. have, "bands." Heb. ssetim. 11.

VER. 19. Desolation. Cambyzes laid it waste for three years, as Ochnus did afterwards.—Edom. Judas and Hircan punished them for their former barbarity. Psal. cxxxvi. 7, and 2 Mac. x. 10; Ezech. xxv. 12. C.

VER. 20. Judea and Jerusalem. That is, the spiritual Jerusalem, viz. the Church of Christ. Ch.

VER. 21. Which must be supplied in Heb. The Idumcans had been spared for a long time. But they shall not escape. Chal., &c. C.—The rites of the law could not purify, as the sacraments of Christ do. S. Jer.

THE PROPHECY OF AMOS.

AMOS prophesied in Israel about the same time as Osee, and was called from following the cattle to denounce God's judgments to the people of Israel and the neighbouring nations, for their repeated crimes, in which they continued without repentance. Ch.—The kingdom was then almost free from idolatry, except that of the calves, yet dissolute and flourishing under Jeroboam II. The prophet spoke at Bethel, (chap. vii.) till the idolatrous priest, Amasias, forced him to flee to Thecua, four leagues south of Jerusalem, where he continued to prophesy against the various nations of Damascus, Juda, &c., but particularly against Israel. Chap. i., &c. He deals in metaphors agreeably to his pastoral education, but is profound in sense. Id. ep. ad Paulin.—After denouncing judgments on different nations, he foretells the coming of Christ and abundance of grace. W.

CHAPTER I.

The prophet threatens Damascus, Gaza, Tyre, Edom, and Ammon with the judgments of God, for their obstinacy in sin.

THE "words of Amos, who was among the herdsmen of Thecua: which he saw concerning Israel in the days of Ozias, king of Juda, and in the days of Jeroboam, the son of Joas, king of Israel, "two years" before the earthquake.

2 And he said: "The Lord will roar from Sion, and utter his voice from Jerusalem: and the beautiful places of the shepherds have mourned, and the top of Carmel is withered.

* A. M. circiter, 3224, A. C. 780.—b Zac. xiv. 5.

CHAP. I. VER. 1. Herdsmen. S. Jerom's MSS. after Aquila, have "pastorals," (H.) pastoralibus. C.—King. These two lived long in prosperity. C.—Earthquake. Many understand this of a great earthquake, which, they say, was felt at the time that king Ozias attempted to offer incense in the temple. But the best chronologists prove that the earthquake here spoken of must have been before that time: because Jeroboam the Second, under whom Amos prophesied, was dead long before that attempt of Ozias. Ch.—This is asserted by Usher. Yet his arguments are not conclusive. If the attempt and earthquake happened in the twenty-third year of Ozias, Amos might commence A. 3215, six years before the death of Jeroboam. 4 Kings xv. 5; Zac. xi. 15. C.

VER. 2. Carmel. "God's vineyard," may denote any fruitful mountain Amos refers to pastoral affairs C.

3 Thus saith the Lord: For three crimes of Damascus, and for four, I will not convert it: because they have threshed Galaad with iron wains.

4 And I will send a fire into the house of Azazel, and it shall devour the houses of Benadad.

5 And I will break the bar of Damascus: and I will cut off the inhabitants from the plain of the idol, and him that holdeth the sceptre from the house of pleasure: and the people of Syria shall be carried away to Cyrene, saith the Lord.

6 Thus saith the Lord: For three crimes of Gaza, and for four, I will not convert it, because they have carried away a perfect captivity to shut them up in Edom.

* A. M. 3216, A. C. 788.—d Jer. xxv. 30; Joel iii. 16.

VER. 3. Three—four. That is, for their many unrepented-of crimes. Ch.—Convert it. That is, I will not spare them, nor turn away the punishments I design to inflict upon them. Ch.—My decree is absolute.—Wains, designed to make the corn come out, (C.) or to cut the straw. S. Jer.

VER. 4. Azazel, or Hazael, who slew his master, Benadad. H.

VER. 5. Plain. The city. "Bekath Aven," or the latter word, probably denotes Baal, as the Syrians style Baal-Bek, the city which the Greeks call Heliopolis. The valley between the two mountains extending northward is still called Bucca.—Pleasure. Heb. "Beth Aden." We find Eden in a delightful part of Libanus.—Cyrene, not in Africa, but on the river Cyrus, in Albania. 4 Kings xv. 29.

VER. 6. Edom. The Philistines and Tyrians (ver. 9) exercised this inhu

7 And I will send a fire on the wall of Gaza, and it shall devour the houses thereof.

8 And I will cut off the inhabitant from Azotus, and him that holdeth the sceptre from Ascalon: and I will turn my hand against Accaron, and the rest of the Philistines shall perish, saith the Lord God.

9 Thus saith the Lord: For three crimes of Tyre, and for four, I will not convert it: because they have shut up an entire captivity in Edom, and have not remembered the covenant of brethren.

10 And I will send a fire upon the wall of Tyre, and it shall devour the houses thereof.

11 Thus saith the Lord: For three crimes of Edom, and for four, I will not convert him: because he hath pursued his brother with the sword, and hath cast off all pity, and hath carried on his fury, and hath kept his wrath to the end.

12 I will send a fire into Theman: and it shall devour the houses of Bosra.

13 Thus saith the Lord: For three crimes of the children of Ammon, and for four, I will not convert him: because he hath ript up the woman with child, of Galaad, to enlarge his border.

14 And I will kindle a fire in the wall of Rabba: and it shall devour the houses thereof with shouting in the day of battle, and with a whirlwind in the day of trouble.

15 And Melchom shall go into captivity, both he, and his princes together, saith the Lord.

CHAP. II.

The judgments with which God threatens Moab, Juda, and Israel for their sins, and their ingratitude.

THUS saith the Lord: For three crimes of Moab, and for four, I will not convert him: because he hath burnt the bones of the king of Edom even to ashes.

2 And I will send a fire into Moab, and it shall devour the houses of Carioth: and Moab shall die with a noise, with the sound of the trumpet:

3 And I will cut off the judge from the midst thereof, and will slay all his princes with him, saith the Lord.

4 Thus saith the Lord: For three crimes of Juda, and for four, I will not convert him: because he hath cast away the law of the Lord, and hath not kept his command-manity on the Idumeans, probably before they had thrown off the yoke of Juda, under Joram, (4 Kings viii. 21,) as the Lord seems concerned for them (C.); or they sold the captive Israelites to Edom, to increase their misery. S. Jer.

^a Num. xxi. 24; Deut. ii. 24.

VER. 7. Gaza. Ozias, Ezechias, and Psummitichus, ravaged the country. 2 Par. xxvi. 6, and 4 Kings xviii. 8; Isa. xiv. 29.

VER. 9. Brethren; for Edom and the Jews sprung from the same stock.

VER. 10. Thercof. Salmanasar besieged it five years, (Menander,) and Nabuchodonosor thirteen, when he destroyed Tyre. Ezec. xxvi.

VER. 11. Secord. Edom was subdued by David, and remained tributary till Joram. It attempted to recover its liberty under Josaphat, though the Heb. text have improperly Aram. 2 Par. xx. 2, 23. The two nations were often at variance. C.

VER. 12. Houses, &c. Sept. "its foundations," (H.) or the fortified country. S. Jer.—Bozor lay towards Philadelphia, in the ancient territory of Edom.

VER. 13. Border. They pretended that Galaad belonged to them. Judg. xi. 12. David subdued Ammon; but after the division of the kingdom, they recovered their independence, and took occasion to commit these cruelties, while Israel had to contend with Syria. Jeremias (xlix. 1) speaks of a later period.

VER. 14. Rabba, the capital, called also Philadelphia. Ozias and Joatham attacked the people with advantage. C.

VER. 15. Melchom, the god or idol of the Ammonites, otherwise called Moloch, and Melech; which in Heb. signifies a king, and Melchom their king. Ch.

CHAP. II. VER. 1. Ashes. Some think that he alludes to 4 Kings iii. 27, or rather in some war the ashes of the dead were disturbed. C.

ments: for their idols have caused them to err, after which their fathers have walked.

5 And I will send a fire into Juda, and it shall devour the houses of Jerusalem.

6 Thus saith the Lord: For three crimes of Israel, and for four, I will not convert him: because he hath sold the just man for silver, and the poor man for a pair of shoes.

7 They bruise the heads of the poor upon the dust of the earth, and turn aside the way of the humble: and the son and his father have gone to the same young woman, to profane my holy name.

8 And they sat down upon garments laid to pledge by every altar: and drank the wine of the condemned in the house of their God.

9 ^aYet I cast out the Amorrhite before their face: whose height was like the height of cedars, and who was strong as an oak: and I destroyed his fruit from above, and his roots beneath.

10 ^bIt is I that brought you up out of the land of Egypt, and I led you forty years through the wilderness, that you might possess the land of the Amorrhite.

11 And I raised up of your sons for prophets, and of your young men for Nazarites. Is it not so, O ye children of Israel, saith the Lord?

12 And you will present wine to the Nazarites: and command the prophets, saying: Prophecy not.

13 Behold, I will screek under you, as a wain screeke that is laden with hay.

14 And flight shall perish from the swift, and the valiant shall not possess his strength, neither shall the strong save his life.

15 And he that holdeth the bow shall not stand, and the swift of foot shall not escape, neither shall the rider of the horse save his life.

16 And the stout of heart among the valiant shall flee away naked in that day, saith the Lord.

CHAP. III.

The evils that shall fall upon Israel for their sins.

HEAR the word that the Lord hath spoken concerning you, O ye children of Israel: concerning the whole family that I brought up out of the land of Egypt, saying:

^b Exod. xiv. 22; Deut. viii. 24.

VER. 2. Fire: war under Ozias. C.—Carioth. Sept. "the cities." Carioth has this meaning, but it was also the name of a great city. Jer. xlviii. 24. H.

VER. 4. Walked. After Solomon scarcely a good prince appeared, till the days of Amos. Juda imitated the idolatry of Israel, hoping thus to find assistance. C.

VER. 5. Fire. Under Joathan, Rasin, &c. invaded the country. Achaz increased the misery, by applying to the Assyrians. C.

VER. 7. Humble, provoking him to anger.—Name. Such ineests caused infidels to blaspheme. Lev. xviii. 8. C.

VER. 8. Altar. Herein they offended doubly, (Exod. xxii. 26,) as they used the garments of others to hide their shameful actions. 4 Kings xxiii. 7. C.—Sept. "and tying up their garments with cords, they made veils touching the altar, and drank wine procured by calumnies," (H.) or "rapine," &c. Chal.—Condemned by them unjustly, though some think that a very delicious and intoxicating wine is meant, such as was given to people in grief. Prov. xxxi. 6; Mark xv. 23.

VER. 11. Nazarites. Some went secretly to Jerusalem for this purpose; perhaps they performed these rites illegally at Bethel: for many parts of the law were observed, though not perfectly. Chap. iv. 4.

VER. 13. I will screek. Unable to bear any longer the enormous load of your sins, &c. The Spirit of God, as S. Jerom takes notice, accommodates himself to the education of the prophet, and inspires him with comparisons taken from country affairs. Ch.—Sept. "I am overturned." Heb. "pressed." C.

CHAP. III. VER. 1. Family, including all the posterity of Jacob. W.—H afterwards addresses the ten tribes in particular. S. Jer. C.

2 You only have I known of all the families of the earth: therefore will I visit upon you all your iniquities.

3 Shall two walk together, except they be agreed?

4 Will a lion roar in the forest, if he have no prey? will the lion's whelp cry out of his den, if he have taken nothing?

5 Will the bird fall into the snare upon the earth, if there be no fowler? Shall the snare be taken up from the earth, before it hath taken somewhat?

6 Shall the trumpet sound in a city, and the people not be afraid? Shall there be evil in a city, which the Lord hath not done?

7 For the Lord God doth nothing without revealing his secret to his servants, the prophets.

8 The lion shall roar, who will not fear? The Lord God hath spoken, who shall not prophesy?

9 Publish it in the houses of Azotus, and in the houses of the land of Egypt: and say: Assemble yourselves upon the mountains of Samaria, and behold the many follies in the midst thereof, and them that suffer oppression in the inner rooms thereof.

10 And they have not known to do the right thing, saith the Lord, storing up iniquity, and robberies in their houses.

11 Therefore, thus saith the Lord God: The land shall be in tribulation, and shall be compassed about: and thy strength shall be taken away from thee, and thy houses shall be spoiled.

12 Thus saith the Lord: As if a shepherd should get out of the lion's mouth two legs, or the tip of the ear: so shall the children of Israel be taken out that dwell in Samaria, in a piece of a bed, and in the couch of Damascus.

13 Hear ye, and testify in the house of Jacob, saith the Lord, the God of hosts:

14 That in the day when I shall begin to visit the transgressions of Israel, I will visit upon him, and upon the altars of Bethel: and the horns of the altars shall be cut off, and shall fall to the ground.

15 And I will strike the winter-house with the summerhouse: and the houses of ivory shall perish, and many houses shall be destroyed, saith the Lord.

CHAP. IV.

The Israelites are reproved for their oppressing the poor, for their idolatry, and their incorrigibility.

HEAR this word, ye fat kine that are in the mountains of Samaria: you that oppress the needy, and crush the poor: that say to your masters: Bring, and we will drink.

2 The Lord God hath sworn by his holiness, that lo the days shall come upon you, when they shall lift you up on pikes, and what shall remain of you in boiling pots.

3 And you shall go out at the breaches, one over against the other, and you shall be cast forth into Armon, saith the Lord.

4 Come ye to Bethel, and do wickedly: to Galgal, and multiply transgressions: and bring in the morning your victims, your tithes in three days.

5 And offer a sacrifice of praise with leaven: and call free offerings, and proclaim it: for so you would do, O children of Israel, saith the Lord God.

6 Whereupon I also have given you dulness of teeth in all your cities, and want of bread in all your places: yet you have not returned to me, saith the Lord.

7 I also have withholden the rain from you, when there were yet three months to the harvest: and I caused it to rain upon one city, and I caused it not to rain upon another city: one piece was rained upon: and the piece whereupon I rained not, withered.

8 And two and three cities went to one city to drink water, and were not filled: yet you returned not to me, saith the Lord.

9 I struck you with a burning wind, and with mildew, the palmer-worm hath eaten up your many gardens, and your vineyards: your olive-groves, and fig-groves: yet you returned not to me, saith the Lord.

10 I sent death upon you in the way of Egypt, I slew your young men with the sword, even to the captivity of a Agg. ii. 13.

VER. 2. Known, with love, (H.) and favoured with the law, &c. Above all, styling you my people. Exod. xiv. 6; Ezec. xx. 5. C.—Visit. That is, punish. Ch.

VER. 3. Agreed? As they cannot do this well, so neither can man be acceptable to God, unless he keep his laws. W.—The prophet here proves his mission, intimating that if he were not inspired, he would soon be open to detection. He had been banished from Bethel. Chap. vii.

VER. 5. Somewhat? When the prophet speaks, has he not reason? God shows that he has sent him, by inflicting the punishments which he denounces.

VER. 6. Afraid? Yet you can hear these terrible truths without consternation! Will you therefore escape? C.—Evil. He speaks of the evil of punishments of war, famine, pestilence, desolation, &c., but not of the evil of sin, of which God is not the author. Ch.

VER. 7. Prophets. In vain then would you silence them. Chap. ii. 12, and vii. 12.

VER. 9. Azotus. Sept. "Assyrians."—Follies. Sept. "wonders." Let your greatest enemies know what crimes you commit against yourselves (H.) and others.

VER. 11. About, as oxen tread out corn, going round a tree. C.—Sept. "Tyre even all around, thy land shall be a desert." Tsor means "Tyre and tribulation," according to St. Jerom's master. H.

VER. 12. Bar: things of small value. Thus few even of the poor will escape the Assyrians. M.—Damascus. Jeroboam II. subdued Damascus, and reigned in prosperity. Who would then have thought that Israel should so soon be removed into Media? C.

VER. 14. Bethel. Manahem seems to have sent one of the calves to engage Phul to come to his assistance. Osee x. 5 and 4 Kings xv. 19. Salmanasar bad both. Osee viii. 5.—Horns, made of brass which the Assyrian carried off. C.

VER. 15. Winter. Sept. "winged house," to keep off cold, (S. Jer.), or to give air. C.—Summer-house. The noblemen had such in cooler regions. M.—The kings of Persia passed the summer at Ecbatana. Xen. Cyr. 8.—Ivory. Many ornaments of this nature appeared in them, (C.) whence Achab's palace was so called. 3 Kings xxii. 39. II.

CHAP. IV. VER. 1. Fat kine. He means the great ones that lived in plenty and wealth, (Ch.) and without restraint, (Isa. xv. 5; Jer. xlv. 20. C.) having no compassion for the poor. W.

VER. 2. Holiness. He has none but himself to swear by. Heb. vi. 13. His word is infallible; but he condescends to use an oath to make a deeper impression on man.—Pikes: spits, or large shields.

VER. 3. Breaches of the city. C.—Sept. "naked." Heb. "apart." H.—The victors shall divide you among them. C.—Armon, a foreign country; some understand it of Armenia, (Ch.) and this is the general opinion. M.

VER. 4. Galgal. Thither the people went of their own accord, as to a place of devotion. Osee iv. 15. Amos ironically tells them to proceed, as Christ addressed the Jews. Matt. xxiii. 32. C.—Morning, with haste.—Three days. This also may denote the false exactitude of the Israelites to perform what God did not require, while they neglected the most essential duties, like the Pharisees.

VER. 5. With. Heb. mémpts, (H.) also "without leaven." It was expressly forbidden, (Lev. ii. 11,) though not in the first-fruits. Lev. xxiii. 17.—It, to beg that God would remember you. Num. x. 10. Hence the Pharisees did so when they gave alms, (Matt. vi. 2. C.) but out of ostentation. H.

VER. 6. Dulness, (stuporem), as when the teeth have bitten at a stone (H.) and are edged. Jer. xxxi. 29. Sept. "gnashing." Heb. "cleanness," through want of food. Eliseus foretold a famine under Achab. 4 Kings viii. 1. That of Joel (i.) seems to have happened later than this. C.

VER. 7. Months. The latter rain falls in April. See Deut. xi. 14. C.—Harvest. Sept. have as usual, "vintage." But this is less accurate, as it never rains in the preceding summer months. S. Jer.

VER. 10. Egypt, as I punished the Egyptians, (C.) or the Hebrews, whence they came thence, and wished to return. Chal. S. Cyr.—Horses. I have deprived you of them, (H.) under Achab and Joachaz. 4 Kings vi. and xiii.

your horses : and I made the stench of your camp to come up into your nostrils : yet you returned not to me, saith the Lord.

11 I destroyed some of you, *as God destroyed Sodom and Gomorrha, and you were as a firebrand plucked out of the burning : yet you returned not to me, saith the Lord.

12 Therefore I will do these things to thee, O Israel : and after I shall have done these things to thee, be prepared to meet thy God, O Israel.

13 For behold, he that formeth the mountains, and createth the wind, and declareth his word to man, he that maketh the morning mist, and walketh upon the high places of the earth ; the Lord, the God of hosts, is his name.

CHAP. V.

A lamentation for Israel : an exhortation to return to God.

HEAR ye this word, which I take up concerning you for a lamentation. The house of Israel is fallen, and it shall rise no more.

2 The virgin of Israel is cast down upon her land, there is none to raise her up.

3 For thus saith the Lord God : The city, out of which came forth a thousand, there shall be left in it a hundred : and out of which there came a hundred, there shall be left in it ten, in the house of Israel.

4 For thus saith the Lord to the house of Israel : Seek ye me, and you shall live.

5 But seek not Bethel, and go not into Galgal, neither shall you pass over to Bersabee : for Galgal shall go into captivity, and Bethel shall be unprofitable.

6 Seek ye the Lord, and live : lest the house of Joseph be burnt with fire, and it shall devour, and there shall be none to quench Bethel.

7 You that turn judgment into wormwood, and forsake justice in the land.

8 Seek him that maketh Arcturus, and Orion, and that turneth darkness into morning, and that changeth day into night : ^bthat calleth the waters of the sea, and poureth them out upon the face of the earth : The Lord is his name.

* Gen. xix. 24.—^b Infra, ix. 6.—^c Soph. i. 13.—^d Psal. xcvi. 10; Rom. xii. 9.

VER. 11. Burning. This comparison shows the condition of Israel. Hardly any escaped. Zac. iii. 2, and 1 Cor. iii. 15. C.

VER. 12. These. He mentions not what, to keep them in greater suspense and dread (S. Jer.); or he will put in execution what he had threatened before. Ver. 2.

CHAP. V. VER. 1. Lamentation. Such canticles were usual. Isa. xiv.—Israel. It no longer formed a separate kingdom. C.—When the people fear no evil, God laments for them. W.

VER. 3. City, before (C.) or after the captivity. It required a long time to fill the cities as they had been. H.—When the Assyrians invaded the country, it was greatly reduced. C.

VER. 5. Bethel, . . Galgal, . . Bersabee. The places where they worshipped their idols. Ch.—They had all been honoured by the patriarchs. Bersabee had belonged to Juda under Achab. 3 Kings xix. 3. But it was originally in the tribe of Simeon, and Jeroboam II. recovered all that had been lost. 4 Kings xiv. 25. C.—Unprofitable. Heb. Laun, “for vanity,” (H.) Bethaven.

VER. 6. Joseph. His two grandchildren gave name to the principal tribes of the kingdom.—Bethel. Sept. “Israel,” which seems preferable. C.—Yet Bethel may stand, as it denotes the apostate Israelites.

VER. 7. You. Sept. “the Lord [God], who does judgment on high, and has placed justice on the earth; (8) who maketh and transformeth all things, and arneth,” &c. H.—Heb. agrees with the Vulg. C.

VER. 8. Arcturus and Orion. Arcturus is a bright star in the north, Orion a beautiful constellation in the south. Ch.—Shepherds in Arabia and Spain are well acquainted with the stars. C.—Morning, affording comfort. Chap. iv. 13.—Earth, by floods (C.) or rain. S. Jer.

9 He that with a smile bringeth destruction upon the strong, and waste upon the mighty.

10 They have hated him that rebuked in the gate : and have abhorred him that speaketh perfectly.

11 Therefore, because you robbed the poor, and took the choice prey from him : “you shall build houses with square stone, and shall not dwell in them : you shall plant most delightful vineyards, and shall not drink the wine of them.

12 Because I know your manifold crimes, and your grievous sins : enemies of the just, taking bribes, and oppressing the poor in the gate.

13 Therefore the prudent shall keep silence at that time, for it is an evil time.

14 Seek ye good, and not evil, that you may live : and the Lord, the God of hosts, will be with you, as you have said.

15 ^aHate evil, and love good, and establish judgment in the gate : it may be the Lord, the God of hosts, may have mercy on the remnant of Joseph.

16 Therefore, thus saith the Lord, the God of hosts, the sovereign Lord : In every street there shall be wailing : and in all places that are without, they shall say : Alas, alas ! and they shall call the husbandmen to mourning, and such as are skilful in lamentations to lament.

17 And in all vineyards there shall be wailing : because I will pass through in the midst of thee, saith the Lord.

18 ^aWoe to them that desire the day of the Lord : to what end is it for you ? the day of the Lord is darkness, and not light.

19 As if a man should flee from the face of a lion, and a bear should meet him : or enter into the house, and lean with his hand upon the wall, and a serpent should bite him.

20 Shall not the day of the Lord be darkness, and not light : and obscurity, and no brightness in it ?

21 ^aI hate, and have rejected your festivities : and I will not receive the odour of your assemblies.

22 And if you offer me holocausts, and your gifts, I will not receive them : neither will I regard the vows of your fat beasts.

* Jer. xxx. 7; Joel ii. 11; Soph. i. 15.—^a Isa. i. 11; Jer. vi. 20; Mal. i. 12.

VER. 9. With a smile. That is, with all ease, and without making any effort. Ch.

VER. 10. They, the wicked could not endure Amos, (chap. vii. 12,) nor those who rebuked them.

VER. 12. Grievous. Heb. also, “numerous.”

VER. 13. Time. It is to no purpose speaking to the deaf, (Eccli. xxxii. 9,) or throwing pearls before swine. Matt. vii. 6.

VER. 14. Said. Probably Amasias took occasion, from the flourishing state of the kingdom, to assert that the Lord approved of their conduct. C.

VER. 15. May be. God will not be wanting on his side. But this implies that man may find a difficulty in seeking good, and neglect to do it, though he may if he please, with God's assistance. W.—Remnant. Posterity. C.

VER. 18. The day. Some impudently laughed at the prophets. Isa. v. 19; Jer. xvii. 15. Others wished for the coming of the Lord, not reflecting that he would punish their guilt. C.—Thus many, through impatience, desire to die. We must rather repent, and leave our lives at God's disposal. S. Jer.

VER. 19. Serpent. All his attempts would thus prove abortive. The Israelites were not ruined by Phul, or by Theglathphalassar. But the serpent, (H.) Salmanasar, came and took them in their own houses. 4 Kings xvii. 7. C.

VER. 21. Festivities. Some were still observed. Chap. iv. 4.

VER. 22. Vows. Heb. “peace-offerings of your meries ;” a sort of oxen. 2 Kings vi. 13, and 3 Kings i. 9. Sept. “the salvation of your appearance,” or what you offer for your welfare.

VER. 23. Harp. Praise ill becomes the sinner. Eccli. xv. 9; Psal. xlix. 17.

23 Take away from me the tumult of thy songs : and I will not hear the canticles of thy harp.

24 But judgment shall be revealed as water, and justice as a mighty torrent.

25 Did you offer victims and sacrifices to me in the desert for forty years, O house of Israel ?

26 But you carried a tabernacle for your Moloch, and the image of your idols, the star of your god, which you made to yourselves.

27 And I will cause you to go into captivity beyond Damascus, saith the Lord, the God of hosts, is his name.

CHAP. VI.

The desolation of Israel, for their pride and luxury.

WOE to you that are wealthy in Sion, and to you that have confidence in the mountain of Samaria : ye great men, heads of the people, that go in with state into the house of Israel.

2 Pass ye over to Chalane, and see, and go from thence into Emath the great : and go down into Geth, of the Philistines, and to all the best kingdoms of these : if their border be larger than your border.

3 You that are separated unto the evil day : and that approach to the throne of iniquity.

4 You that sleep upon beds of ivory, and are wanton on your couches : that eat the lambs out of the flock, and the calves out of the midst of the herd.

5 You that sing to the sound of the psaltery : they have thought themselves to have instruments of music like David.

6 That drink wine in bowls, and anoint themselves with the best ointments : and they are not concerned for the affliction of Joseph.

7 Wherefore, now they shall go captive at the head of them that go into captivity : and the faction of the luxurious ones shall be taken away.

8 The Lord God hath sworn by his own soul, saith the Lord, the God of hosts : I detest the pride of Jacob,

^a Acts vii. 42.—^b Luke vi. 24.

VER. 24. Mighty. Heb. "Ethan." Let your virtue appear, or the greatest miseries will shortly overwhelm you. C.

VER. 25. Did you offer, &c. Except the sacrifices that were offered at the first, in the dedication of the tabernacle, the Israelites offered no sacrifices in the desert. Ch.—They ceased after the beginning of the second year. S. Aug. q. 47, in Ex., Lev. vii., &c. W.—God did not require sacrifices when the people came out of Egypt. Jer. vii. 22 ; Deut. xii. 8.

VER. 26. A tabernacle, &c. All this alludes to the idolatry which they committed, when they were drawn away by the daughters of Moab to the worship of their gods. Num. xxv. Ch.—They imitated the superstitions of Egypt, and bore the image of Osiris, adorned with a star and crescent, on a sort of base, under a canopy. Heb. "You carried the tents of your king and the base of your statucs, the star of your gods, which you have made for yourselves."—Chiun and Rephan are "expressive of the same" god or idol, representing the machine of the heavens. The people of Peru worshipped Choun. Parkhurst, p. 137.—Remvan may be Remmon, (4 Kings v. 18,) or Saturn. Grot.—In a Coptic alphabet of the planets it is thus explained (De Dieu, Collier, Dict. Sept., and Acts) : "You have taken the tabernacle of Moloch, and the star of your god Rempham, figures," &c. Prot. marg. "the Necuth, your king, and Chiun, your images, the star," &c. H.

CHAP. VI. VER. 1. Wealthy. Sept., Syr., and Arab., "despisers of Sion." Heb. also, "who hate Sion." The prophecy wholly regards Israel. C.—State. Heb. "to whom the house of Israel comes" for judgment.

VER. 2. Chalane. Ctesiphon (C.) was built on its ruins. Gen. x. 10. H.—Why do you imitate these cities ? or, has their greatness protected them ? At that time there was no appearance of the kingdom being destroyed ; yet Amos composes a funeral canticle, to show the certainty of the event.

VER. 3. Separated. Heb. "remove the evil day," as if it would not overtake you. Ezec. xii. 22. Sept. "who are praying, (C.) or coming (Grabe) to the evil day, approaching and touching false sabbaths." H.—They pray to be delivered, while they continue (C.) their false worship. H.

VER. 4. Ivory, with which the beds for eating were adorned. Ver. 7. C.

VER. 5. David. They think they excel him in music ; but he consecrated and I hate his houses, and I will deliver up the city, with the inhabitants thereof.

9 And if there remain ten men in one house, they also shall die.

10 And a man's kinsman shall take him up, and shall burn him, that he may carry the bones out of the house : and he shall say to him that is in the inner rooms of the house : Is there yet any with thee ?

11 And he shall answer : There is an end. And he shall say to him : Hold thy peace, and mention not the name of the Lord.

12 For behold, the Lord hath commanded, and he will strike the greater house with breaches, and the lesser house with clefts.

13 Can horses run upon the rocks, or can any one plough with buffles, for you have turned judgment into bitterness, and the fruit of justice into wormwood ?

14 You that rejoice in a thing of nought : you that say : Have we not taken unto us horns by our own strength ?

15 But behold, I will raise up a nation against you, O house of Israel, saith the Lord, the God of hosts : and they shall destroy you from the entrance of Emath, even to the torrent of the desert.

CHAP. VII.

The prophet sees, in three visions, evils coming upon Israel : he is accused of treason by the false priest of Bethel.

THESE things the Lord God showed to me : and behold, the locust was formed in the beginning of the shooting up of the latter rain ; and lo, it was the latter rain after the king's mowing.

2 And it came to pass, that when they had made an end of eating the grass of the land, I said : O Lord God, be merciful, I beseech thee : who shall raise up Jacob, for he is very little ?

3 The Lord had pity upon this : It shall not be, said the Lord.

4 These things the Lord God showed to me : and be-

^c Jer. li. 14.

his talent to a better purpose. C.—Sept. "they deemed them stable, and not fugitive things." H.

VER. 6. In bowls. Sept. "refined," (H.) or cleared of the dregs.—Joseph, of their brethren, or they seem to have no share in the sufferings of mankind. Psal. lxxii. 5.

VER. 8. Jacob. God loved the humility of the patriarch, and hated the pride of his posterity. W.

VER. 9. Die. Their numbers will not protect them from the plague.

VER. 10. Burn. After the captivity, it was more common to bury or to embalm the dead. C.

VER. 11. Lord. He has done it. Do not repine. Theod. S. Cyr.—Heb. "Be silent, and not to remember thee," &c. He will offer comfort. C.—Still, none will return to the Lord. S. Jer.

VER. 13. Buffles, which cannot be tamed. Heb. "with oxen." We must understand, on rocks. C.

VER. 14. Nought; in your idols, which are nothing, (1 Cor. viii. 4,) or in your own strength, fortifications, or allies.—Horns : glory and power. C.

VER. 15. Nation ; the Assyrians.—Desert, commonly called Bezor, (C.) between Damietta and Rhinocorura. S. Jer.—The whole territory of Israel, reaching so far, (ver. 2,) shall be laid waste. C.

CHAP. VII. VER. 1. The locust, &c. These judgments by locusts and fire, which by the prophet's intercession were moderated, signify the former invasions of the Assyrians under Phul and Thelathphalassar, before the utter desolation of Israel by Salmanassar. Ch.—Locusts denoted the Assyrian invaders. 4 Kings xviii. W.—Formed. Lit. "the maker of the locust, in the beginning of the herbs shooting." &c., (H.) in spring. S. Jer.—They pasture in our January : yet the grass of autumn may be meant. The king took the best which grow in summer. C.—Sept. "and lo, a swarm of locusts coming in the morning ; and lo. one bruchus, Gog, the king," (H.) or "against king Gog." C.—Aquila has, "of the king or Gaza." He probably left the original term, (S. Jer.,) goz. H.—The invasion of the Assyrians, Chaldeans, and Scythians is insinuated. Theod.

VER. 4. Part of the land, if the prophet had not interposed (ver. 6. C.) : or hold, the Lord called for judgment unto fire, and it devoured the great deep, and eat up a part at the same time.

5 And I said: O Lord God, cease, I beseech thee: who shall raise up Jacob, for he is a little one?

6 The Lord had pity upon this: Yea, this also shall not be, said the Lord God.

7 These things the Lord showed to me: and behold, the Lord was standing upon a plastered wall, and in his hand a mason's trowel.

8 And the Lord said to me: What seest thou, Amos? And I said: A mason's trowel. And the Lord said: Behold, I will lay down the trowel in the midst of my people, Israel: I will plaster them over no more.

9 And the high places of the idol shall be thrown down, and the sanctuaries of Israel shall be laid waste: and I will rise up against the house of Jeroboam with the sword.

10 And Amasias, the priest of Bethel, sent to Jeroboam, king of Israel, saying: Amos hath rebelled against thee in the midst of the house of Israel: the land is not able to bear all his words.

11 For thus saith Amos: Jeroboam shall die by the sword, and Israel shall be carried away captive out of their own land.

12 And Amasias said to Amos: Thou seer, go, flee away into the land of Juda: and eat bread there, and prophesy there.

13 But prophesy not again any more in Bethel: because it is the king's sanctuary, and it is the house of the kingdom.

14 And Amos answered, and said to Amasias: I am not a prophet, nor am I the son of a prophet: but I am a herdsman, plucking wild figs.

15 And the Lord took me when I followed the flock, and the Lord said to me: Go, prophesy to my people, Israel.

16 And now, hear thou the word of the Lord: Thou sayest: Thou shalt not prophesy against Israel, and thou shalt not drop thy word upon the house of the idol.

17 Therefore, thus saith the Lord: Thy wife shall play the harlot in the city, and thy sons, and thy daughters shall fall by the sword, and thy land shall be measured by a line: and thou shalt die in a polluted land, and Israel shall go into captivity out of their land.

CHAP. VIII.

Under the figure of a hook, which bringeth down the fruit, the approaching desolation of Israel is foreshowed, for their avarice and injustices.

THESE things the Lord showed to me: and behold a hook to draw down the fruit.

2 And he said: What seest thou, Amos? And I said: A hook to draw down fruit. And the Lord said to me: The end is come upon my people, Israel: I will not again pass by them any more.

3 And the hinges of the temple shall screek in that day, saith the Lord God: many shall die: silence shall be cast in every place.

4 Hear this, you that crush the poor, and make the needy of the land to fail,

5 Saying: When will the month be over, and we shall sell our wares: and the sabbath, and we shall open the corn: that we may lessen the measure and increase the sicle, and may convey in deceitful balances.

6 That we may possess the needy for money, and the poor for a pair of shoes, and may sell the refuse of the corn.

7 The Lord hath sworn against the pride of Jacob: Surely I will never forget all their works.

8 Shall not the land tremble for this, and every one mourn that dwelleth therein: and rise up altogether as a river, and be cast out, and run down as the river of Egypt?

9 And it shall come to pass in that day, saith the Lord God, that the sun shall go down at mid-day, and I will make the earth dark in the day of light:

10 And I will turn your feasts into mourning, and all your songs in lamentation: and I will bring up sackcloth

* Tob. ii. 6; 1 Mac. i. 41.

rather civil wars desolated a great part of the kingdom, before the Lord was appeased. H.—The fire foreshowed the captivity of the two tribes. 4 Kings xxiv. W.

VER. 7. Plastered. Heb. "wall, made by a plumb-line, with a plumb-line in his hand." Prot. H.—But Sept., Syr., &c., seem more literal, (C.) "on a wall of adamant, and a diamond in his hand."—God appearing on such a wall, intimated that the separation between him and his people was complete. C.

VER. 8. Plaster. Sept. "I will no more pass over it." the adamantine wall. I will hide their faults no longer. H.—This third vision alluded to the distress of the ten tribes. 4 Kings xv. 20. W.

VER. 9. Idol. Heb. "Isaac." C.—Sept. "laughter." H.—Isaac had resided for some time at Bersabee, which was a place frequented by the idolaters. Chap. v. 5, and viii. 14. Josias overthrew (4 Kings xxiii. 8. C.) the profane "altars." H.—Sword. His son Zacharias was slain after six months' reign. Ver. 6. 11.

VER. 11. Sword. The prophet did not say this, but that the Lord would rise up against the house of Jeroboam with the sword; which was verified when Zacharias, the son and successor of Jeroboam, was slain by the sword. 4 Kings xv. 10. Ch.—The false prophet was therefore guilty of a lie.

VER. 12. Seer. This was the ancient title of prophets (1 Kings ix. 9. C.); but it is here used contemptuously. H.

VER. 13. Sanctuary, or "palace." Kimchi.—The kings resided commonly in Samaria: but they came hither to practise their religion, and had a palace. C.

VER. 14. I am not a prophet. That is, I am not a prophet by education: nor is prophesying my calling or profession: but I am a herdsman, whom God was pleased to send hither to prophesy to Israel. Ch.—He speaks with the like humility as the Baptist. John i. 21; Luke vii. 26. It seems the prophets usually left their trade, and applied to meditation. Zac. viii. 5. Sept. "I was not a prophet, nor," &c.

VER. 16. Drop; menaces. Ezech. xx. 46. Sept. "thou shalt not disturb (C.) or threaten the house of Jacob." S. Jer.—Idol; the calf, worshipped in Bethel. Ch.—Hob. "Isaac," as ver. 9. H.

VER. 17. Play. Symmachus has better, "shall be treated as a harlot." A "husband would rather hear that his wife had been slain than defiled." S. Jer.—Line, and divided among strangers.—Land, out of Palestine. All other countries were deemed unclean. Amasias was probably exiled, or led captive by Thelath-phalassar, as Salmanasar did not come till sixty-two years after the death of Jeroboam. C.

CHAP. VIII. VER. 1. Hook. Heb. "basket of summer fruit." Sept. "bird-cage or net." H.—Israel was ripe for destruction. Ver. 2; chap. vii. 8. C.—Not only those who were near, (4 Kings xv. 20,) but the rest also were taken, (4 Kings xvii. 6,) as we pull with a hook the fruit which we cannot reach otherwise. W.

VER. 3. Temple, when God comes like a mighty warrior; or when the profane temples shall be pillaged. Chap. ix. 1. Heb. also, "the canticles of the temple or palace shall be changed into lamentations."—Place. Heb. "a multitude of dead bodies shall be cast in every place. Keep silence." C.

VER. 5. Month: the first day was observed as a festival. Num. x. 10. H.—At the expiration of the month usurers demanded their money. Hor. i. Sat. 3. Aristop. Nub. ii. 1.—Corn, to sell after the sabbatical year, when it was dearest. Sabbath also denotes all "festivals." These misers think that there are too many.

VER. 6. Shoes, for almost nothing. Thus they forced the poor to serve, or to sell their effects.

VER. 7. Jacob, because the rich despise the poor. It may also mean, that he swore by heaven or the temple, (Lev. xxvi. 19,) or that he would destroy the high places. C.

VER. 8. Altogether. Sept. "its total ruin shall rise as a river."—Egypt. The whole land shall be visited with misery, as Egypt is by the Nile. H.—The enemy shall retire with the booty. The Nile overflows in summer, and covers Egypt for six weeks, carrying much earth with its impetuous waves. Isa. xviii. 2.

VER. 9. Light. Usher (A. 3213) explains this of an eclipse, at Pentecost. The Fathers generally understand that which accompanied the death of Christ; but it only implies great desolation and terror. Jer. xv. 9; Joel iii. 11. S. Jer., &c. C.

upon every back of yours, and baldness upon every head : and I will make it as the mourning of an only son, and the latter end thereof as a bitter day.

11 Behold the days come, saith the Lord, and I will send forth a famine into the land : not a famine of bread, nor a thirst of water, but of hearing the word of the Lord.

12 And they shall move from sea to sea, and from the north to the east : they shall go about seeking the word of the Lord, and shall not find it.

13 In that day the fair virgins and the young men shall faint for thirst.

14 They that swear by the sin of Samaria, and say : Thy God, O Dan, liveth : and the way of Bersabee liveth : and they shall fall, and shall rise no more.

CHAP. IX.

The certainty of the desolation of Israel : the restoring of the tabernacle of David, and the conversion of the Gentiles to the Church ; which shall flourish for ever.

I SAW the Lord standing upon the altar, and he said : Strike the hinges, and let the lintels be shook : for there is covetousness in the head of them all, and I will slay the last of them with the sword : there shall be no flight for them : they shall flee, and he that shall flee of them shall not be delivered.

2 Though they go down even to hell, thence shall my hand bring them out : and though they climb up to heaven, thence will I bring them down.

3 And though they be hid in the top of Carmel, I will search and take them away from thence : and though they hide themselves from my eyes in the depth of the sea, there will I command the serpent, and he shall bite them.

4 And if they go into captivity before their enemies, there will I command the sword, and it shall kill them. And I will set my eyes upon them for evil, and not for good.

5 And the Lord, the God of hosts, is he who toucheth the earth, and it shall melt : and all that dwell therein shall mourn : and it shall rise up as a river, and shall run down as the river of Egypt.

6 He that buildeth his ascension in heaven, and hath founded his bundle upon the earth : who calleth the waters of the sea, and poureth them out upon the face of the earth, the Lord is his name.

7 Are not you as the children of the Ethiopians unto me, O children of Israel, saith the Lord ? did not I bring up Israel out of the land of Egypt : and the Palestines out of Cappadocia, and the Syrians out of Cyrene ?

8 Behold, the eyes of the Lord God are upon the sinful kingdom, and I will destroy it from the face of the earth : but yet I will not utterly destroy the house of Jacob, saith the Lord.

9 For behold, I will command, and I will sift the house of Israel among all nations, as corn is sifted in a sieve : and there shall not a little stone fall to the ground.

10 All the sinners of my people shall fall by the sword : who say : The evils shall not approach, and shall not come upon us.

11 In that day I will raise up the tabernacle of David, that is fallen : and I will close up the breaches of the walls thereof, and repair what was fallen : and I will rebuild it as in the days of old.

12 That they may possess the remnant of Edom, and all nations, because my name is invoked upon them : saith the Lord, that doth these things.

13 Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, when the ploughman shall overtake the reaper, and the treader of grapes him that soweth seed : and the mountains shall drop sweetness, and every hill shall be tilled.

14 And I will bring back the captivity of my people, Israel : and they shall build the abandoned cities, and inhabit them : and they shall plant vineyards, and drink the wine of them : and shall make gardens, and eat the fruits of them. And I will plant them upon their own land : and I will no more pluck them out of their land, which I have given them, saith the Lord, thy God.

^a Psal. cxxxviii. 8.—^b Jer. xlv. 11.—^c Supra, v. 8.

^d Deut. ii. 25 ; Jer. xlvii. 4.—^e Acts xv. 16.—^f Joel iii. 18.

VER. 11. Lord. During the siege provisions were wanting, but instruction still more so. W.—Israel had banished Amos. They would be left destitute. We find no prophet among them during the captivity, except Tobias. Chap. xiii. 3. We may apply this to the state of the Jews since the death of Christ. They have no guides. C.

VER. 12. Sea to sea : from west to south, or to the ocean ; in whatever part of the world they may be. C.

VER. 14. Sin. Sept. "propitiation," which the pagans deemed requisite (Hor. l. Ode 2) ; or worship (H.) of Baal, (4 Kings xvii. 16. C.) and all the other superstitions. H.—Way. Sept. "thy God," or religion, (Acts ix. 2.) or pilgrimage to Bersabee. Chap. v. 5. Perhaps the true God was hero adored ; but it was in a manner which he condemned. C.

CHAP. IX. VER. 1. Altar, in Jerusalem. Chap. viii. 3, and i. 2. God is going to punish Israel, (C.) or the two tribes. Chal. S. Jer.—Sword. The princes and people are all guilty. Sept. "strike or cut on the heads of all." H.

VER. 2. Hell ; to the deepest caves, where they used to flee. Psal. cxxxviii. 8.

VER. 6. Ascension, or his high throne. Ch.—Sept. "the ascent, and hath founded the declaration (H.) or promise upon," &c., which must be explained in a moral sense. C.—Bundle. That is, his Church, bound up together by the bands of one faith and communion, (Ch.) which God will protect, and punish sinners. W.

VER. 7. Ethiopians. That is, as black as they, by your iniquities. Ch.—Chus was father of Scythians, Arabs, &c. Yet none of these nations were under the peculiar protection of God.—Cappadocia. Cyprus, (Gen. x. 14,) or rather Crete. 1 Kings. C.—Cyrene, (Sym.), "wall," (Th.) or "pit." Sept. Theglathphalassar took Aram or the people of Damascus into captivity. C.

VER. 9. Ground, to be mixed with the good corn. Israel shall be purified in captivity. C.

VER. 11. David. S. James, after S. Peter, explains this of the vocation of the Gentiles. Acts xv. 15. W.

VER. 12. Edom, subdued by Isaac, with the surrounding nations. The same letters may be read Adam, "man," as the Sept. have, agreeably to Acts xv. 17. C.—"That the rest of men might seek the Lord, (Grabe substitutes me,) and all the nations upon whom my," &c. Edom and all mankind shall receive the glad tidings of salvation. H.

VER. 13. Shall overtake, &c. By this is meant the great abundance of spiritual blessings ; which, as it were, by a constant succession, shall enrich the Church of Christ. Ch.—Munster, and his imitator, Clarius, see nothing but an allegory in this abundance and return, ver. 14. Yet the literal sense ought to be adopted, when it involves no contradiction. Houbigant, Pref. p. 297.—God promised a succession of crops to the faithful Israelites, (Lev. xxvi. 5,) and the return of the ten tribes is frequently specified. C.

THE PROPHECY OF ABDIAS.

ABDIAS, whose name is interpreted the servant of the Lord, is believed to have prophesied about the same time as Osee, Joel, and Amos; though some of the Hebrews, who believe him to be the same with Achab's steward, make him much more ancient. His prophecy is the shortest of any in number of words, but yields to none, says S. Jerom, in the sublimity of mysteries. It contains but one chapter. Ch.—He foretells the destruction of Edom, for its pride and enmity against the Jews; whose return and redemption of mankind are also announced. W.—Abdias seems to have prophesied after the destruction of Jerusalem, and before Nabuchodonosor attacked Edom, &c., which took place within five years. C.

CHAPTER I.

The destruction of Edom, for their pride: and the wrongs they did to Jacob: the salvation and victory of Israel.

THE vision of Abdias. Thus saith the Lord God to Edom: "We have heard a rumour from the Lord, and he hath sent an ambassador to the nations: Arise, and let us rise up to battle against him."

2 Behold, I have made thee small among the nations: thou art exceedingly contemptible.

3 The pride of thy heart hath lifted thee up, who dwellest in the clefts of the rocks, and settest up thy throne on high: who sayest in thy heart: Who shall bring me down to the ground?

4 Though thou be exalted as an eagle, and though thou set thy nest among the stars: thence will I bring thee down, saith the Lord.

5 If thieves had gone in to thee, if robbers by night, how wouldst thou have held thy peace? would they not have stolen till they had enough? if the grape-gatherers had come into thee, would they not have left thee at the least a cluster?

6 How have they searched Esau, how have they sought out his hidden things?

7 They have sent thee out even to the border: all the men of thy confederacy have deceived thee: the men of thy peace have prevailed against thee: they that eat with thee, shall lay snares under thee: there is no wisdom in him.

8 "Shall not I in that day, saith the Lord, destroy the wise out of Edom, and understanding out of the mount of Esau?"

9 And thy valiant men of the south shall be afraid, that man may be cut off from the mount of Esau.

10 "For the slaughter, and for the iniquity against thy brother, Jacob, confusion shall cover thee, and thou shalt perish for ever.

11 In the day when thou stoodest against him, when strangers carried away his army captive, and foreigners entered into his gates, and cast lots upon Jerusalem: thou also wast as one of them.

12 But thou shalt not look on in the day of thy brother, in the day of his leaving his country: and thou shalt not rejoice over the children of Juda, in the day of their destruction: and thou shalt not magnify thy mouth in the day of distress.

13 Neither shalt thou enter into the gate of my people, in the day of their ruin: neither shalt thou also look on in his evils, in the day of his calamity: and thou shalt not be sent out against his army, in the day of his desolation.

14 Neither shalt thou stand in the crossways to kill them that flee: and thou shalt not shut up them that remain of him in the day of tribulation.

15 For the day of the Lord is at hand upon all nations: as thou hast done, so shall it be done to thee: he will turn thy reward upon thy own head.

16 For as you have drunk upon my holy mountain, so all nations shall drink continually: and they shall drink and sup up, and they shall be as though they were not.

17 And in Mount Sion shall be salvation, and it shall be holy: and the house of Jacob shall possess those that possessed them.

18 And the house of Jacob shall be a fire, and the house of Joseph a flame, and the house of Esau stubble: and they shall be kindled in them, and shall devour them: and there shall be no remains of the house of Esau, for the Lord hath spoken it.

19 And they that are toward the south, shall inherit the mount of Esau, and they that are in the plains, the Phi-

* A. M. circiter 3224, A. C. 780.—b Jer. xlix. 14.

c Isa. xxix. 14; 1 Cor. i. 19.—d Gen. xxvii. 42.

CHAP. I. VER. 1. Edom. The Jews understand this of the Romans; others apply it to themselves; but it seems to speak of the Idumeans.

VER. 2. Contemptible. The nations of Chaldea, &c. were far more potent. Yet Edom must be brought still lower.

VER. 3. Rocks. Heb. "Sela," or Petra, the capital. C.—People dwell in caverns from Eleutheropolis to Ailath. S. Jer.

VER. 5. Cluster. Jer. xlix. 9. The Chaldeans take all, and remove the people. VER. 7.

VER. 7. Peace. The enemy had used their services against the Jews; but now they invade their confederates. C.

VER. 9. South. Heb. "Theman," (C.) where the Romans kept a garrison, fifteen miles south of Petra. S. Jer.

VER. 10. Slaughter. They invaded the dominions of Achaz, and incited the enemy to destroy all. 2 Par. xxviii. 17; Psal. cxxxvi. 7.

VER. 11. Captive. He alludes to the taking of Sedecias.

VER. 12. Thou shalt not look; &c., or, thou shouldst not, &c. It is a reprehension for what they had done, and at the same time a declaration that these things should not pass unpunished. Ch.—Magnify Lit. thou shalt not speak arrogantly against the children of Juda, as insulting them in their distress. (Ch.) like people mocking. When they shall be themselves afflicted, they shall cease to upbraid the Jews. C.

VER. 13. Army. Heb. also, "goods." Sept. "thou wilt not join their army in the day of ruin." H.

VER. 14. Flee. The Idumeans might easily have concealed the fugitives. But they were so inhuman as to fall upon them, (C.) or drive them back.

VER. 15. Nations around. H.

VER. 16. Drink. They shall rejoice at your fall, as you did at that of Juda (S. Jer.); or, as my people has not been spared, can you expect to escape? Jer. xlix. 12.—Not. These nations and the Chaldeans themselves were brought low, while the Jews regained the regal power.

VER. 17. Sion. This prosperity, in the historical sense, was promised to the Jews, after their return; and they enjoyed as much of it as their sins did not hinder; the rest was fulfilled in Christ. S. Jer. ad Dard. W.—Holy. Providence watched over the Jews in a particular manner, while the neighbouring nations fell a prey to the Persians, to Alexander, &c.

VER. 18. Stubble. The Jews often attacked Edom, and at last forced her to submit to the law of circumcision.—Remains. Sept. copy varv; "corn fire, or carrier." H.

istines : and they shall possess the country of Ephraim, and the country of Samaria : and Benjamin shall possess Galaad.

20 And the captivity of this host of the children of Israel, all the places of the Chanaanites, even to Sarepta :

VER. 19. Plains. Sephala. Jos. x. 40.—Samaria, which the Cutheans had occupied, till Alexander subjected them to the Jews, and Hircan asserted his authority. Jos. Ant. xiii. 18.—Galaad, east of the Jordan. Benjamin alone did not occupy this country.

VER. 20. Sarepta. This was accomplished after the persecution of Epiphanes. Bosporus. So S. Jerom's master interpreted Sepharad. But it seems rather and the captivity of Jerusalem, that is in Bosphorus, shall possess the cities of the south.

21 And saviours shall come up into Mount Sion to judge the mount of Esau : and the kingdom shall be for the Lord.

to mean a part of Mesopotamia. Sippara stands above, where the Euphrates divides its streams.

VER. 21. Saviours, the Machabees, as figures of Christ. The temporal power of the Jews ended thirty-seven years after his resurrection. C.—The rest of this prophecy (ver. 19) regards Christ's kingdom over all nations which believe in him, and receive the remission of their sins. Acts x. 43. S. Aug. de Civ. Dei, xviii. 31. W

THE

PROPHECY OF JONAS.

JONAS prophesied in the reign of Jeroboam II., as we learn from 4 Kings xiv. 25, to whom also he foretold his success in restoring all the borders of Israel. He was of Geth-Opher, in the tribe of Zabulon, and consequently of Galilee ; which confutes that assertion of the Pharisees, (John vii. 52,) that no prophet ever arose out of Galilee. He prophesied and prefigured in his own person the death and resurrection of Christ, and was the only one among the prophets who was sent to preach to the Gentiles. Ch.—The most incredible mystery in our religion, and the vocation of the Gentiles, are thus insinuated. C.

CHAPTER I.

Jonas being sent to preach in Ninive, fleeth away by sea : a tempest riseth : of which he being found, by lot, to be the cause, is cast into the sea, which thereupon is calmed.

NOW* the word of the Lord came to Jonas, the son of Amathi, saying :

2 Arise, and go to Ninive, the great city, and preach in it : for the wickedness thereof is come up before me.

3 And Jonas rose up to flee into Tharsis from the face of the Lord, and he went down to Joppe, and found a ship going to Tharsis : and he paid the fare thereof, and went down into it, to go with them to Tharsis from the face of the Lord.

4 But the Lord sent a great wind into the sea : and a great tempest was raised in the sea, and the ship was in danger to be broken.

5 And the mariners were afraid, and the men cried to their god : and they cast forth the wares that were in the ship, into the sea, to lighten it of them : and Jonas went down into the inner part of the ship, and fell into a deep sleep.

6 And the ship-master came to him, and said to him : Why art thou fast asleep ? rise up, call upon thy God, if so be that God will think of us, that we may not perish.

7 And they said every one to his fellow : Come, and let us cast lots, that we may know why this evil is upon us. And they cast lots, and the lot fell upon Jonas.

8 And they said to him : Tell us for what cause this evil is upon us, what is thy business ? of what country art thou ? and whither goest thou ? or of what people art thou ?

9 And he said to them : I am a Hebrew, and I fear the Lord, the God of heaven, who made both the sea and the dry land.

10 And the men were greatly afraid, and they said to him : Why hast thou done this ? (for the men knew that he fled from the face of the Lord : because he had told them.)

11 And they said to him : What shall we do to thee, that the sea may be calm to us ? for the sea flowed and swelled.

12 And he said to them : Take me up, and cast me into the sea, and the sea shall be calm to you : for I know that for my sake this great tempest is upon you.

13 And the men rowed hard to return to land, but they were not able : because the sea tossed and swelled upon them.

14 And they cried to the Lord, and said : We beseech thee, O Lord, let us not perish for this man's life, and lay not upon us innocent blood : for thou, O Lord, hast done as it pleased thee.

15 And they took Jonas, and cast him into the sea, and the sea ceased from raging.

CHAP. I. VER. 2. Ninive, the capital city of the Assyrian empire. Ch.—It was 150 stadia long, and 90 broad, (Diod. 2,) on the western bank of the Tigris. Pliny, vi. 13.—At the time when Jonas preached, Ninive would contain about six hundred thousand. Chap. iv. 11.—For the. Sept. add, "cry of." Gen. iv., and xviii. H.

VER. 3. Tharsis. Which some take to be Tharsus of Cilicia, others to be Tartessus of Spain, others to be Carthage. Ch.—Joppe, now Jaffa, (M.) a miserable sea-port. H.—It was formerly the best near Jerusalem, (2 Par. ii. 16,) though very dangerous. Jos. Bel. iii. 15, or 29. C.—Lord. He feared being accounted a false prophet, (W.) knowing how much God was inclined to show mercy, (chap. iv. 2,) and being disheartened at the difficulty of the undertaking, like Moses and Gedeon. C.

VER. 4. Broken. Seeing no natural cause of such a sudden tempest, they concluded (W.) that some on board must be guilty. C.

VER. 5. God. They were idolaters. Ver. 6.—Wares, which is commonly done in storms. C.—This loss was in punishment of their sins ; though they seem not devoid of some fear of God and man. H.—Sleep. This is a lively image of the insensibility of sinners, fleeing from God, and threatened on every side with his judgments ; and yet sleeping as if they were secure. Ch.

VER. 9. Fear, and therefore flee from the face of the Lord. Ver. 3, 10. H.—He knew that God is every where. Ver. 3 ; Psal. exxxiii. 8. C.—Sept. "I wor ship." Fear is often taken in this sense. H.

VER. 12. Cast me. God intimates that he required this sacrifice. M.

VER. 13. Hard. They were unwilling to destroy the prophet, (C.) fearing to incur fresh guilt by thus treating one who had intrusted his life to them. Jos. Ant. ix. 11.

VER. 14. Blood. We act thus by his direction, and through necessity.

VER. 16. Lord. They were converted by this prodigy, and offered sacrifice immediately, or (C.) when they came to port. M.

16 And the men feared the Lord exceedingly, and sacrificed victims to the Lord, and made vows.

CHAP. II.

Jonas is swallowed up by a great fish; he prayeth with confidence in God: and the fish casteth him out on the dry land.

NOW the Lord prepared a great fish to swallow up Jonas: and Jonas was in the belly of the fish three days and three nights.

2 And Jonas prayed to the Lord, his God, out of the belly of the fish.

3 And he said: "I cried out of my affliction to the Lord, and he heard me: I cried out of the belly of hell, and thou hast heard my voice.

4 And thou hast cast me forth into the deep, in the heart of the sea, and a flood hath compassed me: all thy billows, and thy waves have passed over me.

5 And I said: I am cast away out of the sight of thy eyes: but yet I shall see thy holy temple again.

6 "The waters compassed me about even to the soul: the deep hath closed me round about, the sea hath covered my head.

7 I went down to the lowest parts of the mountains: the bars of the earth have shut me up for ever: and thou wilt bring up my life from corruption, O Lord, my God.

8 When my soul was in distress within me, I remembered the Lord: that my prayer may come to thee, unto thy holy temple.

9 They that in vain observe vanities, forsake their own mercy.

10 But I with the voice of praise will sacrifice to thee: I will pay whatsoever I have vowed for my salvation to the Lord.

11 And the Lord spoke to the fish: and it vomited out Jonas upon the dry land.

CHAP. III.

Jonas is sent again to preach in Ninive. Upon their fasting and repentance, God recalleth the sentence by which they were to be destroyed.

* Matt. xii. 40, and xvi. 4; Luke xi. 30; 1 Cor. xv. 4.—^b Psal. cxix. 1.

CHAP. II. VER. 1. Fish. Many suppose (H.) that this fish was a whale, as it does not live on flesh (C.); but its throat being so narrow, as hardly to suffer a man's arm to pass, it is more probable that it was the sea-dog, lamia, or canis charybdis, (Bartolin 14,) which may easily contain a man. Aldrovandus, iii. 32. M.—This sea-dog, or shark, has five rows of teeth in each jaw. Human bodies have been found entire in the stomach. Button.—Our Saviour calls the fish a whale. Matt. xii. 40. W.—But that term is given to any great sea-monster. Yet it is not of much importance what species of fish be meant, provided the miracle be admitted. C.—Nights, or as long as our Saviour was in the monument, (M.) which was about thirty-four hours. C. Dis.

VER. 3. I cried. These five verses (H.) express his thoughts while he was in the sea, (S. Jer. C.) or in the fish. H.—Hell; the whale's belly, (Theod., &c.,) or rather the depth of the sea. It may denote any imminent danger.

VER. 5. Eyes, in a sort of despair, like the psalmist, xxx. 23. Yet he presently resumes fresh confidence in God, notwithstanding the greatness of his offences.—Temple. He went to Jerusalem, like other good Israelites.

VER. 6. Soul, so that I was in danger of being suffocated. Psal. lxxviii. 2. C.—Sea. Heb. "weeds entangled," &c. H.—The Mediterranean has a great deal of sea-weed. He speaks of the time before he was swallowed up by the fish.

VER. 7. Lowest. Heb. and Sept. "clefs."—Bars, or prisons, in the abyss, (C.) farthest from the heights. W.

VER. 9. Mercy. He alludes to the sailors. Theod.—Heb. also, "let them forsake their worship," (Drus. Lev. xx. 17,) or they are guilty of impiety. They neglect their vows. Ver. 10; chap. i. 16. C.

VER. 11. Spoke to the fish. God's speaking to the fish was nothing else but his will, to which all things obey. Ch. W.

CHAP. III. VER. 2. Bid thee be there or when thou shalt be there. C.—He seems to have retired to Jerusalem. M.

VER. 3. Journey. By the computation of some ancient historians, Ninive was about fifty miles round: so that to go through all the chief streets and public places was three days' journey. Ch.—Diodorus (iii. 1) says Ninive was 150 stadia or furlongs in length. It must have been therefore 480 round; and as each fur-

AND the word of the Lord came to Jonas the second time, saying:

2 Arise, and go to Ninive, the great city: and preach in it the preaching that I bid thee.

3 And Jonas arose, and went to Ninive, according to the word of the Lord: now Ninive was a great city of three days' journey.

4 And Jonas began to enter into the city one day's journey: and he cried, and said: Yet forty days, and Ninive shall be destroyed.

5 "And the men of Ninive believed in God: and they proclaimed a fast, and put on sackcloth from the greatest to the least.

6 And the word came to the king of Ninive: and he rose up out of his throne, and cast away his robe from him, and was clothed with sackcloth, and sat in ashes.

7 And he caused it to be proclaimed and published in Ninive, from the mouth of the king, and of his princes, saying: Let neither men nor beasts, oxen, nor sheep, taste any thing: let them not feed, nor drink water.

8 And let men and beasts be covered with sackcloth, and cry to the Lord with all their strength, and let them turn every one from his evil way, and from the iniquity that is in their hands.

9 "Who can tell if God will turn, and forgive: and will turn away from his fierce anger, and we shall not perish?

10 And God saw their works, that they were turned from their evil way: and God had mercy with regard to the evil which he had said that he would do to them, and he did it not.

CHAP. IV.

Jonas, repining to see that his prophecy is not fulfilled, is reproved by the type of the ivy.

AND Jonas was exceedingly troubled, and was angry. 2 And he prayed to the Lord, and said: I beseech thee, O Lord, is not this what I said, when I was long contains 125 paces of 5 feet each, the compass would be "60 Italian miles, (about 50 Eng.,)" which would employ a person three days to go through the principal streets. W.

* Psal. lxxviii. 1.—^d Matt. xii. 41; Luke xi. 32.—^e Jer. xviii. 11; Joel ii. 14.

VER. 4. Journey. He records what he said the first day, though he seems to have preached many, (Theod.,) even during forty days, after which time (H.) he expected the city would fall, and therefore retired out of the walls. Chap. iv.—Forty. Sept. three. S. Justin, (Dial.) "three, or forty-three." Theodoret thinks that the mistake was made by some ancient transcriber, and has since prevailed in all the copies of the Sept. All the rest have forty. S. Aug. (de Civ. Dei, xviii. 44,) believes the Sept. placed three for a mysterious reason. Origen (Hom. 16. Num.) suggests that the prophet determined the number, and hence God did not execute the threat. C.—This and many other menaces are conditional. If man repent, God will change his sentence. S. Chrys. S. Greg. Mor. xvi. 18. W.

VER. 5. God. They were convinced that he had wrought such wonders in the person of Jonas, with a desire of their welfare, particularly as he allowed them some delay. Accordingly they did penance for about forty days, and their conversion was so sincere, that Christ proposes it to his disciples. Matt. xii. 41. C.

VER. 6. King Sardanapalus, (Salien, A. 3216,) or rather his father, Phul, whom Strabo calls Anacyndaraxes, (C.) and who died A. 3237, (Usher,) four years after he had invaded Palestine. 4 Kings xv. 19.

VER. 7. Princes. Their consent was requisite, to form an irrevocable edict. Dan. vi. 8.—Men. Even infants, according to the Fathers. Joel ii. 16. S. Basil adds also, the young of cattle. This was done to excite rational beings to repentance. Theod. C.

VER. 10. Mercy. Heb. "repented," as some copies of the Sept. read, while others have, "was comforted." H.—God suspended the stroke. But as the people soon relapsed, Sardanapalus burnt himself to death, and the city was taken, (S. Jer.) thirty-seven years after Jeroboam, A. 3257. Usher.—Yet this was only a prelude to its future ruin, foretold by Tobias, (xiv. 5, in Gr.) and effected by Nabopolassar and Assyages. C. A. 3378. Usher.—The vestiges did not appear in the days of Lucian, (Charon C.) soon after Christ. H.

yet in my own country? therefore I went before to flee into Tharsis: ^afor I know that thou art a gracious and merciful God, patient, and of much compassion, and easy to forgive evil.

3 And now, O Lord, I beseech thee take my life from me: for it is better for me to die than to live.

4 And the Lord said: Dost thou think thou hast reason to be angry?

5 Then Jonas went out of the city, and sat toward the east side of the city: and he made himself a booth there, and he sat under it in the shadow, till he might see what would befall the city.

6 And the Lord God prepared an ivy, and it came up over the head of Jonas, to be a shadow over his head, and to cover him (for he was fatigued): and Jonas was exceeding glad of the ivy.

^a Psal. lxxxv. 5; Joel ii. 13.

CHAP. IV. VER. 1. Troubled. His concern was lest he should pass for a false prophet; or rather lest God's word, by this occasion, might come to be slighted and disbelieved. Ch.—He conjectured that God would spare the penitent Ninivites, and feared lest prophecies should be deemed uncertain. The conversion of Nineve was an earnest of that of the Gentiles. C.

VER. 5. Went, or "had gone," waiting for the city's ruin. C.

VER. 6. The Lord God prepared an ivy. Hedcrum. In the Heb. it is kikajon, which some render a gourd; others, a palmerist, or palma Christi. Ch.—This latter is now the common opinion. S. Jerom explains it of a shrub growing very fast in the sandy places of Palestine. He did not pretend (C.) that hedera, or ivy, as Aquila translates, (H.) was the precise import; but he found no Latin term more resembling, (C.) as he observes here and in his letter to S. Aug., who had informed him that a certain bishop of Africa having read his version publicly, the audience was surprised at the change; and the Jews, "either through ignorance

7 But God prepared a worm, when the morning arose on the following day: and it struck the ivy and it withered.

8 And when the sun was risen, the Lord commanded a hot and burning wind: and the sun beat upon the head of Jonas, and he broiled with the heat: and he desired for his soul that he might die, and said: It is better for me to die than to live.

9 And the Lord said to Jonas: Dost thou think thou hast reason to be angry, for the ivy? And he said: I am angry with reason even unto death.

10 And the Lord said: Thou art grieved for the ivy, for which thou hast not laboured, nor made it to grow, which in one night came up, and in one night perished.

11 And shall not I spare Ninive, that great city, in which there are more than a hundred and twenty thousand persons, that know not how to distinguish between their right hand and their left, and many beasts?

or malice," decided in favour of the old Greek and Latin version of gourd, which Prot. retain. H.

VER. 9. Death. The spirit of prophecy changes not the temper. C.—Jonas had reason to be grieved, and so had God to show mercy. In this history and prediction, who would have thought that Jonas had been a figure of our Saviour's death and resurrection, if he himself had not declared it? Matt. xii. W.—The prophet comes out of the fish alive, as Christ does from the tomb. He was cast into the sea to save those on board; Christ dies for the redemption of mankind. Jonas had been ordered to preach, but did not comply till after his escape; thus the gospel was designed to be preached to the Gentiles, yet Christ would not have it done till he had risen. Matt. xv. 26. The very name fish, ἰχθῦς, is a monogram of "Jesus Christ, the Son of God, a Saviour, (C.) or crucified." H. S. Paulin, Ep. 33.—Hence Jonas most strikingly foreshadowed Christ. S. Aug. de Civ. Dei, xviii. 30.

THE

PROPHECY OF MICHEAS.

MICHEAS, of Morasti, a little town in the tribe of Juda, was contemporary with the prophet Isaias, whom he resembles both in his spirit and his style. He is different from the prophet Micheas, mentioned in the Third Book of Kings, (chap. xxii.,) for that Micheas lived in the days of king Achab, one hundred and fifty years before the time of Ezechias, under whom this Micheas prophesied, (Ch.) as he did in the two preceding reigns. H.—He addresses both Israel and Juda, and predicts the happiness of the Jews after the captivity, as a figure of what the Church should enjoy. C.—The Jews shall embrace the faith at last, after the Gentiles. W.—His style is obscure, like that of Osee. C.

CHAPTER I.

Samaria, for her sins, shall be destroyed by the Assyrians: they shall also invade Juda and Jerusalem.

THE word^a of the Lord, that came to Micheas, the Morasthite, in the days of Joathan, Achaz, and Ezechias, kings of Juda: which he saw concerning Samaria and Jerusalem.

2 ^bHear, all ye people: and let the earth give ear, and all that is therein: and let the Lord God be a witness to you, the Lord from his holy temple.

3 ^cFor behold the Lord will come forth out of his place: and he will come down, and will tread upon the high places of the earth.

^a A. M. circiter 3246, A. C. 758.

CHAP. I. VER. 1. Morasthite, "of Maresa," (Chal. Chap. i. 14. C.) a village near Eleutheropolis. S. Jer.—Kings. They reigned about sixty years. C.

VER. 2. Witness. Deut. xxxii.; Isa. i., and vi. The prophet discharges his duty, and will not be blameable, if people die in their sins. Jer. iii. 18. W.

VER. 4. Moved. Sept. "moved." H.—Cleft, as it was to swallow up Core, (Num. xvi. 31.) with the greatest ease.

4 And the mountains shall be melted under him: and the valleys shall be cleft, as wax before the fire, and as waters that run down a steep place.

5 For the wickedness of Jacob is all this, and for the sins of the house of Israel. What is the wickedness of Jacob? is it not Samaria? and what are the high places of Juda? are they not Jerusalem?

6 And I will make Samaria as a heap of stones in the field when a vineyard is planted: and I will bring down the stones thereof into the valley, and will lay her foundations bare.

7 And all her graven things shall be cut in pieces, and all her wages shall be burnt with fire, and I will bring to ^b Deut. xxxii. 1; Isa. i. 2.—^c Isa. xxvi. 21.

VER. 5. Jerusalem. High places were left there under Joathan. 4 Kings xv. 35. Achab had introduced the worship of Baal into Samaria, and though the family of Jehu repressed this worship, it gained ground when Micheas appeared. C.

VER. 6. Heap. Sept. "hut to keep the fruit." Heb. "hillock of the field," (H.) to be cultivated. Grot.—Bare, by Salmanasar. 4 Kings xvii. 6.

VER. 7. Her wages. That is, her donaries or presents offered to her idols; destruction all her idols: for they were gathered together of the hire of a harlot, and unto the hire of a harlot they shall return.

8 Therefore will I lament, and howl: I will go stript and naked: I will make a wailing like the dragons, and a mourning like the ostriches.

9 Because her wound is desperate, because it is come even to Juda, it hath touched the gate of my people, even to Jerusalem.

10 Declare ye it not in Geth, weep ye not with tears: in the house of Dust sprinkle yourselves with dust.

11 And pass away, O thou that dwellest in the Beautiful place, covered with thy shame: she went not forth that dwelleth in the confines: the House adjoining shall receive mourning from you, which stood by herself.

12 For she is become weak unto good that dwelleth in bitterness: for evil is come down from the Lord into the gate of Jerusalem.

13 A tumult of chariots hath astonished the inhabitants of Lachis: it is the beginning of sin to the daughter of Sion, for in thee were found the crimes of Israel.

14 Therefore shall she send messengers to the inheritance of Geth: the houses of lying to deceive the kings of Israel.

15 Yet will I bring an heir to thee that dwellest in Maresa: even to Odollam shall the glory of Israel come.

16 Make thee bald, and be polled for thy delicate children: enlarge thy baldness as the eagle: for they are carried into captivity from thee.

CHAP. II.

The Israelites, by their crying injustices, provoke God to punish them. He shall at last restore Jacob.

or the hire of all her traffic and labour. Ch.—Harlot. They were gathered together by one idolatrous city, viz. Samaria: and they shall be carried away to another idolatrous city, viz. Nineve. Ch.

VER. 8. Naked. Ill clothed, (H.) to show the approaching calamity of the Israelites. Isa. xx. M.—Dragons, when they are crushed by the elephant. Solin 38. M.—Thonim means also (H.) whales, &c., which make a horrible noise.—Ostriches, or swans. Isa. xlii. 21. Both have a mournful note. C.

VER. 9. Gate. That is, the destruction of Samaria shall be followed by the invasion of my people of Juda, and the Assyrians shall come and lay all waste even to the confines of Jerusalem. Ch.—Juda received the worship of Baal from Israel. It shared in the punishment of that kingdom. The prophet alludes to the ravages of Sennacherib. Ver. 13. C.

VER. 10. Geth. Amongst the Philistines, lest they rejoice at your calamity. Ch. 2 Kings i. 20; Amos iii. 9. C.—Tell not these calamities, which I foresee, among your enemies, lest they rejoice. But lament in your own houses, which shall be filled with dust. S. Jerom prays for the light of the Holy Ghost to understand this passage. W.—Weep ye not. Keep in your tears, that you may not give your enemies an occasion of insulting over you: but in your own houses, or in your house of dust, your earthly habitation, sprinkle yourselves with dust, and put on the habit of penitents. Some take the house of dust (in Hebrew Aphrah) to be the proper name of a city. Ch.—Of dust. Samaria, ver. 6. C.

VER. 11. Place. In Samaria. In the Hebrew, the beautiful place is expressed by the word Sapir, which some take for a proper name of a city. Ch.—It is thought that S. Jerom has given the sense of several proper names, (C.) or this has been done since in the Vulg. by some other. In the edit. of his works, (A. 1533,) we read, "The dwelling of Saphir passes from you: she hath not come out who inhabits Sennan. The house of Asel shall receive," &c. H. Saphir or Diocesarea was a strong place (Jos. Bel. ii. 37) of Galilee, where Saanan was also situated. Judg. iv. 11. Haezel may denote "the vicinity." C.—Adjoining, viz. Judea and Jerusalem, neighbours to Samaria, and partners in her sins, shall share also in her mourning and calamity: though they have pretended to stand by themselves, trusting in their strength. Ch.

VER. 12. Weak, &c. Jerusalem is become weak unto any good; because she dwells in the bitterness of sin. Ch.—Bitterness. S. Jer. "Maroth." Sym. "provoaking to bitterness." They are unable to defend their possessions. H.

VER. 13. Lachis, when Sennacherib came to besiege it. 4 Kings xviii. 13. C.—Beginning. That is, Lachis was the first city of Juda that learnt from Samaria the worship of idols, and communicated it to Jerusalem. Ch.

VER. 14. Send. Lachis shall send to Geth for help; but in vain; for Geth, instead of helping, shall be found to be a house of lying and deceit to Israel. Ch.—Inheritance. Some translate rather "Moreseth (or Morasthi) of Geth, the houses of Acsih," &c. Both these towns were near Geth, and perhaps at this time subject

WOE to you that devise that which is unprofitable and work evil in your beds: in the morning light they execute it, because their hand is against God.

2 And they have coveted fields, and taken them by violence, and houses they have forcibly taken away: and oppressed a man and his house, a man and his inheritance.

3 Therefore thus saith the Lord: Behold, I devise an evil against this family: from which you shall not withdraw your necks, and you shall not walk haughtily, for this is a very evil time.

4 In that day a parable shall be taken up upon you, and a song shall be sung with melody by them that say: We are laid waste and spoiled: the portion of my people is changed: how shall he depart from me, whereas he is returning that will divide our land?

5 Therefore thou shalt have none that shall cast the cord of a lot in the assembly of the Lord.

6 Speak ye not, saying: It shall not drop upon these, confusion shall not take them.

7 The house of Jacob saith: Is the Spirit of the Lord straitened, or are these his thoughts? Are not my words good to him that walketh uprightly?

8 But my people, on the contrary, are risen up as an enemy: you have taken away the cloak off from the coat: and them that passed harmless you have turned to war.

9 You have cast out the women of my people from their houses, in which they took delight: you have taken my praise for ever from their children.

10 Arise ye, and depart, for there is no rest here for you. For that uncleanness of the land, it shall be corrupted with a grievous corruption.

to it. 2 Par. xxviii. 18. Achaz sent to ask for aid against the king of Israel, ver. 9. C.

VER. 15. Heir. Maresa (which was the name of a city of Juda) signifies inheritance: but here God by his prophet tells the Jews, that he will bring them an heir to take possession of their inheritance: and that the glory of Israel shall be obliged to give place, and to retire even to Odollam, a city in the extremity of their dominions. And therefore he exhorts them to penance in the following verse. Ch.—Maresa shall fall a prey to the king of Assyria. Micheas was a native of this town, and he ironically addresses his countrymen. C.—Glory. Thus he denotes "the misery" of Israel, which shall be extended to the last town in Juda. W.

CHAP. II. VER. 1. Evil. Sept. "labours." Heb. "vanity, or an idol." H.—That is called unprofitable, which is very detrimental. W.—Morning, suddenly and with zeal. C.—Is. Heb. "has power," (Chal.) "they have not raised their hands to God." Sept. Arab.

VER. 2. Oppressed. Lit. "calumniated," (H.) as Jezabel did Naboth. 3 Kings xxi. 13.

VER. 3. Time. It was very near. Micheas saw the ruin of Samaria, under Theglathphalassar and Salmanassar.

VER. 4. Say. The Israelites sing this mournful canticle to ver. 7, which the prophet composes for them, to show the certainty of the event. It is very difficult. C.—The whole synagogue speaks. M.—Depart. How do you pretend to say that the Assyrian is departing, when indeed he is coming to divide our lands amongst his subjects? Ch.

VER. 5. None. Thou shalt have no longer any lot or inheritance in the land of the people of the Lord. Ch.—Strangers had taken possession. C.

VER. 6. Drop. That is, the prophecy shall not come upon these. Such were the sentiments of the people that were unwilling to believe the threats of the prophets. Ch.—Heb. "Make it not rain: they will make it rain; they will cause no rain like this: confusion shall not cease." The people beg that the prophets would not announce such judgments: but, (C.) correcting themselves, they bid them to say what they please, (H.) as nothing can befall them more terrible. Here the canticle ends. C.

VER. 7. Straitened. Is he inclined to danger? The prophet replies, if God punishes, it is because the people will not repent. C.

VER. 8. Away. You have even stripped people of their necessary garments; and have treated such as were innocently passing on the way, as if they were at war with you. Ch.—He alludes to Israel attacking Juda without cause, and killing 120,000 at once, while they took 200,000 women and children (ver. 9) captives, whom Oded indeed persuaded them to release. 2 Par. xxviii. 6. C.

VER. 9. Cast out, &c. Either by depriving them of their houses; or, by your crimes, giving occasion to their being carried away captives, and their children, by that means, never learning to praise the Lord. Ch.

11 Would God I were not a man that hath the spirit, and that I rather spoke a lie: I will let drop to thee of wine, and of drunkenness: and it shall be this people upon whom it shall drop.

12 I will assemble and gather together all of thee, O Jacob: I will bring together the remnant of Israel, I will put them together as a flock in the fold, as the sheep in the midst of the shepcotes, they shall make a tumult by reason of the multitude of men.

13 For he shall go up that shall open the way before them: they shall divide, and pass through the gate, and shall come in by it: and their king shall pass before them, and the Lord at the head of them.

CHAP. III.

For the sins of the rich oppressing the poor, of false prophets flattering for lucre, and of judges perverting justice, Jerusalem and the temple shall be destroyed.

AND I said: Hear, O ye princes of Jacob, and ye chiefs of the house of Israel: Is it not your part to know judgment.

2 You that hate good, and love evil: that violently pluck off their skins from them and their flesh from their bones?

3 Who have eaten the flesh of my people, and have flayed their skin from off them: and have broken, and chopped their bones as for the kettle, and as flesh in the midst of the pot.

4 Then shall they cry to the Lord, and he will not hear them: and he will hide his face from them at that time, as they have behaved wickedly in their devices.

5 Thus saith the Lord concerning the prophets that make my people err: that bite their teeth, and preach peace: and if a man give not something into their mouth, they prepare war against him.

6 Therefore night shall be to you instead of vision, and darkness to you instead of divination: and the sun shall go down upon the prophets, and the day shall be darkened over them.

7 And they shall be confounded that see visions, and the diviners shall be confounded: and they shall all cover their faces, because there is no answer of God.

^a Ezec. xxii. 27; Soph. iii. 3.

VER. 10. Corruption. Your sins will not permit you to remain any longer, and strangers shall defile this land. C.

VER. 11. Would God, &c. The prophet could have wished, out of his love to his people, that he might be deceived in denouncing to them these evils that were to fall upon them: but by conforming himself to the will of God, he declares to them that he is sent to prophesy, literally to let drop upon them, the wine of God's indignation, with which they should be made drunk; that is, stupified and cast down. Ch.

VER. 12. Assemble. God shows his mercy, in gathering his Church out of all nations. W.—Men. The country was very populous when the Romans destroyed the Jews. They had returned by degrees. C.

VER. 13. Open. Heb. "break down." H.—Divide. Heb. "make a breach." They shall return boldly, and in triumph. C.

CHAP. III. VER. 1. I. Heb. and Sept. "He, the Lord, said;" or, Micheas addressed the princes of both kingdoms, under Ezechias. Ver. 12; Jer. xxvi. 18. —To know and practise. Osee vi. 3. C.—Both rich and poor strove to extort from each other. W.

VER. 5. Peace. They pretend goodness, while they do the greatest mischief. —Prepare. Lit. "sanctify," (H.) or denounce war. C.

VER. 11. Hire. It is not lawful to refuse instruction to those who have nothing; nor must priests act solely for a temporal reward, though reason shows that they should be supported by those whom they have to teach. Matt. x. 8, 10; Gal. vi. 6; and 1 Tim. v. 18. C.

VER. 12. Forests, after its destruction by Nabuchodonosor. C.—In the space of three years' neglect shrubs were growing in the courts of the temple. 1 Mac. iv.

8 But yet I am filled with the strength of the spirit of the Lord, with judgment and power: to declare unto Jacob his wickedness, and to Israel his sin.

9 Hear this, ye princes of the house of Jacob, and ye judges of the house of Israel: you that abhor judgment, and pervert all that is right.

10 You that build up Sion with blood, and Jerusalem with iniquity.

11 Her princes have judged for bribes: and her priests have taught for hire, and her prophets divined for money: and they leaned upon the Lord, saying: Is not the Lord in the midst of us? no evil shall come upon us.

12 Therefore, because of you, Sion shall be ploughed as a field, and Jerusalem shall be as a heap of stones, and the mountain of the temple as the high places of the forests.

CHAP. IV.

The glory of the Church of Christ, by the conversion of the Gentiles. The Jews shall be carried captives to Babylon, and be delivered again.

AND it shall come to pass in the last days, that the mountain of the house of the Lord shall be prepared in the top of mountains, and high above the hills: and people shall flow to it.

2 And many nations shall come in haste, and say: Come, let us go up to the mountain of the Lord, and to the house of the God of Jacob: and he will teach us of his ways, and we will walk in his paths: for the law shall go forth out of Sion, and the word of the Lord out of Jerusalem.

3 And he shall judge among many people, and rebuke strong nations afar off: and they shall beat their swords into ploughshares, and their spears into spades: nation shall not take sword against nation: neither shall they learn war any more.

4 And every man shall sit under his vine, and under his fig-tree, and there shall be none to make them afraid. for the mouth of the Lord of hosts hath spoken.

5 For all people will walk every one in the name of his god: but we will walk in the name of the Lord, our God, for ever and ever.

6 In that day, saith the Lord, I will gather up her that

^b Jer. xxvi. 18.—^c Isa. ii. 2.

38. H.—Rufus ploughed up the spot where the temple had stood, after the Romans had burnt it down. S. Jer. Jos. Bel. vii. 20.—This prediction made a deep impression on the minds of the people. It caused them to refrain from killing Jeremias. Ver. 1. C.

CHAP. IV. VER. 1. Last days. This sometimes means after this. Isa. ix. 1. But here it denotes the time which shall elapse from Christ till the day of eternity. The Jews allow that this prediction regards the Messias, though they will not explain it of Jesus Christ. Their exceptions are well refuted by Ribera. W.

VER. 2. Jerusalem. No other nation ever embraced the Jewish law. But all received the gospel, (C.) which was first preached at Jerusalem by people of that country. H.

VER. 3. Judge, or "rule," (Judg. viii. 22,) as Christ does over all. C.—Ploughshares. Heb. "scythes," (H.) or "coulters." W. Mart. xiv. 34. C.—Learn, &c. The law of Christ is a law of peace; and all his true subjects, as much as lies in them, love and keep peace with all the world. Ch.—They will sustain injuries meekly. 1 Cor. vi. W.—When Christ appeared, the Roman empire enjoyed peace. C.

VER. 5. And ever. After the captivity the Gentiles continued to worship idols, and the Jews had a greater aversion for them; but when the gospel was propagated, idols fell into contempt, and the Jewish law was at an end, while heretics were varying continually. The Church alone is stable, and built upon the rock. C.

VER. 6. Halteth, as the synagogue did, (3 Kings xviii. 21,) bringing nothing to perfection, (Heb. vii. 19,) while the Gentiles were abandoned to idolatry. For as both Christ chose his Church. Acts xxi. 20, &c. C.

nalteth: and her that I had cast out, I will gather up: and her whom I had afflicted.

7 *And I will make her that halted, a remnant: and her that had been afflicted, a mighty nation: "and the Lord will reign over them in Mount Sion, from this time now and for ever.

8 And thou, O cloudy tower of the flock, of the daughter of Sion, unto thee shall it come: yea, the first power shall come, the kingdom to the daughter of Jerusalem.

9 Now, why art thou drawn together with grief? Hast thou no king in thee, or is thy counsellor perished, because sorrow hath taken thee as a woman in labour?

10 Be in pain and labour, O daughter of Sion, as a woman that bringeth forth: for now shalt thou go out of the city, and shalt dwell in the country, and shalt come even to Babylon, there thou shalt be delivered: there the Lord will redeem thee out of the hand of thy enemies.

11 And now many nations are gathered together against thee, and they say: Let her be stoned: and let our eye look upon Sion.

12 But they have not known the thoughts of the Lord, and have not understood his counsel: because he hath gathered them together as the hay of the floor.

13 Arise, and tread, O daughter of Sion: for I will make thy horn iron, and thy hoofs I will make brass: and thou shalt beat in pieces many peoples, and shalt immolate the spoils of them to the Lord, and their strength to the Lord of the whole earth.

CHAP. V.

The birth of Christ in Bethlehem: his reign and spiritual conquests.

NOW shalt thou be laid waste, O daughter of the robber: they have laid siege against us, with a rod shall they strike the cheek of the judge of Israel.

2 *AND THOU, BETHLEHEM Ephrata, art a little one among the thousands of Juda: out of thee shall he come a Soph. iii. 19.—b Dan. vii. 14; Luke i. 32.

VER. 7. Remnant, or numerous progeny.—Afflicted. Heb. and Sept. "repudiated," (C.) or "cast off." 11.

VER. 8. Cloudy. Heb. "fortress, or ophel," a tower or wall near the temple. 2 Esd. iii. 27.—Flock. Jerusalem was no better, after the Chaldeans had destroyed it. 4 Kings xvii. 9. Yet there Zorobabel, the Machabees, and Christ displayed their power. It was the cradle of the Church. Some take this to refer to Bethlehem, as chap. v. 2. C.

VER. 9. No king, after Sedecias was taken. C.

VER. 11. Sion. Let us enter the sanctuary and plunder it.

VER. 13. Brass. Fear nothing. The Jews did not attack the army of Cambyses, (Ezec. xxxviii. 21, and xxxix. 10. C.) at least at first. H.—But what God did for them is attributed to them. C.

CHAP. V. VER. 1. Robber. Some understand this of Babylon, which robbed and pillaged the temple of God; others understand it of Jerusalem, by reason of the many rapines and oppressions committed there. Ch.—Heb. "now assemble, O daughter of troops;" Babylon, famous (H.) for soldiers, who will seize Sedecias (Jer. xxxix. 6. C.); or Jerusalem, noted for rapine. Chap. iii.

VER. 2. Ephrata. This was the ancient name (H.) of Bethlehem, (Gen. xxxv. 16,) though some think that it was so called after Caleb's wife. 1 Par. ii. 19.—Art, or "art thou?" &c., which makes it agree with Matt. ii. 4.—Little. Heb. tsaur, (H.) is often rendered "considerable." Chal.—Thousands: capital cities. Zac. ix. 7. Bethlehem seemed too mean to send forth a ruler over the rest. The ancient Jews clearly understood this of the Messias. The moderns explain it of Zorobabel: but the expressions are too grand for him. C.—S. Jeron accuses the Jews of having designedly omitted some cities, (Jos. xv. 60,) because Bethlehem Ephrata is one. It is no where else thus described. Kennicott.—The priests substituted land of Juda instead of Ephrata. Matt. ii. 11.—The evangelist recites their words, to show their negligence in quoting Scripture.—Forth. That is, he who as man shall be born in thee, as God was born of his Father from all eternity. Ch.—Eternity. These expressions singly imply a long time (Exod. xxi. 6; Psal. xxiii. 7); but when doubled, seculum seculi, &c., they must be understood of an absolute eternity, which Christ enjoyed with the Father and the Holy Ghost; though, in his human nature, he was born in time. W.

forth unto me that is to be the ruler in Israel: and his going forth is from the beginning, from the days of eternity.

3 Therefore will he give them up even till the time wherein she that travaileth shall bring forth: and the remnant of his brethren shall be converted to the children of Israel.

4 And he shall stand, and feed in the strength of the Lord, in the height of the name of the Lord, his God: and they shall be converted, for now shall he be magnified even to the ends of the earth.

5 And this man shall be our peace, when the Assyrian shall come into our land, and when he shall set his foot in our houses: and we shall raise against him seven shepherds, and eight principal men.

6 And they shall feed the land of Assyria with the sword, and the land of Nemrod with the spears thereof: and he shall deliver us from the Assyrian when he shall come into our land, and when he shall tread in our borders.

7 And the remnant of Jacob shall be in the midst of many peoples, as a dew from the Lord, and as drops upon the grass, which waiteth not for man, nor tarrieth for the children of men.

8 And the remnant of Jacob shall be among the Gentiles, in the midst of many peoples, as a lion among the beasts of the forests, and as a young lion among the flocks of sheep: who, when he shall go through, and tread down, and take, there is none to deliver.

9 Thy hand shall be lifted up over thy enemies, and all thy enemies shall be cut off.

10 And it shall come to pass in that day, saith the Lord, that I will take away thy horses out of the midst of thee, and will destroy thy chariots.

11 And I will destroy the cities of thy land, and will throw down all thy strong holds, and I will take away sor-c Matt. ii. 6; John vii. 42.

VER. 3. Forth, till Babylon let them go (Sanct.); or the Jews shall enjoy the land till Christ come (S. Jer. Exp. 2); or he will leave them in their blindness till the nations shall have received the gospel, when there shall be one fold. John x. 16; Rom. xi. 25.

VER. 5. Peace. This regards Christ, and not Zorobabel. C.—Assyrian. That is, the persecutors of the Church; who are here called Assyrians by the prophet, because the Assyrians were at that time the chief enemies and persecutors of the people of God. Ch.—Seven, &c. The pastors of God's Church, and the defenders of the faith. The number seven, in Scripture, is taken to signify many; and when eight is joined with it, we are to understand that the number will be very great. Ch.—See Eccles. xi. 2; Ruth iv. 16. C.—Eight. Eschylus places Artaphanes between Smerdis and Hystaspes, the former of whom was one of the seven magi, and the latter one of the seven conspirators, (C.) or rather chief princes, who attacked the usurper. H.

VER. 6. They. Hystaspes first laid a tax of money on the Persians, who hence styled him a merchant. Herod. iii. 89.—He was severe, and often at war. C.—Feed. They shall make spiritual conquests in the lands of their persecutors, with the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God. Eph. vi. 17. Ch.—With, &c. Sept. "in the ditch." Th., &c., "gates," where sentence was given.—Borders. Seven or eight princes have taken the place of Cambyses, who had invaded Judea. Ver. 5. C.

VER. 7. Jacob; viz. the apostles, and the first preachers of the Jewish nation, whose doctrine, like dew, shall make the plants of the converted Gentiles grow up, without waiting for any man to cultivate them by human learning. Ch.

VER. 8. Lion. This denotes the fortitude of these first preachers, and their success in their spiritual enterprises. Ch.—The Jews, by leave of Assnerus, defended themselves; and the Machabees became terrible. Est. ix., and 1 Mac. iii. 4.

VER. 10. Horses. Some understand this, and all that follows to the end of the chapter, as addressed to the enemies of the Church. But it may as well be understood of the converts to the Church, who should no longer put their trust in any of these things. Ch.

VER. 11. Sorceries. The Jews after their return abstained more from such series out of thy hand, and there shall be no divinations in thee.

12 And I will destroy thy graven things, and thy statues, out of the midst of thee: and thou shalt no more adore the works of thy hands.

13 And I will pluck up thy groves out of the midst of thee: and will crush thy cities.

14 And I will execute vengeance in wrath, and in indignation, among all the nations that have not given ear.

CHAP. VI.

God expostulates with the Jews for their ingratitude and sins: for which they shall be punished.

HEAR ye what the Lord saith: Arise, contend thou in judgment against the mountains, and let the hills hear thy voice.

2 Let the mountains hear the judgment of the Lord, and the strong foundations of the earth: for the Lord will enter into judgment with his people, and he will plead against Israel.

3 ^aO my people, what have I done to thee, or in what have I molested thee? answer thou me.

4 For I brought thee up out of the land of Egypt, and delivered thee out of the house of slaves: and I sent before thy face Moses, and Aaron, and Mary?

5 ^bO my people, remember, I pray thee, what Balach, the king of Moab, purposed: and what Balaam, the son of Beor, answered him, from Setim to Galgal, that thou mightest know the justices of the Lord.

6 What shall I offer to the Lord that is worthy? where-with shall I kneel before the high God? shall I offer holocausts unto him, and calves of a year old?

7 May the Lord be appeased with thousands of rams, or with many thousands of fat he-goats? shall I give my first-born for my wickedness, the fruit of my body for the sin of my soul?

8 I will show thee, O man, what is good, and what the Lord requireth of thee: Verily to do judgment, and to love mercy, and to walk solicitous with thy God.

9 The voice of the Lord crieth to the city, and salvation shall be to them that fear thy name: hear, O ye tribes, and who shall approve it?

10 As yet there is a fire in the house of the wicked, the treasures of iniquity, and a scant measure full of wrath.

^a Jer. ii. 5.—^b Num. xxii. 23.—Zach. vii. 9; Matt. xxiii. 23; Deut. vi. 2, and xxvi. 16.

things; but not like the Church of Christ, in which idols and dealings with the devil have never been tolerated.

CHAP. VI. VER. 1. The mountains, &c. That is, the princes, the great ones of the people. Ch.—But Heb. intimates real mountains, which had witnessed the impiety of the people, (C.) and had been defiled with their altars, &c. Prot. "Contend thou before the," &c. (H.) as God's advocate. He condescends to justify his conduct towards Israel. Isa. iii. 13. C.

VER. 5. From Setim to Galgal. He puts them in mind of the favour he did them, in not suffering them to be quite destroyed by the evil purpose of Balach and the wicked counsel of Balaam; and then gives them a hint of the wonders he wrought, in order to bring them into the land of promise, by stopping the course of the Jordan, in their march from Setim to Galgal. Ch.—Justices. Sym. "mercies." C.

VER. 6. What shall I offer, &c. This is spoken in the person of the people, desiring to be informed what they are to do to please God. Ch.

VER. 7. Fat. Heb. "torrents of oil."—First-born, like Jephthe, or the king of Moab. Judg. xi., and 4 Kings iii. 27.

VER. 8. Solicitous. Heb. also, "humbly." 11.—This was preferable to all other sacrifices of the old law, (W.) and was frequently inculcated. Deut. x. 12; Psal. xlix. 9; Isa. i. 11. Yet the carnal Jews always made perfection consist in exterior ceremonies.

VER. 9. City, to all mankind.—It? Who will attend? C.

11 Shall I justify wicked balances, and the deceitful weights of the bag?

12 By which her rich men were filled with iniquity, and the inhabitants thereof have spoken lies, and their tongue was deceitful in their mouth.

13 And I therefore began to strike thee with desolation for thy sins.

14 Thou shalt eat, but shalt not be filled: and thy humiliation shall be in the midst of thee: and thou shalt take hold, but shalt not save: and those whom thou shalt save, I will give up to the sword.

15 "Thou shalt sow, but shalt not reap: thou shalt tread the olives, but shalt not be anointed with the oil: and the new wine, but shalt not drink the wine.

16 For thou hast kept the statutes of Amri, and all the works of the house of Achab: and thou hast walked according to their wills, that I should make thee a desolation, and the inhabitants thereof a hissing, and you shall bear the reproach of my people.

CHAP. VII.

The prophet laments, that notwithstanding all his preaching, the generality are still corrupt in their manners: therefore their desolation is at hand: but they shall be restored again and prosper; and all mankind shall be redeemed by Christ.

WOE is me, for I am become as one that gleaneth in autumn the grapes of the vintage: there is no cluster to eat, my soul desired the first ripe figs.

2 The holy man is perished out of the earth, and there is none upright among men: they all lie in wait for blood, every one hunteth his brother to death.

3 The evil of their hands they call good: the prince requireth, and the judge is for giving: and the great man hath uttered the desire of his soul, and they have troubled it.

4 He that is best among them, is as a brier: and that is righteous, as the thorn of the hedge. The day of thy inspection, thy visitation cometh: now shall be their destruction.

5 Believe not a friend, and trust not in a prince: keep the doors of thy mouth from her that sleepeth in thy bosom.

6 ^aFor the son dishonoureth the father, and the daughter riseth up against her mother, the daughter-in-law

^d Deut. xxviii. 38; Agg. i. 6.—^e Matt. x. 21.

VER. 10. Full of wrath, &c. That is, highly provoking in the sight of God. Ch. VER. 14. And thy. Sept. "I will cast thee away into thyself." H.—Hold of some fruit. C.

VER. 15. New. Sept. "grape." H.

VER. 16. The statutes of Amri, &c. The wicked ways of Amri and Achab, idolatrous kings. Ch.—They were the most infamous of Israel. 3 Kings xvi. 25, 30. W.—Heb. "the statutes of Amri are kept." Sept. "The precepts (ami) of my people shall perish." H.—You, rich men. C.—Sept. "you shall receive the reproach of people." H.

CHAP. VII. VER. 1. Figs, which are the worst. S. Jer. S. Amb. in Luke vii. 3. Yet they were eagerly sought after, before the other figs came to maturity.

VER. 2. Holy man. Heb. esid, (H.) "the pious" Assidean. 2 Mac. xiv. 6. The disorder of Israel was great, though some were religious. C.

VER. 4. Brier. Heb. edok, or "thorn." Sept. "a consuming moth."—Inspection, or of thy chiefs (H.) and prophets. C.

VER. 5. Bosom. In times of general distress, even domestics are not trusted; because all are solicitous for themselves, even to the prejudice of others. W.—Before the ruin of Israel civil wars raged. 4 Kings xv. Our Saviour alludes to this passage, Matt. x. 35; Luke xii. 52, and xxi. 16. People will rise up to oppress true believers; and these must abandon their nearest relations, when they prove an obstacle to salvation. This is the moral and the other the literal sense. C. against her mother-in-law: ^aand a man's enemies are they of his own household.

7 But I will look towards the Lord, I will wait for God, my Saviour: my God will hear me.

8 Rejoice not, thou my enemy, over me, because I am fallen: I shall arise, when I sit in darkness, the Lord is my light.

9 I will bear the wrath of the Lord, because I have sinned against him: until he judge my cause, and execute judgment for me: he will bring me forth into the light, I shall behold his justice.

10 And my enemy shall behold, and she shall be covered with shame, who saith to me: Where is the Lord thy God? my eyes shall look down upon her: now shall she be trodden under foot as the mire of the streets.

11 The day shall come, that thy walls may be built up: in that day shall the law be far removed.

12 In that day they shall come even from Assyria to thee, and to the fortified cities: and from the fortified cities even to the river, and from sea to sea, and from mountain to mountain.

13 And the land shall be made desolate, because of the inhabitants thereof, and for the fruit of their devices.

^a Matt. x. 36.

VER. 10. She; Babylon, my enemy. Ch.—Streets. Cyrus treated the fallen city with contempt. It stood for some time afterwards. C.

VER. 11. Law of thy enemies, who have tyrannised over thee. Ch.—The walls of Jerusalem are ordered to be rebuilt. Agg. i.

VER. 12. Fortified. Heb. also, "Egypt, and from Egypt to the river Euphrates," &c. The Jews shall occupy their ancient limits. Amos viii. 12. C.—From all parts the captives shall return. H.

VER. 13. Land of Babylon, (Ch.) or "the land of Judea (H.) has been," &c. It might also be again made desolate, because the captives built houses for themselves, and neglected the temple. Agg. i. 10.

VER. 14. Alone: destitute of all things, or in full security. Jer. xv. 17; Num.

14 Feed thy people with thy rod, the flock of thy inheritance, them that dwell alone in the forest, in the midst of Carmel: they shall feed in Basan and Galaad, according to the days of old.

15 According to the days of thy coming out of the land of Egypt, I will show him wonders.

16 The nations shall see, and shall be confounded at all their strength: they shall put the hand upon the mouth, their ears shall be deaf.

17 They shall lick the dust like serpents, as the creeping things of the earth, they shall be disturbed in their houses: they shall dread the Lord, our God, and shall fear thee.

18 ^bWho is a God like to thee, who takest away iniquity, and passest by the sin of the remnant of thy inheritance? he will send his fury in no more, because he delighteth in mercy.

19 He will turn again, and have mercy on us: he will put away our iniquities: and he will cast all our sins into the bottom of the sea.

20 Thou wilt perform the truth to Jacob, the mercy to Abraham: which thou hast sworn to our fathers in the days of old.

^b Jer. x. 6; Acts x. 43.

xxiii. 9. God will feed his people (C.) in the most fertile places, designated by Carmel and Basan. H.

VER. 15. Wonders. The prophets speaking of the return, have Christ and his religion in view: so that they seem not to find terms sufficiently magnificent. Isa. xi. 15, and xliii. 16; Zac. x. 11. C.

VER. 16. Strength, because they cannot overcome the Hebrews or Christians. M.—Deaf, being astonished. Job xxi. 5.

VER. 17. Serpents, (Gen. iii. 14,) out of respect or rage. C.

VER. 18. No more, for past offences. Yet, if they transgress again, they must not expect impunity. C.

VER. 19. Away. Prot. "subdue," (H.) or trample upon. C

THE

PROPHECY OF NAHUM.

NAHUM, whose name signifies a comforter, was a native of Elcese, or Elcesai, supposed to be a little town in Galilee. He prophesied after the ten tribes were carried into captivity, and foretold the utter destruction of Ninive by the Babylonians and Medes; which happened in the reign of Josias, (Ch.) in the sixteenth year, when the father of Nabuchodonosor and the grandfather of Cyrus entirely ruined Ninive, and divided the empire between them, (C.) A. 3378 Usher. Tob. xiv. 16.—Nahum was probably on the spot when he proclaimed this beautiful prediction, which yields not to any work of profane authors. He might have been carried captive by Salmanassar, as he alludes to the captivity of Israel and to the blasphemies of Sennacherib. We cannot, therefore, place his prophecy before the fifteenth year of Ezechias. C.—He appeared about fifty years after Jonas, when the Ninivites had relapsed, and were destroyed in the space of one hundred and thirty-five years, as a figure of the subversion of idolatry by Christ's preaching the gospel of peace W.

CHAPTER I.

The majesty of God, his goodness to his people, and severity to his enemies.

THE ^aburden of Ninive. The book of the vision of Nahum, the Elcesite.

2 The Lord is a jealous God, and a revenger: the Lord is a revenger, and hath wrath: the Lord taketh vengeance on his adversaries, and he is angry with his enemies.

^a A. M. circiter 3264, A. C. 740.

CHAP. I. VER. 1. Burden, or threat. W.—Sept, "assumption," (H.) when the prophet saw in spirit the impending ruin. Theod.—We have described Ninive, Jonas i. C.—It was overturned first A. 3257, and again A. 3378. Usher.—Elcesite. Some think that Elcesai was the father of Nahum; but most suppose that it was a village of Galilee. C.

VER. 2. Cleanse. Lit "cleansing, he will not make innocent." H.—The 3 The Lord is patient, and great in power, and will not cleanse and acquit the guilty. The Lord's ways are in a tempest, and a whirlwind, and clouds are the dust of his feet.

4 He rebuketh the sea, and drieth it up: and bringeth all the rivers to be a desert. Basan languisheth and Carmel: and the flower of Libanus fadeth away.

5 The mountains tremble at him, and the hills are same expression is rendered, No man of himself is innocent before thee. Exod. xxxiv. 7. C.—No man is perfect in God's sight, (C.) though they may appear to be such to others. H.—Dust. He walks upon them as we do on dry land.

VER. 4. Desert, as at the Red Sea. Psal. cv. 9.—Languisheth. The most fruitful places produce nothing, when God is angry.

VER. 5. Made. Sept. "shaken."—Quaked. Heb. and Sept. "risen." C.

made desolate: and the earth hath quaked at his presence, and the world, and all that dwell therein.

6 Who can stand before the face of his indignation? and who shall resist in the fierceness of his anger? his indignation is poured out like fire: and the rocks are melted by him.

7 The Lord is good, and giveth strength in the day of trouble: and knoweth them that hope in him.*

8 But with a flood that passeth by, he will make an utter end of the place thereof: and darkness shall pursue his enemies.

9 What do ye devise against the Lord? he will make an utter end: there shall not rise a double affliction.

10 For as thorns embrace one another: so while they are feasting and drinking together, they shall be consumed as stubble that is fully dry.

11 Out of thee shall come forth one that imagineth evil against the Lord, contriving treachery in his mind.

12 Thus saith the Lord: Though they were perfect: and many of them so, yet thus shall they be cut off, and he shall pass: I have afflicted thee, and I will afflict thee no more.

13 And now I will break in pieces his rod with which he struck thy back, and I will burst thy bonds asunder.

14 And the Lord will give a commandment concerning thee, that no more of thy name shall be sown: I will destroy the graven and molten thing out of the house of thy God, I will make it thy grave, for thou art disgraced.

15 Behold upon the mountains the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, and that preacheth peace: O Juda, keep thy festivals, and pay thy vows: for Belial shall no more pass through thee again, he is utterly cut off.

CHAP. II.

God sends his armies against Ninive to destroy it.

HE is come up that shall destroy before thy face, that shall keep the siege: watch the way, fortify thy loins, strengthen thy power exceedingly.

* 2 Tim. i. 9.

2 For the Lord hath rendered the pride of Jacob, as the pride of Israel: because the spoilers have laid them waste, and have marred their branches.

3 The shield of his mighty men is like fire, the men of the army are clad in scarlet, the reins of the chariot are flaming in the day of his preparation, and the drivers are stupified.

4 They are in confusion in the ways, the chariots jostle one against another in the streets: their looks are like torches, like lightning running to and fro.

5 He will muster up his valiant men, they shall stumble in their march: they shall quickly get upon the walls thereof: and a covering shall be prepared.

6 The gates of the rivers are opened, and the temple is thrown down to the ground.

7 And the soldier is led away captive: and her bond-women were led away mourning as doves, murmuring in their hearts.

8 And as for Ninive, her waters are like a great pool: but the men flee away. They cry: Stand, stand, but there is none that will return back.

9 Take ye the spoil of the silver, take the spoil of the gold: for there is no end of the riches of all the precious furniture.

10 She is destroyed, and rent, and torn: the heart melteth, and the knees fail, and all the loins lose their strength: and the faces of them all are as the blackness of a kettle.

11 Where is now the dwelling of the lions, and the feeding place of the young lions, to which the lion went, to enter in thither, the young lion, and there was none to make them afraid?

12 The lion caught enough for his whelps, and killed for his lionesses: and he filled his holes with prey, and his den with rapine.

13 Behold I come against thee, saith the Lord of hosts, and I will burn thy chariots even to smoke, and the sword shall devour thy young lions: and I will cut off thy prey b Isa. lii. 7; Rom. x. 15.

VER. 7. Hope. Sept. "fear." He approves of his faithful servants. H.

VER. 8. Thereof; viz. of Ninive. Ch.—This is connected with ver. 1. H.—Ninive was taken by the waters of the Tigris overflowing, at the first siege. Diod. 2. Athen. 12.—Many think that the flood means great armies. Isa. viii. 7. Forer. Vat.—Sept. "He will utterly destroy: those who rise up and his enemies, darkness," &c. H.

VER. 9. Affliction. Sept. add, "for the same thing, or together." H.

VER. 10. Dry. The Assyrians, feasting in the hopes that they would speedily become masters of Jerusalem, were cut off in one night. W.

VER. 11. Forth. Some understand this of Sennacherib. But as his attempt against the people seems to have been prior to the prophecy of Nahum, we may better understand it of Holofernes. Ch.—One. Sept. "a most wicked thought against the Lord, devising opposition." H.

VER. 12. Perfect. That is, however strong or numerous their forces may be, they shall be cut off, and their prince or leader shall pass away and disappear. Ch.—If there were many just at Ninive, or among the Jews, (C.) a moderate chastisement would suffice. H.—The latter have been afflicted; now their enemies shall suffer. H.

VER. 13. Asunder. Ezechias was tributary to Assyria. 4 Kings xviii. 14. After the fall of Ninive, its yoke was removed. C.

VER. 14. Commandment. That is, a decree concerning thee, O king of Ninive, thy seed shall fail, &c. Ch.—His son Asarhaddon succeeded; but soon the line was extinct. W.—No alarm shall be spread by thee.

VER. 15. Peace. Sentinels were established on the hills.—Festivals. S. Jerom quotes the B. of Paral., as saying (C.) that the Jews could not observe the Passover in the first month. But they did it in the second, after they knew that Sennacherib was slain. 2 Par. xxxii. H.—This passage does not, however, appear at present in Scripture, and it could not speak of the second month (C.) following Nisan, (H.) as the king was slain forty-five days (Tob. i. 22. Gr. 55) after his return to Ninive; and some time must have elapsed before he could get thither, and the news arrive in Judea. C.—Belial; the wicked one, viz. the Assyrian. Ch.

CHAP. II. VER. 1. Face, O Juda. Sept. "who blows on thy face, (Gen. ii. 7,) freeing from misery." Here S. Jerom's Gr. copy ends the chap. H.—Watch. Behold Nabopolassar is about to attack thy enemies. Some think that Nahum addresses Ninive ironically. C.

VER. 2. Pride, &c. He hath punished Jacob for his pride, and therefore Ninive must not expect to escape. Or else, rendering the pride of Jacob means rewarding, that is, punishing Ninive for the pride they exercised against Jacob. Ch.

VER. 3. Mighty men. He speaks of the Chaldeans and Medes sent to destroy the Ninivites. Ch.—This is the common opinion. Yet it seems rather that the Ninivites are designated, as they were asleep and stumbled, &c. C.—Stupified. That is, they drive on furiously, like men intoxicated with wine. Ch.

VER. 4. Streets. The Ninivites are disordered at the enemy's approach. S. Jer.

VER. 5. Muster. Lit. "remember" (H.) the ancient heroes, Salmanasar, &c. C.—Stumble, by running hastily on. Ch.—Prepared to defend the city. H.—All this represents a city surprised. It attempts to defend itself; but God renders all efforts vain. C.

VER. 6. Gates; floodgates or channel of the Tigris overflowing. Chap. i. 8.—Temple. Sept. "palace."

VER. 7. Soldier. Heb. estob, (H.) "the station" or guard; the queen, or the statue of the idol.

VER. 8. Waters: multitudes, (Apoc. xvii. 15,) and riches (C.); or the flood bursting upon them makes them flee. H.

VER. 11. Lions. The kings of Assyria had plundered various nations, (H.) and had brought the spoils to Ninive. But all shall be lost. W.—These princes followed no law but their own will.—The lion, Nabopolassar, or his son; though it seems rather to relate to the Assyrian monarchs. C.

out of the land, and the voice of thy messengers shall be heard no more.^a

CHAP. III.

The miserable destruction of Ninive.

WOE ^bto thee, O city of blood, all full of lies and violence: rapine shall not depart from thee.

2 The noise of the whip, and the noise of the rattling of the wheels, and of the neighing horse, and of the running chariot, and of the horsemen coming up:

3 And of the shining sword, and of the glittering spear, and of a multitude slain, and of a grievous destruction: and there is no end of carcasses, and they shall fall down on their dead bodies.

4 Because of the multitude of the fornications of the harlot that was beautiful and agreeable, and that made use of witchcraft, that sold nations through her fornications, and families through her witchcrafts.

5 Behold I come against thee, saith the Lord of hosts: and I will discover thy shame to thy face, and will show thy nakedness to the nations, and thy shame to kingdoms.

6 And I will cast abominations upon thee, and will disgrace thee, and will make an example of thee.

7 And it shall come to pass that every one that shall see thee, shall flee from thee, and shall say: Ninive is laid waste: who shall bemoan thee? whence shall I seek a comforter for thee?

8 Art thou better than the populous Alexandria, that dwelleth among the rivers? waters are round about it: the sea is its riches: the waters are its walls.

9 Ethiopia and Egypt were the strength thereof, and there is no end: Africa and the Libyans were thy helpers.

10 Yet she also was removed and carried into captivity:

^a Mic. vii. 11.

VER. 13. Chariots. Sept. "multitude." Some wild beasts were thus suffocated in their dens. Theod.—More, like that of the impious Rabsaces. 4 Kings xviii. 17. C.

CHAP. III. VER. 1. Blood. Nemrod established his power by shedding blood. Gen. x. Ninus, who built Ninive, and his successors were also bloody. After 1200 years the empire decayed under Sardanapalus, as historians agree. Yet it continued longer, according to the Scriptures and Ribera, till the Chaldees destroyed it, when it had subsisted about 1440 years.—Depart. Sept. "be touched." H.

VER. 2. The noise. He has described the forces of Ninive, now he specifies those of Cyaxares and Nabopolassar.

VER. 4. Harlot. Ninive is cruel and impure, engaging others in idolatry and witchcraft. C.—Sold, forcing them to adopt her manners. Rom. vii. 14.

VER. 7. Bemoan. Lit. "shake his head:" the latter words are not in Heb. H.

VER. 8. Populous Alexandria. No-Ammon. A populous city of Egypt, destroyed by the Chaldeans, and afterwards rebuilt by Alexander, and called Alex-her young children were dashed in pieces at the top of every street, and they cast lots upon her nobles, and all her great men were bound in fetters.

11 Therefore thou also shalt be made drunk, and shalt be despised: and thou shalt seek help from the enemy.

12 All thy strong holds shall be like fig-trees with their green figs: if they be shaken, they shall fall into the mouth of the eater.

13 Behold thy people in the midst of thee are women: the gates of thy land shall be set wide open to thy enemies, the fire shall devour thy bars.

14 Draw thee water for the siege, build up thy bulwarks: go into the clay, and tread, work it and make brick.

15 There shall the fire devour thee: thou shalt perish by the sword, it shall devour thee like the bruchus: assemble together like the bruchus, make thyself many like the locust.

16 Thou hast multiplied thy merchandises above the stars of heaven: the bruchus hath spread himself and flew away.

17 Thy guards are like the locusts: and thy little ones like the locusts of locusts which swarm on the hedges in the day of cold: the sun arose, and they flew away, and their place was not known where they were.

18 Thy shepherds have slumbered, O king of Assyria, thy princes shall be buried: thy people are hid in the mountains, and there is none to gather them together.

19 Thy destruction is not hidden, thy wound is grievous: all that have heard the fame of thee, have clapped their hands over thee: for upon whom hath not thy wickedness passed continually?

^b Ezec. xxiv. 9; Hab. ii. 12.—^c Isa. xlvii. 3.

andria. Others suppose No-Ammon to be the same as Diospolis. Ch.—This seems preferable, as it was amidst waters and near the Mediterranean.—S. Jerom. thinks that Alexandria stood on the ruins of No. W.—Yet of this we have no proof. It is thought that Nahum alludes to the devastation caused by Nabuchodonosor. As Juda however was still in his kingdom, it seems rather that Assaraddon, (Isa. xx.,) or his predecessor, Sennacherib, (C.) laid waste this city. 4 Kings xviii. 21. Usher, A. 3292.

VER. 9. Ethiopia; Chus, in Arabia, not far from Diospolis.

VER. 10. Captivity. It was afterwards re-established and taken by Nabuchodonosor. C.—Fetters, or stocks. H.

VER. 11. Drunk, and be chastised by God. Ezec. xxlii. 32.—From, to escape.

VER. 15. Locust. Yet all will be in vain. Thy numbers will be cut off as easily as locusts.

VER. 16. Away. Thus did the merchants, at the approach of the enemy.

VER. 17. Guards. Heb. "crowned" princes.—Little. Heb. "satraps are like great locusts, which," &c.—Of locusts. The young locusts. Ch.

VER. 19. Hidden. Heb. and Sept. "irremediable." H.

THE

PROPHECY OF HABACUC.

HABACUC was a native of Bezocher, and prophesied in Juda some time before the invasion of the Chaldeans, which he foretold. He lived to see this prophecy fulfilled and for many years after, according to the general opinion, which supposes him to be the same that was brought by the angel to Daniel, in Babylon. Dan. xvi. Ch.—He might very well live to see the captives return, as only sixty-six years elapsed from the first of Joakim, when he began to prophesy, till that event. He retired at the approach of the Chaldees, and afterwards employed himself in agricultural pursuits. C.—The sins of Juda, the coming of the Chaldees, and the relaxation of the captivity are specified and in the canticle, the appearance of Christ, the last judgment and eternity, (W.) are mentioned in the most sublime style. H.

CHAPTER I.

The prophet complains of the wickedness of the people; God reveals to him the vengeance he is going to take of them by the Chaldeans.

THE burden *that Habacuc, the prophet, saw.
2 How long, O Lord, shall I cry, and thou wilt not hear? shall I cry out to thee, suffering violence, and thou wilt not save?

3 Why hast thou shown me iniquity and grievance, to see rapine and injustice before me? and there is a judgment, but opposition is more powerful.

4 Therefore the law is torn in pieces, and judgment cometh not to the end: because the wicked prevaileth against the just, therefore wrong judgment goeth forth.

5 Behold ye among the nations, and see: wonder, and be astonished: for a work is done in your days, which no man will believe when it shall be told.

6 For behold, I will raise up the Chaldeans, a bitter and swift nation, marching upon the breadth of the earth, to possess the dwelling places that are not their own.

7 They are dreadful and terrible: from themselves shall their judgment, and their burden proceed.

8 Their horses are lighter than leopards, and swifter than evening wolves: and their horsemen shall be spread abroad: for their horsemen shall come from afar, they shall fly as an eagle that maketh haste to eat.

9 They shall all come to the prey, their face is like a burning wind: and they shall gather together captives as the sand.

10 And their prince shall triumph over kings, and princes shall be his laughing-stock: and he shall laugh at every strong hold, and shall cast up a mount, and shall take it.

11 Then shall his spirit be changed, and he shall pass, and fall: this is his strength of his god.

12 Wast thou not from the beginning, O Lord, my God, my Holy One, and we shall not die? Lord, thou hast

* A. M. circiter 3404, A. C. 600.—b Acts xlii. 34.

CHAP. I. VER. 1. Burden. Such prophecies more especially are called burdens, as threaten grievous evils and punishments. Ch.

VER. 2. Save. Some think that he expresses the sentiments of the weak, like David, (Psal. lxxii. 2,) or what he had formerly entertained. C.

VER. 5. Among. Sept. ye despisers. S. Paul nearly agrees with this version. Acts xlii. 41. The copies vary, as the Heb. has done. C.—The apostle gives the mystical sense; the literal is very obscure. W.—God answers the prophet's complaints, and shows that the Chaldeans shall punish the guilty, and afterwards be themselves chastised.

VER. 6. Chaldeans. Nabuchodonosor was the first of this nation who attacked Jonkin, and having conquered all as far as the Nile, returned to succeed Nabopolassar. He afterwards came upon Jechonias and Sedecias, &c. C.—Bitter; warlike, as all the Gr. historians remark. S. Jer.

VER. 7. Proceed. They admit no authority but their own. C.

VER. 8. Leopards: the swiftest quadrupeds. C.—Swifter. Heb. "sharper" (H.) in seeing, even when there is no moon. Elian, x. 26.—Evening. Sept. "Arabian." H.

VER. 9. Burning. Heb. also, "eastern," which is hot, and raises the sand of Arabia so as to be very detrimental. C.

VER. 10. Prince, or "it," the nation. Ver. 10. Heb. "They," &c.—Laughing-stock (ridicule). Nabuchodonosor raised or deposed princes as in jest. H.—Sennacherib's officers were or had been kings. Isa. x. 8.—Mount. Thus cities were chiefly taken. Ezecl. iv. 1. C.

VER. 11. Spirit; viz. the spirit of the king of Babylon. It alludes to the judgment of God upon Nabuchodonosor, recorded Dan. iv., and to the speedy fall of the Chaldean empire. Ch.—Fall. Heb. "sin." Sept. "obtain pardon."—God; "idol." Chal. "This is the strength of my God." Sept. God forced the proud king to confess that his great exploits were not to be attributed to himself or to idols. H.

VER. 13. Look, with approbation (C.) or connivance.

VER. 14. Ruler. People are subdued by Nabuchodonosor. H.—They make little resistance. C. appointed him for judgment: and made him strong for correction.

13 Thy eyes are too pure to behold evil, and thou canst not look on iniquity. Why lookest thou upon them that do unjust things, and holdest thy peace when the wicked devoureth the man that is more just than himself?

14 And thou wilt make men as the fishes of the sea, and as the creeping things that have no ruler.

15 He lifted up all them with his hook, he drew them in his drag, and gathered them into his net: for this he will be glad and rejoice.

16 Therefore will he offer victims to his drag, and he will sacrifice to his net: because through them his portion is made fat, and his meat dainty.

17 For this cause, therefore, he spreadeth his net, and will not spare continually to slay the nations.

CHAP. II.

The prophet is admonished to wait with faith. The enemies of God's people shall assuredly be punished.

I WILL stand upon my watch, and fix my foot upon the tower: and I will watch, to see what will be said to me, and what I may answer to him that reproveth me.

2 And the Lord answered me, and said: Write the vision, and make it plain upon tables: that he that readeth it may run over it.

3 For as yet the vision is far off, and it shall appear at the end, and shall not lie: if it make any delay, wait for it: for it shall surely come, and it shall not be slack.

4 Behold, he that is unbelieving, his soul shall not be right in himself: but the just shall live in his faith.

5 And as wine deceiveth him that drinketh it: so shall the proud man be, and he shall not be honoured: who hath enlarged his desire like hell: and is himself like death, and he is never satisfied: but will gather together unto him all nations, and heap together unto him all people.

6 Shall not all these take up a parable against him, c John iii. 36; Rom. i. 17; Gal. iii. 11; Heb. x. 38.

VER. 17. Nations, of every country. W.—Few have been so much addicted to war as Nabuchodonosor. C.

CHAP. II. VER. 1. Will stand, &c. Waiting to see what the Lord will answer to my complaint, viz. that the Chaldeans, who are worse than the Jews, and who attribute all their success to their own strength, or to their idols, should nevertheless prevail over the people of the Lord. The Lord's answer is, that the prophet must wait with patience and faith; that all should be set right in due time; and the enemies of God and his people punished according to their deserts. Ch.—The prophet speaks, waiting for a further revelation, (W.) not seeing before the reasons of Providence in permitting the wicked to prosper. II. Psal. lxxii. 17.—He is informed that the kings of Babylon, (ver. 5, 8,) Jnda, (ver. 11,) Tyre, (ver. 14,) and Egypt, (ver. 18,) and all who trust in idols, shall suffer. Ver. 19. Hereupon the judgments of God are pronounced just. C.

VER. 2. Over it. It shall be so legible (H.) any one may hear or take a copy. C.

VER. 3. Slack. That which happens at the time fixed is not. W.—Heb. "the vision is for an appointed time." The felicity of the Jews is the last event which the prophet specifies, and this is here the literal sense. S. Cyr. C.

VER. 4. Unbelieving. Prot. "lifted up." H.—The king's vain projects shall fail. Sept. Rom. "If he withdraw himself, my soul shall not have pleasure in him. But my just man shall live by my faith." Others read with S. Paul, "my just man shall live by faith." Heb. x. 38. C.—The source of content arises from faith, (without which this life would be a sort of death, as the apostle and S. Aug. Trin. xiv. 12, &c. observe,) because it is the beginning of life by grace, which the works of the law could not otherwise confer. Gal. iii. W.

VER. 5. As wine deceiveth, &c., viz. by affording only a short passing pleasure, followed by the evils and disgrace that are the usual consequences of drunkenness: so shall it be with the proud enemies of the people of God, whose success affordeth them only a momentary pleasure, followed by innumerable and everlasting evils. Ch.—Heb. "But as the proud man prevaricates in wine, he shall not succeed."—Hell: He is insatiable. Prov. xxx. 16. C.

VER. 6. Parable. Lit. "marvel," or wonderful speech; parabolum.—Dark and a dark speech concerning him: and it shall be said: Woe to him that heapeth together that which is not his own? how long also doth he load himself with thick clay?

7 Shall they not rise up suddenly that shall bite thee: and they be stirred up that shall tear thee, and thou shalt be a spoil to them?

8 Because thou hast spoiled many nations, all that shall be left of the people shall spoil thee: because of men's blood, and for the iniquity of the land, of the city, and of all that dwell therein.

9 Woe to him that gathereth together an evil covetousness to his house, that his nest may be on high, and thinketh he may be delivered out of the hand of evil.

10 Thou hast devised confusion to thy house, thou hast cut off many people, and thy soul hath sinned.

11 For the stone shall cry out of the wall: and the timber that is between the joints of the building, shall answer.

12 *Woe to him that buildeth a town with blood, and prepareth a city by iniquity.

13 Are not these things from the Lord of hosts? for the people shall labour in a great fire: and the nations in vain, and they shall faint.

14 For the earth shall be filled, that men may know the glory of the Lord, as waters covering the sea.

15 Woe to him that giveth drink to his friend, and presenteth his gall, and maketh him drunk, that he may behold his nakedness.

16 Thou art filled with shame instead of glory: drink thou also, and fall fast asleep: the cup of the right hand of the Lord shall compass thee, and shameful vomiting shall be on thy glory.

* Ezec. xxiv. 9; Nah. iii. 1.

Prot. "a taunting proverb" (H.); when Nabuchodonosor became like a beast, and his empire was soon after divided. C.—Clay. Ill-gotten goods, that like mire both burden and defile the soul. Ch.—Gold and silver are only a sort of earth. Job xxvi. 16; Zac. ix. 2.

VER. 7. Bite, like worms in the grave. Cyrus will overturn the kingdom. C. VER. 8. Blood. For cruelty, avarice, &c., the Chaldees shall be ruined. W.—City, different from that land of the Arabs, who dwell under tents.

VER. 9. Woe. This is commonly understood of Nabuchodonosor; but it seems rather to designate Joakim, (Jer. xxii. 13,) whose injustice scandalized the prophet. C.

VER. 10. House. Thinking to establish thy family for ever, thou hast proved its ruin by avarice, &c. W.—This is applied to Nabuchodonosor, but may be as well explained of Joakim, who oppressed his people, and was cast out like an ass. C.

VER. 11. Timber. Heb. "copis (Sept. the insect καυθαρος) from the wood shall answer." H.

VER. 12. Woe. This might be explained of Nabuchodonosor; but we rather understand the king of Tyre, whose pride was intolerable. Ezec. xxviii. C.

VER. 13. Things, &c. That is, shall not these punishments that are here recorded come from the Lord upon him that is guilty of such crimes (Ch.)? or, are not these riches from the Lord? The king of Tyre thought himself a god. Ezec. xxviii. 2. C.—People, enemies of God's people. Ch.

VER. 14. Sea. The land and naval forces attacked Tyre. C.—Vast multitudes came against Babylon. M.

VER. 15. Woe. All this may refer to the king of Egypt, who deceived Joakim, Sedecias, &c. C.—Sept. "O, he who giveth drink to his neighbour, a cruel overthrow, and who maketh," &c.—Nakedness. Sept. "caverns;" deluding him, so that his places of retreat become useless. H.

VER. 16. Glory. Egypt shall suffer at last. Isa. xix. 14; Jer. xliii. &c. C.

VER. 17. Libanus. That is, the iniquity committed by the Chaldeans against the temple of God, signified here by the name of Libanus. Ch.—Egypt had persuaded the governor of Celosyria and the Jews to revolt, and then abandoned them. —Beasts, which were adored in Egypt. Those who explain all of the Chaldees are much perplexed, understanding the army of Cyrus, or the oppressed nations, or subjects to be meant. C.—And of. Heb. "land of the city," as ver. 8.

VER. 18. Thing. Prot. falsely, "image." H.—This is addressed to all idolaters.

VER. 20. Temple. Heb. "palace," or heaven. House is generally put for the temple.—Silence, out of respect, &c.

17 For the iniquity of Libanus shall cover thee, and the ravaging of beasts shall terrify them, because of the blood of men, and the iniquity of the land, and of the city, and of all that dwell therein.

18 What doth the graven thing avail, because the maker thereof hath graven it, a molten, and a false image? because the forger thereof hath trusted in a thing of his own forging, to make dumb idols.

19 Woe to him that saith to wood: Awake: to the dumb stone: Arise: can it teach? Behold, it is laid over with gold, and silver: and there is no spirit in the bowels thereof.

20 *But the Lord is in his holy temple: let all the earth keep silence before him.

CHAP. III.

1 A PRAYER OF HABACUC, THE PROPHET, FOR IGNORANCES.

2 O LORD, I have heard thy hearing, and was afraid. O Lord, thy work, in the midst of the years bring it to life:

In the midst of the years thou shalt make it known: when thou art angry, thou wilt remember mercy.

3 God will come from the south, and the Holy One from Mount Pharan:

His glory covered the heavens, and the earth is full of his praise.

4 His brightness shall be as the light: horns are in his hands:

There is his strength hid: 5 Death shall go before his face And the devil shall go forth before his feet.

6 He stood and measured the earth.

b Psal. x. 5.

CHAP. III. VER. 1. For ignorances. That is, for the sins of his people. In the Hebrew it is sigionoth: which some take to signify a musical instrument, or tune, with which this sublime prayer and canticle was to be sung. Ch.—The term is omitted in several Latin MSS. The precise import cannot be ascertained; yet it seems to imply a song of comfort. C.—Sept. "with a canticle." H.—The prophet prays to be freed from sin, and foretells the coming of Christ, &c. W.—The Fathers apply this canticle to Him, as the Church herself does in her office. We cannot go astray, following such guides.

VER. 2. Thy hearing, &c. That is, thy oracles, the great and wonderful things thou hast revealed to me: and I was struck with a reverential fear and awe. Ch.—I saw that the unjust would not escape. C.—Work. The great work of the redemption of man, which thou wilt bring to life and light in the midst of the years, when our calamities and miseries shall be at their height. Ch.—Years, at the time appointed. W.—Sept. read, "Lord, I considered thy works, and was astonished; in the midst of two living creatures, or lives, thou shalt be known." (H.) or found, between an ox and an ass, as the Church has it. Nat. and Circumc. W.—The prophet begs that God would perform his ancient miracles in his days, (C) by relieving the captives, as he had formerly delivered their ancestors. H.—Make. Heb. and Sept. "when the years approach, thou shalt be made known; when the time shall come, thou shalt be manifested; when my soul shall be troubled, in wrath thou," &c. H.

VER. 3. South. God himself will come to give us his law, and to conduct us into the true land of promise: as heretofore he came from the south, (in the Heb. Theman), and from Mount Pharan, to give his law to his people in the desert. See Deut. xxxiii. 2. Ch.

VER. 4. Horns, &c. That is, strength and power, which by a Heb. phrase are called horns: or beams of light, which come forth from his hands: or it may allude to the cross, in the horns of which the hands of Christ were fastened, where his strength was hidden, by which he overcame the world, and drove out death and the devil. Ch.—Horns may also designate the nails, the prints of which remained in our Saviour's hands after his glorious resurrection. H.

VER. 5. Death, &c. Both death and the devil shall be the executioners of his justice against his enemies; as they were heretofore against the Egyptians and Chanaanites. Ch.—Heb. dobar, (H.) according to the different pronunciation, is rendered "the word" by the Sept. and Theo.; "the plague," by Aquila, &c. After Christ was baptized, the devil came to tempt him. S. Jer.—Devil. Heb. rossop, (H.) or "bird," (Sym., &c.,) means "creeping on the belly," as is explained by the Jews of the devil, who tempted our first parents. S. Jer.—Moderns (H.) follow the Chal., and understand the carbuncle. C.

He beheld, and melted the nations: and the ancient mountains were crushed to pieces.

The hills of the world were bowed down by the journeys of his eternity.

7 I saw the tents of Ethiopia for their iniquity, the curtains of the land of Madian shall be troubled.

8 Wast thou angry, O Lord, with the rivers? or was thy wrath upon the rivers? or thy indignation in the sea?

Who wilt ride upon thy horses: and thy chariots are salvation.

9 Thou wilt surely take up thy bow: according to the paths which thou hast spoken to the tribes.

Thou wilt divide the rivers of the earth.

10 The mountains saw thee, and were grieved: the great body of waters passed away.

The deep put forth its voice: the deep lifted up its hands.

11 The sun and the moon stood still in their habitation, in the light of thy arrows, they shall go in the brightness of thy glittering spear.

12 In thy anger thou wilt tread the earth under foot: in thy wrath thou wilt astonish the nations.

13 Thou wentest forth for the salvation of thy people: for salvation with thy Christ.

VER. 6. Measured. Sept. "the earth was troubled," (C.) or shaken. H.—He beheld. One look of his eye is enough to melt all the nations, and to reduce them to nothing. For all heaven and earth disappear when they come before his light. Apoc. xx. 11. Ch.—Mountains. By the mountains and hills are signified the great ones of the world, that persecute the Church, whose power was quickly crushed by the Almighty. Ch.

VER. 7. Ethiopia, the land of the Blacks, and Madian, are here taken for the enemies of God and his people, who shall perish for their iniquity. Ch.—Chus peopled that part of Arabia. H.—Heb. has Chusan, perhaps to rhyme with Madian; though some think that Chusan (defeated by Othaniel) and Madian (over whom Gideon gained a complete victory) are designated. Judg. ii. and vi. C.

VER. 8. With the rivers, &c. He alludes to the wonders wrought heretofore by the Lord in favour of his people Israel, when the waters of the rivers, viz. of Arnon and Jordan, and of the Red Sea, retired before their face; when he came as it were with his horses and chariots to save them; when he took up his bow for their defence, in consequence of the oath he had made to their tribes; when the mountains trembled, and the deep stood with its waves raised up in a heap, as with hands lifted up to heaven; when the sun and moon stood still at his command, &c., to comply with his anger, not against the rivers and sea, but against the enemies of his people. How much more will he do in favour of his Son, and against the enemies of his Church? Ch.—Horses: the ark of the covenant. C.

VER. 9. Take. Sept. "bend thy bow over the sceptres, says the Lord, Diapsalma." C.—Rivers. Sept. "the earth shall be cut by rivers." H.—Greek historians mention several rivers which have appeared or ceased to flow in consequence of earthquakes.

VER. 10. Grieved. They seemed full of surprise, as in labour, (Heb.,) and the abyss spoke in its manner, (C.) obeying thy voice, and letting the Israelites pass. H. Psal. lxxiii. 15, and cxlii. 3; Num. xxi. 13. C.—"Earth, sea, and rocks quake at the sight of God." Æschyl. H.—Sept. are obscure, (C.) "Peoples shall behold thee, and grieve, (or be in labour: ωδυνῶσιν has both meanings. S. Jer.) Dividing the waters of the passage, the abyss," &c.

VER. 13. Christ. This may well be explained of the incarnation. God was touched at the miseries of his people, and rescued them by Moses. C.—Theodotion and Symmachus, "Ebionite, half Christians," give a Jewish interpretation, "to save thy Christ." Aquila, though a Jew, and the 5th edit. agree with us; but the Thou struckest the head of the house of the wicked: thou hast laid bare his foundation even to the neck.

14 Thou hast cursed his sceptres, the head of his warriors, them that came out as a whirlwind to scatter me.

Their joy was like that of him that devoureth the poor man in secret.

15 'Thou madest a way in the sea for thy horses, in the mud of many waters.

16 I have heard, and my bowels were troubled: my lips trembled at the voice.

Let rottenness enter into my bones, and swarm under me.

That I may rest in the day of tribulation: that I may go up to our people that are girded.

17 For the fig-tree shall not blossom: and there shall be no spring in the vines. The labour of the olive-tree shall fail: and the fields shall yield no food: the flock shall be cut off from the fold, and there shall be no herd in the stalls.

18 But I will rejoice in the Lord: and I will joy in God, my Jesus.

19 The Lord God is my strength: and he will make my feet like the feet of harts: and he the conqueror will lead me upon my high places singing psalms.

6th edit. best explains the mystery, "through Jesus, thy Christ." S. Jer.—Head, &c. Such was Pharaoh heretofore; such shall antichrist be hereafter. Ch.—It may also be understood of Nabuchodonosor and of all persecutors. H. W.—Neck, or root. Pharaoh's eldest son perished. Exod. xiv. 17. C.

VER. 14. Sceptres. The nobles were drowned (H.) with their king, (C.) when they expected an easy prey. Exod. xiii. 9. H.

VER. 15. Sea, &c., to deliver thy people from the Egyptian bondage; and thou shalt work the like wonders, in the spiritual way, to rescue the children of thy Church from their enemies. Ch.

VER. 16. I have heard, &c., viz. the evils that are now coming upon the Israelites for their sins; and that shall come hereafter upon all impenitent sinners: and the foresight that I have of these miseries makes me willing to die, that I may be at rest, before this general tribulation comes, in which all good things shall be withdrawn from the wicked. Ch.—The five woes denounced chap. ii. make the deepest impression upon me. H.—I fear lest I should sin. S. Jer.—The thought of so many wonders makes me speechless. C.—Me. Let me find rest in the grave, like Job. H.—I trust that God will raise me up. C. H.—People, &c. That I may join the happy company in the bosom of Abraham, that are girded; that is, prepared for their journey, by which they shall attend their Lord, when he shall ascend into heaven. To which high and happy place, my Jesus, that is, my Saviour, the great conqueror of death and hell, shall one day conduct me rejoicing and singing psalms of praise. Ver. 18 and 19. Ch.—Girded. Heb. "transmigration or desolation." Habacuc was mercifully allowed by Providence to dwell in Judea, when almost all were led away. He was transported through the air to feed Daniel, (xiv. 32,) where he might see his brethren, as he here insinuates, having relied on God's mercy. Ver. 2. C.

VER. 17. Fail. Lit. "lie," (H.) or frustrate our expectations. C.—Fold. Sept. "food."

VER. 18. Jesus. Heb. issāi, "my (H.) salvation." C.—Sept. "saviour." Chal. "redeemer." H.—Jesus was the desire of all nations, and he imparts true joy to the faithful. John viii. 56. C.

VER. 19. Places. I shall escape the fury of the Chaldeans, and sing a hymn of thanksgiving. C.—Sept. "He will order my feet unto perfection. He will establish me upon the heights, to gain the victory in his canticle." H.—I shall exchange my former complaints for songs of praise, and be crowned by Jesus. S. Jer.

THE

PROPHECY OF SOPHONIAS.

SOPHONIAS, whose name, saith S. Jerom, signifies "the watchman of the Lord," or "the hidden of the Lord," prophesied in the beginning of the reign of Josiah. He was a native of Sarabatha, and of the tribe of Simeon, according to the more general opinion. He prophesied the punishments of the Jews, for their idolatry and other crimes; also the punishments that were to come on divers nations; the coming of Christ, the conversion of the Gentiles, the blindness of the Jews, and their conversion towards the end of the world. Ch.—Sophonias appeared a little before Jeremias, Ezechiel, Baruch, and Daniel, foretelling the captivity and return of the two tribes, the destruction of various nations, the conversion of the Gentiles, and of the Jews also towards the end of the world. W.—Many of the promises regard only the Christian Church. C.

CHAPTER I.

For divers enormous sins, the kingdom of Juda is threatened with severe judgment.

THE word of the Lord that came to Sophonias, the son of Chusi, the son of Godolias, the son of Amarias, the son of Ezecias, in the days of Josias, the son of Amon, king of Juda.

2 Gathering, I will gather together all things from off the face of the land, saith the Lord :

3 I will gather man, and beast, I will gather the birds of the air, and the fishes of the sea : and the ungodly shall meet with ruin : and I will destroy men from off the face of the land, saith the Lord.

4 And I will stretch out my hand upon Juda, and upon all the inhabitants of Jerusalem : and I will destroy out of his place the remnant of Baal, and the names of the wardens of the temples, with the priests :

5 And them that worship the host of heaven upon the tops of houses, and them that adore, and swear by the Lord, and swear by Melchom.

6 And them that turn away from following after the Lord, and that have not sought the Lord, nor searched after him.

7 Be silent before the face of the Lord God : for the day of the Lord is near, for the Lord hath prepared a victim, he hath sanctified his guests.

8 And it shall come to pass in the day of the victim of the Lord, that I will visit upon the princes, and upon the king's sons, and upon all such as are clothed with strange apparel :

9 And I will visit in that day upon every one that entereth arrogantly over the threshold : them that fill the house of the Lord their God with iniquity and deceit.

10 And there shall be in that day, saith the Lord, the noise of a cry from the fish-gate, and a howling from the Second, and a great destruction from the hills.

11 Howl, ye inhabitants of the Morter. All the people

• A. M. circiter 3404. A. C. 600 —b Amos v. 11.

CHAP. I. VER. 2. Gather, &c. That is, I will assuredly take away and wholly consume, either by captivity or death, both men and beasts out of this land. Ch.—To gather commonly implies a benefit, but the sequel shows that the contrary is here meant. W.—It often signifies to kill or bury. Jer. viii. 2. The whole country round Judea to Babylon, shall become a sepulchre for men and beasts. Osee iv. 3. C.

VER. 3. Sea : the waters and air shall be pestilential. H.—Meet. Sept. "be weak." Heb. "I will gather (C. Prot. 'consume' H.) scandals (or idols) with the wicked." Sym.

VER. 4. Baal. Josias had not yet begun his reformation. 4 Kings xxiii. 4. C.—At least he had not brought it to perfection, though from his infancy he had encouraged religion. H.—Wardens of the temples of the idols. Ædituos, in Hebrew, the Chemarims, that is, such as kindle the fires or burn incense. Ch.—Baal was the sun. H.

VER. 5. Houses. The roofs were flat. Josias afterwards reformed this abuse. 4 Kings xxiii. 5. C.—It continued among the Arabs. Strabo, 17.—Melchom. The idol of the Ammonites. Ch.—Those who join idols with God do not worship Him indeed. W.—Swearing was an act of religion. Matt. v. 33. God will not allow his glory to be given to another. Such lame worship or divided hearts he rejects. 3 Kings xviii. 21. C.

VER. 7. Silent. Heb. ēs, (H.) an interjection, (S. Jer.) like our hush. H.—This denotes the impertinence of what he is going to say.—Guests. The blood of the wicked is his victim. Jer. xli. 10; Eze. xxxix. 17. C.

VER. 8. Victim. Heb. "sacrifice."—Princes. After the death of Josias all fell to ruin. His sons were deposed, and led into captivity with the chief nobility and priests, who were richly adorned, and imitated the manners of idolaters, or kept the garments of the poor. Exod. xxii. 26; Deut. xxii. 5, 11, &c. C.

VER. 9. Entereth the temple, as if to show themselves. Amos vi. 1. Heb. "jumpeth over," &c., denoting the Philistines. Chal. 1 Kings v. 5. C.—Sept. "I will take vengeance on all openly before the gates in that day," (H.) on all who have cast themselves out of the Church. S. Jer.—Lord. Heb. "of their masters of Chanaan is hush, all are cut off that were wrapped up in silver.

12 And it shall come to pass at that time, that I will search Jerusalem with lamps, and will visit upon the men that are settled on their lees : that say in their hearts : The Lord will not do good, nor will he do evil.

13 And their strength shall become a booty, and their houses as a desert : and they shall build houses, and shall not dwell in them : and they shall plant vineyards, and shall not drink the wine of them.

14 The great day of the Lord is near, it is near and exceeding swift : the voice of the day of the Lord is bitter, the mighty man shall there meet with tribulation.

15 That day is a day of wrath, a day of tribulation and distress, a day of calamity and misery, a day of darkness and obscurity, a day of clouds and whirlwinds,

16 A day of the trumpet and alarm against the fenced cities, and against the high bulwarks.

17 And I will distress men, and they shall walk like blind men, because they have sinned against the Lord : and their blood shall be poured out as earth, and their bodies as dung.

18 Neither shall their silver and their gold be able to deliver them in the day of the wrath of the Lord : all the land shall be devoured by the fire of his jealousy, for he shall make even a speedy destruction of all them that dwell in the land.

CHAP. II.

An exhortation to repentance. The judgment of the Philistines, of the Moabites, and the Ammonites ; of the Ethiopians, and the Assyrians.

ASSEMBLE yourselves together, be gathered together, O nation not worthy to be loved :

2 Before the decree bring forth the day as dust passing away, before the fierce anger of the Lord come upon you, before the day of the Lord's indignation come upon you.

3 Seek the Lord, all ye meek of the earth, you that have wrought his judgment : seek the just, seek the meek : if by with," &c. This may relate to the Philistines, (C.) or to those who made the house of God a place of traffic, (Matt. xxi. 13,) and offered victims unjustly acquired. H.

• Jer. xxx. 7; Joel ii. 11; Amos v. 18.—d Eze. vii. 19.—e Infra, iii. 8.

VER. 10. Gate, looking towards Joppe. S. Jer.—The news of the defeat at Mageddo came this way, or the cries of the Philistines were heard. C.—Second. A part of the city so called, (Ch.) built by Manasses on the same side of the city. 2 Par. xxxiii. 14. C.

VER. 11. The Morter (Maktesh) ; a valley in or near Jerusalem. Ch.—All the people shall suffer in the city. Sanct. T.—Sept. "of the city cut in pieces, because all the people resembles Chanaan." H.—Chanaan. So he calls the Jews, from their following the wicked ways of the Chanaanites. Ch.

VER. 12. Lamps, with the utmost diligence, (Luke xv. 8.) so that none shall escape even in the most filthy places. C.—Lees. That is, the wealthy, and such as live at their ease, resting upon their riches, like wine upon the lees. Ch.—Evil, denying Providence. C.

VER. 13. Strength. Children or riches. H.

VER. 14. Near. When all these miseries shall overtake the wicked, (W.) after the death of Josias. 4 Kings xxi. 14. C.—The mighty. Sept. "and dreadful, powerful is the day of," &c.—Meet. Prot. "cry bitterly." H.

VER. 17. Blind. Not knowing what course to take. Deut. xxviii. 29; Isa. lix. 10. C.

VER. 18. Gold. Eze. vii. 19. Thus the Medes despised riches. Isa. xiii. 17. C.—Jealousy. God regarded the synagogue as his spouse. M.

CHAP. II. VER. 1. Together, in love. S. Jer.—Heb. "gather" the wood or chaff, (C.) your wicked deeds, lest they prove the fuel of fire. Chap. i. 18. H.—He addresses the Jews and all their neighbours. C.

VER. 2. The day. Heb. "to-day." C.—Sept. "before you become as a passing flower." Prot. "before the day pass as the chaff." H.

VER. 3. Just. Heb. "justice." C.—Sept. "righteousness, and answer the same." H.—Scarcely the innocent will escape. M.—The prophet does not specify the crimes of the Philistines, as Ezechiel (xxv. 15) does. C.

any means you may be hid in the day of the Lord's indignation.

4 For Gaza shall be destroyed, and Escalon shall be a desert, they shall cast out Azotus at noon-day, and Accaron shall be rooted up.

5 Woe to you that inhabit the sea-coast, O nation of reprobates: the word of the Lord upon you, O Chanaan, the land of the Philistines, and I will destroy thee, so that there shall not be an inhabitant.

6 And the sea coast shall be the resting-place of shepherds, and folds for cattle:

7 And it shall be the portion of him that shall remain of the house of Juda, there they shall feed: in the houses of Ascalon they shall rest in the evening: because the Lord their God will visit them, and bring back their captivity.

8 I have heard the reproach of Moab, and the blasphemies of the children of Ammon, with which they reproached my people, and have magnified themselves upon their borders.

9 Therefore, as I live, saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Moab shall be as Sodom, and the children of Ammon as Gomorrha, the dryness of thorns, and heaps of salt, and a desert even for ever: the remnant of my people shall make a spoil of them, and the residue of my nation shall possess them.

10 This shall befall them for their pride: because they have blasphemed, and have been magnified against the people of the Lord of hosts.

11 The Lord shall be terrible upon them, and shall consume all the gods of the earth: and they shall adore him every man from his own place, all the islands of the Gentiles.

12 You Ethiopians also shall be slain with my sword.

13 And he will stretch out his hand upon the north, and will destroy Assyria: and he will make the beautiful city a wilderness, and as a place not passable, and as a desert.

14 *And flocks shall lie down in the midst thereof, all the beasts of the nations: and the bittern and the urchin shall lodge in the threshold thereof: the voice of the singing bird in the window, the raven on the upper post, for I will consume her strength.

15 This is the glorious city that dwelt in security: that said in her heart: I am, and there is none beside me: how is she become a desert, a place for beasts to lie down in? every one that passeth by her shall hiss, and wag his hand.

CHAP. III.

A woe to Jerusalem for her sins. A prophecy of the conversion of the Gentiles, and of the poor of Israel: God shall be with them. The Jews shall be converted at last.

WOE to the provoking and redeemed city, the dove.
2 She hath not hearkened to the voice, neither hath she received discipline: she hath not trusted in the Lord, she drew not near to her God.

3 ^bHer princes are in the midst of her as roaring lions: her judges are evening wolves, they left nothing for the morning.

4 Her prophets are senseless, men without faith: her priests have polluted the sanctuary, they have acted unjustly against the law.

5 The just Lord is in the midst thereof, he will not do iniquity: in the morning, in the morning he will bring his judgment to light, and it shall not be hid: but the wicked man hath not known shame.

6 I have destroyed the nations, and their towers are beaten down: I have made their ways desert, so that there is none that passeth by: their cities are desolate, there is not a man remaining, nor any inhabitant.

7 I said: Surely thou wilt fear me, thou wilt receive correction: and her dwelling shall not perish, for all things wherein I have visited her: but they rose early, and corrupted all their thoughts.

8 Wherefore expect me, saith the Lord, in the day of my resurrection that is to come, for my judgment is to assemble the Gentiles, and to gather the kingdoms: and to pour upon them my indignation, all my fierce anger: for with the fire of my jealousy shall all the earth be devoured.

* Isa. xxxiv. 11.

^b Esai. xxii. 27; Mic. iii. 11.—^c Supra, i. 18.

VER. 4. Shall be, or "is." The prophets often represent future things as past, to show the certainty of the event. The destruction of other cities by the Chaldees, gave the Jews to understand what they had to expect, as all sin must be punished sooner or later. W.

VER. 5. Coast. Lit. "line," (H.) with which land was measured. C.—Reprobates. Heb. corthim, (H.) or Cerethi, of whom David's guards were formed. C.—Sept. "people sprung from the Cretans," whence some (Theod.) of the Philistines came, perhaps rather than from Cyprus, as was conjectured. Gen. x. 14.—Chanaan. So the Philistines are styled contemptuously. They adored the same idols. Wisd. xii. 23.

VER. 6. Shepherds. Merchants shall come no longer, the country being subdued by Nabuchodonosor, and by the Machabees. Ver. 7. C.—Alexander ruined Gaza. Curt. 4.

VER. 8. Borders, helping the Chaldeans. This brought on their ruin. S. Jer.—They were always disposed to seize the country.

VER. 9. Dryness. Sept. "Damascus shall be abandoned as a heap on the baru-floor, and disappearing for an age." H.—This city is threatened with the rest. Isa. xvii. 1. C.—Ever. Sept. refer this to Damascus, others to Ammon, &c. H.

VER. 11. Own place. The Jewish religion could be practised only at Jerusalem, so that this is one of the most striking predictions of the conversion of the world. The Jews in vain attempt to restrain it to the captives returning. See S. Jer. C.

VER. 13. The beautiful city. Ninive, which was destroyed soon after this, viz in the sixteenth year of the reign of Josias. Ch. A. 3378.—Heb. "he shall make Ninive desolate." H.

VER. 14. Bittern and the urchin. Heb. kath and kopod, are terms to us (H.) unknown.—Threshold. Heb. "the pomegranates," supposed to be an ornament of the doors.—I will. Heb. "he has uncovered her cedar," (C.) her fine palaces and apartments. Sept. "for the cedar is its height (or pride); this is the city given to evils, that," &c. H.

VER. 15. Beside, or equal. This was true. Jonas i. 2. C.—The founder intended that no city should ever equal it. Diod. 2.

CHAP. III. VER. 1. Dove. Jerusalem is upbraided, and then comforted. She had been treated like a spouse, a dove; and yet proved faithless. C.—Heb. "Woe to the famous, and defiled, and oppressing city." Sept. agree with us, if we only exchange famous for provoking. H.—After being redeemed from Egypt, the Jews ungratefully follow idols. Osee vii. 11. M.

VER. 2. Lord. She had recourse rather to the princes of Assyria and of Egypt, which proved her ruin.

VER. 3. Evening. Sept. "Arabian." Hab. i. 8. Such was the state of the kingdom before the reform of Josias. C.

VER. 5. Morning. Speedily he will punish the guilty before all.—Shame. He is hardened. C.—Sept. "and not injustice for victory." Græbo substitutes contention. God is just, (H.) even when he takes vengeance. C.

VER. 6. Towers. Lit. "angles," (H.) the chiefs, or to the very last. Job xxxviii. 6; Zac. x. 4. The nations have been punished for an example. But you do not take warning. C.

VER. 7. But. Sept. "he prepared, rise early, all their grapes are corrupt." H.—I had reason to expect an amendment, when so many nations had perished before their eyes. C.

VER. 8. To come. Sept "for a witness" H.—About forty years after Christ's resurrection, the Jews for the most part continuing obstinate, Titus ruined their city; which is a figure of the world's destruction, and of the eternal punishment of the wicked. W.—After the resurrection, the Church was to be gathered from all nations. Christ will rise again at the last day to judge all. God threatens his rebellious people with captivity, and then promises to show mercy. Ver. 9.

9 Because then I will restore to the people a chosen lip, that all may call upon the name of the Lord, and may serve him with one shoulder.

10 From beyond the rivers of Ethiopia, shall my supplants, the children of my dispersed people, bring me an offering.

11 In that day thou shalt not be ashamed for all thy doings, wherein thou hast transgressed against me: for then I will take away out of the midst of thee thy proud boasters, and thou shalt no more be lifted up because of my holy mountain.

12 And I will leave in the midst of thee a poor and needy people: and they shall hope in the name of the Lord.

13 The remnant of Israel shall not do iniquity, nor speak lies, nor shall a deceitful tongue be found in their mouth: for they shall feed, and shall lie down, and there shall be none to make them afraid.

14 Give praise, O daughter of Sion: shout, O Israel: be glad, and rejoice with all thy heart, O daughter of Jerusalem.

VER. 9. Chosen. Sym. "pure." C.—Idols shall not be mentioned. Theod.—All people shall know and adore the Lord, which was verified only after Christ's coming. C.—Shoulder, like people carrying a burden. Sept. "under one yoke." After the captivity the Jews were more obedient and faithful, as the more corrupt remained behind the Euphrates, or were cut off in the last wars. Yet the synagogue was never so pure as the Christian Church, even in the worst times. C.

VER. 10. Ethiopia. The Nile rises in that country, and runs through Egypt and Arabia, which is often styled Ethiopia or Chusch. Isa. xviii. 1. The Jews came from Egypt to adore at Jerusalem, even after the building of Onion. Yet this literally regards Christ's Church.—Offering. The Jews performed this after the captivity, coming or sending the half shekel to Jerusalem annually, from all quarters of the world. Num. iii. 46; Matt. xvii. 23. C.

VER. 11. Doings. Lit. "inventions," of religion of thy own choice. H.—Thy past offences shall be obliterated, and thou shalt commit nothing of the kind any more. Those proud spirits who caused thee to dislike my law, and who set up idols in my temple, shall disappear.

VER. 12. Poor in spirit. H.—Heb. "meek and extenuated," who trust not in themselves. This is the character of true Christians.

VER. 13. Israel. They shall be more submissive, and afraid of yielding to idolatry. Yet the synagogue was far from the perfection of primitive Christianity, or even from that of many pious souls in these days of relaxation.—Afraid. The Jews were not much molested till the time of Epiphaneus, nor was the country ravaged as it had been. Mic. ii. 12. This peace is, however, of a spiritual 15 The Lord hath taken away thy judgment, he hath turned away thy enemies: the king of Israel, the Lord, is in the midst of thee, thou shalt fear evil no more.

16 In that day it shall be said to Jerusalem: Fear not: to Sion: Let not thy hands be weakened.

17 The Lord, thy God, in the midst of thee is mighty, he will save: he will rejoice over thee with gladness, he will be silent in his love, he will be joyful over thee in praise.

18 The triflers that were departed from the law, I will gather together, because they were of thee: that thou mayest no more suffer reproach for them.

19 Behold, I will cut off all that have afflicted thee at that time: and I will save her that halteth, and will gather her that was cast out: and I will get them praise, and a name, in all the land where they had been put to confusion.

20 At that time, when I will bring you: and at that time that I will gather you: for I will give you a name, and praise among all the people of the earth, when I shall have brought back your captivity, before your eyes, saith the Lord.

nature, granted by Christ to those who fight against their passions. John xiv. 27. C.

VER. 15. Judgment, or "condemnation." Sept. "iniquities," (C.) nailing to the cross the handwriting that was against thee. H.—God does not treat thee with rigour. He will be thy King. The Jews had no king for a long time. But the true Israel, of whom the prophet speaks, is continually ruled and led by Jesus Christ, who imparts his graces abundantly. C.

VER. 17. Silent; constant. M.—He will accuse thee no more. Can this be understood of the Jews, who have been cast off till the fulness of the Gentiles enter the Church? To the latter all this must be applied. C.

VER. 18. Triflers. Lit. "trifles;" nugas. Heb. nugi, (H.) which is almost Latin. S. Jer.—These vain nothings, (C.) men who were of light dispositions, scoffers at Christ, shall be converted and honour him. W.—Sept. (17) "he will renew thee in his love, and will exult over thee in joy, as on a festival day: (18) and I will bring back thy bruised ones. Woe to him that has reproached her," C.

VER. 19. Cut. Sept. "do in thee, for thy sake at," &c. H.—Halteth, and hath no children, (Mic. iv. 7,) denoting the Gentiles. C.—Sept. "squeezed out," like grapes, being in distress. S. Jer.—Where. Sept. "and they shall be ashamed at," &c.

VER. 20. Bring. Sept. "do good to you." H.—Praise. All shall speak well of you who have been lately dishonoured, when I shall take both Gentiles and Jews for my spouse after the captivity, which seems present, (C.) it is so certain. H.—Captivity, under satan and sin. M.

THE PROPHECY OF AGGEUS.

AGGEUS WAS ONE of those that returned from the captivity of Babylon, in the first year of the reign of king Cyrus. He was sent by the Lord in the second year of the reign of king Darius, the son of Hystaspes, to exhort Zorobabel, the prince of Juda, and Jesus, the high priest, to the building of the temple: which they had begun, but left off again through the opposition of the Samaritans. In consequence of this exhortation, they proceeded in the building, and finished the temple. And the prophet was commissioned by the Lord to assure them that this second temple should be more glorious than the former, because the Messiah should honour it with his presence; signifying, withal, how much the Church of the New Testament should excel that of the Old Testament. Ch.—The glory of the Catholic Church hence appears. W.—We know little of the life of Aggeus. It is thought that he was born in captivity. C.—He came into Judea eighteen years after its termination, (W.) in the second year of Hystaspes, when the seventy years of the temple's desolation ended. Zac. i. 12, and 1 Esd. v.

CHAPTER I.

The people are reproved for neglecting to build the temple. They are encouraged to set about the work.

IN the second year of Darius, the king, in the sixth month, in the first day of the month, the word of the

* 1 Esd. v. 1. A. M. 3485, A. C. 519.

CHAP. I. VER. 1. Darius Hystaspes. C.—When the Jews had no king, the prophets dated from the reign of the monarch on whom they were dependent.

Lord came by the hand of Aggeus, the prophet, to Zorobabel, the son of Salathiel, governor of Juda, and to Jesus, the son of Josedec, the high priest, saying:

2 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, saying: This people saith: The time is not yet come for building the house of the Lord.

Theod.—Sixth; Elul, the last of the civil year, corresponding with our September. The harvest had been bad, and Aggeus assigns the reason. C.—Governor. Lit.

3 And the word of the Lord came by the hand of Aggeus, the prophet, saying :

4 Is it time for you to dwell in ceiled houses, and this house lie desolate?

5 And now thus saith the Lord of hosts: Set your hearts to consider your ways.

6 *You have sowed much, and brought in little: you have eaten, but have not had enough: you have drunk, but have not been filled with drink: you have clothed yourselves, but have not been warmed: and he that hath earned wages, put them into a bag with holes.

7 Thus saith the Lord of hosts: Set your hearts upon your ways:

8 Go up to the mountain, bring timber, and build the house: and it shall be acceptable to me, and I shall be glorified, saith the Lord.

9 You have looked for more, and behold it became less, and you brought it home, and I blowed it away: why, saith the Lord of hosts? because my house is desolate. and you make haste every man to his own house.

10 Therefore, the heavens over you were stayed from giving dew, and the earth was hindered from yielding her fruits:

11 And I called for a drought upon the land, and upon the mountains, and upon the corn, and upon the wine, and upon the oil, and upon all that the ground bringeth forth, and upon men, and upon beasts, and upon all the labour of the hands.

12 Then Zorobabel, the son of Salathiel, and Jesus, the son of Josedec, the high priest, and all the remnant of the people, hearkened to the voice of the Lord, their God, and to the words of Aggeus, the prophet, as the Lord, their God, sent him to them: and the people feared before the Lord.

13 And Aggeus, the messenger of the Lord, as one of the messengers of the Lord, spoke, saying to the people: I am with you, saith the Lord.

14 And the Lord stirred up the spirit of Zorobabel, the son of Salathiel, governor of Juda, and the spirit of Jesus, the son of Josedec, the high priest, and the spirit of all the rest of the people: and they went in, and did the work in the house of the Lord of hosts, their God.

CHAP. II.

Christ, by his coming, shall make the latter temple more glorious than the former. The blessing of God shall reward their labour in building. God's promise to Zorobabel.

IN the four and twentieth day of the month, in the sixth month, in the second year of Darius, the king, they began.

2 And in the seventh month, the word of the Lord came by the hand of Aggeus, the prophet, saying:

3 Speak to Zorobabel, the son of Salathiel, the governor of Juda, and to Jesus, the son of Josedec, the high priest, and to the rest of the people, saying:

4 Who is left among you, that saw this house in its first glory? and how do you see it now? is it not in comparison to that as nothing in your eyes?

5 Yet now take courage, O Zorobabel, saith the Lord, and take courage, O Jesus, the son of Josedec, the high priest, and take courage, all ye people of the land, saith the Lord of hosts: and perform (for I am with you, saith the Lord of hosts)

6 The word that I covenanted with you: when you came out of the land of Egypt: and my spirit shall be in the midst of you: fear not.

7 For thus saith the Lord of hosts: *Yet one little while, and I will move the heaven, and the earth, and the sea, and the dry land.

8 And I will move all nations: AND THE DESIRED OF ALL NATIONS SHALL COME: and I will fill this house with glory: saith the Lord of hosts.

9 The silver is mine, and the gold is mine, saith the Lord of hosts.

10 Great shall be the glory of this last house more than of the first, saith the Lord of hosts: and in this place I will give peace, saith the Lord of hosts.

11 In the four and twentieth day of the ninth month, in the second year of Darius, the king, the word of the king came to Aggeus, the prophet, saying:

• Deut. xxviii. 38; Mic. vi. 15.

• A. M. 3485, A. C. 519.—Heb. xii. 26.

"duke," or captain. Sept. "of the tribe of Juda." H.—He descended from the kings of Juda, and was now chief governor by leave of Darius. W.—Zorobabel was son or grandson of Salathiel, (1 Par. iii. 17,) or was adopted by him, being born of Pladaia. C.—Josedec, who was led into captivity. 1 Par. vi. 15.

VER. 2. Yet come. The Jews refrained from commencing the temple till the time marked out by Jeremias, xxv. 11; Zac. i. 7. C.—Others, reflecting on the obstacles placed by Cyrus and Cambyses, thought it was not yet time to work at the temple: but these were only pretexts.

VER. 4. Ceiled: superbly adorned. Heb. "covered." You are not content with what is merely necessary, while the temple lies in ruins. C.

VER. 5. Ways. Sound the real motives of your neglect. H.—See if your misfortunes do not originate in this cause, and if God does not require you to build the temple. Ver. 9. C.

VER. 6. Filled. Lit. "inebriated," (H.) so as to become cheerful. S. Jer

VER. 8. The mountain Libanus. Wood had been purchased before, but had been used for other purposes. 1 Esd. iii. 7. Now the people went to procure more. C.

VER. 11. Drought. Heb. erb, (H.) is rendered the sword by the Sept., and may best signify "a burning wind," according to the different pronunciation. S. Jer.

VER. 13. Messenger. To excite the people's attention, Aggeus declares that he is sent by God, (W.) like the prophets of old. H.—With you. This is often repeated, to encourage the dejected people. M.

VER. 14. Work. Sept. "works." H.—They prepared materials, and begun the temple on the 24th of the ninth month. Chap. ii. 16, 19. M.

CHAP. II. VER. 1. In, &c. This should be joined with the preceding chap. C.—They began the new work at this time, and on the 21st of the seventh month the prophet had a fresh revelation. W.

VER. 4. Glory. The temple had been destroyed sixty-nine years before, so that many might have seen it.

VER. 7. Little. Christ was born 515 years afterwards. The world had been disturbed by Alexander and by the Romans, yet peace then prevailed. C.

VER. 8. DESIRED. Jacob styles him the expectation of nations, (Gen. xlix.) because He was wanting, and always necessary for all. W.—Many also, like Job, had a lively expectation of their Redeemer's coming from the tradition of the patriarchs. H.—Heb. "the desires of all nations shall come" (H.): venient. Sept. "the chosen things," &c. Christ shall come for all, (C.) and the elect shall meet him with eagerness. H.—In vain do the Jews attempt to contest this prediction. Was not the Messiah to be desired? and has not Jesus Christ procured the greatest advantages for mankind?

VER. 10. Peace: another title of the Messiah. His presence ennobles this temple (C.) more than precious ornaments of gold and silver (ver. 9) did that of Solomon. H.—Some have pretended that the second temple, repaired by Herod, was more spacious and magnificent than the former. It also subsisted a longer time. But this circumstance adds no superior value, unless the structure was better finished. C.—The Jews all agree that the temple of Zorobabel and of Herod was the same. Lempereur.—It is certain that this edifice was never honoured with the ark, &c., like that of Solomon; so that if it be not on account of the Messiah, no good reason appears for giving it the preference. H.—The ancients who had seen the former, wept (W.) when that of Zorobabel was founded, confessing its inferiority (H.) both in size and elegance. It was only 60 cubits high and broad, while the former was 120, built of polished stone and covered with cedar. Zorobabel had rough stones. 1 Esd. v. 8, and vi. 3, and 2 Par. iii. 4, and 3 Kings vi. 7. As for the same temple, enlarged and adorned by Herod, it continued not long in that state; and its chief glory consisted in our Saviour's presence, when he was received in the arms of Simeon, and often preached there.

12 Thus saith the Lord of hosts : Ask the priests of the law, saying :

13 If a man carry sanctified flesh in the skirt of his garment, and touch with his skirt, bread, or pottage, or wine, or oil, or any meat : shall it be sanctified ? And the priests answered, and said : No.

14 And Aggeus said : If one that is unclean by occasion of a soul touch any of all these things, shall it be defiled ? and the priests answered, and said : It shall be defiled.

15 And Aggeus answered, and said : So is this people, and so is this nation before my face, saith the Lord, and so is all the work of their hands : and all that they have offered there shall be defiled.

16 And now consider in your hearts, from this day and upward, before there was a stone laid upon a stone in the temple of the Lord.

17 When you went to a heap of twenty bushels, and they became ten : and you went into the press, to press out fifty vessels, and they became twenty.

18 ^aI struck you with a blasting wind, and all the works of your hand with the mildew and with hail, yet

^a Amos iv. 9.

VER. 13. No, conformably to Lev. vi. 27. M.—What the linen covered could not render other things sacred. The victim must come in immediate contact with them to have this effect. H.—Those who had touched the dead, rendered both holy and common things unclean for others. There were two sorts of sanctified meats : the victims of sin, which the priests on duty alone could eat, (Lev. vii. 1, 6,) and the peace-offerings, of which all who were clean might partake. Lev. vii. 19. The former alone sanctified what they touched. Both must be burnt if they touched any thing unclean, while ordinary food in the same predicament might be consumed by people in mourning, &c. C.

VER. 14. By occasion of a soul. That is, by having touched the dead : in which case, according to the prescription of the law, (Num. xix. 13, 22,) a person not only became unclean himself, but made every thing that he touched unclean. The prophet applies all this to the people, whose souls remained unclean by neglecting the temple of God ; and therefore were not sanctified by the flesh they offered in sacrifice, but rather defiled their sacrifices by approaching to them in the state of uncleanness. Ch.

VER. 15. So. He makes the application of the second answer given, ver. 14. All your victims have hitherto been contaminated. I redressed not your miseries. But now, as you have begun to work at my temple, I will remove the scourge. It is easy to apply the first answer, ver. 13.

VER. 16. Day, the 24th of the ninth month, when you began to build. Ver. 19 Henceforward your crops shall be abundant. M.—I judge not from natural there was none among you that returned to me, saith the Lord.

19 Set your hearts from this day, and henceforward, from the four and twentieth day of the ninth month : from the day that the foundations of the temple of the Lord were laid, and lay it up in your hearts.

20 Is the seed as yet sprung up ? or hath the vine, and the fig-tree, and the pomegranate, and the olive-tree, as yet flourished ? from this day I will bless you.

21 And the word of the Lord came a second time to Aggeus, in the four and twentieth day of the month, saying :

22 Speak to Zorobabel, the governor of Juda, saying : I will move both heaven and earth.

23 And I will overthrow the throne of kingdoms, and will destroy the strength of the kingdom of the Gentiles : and I will overthrow the chariot, and him that rideth therein : and the horses and their riders shall come down, every one by the sword of his brother.

24 In that day, saith the Lord of hosts, I will take thee, ^bO Zorobabel, the son of Salathiel, my servant, saith the Lord, and will make thee as a signet, for I have chosen thee, saith the Lord of hosts.

^b Eccli. xlix. 13.

appearances, as the corn is still in the granary. Ver. 20. C.—Upon a stone. The foundations had been laid the year after the Jews returned, and an altar set up. 1 Esd. iii. Nothing more of consequence was done till the second year of Darius. The temple was finished and dedicated in the sixth. 1 Esd. vi. 15. Hence Aggeus speaks of the stones to be used hereafter. Yet A. Rutter observes it was more fully accomplished when the Jews dug up the foundations, by order of Julian, who wished to falsify the prediction. H.

VER. 20. Sprung up. Heb. "in the granary," or cave, nagerah, whence the African nagara, or huts, are derived. Chal. and Sept. "barn floor," as it was commonly adjoining to these huts. Some have, "in blade." But this seems to be the sense : the corn is not yet sown, nor the trees in blossom, yet I announce great fertility next year.

VER. 22. Earth. Some great event is denoted. Nothing occurs in history after the second year of Darius, to show that Zorobabel signalized himself. But the Heb. speaks of something past, and we doubt not but the attempt of Cambyse, three years before, is the subject. Eze. xxxviii. "I have overturned the throne of kings," Cambyse, and the magi, and have given the kingdom to another family. The enemy has destroyed himself. Then I kept thee as a seal, with the greatest care. Jer. xxii. 24. Thou art no longer oppressed by the Persian king or his governor. Hystaspes has declared in thy favour. C.

VER. 24. O Zorobabel. This promise principally relates to Christ, who was of the race of Zorobabel. Ch.

THE

PROPHECY OF ZACHARIAS.

ZACHARIAS began to prophesy in the same year as Aggeus, and upon the same occasion. His prophecy is full of mysterious figures and promises of blessings, partly relating to the synagogue, and partly to the Church of Christ. Ch.—He is "most obscure and longest of the twelve" (S. Jer.) ; though Osee wrote the same number of chapters. H.—Zacharias speaks more plainly of the Messias and of the last siege of Jerusalem than the rest, as he lived nearer those times. C.—He appeared only two months after Aggeus, and showed that the Church should flourish in the synagogue, and much more after the coming of Christ, who would select his first preachers from among the Jews. Yet few of them shall embrace the gospel, in comparison with the Gentiles, though they shall at last be converted, S. Jer. ad Paulin. W.

CHAPTER I.

The prophet exhorts the people to return to God, and declares his visions, by which he puts them in hopes of better times.

CHAP. I. VER. 1. Barachias adopted him, (1 Esd. v. 1,) or rather Addo was his grandfather.

VER. 3. Turn ye. Such expressions admonish us of our free-will, and when

IN ^athe eighth month, in the second year of king Darius, the word of the Lord came to Zacharias,

^a A. M. 3485, A. C. 519.

we answer, convert us, &c. (Lam. v. 11. C.) we confess that God's grace preventeth us. Trid. Sess. vi. 5. W.—We may resist the Holy Spirit, (H.) and reject his graces. The prophet exhorts the people to lay aside all former negligence, (C.)

the son of Barachias, the son of Addo, the prophet, saying :

2 The Lord hath been exceeding angry with your fathers.

3 And thou shalt say to them : Thus saith the Lord of hosts : "Turn ye to me, saith the Lord of hosts : and I will turn to you, saith the Lord of hosts.

4 Be not as your fathers, to whom the former prophets have cried, saying : Thus saith the Lord of hosts : Turn ye from your evil ways, and from your wicked thoughts ; but they did not give ear, neither did they hearken to me, saith the Lord.

5 Your fathers, where are they ? and the prophets, shall they live always ?

6 But yet my words, and my ordinances, which I gave in charge to my servants, the prophets, did they not take hold of your fathers, and they returned, and said : As the Lord of hosts thought to do to us, according to our ways, and according to our devices, so he hath done to us.

7 In the four and twentieth day of the eleventh month, which is called Sabath, in the second year of Darius, the word of the Lord came to Zacharias, the son of Barachias, the son of Addo, the prophet, saying :

8 I saw by night, and behold a man riding upon a red horse, and he stood among the myrtle-trees, that were in the bottom ; and behind him were horses red, speckled, and white.

9 And I said : What are these, my lord ? And the angel that spoke in me, said to me : I will show thee what these are :

10 And the man that stood among the myrtle-trees answered, and said : These are they, whom the Lord hath sent to walk through the earth.

11 And they answered the angel of the Lord, that stood among the myrtle-trees, and said : We have walked through the earth, and behold all the earth is inhabited, and is at rest.

12 And the angel of the Lord answered, and said : O Lord of hosts, how long wilt thou not have mercy on Jerusalem, and on the cities of Juda, with which thou hast been angry ? this is now the seventieth year.

13 And the Lord answered the angel, that spoke in me, good words, comfortable words.

* Isa. xxi. 12, and xxxi. 6, and xlv. 22 ; Jer. iii. 12 ; Ezec. xviii. 30, and xx. 7, and proceed with the temple. H.—It had been commenced about two months before. Agg. ii. 1, 16.

VER. 6. Fathers. They felt their effects. H.—Returned ; being converted by the sight of God's judgments. Osee vi. 1, and 2 Esd. i. 6.

VER. 8. A man. An angel in the shape of a man. It was probably S. Michael, the guardian angel of the Church of God. Ch.—It is plain that he was an angel.

VER. 11. W.—Among. Sept. "between two shady mountains." H.

VER. 10. These are they, &c. The guardian angels of provinces and nations. Ch.

VER. 11. Rest. All the country under Michael's care enjoyed peace, (C.) in the second year of Darius. H.—The red horse implies slaughter. Apoc. vi. 4. It was now repressed. Tournemine.

VER. 12. The seventieth year ; viz. from the beginning of the siege of Jerusalem, in the ninth year of king Sedecias, to the second year of king Darius. These seventy years of the desolation of Jerusalem and the cities of Juda are different from the seventy years of captivity foretold by Jeremias ; which began in the fourth year of Joakim, and ended in the first year of king Cyrus. Ch.—The temple had also been destroyed now seventy years, (W.) and the angel prays, (H.) while the prophet begs that the people may be inspired to rebuild it. W.

VER. 13. Answered. We have here a proof of the intercession of angels, and of its good effects. H.—In me ; revealing God's will. S. Jer.

VER. 14. Zeal. I will again treat her as my spouse. H.

14 And the angel, that spoke in me, said to me : Cry thou, saying : Thus saith the Lord of hosts : "I am zealous for Jerusalem, and Sion, with a great zeal.

15 And I am angry with a great anger with the wealthy nations : For I was angry a little, but they helped forward the evil.

16 Therefore, thus saith the Lord : I will return to Jerusalem in mercies : my house shall be built in it, saith the Lord of hosts, and the building line shall be stretched forth upon Jerusalem.

17 Cry yet, saying : Thus saith the Lord of hosts : My cities shall yet flow with good things : and the Lord will yet comfort Sion, and he will yet choose Jerusalem.

18 And I lifted up my eyes, and saw : and behold four horns.

19 And I said to the angel that spoke to me : What are these ? and he said to me : These are the horns that have scattered Juda, and Israel, and Jerusalem.

20 And the Lord showed me four smiths.

21 And I said : What come these to do ? and he spoke, saying : These are the horns which have scattered Juda every man apart, and none of them lifted up his head : and these are come to fray them, to cast down the horns of the nations that have lifted up the horn upon the land of Juda, to scatter it.

CHAP. II.

Under the name of Jerusalem, he prophesieth the progress of the Church of Christ, by the conversion of some Jews, and many Gentiles.

AND I lifted up my eyes, and saw, and behold a man, with a measuring line in his hand.

2 And I said : Whither goest thou ? and he said to me : To measure Jerusalem, and to see how great is the breadth thereof, and how great the length thereof.

3 And behold the angel that spoke in me went forth, and another angel went out to meet him.

4 And he said to him : Run, speak to this young man, saying : Jerusalem shall be inhabited without walls, by reason of the multitude of men, and of the beasts, in the midst thereof.

5 And I will be to it, saith the Lord, a wall of fire round about : and I will be in glory in the midst thereof.

6 O, O flee ye out of the land of the north, saith the and xxxiii. 11 ; Osee xiv. 2 ; Joel ii. 12 ; Mal. iii. 7.—b Infra, viii. 2.

VER. 15. Nations, represented as four horns, ver. 18, 19.—Evil, through malice, and thus deserve themselves to be punished. Osee i. 4.

VER. 18—20. Four horns, . . four smiths. The four horns represent the empires, or kingdoms, that persecute and oppress the people of God : the four smiths or carpenters (for faber may signify either) represent those whom God makes his instruments in bringing to nothing the power of persecutors. Ch.—The princes of Assyria and of Babylon, the kings of Persia and of Egypt, had all treated them ill ; and these four empires have or will be destroyed by four chariots, (chap. vi. 1,) Nabopolassar, Cyrus, Alexander, and Antiochus. Dan. vii. 1, &c. S. Jerom, and many who usually follow him, understand the empires of the Chaldeans, Persians, Greeks, and Romans, to be designated by the horns, as the workmen mean the angels who have chastised those nations.

VER. 21. Every. Heb. "at pleasure ; none shall lift," &c. These kingdoms shall no longer prove formidable. C.—Fray, or "terrify." Sept. "to sharpen them in their hands. The horns are nations," &c. H.

CHAP. II. VER. 3. Another. The angel who measured spoke to Michael. C. VER. 4. Walls. This must be understood of the spiritual Jerusalem, the Church of Christ. Ch.

VER. 5. Fire, to enlighten and protect it. Arms will be unnecessary. Mic. v. 10 ; Isa. ii. 4. The Church shall enjoy peace.

VER. 6. North. Many Jews had not yet returned. Esther, &c.—Winds. Ezech. v. 2, 12. C.

Lord, for I have scattered you into the four winds of heaven, saith the Lord.

7 O Sion, flee thou that dwellest with the daughter of Babylon:

8 For thus saith the Lord of hosts: After the glory he hath sent me to the nations that have robbed you: for he that toucheth you, toucheth the apple of my eye:

9 For behold, I lift up my hand upon them, and they shall be a prey to those that served them: and you shall know that the Lord of hosts sent me.

10 Sing praise, and rejoice, O daughter of Sion: for behold, I come, and I will dwell in the midst of thee: saith the Lord.

11 And many nations shall be joined to the Lord in that day, and they shall be my people, and I will dwell in the midst of thee: and thou shalt know that the Lord of hosts hath sent me to thee.

12 And the Lord shall possess Juda, his portion in the sanctified land: and he shall yet choose Jerusalem.

13 Let all flesh be silent at the presence of the Lord: for he is risen up out of his holy habitation.

CHAP. III.

In a vision satan appeareth, accusing the high priest. He is cleansed from his sins. Christ is promised, and great fruit from his passion.

AND the Lord showed me Jesus, the high priest, standing before the angel of the Lord: and satan stood on his right hand, to be his adversary.

2 And the Lord said to satan: The Lord rebuke thee, O satan: and the Lord, that chose Jerusalem, rebuke thee: Is not this a brand plucked out of the fire?

3 And Jesus was clothed with filthy garments: and he stood before the face of the angel.

4 Who answered, and said to them that stood before him, saying: Take away the filthy garments from him. And he said to him: Behold, I have taken away thy iniquity, and have clothed thee with change of garments.

5 And he said: Put a clean mitre upon his head: and they put a clean mitre upon his head, and clothed him with garments: and the angel of the Lord stood.

VER. 8. Glory. After restoring you to your own country, and rebuilding your cities, I will punish your enemies. C.—After they have enjoyed prosperity, they shall feel the reverse. Heb. cabod, (H.) means also “a burden.”

VER. 9. Prey. Two years after this (C.) the Assyrians revolted, and seized Babylon Justin 1.

VER. 11. Nations. We know of none who embraced the Jewish law. But both the old and the new world submits to Christ.

VER. 13. Silent: obey with reverence. H. See Hab. ii. 20, and 1 Mac. i. 3. C.—Habitation, becoming man. M.

CHAP. III. VER. 1. Jesus, or Josue, the son of Josedec, the high priest of that time. Ch.—To him this literally refers. W.—As high priest, he represented the nation, whom several calumniated to Darius. 1 Esd. iv., &c. God represses the adversary, and adorns his people. C.—Satan. Sept. “the devil;” the accuser and calumniator. Apoc. xii. 10.

VER. 2. The Lord said. This may refer to the angel, or to the Father and the Son. Psal. cix. Both are styled Jehovah.—Brand, alluding to the nation, or to Jesus. Have not they suffered enough? Amos iv. 11. C.

VER. 3. Garments. Negligences and sins. Ch.

VER. 4. Change, such as were worn on festivals. This showed that the people should exchange adversity for joy.

VER. 5. Mitre, (cydarim,) the pontiff's tiara, of byssus. Exod. xxviii. 4.

VER. 7. Judge. The high priests were at the head till the Machabees Jos. Ant. xi. 4, and xx. 8.—Yet the nation was, (C.) till Simon, (H.) always dependent; and the judges were under foreign kings or governors. C.—Give thee, &c. Angels to attend and assist thee. Ch. C.—Of them. Sept. “who shall converse in the midst of these who stand” (H.): thy children shall succeed in the pontificate. Theod.

VER. 8. Portending men. That is, men who by words and actions are to foreshow wonders that are to come (Ch.); or rather they require prodigies before they will take courage to build the temple; or they understand how to explain

6 And the angel of the Lord protested to Jesus, saying:

7 Thus saith the Lord of hosts: If thou wilt walk in my ways, and keep my charge, thou also shalt judge my house, and shalt keep my courts, and I will give thee some of them that are now present here to walk with thee.

8 Hear, O Jesus, thou high priest, thou and thy friends that dwell before thee, for they are portending men: for behold, “I WILL BRING MY SERVANT, THE ORIENT.”

9 For behold the stone that I have laid before Jesus: upon one stone there are seven eyes: behold, I will grave the graving thereof, saith the Lord of hosts: and I will take away the iniquity of that land in one day.

10 In that day, saith the Lord of hosts, every man shall call his friend under the vine, and under the fig-tree.

CHAP. IV.

The vision of the golden candlestick and seven lamps, and of the two olive-trees. Zorobabel shall finish the building of the temple.

AND the angel that spoke in me came again: and he waked me, as a man that is wakened out of his sleep.

2 And he said to me: What seest thou? And I said: I have looked, and behold a candlestick all of gold, and its lamp upon the top of it: and the seven lights thereof upon it: and seven funnels for the lights that were upon the top thereof.

3 And two olive-trees over it: one upon the right side of the lamp, and the other upon the left side thereof.

4 And I answered, and said to the angel that spoke in me, saying: What are these things, my lord?

5 And the angel that spoke in me answered, and said to me: Knowest thou not what these things are? And I said: No, my lord.

6 And he answered, and spoke to me, saying: This is the word of the Lord to Zorobabel, saying: Not with an army, nor by might: but by my spirit, saith the Lord of hosts.

7 Who art thou, O great mountain, before Zorobabel?

• Luke i. 78.

such things. C.—ORIENT; Christ, who according to his humanity is the servant of God, is called the Orient, from his rising like the sun in the east to enlighten the world. Ch.—S. Luke explains this of Christ, (W.) recording the words of Zacharias. H.—Christ's birth was most pure. He gave light to the world.

VER. 9. The stone. Another emblem of Christ, the rock, foundation, and corner-stone of his Church.—Eyes. The manifold providence of Christ over his Church, or the seven gifts of the Spirit of God. Ch.—Grave. Sept. “dig a pit.” The rest agree with us. Christ adorns and instructs his Church. C.—Day. The day of the passion of Christ, the source of all our good; when this precious stone shall be graved, that is, cut and pierced with whips, thorns, nails, and spear. Ch.

CHAP. IV. VER. 1. Again. He had been with Jesus. Chap. iii. C.

VER. 2. A candlestick, &c. The temple of God that was then in building, and in a more sublime sense, the Church of Christ. Ch.—Some, with the Jews, apply this to the synagogue: but most explain it of the Church, the lamp denoting Christ, and the seven lights all his pastors; the two olives, Enoch and Elias. Apoc. xi. W.—The angel explains the latter of Jesus and Zorobabel. VER. 14. C.—Lamp. Heb. gole, (H.) a round vessel for oil. M.

VER. 5. Are? Thou art a prophet, and art thou ignorant? M.

VER. 6. To Zorobabel. This vision was in favour of Zorobabel, to assure him of success in the building of the temple, which he had begun, signified by the candlestick; the lamp of which, without any other industry, was supplied with oil dropping from the two olive trees, and distributed by the seven funnels or pipes, to maintain the seven lights. Ch.—Spirit, represented by the eyes. The Messiah would receive the fulness of this spirit. Isa. xi. 2. C.

VER. 7. Great mountain. So he calls the opposition made by the enemies of God's people; which, nevertheless, without any army or might on their side, was quashed by Divine Providence. Ch.—It may also mean Sion covered with ruins.—Chief; either the first or the last stone. C.—Equal grace. Shall add grace to grace, or beauty to beauty. Ch.—He shall greatly adorn it. Heb. “when they shall lift it (the stone) up, they will exclaim: Let it be agreeable and loved.” C.

thou shalt become a plain: and he shall bring out the chief stone, and shall give equal grace to the grace thereof:

8 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

9 The hands of Zorobabel have laid the foundations of this house, and his hands shall finish it: and you shall know that the Lord of hosts hath sent me to you.

10 For who hath despised little days? and they shall rejoice, and shall see the tin plummet in the hand of Zorobabel. These are the seven eyes of the Lord, that run to and fro through the whole earth.

11 And I answered, and said to him: What are these two olive-trees upon the right side of the candlestick, and upon the left side thereof?

12 And I answered again, and said to him: What are the two olive branches, that are by the two golden beaks, in which are the funnels of gold?

13 And he spoke to me, saying: Knowest thou not what these are? And I said: No, my lord.

14 And he said: These are two sons of oil, who stand before the Lord of the whole earth.

CHAP. V.

The vision of the flying volume, and of the woman in the vessel.

AND I turned, and lifted up my eyes: and I saw, and behold a volume flying:

2 And he said to me: What seest thou? And I said: I see a volume flying: the length thereof is twenty cubits, and the breadth thereof ten cubits.

3 And he said to me: This is the curse, that goeth forth over the face of the earth: for every thief shall be judged, as is there written: and every one that sweareth, in like manner shall be judged by it.

4 I will bring it forth, saith the Lord of hosts: and it shall come to the house of the thief, and to the house of him that sweareth falsely by my name: and it shall remain in the midst of his house, and shall consume it, with the timber thereof, and the stones thereof.

5 And the angel went forth that spoke in me: and he

VER. 10. Little days. That is, these small and feeble beginnings of the temple of God. Ch.—Ye of little faith shall rejoice when you shall behold Zorobabel surmounting all difficulties. C.—Plummet. Lit. “the stone of tin.” He means the builder’s plummet, which Zorobabel shall hold in his hand for the finishing the building. Ch.—The Heb. style all weights stones. Deut. xxv. 13. C.—Eyes. The providence of God, that oversees and orders all things (Ch.); or the assistance of the seven chief angels. Tob. xii. 15; Apoc. i. 4. C.

VER. 14. Two sons of oil. That is, the two anointed ones of the Lord; viz. Jesus, the high priest, and Zorobabel, the prince. Ch.—The Hebrews have not many adjectives. Thus they say, the son of perdition, for a lost son. Sept. “sons of fatness.” Aq. and Th. “of splendour;” two illustrious personages. H.—One was head in religious, the other in civil matters. C.—Jesus and Zorobabel were to repair the damages done by the Chaldeans. They were assisted by the seven administering spirits. Heb. i. 14. C.

CHAP. V. VER. 1. Eyes of the soul. M.—Volume. That is, a parchment, according to the form of the ancient books, which, from being rolled up, were called volumes. Ch.—Such are still used in the synagogues. They were usually written only on one side. C.

VER. 2. Cubits, alluding to Judea, which was twice as long as it was broad. M.—Many explain this vision, and that of the women, (ver. 7,) of the Jews, (C.) after S. Jerom. H.—But it seems rather to denote the Chaldeans, whose sentence had been long pronounced, and who were punished by the Persians and by the Greeks, as by two women. If we understand the Jews, their iniquity was chastised by the Assyrians and Chaldeans. C.

VER. 4. Thief. Nabuchodonosor is often so styled. Jer. iv. 7. This title comprises all the injuries done to man, as he that sweareth falsely refers to those where God’s honour is concerned (C.) more immediately. H.

VER. 6. Vessel. Heb. epha. C.—Eye. This is what they fix their eye upon: or this is a resemblance and figure of them, viz. of sinners. Ch.—Prot. “resemblance.” H.—This is their picture. C.

VER. 7. Talent, or weight, (H.) called a stone, ver. 8.—Vessel, like the idol Canopus.

said to me: Lift up thy eyes, and see what this is, that goeth forth.

6 And I said: What is it? And he said: This is a vessel going forth. And he said: This is their eye in all the earth.

7 And behold, a talent of lead was carried, and behold, a woman sitting in the midst of the vessel.

8 And he said: This is wickedness. And he cast her into the midst of the vessel, and cast the weight of lead upon the mouth thereof.

9 And I lifted up my eyes, and looked: and behold, there came out two women, and wind was in their wings, and they had wings like the wings of a kite: and they lifted up the vessel between the earth and the heaven.

10 And I said to the angel that spoke in me: Whither do these carry the vessel?

11 And he said to me: That a house may be built for it in the land of Sennaar, and that it may be established, and set there upon its own basis.

CHAP. VI.

The vision of the four chariots. Crowns are ordered for Jesus, the high priest, as a type of Christ.

AND I turned, and lifted up my eyes, and saw: and behold four chariots came out from the midst of two mountains: and the mountains were mountains of brass.

2 In the first chariot were red horses, and in the second chariot black horses,

3 And in the third chariot white horses, and in the fourth chariot grised horses, and strong ones.

4 And I answered, and said to the angel that spoke in me: What are these, my lord?

5 And the angel answered, and said to me: These are the four winds of the heaven, which go forth to stand before the Lord of all the earth.

6 That, in which were the black horses, went forth into the land of the north, and the white went forth after them: and the grised went forth to the land of the south.

7 And they that were most strong, went out, and

VER. 9. Women. They often represent nations; and here the Jews understood the Medes and Greeks, who punished the Chaldeans. S. Jerom rather thinks that the Assyrians and Chaldeans are meant, carrying away Israel and Juda. Yet the former supposition seems preferable, as the woman in the vessel signified the wickedness of Babylon.

VER. 11. The land of Sennaar, where Babel or Babylon was built (Gen. ix.); where note that Babylon, in holy writ, is often taken for the city of the devil, (that is, for the whole congregation of the wicked,) as Jerusalem is taken for the city and people of God. Ch.—The Chaldeans are driven from the countries which they had seized, and confined to their own territory, by the Persians and Greeks; or, if we explain it of the Jews, many of them remained at Babylon, and did not return to defile their own country. Only those whose hearts were touched by God returned. 1 Esd. i. 5. C.

CHAP. VI. VER. 1. Four chariots. The four great empires of the Chaldeans, Persians, Grecians, and Romans; or, perhaps, by the fourth chariot are represented the kings of Egypt and of Asia, the descendants of Ptolemaeus and Seleucus. Ch. See Dan. ii. W.—The chariots seem to represent the same thing as the four horns, (chap. i. 18,) namely, the punishment of the four empires. The angel says nothing of the first chariot, as the Chaldeans, who overthrew the Assyrians, were now devoid of power.—Brass, or hard; signifying that the chariots were designed to bruise nations. C.

VER. 5. Winds. These angels go throughout the world to punish. Dan. x. 13. We commonly suppose the tutelar angels to be for the defence of their kingdoms. C.—But they may often promote our real welfare by chastisements. H.

VER. 6. North. So Babylon is called, because it lay to the north in respect of Jerusalem. The black horses, that is, the Medes and Persians, and after them Alexander and his Greeks, signified by the white horses, went thither because they conquered Babylon, executed upon it the judgments of God, which is signified, ver. 8, by the expression of quieting his spirit. Ch.—South: Egypt, which lay to the south of Jerusalem, and was occupied first by Ptolemaeus, and then by the Romans. Ch.

VER. 7. Strong. Sept. “variegated;” ψαροι, (H.) sturnini. S. Jer.—Earth sought to go, and to run to and fro through all the earth. And he said: Go, walk throughout the earth: and they walked throughout the earth.

8 And he called me, and spoke to me, saying: Behold, they that go forth into the land of the north, have quieted my spirit in the land of the north.

9 And the word of the Lord came to me, saying:

10 Take of them of the captivity, of Holdai, and of Tobias, and of Idaias; thou shalt come in that day, and shalt go into the house of Josias, the son of Sophonias, who came out of Babylon.

11 And thou shalt take gold and silver: and shalt make crowns, and thou shalt set them on the head of Jesus, the son of Josedec, the high priest.

12 And thou shalt speak to him, saying: Thus saith the Lord of hosts, saying: BEHOLD A MAN, THE ORIENT IS HIS NAME: and under him shall he spring up, and shall build a temple to the Lord.

13 Yea, he shall build a temple to the Lord: and he shall bear the glory, and shall sit, and rule upon his throne: and he shall be a priest upon his throne, and the counsel of peace shall be between them both.

14 And the crowns shall be to Helem, and Tobias, and Idaias, and to Hem, the son of Sophonias, a memorial in the temple of the Lord.

15 And they that are far off, shall come, and shall build in the temple of the Lord: and you shall know that the Lord of hosts sent me to you. But this shall come to pass, if hearing, you will hear the voice of the Lord, your God.

CHAP. VII.

The people inquire concerning fasting: they are admonished to fast from sin.

AND^b it came to pass in the fourth year of king Darius, that the word of the Lord came to Zacharias, in the fourth day of the ninth month, which is Casleu.

2 When Sarasar, and Rogommelech, and the men that were with him, sent to the house of God, to entreat the face of the Lord:

3 To speak to the priests of the house of the Lord of hosts, and to the prophets, saying: Must I weep in the

^a Luke i. 78.—^b A. M. 3487.—^c Isa. lviii. 5.

This well describes the ambition and power of the Seleucides, particularly of Antiochus the Great, (C.) or of the Roman generals down to Cæsar. M.

VER. 8. Spirit. Sept. "wrath or fury." H.—Nabopolassar overcame the Assyrians, Cyrus the Chaldeans, as Alexander would shortly treat the Persians.

VER. 10. Holdai, &c. They had brought presents for the temple, which are to be used to make crowns for Jesus and Zorobabel. VER. 13. C.—The names are interpreted by the Sept. "of the princes and of its useful things, and of those who have known it, (captivity,) and thou," &c. H.—Helem and Hem are afterwards mentioned instead of Holdai. VER. 14. S. Jer.

VER. 11. Crowns. Chal. "a great crown." Sept. ver. 14, "a crown."—Jesus. When the prophet set the crown on the high priest's head, in order to show that it did not belong to him, except as a figure of the Messias, he added, behold a man, who is also God, called Orient, or "raising up," and establishing the kingdom, which was promised to David. S. Jer. W.

VER. 12. ORIENT. Prot. "the BRANCH, and he shall grow up out of his place." H.—Heb. "under or from himself." This alludes to the miraculous birth of Christ, (Isa. xi. 1,) whom the prophet had principally in view.

VER. 13. Glory. Sept. "virtue," or "receive strength" and courage, ἀρετή (H); or one of the crowns, as prince of Juda. VER. 10. C.—Both. That is, he shall unite in himself the two offices or dignities of king and priest. Ch.

VER. 14. Helem. Sept. "the crown shall be for those who expect him." H.—Hem. Sept. "for grace." Heb. en. S. Jer.—Thus proper names are frequently interpreted. H.—The crowns were not to be worn, but to be deposited in the temple. 1 Mac. i. 23. C.—The names of those four who had contributed towards their making, were to be inscribed upon them. Helem and Hem are the same with Holdai and Josias. M.

VER. 15. Off. Many Jews now assisted in the building, coming from all fifth month, or must I sanctify myself, as I have now done for many years?

4 And the word of the Lord of hosts came to me, saying:

5 Speak to all the people of the land, and to the priests, saying: "When you fasted, and mourned in the fifth and the seventh month for these seventy years, did you keep a fast unto me?"

6 And when you did eat and drink, did you not eat for yourselves, and drink for yourselves?

7 Are not these the words which the Lord spoke by the hand of the former prophets, when Jerusalem as yet was inhabited, and was wealthy, both itself and the cities round about it, and there were inhabitants towards the south, and in the plain?

8 And the word of the Lord came to Zacharias, saying:

9 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, saying: "Judge ye true judgment, and show ye mercy, and compassion, every man to his brother.

10 "And oppress not the widow, and the fatherless, and the stranger, and the poor: and let not a man devise evil in his heart against his brother.

11 But they would not hearken, and they turned away the shoulder to depart: and they stopped their ears, not to hear.

12 And they made their heart as the adamant stone, lest they should hear the law, and the words which the Lord of hosts sent in his spirit by the hand of the former prophets: so a great indignation came from the Lord of hosts.

13 And it came to pass that as he spoke, and they heard not: so shall they cry, and I will not hear, saith the Lord of hosts.

14 And I dispersed them throughout all kingdoms, which they knew not: and the land was left desolate behind him, so that no man passed through or returned: and they changed the delightful land into a wilderness.

CHAP. VIII.

Joyful promises to Jerusalem: fully verified in the Church of Christ.

AND the word of the Lord of hosts came to me, saying:

^a Mic. vi. 8; Matt. xxiii. 23.—^b Exod. xxii. 22; Isa. i. 23; Jer. v. 28.

parts. The temple was thus finished in four years' time; whereas Solomon, with all his riches and workmen, spent seven in building one. C.

CHAP. VII. VER. 1. Casleu, in our November or December. C.

VER. 2. And. Sept. from (S. Jer.); or, "to Bethel sent Sarasar and Arbesar, the king, and his men, to render the face of the Lord propitious." H.

VER. 3. The fifth month. They fasted on the tenth day of the fifth month; because on that day the temple was burnt. Therefore they inquire whether they are to continue that fast after the temple is rebuilt. See this query answered ver. 19 of the following chap. Ch.

VER. 5. Years, from the ruin of the temple till the fourth of Darius.—Unto me? Did you grieve for the injury done to me? or was your sorrow caused by your own losses? C.—The fast was good, but imperfect, wanting works of charity. S. Greg. W.

VER. 6. Yourselves, to gratify the senses more than for necessity, and without doing it for God's glory. H.

VER. 7. Prophets. He alludes to Isa. lviii. 3. See also Jer. xiv. 12; Joel ii. 12. The Jews were always too much attached to the letter, without minding the spirit of the law, being zealous for corporal rather than for spiritual works.—South. Several of these cities were occupied by the Idumeans.—Plain, or Sephala, which afterwards became flourishing and populous. C.

VER. 11. Depart, so to leave the burden on their partner. Heb. C.—Lit. "giving way;" recedentem. Sixt. V. recedentes. Sept. "they gave a contemptuous back," (H.) like a slave, whom the whip cannot correct.

VER. 13. No shall. It seems the past time would be preferable; as Theodoret, S. Cyr., &c., understand it. C.—Yet the Jews, whom the prophet addressed, were also reprehensible; and they or their posterity felt the effects of God's indignation, when he scattered them throughout the world, as we see at present. Sept. have the future; but Prot. the past tense, "they cried," &c. H.

2 Thus saith the Lord of hosts : I have been jealous for Sion with a great jealousy, and with a great indignation have I been jealous for her.

3 Thus saith the Lord of hosts : I am returned to Sion, and I will dwell in the midst of Jerusalem : and Jerusalem shall be called the City of Truth, and the Mountain of the Lord of hosts, the sanctified mountain.

4 Thus saith the Lord of hosts : There shall yet old men and old women dwell in the streets of Jerusalem : and every man, with his staff in his hand, through multitude of days.

5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls, playing in the streets thereof.

6 Thus saith the Lord of hosts : If it seem hard in the eyes of the remnant of this people in those days, shall it be hard in my eyes ? saith the Lord of hosts.

7 Thus saith the Lord of hosts : Behold, I will save my people from the land of the east, and from the land of the going down of the sun.

8 And I will bring them, and they shall dwell in the midst of Jerusalem : and they shall be my people, and I will be their God in truth and in justice.

9 Thus saith the Lord of hosts : Let your hands be strengthened, you that hear in these days these words by the mouth of the prophets, in the day that the house of the Lord of hosts was founded, that the temple might be built.

10 For before those days there was no hire for men, neither was there hire for beasts, neither was there peace to him that came in, nor to him that went out, because of the tribulation : and I let all men go every one against his neighbour.

11 But now I will not deal with the remnant of this people according to the former days, saith the Lord of hosts.

12 But there shall be the seed of peace : the vine shall yield her fruit, and the earth shall give her increase, and the heavens shall give their dew : and I will cause the remnant of this people to possess all these things.

13 And it shall come to pass, that as you were a curse among the Gentiles, O house of Juda and house of Israel, so will I save you, and you shall be a blessing ; fear not, let your hands be strengthened.

14 For thus saith the Lord of hosts : As I purposed to afflict you, when your fathers had provoked me to wrath, saith the Lord,

15 And I had no mercy : so, turning again, I have thought in these days to do good to the house of Juda, and Jerusalem : fear not.

16 These then are the things which you shall do : *Speak ye truth every one to his neighbour ; judge ye truth and judgment of peace in your gates.

17 And let none of you imagine evil in your hearts against his friend ; and love not a false oath ; for all these are the things that I hate, saith the Lord.

18 And the word of the Lord of hosts came to me, saying :

19 Thus saith the Lord of hosts : The fast of the fourth month, and the fast of the fifth, and the fast of the seventh, and the fast of the tenth, shall be to the house of Juda joy and gladness, and great solemnities ; only love ye truth and peace.

20 Thus saith the Lord of hosts : Until people come and dwell in many cities,

21 And the inhabitants go one to another, saying : Let us go, and entreat the face of the Lord, and let us seek the Lord of hosts : I also will go.

22 And many peoples and strong nations shall come to seek the Lord of hosts, in Jerusalem, and to entreat the face of the Lord.

23 Thus saith the Lord of hosts : In those days, wherein ten men of all languages of the Gentiles shall take hold, and shall hold fast the skirt of one that is a Jew, saying : We will go with you ; for we have heard that God is with you.

CHAP. IX.

God will defend his Church, and bring over even her enemies to the faith. The meek coming of Christ, to bring peace, to deliver the captives by his blood, and to give us all good things.

THE burden of the word of the Lord, in the land of Hadrach, and of Damascus the rest thereof ; for the eye of man, and of all the tribes of Israel, is the Lord's.

2 Emath also, in the borders thereof, and Tyre, and Sidon ; for they have taken to themselves to be exceeding wise.

3 And Tyre hath built herself a strong hold, and heaped together silver as earth, and gold as the mire of the streets.

4 Behold the Lord shall possess her, and shall strike her strength in the sea, and she shall be devoured with fire.

5 Ascalon shall see, and shall fear, and Gaza, and shall

* Ephes. iv. 25.

CHAP. VIII. VER. 2. Jealous for her, treating her as a spouse, (C.) and not neglecting her as one incorrigible. H.

VER. 3. Truth. Idols and infidelity shall reign there no more. The Jews were more faithful after the captivity. But the Church of Christ is alone perfectly chaste. C.

VER. 7. Sun, from Chaldea and the islands. This chiefly regards the Christian Church. C.

VER. 8. Justice. I will fulfil my promises, if they adhere to virtue. C.

VER. 10. Hire, or "reward ;" merces. H.—All their toils proved useless : (C.) the land would not yield her fruit. H. See Agg. ii. 16.—Neighbour. Civil broils and the enemy rendered all wretched. 1 Esd. iv.

VER. 17. Friend means every neighbour, or all mankind. Luke x. 27, 36. Even thoughts must be guarded. C.

VER. 19. Fast.—They fasted on the ninth day of the fourth month, because on that day Nabuchodonosor took Jerusalem. Jer. lii. 6. On the tenth day of the fifth month, because on that day the temple was burnt. Jer. lii. 12. On the third day of the seventh month, for the murder of Godolias. Jer. xli. 2. And on the tenth day of the tenth month, because on that day the Chaldeans began to besiege Jerusalem. 4 Kings xxv. 1. All these fasts, if they will be obedient for the future, shall be changed (as is here promised) into joyful solemnities. Ch.—The Jews still observe all four. Basnage v. 16.

VER. 22. Lord. Many were converted in the days of Esther (viii. 17) ; and the Pharisees were eager to make proselytes in all parts, when Christ preached. Matt. xxiii. 15 ; Acts ii. 11. Yet we must go to the Church to see this fully accomplished. C.

VER. 23. Ten men, &c. Many of the Gentiles became proselytes to the Jewish religion before Christ ; but many more were converted to Christ by the apostles and other preachers of the Jewish nation. Ch.—Skirt, or hem, by which the Jews were distinguished. Num. xv. 38 ; Matt. ix. 20. C.

CHAP. IX. VER. 1. Burden. Preaching of the truth is disagreeable to infidels, and light to the faithful. W.—Hadrach ; Syria, (Ch.) or a city near Damascus, on which it rested. The victories of Alexander and of the Machabees are here described. C.—Rest. Sept. "his sacrifice, for the Lord looks on men and on all the tribes of Israel." H.—He wishes for the conversion of all, and those who turn to him are not rejected. S. Jer.

VER. 2. Emath, or Emesa, not far from Damascus. C.—It shall also fall a prey to Alexander. H.—Tyre was become again very rich and strong, (C.) and gloried in its wisdom ; yet was taken after a long and obstinate resistance (H.) of seven months, when the inhabitants were slain or sold, the city demolished, and the ships sunk. Curt. 4. Usher, A. 3672.

VER. 5. Ascalon was ruined. The other cities opened their gates, as Jerusalem did. Jos. Ant. xi. ult.

be very sorrowful : and Accaron, because her hope is confounded : and the king shall perish from Gaza, and Ascalon shall not be inhabited.

6 And the divider shall sit in Azotus, and I will destroy the pride of the Philistines.

7 And I will take away his blood out of his mouth, and his abominations from between his teeth ; and even he shall be left to our God, and he shall be as a governor in Juda, and Accaron as a Jebusite.

8 And I will encompass my house with them that serve me in war, going and returning, and the oppressor shall no more pass through them ; for now I have seen with my eyes.

9 ^a Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Sion, shout for joy, O daughter of Jerusalem : BEHOLD THY KING will come to thee, the just and saviour : he is poor, and riding upon an ass, and upon a colt, the foal of an ass.

10 And I will destroy the chariot out of Ephraim, and the horse out of Jerusalem, and the bow for war shall be broken : and he shall speak peace to the Gentiles, and his power shall be from sea to sea, and from the rivers even to the end of the earth.

11 Thou also, by the blood of thy testament, hast sent forth thy prisoners out of the pit, wherein is no water.

12 Return to the strong hold, ye prisoners of hope, I will render thee double, as I declare to-day.

13 Because I have bent Juda for me as a bow, I have filled Ephraim ; and I will raise up thy sons, O Sion, above thy sons, O Greece, and I will make thee as the sword of the mighty.

14 And the Lord God shall be seen over them, and his dart shall go forth as lightning ; and the Lord God will sound the trumpet, and go in the whirlwind of the south.

15 The Lord of hosts will protect them : and they shall devour, and subdue with the stones of the sling : and drinking, they shall be inebriated as it were with wine, and they shall be filled as bowls, and as the horns of the altar.

16 And the Lord, their God, will save them in that day, as the flock of his people : for holy stones shall be lifted up over his land.

17 For what is the good thing of him, and what is his beautiful thing, but the corn of the elect, and wine springing forth virgins ?

CHAP. X.

God is to be sought to, and not idols. The victories of his Church, which shall arise originally from the Jewish nation.

ASK ye of the Lord rain in the latter season, and the Lord will make snows, and will give them showers of rain, to every one grass in the field.

2 For the idols have spoken what was unprofitable, and the diviners have seen a lie, and the dreamers have spoken vanity ; they comforted in vain ; therefore they were led away as a flock : they shall be afflicted, because they have no shepherd.

3 My wrath is kindled against the shepherds, and I will visit upon the buck-goats : for the Lord of hosts hath visited his flock, the house of Juda, and hath made them as the horse of his glory in the battle.

4 Out of him shall come forth the corner, out of him the pin, out of him the bow of battle, out of him every exactor together.

5 And they shall be as mighty men, treading under foot the mire of the ways in battle ; and they shall fight, because the Lord is with them ; and the riders of horses shall be confounded.

6 And I will strengthen the house of Juda, and save the house of Joseph : and I will bring them back again, because I will have mercy on them : and they shall be as they were when I had cast them off, for I am the Lord their God, and will hear them.

^a Isa. lxii. 11 ; Matt. xxi. 5.

VER. 6. Divider. Heb. manzer ; "bastard," or rather "stranger." The sequel seems to show that the Jews, &c. occupied the towns of the Philistines under the Machabees. Chal. Grot. C.

VER. 7. His blood. It is spoken of the Philistines, and particularly of Azotus, (where the temple of Dagon was,) and contains a prophecy of the conversion of that people from their bloody sacrifices and abominations to the worship of the true God. Ch.—Governor, or city of a thousand (C.) : Heb. alup. Mic. v. 2. H.—Jebusite. They probably embraced the faith with Areuna. 2 Kings xxiv. 16. The city was formerly styled Jehus. C.

VER. 8. Iwar ; the Machabees. Ch.—They stood up like a wall for the people and the temple. C.—Heb. "my house, on account of those going," &c. I will protect it better than an army. H.—After the Machabees, God preserved the temple from profanation till he abandoned it after the death of Christ. C.—Oppressor ; tax-gatherer, (H.) sent by foreign tyrants. M.—Till the Machabees, particularly Hircan, (C.) or Simon, his father, (H.) threw off the yoke, the Jews were always subject (C.) either to the Persians, to Syria, or to Egypt. H. C.

VER. 9. KING. Christ often came to Jerusalem ; but his last entrance, to die for man's redemption, was most excellent. W.—If the Jews had not wilfully blinded themselves, they could not mistake Him, as he is here so minutely described, possessing the most humble and the noblest qualities. After predicting what would befall the Jews till about one hundred years before the birth of Christ, the prophet turns to Him who was the desire and comfort of the nation. C.—Saviour. Heb. Jeussā, (H.) or Jesus. S. Jer.—Poor ; or meek, as S. Matthew quotes it, after the Sept. and Chal. M. C.—Ass. Sept. "yoked animal, and upon a young foal." H.—The former denotes the Jews.

VER. 10. Chariot. Arms shall be useless. Mic. v. 10.—Earth. This can be understood only of Christ's kingdom, (C.) though it allude to the greatest limits of the promised land. H.

VER. 11. Water ; from limbo, (S. Jer., &c. W. S. Tho. 3, p. q. 52, a. 1. C.) and purgatory. See S. Aug. de Gen. xii. 23, and Ep. 99. M.—Christ delivered the ancient patriarchs by virtue of his covenant, just sealed with his blood.

VER. 12. Hold. Return ye, who stay behind, to Jerusalem. God will make good all that you abandon ; or come, Judas has procured liberty for the people. 1 Mac. iv. 36. C.—Embrace the gospel, and enter the Church. M.

VER. 13. Juda : the Machabees. S. Jer.—Filled, or stretched the bow of Ephraim. C.—The people shall act with vigour and union. H.—Sons ; viz. the apostles, who, in the spiritual way, conquered the Greeks, and subdued them to Christ. Ch. .

VER. 14. Seen. God miraculously interposed in favour of the Machabees, and his angels appeared at their head. 1 Mac. ii. 22, and v. 2, and x. 29, and xi. 8, and xv. 15.—South, whence storms usually arise in that country. Job xxxvii. 9. The angels confounded the enemy. 1 Mac. x. 30.

VER. 15. Sling. At first the Machabees had no other weapon. 1 Mac. iv. 6. The sling was much used. Judg. xx. 16.—Wine. They will shed the blood of the enemy so abundantly, and be all besmeared with it. C.

VER. 16. Holy stones ; the apostles, who shall be as pillars and monuments in the Church. Ch.

VER. 17. The corn, &c. His most excellent gift is the blessed Eucharist, called here the corn, that is, the bread of the elect, and the wine springing forth virgins, that is, maketh virgins to bud, or spring forth as it were like flowers among thorns, because it has a wonderful efficacy to give and preserve purity. Ch.—It enables the weak to despise all things for the sake of virtue, and makes them fruitful and eloquent, as the original implies. C. W.—Those who partake worthily of the blessed Eucharist, become strong and pure. M.—Prot. "corn shall make the young men cheerful, (marg. grow, or speak,) and new wine the maids." H.

CHAP. X. VER. 1. Snows. Prot. "Bright clouds," or "lightnings." H.—God will presently grant your requests, after the persecution of Epiphanes. C.—The latter season is when fruit ripens, the acceptable time to sue for grace. W.

VER. 2. Vanity. Jason prevailed on many to imitate the Gentiles. 1 Mac. i. 12.

VER. 3. Goats ; the leaders of the people. Jer. l. 8. C.—Jason died in exile, Lysimachus was slain in the temple, Alcimus perished miserably, and Menelaus was hurled among ashes. 2 Mac. v. 5, and iv. 39, and xiii. 4, and 1 Mac. ix. 54.

VER. 4. Corner, to connect the building. The Machabees were not of the tribe of Juda ; but it was the chief, and gave name to the rest. Juda was also a figure of Christ, the chief corner-stone, and he should be born of that tribe.—Pin, to fasten down the tent, or to hang things upon. These comparisons were not deemed mean. 1 Esd. ix. 8 ; Isa. xxii. 23.

VER. 6. Joseph. All the tribes shall embrace the gospel at last. W.—Back from the caverns to which they had fled.

7 And they shall be as the valiant men of Ephraim, and their heart shall rejoice as through wine; and their children shall see, and shall rejoice, and their heart shall be joyful in the Lord.

8 I will whistle for them, and I will gather them together, because I have redeemed them: and I will multiply them as they were multiplied before.

9 And I will sow them among peoples: and from afar they shall remember me: and they shall live with their children, and shall return.

10 And I will bring them back out of the land of Egypt, and I will gather them from among the Assyrians; and will bring them to the land of Galaad, and Libanus, and place shall not be found for them.

11 And he shall pass over the strait of the sea, and shall strike the waves in the sea, and all the depths of the river shall be confounded, and the pride of Assyria shall be humbled, and the sceptre of Egypt shall depart.

12 I will strengthen them in the Lord, and they shall walk in his name: saith the Lord.

CHAP. XI.

The destruction of Jerusalem and the temple. God's dealings with the Jews, and their reprobation.

OPEN thy gates, O Libanus, and let fire devour thy cedars.

2 Howl, thou fir-tree, for the cedar is fallen, for the mighty are laid waste: howl, ye oaks of Basan, because the fenced forest is cut down.

3 The voice of the howling of the shepherds, because their glory is laid waste: the voice of the roaring of the lions, because the pride of the Jordan is spoiled.

4 Thus saith the Lord, my God: Feed the flock of the slaughter.

5 Which they that possessed, slew, and repented not, and they sold them, saying: Blessed be the Lord, we are become rich: and their shepherds spared them not.

6 And I will no more spare the inhabitants of the land, saith the Lord: behold, I will deliver the men, every one into his neighbour's hand, and into the hand of his king:

^a Apoc. xvi. 12; Isa. xi. 15.

and they shall destroy the land, and I will not deliver it out of their hand.

7 And I will feed the flock of slaughter for this, O ye poor of the flock. And I took unto me two rods, one I called Beauty, and the other I called a Cord: and I fed the flock.

8 And I cut off three shepherds in one month, and my soul was straitened in their regard: for their soul also varied in my regard.

9 And I said: I will not feed you: that which dieth, let it die: and that which is cut off, let it be cut off: and let the rest devour every one the flesh of his neighbour.

10 And I took my rod that was called Beauty, and I cut it asunder to make void my covenant, which I had made with all people.

11 And it was made void in that day: and so the poor of the flock that keep for me, understood that it is the word of the Lord.

12 And I said to them: If it be good in your eyes, bring hither my wages: and if not, be quiet. ^bAnd they weighed for my wages thirty pieces of silver.

13 And the Lord said to me: Cast it to the statuary, a handsome price, that I was priced at by them. And I took the thirty pieces of silver; and I cast them into the house of the Lord, to the statuary.

14 And I cut off my second rod that was called a Cord, that I might break the brotherhood between Juda and Israel.

15 And the Lord said to me: Take to thee yet the instruments of a foolish shepherd.

16 For behold I will raise up a shepherd in the land, who shall not visit what is forsaken, nor seek what is scattered, nor heal what is broken, nor nourish that which standeth, and he shall eat the flesh of the fat ones, and break their hoofs.

17 O shepherd, and idol, that forsaketh the flock: the sword upon his arm, and upon his right eye: his arm shall quite wither away, and his right eye shall be utterly darkened.

^b Matt. xxvii. 9.

VER. 9. Me. The Jews were spread throughout the world, and adhered to their own customs. Philo. See Acts ii. 8.

VER. 10. For them. They returned from the places to which they had been dispersed, during former wars, when Judas had liberated his country. C.

VER. 11. Sea. No obstacles shall be able to retard God's people. Isa. xi. 16. — Assyria. After Epiphanes, the kingdom subsisted only about seventy years. — Egypt. The Ptolemies excluded the natural princes, who have never regained the throne. They who had so often disturbed the Jews, were deprived of their power over them by the Syrians, and never could prevail there again after the Maccabees. C.

CHAP. XI. VER. 1. Gates. Josephus (Bel. vii. 12) relates, that the heavy eastern gates flew open at midnight; and the priests officiating at Pentecost, heard a multitude crying, "Let us go hence." See Tacit. Hist. 5. Johanan then declared, "O temple, I know thou wilt soon be destroyed," as Zac. foretold, Open, &c. Kimchi, Lyr., &c. C. — Libanus. So Jerusalem, and more particularly the temple, is called by the prophets, from its height, and from its being built of the cedars of Libanus. Ch. Isa. x. 34; Ezec. xvii. S. Jer.—The destruction of both by Titus is predicted. W.—Cedars. Thy princes and chief men. Ch. W.

VER. 2. Fir and oak may signify the cities and towns of the Jews.—Fenced. Sept. "well planted" (C.); or "forest, planted all at once." H.—"The temple was like a fortress." Tacit.

VER. 3. Pride, or farther banks, covered with shrubs, among which lions dwelt. Jer. i. 44. C.

VER. 4. Feed, thou Zacharias (M.); or the prophet announces what God will do.

VER. 6. Hand. This alludes to the last siege of Jerusalem, in which the different factions of the Jews destroyed one another, and they that remained fell into the hands of their king. (that is, of the Roman emperor,) of whom they had said, (John xiv. 15.) We have no king but Cæsar. Ch.

VER. 7. For this. Christ came to feed his flock. C.—But the Jews would not receive him. H.—Two rods. or shepherds' staves, meaning the different ways of God's dealing with his people; the one by sweet means, called the rod of Beauty, the other by bands and punishments, called the Cord. And where both these rods are made of no use or effect by the obstinacy of sinners, the rods are broken, and such sinners are given up to a reprobate sense, as the Jews were. Ch.—The first denotes God's general providence, as it is most seemly that all should be under him; the second means his particular care of the Jews. W.

VER. 8. Month. That is, in a very short time. By these three shepherds probably are meant the latter princes and high priests of the Jews, whose reign was short. Ch.

VER. 9. Not feed. This is the final sentence. God allowed them thirty-seven years to repent, after the death of Christ.

VER. 11. Poor converts to Christ, (C.) who retired to Pella, (Eus. Hist. iv. 5.) as they had been warned of the impending storm. Matt. xxiv. 1; Luke xxi. 20.

VER. 12. Pieces. Sicles are usually understood. About fifty-one livres. The Jews bought the life of Christ for this sum (C.); for thirty pieces. W.

VER. 13. The statuary. The Heb. word signifies also a potter, (Ch.) and this seems to be the true meaning. Matt. xxvii. 3. The prophet is ordered to bring, thus to indicate what should be done by the traitor. C.

VER. 14. Israel. The latter remained obstinate, (C.) while Juda, the real "confessor," (H.) embraced the gospel. After the destruction of the temple, the Jewish ceremonies were no longer (C.) observed or tolerated in the Church, as they had been, in order that the synagogue might be buried with honour. S. Aug. H.

VER. 15. A foolish shepherd. This was to represent the foolish, that is, the wicked princes and priests that should rule the people, before their utter desolation. Ch.

VER. 16. Hoofs, with excessive travelling. C.

VER. 17. Shepherd. Sept. "ye who feed foolish things, forsaking," &c. H.

CHAP. XII.

God shall protect his Church against her persecutors. The mourning of Jerusalem.

THE burden of the word of the Lord upon Israel. Thus saith the Lord, who stretcheth forth the heavens, and layeth the foundations of the earth, and formeth the spirit of man in him:

2 Behold I will make Jerusalem a lintel of surfeiting to all the people round about: and Juda also shall be in the siege against Jerusalem.

3 And it shall come to pass in that day, that I will make Jerusalem a burdensome stone to all people; all that shall lift it up shall be rent and torn; and all the kingdoms of the earth shall be gathered together against her.

4 In that day, saith the Lord, I will strike every horse with astonishment, and his rider with madness: and I will open my eyes upon the house of Juda, and will strike every horse of the nations with blindness.

5 And the governors of Juda shall say in their heart: Let the inhabitants of Jerusalem be strengthened for me in the Lord of hosts, their God.

6 In that day I will make the governors of Juda like a furnace of fire amongst wood, and as a firebrand amongst hay: and they shall devour all the people round about, to the right hand and to the left: and Jerusalem shall be inhabited again in her own place in Jerusalem.

7 And the Lord shall save the tabernacles of Juda, as in the beginning: that the house of David, and the glory of the inhabitants of Jerusalem may not boast and magnify themselves against Juda.

8 In that day shall the Lord protect the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and he that hath offended among them in that day shall be as David: and the house of David as that of God, as an angel of the Lord in their sight.

9 And it shall come to pass in that day, that I will seek to destroy all the nations that come against Jerusalem.

^a John xix. 37.

—Heb. "shepherd of nothing."—Darkened. Caligula was slain, and had not sense to know what was for his real interest. His wife and only daughter were murdered. See Jos. Ant. xix. 1. Suet.

CHAP. XII. VER. 2. A lintel of surfeiting. That is, a door into which they shall seek to enter, to glut themselves with blood: but they shall stumble, and fall like men stupefied with wine. It seems to allude to the times of Antiochus, and to the victories of the Machabees. Ch.—Yet it indirectly relates to the last siege of Jerusalem, and to Jesus Christ establishing his Church. Heb. "a cup of drowsiness," or trembling. C.—Sept. "as courts (or thresholds; προθύρα) shaken." H.—Jerusalem first drank the cup herself; and then, under the Machabees, made others suffer.—Juda. Never before Epiphanes had the Jews fought against their brethren.

VER. 3. Stone. It was customary to have such huge stones for people to try their strength. S. Jer.

VER. 4. Blindness. The cavalry of the Syrians proved useless against a few (C.) champions under God's protection. H.

VER. 5. Let. Sept. "We shall find for us the inhabitants of Jerusalem, in the Lord Almighty, their God." H.—Judas always exhorted his men to trust in the Lord. 1 Mac. iii. 18. C.—Machabai, the initials of "who is like thee among the strong, (Alim.) O Lord," (Exod. xv. 11. H.) is supposed to have been his motto, (C.) written on his banners; and some assert that it occasioned the appellation of Machabee. H.—"Strengthen for me." Aquila.

VER. 6. Furnace. Sept. "firebrand among wood, and as a burning lamp amid straw." H.—Left. The Samaritans shall fall as well as the Idumeans.—Place. The temple and city had been deserted, while the troops of Epiphanes occupied the citadel. 1 Mac. iii. 45, and iv. 38.

VER. 7. David. The Machabees were not of this family, but Levites, born at Modin, in Ephraim. C.

VER. 8. Hath. Sept. "is weak."—Offended. Such shall repent and be pardoned, like David. H.—Of God. He seems to allude to Christ's birth. David's offspring shall not ascend the throne; but their virtue shall be conspicuous; they shall give birth to Jesus, Mary, and Joseph. C.

VER. 10. Prayers. Sept. and Chal. "pity." H.—After the Machabees more

10 And I will pour out upon the house of David, and upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem, the spirit of grace and of prayers; and they shall look upon me, whom they have pierced; and they shall mourn for him as one mourneth for an only son, and they shall grieve over him, as the manner is to grieve for the death of the first-born.

11 In that day there shall be a great lamentation in Jerusalem, like the lamentation of Adadremmon, in the plain of Mageddon.

12 And the land shall mourn: families and families apart: the families of the house of David apart, and their women apart:

13 The families of the house of Nathan apart, and their women apart: the families of the house of Levi apart, and their women apart: the families of Semei apart and their women apart.

14 All the rest of the families, families and families apart, and their women apart.

CHAP. XIII

The fountain of Christ. Idols and false prophets shall be extirpated. Christ shall suffer: his people shall be tried by fire.

IN that day there shall be a fountain open to the house of David, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem: for the washing of the sinner, and of the unclean woman.

2 And it shall come to pass in that day, saith the Lord of hosts, that I will destroy the names of idols out of the earth, and they shall be remembered no more: and I will take away the false prophets, and the unclean spirit out of the earth.

3 And it shall come to pass, that when any man shall prophesy any more, his father and his mother that brought him into the world, shall say to him: Thou shalt not live: because thou hast spoken a lie in the name of the Lord. And his father, and his mother, his parents, shall thrust him through, when he shall prophesy.

4 And it shall come to pass in that day, that the pro-

^b 2 Par. xxxv. 22.—Ezec. xxx. 13.

synagogues were erected, and the people were more faithful; yet this chiefly regards the new law, in which the Spirit prays with us ineffably. Rom. viii. 26. C.—Me. So far the prophet speaks in Christ's name. He afterwards relates how the people will grieve for him, beating their breasts. Luke xxiii. 48. This was clearly verified in Christ. John xix. 31. M.—But in the gospel we read, him whom they have pierced, as the context seems here to require. H.—Some Heb. copies read in like manner, (C.) the Erfurth MS. 2, having alim, "on him," though Michaelis remarks not this important variation.—Both Jews and Gentiles have all contributed by their sins to crucify their Lord; and, at the last day, all shall look on him as their judge, or as their deliverer.—Pierced. Heb. dokru. H.—Sept. have transposed d and r, which are very similar, and read rohdu, "have danced," or derided. S. Jer.—The original implies, have outraged or blasphemed, as well as pierced. They shall henceforward cease to despise God and his law. C.

VER. 11. Adadremmon. A place near Mageddon, where the good king Josias was slain, and much lamented by his people. Ch.—It was not far from Jerahel. 2 Par. xxxv.

VER. 12. Apart. Bands of men and of women mourning, went with musical instruments separately through the streets, and into the country; as they still do in the East. C.

VER. 13. Nathan. Zorobabel was his descendant.—Semei, the son of Gershom. 1 Par. vi. 16. C.—"From this tribe the doctors are chosen." S. Jer.—The pious of all ranks bewail the death of Christ, and the share which they had in it. H.

CHAP. XIII. VER. 1. Fountain. In the New Testament Christ is made an open fountain by his incarnation. John iv. 13. S. Greg. 20, in Ezec. i. 6, Ep. 186. W.—His baptism and other sacraments have the most surprising effects, to which the prophet refers more than to those waters which were brought by pipes into the temple to cleanse the victims. Ezec. xlvi. 1. C.

VER. 2. No more. After the Machabees, the people were free from idolatry and magical arts were repressed. Osee ii. 16; Ezec. xxxvii. 22. C.

VER. 3. Not live. The law condemned those prophets to death, who attempted to lead the people into idolatry. Deut. xiii. 1. People shall be so zealous for God's honour, that the parents of the seducer shall themselves (C.) bring him phets shall be confounded, every one by his own vision, when he shall prophesy, neither shall they be clad with a garment of sackcloth, to deceive :

5 But he shall say : I am no prophet, I am a husbandman : for Adam is my example from my youth.

6 And they shall say to him : What are these wounds in the midst of thy hands ? And he shall say : With these I was wounded in the house of them that loved me.

7 Awake, O sword, against my shepherd, and against the man that cleaveth to me, saith the Lord of hosts : "strike the shepherd, and the sheep shall be scattered : and I will turn my hand to the little ones.

8 And there shall be in all the earth, saith the Lord, two parts in it shall be scattered, and shall perish : but the third part shall be left therein.

9 And I will bring the third part through the fire, and will refine them as silver is refined : and I will try them as gold is tried. They shall call on my name, and I will hear them. I will say : Thou art my people : and they shall say : The Lord is my God.

CHAP. XIV.

After the persecutions of the Church, shall follow great prosperity. Persecutors shall be punished : so shall all that will not serve God in his Church.

BEHOLD the days of the Lord shall come, and thy spoils shall be divided in the midst of thee.

2 And I will gather all nations to Jerusalem to battle, and the city shall be taken, and the houses shall be rifled, and the women shall be defiled : and half of the city shall go forth into captivity, and the rest of the people shall not be taken away out of the city.

* Matt. xxvi. 31 ; Mark xiv. 27.

to judgment. H.—Through, or make some mark upon him, as fugitive slaves, &c. were stigmatized. C.—The person was not slain. Ver. 6.

VER. 4. Vision. They shall have no appearance of truth.—Sackcloth. Heb. "hairy skin ;" adereth. Such were used by kings. Jon. iii. 6. The people shall not be deceived by such appearances, so that these garments will not be used. The Jews have always been ready to receive impostors. Matt. vii. 15.

VER. 5. Husbandman. Worldly occupations were incompatible with the office of prophets. 3 Kings xix. 20 ; Amos vii. 14 ; Matt. iv. 20. The (C.) false (H.) prophets will become so odious, that people will excuse themselves from taking up the calling.—Example. I am condemned like him to labour. Gen. iii. 17. Sept. "a man begot me." Heb. "taught, or bought me, (C.) or caused me to work." De Dieu.

VER. 6. Loved me. My parents marked me thus. Ver. 3. C.—Some have understood this of Jesus Christ. Rupert. S. Tho.—But the context excludes this interpretation, which would be injurious to him. C.—The false prophet is reformed by his parents' correction, so that he applies to agriculture, and owns that he had been justly punished. S. Jer. 11.

VER. 7. Sword. This address rouses attention. C.—The sword implies all the torments which Christ endured. W.—He explains this of himself ; only instead of strike, he says I will strike, (Matt. xxvi. 31,) as the sword was directed by God. H.—Little ones. Sept., Arab., &c. "shepherds," (C.) which "many ill apply to the Jewish princes." S. Jer.—Tsairim means also "the little." Mic. v. 2. Christ takes care of his little flock, (Luke xii. 32. H.) and is always one with the Father. John viii. 29, and x. 30. C.

VER. 8. Third. The greatest part of mankind will be lost. H.—The few Jews who embrace the faith will be absorbed in the Gentile converts, and suffered to live, though proved by persecutions, while the rest shall be exterminated. Both shall lose their name, and be styled Christians. C.

VER. 9. Fire. The Church was persecuted during the three first centuries ; but always became more pure, and the blood of martyrs increased her numbers. C.—She faithfully adhered to God. H.

CHAP. XIV. VER. 1. Midst. The obstinate Jews shall be destroyed. They became their own enemies. C.—The Zealots committed the greatest excesses during the last siege. Jos. Bel. v. 1.

VER. 2. I will gather, &c. This seems to be a prophecy of what was done by Antiochus, (Ch.) or of the last siege, (W.) by the Romans. S. Jer. Theod. Eus. Dem. vi. 18. C.—Vespasian collected numerous forces. Jos. Bel. iii. 1.—Titus had six legions and many auxiliaries, Arabs, &c. Tacit. Hist. 5.—Rifted, or demolished. None was left standing. Jos. Bel. vii. 6 ; Heges. v. 49.—S. Jerom and others think that the city on Sion was spared, (C.) and forty thousand were permitted to dwell where they had a mind. Jos. Bel. vii. 15.—But it is not said

3 Then the Lord shall go forth, and shall fight against those nations, as when he fought in the day of battle.

4 And his feet shall stand in that day upon the mount of Olives, which is over against Jerusalem towards the east : and the mount of Olives shall be divided in the midst thereof to the east, and to the west with a very great opening, and half of the mountain shall be separated to the north, and half thereof to the south.

5 And you shall flee to the valley of those mountains, for the valley of the mountains shall be joined even to the next, and you shall flee ^aas you fled from the face of the earthquake in the days of Ozias, king of Juda : and the Lord, my God, shall come, and all the saints with him.

6 And it shall come to pass in that day, that there shall be no light, but cold and frost.

7 And there shall be one day, which is known to the Lord, not day nor night : and in the time of the evening there shall be light :

8 And it shall come to pass in that day, that living waters shall go out from Jerusalem : half of them to the east sea, and half of them to the last sea : they shall be in summer and in winter.

9 And the Lord shall be King over all the earth : in that day there shall be one Lord, and his name shall be one.

10 And all the land shall return even to the desert, from the hill to Remmon, to the south of Jerusalem : and she shall be exalted, and shall dwell in her own place, from the gate of Benjamin even to the place of the former gate, and even to the gate of the corners ; and from the tower of Hananeel even to the king's wine-presses.

^b Amos i. 1.

that they continued at Jerusalem. Half the Jews therefore perished, and those who maintained the siege found a grave in the city. Theod.

VER. 3. Shall. Sept. "will stand in battle array among ;" &c., (παρὰ ταῖς ταῖς,) though he will one day punish the victorious Romans. H.—Now he fought with them, as Heb. may signify. C.

VER. 4. Olives. Here the tenth legion was stationed, (Jos. Bel. vi. 3,) on the spot where Christ had denounced this judgment, and ascended into heaven. Luke xix. 41 ; Acts i. 12.

VER. 5. Flee. While the siege was forming many escaped, according to Josephus. Heb., Sept., &c. "The vale of my mountains shall be filled up, for," &c. C.—Yet Prot. agree with us. H.—Those should be "my." Ribera. M.—The next. Prot. and Sept. "reach unto Azal." H.—You shall. Sept., &c. "and it shall be filled, as it was filled at the earthquake," &c. C.—The Romans had to raise many works in the vale of Cedron, so that the trees all round were cut down, and the garden walls removed thither. Jos. Bel. vi. 4, 14.—Ozias, when he attempted to offer incense. Jos. Ant. ix. 11 ; Amos i. 1 ; and 4 Kings xv. 15.—Yet the earthquake is not specified in the sacred historical books. W.—On that occasion the people retired into the vale formed by the separation of Olivet ; or, if we follow the Sept., part of that mountain fell into the valley of Cedron, which we find no where else specified. C.—With him. Prot. "thee." H.—God is attended by his angels ; though the Romans may be called his saints, or people destined to execute his decrees in this war. Isa. xiii. 3 ; Soph. i. 7 ; Deut. xxxiii. 3 ; Joel iii. 1. C.

VER. 6. No light ; viz. in that dismal time of the persecution of Antiochus, when it was neither day nor night, (ver. 7,) because they neither had the comfortable light of the day, nor the repose of the night. Ch.—Darkness denotes distress. The citizens shall be in despair. Matt. xxiv. 29 ; Ezech. xxii. 8 ; Joel ii. 2 ; Apoc. ix. 2. C.

VER. 7. In the time of the evening there shall be light. An unexpected light shall arise by the means of the Machabees, when things shall seem to be at the worst. Ch.

VER. 8. Living waters ; viz. the gospel of Christ. Ch.—Last : Mediterranean. H.—The prophet now turns to the figurative Jerusalem. The earthly city was not well supplied with water. C.—It was in the most dry and barren part of the country. S. Jer. in Isa. xlix.

VER. 9. One Lord. The apostles justly gave this title to Christ. John xiii. 14. He is possessed of all power. Matt. xxviii. 18 ; Phil. ii. 10. Pastors are all subject to him. C.—The Pope styles himself, "servant of the servants of God," since S. Gregory's time. H.

VER. 10. Return. This in some measure was verified by the means of the Machabees ; but is rather to be taken in a spiritual sense, as relating to the prophe-

11 And people shall dwell in it, and there shall be no more an anathema : but Jerusalem shall sit secure.

12 And this shall be the plague, wherewith the Lord shall strike all nations that fought against Jerusalem : the flesh of every one shall consume away while they stand upon their feet, and their eyes shall consume away in their holes, and their tongue shall consume away in their mouth.

13 In that day there shall be a great tumult from the Lord among them : and a man shall take the hand of his neighbour, and his hand shall be clasped upon his neighbour's hand.

14 And even Juda shall fight against Jerusalem : and the riches of all nations round about shall be gathered together, gold, and silver, and garments in great abundance.

15 And the destruction of the horse, and of the mule, and of the camel, and of the ass, and of all the beasts, that shall be in those tents, shall be like this destruction.

16 And all they that shall be left of all nations that came against Jerusalem, shall go up from year to year, to adore the King, and Lord of hosts, and to keep the feast of tabernacles.

17 And it shall come to pass, that he that shall not go up of the families of the land to Jerusalem, to adore the King, the Lord of hosts, there shall be no rain upon them.

18 And if the family of Egypt go not up, nor come : neither shall it be upon them, but there shall be destruction, wherewith the Lord will strike all nations that will not go up to keep the feast of tabernacles.

19 This shall be the sin of Egypt, and this the sin of all nations, that will not go up to keep the feast of tabernacles.

20 In that day that which is upon the bridle of the horse shall be holy to the Lord : and the cauldrons in the house of the Lord shall be as the phials before the altar.

21 And every cauldron in Jerusalem and Juda shall be sanctified to the Lord of hosts : and all that sacrifice, shall come, and take of them, and shall seethe in them : and the merchant shall be no more in the house of the Lord of hosts in that day.

gation of the Church and kingdom of Christ, the true Jerusalem, which alone shall never fall under the anathema of destruction, or God's curse. Ch.

VER. 11. Anathema. It shall not be sentenced to utter ruin. The Church may suffer losses, but cannot perish. C.

VER. 12. Consume. Such judgments as these have often fallen upon the persecutors of God's Church, as appears by many instances in history. Ch.

VER. 13. Them. The Church shall be alarmed at these wars, seeing enemies on all sides. But those days shall be shortened. Matt. xxiv. 21.—Hand. Christians shall assist each other ; or rather the nearest relations will persecute them. Matt. x. 21, 36. C.

VER. 14. Even Juda, &c. The carnal Jews, and other false brothers, shall join in persecuting the Church. Ch.—Riches. Converts showed their generosity so much, (C.) that Julian and Felix, apostates, complained of this profusion in sacred vessels. Theod. Hist. ii. 11, 12.

VER. 15. Shall be like this destruction. That is, the beasts shall be destroyed as well as the men ; the common soldiers as well as their leaders. Ch.—History does not specify the death of cattle, (C.) though in plagues this would inevitably follow ; and the pagans complained that they were become more common since the propagation of the gospel. H.

VER. 16. Left. That is, many of them that persecuted the Church shall be converted to its faith and communion, (Ch.) particularly after Constantine. C.—Tabernacles. This feast was kept by the Jews, in memory of their sojourning forty years in the desert, in their way to the land of promise. And in the spiritual sense, is duly kept by all such Christians as in their earthly pilgrimage are continually advancing towards their true home, the heavenly Jerusalem, by the help of the sacraments and sacrifice of the Church. And they that neglect this, must not look for the kind showers of Divine grace to give fruitfulness to their souls. Ch.—Out of the Church there is no salvation. C.—Other things may be obtained. S. Cyp. H.

VER. 17. There. Sept. "these shall also be added to them" who perish. H.

VER. 19. Sin, or punishment. Formerly various nations were excluded from the religion or assemblies of Israel. Lev. xxii. 25 ; Deut. xxiii. 1. Now all are invited and compelled to enter the Church, so that they can have no excuse. Luke xiv. 24. C.

VER. 20. Bridle. The golden ornaments of the bridles, &c. shall be turned into offerings in the house of God. And there shall be an abundance of cauldrons and phials for the sacrifices of the temple : by which is meant, under a figure, the great resort there shall be to the temple, that is, to the Church of Christ, and her sacrifice. Ch.—It is of a different nature, being the body and blood of Christ. But it shall not be confined to one place, nor the priesthood to one family. Ver. 21. C.

VER. 21. Merchant ; or, as some render it, the Chanaanite shall be no more, &c., that is, the profane and unbelievers shall have no title to be in the house of the Lord ; or, there shall be no occasion for buyers or sellers of oxen, or sheep, or doves, in the house of God, such as Jesus Christ cast out of the temple. Ch. John ii. 16.—All former distinction of Jew and Gentile shall cease in the Church. Past faults shall be forgotten. C.

THE PROPHECY OF MALACHIAS.

MALACHIAS, whose name signifies "the angel of the Lord," was contemporary with Nehemias, and by some is believed to have been the same person with Esdras. He was the last of the prophets, in the order of time, and flourished about four hundred years before Christ. He foretells the coming of Christ ; the reprobation of the Jews and their sacrifices ; and the calling of the Gentiles, who shall offer up to God in every place an acceptable sacrifice. Ch.—He also clearly speaks of the twofold coming of Christ, preceded by the Baptist and by Elias. He inveighs against the same crimes as Nehemias, to whose covenant he alludes, chap. ii. 4. None was afterwards recognised for a prophet till the Baptist appeared. C.—Both priests and people are here reproved, and the Jewish law yields to that of Christ. W.

CHAPTER I.

God reproaches the Jews with their ingratitude : and the priests for not offering pure sacrifices. He will accept of the sacrifice that shall be offered in every place among the Gentiles.

THE ^aburden of the word of the Lord to Israel, by the hand of Malachias.

^a A. M. circiter, 3604, A. C. 400.

2 I have loved you, saith the Lord : and you have said : Wherein hast thou loved us ? Was not Esau brother to Jacob, saith the Lord, and ^bI have loved Jacob,

3 But have hated Esau ? and I have made his mountains a wilderness, and given his inheritance to the dragons of the desert.

^b Rom. ix. 13.

CHAP. I. VER. 1. Malachias, "the angel of the Lord." C.

VER. 2. Loved us. So they thought, (Theod.) and perhaps spoke. H.—Jacob. I have preferred his posterity, to make them my chosen people, and to load them with my blessings, without any merit on their part, and though they have been always ungrateful ; whilst I have rejected Esau, and executed severe judgments upon his posterity. Not that God punished Esau or his posterity beyond their 4 But if Edom shall say: We are destroyed, but we will return and build up what hath been destroyed: thus saith the Lord of hosts: They shall build up, and I will throw down: and they shall be called the borders of wickedness, and the people with whom the Lord is angry for ever.

5 And your eyes shall see: and you shall say: The Lord be magnified upon the border of Israel.

6 The son honoureth the father, and the servant his master: if then I be a father, where is my honour? and if I be a master, where is my fear? saith the Lord of hosts:

7 To you, O priests, that despise my name, and have said: Wherein have we despised thy name? You offer polluted bread upon my altar: and you say: Wherein have we polluted thee: In that you say: The table of the Lord is contemptible.

8 If you offer the blind for sacrifice, is it not evil? and if you offer the lame and the sick, is it not evil? offer it to thy prince, if he will be pleased with it, or if he will regard thy face, saith the Lord of hosts.

9 And now beseech ye the face of God, that he may have mercy on you (for by your hand hath this been done) if by any means he will receive your faces, saith the Lord of hosts.

10 Who is there among you, that will shut the doors, and will kindle the fire on my altar, gratis? I have no pleasure in you, saith the Lord of hosts: and I will not receive a gift of your hand.

11 *For from the rising of the sun even to the going down, my name is great among the Gentiles, and in every place there is sacrifice, and there is offered to my name a clean oblation: for my name is great among the Gentiles, saith the Lord of hosts.

12 And you have profaned it in that you say: The table of the Lord is defiled: and that which is laid thereupon, is contemptible, with the fire that devoureth it.

13 And you have said: Behold of our labour, and you deserts, but that by his free election and grace he loved Jacob, and favoured his posterity above their deserts. See the annotations upon Rom. ix. Ch.

* Psal. cxii. 3.

VER. 3. Esau, perceiving the evil which was already in him, and would appear afterwards (S. Jer. and Theod.); or rather he was a figure of the reprobate, though not of course one himself. S. Aug.—A person is said to hate what he loves less. C.—Dragons. Sept. "houses;" so that they shall be deserted. 11.

VER. 4. Down, by the Machabees, who forced the people to receive circumcision. 1 Mac. v. 3. C.—At that time the Jews were more pious, and glorified God. H.—Ever. God's gratuitous love appears in his leaving Edom in captivity, and restoring the Jews. W.

VER. 6. Father. God sometimes took this title. Exod. iv. 32. But he was oftener represented as a master; and the old law was a law of fear. C.

VER. 7. Bread, including all the victims, &c. Lev. iii. 11; Num. xxviii. 2. C.

VER. 8. Lame. The victims must be without defect. Lev. xxii. 21. Those of the Jews were also rendered inadmissible by their evil dispositions. Agg. ii. 14. C.—Prince: the governor sent by the Persians. If you dare not make such presents to men of eminence, how shall I accept them? C.

VER. 10. Gratis? Are you not well paid? Why then perform you not your duty exactly? C.—Sept. "Wherefore also among you shall the doors be shut, and my altar is not enkindled for nought," (11.) as if God menaced the Jews with the rejection of the temple, as the sequel does. C.—Pleasure. Many other prophets had foretold the reprobation of the synagogue, but none more plainly.

VER. 11. Sacrifice. Prot. "incense." H.—Clean oblation. The precious body and blood of Christ in the eucharistic sacrifice. Ch.—This is denoted by the very word mincha, the offering of flour and wine. C. See S. Just. Dial. S. Iræn. iv. 32. S. Aug. de Civ. Dei, xviii. 35.—"We pollute this bread, that is the body of Christ, when we approach the altar unworthily." S. Jer. Ver. 7.—This sacrifice is always pure, though the priest or receiver be otherwise. C.—Hence it is always clean. Trid. 22. C. 1. M.—It is offered daily throughout the world. The Jews was the completion of this prediction, and are vexed; they strive to elude its force. Though enemies, they bear about these proofs of our faith, and of their own conpuffed it away, saith the Lord of hosts, and you brought in of rapine the lame, and the sick, and brought in an offering: shall I accept it at your hands, saith the Lord?

14 Cursed is the deceitful man, that hath in his flock a male, and making a vow, offereth in sacrifice that which is feeble to the Lord: for I am a great King, saith the Lord of hosts, and my name is dreadful among the Gentiles.

CHAP. II.

The priests are sharply reprov'd for neglecting their covenants. The evil of marrying with idolaters; and too easily putting away their wives.

AND now, O ye priests, this commandment is to you. 2 ^bIf you will not hear, and if you will not lay it to heart, to give glory to my name, saith the Lord of hosts: I will send poverty upon you, and will curse your blessings; yea, I will curse them: because you have not laid it to heart.

3 Behold, I will cast the shoulder to you, and will scatter upon your face the dung of your solemnities, and it shall take you away with it.

4 And you shall know that I sent you this commandment, that my covenant might be with Levi, saith the Lord of hosts.

5 My covenant was with him of life and peace: and I gave him fear: and he feared me, and he was afraid before my name.

6 The law of truth was in his mouth, and iniquity was not found in his lips: he walked with me in peace, and in equity, and turned many away from iniquity.

7 For the lips of the priest shall keep knowledge, and they shall seek the law at his mouth: because he is the angel of the Lord of hosts.

8 But you have departed out of the way, and have caused many to stumble at the law: you have made void the covenant of Levi, saith the Lord of hosts.

9 Therefore have I also made you contemptible and base before all people, as you have not kept my ways, and have accepted persons in the law.

^b Lev. xxvi. 14; Deut. xxviii. 15.

demnation. C.—God not only changed his people, but instituted a better sacrifice. Instead of the former needy elements, (Gal. iv.,) which were often defiled by the sins of the offerers, He instituted the sacrifice of his own Body and Blood, under the appearances of bread and wine, as S. Chrys., (in Psal. xev.,) Theod., &c. prove against all opponents. A sacrifice different from any offered by the Jews, who could offer only at Jerusalem, (Deut. xvi.,) is clearly specified, as many have demonstrated. W.—Christ's bloody sacrifice on the cross was performed on Calvary, and not among the Gentiles. What sacrifice can Protestants now produce? H.

VER. 13. Behold of our labour, &c. You pretended labour and weariness, when you brought your offering; and so made it of no value, by offering it with an evil mind. Moreover, what you offered was both defective in itself, and gotten by rapine and extortion. Ch.—Rapine. Eccli. xxxiv. 24.—Offering. Mincha, ver. 11. C.

VER. 14. Male. So better things are styled mascula thura. C.—King. So the Persian monarchs were called.—Dreadful. Gr. "Epiphanes." H.

CHAP. II. VER. 1. Priests. Such, hoarding up riches, dishonour God and his sacraments, as if they were temporal things to be purchased, and so they scandalize the weak. W.

VER. 3. Shoulder. I will cast away the shoulder, which in the law was appointed to be your portion, and fling it at you in my anger: and will reject both you and your festivals like dung. Ch.

VER. 4. Levi. When this tribe was chosen does not appear. Some think that he alludes to the renewing of the covenant under Nehemias, which seems best. 2 Esd. ix. 1, 38. I then promised you life, &c. C.

VER. 7. The angel, viz. the minister and messenger. Ch.—Priests must administer the sacraments, and likewise instruct the people, being God's messengers. W.—If such science was required under the old law, how much more is necessary in Christian priests, whose mysteries and duties are so much more important! C.—Ignoratio scripturarum ignoratio Christi est. S. Jer. in Isa. et hic.

VER. 9. People. If priests comply not with these high functions, they are despicable here, and condemned to eternal torments. Jude 11. W.

10 "Have we not all one father? hath not one God created us? why then doth every one of us despise his brother, violating the covenant of our fathers?"

11 Juda hath transgressed, and abomination hath been committed in Israel, and in Jerusalem: 'for Juda hath profaned the holiness of the Lord, which he loved, and hath married the daughter of a strange god.

12 The Lord will cut off the man that hath done this, both the master and the scholar, out of the tabernacles of Jacob, and him that offereth an offering to the Lord of hosts

13 And this again have you done, you have covered the altar of the Lord with tears, with weeping, and bel-lowing, so that I have no more a regard to sacrifice, nei-ther do I accept any atonement at your hands.

14 And you have said: For what cause? Because the Lord hath been witness between thee, and the wife of thy youth, whom thou hast despised: yet she was thy partner, and the wife of thy covenant.

15 Did not one make her, and she is the residue of his spirit? And what doth one seek, but the seed of God? Keep then your spirit, and despise not the wife of thy youth.

16 When thou shalt hate her, put her away, saith the Lord, the God of Israel: but iniquity shall cover his gar-ment, saith the Lord of hosts; keep your spirit, and despise not.

17 You have wearied the Lord with your words: and you said: Wherein have we wearied him? In that you say: Every one that doth evil, is good in the sight of the Lord, and such please him: or surely where is the God of judgment?

CHAP. III.

Christ shall come to his temple, and purify the priesthood. They that continue in their evil ways shall be punished: but true penitents shall receive a blessing.

BEHOLD, 'I send my angel, and he shall prepare the way before my face. And presently the Lord whom we seek, and the angel of the testament, whom you desire, shall come to his temple. Behold, he cometh, saith the Lord of hosts:

• Matt. xxiii. 9; Ephes. iv. 6.

2 And who shall be able to think of the day of his coming? and who shall stand to see him? for he is like a refining fire, and like the fuller's herb:

3 And he shall sit refining and cleansing the silver, and he shall purify the sons of Levi, and shall refine them as gold, and as silver, and they shall offer sacrifices to the Lord in justice.

4 And the sacrifice of Juda, and of Jerusalem, shall please the Lord, as in the days of old, and in the ancient years.

5 And I will come to you in judgment, and will be a speedy witness against sorcerers, and adulterers, and false swearers, and them that oppress the hireling in his wages, the widows, and the fatherless: and oppress the stranger, and have not feared me, saith the Lord of hosts.

6 For I am the Lord, and I change not: and you the sons of Jacob are not consumed.

7 For from the days of your fathers you have departed from my ordinances, and have not kept them: 'Return to me, and I will return to you, saith the Lord of hosts. And you have said: Wherein shall we return?

8 Shall a man afflict God, for you afflict me? And you have said: Wherein do we afflict thee? In tithes and in first-fruits.

9 And you are cursed with want, and you afflict me, even the whole nation of you.

10 Bring all the tithes into the store house, that there may be meat in my house, and try me in this, saith the Lord: if I open not to you the flood-gates of heaven, and pour you out a blessing even to abundance.

11 And I will rebuke for your sakes the devourer, and he shall not spoil the fruit of your land: neither shall the vine in the field be barren, saith the Lord of hosts.

12 And all the nations shall call you blessed: for you shall be a delightful land, saith the Lord of hosts.

• Matt. xi. 10; Mark i. 2; Luke i. 17, and vii. 27.—• Zac. i. 5.

VER. 10. Brother, in distress. 2 Esd. v. 1.

VER. 11. God, or one addicted to idol-worship, (H.) which was contrary to the law. Deut. vii. 3. C.—Sept. "the holy things of the Lord, by what he has loved and done for strange gods." H.

VER. 12. Master. Heb. "the watcher, and him who answers," on guard. C.—Him. Sept. "and out of those who offer a sacrifice to," &c. Such people shall be excluded from the society of God's servants. H.

VER. 13. With tears; viz. by occasion of your wives, whom you have put away, and who came to weep and lament before the altar. Ch.—Though divorces were tolerated, (Matt. xix. 6,) the more virtuous did not approve of them, particularly when a wife was put away who had been married in youth. See ver. 10.

VER. 14. Covenant. The order established at first. Gen. ii. 24; Prov. ii. 17.

VER. 15. His spirit. Eve received a soul from God, like Adam.

VER. 16. Garment; viz. of every man that putteth away his wife without just cause; notwithstanding that God permitted it in the law, to prevent the evil of murder. Ch.—The original may receive this sense; or the woman must blame herself if she were hateful, (Deut. xxiv. 1,) and the man acted not treacherously. C.—The first part contains the objection, and the second God's reply. S. Jer. H.

VER. 17. Judgment. Being scandalized at the prosperity of the wicked, (H.) they deny Providence. Psal. lxxii.; Jer. xii. C.—Yet the wicked are left for wise purposes, either for their amendment, or for the trial of the just. S. Aug. Psal. liv.—Those who are offended at their present success, (H.) think not of judgment nor of eternal goods. S. Jer.

CHAP. III. VER. 1. My angel, viz. John the Baptist, the messenger of God, and forerunner of Christ. Ch.—His purity and office procure him this title. W.—Afterwards Christ himself shall come, for the ruin and for the resurrection of many. Luke ii. 34. Hence threats and promises are intermixed. The evangelists read his face, making the Father speak, whereas the Son is introduced by the prophet, who however presently changes the person. It is all the same which person of the blessed Trinity speaks, as all act together. C.—Testament. The Messiah, the mediator of the covenant with mankind, (W.) with Abraham and Moses. The latter calls him the prophet (Deut. xviii. 18); and Zacharias, alluding to this text, explains angel in the same sense. Luke i. 76.—Temple. The ancient Jews were convinced that the Messiah would come to the temple of Zorobabel, and be its chief glory. Agg. ii. 8. C.

VER. 2. Coming. This may be explained of the Baptist, (Luke iii. 7,) or of the second coming of Christ; though his first coming showed the hypocrisy of the Jews. They would not acknowledge him, but sought his death, and brought on their own condemnation. C.—Fuller's. Sept. "washers' herb." H.

VER. 3. Justice. This is spoken of the Christian priesthood, which far excels that of Levi. Heb. v. and vii., &c. C.

VER. 5. Judgment. He has answered (ver. 1, 2) the complaint of the Jews. Chap. ii. 17. H.—This he does here (M.) more pointedly. H.—Christ condemned the world, as his spirit did likewise. John xvi. 8. He made an example of Jerusalem, which showed that he would not leave crimes unpunished. We may also understand this of his last coming. C.

VER. 6. Change. Heb. also, (H.) "hate or recompence." I do not strike the fallen. Did I spare Sennacherib? &c. Have I not protected the posterity of Jacob? How then can you say that I am indifferent about human affairs? C.—Consumed. Sept. "you depart not from the sins of your fathers. You have rejected my," &c.

VER. 8. Afflict. Lit. "pierce." Sept. "supplant," (H.) or kick at. 1 Kings ii. 29. But the term applied to Heli is different. Here it signifies to nail or irritate. C.

VER. 9. Want. Heb. "malediction." S. Jerom specifies the kind. C.—Sept. "and you obstinately turn away your eyes, and supplant me," &c. H.

VER. 11. Devourer; locusts and other vermin. M.—Malachias came later than Aggeus, and probably speaks of a different famine, to which the Jews were exposed for neglecting to pay tithes. C.—How many now work on holy-days, as if all depended on their labour and not on God's blessing! H.

13 *Your words have been unsufferable to me, saith the Lord.

14 And you have said : What have we spoken against thee ? You have said : He laboureth in vain that serveth God ; and what profit is it that we have kept his ordinances, and that we have walked sorrowful before the Lord of hosts ?

15 Wherefore now we call the proud people happy, for they that work wickedness are built up, and they have tempted God, and are preserved.

16 Then they that feared the Lord, spoke every one with his neighbour : and the Lord gave ear, and heard it : and a book of remembrance was written before him for them that fear the Lord, and think on his name.

17 And they shall be my special possession, saith the Lord of hosts, in the day that I do judgment : and I will spare them as a man spareth his son that serveth him.

18 And you shall return ; and shall see the difference between the just and the wicked ; and between him that serveth God, and him that serveth him not.

• John xxi. 14.—b Luke i. 78.

VER. 14. Vain. Murmuring against God is blasphemous and unsufferable.—Sorrowful : "humbled." Chal. "in mourning." Jun.

VER. 15. Proud. Sept. "strange." H.—Z has been taken for v.—Built up : have a numerous family, (C.) and abundance.—Tempted. Sept. "resisted."

VER. 16. Then. Grabe changes ravra, these things, into rore, then. The Sept. make the pious express the former sentiments. H.—David, Jeremias, &c. had experienced such anxiety. Psal. lxxii. 2. C.

VER. 17. Possession (peculium) ; the property of a slave. C.—Such look upon the smallest things with eagerness.—Spare. Sept. "chose," &c. H.

CHAP. IV. VER. 1. Furnace. At the day of judgment the difference between the just and the wicked will plainly appear. W.—This sense is most generally given, as well as to those words where our Saviour speaks of the signs of the destruction of Jerusalem and of the end of the world together. Matt. xxiv. 3; Luke xxi. 5.—Proud. Sept. "strangers." C.—Branch. No hope shall remain. M.

VER. 2. Wings. The sun is represented with wings, to imply celerity. The appearance of the Lord will be most acceptable to the virtuous. C.—Herd. Prot. "stall." Heb. morhok, (H.) "fatted."

VER. 3. Ashes, burnt in Jerusalem. H.—Christians rejoiced in the execution of Divine justice. The Jews were not allowed to approach the new city, Elia. S. Jer.

VER. 4. Law. This must be your guide and comfort. No more prophets shall appear before the Baptist. C.

CHAP. IV.

The judgment of the wicked, and reward of the just. An exhortation to observe the law. Elias shall come for the conversion of the Jews.

FOR behold the day shall come, kindled as a furnace : and all the proud, and all that do wickedly shall be stubble : and the day that cometh shall set them on fire, saith the Lord of hosts, it shall not leave them root, nor branch.

2 *But unto you that fear my name, the sun of justice shall arise, and health in his wings : and you shall go forth, and shall leap like calves of the herd.

3 And you shall tread down the wicked, when they shall be ashes under the sole of your feet in the day, that I do this, saith the Lord of hosts.

4 *Remember the law of Moses, my servant, which I commanded him in Horeb, for all Israel, the precepts, and judgments.

5 *Behold, I will send you Elias, the prophet, before the coming of the great and dreadful day of the Lord.

6 And he shall turn the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to their fathers : lest I come, and strike the earth with anathema.

• Exod. xx.; Deut. v. and vi.—d Matt. xvii. 10; Mark ix. 10; Luke i. 17.

VER. 5. Elias. Sept. add, "the Thesbite;" and S. Jerom (in Matt. xvii.) says, that Elias shall indeed come and restore all things.—Dreadful. Christ's first coming was in all meekness ; but he will judge in terror. Hence the prophet's meaning is not that S. John, but that Elias shall come before the great day of the Lord. W.—Our Saviour testifies that the Elias whom the Jews expected was already come. Matt. xi. 14, and xvii. 11; Luke ix. 8. C.

VER. 6. Heart, &c. By bringing over the Jews to the faith of Christ, he shall reconcile them to their fathers, viz. the patriarchs and prophets, whose hearts for many ages have been turned away from them, because of their refusing to believe in Christ. Ch.—The antipathy of Jews and Gentiles shall cease. Both shall enter the Church of Christ. Isa. xi. 13. The Baptist strove to ameliorate the manners of the people, and to bring all to Christ, who reconciles all seeming contradictions in the Scriptures. He came to put an end to all dissensions. C.—Anathema. In the Heb. cherem, that is, with utter destruction. Ch.—Sept. "entirely," (C.) or "suddenly;" apēn. S. Jer. Deut. vii. 26.—This passage intimates that the ruin of Jerusalem is threatened. If people should be converted, would that stop the general conflagration ? C.—Some of our crafty adversaries have inferred from the above explanation of anathema, that the Church means heretics to be destroyed : but her kingdom is not of this world : she speaks only of the soul, and exercises a spiritual power. H.

THE

FIRST BOOK OF MACHABEES.

These Books are so called, because they contain the history of the people of God under the command of Judas Machabeus and his brethren ; and he, as some will have it, was surnamed Machabeus from carrying in his ensigns, or standards, those words of Exodus xv. 11, "Who is like to thee among the strong, O Lord;" in which the initial letters, in the Hebrew, are M. C. B. E. I. It is not known who was the author of these books. But as to their authority, though they are not received by the Jews, saith S. Augustine, (lib. 18. De Civ. Dei, c. 36,) they are received by the Church ; who, in settling her canon of the Scriptures, chose rather to be directed by the tradition she had received from the apostles of Christ, than by that of the Scribes and Pharisees. And as the Church has declared these two books canonical, even in two general councils, viz. Florence and Trent, there can be no doubt of their authenticity. Ch.—The most ancient Fathers, Clem., (Strom. l.) S. Cyprian, (1 Ep. iii. ad Cornel.), S. Ambrose, (Off. i. 41, &c.,) quote them as Divine ; and the third Council of Carthage, Trent, &c. have inserted them in the canon. Though (W.) S. Jerom did not translate (C.) or urge them against the Jews, he had a great regard for them. In Dan. i., and xi., &c. S. Jerom found the first of these books in Heb., the second in Greek. Ep. 106. We have a third also in Greek, in the Compl. Bible ; as well as a fourth, mentioned by Sixtus, (Bib. i. W.) "on the administration of Hircan," (C.) to which reference seems to be made 1 Mac. xv. 24, (W.) though what is extant be a work of no authority.—The authors of the first and second books relate many of the same events ; yet seem not to have seen each other's works. The latter follows the Greek chronology, dating from Tisir, Sept. and October, (C.) A. 3828 to 3843, (H.) while the former dates from Nisan, (C.) our March or April, A. 3829 to 3869. The third book gives an account of Philopator's persecution in Egypt, A. 3787. The fourth, from A. 3869 to 3898, (H.) is little known among the Latins. Calmet gives two copies, the one regarding Hircan, and the other "the government of reason," or the martyrdom of the Machabees, A. 3837 (H.) ; the author of which last seems to have been a Stoic. C.

CHAPTER I.

The reign of Alexander, and his successors: Antiochus rifles and profanes the temple of God: and persecutes unto death all that will not forsake the law of God, and the religion of their fathers.

NOW it came to pass after that Alexander, the son of Philip, the Macedonian, who first reigned in Greece, coming out of the land of Cethim, had overthrown Darius, king of the Persians and Medes:.

2 He fought many battles, and took the strong holds of all, and slew the kings of the earth:

3 And he went through even to the ends of the earth: and took the spoils of many nations: and the earth was quiet before him.

4 And he gathered a power, and a very strong army: and his heart was exalted and lifted up:

5 And he subdued countries of nations, and princes; and they became tributaries to him.

6 And after these things, he fell down upon his bed, and knew that he should die.

7 And he called his servants, the nobles that were brought up with him from his youth: and he divided his kingdom among them, while he was yet alive.

8 And Alexander reigned twelve years, and he died.^b

9 And his servants made themselves kings, every one in his place:

10 And they all put crowns upon themselves after his death, and their sons after them, many years; and evils were multiplied in the earth.

11 And there came out of them a wicked root, Antiochus the illustrious, the son of king Antiochus, who had been a hostage at Rome: and he reigned in the hundred and thirty-seventh year of the kingdom of the Greeks.

12 In those days there went out of Israel wicked men, and they persuaded many, saying: Let us go, and make a covenant with the heathens that are round about us: for since we departed from them, many evils have befallen us.

13 And the word seemed good in their eyes.

14 And some of the people determined to do this, and went to the king: and he gave them licence to do after the ordinances of the heathens.

15 And they built a place of exercise in Jerusalem, according to the laws of the nations:

16 And they made themselves prepuces, and departed from the holy covenant, and joined themselves to the heathens, and were sold to do evil:

17 And the kingdom was established before Antiochus, and he had a mind to reign over the land of Egypt, that he might reign over two kingdoms.

18 And he entered into Egypt with a great multitude with chariots, and elephants, and horsemen, and a great number of ships:

19 And he made war against Ptolemee, king of Egypt, but Ptolemee was afraid at his presence, and fled, and many were wounded unto death.

20 And he took the strong cities in the land of Egypt: and he took the spoils of the land of Egypt.

21 And after Antiochus had ravaged Egypt, in the hundred and forty-third year, he returned and went up against Israel.

22 And he went up to Jerusalem, with a great multitude.

23 And he proudly entered into the sanctuary, and took away the golden altar, and the candlestick of light, and all the vessels thereof, and the table of proposition, and the pouring vessels, and the vials, and the little mortars of gold, and the veil, and the crowns, and the golden ornament that was before the temple: and he broke them all in pieces.

24 And he took the silver and gold, and the precious vessels: and he took the hidden treasures, which he found: and when he had taken all away, he departed into his own country.

25 And he made a great slaughter of men, and spoke very proudly.

26 And there was great mourning in Israel, and in every place where they were:

27 And the princes, and the ancients mourned, and the virgins and the young men were made feeble, and the beauty of the women was changed.

28 Every bridegroom took up lamentation: and the bride that sat in the marriage bed, mourned:

29 And the land was moved for the inhabitants thereof, and all the house of Jacob was covered with confusion.

30 And after two full years, the king sent the chief

^a A. M. 3668, A. C. 336.—^b A. M. 3681, A. C. 323.—^c A. M. 3829, A. C. 175.

^d A. M. 3834, A. C. 170.—^e A. M. 3834.—^f A. M. 3836, A. C. 168.

CHAP. I. VER. 1. Now. Lit. "And." H.—Thus many Heb. books commence, as Exod., Jos., Bar., &c. C.—Greco, over the whole. He was chosen generalissimo. H.—He conquered many of the Greeks, and overthrew Darius Codomannus, A. 3674. C.

VER. 3. Earth, even to India, beyond which the ancients knew of nothing. —Quiet, or silent; depopulated, (Isa. xiv. 7,) and obedient. Hab. ii. 20.

VER. 6. Bed. Some suppose through poison, (Diod. xvii. S. Jer. ad Lætam,) or excess of wine. Athen. x. 11.

VER. 7. Servants. On the ninth day of sickness which preceded his death, he admitted all his soldiers to kiss his hand. Then he asked his friends, if they thought they should find such another king? As they were silent, he predicted what bloodshed would ensue, and told them to bury him in the temple of Ammon. When they asked to whom he left the throne, he said, "to the most worthy."—Kingdom. This is otherwise related by Q. Curtius; though he acknowledges that divers were of that opinion, and that it had been delivered by some authors. Lib. 10. But here we find from the sacred text that he was in error. Ch.

VER. 10. Death, twelve years being expired, when all the posterity of Alexander were dead. His generals gradually destroyed each other, and four took the diadem at the same time; Ptolemy, in Egypt; Seleucus, in Syria; Cassander, in Macedonia; and Lysimachus, in Thrace. Just. 13 and 15. C.—Those who choose to read in order, may, after the preface 2 Mac. ii. 20, read the above, then 2 Mac. iii. 1. W.

VER. 11. Antiochus the illustrious; Epiphanes, the younger son of Antiochus the Great, who usurped the kingdom, to the prejudice of his nephew Demetrius, son of his elder brother, Seleucus Philopator. Ch.—Epiphanes means "renowned." W.—He took this title, particularly after the Samaritans had offered it to him. Jos. 12. Vaillant. A. 145.—Grecks, counting not from the beginning of the reign of Alexander, but from the first year of Seleucus Nicator. Ch.—The era of the Seleucides began in spring or autumn, A. 3692, B. C. 312, though the Chaldees and Ptolemy date from the following spring. C.—The Grecian monarchy had then stood twenty years. Eus. W.

VER. 12. Men. Jason attempted to supplant Onias III., and introduced pagan customs when he was dead. Menelaus treated him in like manner. Being cited to pay what he had promised, he left Lysimachus in his place, who was slain in the temple, which he was robbing. 2 Mac. iv.—Us. Thus the Jews complained in the days of Jeremias, (xlv. 18,) and the Christian religion was blamed for all the miseries which fell upon the Roman empire. C.—S. Aug. proves in his City of God that this accusation was false. H.

VER. 16. Sold to the devil, becoming his instruments. 3 Kings xxi. 25; Rom. vii. 14. C.—Go to 2 Mac. iv. 7.

VER. 17. Egypt. He coveted this kingdom, having Syria already. W.—He was not very fit for war: but Egypt was now under Philometor, a child, and Epiphanes made an easy conquest. After ver. 20, read 2 Mac. iv. 21. W.

VER. 23. Sanctuary. Josephus (xii. 6) writes, that Antiochus slew such as opposed his entrance into the city, and afterwards those who opened the gates, but would have prevented his plundering the temple. W.

VER. 30. The chief collector, &c. Apollonius. Ch. 2 Mac. v. 24. W.—He basely fell upon the unsuspecting citizens on a sabbath day. H collector of his tributes to the cities of Juda, and he came to Jerusalem with a great multitude.

31 And he spoke to them peaceable words in deceit; and they believed him.

32 And he fell upon the city suddenly, and struck it with a great slaughter, and destroyed much people in Israel.

33 And he took the spoils of the city, and burnt it with fire, and threw down the houses thereof, and the walls thereof round about:

34 And they took the women captive, and the children, and the cattle they possessed.

35 And they built the city of David with a great and strong wall, and with strong towers, and made it a fortress for them:

36 And they placed there a sinful nation, wicked men, and they fortified themselves therein: and they stored up armour, and victuals, and gathered together the spoils of Jerusalem;

37 And laid them up there: and they became a great snare.

38 And this was a place to lie in wait against the sanctuary, and an evil devil in Israel.

39 And they shed innocent blood round about the sanctuary, and defiled the holy place.

40 And the inhabitants of Jerusalem fled away by reason of them, and the city was made the habitation of strangers, and she became a stranger to her own seed, and her children forsook her,

41 Her sanctuary was desolate like a wilderness, ^aher festival days were turned into mourning, her sabbaths into reproach, her honours were brought to nothing.

42 Her dishonour was increased according to her glory, and her excellency was turned into mourning.

43 ^bAnd king Antiochus wrote to all his kingdom, that all the people should be one: and every one should leave his own law.

44 And all nations consented, according to the word of king Antiochus.

45 And many of Israel consented to his service, and they sacrificed to idols, and profaned the sabbath.

46 And the king sent letters by the hands of messengers to Jerusalem, and to all the cities of Juda; that they should follow the law of the nations of the earth.

47 And should forbid holocausts and sacrifices, and atonements to be made in the temple of God, 48 And should prohibit the sabbath, and the festival days to be celebrated.

49 And he commanded the holy places to be profaned, and the holy people of Israel.

50 And he commanded altars to be built, and temples, and idols, and swine's flesh to be immolated, and unclean beasts,

51 And that they should leave their children uncircumcised, and let their souls be defiled with all uncleannesses, and abominations, to the end that they should forget the law, and should change all the justifications of God.

52 And that whosoever would not do according to the word of king Antiochus, should be put to death.

53 According to all these words he wrote to his whole kingdom: and he appointed rulers over the people that should force them to do these things.

54 And they commanded the cities of Juda to sacrifice.

55 Then many of the people were gathered to them that had forsaken the law of the Lord: and they committed evils in the land:

56 And they drove away the people of Israel into lurking holes, and into the secret places of fugitives.

57 On the fifteenth day of the month, Casleu, in the hundred and forty-fifth year, ^cking Antiochus set up the abominable idol of desolation upon the altar of God, and they built altars throughout all the cities of Juda round about:

58 And they burnt incense, and sacrificed at the doors of the houses and in the streets.

59 And they cut in pieces, and burnt with fire the books of the law of God:

60 And every one with whom the books of the testament of the Lord were found, and whosoever observed the law of the Lord, they put to death, according to the edict of the king.

61 Thus by their power did they deal with the people of Israel, that were found in the cities month after month.

62 And on the five and twentieth day of the month, they sacrificed upon the altar of the idol that was over against the altar of God,

63 ^dNow the women that circumcised their children, were slain according to the commandment of king Antiochus,

64 And they hanged the children about their necks in all their houses: and those that had circumcised them, they put to death.

65 And many of the people of Israel determined with themselves, that they would not eat unclean things: and they chose rather to die, than to be defiled with unclean meats:

66 And they would not break the holy law of God, and they were put to death:

67 And there was very great wrath upon the people.

^a Tob. ii. 6; Amos viii. 10.—^b A. M. 3837, A. C. 167.

^c A. M. 3837.—^d 2 Mac. vi. 10.

VER. 35. The city of David. That is, the castle of Sion. Ch.—In it was placed a garrison of Macedonians. W.

VER. 38. Sanctuary, to pillage all who came to the temple. C.—An evil devil. Lit. an adversary, watching constantly to do harm, as the evil spirit is always watching and seeking whom he could devour. Ch.

VER. 40. Fled with Judas, &c. 2 Mac. v. Josephus (xii. 7) assures us that the Samaritans flattered Epiphanes, and begged their temple might be consecrated to Jupiter, &c.

VER. 45. Service, or worship, (C.) introduced by Epiphanes. H.

VER. 49. People. He forced them to eat forbidden meat.

VER. 57. Fifteenth. In all other places the twenty-fifth, whence this may be incorrect, (C.) or the altar was now set up, (H.) though sacrifices were not yet offered. C.—Idol. The statue of Jupiter Olympius, (Ch.) as Daniel (ix.) had foretold, as a figure of what antichrist would do, (Matt. xxiv. W.) as well as the Romans, when they took Jerusalem.

VER. 59. Law, and all the sacred writings. Jos. Sulpit. 2.

VER. 61. After month. People were compelled to sacrifice on the same day of each month on which the statue had been dedicated. Ver. 62.

VER. 62. Over against, or (H.) "upon," ἐπι. The Greek altars were of a smaller size.

VER. 65. Many. Eleazar, and the seven Machabees, &c. C.

VER. 67. Wrath. God seemed displeased, as he was with too many. Read 2 Mac. v. 11. W.

CHAP. II. VER. 1. Joarib. This family was the most distinguished, as

CHAP. II.

The zeal and success of Mathathias. His exhortation to his sons at his death.

IN *those days arose Mathathias, the son of John, the son of Simeon, a priest of the sons of Joarib, from Jerusalem, and he abode in the mountain of Modin :

2 And he had five sons: John, who was surnamed Gaddis ;

3 And Simon, who was surnamed Thasi ;

4 And Judas, who was called Machabeus ;

5 And Eleazar, who was surnamed Abaron ; and Jonathan, who was surnamed Apphus.

6 These saw the evils that were done in the people of Juda, and in Jerusalem.

7 And Mathathias said : Woe is me, wherefore was I born to see the ruin of my people, and the ruin of the holy city, and to dwell there, when it is given into the hands of the enemies ?

8 The holy places are come into the hands of strangers : her temple is become as a man without honour.

9 The vessels of her glory are carried away captive ; her old men are murdered in the streets, and her young men are fallen by the sword of the enemies.

10 What nation hath not inherited her kingdom, and gotten of her spoils ?

11 All her ornaments are taken away. She that was free is made a slave.

12 And behold our sanctuary, and our beauty, and our glory is laid waste, and the Gentiles have defiled them.

13 To what end then should we live any longer ?

14 And Mathathias and his sons rent their garments, and they covered themselves with haircloth, and made great lamentation.

15 And they that were sent from king Antiochus, came thither, to compel them that were fled into the city of Modin, to sacrifice, and to burn incense, and to depart from the law of God.

16 And many of the people of Israel consented and came to them : but Mathathias and his sons stood firm.

17 And they that were sent from Antiochus, answering, said to Mathathias : Thou art a ruler, and an honourable, and great man in this city, and adorned with sons, and brethren.

18 Therefore, come thou first, and obey the king's commandment, as all nations have done, and the men of Juda, and they that remain in Jerusalem : and thou, and thy sons shall be in the number of the king's friends, and enriched with gold, and silver, and many presents.

19 Then Mathathias answered, and said with a loud

a A. M. 3837.

Josephus, who sprung from it, asserts, (H.) being the first of the twenty-four families of priests. 1 Par. xxiv. 7, 19. M.—Mathathias was probably a descendant of Phinees, (ver. 54.) and was officiating when the impious orders arrived. Whereupon he retired to Mo'in, (C.) near Diospolis. S. Jer.—Judas was chosen, (Jos.,) and Jonathan exercised the functions. Ant. xx. 8.

VER. 2. Gaddis, "a troop, fortunate, or a heap of wheat." C.

VER. 3. Thasi, in Syr. "ardent," or feeble, (C.) or a destroyer. Pagn.

VER. 4. Machabeus. The common etymology has been given. H.—But Judas had then no banners, and there is no proof that the Jews used such abbreviations. C.

VER. 5. Abaron, "passing," undaunted, (C.) or "potent."—Apphus, "the wrath or flying of counsel," (Pagn.,) "fainting, abundant, or dissipating." C.—This small help, of great importance, was foretold by Daniel, xi. 34. W.

voice : Although all nations obey king Antiochus, so as to depart every man from the service of the law of his fathers, and consent to his commandments :

20 I, and my sons, and my brethren will obey the law of our fathers.

21 God be merciful unto us : it is not profitable for us to forsake the law, and the justices of God :

22 We will not hearken to the words of king Antiochus, neither will we sacrifice and transgress the commandments of our law, to go another way.

23 Now as he left off speaking these words, there came a certain Jew in the sight of all to sacrifice to the idols upon the altar in the city of Modin, according to the king's commandment.

24 And Mathathias saw, and was grieved, and his reins trembled, and his wrath was kindled according to the judgment of the law, and running upon him he slew him upon the altar :

25 Moreover, the man whom king Antiochus had sent, who compelled them to sacrifice, he slew at the same time, and pulled down the altar,

26 And showed zeal for the law, *as Phinees did by Zamri, the son of Salomi.

27 And Mathathias cried out in the city with a loud voice, saying : Every one that hath zeal for the law, and maintaineth the testament, let him follow me.

28 So he and his sons fled into the mountains, and left all that they had in the city.

29 Then many that sought after judgment, and justice, went down into the desert :

30 And they abode there, they and their children, and their wives, and their cattle : because afflictions increased upon them.

31 And it was told to the king's men, and to the army that was in Jerusalem, in the city of David, that certain men, who had broken the king's commandment, were gone away into the secret places in the wilderness, and that many were gone after them.

32 And forthwith they went out towards them, and made war against them on the sabbath day.

33 And they said to them : Do you still resist ? come forth, and do according to the edict of king Antiochus, and you shall live.

34 And they said : We will not come forth, neither will we obey the king's edict, to profane the sabbath day.

35 And they made haste to give them battle.

36 But they answered them not, neither did they cast a stone at them, nor stopped up the secret places,

37 Saying : Let us all die in our innocency : and b Num. xxv. 18.

VER. 7. Ruin. S. Polycarp used a similar exclamation. Eus. v. 19.

VER. 14. Lamentation. By voluntary mortification, he sought to appease God's indignation. M.

VER. 18. They. Josephus mentions Apelles. Persecutors have thus frequently attempted to delude the faithful ; first by flattery, and then by torments.

VER. 22. Way. Gr. "to the right or to the left" II.

VER. 24. Law. Deut. xi. 6, (M.) and xiii. 9. Those who attempted to introduce the worship of idols were to be slain without further trial. C.—Mathathias was then judge and high priest. W.

VER. 29. And justice. The ceremonial and moral law, (C.) or to live piously. M.

VER. 34. Sabbath. By sacrificing to idols, or by coming forth to fight. H.

VER. 37. Innocency. Lit. "simplicity," has often this sense. Their piety heaven and earth shall be witnesses for us, that you put us to death wrongfully.

38 So they gave them battle on the sabbath: and they were slain, with their wives, and their children, and their cattle, to the number of a thousand persons.

39 And Mathathias and his friends heard of it, and they mourned for them exceedingly.

40 And every man said to his neighbour: If we shall all do as our brethren have done, and not fight against the heathens for our lives, and our justifications: they will now quickly root us out of the earth.

41 And they determined in that day, saying: Whosoever shall come up against us to fight on the sabbath day, we will fight against him: and we will not all die, as our brethren that were slain in the secret places.

42 Then was assembled to them the congregation of the Assideans, the stoutest of Israel, every one that had a good will for the law.

43 And all they that fled from the evils, joined themselves to them, and were a support to them.

44 And they gathered an army, and slew the sinners in their wrath, and the wicked men in their indignation: and the rest fled to the nations for safety.

45 And Mathathias and his friends went round about, and they threw down the altars:

46 And they circumcised all the children whom they found in the confines of Israel that were uncircumcised: and they did valiantly.

47 And they pursued after the children of pride, and the work prospered in their hands:

48 And they recovered the law out of the hands of the nations, and out of the hands of the kings: and they yielded not the horn to the sinner.

49 Now the days drew near that Mathathias should die, and he said to his sons: Now hath pride and chastisement gotten strength, and the time of destruction, and the wrath of indignation:

50 Now, therefore, O my sons, be ye zealous for the law, and give your lives for the covenant of your fathers.

51 And call to remembrance the works of the fathers, which they have done in their generations: and you shall receive great glory, and an everlasting name.

52 *Was not Abraham found faithful in temptation, and it was reputed to him unto justice?

53 ^bJoseph, in the time of his distress, kept the commandment, and he was made lord of Egypt.

54 ^cPhinees, our father, by being fervent in the zeal of God, received the covenant of an everlasting priesthood.

* Gen. xxii. 2.—^b Gen. xli. 40.— Num. xxv. 13; Eccl. xiv. 28.—^c Jos. i. 2.—^e Num. xiv. 6; was not, however, enlightened, as the ceremonial law gives way on such occasions. C.—Their simplicity is commended by S. Ambrose, Of. i. 40.

VER. 41. Come up. They say not that they will attack. C.—Pompey perceived this, and made his advances and works on the sabbath without opposition. Jos. Bel. i. 5.—Ptolemy I. had thus taken Jerusalem. Ant. xii. 1.—The Samaritans will not move on that day. Exod. xvi. 29. Ep. 2, ad Scalig.—The Jews now take care of the sick, but will not help a beast out of the ditch on the sabbath, though in our Saviour's time they did just the reverse. Luke xiv. 5.

VER. 42. The Assideans. A set of men that led a religious life; and were zealous for the law and worship of God. Ch.—Esidim (H.) means "the pious." Eccl. xiv. 10. Many think they were the same with the Cinites, Rechabites, and Essenes. From them sprung the Pharisees. C.—The society was intent on adorning the temple, (Scal.,) by which they swore. Matt. xxiii. 6. C.

55 ^dJesus, whilst he fulfilled the word, was made ruler in Israel.

56 ^eCaleb, for bearing witness before the congregation, received an inheritance.

57 ^fDavid, by his mercy, obtained the throne of an everlasting kingdom.

58 ^gElias, while he is full of zeal for the law, was taken up into heaven.

59 ^hAnanias and Azarias and Misael, by believing, were delivered out of the flame.

60 ⁱDaniel, in his innocency, was delivered out of the mouth of the lions.

61 And thus consider, through all generations: that none that trust in him, fail in strength.

62 And fear not the words of a sinful man, for his glory is dung and worms:

63 To-day he is lifted up, and to-morrow he shall not be found, because he is returned into his earth, and his thought is come to nothing.

64 You, therefore, my sons, take courage, and behave manfully in the law: for by it you shall be glorious.

65 And behold, I know that your brother Simon is a man of counsel: give ear to him always, and he shall be a father to you.

66 And Judas Machabeus, who is valiant and strong from his youth up, let him be the leader of your army, and he shall manage the war of the people.

67 And you shall take to you all that observe the law: and revenge ye the wrong of your people.

68 Render to the Gentiles their reward, and take heed to the precepts of the law.

69 And he blessed them, and was joined to his fathers.

70 And he died in the hundred and forty-sixth ^kyear: and he was buried by his sons in the sepulchres of his fathers, in Modin, and all Israel mourned for him with great mourning.

CHAP. III.

Judas Machabeus succeeds his father, and overthroweth Apollonius and Seron. A great army is sent against him out of Syria. He prepares his people for battle by fasting and prayer.

THEN his son Judas, called Machabeus, rose up in his stead.

2 And all his brethren helped him, and all they that had joined themselves to his father, and they fought with cheerfulness the battle of Israel.

3 And he got his people great honour, and put on a breastplate as a giant, and girt his warlike armour about him in battles, and protected the camp with his sword.

Jos. xiv. 14.—² Kings ii. 4.—³ 4 Kings ii. 11.—⁴ Dan. iii. 50.—⁵ Dan. vi. 22.—^k A. M. 3638.

VER. 44. Sinners. Apostate Jews, C.

VER. 48. Horn. That is, they suffered not the power of Antiochus, that man of sin, to abolish the law and religion of God. Ch.

VER. 53. Lord, next to the king. Gen. xli. 40.

VER. 54. Everlasting, as long as the old law should subsist. C.

VER. 55. Jesus; i. e. Josue. Ch.

VER. 66. People. Order is peculiarly requisite in all things, so here the proper persons are chosen, to whom each must submit in their sphere. W.—Mathathias speaks as chief of the nation. C.

VER. 70. Year. Not of his age, but of the Greeks, (M.) after being at the head about twelve months. A. 3838. C.

CHAP. III. VER. 1. Judas, the eldest. Jos. Bel. i. 1.—His skill and valour also entitled him to this post. C.

4 In his acts he was like a lion, and like a lion's whelp roaring for his prey.

5 And he pursued the wicked and sought them out, and them that troubled his people he burnt with fire:

6 And his enemies were driven away for fear of him, and all the workers of iniquity were troubled: and salvation prospered in his hand.

7 And he grieved many kings, and made Jacob glad with his works, and his memory is blessed for ever.

8 And he went through the cities of Juda, and destroyed the wicked out of them, and turned away wrath from Israel.

9 And he was renowned even to the utmost part of the earth, and he gathered them that were perishing.

10 And Apollonius gathered together the Gentiles, and a numerous and great army from Samaria, to make war against Israel.

11 And Judas understood it, and went forth to meet him: and he overthrew him, and killed him: and many fell down slain, and the rest fled away.

12 And he took their spoils, and Judas took the sword of Apollonius, and fought with it all his lifetime.

13 And Seron, captain of the army of Syria, heard that Judas had assembled a company of the faithful, and a congregation with him,

14 And he said: I will get me a name, and will be glorified in the kingdom, and will overthrow Judas, and those that are with him, that have despised the edict of the king.

15 And he made himself ready: and the host of the wicked went up with him, strong succours, to be revenged of the children of Israel.

16 And they approached even as far as Bethoron: and Judas went forth to meet him, with a small company.

17 But when they saw the army coming to meet them, they said to Judas: How shall we, being few, be able to fight against so great a multitude, and so strong, and we are ready to faint with fasting to-day?

18 And Judas said: It is an easy matter for many to be shut up in the hands of a few: and there is no difference in the sight of the God of heaven to deliver with a great multitude, or with a small company:

19 For the success of war is not in the multitude of the army, but strength cometh from heaven.

20 They come against us with an insolent multitude, and with pride, to destroy us, and our wives, and our children, and to take our spoils.

21 But we will fight for our lives, and our laws:

22 And the Lord himself will overthrow them before our face: but as for you, fear them not.

23 And as soon as he had made an end of speaking, he rushed suddenly upon them: and Seron, and his host were overthrown before him:

• A. M. 3838.

24 And he pursued him by the descent of Bethoron, even to the plain, and there fell of them eight hundred men, and the rest fled into the land of the Philistines.

25 And the fear of Judas, and of his brethren, and the dread of them fell upon all the nations round about them.

26 And his fame came to the king, and all nations told of the battles of Judas.

27 Now when king Antiochus heard these words, he was angry in his mind: and he sent, and gathered the forces of all his kingdom, an exceeding strong army.

28 And he opened his treasury, and gave out pay to the army for a year: and he commanded them, that they should be ready for all things.

29 And he perceived that the money of his treasures failed, and that the tributes of the country were small, because of the dissension, and the evil that he had brought upon the land, that he might take away the laws of old times:

30 And he feared that he should not have as formerly, enough for charges and gifts, which he had given before with a liberal hand: for he had abounded more than the kings that had been before him.

31 And he was greatly perplexed in mind, and purposed to go into Persia, and to take tributes of the countries, and to gather much money.

32 And he left Lysias, a nobleman of the blood royal, to oversee the affairs of the kingdom from the river Euphrates even to the river of Egypt:

33 And to bring up his son, Antiochus, till he came again.

34 And he delivered to him half the army, and the elephants: and he gave him charge concerning all that he would have done, and concerning the inhabitants of Judea, and Jerusalem.

35 And that he should send an army against them, to destroy and root out the strength of Israel, and the remnant of Jerusalem, and to take away the memory of them from that place:

36 And that he should settle strangers, to dwell in all their coasts, and divide their land by lot.

37 So the king took the half of the army that remained, and went forth from Antioch, the chief city of his kingdom, in the hundred and forty-seventh year: and he passed over the river Euphrates, and went through the higher countries.

38 Then Lysias chose Ptolemee, the son of Dorymenes, and Nicanor, and Gorgias, mighty men of the king's friends.

39 And he sent with them forty thousand men, and

• A. M. 3839, A. C. 165.—• A. M. 3839.

VER. 7. Kings. Epiphanes, Eupator, and Demetrius, with their generals. C.

VER. 9. Go to 2 Mac. viii. 1. W.

VER. 10. Apollonius, who had pillaged Jerusalem. 2 Mac. v. 24.

VER. 16. Bethoron, seven leagues north of Jerusalem.

VER. 17. Fasting. Judas thus laudably prepared for battle. C.

VER. 25. Them. Philip wrote from Jerusalem to Ptolemy, to send aid. He immediately despatched Nicanor and Gorgias, who doubted not of success; so that they brought the merchants to buy the Jews. 2 Mac. viii.

VER. 29. Land. He formerly received three hundred talents from Judea: now he was forced to send money thither. Sulp. 2. C.

VER. 30. Liberal. Epiphanes left many vestiges of his magnificence. Vaillant.—The very year when Apollonius was defeated, (Usher, A. 3838. C.) he exhibited most costly games at Daphne, near Antioch, to excel those of P. Emilius, at Amphipolis. Athen. v. 4.

VER. 31. Persia. The Arab. (2 Mac. vii.) says, the king had revolted. C.

VER. 37. Countries, and took Artaxias, king of Armenia. S. Jer.

VER. 38. Ptolemee. He had been governor of Cyprus, under Philometer, and gave him the revenue only when he was capable of acting for himself. Polyb.

VER. 40. Emmaus, two leagues west of Jerusalem, (C.) different from that mentioned by S. Luke. Reland.

seven thousand horsemen: to go into the land of Juda, and to destroy it, according to the king's orders.

40 So they went forth with all their power, and came, and pitched near Emmaus, in the plain country.

41 And the merchants of the countries heard the fame of them: and they took silver and gold in abundance, and servants: and they came into the camp, to buy the children of Israel for slaves: and there were joined to them the forces of Syria, and of the land of the strangers.

42 And Judas, and his brethren, saw that evils were multiplied, and that the armies approached to their borders: and they knew the orders the king had given to destroy the people, and utterly abolish them.

43 And they said, every man to his neighbour: Let us raise up the low condition of our people, and let us fight for our people, and our sanctuary.

44 And the assembly was gathered, that they might be ready for battle: and that they might pray, and ask mercy and compassion.

45 Now Jerusalem was not inhabited, but was like a desert: there was none of her children that went in or out: and the sanctuary was trodden down: and the children of strangers were in the castle, there was the habitation of the Gentiles: and joy was taken away from Jacob, and the pipe and harp ceased there.

46 And they assembled together, and came to Maspha, over against Jerusalem: for in Maspha was a place of prayer heretofore in Israel.

47 And they fasted that day, and put on haircloth, and put ashes upon their heads: and they rent their garments:

48 And they laid open the books of the law, in which the Gentiles searched for the likeness of their idols:

49 And they brought the priestly ornaments, and the first-fruits and tithes, and stirred up the Nazarites that had fulfilled their days:

50 And they cried with a loud voice toward heaven, saying: What shall we do with these, and whither shall we carry them?

51 For thy holies are trodden down, and are profaned, and thy priests are in mourning, and are brought low.

52 And behold the nations are come together against us, to destroy us: thou knowest what they intend against us.

53 How shall we be able to stand before their face, unless thou, O God, help us?

54 Then they sounded with trumpets, and cried out with a loud voice.

55 And after this, Judas appointed captains over the people, over thousands, and over hundreds, and over fifties, and over tens.

^a Deut. xx. 5, and 6; Judg. vii. 3.

VER. 41. Servants. Josephus (xii. 11) adds "chains," which were all turned against them by Judas. C.

VER. 44. Pray. This, with fasting and other penitential works, is the best armour in holy wars of religion.

VER. 46. Maspha. Silo had been, and Jerusalem was afterwards, the place for public prayer. W.

VER. 48. In which. The Greek text seems corrupt. By a small change we might render, "while." C.—For. Many Greek copies add, "to inscribe," (M.) or "draw upon them the likenesses of their idols." H.—Thus they wished to defile the books as they had done the temple, (M) and render them useless to the Jews. H.

VER. 49. Ornaments, which they had rescued from plunder. It seems they had also set up a sort of tabernacle, and had some ornament from the sanctuary. —Days. They ought then to offer victims, which was now impossible.

56 *And he said to them that were building houses, or had betrothed wives, or were planting vineyards, or were fearful, that they should return every man to his house, according to the law.

57 So they removed the camp, and pitched on the south side of Emmaus.

58 And Judas said: Gird yourselves, and be valiant men, and be ready against the morning, that you may fight with these nations that are assembled against us, to destroy us and our sanctuary.

59 For it is better for us to die in battle, than to see the evils of our nation, and of the holies:

60 Nevertheless, as it shall be the will of God in heaven, so be it done.

CHAP. IV.

Judas routs the king's army. Gorgias flies before him. Lysias comes against him with a great army, but is defeated. Judas cleanses the temple, sets up a new altar, and fortifies the sanctuary.

THEN ^bGorgias took five thousand men, and a thousand of the best horsemen; and they removed out of the camp by night.

2 That they might come upon the camp of the Jews, and strike them suddenly: and the men that were of the castle were their guides.

3 And Judas heard of it, and rose up, he and the valiant men, to attack the king's forces that were in Emmaus.

4 For as yet the army was dispersed from the camp.

5 And Gorgias came by night into the camp of Judas, and found no man; and he sought them in the mountains: for he said: These men flee from us.

6 And when it was day, Judas showed himself in the plain with three thousand men only, who neither had armour nor swords:

7 And they saw the camp of the Gentiles that it was strong, and the men in breastplates, and the horsemen round about them, and these were trained up to war.

8 And Judas said to the men that were with him: Fear ye not their multitude, neither be ye afraid of their assault.

9 *Remember in what manner our fathers were saved in the Red Sea, when Pharaoh pursued them with a great army.

10 And now let us cry to heaven, and the Lord will have mercy on us, and will remember the covenant of our fathers, and will destroy this army before our face this day:

11 And all nations shall know that there is one that redeemeth and delivereth Israel.

^b A. M. 3839, A. C. 165.—^c Exod. xiv. 9.

VER. 56. Law. Deut. xx. 5. C.—Yet his forces were already few. H.

VER. 60. Done. This godly resolution inspired them with courage, and procured the victory. W.

CHAP. IV. VER. 2. Guides. Several were apostates. Judas was at or near Maspha. C.

VER. 4. Camp, foraging, as they despised the forces of Judas, and supposed he was in the camp, or engaged with Gorgias.

VER. 6. Three. We find seven thousand elsewhere. He was at the head of three thousand, and set his three brothers over fifteen hundred each.—Who. Some copies read, "because." He could arm no more completely.—Swords. This is added in Greek and in some Latin copies. Ver. 15. C.—They were ill armed, through poverty (Jos.) chiefly, (H) using slings. Zac. ix. 15. C.

VER. 15. Gezeron, or Gazera, near Emmaus.—Idumea. Alex. MS. reads

12 And the strangers lifted up their eyes, and saw them coming against them.

13 And they went out of the camp to battle, and they that were with Judas sounded the trumpet.

14 And they joined battle: and the Gentiles were routed, and fled into the plain.

15 But all the hindmost of them fell by the sword: and they pursued them as far as Gezeron, and even to the plains of Idumea, and of Azotus, and of Jamnia: and there fell of them to the number of three thousand men.

16 And Judas returned again with his army that followed him.

17 And he said to the people: Be not greedy of the spoils; for there is war before us:

18 And Gorgias and his army are near us in the mountain: but stand ye now against our enemies, and overthrow them, and you shall take the spoils afterwards with safety.

19 And as Judas was speaking these words, behold part of them appeared, looking forth from the mountain.

20 And Gorgias saw that his men were put to flight, and that they had set fire to the camp: for the smoke that was seen declared what was done.

21 And when they had seen this, they were seized with great fear, seeing at the same time Judas and his army in the plain ready to fight.

22 So they all fled away into the land of the strangers.

23 And Judas returned to take the spoils of the camp, and they got much gold, and silver, and blue silk, and purple of the sea, and great riches.

24 And returning home, they sung a hymn, and blessed God in heaven, because he is good, because his mercy endureth for ever.

25 So Israel had a great deliverance that day.

26 And such of the strangers as escaped, went and told Lysias all that had happened.

27 And when he heard these things, he was amazed and discouraged: because things had not succeeded in Israel according to his mind, and as the king had commanded.

28 So the year ^afollowing, Lysias gathered together threescore thousand chosen men, and five thousand horsemen, that he might subdue them.

29 And they came into Judea, and pitched their tents in Bethoron, and Judas met them with ten thousand men.

30 And they saw that the army was strong, and he prayed and said: Blessed art thou, O Saviour of Israel, who didst break the violence of the mighty by the hand of thy servant David, and didst deliver up the camp of the strangers into the hands of Jonathan, the son of Saul, and of his armour-bearer.

^a A. M. 3839.—^b 1 Kings xvii. 10.

"Judea," which seems more probable. The enemy fled on all sides, some among the Philistines (C.); others to the southern parts of Juda, occupied by Edom. H.

VER. 23. See. This sort of purple was most esteemed. The art of dyeing it is now lost. The merchants' goods fell into the hands of the Jews.

VER. 24. For ever. This was the chorus of Psal. cxxxv. which was sung (C.); or the 117th might be used on this occasion. H.

VER. 27. Commanded. See what followed, 2 Mac. viii. 8, to the end. W.

VER. 38. Burnt by Callisthenes, whom the Jews burnt in a house. 2 Mac. viii. C.—Chambers (pastophoria. Sept.); places for beds, veils, &c. H.—S. Jerom commonly prefers "the treasury," with Aquila, or "beds," as Sym. translates. C.

31 Shut up this army in the hands of thy people, Israel, and let them be confounded in their host and their horsemen.

32 Strike them with fear, and cause the boldness of their strength to languish, and let them quake at their own destruction.

33 Cast them down with the sword of them that love thee: and let all that know thy name praise thee with hymns.

34 And they joined battle: and there fell of the army of Lysias five thousand men.

35 And when Lysias saw that his men were put to flight, and how bold the Jews were, and that they were ready either to live, or to die manfully, he went to Antioch, and chose soldiers, that they might come again into Judea with greater numbers.

36 Then Judas and his brethren said: Behold our enemies are discomfited: let us go up now to cleanse the holy places, and to repair them.

37 And all the army assembled together, and they went up into Mount Sion.

38 And they saw the sanctuary desolate, and the altar profaned, and the gates burnt, and shrubs growing up in the courts as in a forest, or on the mountains, and the chambers joining to the temple thrown down.^d

39 And they rent their garments, and made great lamentation, and put ashes on their heads:

40 And they fell down to the ground on their faces, and they sounded with the trumpets of alarm, and they cried towards heaven.

41 Then Judas appointed men to fight against them that were in the castle, till they had cleansed the holy places.

42 And he chose priests without blemish, whose will was set upon the law of God.

43 And they cleansed the holy places, and took away the stones that had been defiled into an unclean place.

44 And he considered about the altar of holocausts that had been profaned, what he should do with it.

45 And a good counsel came into their minds, to pull it down: lest it should be a reproach to them, because the Gentiles had defiled it; so they threw it down.

46 And they laid up the stones in the mountain of the temple, in a convenient place, till there should come a prophet, and give answer concerning them.

47 Then they took whole stones, according to the law, and built a new altar, according to the former:

48 And they built up the holy places, and the things that were within the temple: and they sanctified the temple and the courts.

49 And they made new holy vessels, and brought in ^d 1 Kings xiv. 13.—^e A. M. 3840.

VER. 41. Fight, or to be ready, if the garrison should offer to molest them (C.) from the higher part of Sion, while they were performing what religion required of them. H.

VER. 43. Defiled. Altars, temples, and statues of false gods made of stone, and set up in the temple, (chap. i. 50. W.) and before the houses, (2 Mac. x. 1,) were now demolished and thrown into the vale of Cedron. 2 Par. xxx. 16.

VER. 46. Stones; rough, and covered with brass (Exod. xx. 25); though this latter circumstance is not certain with respect to the altar built by the captives.—Prophet. None was recognised after Malachias, as God prepared his people to pay more attention to the Messias.

the candlestick, and the altar of incense, and the table, into the temple.

50 And they put incense upon the altar, and lighted up the lamps that were upon the candlestick, and they gave light in the temple.

51 And they set the loaves upon the table, and hung up the veils, and finished all the works that they had begun to make.

52 And they arose before the morning, on the five and twentieth day of the ninth month, (which is the month of Casleu,) in the hundred and forty-eighth year.*

53 And they offered sacrifice, according to the law, upon the new altar of holocausts which they had made.

54 According to the time, and according to the day wherein the heathens had defiled it, in the same was it dedicated anew with canticles, and harps, and lutes, and cymbals.

55 And all the people fell upon their faces, and adored, and blessed up to heaven, him that had prospered them.

56 And they kept the dedication of the altar eight days, and they offered holocausts with joy, and sacrifices of salvation, and of praise.

57 And they adorned the front of the temple with crowns of gold, and escutcheons, and they renewed the gates, and the chambers, and hanged doors upon them.

58 And there was exceeding great joy among the people, and the reproach of the Gentiles was turned away.

59 *And Judas, and his brethren, and all the church of Israel decreed, that the day of the dedication of the altar should be kept in its season from year to year for eight days, from the five and twentieth day of the month of Casleu, with joy and gladness.

60 They built up also at that time Mount Sion, with high walls, and strong towers round about, lest the Gentiles should at any time come, and tread it down, as they did before.

61 And he placed a garrison there, to keep it, and he fortified it, to secure Bethsura, that the people might have a defence against Idumea.

CHAP. V.

Judas and his brethren attack the enemies of their country, and deliver them that were distressed. Josephus and Azarias attempting, contrary to order, to fight against their enemies, are defeated.

NOW it came to pass, when the nations round about heard that the altar and the sanctuary were built up, as before, that they were exceeding angry.

2 And they thought to destroy the generation of Jacob

* A. M. 3840.—b John x. 22.

VER. 51. Veils, at the entrance of the holy of holies. C.

VER. 52. Year. The temple was purified a little more than two years after it had been profaned. A. 145. W.—The sacrifices had been interrupted just three years. M.

VER. 57. Escutcheons, or bucklers of gold, taken from the soldiers of Antiochus. Chap. vi. 39. Such ornaments were placed in temples, to testify the gratitude of the people. They wished to restore as much as possible what had been taken away. Chap. i. 23.

VER. 59. Decreed. Our Saviour observed this festival, which was appointed so long after Moses. John x. 22. W.—It was styled Eucania, and kept in winter, while Solomon's temple was dedicated in Tisri, and Zorobabel's in Adar.

VER. 61. Bethsura, which might receive reinforcements from Sion; or rather, (C.) Gr. they "fortified Bethsura to keep it, (Sion,) that," &c. Grot. Vat.—Read 2 Mac. x. 1. W.

CHAP. V. VER. 1. Nations. They were always ready to oppress the Jews. Thus God punished or tried his people. C.

that were among them, and they began to kill some of the people, and to persecute them.

3 Then Judas fought against the children of Esau, in Idumea, and them that were in Acrabathane: because they beset the Israelites round about, and he made a great slaughter of them.

4 And he remembered the malice of the children of Bean: who were a snare and a stumblingblock to the people, by lying in wait for them in the way.

5 And they were shut up by him in towers, and he set upon them, and devoted them to utter destruction, and burnt their towers with fire, and all that were in them.

6 Then he passed over to the children of Ammon, where he found a mighty power, and much people, and Timotheus was their captain:

7 And he fought many battles with them, and they were discomfited in their sight, and he smote them:

8 *And he took the city of Gazer and her towns, and returned into Judea.

9 And the Gentiles that were in Galaad, assembled themselves together against the Israelites that were in their quarters, to destroy them: and they fled into the fortress of Datheman.

10 And they sent letters to Judas, and his brethren, saying: The heathens that are round about are gathered together against us, to destroy us:

11 And they are preparing to come, and to take the fortress into which we are fled: and Timotheus is the captain of their host.

12 Now therefore come, and deliver us out of their hands, for many of us are slain.

13 And all our brethren that were in the places of Tubin, are killed: and they have carried away their wives, and their children, captives, and taken their spoils, and they have slain there almost a thousand men.

14 And while they were yet reading these letters, behold there came other messengers out of Galilee with their garments rent, who related according to these words:

15 Saying, that they of Ptolemais, and of Tyre, and of Sidon, were assembled against them, and all Galilee is filled with strangers, in order to consume us.

16 Now when Judas and the people heard these words, a great assembly met together to consider what they should do for their brethren that were in trouble, and were assaulted by them.

17 And Judas said to Simon, his brother: Choose thee men, and go, and deliver thy brethren in Galilee: and I,

* A. M. 3481, A. C. 163.

VER. 3. Idumea. MS. Alex. has, "Judea." Both may be right. The country had been wrested from Juda by the Idumeans.—Acrabathane is "the ascent of scorpions," (akrabim), which were probably numerous, to the south of the Dead Sea. Num. xxxiv. 4; Deut. viii. 15.

VER. 5. Destruction. Sometimes the people were spared. All depended on the wording of the vow. Lev. xxvii. 28; Num. xxi. 1. See other particulars, 2 Mac. x. 16 to 23. C.

VER. 8. Gazer, in Ephraim. But Jazer, in the tribe of Gad, seems to be meant, as the Greek expresses it. M.—Towns. Lit. "daughters," or dependent (H.) villages. W.—Afterwards Judas returned and defeated Timotheus. 2 Mac. x. 24.

VER. 11. Timotheus. Another of this name had been slain the preceding year, 3840, at Gazara. 2 Mac. x. 37.

VER. 13. Tubin, or Tob, to the south of Gad. Judg. xi. 3. C.

VER. 15. Is filled. Gr. Alex. "All Galilee of the Gentiles to destroy us." H.

and my brother Jonathan, will go into the country of Galaad :

18 And he left Joseph, the son of Zacharias, and Azarias, captains of the people, with the remnant of the army in Judea, to keep it :

19 And he commanded them, saying: Take ye the charge of this people; but make no war against the heathens, till we return.

20 Now three thousand men were allotted to Simon, to go into Galilee: and eight thousand to Judas, to go into the land of Galaad.

21 And Simon went into Galilee, and fought many battles with the heathens: and the heathens were discomfited before his face, and he pursued them even to the gate of Ptolemais.

22 And there fell of the heathens almost three thousand men, and he took the spoils of them.

23 And he took with him those that were in Galilee and in Arbatis, with their wives, and children, and all that they had, and he brought them into Judea with great joy.

24 And *Judas Machabeus, and Jonathan, his brother, passed over the Jordan, and went three days' journey through the desert.

25 And the Nabutheans met them, and received them in a peaceable manner, and told them all that happened to their brethren in the land of Galaad,

26 And that many of them were shut up in Barasa, and in Bosor, and in Alima, and in Casphor, and in Mageth, and in Carnaim: all these strong and great cities.

27 Yea, and that they were kept shut up in the rest of the cities of Galaad, and that they had appointed to bring their army on the morrow near to these cities, and to take them, and to destroy them all in one day.

28 Then Judas and his army suddenly turned their march into the desert, to Bosor, and took the city: and he slew every male by the edge of the sword, and took all their spoils, and burnt it with fire.

29 And they removed from thence by night, and went till they came to the fortress.

30 And it came to pass that early in the morning, when they lifted up their eyes, behold there were people without number, carrying ladders and engines to take the fortress, and assault them.

31 And Judas saw that the fight was begun, and the cry of the battle went up to heaven like a trumpet, and a great cry out of the city:

32 And he said to his host: Fight ye to-day for your brethren.

33 And he came with three companies behind them, and they sounded their trumpets, and cried out in prayer.

34 And the host of Timotheus understood that it was Machabeus, and they fled away before his face: and they made a great slaughter of them: and there fell of them in that day almost eight thousand men.

35 And Judas turned aside to Maspha, and assaulted, and took it, and he slew every male thereof, and took the spoils thereof, and burnt it with fire.

36 From thence he marched, and took Casbon, and Mageth, and Bosor, and the rest of the cities of Galaad.

37 But after this Timotheus gathered another army, and camped over against Raphon, beyond the torrent.

38 And Judas sent men to view the army: and they brought him word, saying: All the nations, that are round about us, are assembled unto him an army exceeding great:

39 And they have hired the Arabians to help them, and they have pitched their tents beyond the torrent, ready to come to fight against thee. And Judas went to meet them.

40 And Timotheus said to the captains of his army: When Judas and his army come near the torrent of water, if he pass over unto us first, we shall not be able to withstand him: for he will certainly prevail over us.

41 But if he be afraid to pass over, and camp on the other side of the river, we will pass over to them, and shall prevail against him.

42 Now when Judas came near the torrent of water, he set the scribes of the people by the torrent, and commanded them, saying: Suffer no man to stay behind: but let all come to the battle.

43 And he passed over to them first, and all the people after him, and all the heathens were discomfited before them, and they threw away their weapons, and fled to the temple that was in Carnaim.

44 And he took that city, and the temple he burnt with fire, with all things that were therein: and Carnaim was subdued, and could not stand against the face of Judas.

45 And Judas gathered together all the Israelites that were in the land of Galaad, from the least even to the greatest, and their wives and children, and an army exceeding great, to come into the land of Juda.

46 And they came as far as Ephron: now this was a great city, situate in the way, strongly fortified, and there was no means to turn from it on the right hand or on the left, but the way was through the midst of it.

47 And they that were in the city shut themselves in, and stopped up the gates with stones: and Judas sent to them with peaceable words,

48 Saying: Let us pass through your land, to go into our own country, and no man shall hurt you; we will only pass through on foot. But they would not open to them.

49 Then Judas commanded proclamation to be made in the camp, that they should make an assault, every man in the place where he was.

* A. M. 3481.

VER. 23. Arbatis. Arboth means "deserts" uncultivated, here probably denoting the valley of Jezrahel.

VER. 25. Nabutheans; descendants of Ismael's eldest son, whose capital was Petra. They continued friends to the Jews.

VER. 26. Barasa; probably the Bozra of Moab. Gr. "Bosorra." Jos.—Bosor means a fortress. It is not wonderful that there should be many places of this name in Arabia, to defend the people from robbers.—Alima; Elim, or Almon. Isa. xv. 8. —Casphor or rather Casbon, (ver. 36,) the famous Hesebon. Num. xxi. 26. C.

VER. 37. After. Judas had in the mean time defeated Lysias. 2 Mac. xi. 1, &c. C.

VER. 41. Afraid. He interpreted the delay in this sense, which was very precarious. (H.) as nothing could be more superstitious. Jonathan begged for a similar proof of God's favour. But Timotheus consulted only himself. 1 Kings xiv. 9. C.

VER. 42. Scribes; tribunes, who kept a register of the soldiers. M.

VER. 44. Temple of Atergata, or Astarte.

VER. 46. Ephron, beyond the Jordan. The situation is unknown. With regard to the right which Judas had to treat it with such severity, see Num. xx. 18; Judg. viii. 5. C.

50 And the men of the army drew near, and he assaulted that city all the day, and all the night; and the city was delivered into his hands:

51 And they slew every male with the edge of the sword; and he razed the city, and took the spoils thereof, and passed through all the city over them that were slain.

52 Then they passed over the Jordan to the great plain that is over against Bethsan.

53 And Judas gathered together the hindmost, and he exhorted the people, all the way through, till they came into the land of Juda.

54 And they went up to Mount Sion with joy and gladness, and offered holocausts, because not one of them was slain, till they had returned in peace.

55 Now in the days that Judas and Jonathan were in the land of Galaad,* and Simon, his brother, in Galilee, before Ptolemais,

56 Joseph, the son of Zacharias, and Azarias, captain of the soldiers, heard of the good success, and the battles that were fought,

57 And he said: Let us also get us a name, and let us go fight against the Gentiles that are round about us.

58 And he gave charge to them that were in his army, and they went towards Jamnia.

59 And Gorgias and his men went out of the city, to give them battle.

60 And Joseph and Azarias were put to flight, and were pursued unto the borders of Judea: and there fell on that day, of the people of Israel, about two thousand men, and there was a great overthrow of the people:

61 Because they did not hearken to Judas and his brethren, thinking that they should do manfully.

62 But they were not of the seed of those men by whom salvation was brought to Israel.

63 And the men of Juda were magnified exceedingly in the sight of all Israel, and of all the nations where their name was heard.

64 And the people assembled to them with joyful acclamations.

65 Then Judas and his brethren went forth and attacked the children of Esau,* in the land towards the south, and he took Chebron and her towns: and he burnt the walls thereof, and the towers all round it.

66 And he removed his camp to go into the land of the aliens, and he went through Samaria.

67 In that day some priests fell in battle, while desiring to do manfully they went out unadvisedly to fight.

* A. M. 3841, A. C. 163.—b A. M. 3841.

VER. 53. Hindmost: the place of danger. C.

VER. 54. Not one. The twelve thousand who defeated the Madianites were preserved by God in like manner. Num. xxxi. 49. H.

VER. 56. And Azarias. These two are known only for their disobedience and misconduct. In holy wars, God does not favour those who are actuated by base motives. Ver. 18, 60. C.

VER. 58. Jamnia, a maritime city of the Philistines near Joppe. Gorgias, an experienced warrior, had retired thither. Chap. iv. 5, and 2 Mac. viii. 9. C.

VER. 63. Men. Gr. "man, Judas, and his brethren were," &c. H.—See a similar expression Exod. xiv. 3, respecting Moses.

VER. 65. Chebron, or Hebron, which the Idumeans had seized. Judas retook it after he had defeated Gorgias. 2 Mac. xii. 32.

VER. 66. Aliens; Philistines. Ver. 68.—Samaria. This seems too remote. Some substitute Saraia (Jos. xv. 35); others Maresa, (2 Mac. xii. 35,) Marissa, (Jos.,) the same as Ressa. Num. xxxiii. 21.

68 And Judas turned to Azotus, into the land of the strangers, and he threw down their altars, and he burnt the statues of their gods with fire: and he took the spoils of the cities, and returned into the land of Juda.

CHAP. VI.

The fruitless repentance and death of Antiochus. His son comes against Judas with a formidable army. He besieges Sion: but at last makes peace with the Jews.

NOW king Antiochus was going through the higher countries, and he heard that the city of Elymais, in Persia, was greatly renowned, and abounding in silver and gold,

2 And that there was in it a temple exceeding rich; and coverings of gold, and breastplates, and shields, which king Alexander, son of Philip, the Macedonian, that reigned first in Greece, had left there.

3 So he came, and sought to take the city and to pillage it; but he was not able, because the design was known to them that were in the city.

4 And they rose up against him in battle, and he fled away from thence, and departed with great sadness, and returned towards Babylonia.

5 And whilst he was in Persia, there came one that told him how the armies that were in the land of Juda were put to flight:

6 And that Lysias went with a very great power, and was put to flight before the face of the Jews, and that they were grown strong by the armour, and power, and store of spoils, which they had gotten out of the camps which they had destroyed:

7 And that they had thrown down the abomination which he had set up upon the altar in Jerusalem, and that they had compassed about the sanctuary with high walls as before, and Bethsura also, his city.

8 And it came to pass, when the king heard these words, that he was struck with fear, and exceedingly moved: and he laid himself down upon his bed, and fell sick for grief, because it had not fallen out to him as he imagined.

9 And he remained there many days: for great grief came more and more upon him, and he made account that he should die.

10 And he called for all his friends, and said to them: Sleep is gone from my eyes, and I am fallen away, and my heart is cast down for anxiety:

11 And I said in my heart: Into what tribulation am I come, and into what floods of sorrow, wherein now I am: I that was pleasant and beloved in my power!

* A. M. 3840, A. C. 164.

VER. 67. Desiring. They were only too brave. This quality was not incompatible with the priesthood. Gr. Alex. has, "while he (Judas) was desiring," &c.

CHAP. VI. VER. 1. Higher, beyond the Euphrates. Chap. iii. 30, 37. C.—The city. Gr. Alex., &c., "a city in Elymais," &c. The Rom. copy, Syr., Jos., style the place Elymais, where the temple was. C.—Nana, Venus or Diana, was the deity there adored, whom the king pretended he would marry. 2 Mac. i. 13, and ix. 2. C.

VER. 4. Battle. It is not known whether Elymais belonged to the king. Strabo (16) observes it was very jealous of its liberty, which it maintained against the Persians and the successors of Alexander. C.—Babylonia. At last he returned towards the country of Babylon. But before he arrived, the news of his generals' bad success in Judea filled him with vexation, and brought on desperate diseases. Ver. 8, and 2 Mac. ix. 5. W.

VER. 5. Persia, at Ecbatana. He expired at Tabia, having fallen from his chariot, &c. 2 Mac. ix. C.

12 But now I remember the evils that I did in Jerusalem, from whence also I took away all the spoils of gold, and of silver, that were in it, and I sent to destroy the inhabitants of Juda without cause.

13 I know, therefore, that for this cause these evils have found me: and behold I perish with great grief in a strange land.

14 Then he called Philip, one of his friends, and he made him regent over all his kingdom.

15 And he gave him the crown, and his robe, and his ring, that he should go to Antiochus, his son, and should bring him up for the kingdom.

16 So king Antiochus died there in the year one hundred and forty-nine.*

17 And Lysias understood that the king was dead, and he set up Antiochus, his son, to reign, whom he had brought up young: and he called his name Eupator.

18 Now they that were in the castle, had shut up the Israelites round about the holy places: and they were continually seeking their hurt, and to strengthen the Gentiles.

19 And Judas purposed to destroy them: and he called together all the people, to besiege them.

20 *And they came together, and besieged them in the year one hundred and fifty, and they made battering slings and engines.

21 And some of the besieged got out: and some wicked men of Israel joined themselves unto them.

22 And they went to the king, and said: How long dost thou delay to execute judgment, and to revenge our brethren?

23 We determined to serve thy father, and to do according to his orders, and obey his edicts:

24 And for this they of our nation are alienated from us, and have slain as many of us as they could find, and have spoiled our inheritances.

25 Neither have they put forth their hand against us only, but also against all our borders.

26 And behold they have approached this day to the castle of Jerusalem to take it, and they have fortified the strong hold of Bethsura:

27 And unless thou speedily prevent them, they will do greater things than these, and thou shalt not be able to subdue them.

28 Now when the king heard this, he was angry: and he called together all his friends, and the captains of his army, and them that were over the horsemen.

a A. M. 3841.

29 There came also to him from other realms, and from the islands of the sea, hired troops.

30 And the number of his army was an hundred thousand footmen, and twenty thousand horsemen, and thirty-two elephants trained to battle.

31 And they went through Idumea, and approached to Bethsura, and fought many days, and they made engines: but they sallied forth, and burnt them with fire, and fought manfully.

32 And Judas departed from the castle, and removed the camp to Bethzacharam, over against the king's camp.

33 And the king rose before it was light, and made his troops march on fiercely towards the way of Bethzacharam: and the armies made themselves ready for the battle, and they sounded the trumpets:

34 And they showed the elephants the blood of grapes, and mulberries, to provoke them to fight.

35 And they distributed the beasts by the legions: and there stood by every elephant a thousand men in coats of mail, and with helmets of brass on their heads: and five hundred horsemen set in order were chosen for every beast.

36 These, before the time wheresoever the beast was, they were there: and whithersoever it went, they went, and they departed not from it.

37 And upon the beast, there were strong wooden towers which covered every one of them: and engines upon them, and upon every one thirty-two valiant men, who fought from above: and an Indian to rule the beast.

38 And the rest of the horsemen he placed on this side and on that side, at the two wings, with trumpets to stir up the army, and to hasten them forward that stood thick together in the legions thereof.

39 Now when the sun shone upon the shields of gold, and of brass, the mountains glittered therewith, and they shone like lamps of fire.

40 And part of the king's army was distinguished by the high mountains, and the other part by the low places: and they marched on warily and orderly.

41 And all the inhabitants of the land were moved at the noise of their multitude, and the marching of the company, and the rattling of the armour, for the army was exceeding great and strong.

42 And Judas and his army drew near for battle: and there fell of the king's army six hundred men.

43 And Eleazar, the son of Saura, saw one of the beasts harnessed with the king's harness: and it was berries incite elephants to fight, as the smell of some sorts of blood causes dogs to hunt. Vales. Phil. 82. W.—This might be done to accustom the elephants to the sight of blood. C.

b A. M. 3841.

VER. 37. Thirty-two. An elephant has been known to carry above 5000 pounds, and thirty-two men would weigh no more than 4800. Pliny (viii. 7) observes that sixty people have been seen upon an elephant.

VER. 38. Trumpets. It would seem as if the infantry had none. Yet this does not appear probable. The Greek reads in a different manner. Some copies have "to stir up and enclose them in the defiles," which seems useless; or "to keep them together in the phalanxes," (MS. Alex. C.) as the Vulg. has read. M.

VER. 42. Six, &c., before the exploit of Eleazar. Others fell afterwards. 2 Mac. xi. 11 specifies 11,000 foot, and 600 horse. Josephus says 1000 of the vanguard.

VER. 43. Saura. Gr. "Avaron," (C.) Alex. "the Sauaran." H.—He is styled Abaron, (chap. ii. 5,) the brother of Judas. C. Jos. Sa. M.—Arab says, VER. 12. Evils. All this repentance was fictitious. 2 Mac. ix. W.

VER. 14. Friends, educated with him. He appointed him regent instead of Lysias. C.

VER. 16. Nine. He began his persecution, A. 143, so that it lasted six years and almost four months, or 2300 days, (Dan. viii. 14,) during which time Judas purified the temple, some months before the death of Epiphanes. W.

VER. 20. Fifty. How then was peace made in 148, as we read 2 Mac. xi. 21? Usher (3841) supposes the era was reckoned according to the Chaldee custom, which defers it six months. Basnage (ii. 1) rather thinks that the letter is placed out of its proper order, and should occur at the beginning of Eupator's reign. See 2 Mac. x.

VER. 30. Hundred. 2 Mac. xi. 2 specifies 80,000. But it speaks of a subsequent action.

VER. 32. Bethzacharam, a defile (Jos.) between the city and Bethsura. Judas abandoned the siege of the castle on Sion. C.

VER. 34. Blood of grapes, or wine, (Deut. xxxii. 14,) and the juice of mulhigher than the other beasts; and it seemed to him that the king was on it:

44 And he exposed himself to deliver his people, and to get himself an everlasting name.

45 And he ran up to it boldly in the midst of the legion, killing on the right hand, and on the left, and they fell by him on this side and that side.

46 And he went between the feet of the elephant, and put himself under it: and slew it, and it fell to the ground upon him, and he died there.

47 Then they seeing the strength of the king and the fierceness of his army, turned away from them.

48 But the king's army went up against them to Jerusalem: and the king's army pitched their tents against Judea and Mount Sion.

49 And he made peace with them that were in Bethsura: and they came forth out of the city, because they had no victuals, being shut up there, for it was the year of rest to the land.

50 *And the king took Bethsura: and he placed there a garrison to keep it.

51 And he turned his army against the sanctuary for many days: and he set up there battering slings, and engines, and instruments to cast fire, and engines to cast stones and javelins, and pieces to shoot arrows, and slings.

52 And they also made engines against their engines, and they fought for many days.

53 But there were no victuals in the city, because it was the seventh year: and such as had staid in Judea of them that came from among the nations, had eaten the residue of all that which had been stored up.

54 And there remained in the holy places but a few, for the famine had prevailed over them: and they were dispersed every man to his own place.

55 *Now Lysias heard that Philip, whom king Antiochus while he lived had appointed to bring up his son, Antiochus, and to reign, to be king,

56 Was returned from Persia, and Media, with the army that went with him, and that he sought to take upon him the affairs of the kingdom:

57 Wherefore he made haste to go, and say to the king and to the captains of the army: We decay daily, and our provision of victuals is small, and the place that we lay siege to is strong, and it lieth upon us to take order for the affairs of the kingdom.

58 Now, therefore, let us come to an agreement with these men, and make peace with them and with all their nation.

59 And let us covenant with them, that they may live according to their own laws, as before. For because of our despising their laws, they have been provoked, and have done all these things.

60 And the proposal was acceptable in the sight of the king, and of the princes: and he sent to them to make peace: and they accepted of it.

61 And the king and the princes swore to them: and they came out of the strong hold.

62 Then the king entered into Mount Sion, and saw the strength of the place: and he quickly broke the oath that he had taken, and gave commandment to throw down the wall round about.

63 And he departed in haste and returned to Antioch, where he found Philip master of the city: and he fought against him, and took the city.

CHAP. VII.

Demetrius is made king, and sends Bacchides, and Alcimus, the priest, into Judea, and after them Nicanor, who is slain by Judas, with all his army.

IN the hundred and fifty-first year, Demetrius, the son of Seleucus, departed from the city of Rome, and came up with few men into a city of the sea coast, and reigned there.

2 And it came to pass, as he entered into the house of the kingdom of his fathers, that the army seized upon Antiochus, and Lysias, to bring them unto him.

3 And when he knew it, he said: Let me not see their face.

4 So the army slew them. And Demetrius sat upon the throne of his kingdom:

5 And there came to him the wicked and ungodly men of Israel: and Alcimus was at the head of them, who desired to be made high priest.

6 And they accused the people to the king, saying: Judas and his brethren have destroyed all thy friends, and he hath driven us out of our land.

* A. M. 3841.—b Supra, v. 15.

* A. M. 3842, A. C. 162.

"his servant."—Harness, for greater security. The skin is very hard, except under the belly. C.

VER. 44. Name. This motive has made some condemn the exploit. But surely a person may seek to acquire fame, even by exposing himself to danger. Eleazar might well hope that the beast would not fall so suddenly. The other motive specified is truly noble and virtuous, and we cannot condemn this hero without stronger proofs. S. Gregory (Mor. xix. 13) represents him as a figure of the proud: but he might not therefore be one of the number, (C.) no more than Esau, who was a type of the reprobate. Mal. i. 3. H.—S. Ambrose (Off. i. 40) highly commends the fortitude of this soldier exposing himself to the danger of death for religion. W.—This is the general sentiment. See Serar. M. T. Grot. jure. 3, 4, a. 18.

VER. 47. Them. Judas thought proper to retire to the temple, which alone was fortified, and in his power. The citadel of Sion held for the king, and the city was defenceless. Only what lay to the north of Bethsura was then called Judea. The Idumeans occupied the rest. Eupator blockaded the temple, and besieged Bethsura, which he took. Ver. 51. This siege is related more at length, 2 Mac. xii. 19. It cost the king a great deal. C.

VER. 51. Pieces. Lit. "scorpious," (H.) a sort of pointed dart, (C.) filled with poison, virus qua figit effundit. Tert. Scorp.

VER. 55. King. Lysias had thus been displaced. Ver. 14. C.

VER. 58. Come. Lit. "give our right hands," (H.) the sign of the most inviolable engagements among the Persians, Jos. Ant. xvii. ult.

VER. 63. City, and slew Philip. Jos. Ant. xii. 15. C.—Read 2 Mac. xiii. 1. W.

CHAP. VII. VER. 1. Rome. He had been a hostage instead of Epiphanes, who usurped his throne. Chap. i. 11. After the death of the latter, the senate sent three legates to administer the kingdom, during the minority of Eupator. One of them was slain. The king and Lysias sent to exculpate themselves, but received no satisfactory answer. Demetrius thought this a proper opportunity for regaining the throne. He consulted the historian, Polybius, who advised him to depart privately. He, however, addressed the senate for leave, and being refused, fled with eight attendants to Tripoli, and thence to Apamea. His rivals durst not attack him, as he pretended to be sent by the Romans. The army of Eupator seized their king and Lysias, and put them to death. Polyb. 114, and 122. Jos. C.—Seleucus and Epiphanes were brothers; and of course Demetrius was cousin to Eupator, (W.) and the lawful heir of Seleucus. H.

VER. 5. Alcimus. He occupied the place of Menelaus, and would be high priest, but that office was held by the Machabees. W.—Eupator had slain Menelaus, as being too turbulent. Onias IV. ought to have been recognised (C.); but he fled into Egypt, and there built a temple. Lysias advised the king to select one from a family of less power. Alcimus was such, though of the posterity of Aaron. Ver. 14. Jos. Ant. xii. 5, and xiii. 6, and xx. 8.—He had fallen under Epiphanes, and the Jews would not receive him.

VER. 6. Thy friends, and the apostates, who obeyed the decree of the king's uncle. This was true, and the glory of Judas. See 2 Mac. xiv. 3. C.

7 Now, therefore, send some man whom thou trustest, and let him go, and see all the havoc he hath made amongst us, and in the king's lands: and let him punish all his friends and their helpers.

8 Then the king chose Bacchides, one of his friends, that ruled beyond the great river in the kingdom, and was faithful to the king: and he sent him,

9 To see the havoc that Judas had made: and the wicked Alcimus he made high priest, and commanded him to take revenge upon the children of Israel.

10 And they arose, and came with a great army into the land of Juda: and they sent messengers, and spoke to Judas and his brethren with peaceable words, deceitfully.

11 But they gave no heed to their words: for they saw that they were come with a great army.

12 Then there assembled to Alcimus and Bacchides a company of the scribes, to require things that are just:

13 And first the Assideans, that were among the children of Israel, and they sought peace of them.

14 For they said: One that is a priest of the seed of Aaron is come, he will not deceive us.

15 And he spoke to them peaceably: and he swore to them, saying: We will do you no harm, nor your friends.

16 And they believed him. And he took threescore of them, and slew them in one day, according to the word that is written:

17 *The flesh of thy saints, and the blood of them they have shed round about Jerusalem, and there was none to bury them.

18 Then fear and trembling fell upon all the people: for they said: There is no truth, nor justice among them: for they have broken the covenant, and the oath which they made.

19 And Bacchides removed the camp from Jerusalem, and pitched in Bethzecha: and he sent, and took many of them that were fled away from him, and some of the people he killed, and threw them into a great pit.

20 Then he committed the country to Alcimus, and left with him troops to help him. So Bacchides went away to the king.

21 But Alcimus did what he could to maintain his chief priesthood.

22 And they that disturbed the people resorted to him, and they got the land of Juda into their power, and did much hurt in Israel.

23 And Judas saw all the evils that Alcimus, and they that were with him, did to the children of Israel, much more than the Gentiles.

24 And he went out into all the coasts of Judea round about, and took vengeance upon the men that had revolted, and they ceased to go forth any more into the country.

* Psal. lxxviii. 1, 2, and 3.—2 Mac. xv. 1.—A. M. 3843.

VER. 8. River, as governor of Mesopotamia, (Jos. Usher. C.) instead of Heraclides and Timarehus, who had abused their power.

VER. 13. Assideans. These were first consulted, as being most learned and pious. Chap. ii. 42. W.

VER. 17. Them. The Psal. lxxviii. alludes to the Assideans, (ver. 2,) and is explained by many as relating to this massacre.

VER. 26. Enemy. He was one of the most terrible: yet Judas at last slew

25 And Alcimus saw that Judas, and they that were with him, prevailed: and he knew that he could not stand against them, and he went back to the king, and accused them of many crimes.

26 *And the king sent Nicanor, one of his principal lords, who was a great enemy to Israel: and he commanded him to destroy the people.

27 And Nicanor came to Jerusalem with a great army, and he sent to Judas and to his brethren deceitfully, with friendly words, 28 Saying: Let there be no fighting between me and you: I will come with a few men, to see your faces with peace.

29 And he came to Judas, and they saluted one another peaceably: and the enemies were prepared to take away Judas by force.

30 And the thing was known to Judas that he was come to him with deceit: and he was much afraid of him, and would not see his face any more.

31 And Nicanor knew that his counsel was discovered: and he went out to fight against Judas, near Capharsalama.

32 And there fell of Nicanor's army almost five thousand men, and they fled into the city of David.

33 And after this Nicanor went up into Mount Sion: and some of the priests and the people came out to salute him peaceably, and to show him the holocausts that were offered for the king.

34 But he mocked and despised them, and abused them: and he spoke proudly, 35 And swore in anger, saying: Unless Judas and his army be delivered into my hands, as soon as ever I return in peace, I will burn this house. And he went out in a great rage.

36 And the priests went in, and stood before the face of the altar and the temple: and weeping, they said:

37 Thou, O Lord, hast chosen this house for thy name to be called upon therein, that it might be a house of prayer and supplication for thy people.

38 Be avenged of this man, and his army, and let them fall by the sword: remember their blasphemies, and suffer them not to continue any longer.

39 Then Nicanor went out from Jerusalem, and encamped near to Bethoron: and an army of Syria joined him.

40 But Judas pitched in Adarsa with three thousand men: and Judas prayed, and said:

41 *O Lord, when they that were sent by king Sennacherib blasphemed thee, an angel went out, and slew of them a hundred and eighty-five thousand:

42 Even so destroy this army in our sight to-day, and let the rest know that he hath spoken ill against thy sanctuary: and judge thou him according to his wickedness.

4 4 Kings xix. 35; Tob. i. 21; Eccl. xlviii. 24; Isa. xxxvii. 36; 2 Mac. viii. 19.

him. Ver. 43, and 2 Mac. xv. 28. W.—Nicanor was high in the king's favour, and had fled with him from Rome. Jos. Ant. xii. 17.

VER. 32. Thousand. Some Gr. copies have "hundred." Others think that these were Jews: but the contrary seems to be the case, though Judas was again (chap. vi. 47) forced to retreat to the temple, which he left shortly after. 2 Mac. xiv. 31

VER. 38. Longer. Read 2 Mac. xiv. 11. The last battle with Nicanor is described, chap. xv. and here. Ver. 39. W.

43 And the armies joined battle on the thirteenth day of the month, Adar: and the army of Nicanor was defeated, and he himself was first slain in the battle.

44 And when his army saw that Nicanor was slain, they threw away their weapons, and fled:

45 And they pursued after them one day's journey from Adazer, even till ye come to Gazara, and they sounded the trumpets after them with signals.

46 And they went forth out of all the towns of Judea round about, and they pushed them with the horns, and they turned again to them, and they were all slain with the sword, and there was not left of them so much as one.

47 And they took the spoils of them for a booty, and they cut off Nicanor's head, and his right hand, which he had proudly stretched out, and they brought it, and hung it up over against Jerusalem.

48 And the people rejoiced exceedingly, and they spent that day with great joy.

49 And he ordained that this day should be kept every year, being the thirteenth of the month of Adar.

50 And the land of Juda was quiet for a short time.

CHAP. VIII.

Judas hears of the great character of the Romans: he makes a league with them.

NOW Judas heard of the fame of the Romans, that they are powerful and strong, and willingly agree to all things that are requested of them: and that whosoever have come to them, they have made amity with them, and that they are mighty in power.

2 And they heard of their battles, and their noble acts which they had done in Galatia,* how they had conquered them, and brought them under tribute:

3 And how great things they had done in the land of Spain, and that they had brought under their power the mines of silver and of gold that are there, and had gotten possession of all the place by their counsel and patience:

4 And had conquered places that were very far off from them, and kings that came against them from the ends of the earth, and had overthrown them with great slaughter: and the rest pay them tribute every year.

5 And that they had defeated in battle Philip and Perses, the king of the Ceteans, and the rest that had borne arms against them, and had conquered them:

* A. M. 3816, A. C. 188.

6 And how Antiochus, the great king of Asia, who went to fight against them, having a hundred and twenty elephants, with horsemen, and chariots, and a very great army, was routed by them:^b

7 And how they took him alive, and appointed to him, that both he and they that should reign after him, should pay a great tribute, and that he should give hostages, and that which was agreed upon,

8 And the country of the Indians, and of the Medes, and of the Lydians, some of their best provinces: and those which they had taken from them, they gave to king Eumenes.

9 And that they who were in Greece, had a mind to go and to destroy them: and they had knowledge thereof.

10 And they sent a general against them, and fought with them, and many of them were slain, and they carried away their wives, and their children captives, and spoiled them, and took possession of their land, and threw down their walls, and brought them to be their servants unto this day.

11 And the other kingdoms, and islands, that at any time had resisted them, they had destroyed and brought under their power.

12 But with their friends, and such as relied upon them, they kept amity, and had conquered kingdoms that were near, and that were far off: for all that heard their name, were afraid of them.

13 That whom they had a mind to help to a kingdom, those reigned: and whom they would, they deposed from the kingdom: and they were greatly exalted.

14 And none of all these wore a crown, or was clothed in purple, to be magnified thereby.

15 And that they had made themselves a senate house, and consulted daily three hundred and twenty men, that sat in counsel always for the people, that they might do the things that were right:

16 And that they committed their government to one man every year, to rule over all their country, and they all obey one, and there is no envy nor jealousy amongst them.

17 So Judas chose Eupolemus, the son of John, the son of Jacob, and Jason, the son of Eleazar, and he sent

^b A. M. 3815, A. C. 189.

VER. 40. Adarsa, in Ephraim, four miles from the lower Bethoron.

VER. 45. Gazara, distant a day's journey from Adarsa. VER. 40; chap. v. 8. --Signals, to admonish all. GR. "with the trumpets for signals," used for that purpose by the priests.

VER. 47. Jerusalem, and the temple, without the walls. His tongue was given to the birds. 2 Mac. xv. 33. C.

VER. 50. Time. While Judas settles religious matters, Demetrius prepares for war. Read 2 Mac. xv. 1. W.

CHAP. VIII. VER. 1. Romans. Many historians, Livy, Plutarch, &c., record the same. W.—Things. GR. "people who join them." H.—They comply with their just requests. M.—The Scripture speaks of the fine times of the republic, and gives this temporal reward to the virtues of the Romans, which they so greatly sought, and to which alone they were entitled. C.

VER. 2. They heard, &c. What is here set down of the history and character of the ancient Romans, is not an assertion or affirmation of the sacred writer; but only a relation of what Judas had heard of them. CH.—Fame generally magnifies. —Galatia, over which Volso triumphed. Livy, 38. C.

VER. 3. Mines, for which Spain was most famous. Pliny, iii. 3. Strabo. 3.—The place, or every place in the world. M.

VER. 5. Ceteans. That is, the Macedonians. CH.—Flaminius subdued the former, and P. Enilius the latter.

VER. 6. Twenty. Livy mentions only fifty-four. Florus allows that elephants were on both sides of the army, consisting of three hundred thousand foot Appian admits but seventy thousand men. C.

VER. 7. Alive. He was forced to submit to conditions, as hard as if he had been prisoner. C.—Tribute. He had to pay all the expenses of the war, 15,000 talents of Eubœa, 350 to Eumenes, and 127 for wheat. Twenty hostages were required to be exchanged every three years.

VER. 8. Indians. So the Ionians and Carians might be styled, from the Indus or Kalbit, which flows through their country. The Midæi dwelt in those regions. Harduin.—Some think the Ionians and Mysians should be put for the Indians and Medes, (Grot.,) as they were given up to Eumenes. Livy. C.—Eumenes. King of Pergamus. CH.

VER. 14. Crown, after the expulsion of the Tarquins

VER. 15. Twenty. These latter were people in office, the two consuls, prætors, and questors, the four ediles, and ten tribunes. Alex. Genial. iv. 11. C.

VER. 16. To one man. There were two consuls; but one only ruled at one time, each in his day. CH.—Of this we have an example in the battle of Cannæ. The first of the consuls wore the ornaments. Livy.—One of them governed at home; the other in the armies, and this latter alone was known to the Jews. They might also be falsely informed that a dictator was chosen every year. This was only done on great emergencies. C.—No envy, &c. So Judas had heard; and it was so far true, with regard to the ancient Romans, that as yet no envy on them to Rome to make a league of amity and confederacy with them :

18 And that they might take off from them the yoke of the Grecians, for they saw that they oppressed the kingdom of Israel with servitude.

19 And they went to Rome, a very long journey, and they entered into the senate house, and said :

20 Judas Machabeus, and his brethren, and the people of the Jews, have sent us to you to make alliance and peace with you, and that we may be registered your confederates and friends.

21 And the proposal was pleasing in their sight.

22 And this is the copy of the writing that they wrote back again, graven in tables of brass, and sent to Jerusalem, that it might be with them there for a memorial of the peace, and alliance.

23 GOOD SUCCESS BE TO THE ROMANS, and to the people of the Jews by sea, and by land, for ever : and far be the sword and enemy from them.

24 But if there come first any war upon the Romans, or any of their confederates, in all their dominions :

25 The nation of the Jews shall help them according as the time shall direct, with all their heart :

26 Neither shall they give them, whilst they are fighting, or furnish them with wheat, or arms, or money, or ships, as it hath seemed good to the Romans : and they shall obey their orders, without taking any thing of them.

27 In like manner also if war shall come first upon the nation of the Jews, the Romans shall help them with all their heart, according as the time shall permit them :

28 And there shall not be given to them that come to their aid, either wheat, or arms, or money, or ships, as it hath seemed good to the Romans : and they shall observe their orders without deceit.

29 According to these articles did the Romans covenant with the people of the Jews.

30 And if, after this, one party or the other shall have a mind to add to these articles, or take away any thing, they may do it at their pleasure : and whatsoever they shall add, or take away, shall be ratified.

31 Moreover, concerning the evils that Demetrius, the king, hath done against them, we have written to him, saying : Why hast thou made thy yoke heavy upon our friends and allies, the Jews ?

32 If, therefore, they come again to us complaining of thee, we will do them justice, and will make war against thee by sea and land.

jealousy had divided them into such open factions and civil wars, as they afterwards experienced in the time of Marius and Sylla, &c. Ch.

VER. 26. Shall they. The Jews and Romans shall pay their own forces. T. M. —Grotius explains it, as if the former were to give no aid to the enemies of Rome.

VER. 28. To them. Grotius adds, "to the enemies and to them," &c., which is the sense of the Syr. and Arab., and the most natural.

VER. 31. Jews. He and his predecessors had abused their power. C.—The Jews were not properly subjects, though tributary to foreign kings, whose design was to exterminate them. Chap. iii. 39. Self-preservation dictated that they should call in the aid of others. H.—To die for religion was a great blessing. C.

CHAP. IX. VER. 1. Time. About a year after Nicanor's death, (chap. vii. 50, and 2 Mac. xv. 38. W.) or in the same year, A. 3843 (C.) ; so that the Romans had not time to send Judas assistance. H.—Josephus (xii. 17) erroneously supposes that Alcimus was dead, and Judas his successor, while Simon was the civil

CHAP. IX.

Bacchides is sent again into Judea : Judas fights against him with eight hundred men, and is slain. Jonathan succeeds him, and revenges the murder of his brother John. He fights against Bacchides. Alcimus dies miserably. Bacchides besieges Bethbessen. He is forced to raise the siege and leave the country.

IN "the mean time, when Demetrius heard that Nicanor and his army were fallen in battle, he sent again Bacchides and Alcimus into Judea ; and the right wing of his army with them.

2 And they took the road that leadeth to Galgal, and they camped in Masaloth, which is in Arbella : and they made themselves masters of it, and slew many people.

3 In the first month of the hundred and fifty-second year they brought the army to Jerusalem :

4 And they arose and went to Berea, with twenty thousand men, and two thousand horsemen.

5 Now Judas had pitched his tents in Laiza, and three thousand chosen men with him :

6 And they saw the multitude of the army that they were many, and they were seized with great fear : and many withdrew themselves out of the camp, and there remained of them no more than eight hundred men.

7 And Judas saw that his army slept away, and the battle pressed upon him, and his heart was cast down : because he had not time to gather them together, and he was discouraged.

8 Then he said to them that remained : Let us arise, and go against our enemies, if we may be able to fight against them.

9 But they dissuaded him, saying : We shall not be able, but let us save our lives now, and return to our brethren, and then we will fight against them : for we are but few.

10 Then Judas said : God forbid we should do this thing, and flee away from them : but if our time be come, let us die manfully for our brethren, and let us not stain our glory.

11 And the army removed out of the camp, and they stood over against them : and the horsemen were divided into two troops, and the slingers, and the archers went before the army, and they that were in the front were all men of valour.

12 And Bacchides was in the right wing, and the legion drew near on two sides, and they sounded the trumpets :

13 And they also that were on Judas's side, even they also cried out, and the earth shook at the noise of the ruler and general. He elsewhere (xx. 8) asserts that Jonathan was next high priest to Alcimus, who certainly officiated after the death of Judas. Ver. 54.

• A. M. 3483, A. C. 161.

VER. 2. Galgal . . . in Arbella, or to Galilee, in the flat country, Araboth. Chap. v. 23.—Masaloth, or Masai, was in the tribe of Aser. Jos. xvi. 30.—S. Jeron speaks of Arbela, nine miles from Legion. See Osee x. 14.

VER. 4. Berea, or Beroth, in Benjamin, not far from Laiza, or Lesen, (Joe xviii. 25,) where Judas was encamped, (C.) with 3000 (Gorion) ; Josephus says 1000 ; Rufin translates 2000.

VER. 10. Stain. Lit. "bring a crime." H.—He seems to have thought God required him now to fight, and he was convinced that he could save by means of a few, which excuses him from rashness. The Church adopts his words, (Dom 3 Oct. Mat.) and S. Ambrose (Of. i. 41) highly extols his bravery, in "preferring death before slavery and shame."

VER. 12. Legion. So the Vulg. commonly renders Gr. "phalanx." (C.) a compact body of 8000 men, used by the Macedonians. The Roman legion con-armies: and the battle was fought from morning even unto the evening.

14 And Judas perceived that the stronger part of the army of Bacchides was on the right side, and all the stout of heart came together with him:

15 And the right wing was discomfited by them, and he pursued them even to the mount of Azotus.

16 And they that were in the left wing saw that the right wing was discomfited, and they followed after Judas, and them that were with him, at their back:

17 And the battle was hard fought, and there fell many wounded of the one side and of the other.

18 And Judas was slain, and the rest fled away.

19 And Jonathan and Simon took Judas, their brother, and buried him in the sepulchre of their fathers, in the city of Modin.

20 And all the people of Israel bewailed him with great lamentation, and they mourned for him many days, 21 And said: How is the mighty man fallen, that saved the people of Israel!

22 But the rest of the words of the wars of Judas, and of the noble acts that he did, and of his greatness, are not written: for they were very many.

23 And it came to pass, after the death of Judas, that the wicked began to put forth their heads in all the confines of Israel, and all the workers of iniquity rose up.

24 In those days there was a very great famine, and they and all their country yielded to Bacchides.

25 And Bacchides chose the wicked men, and made them lords of the country:

26 And they sought out, and made diligent search after the friends of Judas, and brought them to Bacchides, and he took vengeance of them, and abused them.

27 And there was a great tribulation in Israel, the like whereof was not since the time that there was no prophet seen in Israel.

28 And all the friends of Judas came together, and said to Jonathan:

29 Since thy brother, Judas, died, there is not a man like him to go forth against our enemies, Bacchides, and them that are the enemies of our nation.

30 Now, therefore, we have chosen thee this day to be our prince, and captain, in his stead, to fight our battles.

31 So Jonathan took upon him the government at that time, and rose up in the place of Judas, his brother.

32 And Bacchides had knowledge of it, and sought to kill him.

33 And Jonathan, and Simon, his brother, knew it, and all that were with them: and they fled into the desert of Thecua, and they pitched by the water of the lake Asphar.

34 And Bacchides understood it, and he came himself, with all his army, over the Jordan, on the sabbath day.

35 And Jonathan sent his brother, a captain of the people, to desire the Nabutheans, his friends, that they would lend them their equipage, which was copious.

36 And the children of Jambri came forth out of Madaba, and took John, and all that he had, and went away with them.

37 After this it was told Jonathan, and Simon, his brother, that the children of Jambri made a great marriage, and were bringing the bride out of Madaba, the daughter of one of the great princes of Chanaan, with great pomp.

38 And they remembered the blood of John, their brother: and they went up, and hid themselves under the covert of the mountain.

39 And they lifted up their eyes, and saw: and behold a tumult, and great preparation: and the bridegroom came forth, and his friends, and his brethren, to meet them with timbrels, and musical instruments, and many weapons.

40 And they rose up against them from the place where they lay in ambush, and slew them, and there fell many wounded, and the rest fled into the mountains, and they took all their spoils:

41 And the marriage was turned into mourning, and the noise of their musical instruments into lamentation.

42 And they took revenge for the blood of their brother: and they returned to the bank of the Jordan.

43 And Bacchides heard it, and he came on the sabbath day even to the bank of the Jordan, with a great power.

44 And Jonathan said to his company: Let us arise, and fight against our enemies: for it is not now as yesterday, and the day before.

45 For behold the battle is before us, and the water of the Jordan on this side and on that side, and banks, and marshes, and woods: and there is no place for us to turn aside.

46 *Now, therefore, cry ye to heaven, that ye may be delivered from the hand of your enemies. And they joined battle.

47 And Jonathan stretched forth his hand to strike Bacchides, but he turned away from him backwards sisted of 6726, (Veget.,) or 6666. The two phalanxes were in each wing supported by cavalry, which endeavoured to surround Judas.

* 2 Par. xx. 3.

VER. 18. Slain. Gorionides relates that the sight of Judas made Bacchides flee towards Azotus. He lost fifteen thousand, when the rest of the army came upon Judas now fatigued; and as Bacchides returned to the charge, the hero fell upon heaps of the slain. Thus died this great man who saved Israel. Ver. 21. C. —Never was there a more accomplished and virtuous champion. He had all the qualities of a holy priest and a valiant soldier, as well as of a religious prince, always bent on promoting the glory of his people. Chap. iii. 3.

VER. 19. Modin. Their remains were seen there long after. Eus.

VER. 22. Many. Thus only some of our Saviour's actions are recorded, for the same reason. S. John ult. H.

VER. 24. All. Josephus says, "Many." We find some (C.) joining Jonathan, ver. 28, H. —When the people are without a ruler they fall. Prov. xi. 14. W.

VER. 27. No prophet since the days of Malachi, (C.) or the return from captivity. Jos.

VER. 28. Jonathan, or (H.) Jonathas, was the third general captain of this family, and succeeded Judas in the pontificate, though Alcimus still usurped the dignity (chap. ix. 9) as in the lifetime of Judas. W.

VER. 33. Thecua, seven miles south of Bethlehem. S. Jer. pref. in Amos. —Asphar, or "asphaltite lake" (Gorion) of Sodom: so called on account of the bitumen, or asphalt. C.

VER. 37. Madaba. Gr. "Nadabath." Jos. "Gabatha." It seems, as the sons of Jambri lived at Madaba, the spouse would not be conducted out of that place, (C.) unless they might reside sometimes in the country. H.

VER. 42. Revenge. To punish faults with moderation and justice is a virtue. Children and subjects are sometimes exposed to temporal chastisements for the faults of their parents or leaders; yet this is for their own advancement in piety, or in punishment for the share they have had in the crime, or to prevent them from imitating it. S. Tho. ii. 2, q. 108. W.

VER. 48. To them. Jonathas swam to another place on the same side, otherwise there would have been no battle. W. —But this had taken place 48 And Jonathan, and they that were with him, leapt into the Jordan, and swam over the Jordan to them.

49 And there fell of Bacchides's side that day a thousand men: and they returned to Jerusalem,

50 And they built strong cities in Judea, the fortress that was in Jericho, and in Ammaus, and in Bethoron, and in Bethel, and Thamnata, and Phara, and Thopo, with high walls, and gates, and bars.

51 And he placed garrisons in them, that they might wage war against Israel:

52 And he fortified the city of Bethsura, and Gazara, and the castle, and set garrisons in them, and provisions of victuals:

53 And he took the sons of the chief men of the country for hostages, and put them in the castle in Jerusalem in custody.

54 *Now in the year one hundred and fifty-three, the second month, Alcimus commanded the walls of the inner court of the sanctuary to be thrown down, and the works of the prophets to be destroyed: and he began to destroy.

55 At that time Alcimus was struck: and his works were hindered, and his mouth was stopped, and he was taken with a palsy, so that he could no more speak a word, nor give order concerning his house.

56 And Alcimus died at that time in great torment.

57 And Bacchides saw that Alcimus was dead: and he returned to the king, and the land was quiet for two years.

58 ^bAnd all the wicked held a council, saying: Behold Jonathan, and they that are with him, dwell at ease and without fear: now, therefore, let us bring Bacchides hither, and he shall take them all in one night.

59 So they went, and gave him counsel.

60 And he arose to come with a great army: and he sent secretly letters to his adherents that were in Judea, to seize upon Jonathan, and them that were with him: but they could not, for their design was known to them.

61 And he apprehended of the men of the country, that were the principal authors of the mischief, fifty men, and he slew them.

62 And Jonathan, and Simon, and they that were with him, retired into Bethbessen, which is in the desert: and he repaired the breaches thereof, and they fortified it.

63 And when Bacchides knew it, he gathered together all his multitude: and sent word to them that were of Judea.

64 And he came, and camped above Bethbessen, and fought against it many days, and made engines.

65 But Jonathan left his brother, Simon, in the city,

* A. M. 3844, A. C. 160.—^b A. M. 3846, A. C. 158.

when a thousand were slain; though Bacchides fled from Jonathan, ver. 47, 49. H.

VER. 50. Thopo, or Taphua. The two last were in Ephraim.

VER. 53. Castle, on the highest part of Sion. Ver. 52; chap. i. 35.—Custody, without doing them any further injury. C.

VER. 54. Alcimus. Josephus (xii. 17) confesses that Judas was high priest. But he mistakes when he says he succeeded Alcimus, who, it hence appears, survived him a year, (ver. 3, 18,) and was only an usurper. He should therefore be corrected by this book, rather than it should be rejected because it differs from him or any such authors. W. Ver. 1, 28. H.—Walls, before the most holy place, (Jos. Lyr.,) or between the priests and people, (Salien. M.) or which separated the Jews from the Gentiles, as if to remove all distinction. Grot.

VER. 61. He. Jonathan slew those who had given information.

and went forth into the country, and came with a number of men,

66 And struck Odares, and his brethren, and the children of Phaseron, in their tents, and he began to slay, and to increase in forces.

67 But Simon, and they that were with him, sallied out of the city, and burnt the engines,

68 And they fought against Bacchides, and he was discomfited by them: and they afflicted him exceedingly, for his counsel, and his enterprise was in vain.

69 And he was angry with the wicked men that had given him counsel to come into their country, and he slew many of them: and he purposed to return with the rest into their country.

70 And Jonathan had knowledge of it, and he sent ambassadors to him to make peace with him, and to restore to him the prisoners.

71 And he accepted it willingly, and did according to his words, and swore that he would do him no harm all the days of his life.

72 And he restored to him the prisoners which he before had taken out of the land of Juda: and he returned, and went away into his own country, and he came no more into their borders.

73 So the sword ceased from Israel: and Jonathan dwelt in Machmas, and Jonathan began there to judge the people, and he destroyed the wicked out of Israel.

CHAP. X.

Alexander Bales sets himself up for king: both he and Demetrius seek to make Jonathan their friend. Alexander kills Demetrius in battle, and honours Jonathan. His victory over Apollonius.

NOW^c in the hundred and sixtieth year, Alexander, the son of Antiochus, surnamed the Illustrious, came up and took Ptolemais, and they received him, and he reigned there.

2 And king Demetrius heard of it, and gathered together an exceeding great army, and went forth against him to fight.

3 And Demetrius sent a letter to Jonathan, with peaceable words, to magnify him.

4 For he said: Let us first make a peace with him, before he make one with Alexander against us.

5 For he will remember all the evils that we have done against him, and against his brother, and against his nation.

6 And he gave him authority to gather together an army, and to make arms, and that he should be his confederate: and the hostages that were in the castle, he commanded to be delivered to him.

7 And Jonathan came to Jerusalem, and read the let-

^c A. M. 3851, A. C. 153.

VER. 66. Odares, people of the country who adhered to Bacchides.

VER. 73. Machmas. The citadel of Sion was still in the hands of the enemy.

CHAP. X. VER. 1. Illustrious. He falsely asserted that he was the son of Epiphanes, being of very mean birth. Just. 35. W.—At any rate the Romans and Egyptians acknowledged him, being glad to find a rival for Demetrius, who was become odious likewise to the Jews and Syrians. Heraclides had been deprived of his government (C.) by the king, (chap. vii. 8,) and in revenge (H.) took Alexander, and Laodicea, daughter of Epiphanes, to Rome, where he gained over many of the senators, who agreed to help them to recover the kingdom. Heraclides then levied forces at Ephesus, and Ptolemais was delivered up to Alexander, whence he wrote to Jonathan.

VER. 3. Magnify, "extol," or grant him fresh dignities. Soter wished to gain over Jonathan, to prevent his rival from receiving supplies from Egypt. C.

ters in the hearing of all the people, and of them that were in the castle.

8 And they were struck with great fear, because they heard that the king had given him authority to gather together an army.

9 And the hostages were delivered to Jonathan, and he restored them to their parents.

10 And Jonathan dwelt in Jerusalem, and began to build, and to repair the city.

11 And he ordered workmen to build the walls, and Mount Sion round about with square stones for fortification: and so they did.

12 Then the strangers that were in the strong holds, which Bacchides had built, fled away.

13 And every man left his place, and departed into his own country:

14 Only in Bethsura there remained some of them, that had forsaken the law, and the commandments of God: for this was a place of refuge for them.

15 And king Alexander heard of the promises that Demetrius had made Jonathan: and they told him of the battles, and the worthy acts that he and his brethren had done, and the labours that they had endured.

16 And he said: Shall we find such another man? now, therefore, we will make him our friend and our confederate.

17 So he wrote a letter, and sent it to him according to these words, saying:

18 KING Alexander to his brother, Jonathan, greeting.

19 We have heard of thee, that thou art a man of great power, and fit to be our friend:

20 Now, therefore, we make thee this day high priest of thy nation, and that thou be called the king's friend, (and he sent him a purple robe, and a crown of gold,) and that thou be of one mind with us in our affairs, and keep friendship with us.

21 Then Jonathan put on the holy vestment in the seventh month, in the year one hundred and threescore, at the feast day of the tabernacles: and he gathered together an army, and made a great number of arms.

22 And Demetrius heard these words, and was exceeding sorry, and said:

23 What is this that we have done, that Alexander hath prevented us to gain the friendship of the Jews, to strengthen himself?

24 I also will write to them words of request, and offer dignities, and gifts: that they may be with me to aid me.

25 And he wrote to them in these words: KING Demetrius to the nation of the Jews, greeting.

26 Whereas you have kept covenant with us, and have continued in our friendship, and have not joined with our enemies, we have heard of it, and are glad.

27 Wherefore now continue still to keep fidelity towards us, and we will reward you with good things, for what you have done in our behalf.

28 And we will remit to you many charges, and will give you gifts.

29 And now I free you, and all the Jews, from tributes, and I release you from the customs of salt, and remit the crowns, and the thirds of the seed:

30 And the half of the fruit of trees, which is my share, I leave to you from this day forward, so that it shall not be taken of the land of Juda, and of the three cities that are added thereto out of Samaria and Galilee, from this day forth, and for ever:

31 And let Jerusalem be holy and free, with the borders thereof: and let the tenths, and tributes be for itself.

32 I yield up also the power of the castle that is in Jerusalem, and I give it to the high priest, to place therein such men as he shall choose, to keep it.

33 And every soul of the Jews that hath been carried captive from the land of Juda in all my kingdom, I set at liberty freely, that all be discharged from tributes, even of their cattle.

34 And I will that all the feasts, and the sabbaths, and the new moons, and the days appointed, and three days before the solemn day, and three days after the solemn day, be all days of immunity and freedom, for all the Jews that are in my kingdom:

35 And no man shall have power to do any thing against them, or to molest any of them, in any cause.

36 And let there be enrolled in the king's army to the number of thirty thousand of the Jews: and allowance shall be made them, as is due to all the king's forces, and certain of them shall be appointed to be in the fortresses of the great king:

37 And some of them shall be set over the affairs of the kingdom, that are of trust, and let the governors be taken from among themselves, and let them walk in their own laws, as the king hath commanded in the land of Juda.

38 And the three cities that are added to Judea, out of the country of Samaria, let them be accounted with Judea: that they may be under one, and obey no other authority but that of the high priest:

39 Ptolemais, and the confines thereof, I give as a free gift to the holy places, that are in Jerusalem, for the necessary charges of the holy things.

40 And I give every year fifteen thousand sicles of VER. 11. Did. The wall built by Judas had been demolished. Chap. iv. 60, and vi. 62.

VER. 20. Make. The king could not make him high priest, as he was that ready: but he acknowledges the title. W.

VER. 21. Vestment, at the feast of tabernacles, A. 3852, seven years after the death of Alcimus, and nine since Judas fell. C.

VER. 23. Prevented, by sending presents. Demetrius had sent a letter and liberated the hostages, whom Jonathan might justly receive without declaring for the king. M.

VER. 26. Heard. He scruples not to tell a lie, for he had been informed of the contrary. Ver. 23. W.

VER. 29. Salt, of which there were pits in the country. Chap. xi. 35.—Crowns. Antiochus the Great had before granted this exemption to the ministers of the temple. Jos. Ant. xii. 3. C.—The Jews, after its ruin, used to present such to their patriarchs. But the Roman emperors claimed them. Grot.

VER. 31. Free; "an asylum," (Jos.,) without any foreign troops, like Delphi. Grot.

VER. 32. Castle. Yet Jonathas was afterwards forced to besiege it. C.

VER. 33. Cattle, so that they shall not be forced to work for the public. Jos.

VER. 34. Appointed "of lots," Judith, the dedication, &c. These days were privileged, that the people might go to the temple without being molested, and carry what they would free of all taxes.

VER. 36. Let. This was not required, but a proof of confidence. C.—Great king. He assumes the titles of the Persian monarchs. H.

VER. 37. Trust, to guard the king, (Jos.,) or be in the treasury. T.—Lax. He revokes the impious edicts of Epiphanes.

silver out of the king's accounts, of what belongs to me :

41 And all that is above, which they that were over the affairs the years before, had not paid, from this time they shall give it to the works of the house.

42 Moreover, the five thousand sicles of silver, which they received from the account of the holy places, every year, shall also belong to the priests that execute the ministry.

43 And whosoever shall flee into the temple that is in Jerusalem, and in all the borders thereof, being indebted to the king for any matter, let them be set at liberty, and all that they have in my kingdom, let them have it free.

44 For the building also, or repairing the works of the holy places, the charges shall be given out of the king's revenues :

45 For the building also of the walls of Jerusalem, and the fortifying thereof round about, the charges shall be given out of the king's account, as also for the building of the walls in Judea.

46 Now when Jonathan and the people heard these words, they gave no credit to them, nor received them : because they remembered the great evil that he had done in Israel, for he had afflicted them exceedingly.

47 And their inclinations were towards Alexander, because he had been the chief promoter of peace in their regard, and him they always helped.

48 And king Alexander gathered together a great army, and moved his camp near to Demetrius.

49 And the two kings joined battle, and the army of Demetrius fled away, and Alexander pursued after him, and pressed them close.

50 And the battle was hard fought, till the sun went down : and Demetrius was slain that day.

51 And Alexander sent ambassadors to Ptolemee, king of Egypt, with words to this effect, saying :

52 FORASMUCH as I am returned into my kingdom, and am set in the throne of my ancestors, and have gotten the dominion, and have overthrown Demetrius, and possessed our country,

53 And have joined battle with him, and both he and his army have been destroyed by us, and we are placed in the throne of his kingdom :

54 Now, therefore, let us make friendship one with another : and give me now thy daughter to wife, and I will be thy son-in-law, and I will give both thee and her gifts worthy of thee.

55 And king Ptolemee answered, saying : HAPPY is the day wherein thou didst return to the land of thy fathers, and satest in the throne of their kingdom.

^a Supra, vii. 12.—^b A. M. 3854, A. C. 150.

VER. 41. Above. He was not in a condition to force the payment of these arrears, and is liberal of what he does not possess. C.

VER. 42. They; former kings. H.

VER. 43. Free. Their persons and goods are protected in this asylum. Even the king's debtors are not excluded. C.

VER. 50. Day. A. 3853. C.—The left wing proved stronger. But the right, where Demetrius fought in person, was forced to yield; and the king plunging with his horse into a bog, was pierced with arrows, fighting bravely. Jos. Just. 85, &c.

VER. 51. Ptolemee, surnamed Philometor, (Ch.) by whose aid Alexander had obtained the victory. C.

56 And now I will do to thee as thou hast written : but meet me at Ptolemais, that we may see one another, and I may give her to thee as thou hast said.

57 So Ptolemee went out of Egypt, with Cleopatra, his daughter, and he came to Ptolemais, in the hundred and sixty-second year.^c

58 And king Alexander met him, and he gave him his daughter, Cleopatra : and he celebrated her marriage at Ptolemais with great glory, after the manner of kings.

59 And king Alexander wrote to Jonathan, that he should come and meet him.

60 And he went honourably to Ptolemais, and he met there the two kings, and he gave them much silver, and gold, and presents : and he found favour in their sight.

61 And some pestilent men of Israel, men of a wicked life, assembled themselves against him, to accuse him : and the king gave no heed to them.

62 And he commanded that Jonathan's garments should be taken off, and that he should be clothed with purple : and they did so. And the king made him sit by himself.

63 And he said to his princes : Go out with him into the midst of the city, and make proclamation, that no man complain against him of any matter, and that no man trouble him for any manner of cause.

64 So when his accusers saw his glory proclaimed, and him clothed with purple, they all fled away.

65 And the king magnified him, and enrolled him amongst his chief friends, and made him governor, and partaker of his dominion.

66 And Jonathan returned into Jerusalem with peace and joy.

67 In the year one hundred and sixty-five,^d Demetrius, the son of Demetrius, came from Crete into the land of his fathers.

68 And king Alexander heard of it, and was much troubled, and returned to Antioch.

69 And king Demetrius made Apollonius his general, who was governor of Celesyria : and he gathered together a great army, and came to Jamnia : and he sent to Jonathan, the high priest, 70 Saying : Thou alone standest against us, and I am laughed at and reproached, because thou showest thy power against us in the mountains.

71 Now, therefore, if thou trustest in thy forces, come down to us into the plain, and there let us try one another : for with me is the strength of war.

72 Ask, and learn who I am, and the rest that help me, who also say that your foot cannot stand before our face, for thy fathers have twice been put to flight in their own land :

^e A. M. 3854.—^d A. M. 3856, A. C. 148.

VER. 61. Pestilent. So the impious are styled. Psal. i. 1, &c. C.

VER. 64. Away. When calumniators see the innocent honoured, they are afraid to prosecute them. W.

VER. 65. Dominion. General of his armies, (Vat.) or in Judea. Sacy. M.

VER. 67. Son. The king had sent his two sons, this Nicator and Sideses, to Cnidus, that they might be out of danger. The eldest being informed that Alexander had given himself up to debauchery, put himself at the head of an army which Lasthenes of Crete had raised.

VER. 72. Twice. He alludes perhaps to the defeat of Azarias, and to that where Judas was slain. C.—This captain had also twice thought proper to retreat. Chap. vi. 47, and vii. 32. H.

73 And now how wilt thou be able to abide the horsemen, and so great an army in the plain, where there is no stone, nor rock, nor place to flee to?

74 Now when Jonathan heard the words of Apollonius, he was moved in his mind: and he chose ten thousand men, and went out of Jerusalem, and Simon, his brother, met him to help him.

75 And they pitched their tents near Joppe, but they shut him out of the city: because a garrison of Apollonius was in Joppe, and he laid siege to it.

76 And they that were in the city being affrighted, opened the gates to him: so Jonathan took Joppe.

77 And Apollonius heard of it, and he took three thousand horsemen, and a great army.

78 And he went to Azotus, as one that was making a journey, and immediately he went forth into the plain: because he had a great number of horsemen, and he trusted in them. And Jonathan followed after him to Azotus, and they joined battle.

79 And Apollonius left privately in the camp a thousand horsemen behind them.

80 And Jonathan knew that there was an ambush behind him, and they surrounded his army, and cast darts at the people from morning till evening.

81 But the people stood still, as Jonathan had commanded them: and so their horses were fatigued.

82 Then Simon drew forth his army, and attacked the legion: for the horsemen were wearied: and they were discomfited by him, and fled.

83 And they that were scattered about the plain, fled into Azotus, and went into Bethdagon, their idol's temple, there to save themselves.

84 But Jonathan set fire to Azotus, and the cities that were round about it, and took the spoils of them, and the temple of Dagon: and all them that were fled into it, he burnt with fire.

85 So they that were slain by the sword, with them that were burnt, were almost eight thousand men.

86 And Jonathan removed his army from thence, and camped against Ascalon: and they went out of the city to meet him with great honour.

87 And Jonathan returned into Jerusalem with his people, having many spoils.

88 And it came to pass, when Alexander, the king, heard these words, that he honoured Jonathan yet more.

89 And he sent him a buckle of gold, as the custom is, to be given to such as are of the royal blood. And he gave him Accaron, and all the borders thereof, in possession.

^a A. M. 3858, A. C. 146.

VER. 77. Army. Josephus says eight thousand foot, &c.

VER. 80. Army. Lit. "camp," which the Vulg. puts for an army chiefly of foot.

VER. 81. Fatigued. In the evening, Simon, seeing the enemy's cavalry tired, fell upon the infantry.

VER. 83. And. Et qui seems to be mistaken for equi, "the horsemen," as the Gr., Syr., and Jos. read.

VER. 89. Buckle, to be worn on the shoulder. S. Isid.—This honour was very extraordinary. 2 Mac. xi. 35. Alex. Genial. ii. 29.

CHAP. XI. VER. 1. Shore. By this hyperbole, used in Scripture, we are given to understand that the army was greater than could be easily numbered or conceived. W.—Philometor had assisted Alexander, with a treacherous design of seizing the kingdom when it should be weakened. 11.—He had given him his daughter for the same purpose; and now, when Demetrius asserted his claims, he pretended that he would defend his son-in-law, and was thus admitted into all the

CHAP. XI.

Ptolemee invades the kingdom of Alexander: the latter is slain: and the former dies soon after. Demetrius honours Jonathan, and is rescued by the Jews from his own subjects, in Antioch. Antiochus the younger favours Jonathan. His exploits in divers places.

AND the king of Egypt gathered together an army, like the sand that lieth upon the sea shore, and many ships: and he sought to get the kingdom of Alexander by deceit, and join it to his own kingdom.

2 And he went out into Syria with peaceable words, and they opened to him the cities, and met him: for king Alexander had ordered them to go forth to meet him, because he was his father-in-law.

3 Now when Ptolemee entered into the cities, he put garrisons of soldiers in every city.

4 And when he came near to Azotus, they showed him the temple of Dagon that was burnt with fire, and Azotus, and the suburbs thereof, that were destroyed, and the bodies that were cast abroad, and the graves of them that were slain in the battle, which they had made near the way.

5 And they told the king that Jonathan had done these things, to make him odious: but the king held his peace.

6 And Jonathan came to meet the king at Joppe with glory, and they saluted one another, and they lodged there.

7 And Jonathan went with the king as far as the river, called Eleutherus: and he returned into Jerusalem.

8 And king Ptolemee got the dominion of the cities by the sea side, even to Seleucia, and he devised evil designs against Alexander.

9 And he sent ambassadors to Demetrius, saying: Come, let us make a league between us, and I will give thee my daughter whom Alexander hath, and thou shalt reign in the kingdom of thy father.

10 For I repent that I have given him my daughter, for he hath sought to kill me.

11 And he slandered him, because he coveted his kingdom,

12 And he took away his daughter, and gave her Demetrius, and alienated himself from Alexander, and his enmities were made manifest.

13 And Ptolemee entered into Antioch, and set two crowns upon his head, that of Egypt, and that of Asia.

14 Now king Alexander was in Cilicia at that time because they that were in those places had rebelled.

15 And when Alexander heard of it,^b he came to give him battle: and king Ptolemee brought forth his army, and met him with a strong power, and put him to flight towns. At Ptolemais he declared his real design, still pretending that Alexander had laid snares for him. While the latter was raising forces in Cilicia, he took Antioch, where he placed two diadems on his head; slew the cruel Ammonius, who had chiefly irritated the people against his master; gave the wife of Alexander to Demetrius; and, in conjunction with him, went to attack Alexander near the river Enoparas. Here he received some mortal wounds; though Alexander was routed, and soon after slain in Arabia. Livy, 52. Usher, A. 3858.

^b A. M. 3459, A. C. 145.

VER. 7. Eleutherus, about eighty leagues. Some place this river between Tyre and Sidon, but it ran to the north of Libanus. Chap. xii. 24. Pliny, &c.

VER. 10. Kill me. Josephus thinks this was true: but it seems only a pretext.

VER. 13. Antioch. The whole province rebelled on account of the cruelties of Ammonius, who put on women's clothes, but could not escape. Philometor was proclaimed king, yet besought the people to forget the injuries of Soter, and receive his son, as for his part he was content with Egypt. Just. 35. Jos. C.

16 And Alexander fled into Arabia, there to be protected : and king Ptolemee was exalted.

17 And Zabdiel, the Arabian, took off Alexander's head, and sent it to Ptolemee.

18 And king Ptolemee died the third day after : and they that were in the strong holds were destroyed by them that were within the camp.

19 And Demetrius reigned in the hundred and sixty-seventh year.*

20 In those days Jonathan gathered together them that were in Judea, to take the castle that was in Jerusalem : and they made many engines of war against it.

21 Then some wicked men that hated their own nation, went away to king Demetrius, and told him that Jonathan was besieging the castle.

22 And when he heard it, he was angry : and forthwith he came to Ptolemais, and wrote to Jonathan, that he should not besiege the castle, but should come to him in haste, and speak to him.

23 But when Jonathan heard this, he bade them besiege it still : and he chose some of the ancients of Israel and of the priests, and put himself in danger.

24 And he took gold, and silver, and raiment, and many other presents, and went to the king to Ptolemais, and he found favour in his sight.

25 And certain wicked men of his nation made complaints against him.

26 And the king treated him as his predecessors had done before : and he exalted him in the sight of all his friends.

27 And he confirmed him in the high priesthood, and all the honours he had before, and he made him the chief of his friends.

28 And Jonathan requested of the king that he would make Judea free from tribute, and the three governments, and Samaria, and the confines thereof : and he promised him three hundred talents.

29 And the king consented : and he wrote letters to Jonathan of all these things, to this effect.

30 KING Demetrius to his brother, Jonathan, and to the nation of the Jews, greeting.

31 We send you here a copy of the letter which we have written to Lasthenes, our parent, concerning you, that you might know it.

32 KING Demetrius to Lasthenes, his parent, greeting.

33 We have determined to do good to the nation of the Jews, who are our friends, and keep the things that are just with us, for their good will which they bear towards us.

* A. M. 3459.

VER. 17. Zabdiel, "God's dowry," or Diocles, "the glory of God," (H.) prince of Arabia. Diod. 32.—Only five accompanied Alexander. His generals sought to make their peace with his rival, and slew him. Usher.

VER. 18. After. He had been mortally wounded in the battle, and remained insensible four days.

VER. 20. Castle. Soter's offers had not been accepted. Chap. x. 32. Jonathan thought himself independent of his son. C.

VER. 21. Nation, by their actions. They wished to be free from the restraint of the law. H.

VER. 23. Priests. These would testify that what he said in his defence was true. M.

VER. 27. Friends. Gr. "he set him at the head of his first friends," (H.) treating him with the greatest distinction. C.

VER. 28. Governments, (toparchias), or "principalities." These had already been given, and are now enriched with immunities, like the rest of Judea and 34 We have ratified, therefore, unto them all the borders of Judea, and the three cities, Apherema, Lyda, and Ramatha, which are added to Judea, out of Samaria, and all their confines, to be set apart to all them that sacrifice to Jerusalem, instead of the payments which the king received of them every year, and for the fruits of the land, and of the trees.

35 And as for other things that belonged to us of the tithes, and of the tributes, from this time we discharge them of them : the salt pans also, and the crowns that were presented to us.

36 We give all to them, and nothing hereof shall be revoked from this time forth and for ever.

37 Now, therefore, see that thou make a copy of these things, and let it be given to Jonathan, and set upon the holy mountain, in a conspicuous place.

38 And king Demetrius, seeing that the land was quiet before him, and nothing resisted him, sent away all his forces, every man to his own place, except the foreign army, which he had drawn together from the islands of the nations : so all the troops of his fathers hated him.

39 Now there was one Tryphon, who had been of Alexander's party before : who seeing that all the army murmured against Demetrius, went to Eulachuel, the Arabian, who brought up Antiochus, the son of Alexander :

40 And he pressed him much to deliver him to him, that he might be king in his father's place : and he told him all that Demetrius had done, and how his soldiers hated him. And he remained there many days.

41 And Jonathan sent to king Demetrius, desiring that he would cast out them that were in the castle in Jerusalem, and those that were in the strong holds : because they fought against Israel.

42 And Demetrius sent to Jonathan, saying : I will not only do this for thee, and for thy people, but I will greatly honour thee, and thy nation, when opportunity shall serve.

43 Now, therefore, thou shalt do well if thou send me men to help me : for all my army is gone from me.

44 And Jonathan sent him three thousand valiant men to Antioch : and they came to the king, and the king was very glad of their coming.

45 And they that were of the city assembled themselves together, to the number of a hundred and twenty thousand men, and would have killed the king.

46 And the king fled into the palace : and they of the city kept the passages of the city, and began to fight.

47 And the king called the Jews to his assistance : and

b A. M. 3860, A. C. 144.

Samaria. W.—The latter was not one of the governments, but they were taken from that country and from Galilee.

VER. 31. Parent. Lasthenes had procured him troops, and was made prime minister. But abusing his power, threw his master into many difficulties. C.

VER. 35. Of them. He remits only the arrears, (Grot.,) or all future claims, which are given up to the priests. H.—Pans, or "lakes." Some would substitute (C.) τῶνας, "dues," but without necessity. H.

VER. 38. Nations, particularly Crete. This most pernicious counsel was probably given by Lasthenes. C.

VER. 39. Tryphon, styled Diodotus before he mounted the throne. C.

VER. 46. Fight. The king attempted to disarm the citizens of Antioch ; but they revolted, and would have slain him in his palace, (Diod. Valesii,) had not the Jews in the country, and those sent by Jonathan, come to his aid. He did not, however, give them a suitable reward. C.

they came to him all at once, and they all dispersed themselves through the city.

48 And they slew in that day a hundred thousand men, and they set fire to the city, and got many spoils that day, and delivered the king.

49 And they that were of the city saw that the Jews had got the city as they would: and they were discouraged in their mind, and cried to the king, making supplication, and saying:

50 Grant us peace, and let the Jews cease from assaulting us, and the city.

51 And they threw down their arms, and made peace, and the Jews were glorified in the sight of the king, and in the sight of all that were in his realm, and were renowned throughout the kingdom, and returned to Jerusalem with many spoils.

52 So king Demetrius sat in the throne of his kingdom: and the land was quiet before him.

53 And he falsified all whatsoever he had said, and alienated himself from Jonathan, and did not reward him according to the benefits he had received from him, but gave him great trouble.

54 And after this Tryphon returned, and with him Antiochus, the young boy, who was made king, and put on the diadem.

55 And there assembled unto him all the bands which Demetrius had sent away, and they fought against Demetrius, who turned his back and fled.

56 And Tryphon took the elephants, and made himself master of Antioch.

57 And young Antiochus wrote to Jonathan, saying: I confirm thee in the high priesthood, and I appoint thee ruler over the four cities, and to be one of the king's friends.

58 And he sent him vessels of gold for his service, and he gave him leave to drink in gold, and to be clothed in purple, and to wear a golden buckle:

59 And he made his brother, Simon, governor, from the borders of Tyre even to the confines of Egypt.

60 Then Jonathan went forth, and passed through the cities beyond the river, and all the forces of Syria gathered themselves to him to help him, and he came to Ascalon, and they met him honourably out of the city.

61 And he went from thence to Gaza: and they that were in Gaza shut him out: and he besieged it, and burnt all the suburbs round about, and took the spoils.

62 And the men of Gaza made supplication to Jonathan, and he gave them the right hand: and he took their sons for hostages, and sent them to Jerusalem: and he went through the country, as far as Damascus.

63 And Jonathan heard that the generals of Demetrius were come treacherously to Cades, which is in Galilee, with a great army, purposing to remove him from the affairs of the kingdom.

64 And he went against them: but left his brother, Simon, in the country.

65 And Simon encamped against Bethsura, and assaulted it many days, and shut them up.

66 And they desired him to make peace, and he granted it them: and he cast them out from thence, and took the city, and placed a garrison in it.

67 And Jonathan, and his army, encamped by the water of Genesar, and before it was light they were ready in the plain of Asor.

68 And behold the army of the strangers met him in the plain, and they laid an ambush for him in the mountains: but he went out against them.

69 And they that lay in ambush rose out of their places, and joined battle.

70 And all that were on Jonathan's side fled, and none was left of them, but Mathathias, the son of Absalom, and Judas, the son of Calphi, chief captain of the army.

71 And Jonathan rent his garments, and cast earth upon his head, and prayed.

72 And Jonathan turned again to them to battle, and he put them to flight; and they fought.

73 And they of his part that fled saw this, and they turned again to him, and they all with him pursued the enemies, even to Cades, to their own camp, and they came even thither.

74 And there fell of the aliens in that day three thousand men: and Jonathan returned to Jerusalem.

CHAP. XII.

Jonathan renews his league with the Romans and Lacedemonians. The forces of Demetrius flee away from him. He is deceived, and made prisoner by Tryphon.

AND Jonathan saw that the time served him, and he chose certain men, and sent them to Rome, to confirm and to renew the amity with them:

2 And he sent letters to the Spartans, and to other places, according to the same form.

3 And they went to Rome, and entered into the senate house, and said: Jonathan, the high priest, and the nation of the Jews, have sent us to renew the amity, and alliance, as it was before.

4 And they gave them letters to their governors in every place, to conduct them into the land of Juda with peace.

5 And this is a copy of the letters which Jonathan wrote to the Spartans:

6 JONATHAN, the high priest, and the ancients of the

* A. M. 3860.

VER. 54. Diadem, A. 3860. C.

VER. 56. Elephants. Lit. "beasts;" θηρία. H.

VER. 57. Four. The three specified, (ver. 34,) and probably Ptolemais. Chap. x. 39.

VER. 58. In gold. Kings alone had or granted this privilege, (C.) as well as to wear purple or a chain of gold, (W.) or buckle. Chap. xi. 89. H.

VER. 59. Tyre. Eupator had given only as far as Ptolemais. 2 Mac. xiii. 24.

VER. 60. River Jordan. He was then joined by the Syrian forces, and established the power of Antiochus as far as Damascus. Then he proceeded by the sea shore, and took Gaza. C.

VER. 63. Treacherously is not specified in Greek.—Cades, a strong city in Galilee.

VER. 67. Asor, near lake Semechon. Jos. xi. 1.

VER. 70. Army. Gr. "captains of the army of the forces." H.—Only these two captains remained; but there were some soldiers.

VER. 72. Fought. Gr. "fled." M.—Three thousand. Josephus says tw thousand were slain. Ant. xiii. 9. C.

CHAP. XII. VER. 1. Served, Syria being so much divided. Hence Jonathan sent to the two most famous republics in the world, and probably to the Jews beyond the Euphrates, to the Nabatheans, &c. Ver. 2. C.

VER. 6. People. The Jewish state then greatly resembled those of Rome and of Sparta. The high priest and senate ruled, yet not without the participation of the people.—Brethren, proceeding from the same stock. This was the received opinion in both countries, though without foundation, that we can discover. C. Diss.

nation, and the priests, and the rest of the people of the Jews, to the Spartans, their brethren, greeting.

7 There were letters sent long ago ^ato Onias, the high priest, from Arius, who reigned then among you, to signify that you are our brethren, as the copy here underwritten doth specify.

8 And Onias received the ambassador with honour: and received the letters, wherein there was mention made of the alliance, and amity.

9 We, though we needed none of these things, having for our comfort the holy books that are in our hands,

10 Chose rather to send to you to renew the brotherhood and friendship, lest we should become strangers to you altogether: for there is a long time passed since you sent to us.

11 We, therefore, at all times without ceasing, both in our festivals, and other days wherein it is convenient, remember you in the sacrifices that we offer, and in our observances, as it is meet, and becoming to remember brethren.

12 And we rejoice at your glory.

13 But we have had many troubles and wars on every side; and the kings that are round about us, have fought against us.

14 But we would not be troublesome to you, nor to the rest of our allies and friends, in these wars.

15 For we have had help from heaven, and we have been delivered, and our enemies are humbled.

16 We have chosen, therefore, Numenius, the son of Antiochus, and Antipater, the son of Jason, and have sent them to the Romans, to renew with them the former amity and alliance.

17 And we have commanded them to go also to you, and salute you, and to deliver you our letters, concerning the renewing of our brotherhood.

18 And now you shall do well to give us an answer hereto.

19 And this is the copy of the letter which he had sent to Onias:

20 ARIUS, king of the Spartans, to Onias, the high priest, greeting.

21 It is found in writing concerning the Spartans, and the Jews, that they are brethren, and that they are of the stock of Abraham.

22 And now since this is come to our knowledge, you do well to write to us of your prosperity.

23 And we also have written back to you, That our cattle, and our possessions, are yours: and yours, ours. We, therefore, have commanded that these things should be told you.

^a A. M. 3817, A. C. 187.—^b A. M. 3860.

VER. 7. Onias the third, between the years 3805 and 3829.

VER. 9. Things; the letters of Arius, as the sacred books testified the same. Gr. Joa Grot.

VER. 11. Observances. Gr. Syr. "supplications." The Vulg. had probably at first, obsecrationibus. Chap. vii. 33.

VER. 19. Letter. Arius wrote before Onias, though the letter be placed later. W.—Josephus gives it rather in different words. The answer to Jonathan was sent to Simon, A. 3861. Chap. xiv. 22. C.

VER. 21. Spartans. They had probably some old genealogies. Jos. xii. 5, and xiii. 9. W.—Yet they might not be true. There is nothing certain. Rep. Heb. i. 2. M.

VER. 23. Back. It would hence appear that the Jews wrote first, which does not seem to be the case from Josephus, &c. C.

24 Now Jonathan heard that the generals of Demetrius were come again with a greater army than before to fight against him.

25 So he went out from Jerusalem, and met them in the land of Amath: for he gave them no time to enter into his country.

26 And he sent spies into their camp, and they came back, and brought him word that they designed to come upon them in the night.

27 And when the sun was set, Jonathan commanded his men to watch, and to be in arms all night long ready to fight, and he set centinels round about the camp.

28 And the enemies heard that Jonathan and his men were ready for battle: and they were struck with fear and dread in their heart: and they kindled fires in their camp.

29 But Jonathan, and they that were with him, knew it not till the morning: for they saw the lights burning.

30 And Jonathan pursued after them, but overtook them not: for they had passed the river Eleutherus.

31 And Jonathan turned upon the Arabians, that are called Zabadeans: and he defeated them, and took the spoils of them.

32 And he went forward, and came to Damascus, and passed through all that country.

33 Simon also went forth, and came as far as Ascalon, and the neighbouring fortresses, and he turned aside to Joppe, and took possession of it,

34 (For he heard that they designed to deliver the hold to them that took part with Demetrius,) and he put a garrison there to keep it.

35 ^bAnd Jonathan came back, and called together the ancients of the people; and he took a resolution with them to build fortresses in Judea,

36 And to build up walls in Jerusalem, and raise a mount between the castle and the city, to separate it from the city, that so it might have no communication, and that they might neither buy nor sell.

37 And they came together to build up the city: for the wall that was upon the brook, towards the east, was broken down, and he repaired that which is called Caphetetha:

38 And Simon built Adiada, in Sephela, and fortified it, and set up gates and bars.

39 ^cNow when Tryphon had conceived a design to make himself king of Asia, and to take the crown, and to stretch out his hand against king Antiochus:

40 Fearing lest Jonathan would not suffer him, but would fight against him: he sought to seize upon him, and to kill him. So he rose up and came to Bethsan.

^c A. M. 3861.

VER. 24. Demetrius. He resided at Laodicea, feasting, (Diod.,) while his generals attempted to detach Jonathas from Antiochus, but without success. They fled at his approach beyond the river Eleutherus, from which Laodicea was not remote. C.

VER. 29. Burning. They had been left to conceal the flight. M.

VER. 31. Zabadeans. No nation of this name is known; whence most people read "Nabatheans," after Josephus. They had been allies of the Jews, but perhaps took part with Demetrius. C.

VER. 33. Of it, as it was designing to revolt. Jonathas had possession before Chap. x. 73. M.

VER. 38. Adiada, or Addus, (chap. xiii. 13,) in the plain west of the mountains of Juda. C.

41 And Jonathan went out to meet him with forty thousand men chosen for battle, and came to Bethsan.

42 Now when Tryphon saw that Jonathan came with a great army, he durst not stretch forth his hand against him.

43 But received him with honour, and commended him to all his friends, and gave him presents: and he commanded his troops to obey him, as himself.

44 And he said to Jonathan: Why hast thou troubled all the people, whereas we have no war?

45 Now, therefore, send them back to their own houses: and choose thee a few men that may be with thee, and come with me to Ptolemais, and I will deliver it to thee, and the rest of the strong holds, and the army, and all that have any charge, and I will return and go away: for this is the cause of my coming.

46 And Jonathan believed him, and did as he said: and sent away his army, and they departed into the land of Juda:

47 But he kept with him three thousand men: of whom he sent two thousand into Galilee, and one thousand went with him.

48 Now as soon as Jonathan entered into Ptolemais, they of Ptolemais shut the gates of the city, and took him: and all them that came in with him they slew with the sword.

49 Then Tryphon sent an army and horsemen into Galilee, and into the great plain, to destroy all Jonathan's company.

50 But they, when they understood that Jonathan, and all that were with him, were taken and slain, encouraged one another, and went out ready for battle.

51 Then they that had come after them, seeing that they stood for their lives, returned back.

52 Whereupon they all came peaceably into the land of Juda. And they bewailed Jonathan, and them that had been with him, exceedingly: and Israel mourned with great lamentation.

53 Then all the heathens that were round about them, sought to destroy them. For they said:

54 They have no prince, nor any to help them: now, therefore, let us make war upon them, and take away the memory of them from amongst men.

CHAP. XIII.

Simon is made captain general in the room of his brother. Jonathan is slain by Tryphon. Simon is favoured by Demetrius: he taketh Gaza, and the castle of Jerusalem.

NOW Simon heard that Tryphon was gathering together a very great army, to invade the land of Juda, and to destroy it.

2 And seeing that the people was in dread, and in fear, he went up to Jerusalem, and assembled the people:

3 And exhorted them, saying: You know what great battles I and my brethren, and the house of my father,

VER. 40. Bethsan, or Scythopolis, below the lake of Genesareth. Tryphon was not content with governing under the young Antiochus. He was afraid lest Jonathan should oppose his measures, (C.) knowing that he was a man of probity, to whom the king had shown favour.

VER. 50. Slain. So it was reported, though falsely. C.

CHAP. XIII. VER. 1. Simon, the fourth high priest and prince of this family, who was judged by his father to be the most prudent. Chap. ii. 65.

have fought for the laws, and the sanctuary. and the distresses that we have seen:

4 By reason whereof all my brethren have lost their lives for Israel's sake, and I am left alone.

5 And now far be it from me to spare my life in any time of trouble: for I am not better than my brethren.

6 I will avenge then my nation and the sanctuary, and our children, and wives: for all the heathens are gathered together to destroy us out of mere malice.

7 And the spirit of the people was enkindled as soon as they heard these words:

8 And they answered with a loud voice, saying: Thou art our leader in the place of Judas, and Jonathan, thy brother:

9 Fight thou our battles, and we will do whatsoever thou shalt say to us.

10 So gathering together all the men of war, he made haste to finish all the walls of Jerusalem, and he fortified it round about.

11 And he sent Jonathan, the son of Absalom, and with him a new army, into Joppe, and he cast out them that were in it, and himself remained there.

12 And Tryphon removed from Ptolemais with a great army, to invade the land of Juda, and Jonathan was with him in custody.

13 But Simon pitched in Addus, over against the plain.

14 And when Tryphon understood that Simon was risen up in the place of his brother, Jonathan, and that he meant to join battle with him, he sent messengers to him,

15 Saying: We have detained thy brother, Jonathan, for the money that he owed in the king's account, by reason of the affairs which he had the management of.

16 But now send a hundred talents of silver, and his two sons for hostages, that when he is set at liberty he may not revolt from us, and we will release him.

17 Now Simon knew that he spoke deceitfully to him; nevertheless, he ordered the money and the children to be sent, lest he should bring upon himself a great hatred of the people of Israel, who might have said:

18 Because he sent not the money and the children, therefore is he lost.

19 So he sent the children and the hundred talents. and he lied, and did not let Jonathan go.

20 And after this, Tryphon entered within the country, to destroy it: and they went about by the way that leadeth to Ador: and Simon and his army marched to every place whithersoever they went.

21 And they that were in the castle, sent messengers to Tryphon, that he should make haste to come through the desert, and send them victuals.

22 And Tryphon made ready all his horsemen to come that night; but there fell a very great snow, and he came not into the country of Galaad.

VER. 11. Jonathan, his friend, (Jos.) brother of Mathathias, mentioned chap. xi. 70.

VER. 13. Plain; Sephala, (chap. xii. 38,) above Eleutheropolis, by which road Jerusalem was most easily attacked. Chap. vi. 31. C.

VER. 19. Talents. If he had refused, he might have been suspected of avarice or of ambition. M.

VER. 22. But. Gr. "and that very night there was very much snow; and 23 And when he approached to Bascama, he slew Jonathan and his sons there.

24 And Tryphon returned, and went into his own country.

25 And Simon sent, and took the bones of Jonathan, his brother, and buried them in Modin, the city of his fathers.

26 And all Israel bewailed him with great lamentation : and they mourned for him many days.

27 And Simon built over the sepulchre of his father and of his brethren, a building lofty to the sight, of polished stone, behind and before :

28 And he set up seven pyramids, one against another, for his father, and his mother, and his four brethren :

29 And round about these he set great pillars ; and upon the pillars, arms, for a perpetual memory ; and by the arms, ships carved, which might be seen by all that sailed on the sea.

30 This is the sepulchre that he made in Modin, even unto this day.

31 But Tryphon, when he was upon a journey with the young king, Antiochus, treacherously slew him.

32 And he reigned in his place, and put on the crown of Asia : and brought great evils upon the land.

33 And Simon built up the strong holds of Judea, fortifying them with high towers and great walls, and gates and bars : and he stored up victuals in the fortresses.

34 And Simon chose men, and sent to king Demetrius, to the end that he should grant an immunity to the land ; for all that Tryphon did, was to spoil.

35 And king Demetrius, in answer to this request, wrote a letter in this manner :

36 KING Demetrius to Simon, the high priest, and friend of kings, and to the ancients, and to the nation of the Jews, greeting :

37 The golden crown, and the palm, which you sent, we have received : and we are ready to make a firm peace with you, and to write to the king's chief officers to release you the things that we have released.

38 For all that we have decreed in your favour, shall stand in force. The strong holds that you have built, shall be your own.

39 And as for any oversight or fault committed unto this day, we forgive it, and the crown which you owed :

• A. M. 3861, A. C. 143.

ne came not on account of the snow ; and he rose, and went into," &c. H.—He gave this out ; or intended to go, but went back along the Jordan.

VER. 28. Pyramids. In such the kings of Egypt were buried. Lucan, viii. 998.

VER. 29. Arms, to denote their victories or solicitude for the people's welfare both by sea and land. The Machabees had repaired the port of Joppe, by which they traded with the Mediterranean. Chap. x. 75, and xiv. 5. Trophies of arms, in reality or in sculpture, were commonly placed on the tombs of great generals. Ezec. xxxii. 27. Virg. C.—Simon promoted not vain but true glory, exciting others to imitate the virtuous. W.—The humble desire honour in God ; proud men will be honoured more than God. S. Aug. c. Secund. 17.

VER. 32. Crown. The soldiers declared for him, in hopes of great rewards which he had promised. He assumed the name of Tryphon, "wearing a helmet," or "addicted to pleasure." His medals have always a helmet ; and the tyrant styles himself, (C.) "king Tryphon, the autocrat," (H.) or generalissimo.

VER. 34. Demetrius, who still possessed a great part of Syria. Jonathas adhered to his competitor. But Simon preferred him before Tryphon, on condition that he granted the immunities which Soter had promised. Chap. x. 29.

VER. 37. Palm ; bahem, "the precious chain." W.—Gr. βαῦνον, which and if any other thing were taxed in Jerusalem, now let it not be taxed.

40 And if any of you be fit to be enrolled among ours, let them be enrolled, and let there be peace between us.

41 *In the year one hundred and seventy the yoke of the Gentiles was taken off from Israel.

42 And the people of Israel began to write in the instruments, and public records, The first year under Simon, the high priest, the great captain, and prince of the Jews.

43 In those days Simon besieged Gaza, and camped round about it, and he made engines, and set them to the city, and he struck one tower, and took it.

44 And they that were within the engine leapt into the city : and there was a great uproar in the city.

45 And they that were in the city went up, with their wives and children, upon the wall, with their garments rent, and they cried with a loud voice, beseeching Simon to grant them peace.

46 And they said : Deal not with us according to our evil deeds, but according to thy mercy.

47 And Simon being moved, did not destroy them : but yet he cast them out of the city, and cleansed the houses wherein there had been idols, and then he entered into it with hymns, blessing the Lord :

48 And having cast out of it all uncleanness, he placed in it men that should observe the law : and he fortified it, and made it his habitation.

49 But they that were in the castle of Jerusalem were hindered from going out and coming into the country, and from buying and selling : and they were straitened with hunger, and many of them perished through famine.

50 And they cried to Simon for peace, and he granted it to them : and he cast them out from thence, and cleansed the castle from uncleannesses.

51 *And they entered into it the three and twentieth day of the second month, in the year one hundred and seventy-one, with thanksgiving, and branches of palm-trees, and harps, and cymbals, and psalteries, and hymns, and canticles, because the great enemy was destroyed out of Israel.

52 And he ordained that these days should be kept every year with gladness.

53 And he fortified the mountain of the temple that was near the castle, and he dwelt there himself, and they that were with him.

• A. M. 3862, A. C. 142.

Grotius thinks is derived from bais, a palm branch. C. John xii. 13.—It was probably of gold, (M.) like that offered by Alcimus. 2 Mac. xiv. 4.

VER. 38. Force. He grants all Simon's requests, which he had offered to do at the beginning of his reign. Chap. xi. 37.

VER. 41. Israel, A. 3861, B. C. 153. C.—Thus, after a hard struggle, the independence of the Jews was acknowledged. H.

VER. 43. Gaza. It had revolted. Chap. xi. 61.—Engines. Gr. ἐλεπολεις, denoting engines of a great size, invented by Demetrius at the siege of Rhodes, who was thence styled "the city-taker." C.—Its top was covered with mortar, (Marcellin. xxiii. 9,) and the sides with raw hides and iron bars, so that fire or stones made no impression upon it, while people within moved it to batter the walls by means of wheels. When a breach was made, they jumped into the city. Ver. 44. See Vitruv. x. 22.

VER. 47. Idols, of a domestic kind. The city had been assigned to Juda, and must be purified. Jos. xv. 47 ; Deut. vii. 25. C.

VER. 50. Castle. It had been occupied by the Syrians, from A. 3836 to 3861.

VER. 52. Days ; the octave, or the 23rd of the second month, annually. H.—This was like one of the days appointed. Chap. x. 34. The festival was observed perhaps only during his reign.

54 And Simon saw that John, his son, was a valiant man for war: and he made him captain of all the forces: and he dwelt in Gazara.

CHAP. XIV.

Demetrius is taken by the king of Persia. Judea flourishes under the government of Simon.

IN^a the year one hundred and seventy-two king Demetrius assembled his army, and went into Media to get him succours to fight against Tryphon.

2 And Arsaces, the king of Persia and Media, heard that Demetrius was entered within his borders, and he sent one of his princes to take him alive, and bring him to him.

3 And he went, and defeated the army of Demetrius: and took him, and brought him to Arsaces, and he put him into custody.

4 And all the land of Juda was at rest all the days of Simon, and he sought the good of his nation: and his power and his glory pleased them well all his days.

5 And with all his glory he took Joppe for a haven, and made an entrance to the isles of the sea.

6 And he enlarged the bounds of his nation, and made himself master of the country.

7 And he gathered together a great number of captives, and had the dominion of Gazara, and of Bethsura, and of the castle: and took away all uncleanness out of it, and there was none that resisted him.

8 And every man tilled his land with peace: and the land of Juda yielded her increase, and the trees of the fields their fruit.

9 The ancient men sat all in the streets, and treated together of the good things of the land, and the young men put on them glory, and the robes of war.

10 And he provided victuals for the cities, and he appointed that they should be furnished with ammunition, so that the fame of his glory was renowned even to the end of the earth.

11 He made peace in the land, and Israel rejoiced with great joy.

12 And every man sat under his vine, and under his fig-tree: and there was none to make them afraid.

13 There was none left in the land to fight against them: kings were discomfited in those days.

14 And he strengthened all those of his people that were brought low, and he sought the law, and took away every unjust and wicked man.

15 He glorified the sanctuary, and multiplied the vessels of the holy places.

^a A. M. 3863, A. C. 141.

16 And it was heard at Rome, and as far as Sparta, that Jonathan was dead: and they were very sorry.

17 But when they heard that Simon, his brother, was made high priest in his place, and was possessed of all the country, and the cities therein:

18 They wrote to him in tables of brass, to renew the friendship and alliance which they had made with Judas and with Jonathan, his brethren.

19 And they were read before the assembly in Jerusalem. And this is the copy of the letters that the Spartans sent.

20 THE PRINCES, and the cities of the Spartans, to Simon, the high priest, and to the ancients, and the priests, and the rest of the people of the Jews, their brethren, greeting.

21 The ambassadors that were sent to our people, have told us of your glory, and honour, and joy: and we rejoiced at their coming.

22 And we registered what was said by them in the councils of the people, in this manner: Numenius, the son of Antiochus, and Antipater, the son of Jason, ambassadors of the Jews, came to us to renew the former friendship with us.

23 And it pleased the people to receive the men honourably, and to put a copy of their words in the public records, to be a memorial to the people of the Spartans. And we have written a copy of them to Simon, the high priest.

24 And after this Simon sent Numenius to Rome, with a great shield of gold, of the weight of a thousand pounds, to confirm the league with them. And when the people of Rome had heard

25 These words, they said: What thanks shall we give to Simon, and his sons:

26 For he hath restored his brethren, and hath driven away in fight the enemies of Israel from them: and they decreed him liberty, and registered it in tables of brass, and set it upon pillars in Mount Sion.

27 And this is a copy of the writing. THE EIGHTEENTH day of the month Elul, in the year^b one hundred and seventy-two, being the third year under Simon, the high priest, at Asaramel,

28 In a great assembly of the priests, and of the people, and the princes of the nation, and the ancients of the country, these things were notified: Forasmuch as there have often been wars in our country,

29 And Simon, the son of Mathathias, of the children of Jarib, and his brethren, have put themselves in danger,

^b A. M. 3863, A. C. 141.

VER. 53. Fortified. This work employed them six years. Jos.

VER. 54. John. Hyrcan, who defended the country, (chap. xvi. W.) and succeeded Simon.

CHAP. XIV. VER. 1. Two. It is not easy to conceive why Josephus and Grotius place this expedition before the death of young Antiochus. Chap. xiii. 31, 41. Demetrius was become contemptible, and had a mind to regain his reputation by attacking the Parthians, who had taken many provinces under the prudent conduct of Mithridates. The Greeks were impatient of this yoke. Many flocked to Demetrius, and he gained several victories; but after two years, was perfidiously taken by a general of the Parthians while treating of peace. Mithridates took him for a warning through the places which seemed favourable to him; but afterwards he sent him into Hyrcania, gave him his daughter in marriage, with the badges of royalty, and promises of restoring him to his kingdom.

VER. 2. Arsaces. This was the common title of the Parthian kings, after the founder of that powerful monarchy. Just. 41

VER. 5. Sea, or to all places to which they went by water. The port was however very indifferent.

VER. 7. Captives, taken from the enemy (C.); or he liberated many Jews. —Gazara, or Gadara. C.

VER. 9. Land. The judges (H.) strove to promote peace.

VER. 10. Ammunition: provisions and engines of war. C.—Earth: Judea and the environs. H.

VER. 20. PRINCES. Cleomenes, the last king, died in Egypt, A. 3784, and the tyrant Nabis perished long before this time. Grot.

VER. 23. Public. Lit. "in the distinct books of the people." Gr. "open for inspection;" αποδηματικοί. H.

VER. 24. Of Rome is not in Gr. or Syr., and it is allowed that the sequel seems rather to express the gratitude of the Jews to Simon. C.—When peace was established, and friendship with the Romans and Lacedemonians renewed, the whole nation, in gratitude to Simon, who now remained alone of all the sons of and resisted the enemies of their nation, for the maintenance of their holy places, and the law: and have raised their nation to great glory.

30 And Jonathan gathered together his nation, and was made their high priest, and he was laid to his people.

31 And their enemies desired to tread down and destroy their country, and to stretch forth their hands against their holy places.

32 Then Simon resisted and fought for his nation, and laid out much of his money, and armed the valiant men of his nation, and gave them wages.

33 And he fortified the cities of Judea and Bethsura, that lieth in the borders of Judea, where the armour of the enemies was before: and he placed there a garrison of Jews.

34 And he fortified Joppe, which lieth by the sea: and Gazara, which bordereth upon Azotus, wherein the enemies dwelt before, and he placed Jews here: and furnished them with all things convenient for their reparation.

35 And the people seeing the acts of Simon, and to what glory he meant to bring his nation, made him their prince and high priest, because he had done all these things, and for the justice and faith which he kept to his nation, and for that he sought by all means to advance his people.

36 And in his days things prospered in his hands, so that the heathens were taken away out of their country, and they also that were in the city of David, in Jerusalem, in the castle, out of which they issued forth, and profaned all places round about the sanctuary, and did much evil to its purity.

37 And he placed therein Jews for the defence of the country, and of the city, and he raised up the walls of Jerusalem.

38 And king Demetrius confirmed him in the high priesthood.

39 According to these things he made him his friend, and glorified him with great glory.

40 For he had heard that the Romans had called the Jews their friends, and confederates, and brethren, and that they had received Simon's ambassadors with honour:

41 And that the Jews, and their priests, had consented that he should be their prince and high priest for ever, till there should arise a faithful prophet:

42 And that he should be chief over them, and that he should have the charge of the sanctuary, and that he should appoint rulers over their works, and over the country, and over the armour, and over the strong holds;

43 And that he should have care of the holy places; and that he should be obeyed by all, and that all the writings in the country should be made in his name: and that he should be clothed with purple and gold:

44 And that it should not be lawful for any of the people, or of the priests, to disannul any of these things, or to gainsay his words, or to call together an assembly in the country without him: or to be clothed with purple, or to wear a buckle of gold.

45 And whosoever shall do otherwise, or shall make void any of these things, shall be punished.

46 And it pleased all the people to establish Simon, and to do according to these words.

47 And Simon accepted thereof, and was well pleased to execute the office of the high priesthood, and to be captain, and prince of the nation of the Jews, and of the priests, and to be chief over all.

48 And they commanded that this writing should be put in tables of brass, and that they should be set up within the compass of the sanctuary, in a conspicuous place:

49 And that a copy thereof should be put in the treasury, that Simon, and his sons, may have it.

CHAP. XV.

Antiochus, the son of Demetrius, honours Simon. The Romans write to divers nations in favour of the Jews. Antiochus quarrels with Simon, and sends troops to annoy him.

AND king Antiochus, the son of Demetrius, sent letters from the isles of the sea to Simon, the priest, and prince of the nation of the Jews, and to all the people:

2 And the contents were these: KING Antiochus to Simon, the high priest, and to the nation of the Jews, greeting.

3 Forasmuch as certain pestilent men have usurped the kingdom of our fathers, and my purpose is to challenge the kingdom, and to restore it to its former estate: and I have chosen a great army, and have built ships of war.

4 And I design to go through the country, that I may take revenge of them that have destroyed our country, and that have made many cities desolate in my realm.

5 Now, therefore, I confirm unto thee all the oblations which all the kings before me remitted to thee, and what other gifts soever they remitted to thee:

6 And I give thee leave to coin thy own money in thy country:

7 And let Jerusalem be holy and free, and all the armour that hath been made, and the fortresses which thou hast built, and which thou keepest in thy hands, let them remain to thee.

8 And all that is due to the king, and what should be

• A. M. 3864, A. C. 140.

Mathathias, confirm him in the office of high priest for ever, or during his life; and decree that his progeny shall enjoy the same. Ver. 41, 49. W.

VER. 27. Elul, the last of the civil year, A. 3863.

VER. 34. Gazara, or Gadara. Chap. xiii. 51.—Reparation. Lit. "correction" H.—But correctionem would agree better with the Gr. than correctionem.

VER. 39. Things. Gr. joins this with the preceding verse. Some copies have, "all things." He confirmed him in all his rights.

VER. 41. Prophet. This limitation was proper, as the people had chosen this family. The Jews expected the faithful prophet shortly. Chap. iv. 46; Mal. iii. 1; Agg. ii. 7. God was pleased that none should appear for some time before that event. C.—The sceptre seemed to belong to Juda. Yet they consent to be governed by Levites, till God signify his will by some prophet. M.—This consent of the nation, in which Juda was most powerful, showed that the sceptre was not departed from his thigh. H.

CHAP. XV. VER. 1. Demetrius. Soter, and brother of Nicator, (C.) now a captive. W.—When the latter went beyond the Euphrates, he wandered for fear of Tryphon, till he found rest at Rhodes, where he heard of his brother's misfortune, and was invited by his wife to marry her. He therefore took the title of king, when he wrote to Simon from the isle of Rhodes. C.—Prince. Gr. "Ethnarch." H.—Josephus often uses this title for an independent prince, beneath the dignity of a king. C.

VER. 3. Pestilent; disturbers of the peace, (H.) like Alexander, Antiochus, and Tryphon.

VER. 5. Oblations, such as were presented to the Lord, or remittances.

VER. 6. Money. He supposed that Simon would have his own image on it the king's hereafter, from this present and for ever, is forgiven thee.

9 And when we shall have recovered our kingdom, we will glorify thee, and thy nation, and the temple, with great glory, so that your glory shall be made manifest in all the earth.

10 In the year one hundred and seventy-four, *Antiochus entered into the land of his fathers, and all the forces assembled to him, so that few were left with Tryphon.

11 And king Antiochus pursued after him, and he fled along by the sea coast and came to Dora.

12 For he perceived that evils were gathered together upon him, and his troops had forsaken him.

13 And Antiochus camped above Dora with a hundred and twenty thousand men of war, and eight thousand horsemen:

14 And he invested the city, and the ships drew near by sea: and they annoyed the city by land, and by sea, and suffered none to come in, or to go out.

15 And Numenius, and they that had been with him, came from the city of Rome, having letters written to the kings, and countries, the contents whereof were these:

16 Lucius, the consul of the Romans, to king Ptolemee, greeting.

17 The ambassadors of the Jews, our friends, came to us, to renew the former friendship and alliance, being sent from Simon, the high priest, and the people of the Jews.

18 And they brought also a shield of gold of a thousand pounds.

19 It hath seemed good therefore to us, to write to the kings and countries, that they should do them no harm, nor fight against them, their cities, or countries: and that they should give no aid to them that fight against them.

20 And it hath seemed good to us to receive the shield of them.

21 If, therefore, any pestilent men are fled out of their country to you, deliver them to Simon, the high priest, that he may punish them according to their law.

22 These same things were written to king Demetrius, and to Attalus, and to Ariarathes, and to Arsaces,

23 And to all the countries: and to Lampsacus, and to the Spartans, and to Delus, and Myndus, and Sicyone, and Caria, and Samus, and Pamphylia, and Lycia, and Alicarnassus, and Cos, and Side, and Aradus, and Rhodes, and Phaselis, and Gortyna, and Gnidus, and Cyprus, and Cyrene.

* A. M. 3865, A. C. 139.

But we find no human figure on the coins which he sent out during the first four years, but only vessels, trees, inscriptions, &c.

VER. 11. Dora, to the south of Carmel. Tryphon had first tried the fortune of a battle. C.

VER. 16. LUCIUS, Calvus, or Philus, (Drus., Grot.,) or Piso, (Usher. Sal. M.,) whose colleague, Lenas, went against Numantia. C.—Ptolemee, surnamed Physcon, brother and successor to Philometor, (Ch.) in Egypt. H.

VER. 22. Attalus, &c. Attalus was king of Pergamus, Ariarathes was king of Cappadocia, and Arsaces was king of the Parthians. Ch.—Demetrius was prisoner of the latter.

VER. 23. Lampsacus, in Mysia, a free city.—Delus, an island of great trade after the fall of Carthage.—Myndus, a port in Caria.—Sicyone, another in Achaia.—Samus, an independent and powerful island near Asia Minor.—Pamphylia, in Cilicia, beyond Taurus.—Lycia had been freed from the Rhodians by the Romans.—Alicarnassus, an ancient town of Caria, opposite to the isle of Coo.—Side, in Pamphylia. Ver. 1. Grotius conjectures we should read, "Sidon."—

24 And they wrote a copy thereof to Simon, the high priest, and to the people of the Jews.

25 But king Antiochus moved his camp to Dora the second time, assaulting it continually, and making engines: and he shut up Tryphon, that he could not go out.

26 And Simon sent to him two thousand chosen men to aid him, silver also, and gold, and abundance of furniture.

27 And he would not receive them, but broke all the covenant that he had made with him before, and alienated himself from him.

28 And he sent to him Athenobius, one of his friends to treat with him, saying: You hold Joppe, and Gazara, and the castle that is in Jerusalem, which are cities of my kingdom:

29 Their borders you have wasted, and you have made great havoc in the land, and have got the dominion of many places in my kingdom.

30 Now, therefore, deliver up the cities that you have taken, and the tributes of the places whereof you have gotten the dominion without the borders of Judea.

31 But if not, give me for them five hundred talents of silver, and for the havoc that you have made, and the tributes of the cities, other five hundred talents: or else we will come and fight against you.

32 So Athenobius, the king's friend, came to Jerusalem, and saw the glory of Simon and his magnificence in gold, and silver, and his great equipage, and he was astonished, and told him the king's words.

33 And Simon answered him, and said to him: We have neither taken other men's land, neither do we hold that which is other men's, but the inheritance of our fathers, which was for some time unjustly possessed by our enemies.

34 But we having opportunity, claim the inheritance of our fathers.

35 And as to thy complaints concerning Joppe and Gazara, they did great harm to the people, and to our country: yet for these we will give a hundred talents. And Athenobius answered him not a word.

36 But returning in a rage to the king, made report to him of these words, and of the glory of Simon, and of all that he had seen, and the king was exceeding angry.

37 And Tryphon fled away by ship to Orthosias.

38 And the king appointed Cendebeus captain of the sea coast, and gave him an army of footmen and horsemen.

39 And he commanded him to march with his army towards Judea: and he commanded him to build up Gedor, and to fortify the gates of the city, and to war

Aradus, near the coasts of Syria.—Rhodes, famous for its Colossus.—Phaselis, a maritime town near Lycia.—Gortyna, a city of Crete, which was then an independent island.—Gnidus, an island near Rhodes.—Cyrene, a province of Egypt. It must then have been partly free, and in alliance with Rome.

VER. 27. Not. Josephus seems to assert the contrary; observing that the king applied for aid, which was readily granted. Yet he soon forgot the favour, and sent Cendebeus against the Jews. He passes over the embassy of Athenobius. Ver. 28.

VER. 28. Gazara. The edit. of Basle properly reads, "Gadara."

VER. 35. Talents. Simon subdued these two towns, because they attacked his country; but as they did not otherwise belong to him, he paid (W.) or offered to pay something for them. H.

VER. 37. Orthosias, in Phenicia, opposite to Aradus.

VER. 39. Gedor, near Jamnia. Gr. "Cedron," (C.) as also ver. 40 formerly (H.) in the Vulg. A city was here repaired on the river Cedron. W.—Syr. "Hebron."—Gates, or efiles. Grot.

against the people. But the king himself pursued after Tryphon.

40 And Cendebeus came to Jamnia, and began to provoke the people, and to ravage Judea, and to take the people prisoners, and to kill, and to build Gedor.

41 And he placed there horsemen, and an army: that they might issue forth, and make incursions upon the ways of Judea, as the king had commanded him.

CHAP. XVI.

The sons of Simon defeat the troops of Antiochus. Simon, with two of his sons, are treacherously murdered by Ptolemee, his son-in-law.

THEN^a John came up from Gazara, and told Simon, his father, what Cendebeus had done against their people.

2 And Simon called his two eldest sons, Judas and John, and said to them: I and my brethren, and my father's house, have fought against the enemies of Israel from our youth even to this day: and things have prospered so well in our hands, that we have delivered Israel oftentimes.

3 And now I am old, but be you instead of me, and my brethren, and go out, and fight for our nation: and the help from heaven be with you.

4 Then he chose out of the country twenty thousand fighting men, and horsemen, and they went forth against Cendebeus: and they rested in Modin.

5 And they arose in the morning, and went into the plain: and behold a very great army of footmen and horsemen came against them, and there was a running river between them.

6 And he and his people pitched their camp over against them, and he saw that the people were afraid to go over the river, so he went over first: then the men seeing him, passed over after him.

7 And he divided the people, and set the horsemen in the midst of the footmen: but the horsemen of the enemies were very numerous.

8 And they sounded the holy trumpets: and Cendebeus and his army were put to flight: and there fell many of them wounded, and the rest fled into the strong hold.

9 And that time Judas, John's brother, was wounded: but John pursued after them, till he came to Cedron, which he had built:

10 And they fled even to the towers that were in the fields of Azotus, and he burnt them with fire. And there fell of them two thousand men, and he returned into Juden in peace.

11 Now Ptolemee, the son of Abobus, was appointed captain in the plain of Jericho, and he had abundance of silver and gold, 12 For he was son-in-law of the high priest.

13 And his heart was lifted up, and he designed to make himself master of the country, and he purposed treachery against Simon and his sons, to destroy them.

14 Now Simon, as he was going through the cities that were in the country of Judea, and taking care for the good ordering of them, went down to Jericho, he and Mathathias and Judas, his sons, in the year^b one hundred and seventy-seven, the eleventh month: the same is the month Sabath.

15 And the son of Abobus received them deceitfully into a little fortress, that is called Doch, which he had built: and he made them a great feast, and hid men there.

16 And when Simon and his sons had drunk plentifully, Ptolemee and his men rose up, and took their weapons, and entered into the banqueting-place, and slew him, and his two sons, and some of his servants.

17 And he committed a great treachery in Israel, and rendered evil for good.

18 And Ptolemee wrote these things, and sent to the king that he should send him an army to aid him, and he would deliver him the country, and their cities, and tributes.

19 And he sent others to Gazara to kill John: and to the tribunes he sent letters to come to him, and that he would give them silver, and gold, and gifts.

20 And he sent others to take Jerusalem, and the mountain of the temple.

21 Now one running before, told John in Gazara, that his father and his brethren were slain, and that he hath sent men to kill thee also.

22 But when he heard it, he was exceedingly afraid: and he apprehended the men that came to kill him, and he put them to death: for he knew that they sought to make him away.

23 And as concerning the rest of the acts of John, and his wars, and the worthy deeds, which he bravely achieved, and the building of the walls, which he made, and the things that he did:

24 Behold, these are written in the book of the days of his priesthood, from the time that he was made high priest after his father.

^a A. M. 3866, A. C. 138.—^b A. M. 3869, A. C. 135.

^a A. M. 3871, A. C. 133.

CHAP. XVI. VER. 1. John. He was afterwards surnamed Hircanus, and succeeded his father in both his dignities of high priest and prince. He conquered the Edomites, and obliged them to a conformity with the Jews in religion; and destroyed the schismatical temple of the Samaritans. Ch.—Gazara, the same with Gaza, (M.) or Gadara, where John resided.

VER. 3. Be you. Gr. and Syr. "you, by mercy of God, are of a proper age."

VER. 4. Horsemen. This is the first time we find them in the army.

VER. 6. He, John. Ch.

VER. 8. Holy. Rom edit. expresses this word, (C.) which Grabe supplies. H.—Hold. Gedor. C

VER. 9. Cedron, otherwise called Gedor, the city that Cendebeus was fortifying. Ch

VER. 10. Towers of wood, (C.) erected for sentinels. Grot.

VER. 12. Sabath, now called Sebeth, corresponding with January and February. C.

VER. 15. Doch or duk, (H.) in Syr. means "a watch-tower." Grot.—Josephus styles it Dagon. It was not far from Jericho, over which Ptolemee governed. C.

VER. 16. Plentifully. Lit. "were inebriated." But this expression often denotes no more than taking a moderate sufficiency, (H.) or making good cheer. (Gen. xliii. 34; John ii. 10. Lyr. T. C.) without any excess. Psal. lxxv. 10. S. Aug. q. 144. Gen.—The first and last years of Simon were disturbed; the rest were spent in peace. He began A. 170. Chap. xiii. 41. W.

VER. 17. Treachery. Syr. "crime." Gr. also, "revolt." It seems that king Antiochus participated in this murder, and had promised the government of the country for a reward.

VER. 24. Father. Such annals were kept; and from these Josephus has collected his account of the latter times. C.—Some think that the Fourth Book of Machabees contains an extract of the work here mentioned. Six. Bib. 1. Read 2 Mac. i. 1. W.—What is preserved in the seven middle chapters in the Arab. version, is given by Calmet, who omits the first nineteen and last thirty-two chapters. The whole has been published by Desprez. It differs in many points from Josephus in the history of Hircan.

THE SECOND BOOK OF MACHABEES.

This Second Book of Machabees is not a continuation of the history contained in the First; nor does it come down so low as the First does, but relates many of the same facts more at large, and adds other remarkable particulars, omitted in the First Book, relating to the state of the Jews as well before as under the persecution of Antiochus. The author, who is not the same with that of the First Book, has given (as we learn from chap. ii. 20, &c.) a short abstract of what Jason, of Cyrene, had written in the five volumes, concerning Judas and his brethren. He wrote in Greek, and begins with two letters, sent by the Jews of Jerusalem to their brethren in Egypt. Ch.—Hence the whole book has been considered by some as an epistle. Cotel. Can. Ap. p. 338.—But it is easy to distinguish the letter from the history, (C.) to which a preface is prefixed. Chap. ii. 20. Yet the Alex. copy has at the end, “A letter concerning the acts of Judas Mach.” H.

CHAPTER I.

Letters of the Jews of Jerusalem to them that were in Egypt. They give thanks for their delivery from Antiochus: and exhort their brethren to keep the feast of the dedication of the altar, and of the miraculous fire.

TO the brethren, the Jews that are throughout Egypt; the brethren, the Jews that are in Jerusalem, and in the land of Judea; send health and good peace.

2 May God be gracious to you, and remember his covenant that he made with Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, his faithful servants:

3 And give you all a heart to worship him, and to do his will with a great heart, and a willing mind.

4 May he open your heart in his law, and in his commandments, and send you peace.

5 May he hear your prayers, and be reconciled unto you, and never forsake you in the evil time.

6 And now here we are praying for you.

7 When Demetrius reigned, in the year^a one hundred and sixty-nine, we Jews wrote to you in the trouble and violence that came upon us in those years, after Jason withdrew himself from the holy land, and from the kingdom.

8 They burnt the gate, and shed innocent blood: then we prayed to the Lord, and were heard, and we offered sacrifices, and fine flour, and lighted the lamps, and set forth the loaves.

9 And now celebrate ye the days of Scenopogia, in the month of Casleu.

10 In the year^b one hundred and eighty-eight, the people that is at Jerusalem, and in Judea, and the senate, and Judas, to Aristobolus, the preceptor of king Ptolemee, who is of the stock of the anointed priests, and to the Jews that are in Egypt, health and welfare.

^a A. M. 3861, A. C. 143.

11 Having been delivered by God out of great dangers, we give him great thanks, forasmuch as we have been in war with such a king.

12 For he made numbers of men swarm out of Persia, that have fought against us, and the holy city.

13 For when the leader himself was in Persia, and with him a very great army, he fell in the temple of Nanea, being deceived by the counsel of the priests of Nanea.

14 For Antiochus, with his friends, came to the place as though he would marry her, and that he might receive great sums of money under the title of a dowry.

15 And when the priests of Nanea had set it forth, and he with a small company had entered into the compass of the temple, they shut the temple,

16 When Antiochus was come in: and opening a secret entrance of the temple, they cast stones and slew the leader, and them that were with him, and hewed them in pieces; and cutting off their heads, they threw them forth.

17 Blessed be God in all things, who hath delivered up the wicked,

18 Therefore, whereas we purpose to keep the purification of the temple on the five and twentieth day of the month of Casleu, we thought it necessary to signify it to you: that you also may keep the day of Scenopogia, and the day of the fire, that was given when Nehemias offered sacrifice, after the temple and the altar was built.

19 For when our fathers were led into Persia, the priests that then were worshippers of God, took privately the fire from the altar, and hid it in a valley where there was a deep pit without water, and there they kept it safe, so that the place was unknown to all men.

^b A. M. 3880, A. C. 124.

CHAP. I. VER. 1. Egypt. They are invited to worship at Jerusalem. M.

VER. 7. Demetrius Nicator. The date refers to what goes before.—Nine. This author dates from autumn, whereas the preceding begins the era of Seleucides, in spring, which accounts for the apparent contradictions. C.—Kingdom. Judea was then tributary to Egypt; yet Jason applied to the Syrian monarch, and instead of waiting for the death of Onias III., wished to purchase his dignity, and to change the manners of the people.

VER. 9. Scenopogia; viz. the encenia, or feast of the dedication of the altar, called here scenopogia, or feast of tabernacles, from being celebrated with the like solemnity. Ch. Chap. x. 6.—The real feast occurs in the month of Tisri. C.

VER. 10. Eight. Thus the preceding letter is dated, according to many, (M.) as there was no Judas or Aristobolus known at this time. But Judas, the Essene prophet, (chap. ii. 14. W.) must have flourished about that period (Jos. Ant. xiii. 19. C.); and one Aristobolus wrote something in the Scripture for Philometor. Clem. Strom. 5. Eus. Hist. ii. 17. C.

VER. 11. King. Antiochus Sidetes, who began to make war upon the Jews, whilst Simon was yet alive (1 Mac. xv. 39); and afterwards besieged Jerusalem, under John Hircanus. So that the Judas here mentioned (ver. 10) is not Judas Machabeus, who was dead long before the year 188 of the kingdom of the Greeks, for he died in the year 146 of that epoch (see above, 1 Mac. ii. 70, also the note on chap. i. 2); but either Judas, the eldest son of John Hircanus, or Judas the Essene, renowned for the gift of prophecy, who flourished about that time. Ch.

VER. 12. Persia. This country is not specified in the Rom. and Alex. Sept.—The name of Persia now comprised all the dominions of Antiochus; Rupert understands Sidetes. C.

VER. 13. Nanea. A Persian goddess, which some have taken for Diana, others for Venus. Ch.

VER. 14. Dowry. Thus the pagans played with religion. M.

VER. 16. Slew. Lit. “struck.” Gr. “stoned.” Yet Epiphanes escaped (chap. x. 9, and 1 Mac. vi.) having received some wounds. But a fall from his chariot, and vexation, hastened his death. H.

VER. 18. Scenopogia. The dedication, was observed by the people bearing branches, in memory of their late forlorn condition on the mountains. H. See ver. 2.

VER. 19. Persia. Babylonia, called here Persia, from being afterwards a part of the Persian empire. Ch.—Thus S. Chrys. (H. 6, in Matt.) says, the Jews were delivered from “the Persian captivity.” W.—All beyond the Euphrates was now called Persia.

20 But when many years had passed, and it pleased God that Nehemias should be sent by the king of Persia, he sent some of the posterity of those priests that had hid it, to seek for the fire: and as they told us, they found no fire, but thick water.

21 Then he bade them draw it up, and bring it to him: and the priest, Nehemias, commanded the sacrifices that were laid on, to be sprinkled with the same water, both the wood, and the things that were laid upon it.

22 And when this was done, and the time came that the sun shone out, which before was in a cloud, there was a great fire kindled, so that all wondered.

23 And all the priests made prayer, while the sacrifice was consuming, Jonathan beginning, and the rest answering.

24 And the prayer of Nehemias was after this manner: O LORD God, Creator of all things, dreadful and strong, just and merciful, who alone art the good King,

25 Who alone art gracious, who alone art just, and almighty, and eternal, who deliverest Israel from all evil, who didst choose the fathers, and didst sanctify them:

26 Receive the sacrifice for all thy people Israel, and preserve thy own portion, and sanctify it.

27 Gather together our scattered people, deliver them that are slaves to the Gentiles, and look upon them that are despised and abhorred: that the Gentiles may know that thou art our God.

28 Punish them that oppress us, and that treat us injuriously with pride.

29 Establish thy people in thy holy place, *as Moses hath spoken.

30 And the priests sung hymns till the sacrifice was consumed.

31 And when the sacrifice was consumed, Nehemias commanded the water that was left to be poured out upon the great stones.

32 Which being done, there was kindled a flame from them: but it was consumed by the light that shined from the altar.

33 And when this matter became public, it was told to the king of Persia, that in the place where the priests that were led away, had hid the fire, there appeared water, with which Nehemias and they that were with him had purified the sacrifices.

34 And the king considering, and diligently examining the matter, made a temple for it, that he might prove what had happened.

35 And when he had proved it, he gave the priests many goods, and divers presents, and he took and distributed them to them with his own hand.

36 And Nehemias called this place Nephtar, which is interpreted purification. But many call it Nephi.

CHAP. II.

A continuation of the second letter. Of Jeremias's hiding the ark at the time of the captivity. The author's preface.

NOW it is found in the descriptions of Jeremias, the prophet, that he commanded them that went into captivity, to take the fire, as it hath been signified, and how he gave charge to them that were carried away into captivity.

2 And how he gave them the law, that they should not forget the commandments of the Lord, and that they should not err in their minds, seeing the idols of gold, and silver, and the ornaments of them.

3 And with other such like speeches, he exhorted them that they would not remove the law from their heart.

4 It was also contained in the same writing, how the prophet, being warned by God, commanded that the tabernacle and the ark should accompany him, till he came forth to the mountain ^bwhere Moses went up, and saw the inheritance of God.

5 And when Jeremias came thither he found a hollow cave: and he carried in thither the tabernacle, and the ark, and the altar of incense, and so stopped the door.

6 Then some of them that followed him, came up to mark the place: but they could not find it.

7 And when Jeremias perceived it, he blamed them, saying: The place shall be unknown, till God gather together the congregation of the people, and receive them to mercy.

8 And then the Lord will show these things, and the majesty of the Lord shall appear, and there shall be a cloud as it was also showed to Moses, *and he showed it when Solomon prayed that the place might be sanctified to the great God.

9 For he treated wisdom in a magnificent manner: and like a wise man, he offered the sacrifice of the dedication, and of the finishing of the temple.

10 *And as Moses prayed to the Lord, and fire came down from heaven, and consumed the holocaust: *so Solomon also prayed, and fire came down from heaven and consumed the holocaust.

11 And Moses said: 'Because the sin-offering was not eaten, it was consumed.

12 So Solomon also celebrated the dedication eight days.

* Deut. xxx. 3, and 5; Infra, ii. 18.—^b Deut. xxxiv. 1.—^c 3 Kings viii. 11; 2 Par. vi. 14.

^d Lev. ix. 24.—^e 2 Par. vii. 1.—^f Lev. x. 16, and 17.

VER. 21. The priest. Gr. "Nehemias ordered the priests to sprinkle with the water both," &c. H.

VER. 23. Jonathan, one of the chief priests; perhaps Joiada, Eliasib's son. C.

VER. 29. Spoken, promising these favours. Deut. xxx. 3. H.

VER. 32. Altar. This second flame came immediately from heaven, and overpowered that proceeding from the mud. C.

VER. 34. A temple. That is, an enclosure or a wall round about the place where the fire was hid, to separate it from profane uses, to the end that it might be respected as a holy place. Ch.—Such open enclosures are often styled temples. C.

VER. 36. Nephtar, or rather Neephar. Grot.—Nephi. Gr. has the former word. Rom. copy and Syr. Naphtai; may be derived from Chal. phetir. "pure, annexed." C.

CHAP. II. VER. 1. The descriptions. That is, the records or memoirs of Jeremias, a work that is now lost. Ch.

VER. 2. Of them. He alludes to his epistle, (C.) Bar. vi. 11. W.

VER. 4. And the ark. These were not taken by the Chaldeans. Jer. lii. M.—Whether they were removed before or after the capture of the city, is disputed. Salien, A. 3446.—Mountain; Nebo. Deut. xxxii. 49.

VER. 7. Mercy. Whether the ark &c. were in the second temple, as this seems to insinuate, has been much debated. The negative seems best established; and these promises refer to the Messiah, prefigured by the ark.

VER. 9. Treated. Gr. "He was manifested, and like one possessing wisdom, he," &c. H.—On this occasion Solomon chiefly displayed his wisdom, praying aloud.

VER. 10. As. Both dedications lasted eight days, and fire descended. Lev. ix. 23, and 2 Par. vii. 1.

VER. 11. Consumed. He alludes to what Moses said after the death of Nadab. Lev. x. 16. C.—Fire consumed the sin-offering as well as the rest 13 And these same things were set down in the memoirs, and commentaries of Nehemias: and how he made a library, and gathered together out of the countries, the books both of the prophets, and of David, and the epistles of the kings, and concerning the holy gifts.

14 And in like manner Judas also gathered together all such things as were lost by the war we had, and they are in our possession.

15 Wherefore, if you want these things, send some that may fetch them to you.

16 As we are then about to celebrate the purification, we have written unto you: and you shall do well, if you keep the same days.

17 And we hope that God, who hath delivered his people, and hath rendered to all the inheritance, and the kingdom, and the priesthood, and the sanctuary.

18 As he promised in the law, will shortly have mercy upon us, and will gather us together from every land under heaven into the holy place.

19 For he hath delivered us out of great perils, and hath cleansed the place.

20 Now as concerning Judas Machabeus, and his brethren, and the purification of the great temple, and the dedication of the altar.

21 As also the wars against Antiochus, the illustrious, and his son, Eupator:

22 And the manifestations that came from heaven to them, that behaved themselves manfully on the behalf of the Jews, so that, being but a few, they made themselves masters of the whole country, and put to flight the barbarous multitude:

23 And recovered again the most renowned temple in all the world, and delivered the city, and restored the laws that were abolished, the Lord with all clemency showing mercy to them.

24 And all such things as have been comprised in five books by Jason, of Cyrene, we have attempted to abridge in one book.

25 For considering the multitude of books, and the difficulty that they find that desire to undertake the narrations of histories, because of the multitude of the matter,

26 We have taken care for those indeed that are willing

* Deut. xxx. 3, and 5; Supra, i. 29.

to read, that it might be a pleasure of mind: and for the studious, that they may more easily commit to memory: and that all that read might receive profit.

27 And as to ourselves indeed, in undertaking this work of abridging, we have taken in hand no easy task; yea, rather a business full of watching and sweat.

28 But as they that prepare a feast, and seek to satisfy the will of others: for the sake of many, we willingly undergo the labour.

29 Leaving to the authors the exact handling of every particular, and as for ourselves, according to the plan proposed, studying to be brief.

30 For as the master builder of a new house must have care of the whole building: but he that taketh care to paint it, must seek out fit things for the adorning of it: so must it be judged of us.

31 For to collect all that is to be known, to put the discourse in order, and curiously to discuss every particular point, is the duty of the author of a history:

32 But to pursue brevity of speech, and to avoid nice declarations of things, is to be granted to him that maketh an abridgment.

33 Here then we will begin the narration: let this be enough by way of a preface: for it is a foolish thing to make a long prologue, and to be short in the story itself.

CHAP. III.

Heliodorus is sent by king Seleucus to take away the treasures deposited in the temple. He is struck by God, and healed by the prayers of the high priest.

THEREFORE, when the holy city was inhabited with all peace, and the laws as yet were very well kept, because of the godliness of Onias, the high priest, and the hatred his soul had of evil,

2 It came to pass that even the kings themselves, and the princes esteemed the place worthy of the highest honour, and glorified the temple with very great gifts:

3 So that Seleucus, king of Asia, allowed out of his revenues all the charges belonging to the ministry of the sacrifices.

4 But one Simon, of the tribe of Benjamin, who was appointed overseer of the temple, strove in opposition to the high priest, to bring about some unjust thing in the city.

attending those who wish to dive into εισκυλισθαι, (H.) or to include μικρὰ (C.) historical relations on account of the quantity of matter." H.

VER. 27. No easy task, &c. The spirit of God, that assists the sacred penmen, does not exempt them from labour in seeking out the matter which they are to treat of, and the order and manner in which they are to deliver it. So S. Luke wrote the Gospel, having diligently attained to all things. Luke i. 3. Ch.—When something future is revealed, there is less difficulty, as God must then dictate the very words. Hence Jeremias wrote with the utmost ease, as Baruch testified. Jer. xxxvi. 18, 32. H.—The prophets had, therefore, only to write or speak from the mouth of God. Others were excited by him to treat of history, &c., and were preserved from error, but not from labour. Bellar. Verb. i. 15.

VER. 29. Authors. Gr. "the writer." H.—Jason resembles an excellent painter, of whose work we desire to give a copy (C.) in miniature, (H.) relying entirely on his veracity. Sa.—Yet as the Church esteems this work to be canonical, what is extracted must be true, and inspired, though the writer seems not to have known that he had such a privilege. God might still guide his pen. M.

VER. 30. Master. Such is Jason. I only paint some parts. C.—Paint Gr. "to burn in and represent to the life, must," &c. H.

VER. 33. Itself. The account of Alex. should be read next. 1 Mac. i. W. CHAP. III. VER. 2. Place; city. H.—See the letter of Antiochus the Great Jos. Ant. xii. 3. C.

VER. 3. Seleucus, son of Antiochus the Great, and elder brother of Antiochus Epiphanes. Ch.

VER. 13. Set down. Gr. "explained."—Books. The Scriptures were not lost. M.—Perhaps before this time no complete collection of them had been made. Esdras would point out and help to discover what had been written. C.—The senate of the nation was also present. Simon, Crit. i. 1.—David: the Psalmist. All the other books may be designated under the name of prophets. H.—Kings; Cyrus, &c. 1 Esd. vi. 3, &c. Josephus has inserted many such letters in his work. They were like the title-deeds of the nation. C.—And. Gr. "regarding the presents;" ἀνὰ θυμῶν. H.

VER. 14. Judas. This seems to be the Essene, who with others wrote this epistle (chap. i. 10. W.); or rather (H.) the Machabee, who was as solicitous to preserve the sacred books as Antiochus was to destroy them. 1 Mac. i. 59, and ii. 48.

VER. 15. Things, collected by Judas. The Bible had been translated into Greek before. But some records might still be wanted by the Jews in Egypt. C.

VER. 16. The purification. This is the feast of the purifying or cleansing of the temple, (Ch.) the 25th of Casleu. Chap. i. 9, 18.

VER. 18. Place. They had now liberty to return. What, therefore, can they mean but the coming of the Messiah, who was shortly expected? C.

VER. 19. Place. Read chap. xv. 38. After the author had written this appendix to the former book, he resolved to add an epitome of the history. Hence in this preface he informs us of the subject, method, reason, and diligence of his short work. Ver. 20, 24, 5, 6, 9. W.

VER. 22. Manifestations: heavenly apparitions. Chap. iii. 25, and v. 2. C.

VER. 25. Multitude Gr. also, "confusion of numbers, and the difficulty

5 And when he could not overcome Onias, he went to Apollonius, the son of Tharseas, who at that time was governor of Ceesyria, and Phenicia :

6 And told him, that the treasury in Jerusalem was full of immense sums of money, and the common store was infinite, which did not belong to the account of the sacrifices : and that it was possible to bring all into the king's hands.

7 Now when Apollonius had given the king notice concerning the money that he was told of, he called for Heliodorus, who had the charge over his affairs, and sent him with commission to bring him the foresaid money.

8 So Heliodorus forthwith began his journey, under a colour of visiting the cities of Ceesyria and Phenicia, but indeed to fulfil the king's purpose.

9 And when he was come to Jerusalem, and had been courteously received in the city by the high priest, he told him what information had been given concerning the money : and declared the cause for which he was come : and asked if these things were so indeed.

10 Then the high priest told him that these were sums deposited, and provisions for the subsistence of the widows and the fatherless :

11 And that some part of that which wicked Simon had given intelligence of, belonged to Hircanus, son of Tobias, a man of great dignity ; and that the whole was four hundred talents of silver, and two hundred of gold :

12 But that to deceive them who had trusted to the place and temple which is honoured throughout the whole world, for the reverence and holiness of it, was a thing which could not by any means be done.

13 But he, by reason of the orders he had received from the king, said, that by all means the money must be carried to the king.

14 So on the day he had appointed, Heliodorus entered in to order this matter. But there was no small terror throughout the whole city.

15 And the priests prostrated themselves before the altar in their priests' vestments, and called upon him from heaven, who made the law concerning things given to be kept, that he would preserve them safe, for them that had deposited them.

16 Now whosoever saw the countenance of the high priest, was wounded in heart : for his face, and the changing of his colour, declared the inward sorrow of his mind.

17 For the man was so compassed with sadness and horror of the body, that it was manifest to them that beheld him, what sorrow he had in his heart.

18 Others also came flocking together out of their houses, praying and making public supplication, because the place was like to come into contempt.

19 And the women, girded with haircloth about their breasts, came together in the streets. And the virgins also that were shut up, came forth, some to Onias, and some to the walls, and others looked out of the windows.

20 And all holding up their hands towards heaven, made supplication.

21 For the expectation of the mixt multitude, and of the high priest, who was in an agony, would have moved any one to pity.

22 And these indeed called upon Almighty God, to preserve the things that had been committed to them, safe and sure for those that had committed them.

23 But Heliodorus executed that which he had resolved on, himself being present in the same place with his guard about the treasury.

24 But the spirit of the Almighty God gave a great evidence of his presence, so that all that had presumed to obey him, falling down by the power of God, were struck with fainting and dread.

25 For there appeared to them a horse, with a terrible rider upon him, adorned with a very rich covering : and he ran fiercely and struck Heliodorus with his fore-feet, and he that sat upon him seemed to have armour of gold.

26 Moreover there appeared two other young men, beautiful and strong, bright and glorious, and in comely apparel : who stood by him, on either side, and scourged him without ceasing with many stripes.

27 And Heliodorus suddenly fell to the ground, and they took him up, covered with great darkness, and having put him into a litter, they carried him out.

28 So he that came with many servants, and all his guard, into the aforesaid treasury, was carried out, no one being able to help him, the manifest power of God being known.

29 And he indeed, by the power of God, lay speechless, and without all hope of recovery.

30 But they praised the Lord, because he had glorified his place : and the temple, that a little before was full of fear and trouble, when the Almighty Lord appeared, was filled with joy and gladness.

31 Then some of the friends of Heliodorus forthwith begged of Onias, that he would call upon the Most High to grant him his life, who was ready to give up the ghost.

32 So the high priest, considering that the king might perhaps suspect that some mischief had been done to Heliodorus by the Jews, offered a sacrifice of health for the recovery of the man.

33 And when the high priest was praying, the same young men in the same clothing stood by Heliodorus, and said to him : Give thanks to Onias, the priest : because for his sake the Lord hath granted thee life.

VER. 4. Overseer for repairs, which laics might be (2 Par. xxxiv. 8. C.) ; or Simon was advocate, (Grot.) like the Church defenders, so often mentioned in the councils. C.—To bring. Gr. "about disorder in the city." H.

VER. 5. Apollonius, whom Jonathan defeated, 1 Mac. x. 69.

VER. 6. Store. He knew that the king provided victims.

VER. 7. Affairs. Gr. Rom. Some copies read "effects," or money. All this is related of Apollonius. 4 Mac. i.

VER. 10. And provisions is not in Gr. or Syr. C.—Something was to be given for such feasts (Deut. xiv. 23. Lyr. M.) ; or people deposited in the temple their treasures ; as all nations have judged that they would be there most secure. Grot. T. C.

VER. 11. Tobias, or rather "son of Joseph, and grandson of Tobias." Jos. Ant. xii. 4.

VER. 12. Done. It was contrary to justice.

VER. 19. Shut up. Hence they were styled alamoth, "hidden," till they were married. Nothing could give a better idea of the distress of the city. C.—Walls of the temple, which they were not allowed to pass. M.—The city seemed to be taken by an enemy. C.

VER. 21. Expectation. Gr. "prostration." H.—It was not unusual to see the Jews fall prostrate on such occasions, to move God or the enemy to pity, ver. 15 ; Judith iv. 9 C.

VER. 24. Obey. Gr. "attend." They designed to plunder, but in vain. H

34 And thou having been scourged by God, declare unto all men the great works and the power of God. And having spoken thus, they appeared no more.

35 So Heliodorus, after he had offered a sacrifice to God, and made great vows to him, that had granted him life, and given thanks to Onias, taking his troops with him, returned to the king.

36 And he testified to all men the works of the great God, which he had seen with his own eyes.

37 And when the king asked Heliodorus, who might be a fit man to be sent yet once more to Jerusalem, he said :

38 If thou hast any enemy, or traitor to thy kingdom, send him thither, and thou shalt receive him again scourged, if so be he escape : for there is undoubtedly in that place a certain power of God.

39 For he that hath his dwelling in the heavens, is the visiter and protector of that place, and he striketh and destroyeth them that come to do evil to it.

40 And the things concerning Heliodorus, and the keeping of the treasury, fell out in this manner.

CHAP. IV.

Onias has recourse to the king. The ambition and wickedness of Jason and Menelaus. Onias is treacherously murdered.

BUT Simon, of whom we spoke before, who was the betrayer of the money, and of his country, spoke ill of Onias, as though he had incited Heliodorus to do these things, and had been the promoter of evils :

2 And he presumed to call him a traitor to the kingdom, who provided for the city, and defended his nation, and was zealous for the law of God.

3 But when the enmities proceeded so far, that murders also were committed by some of Simon's friends :

4 Onias, considering the danger of this contention, and that Apollonius, who was the governor of Cœlesyria, and Phenicia, was outrageous, which increased the malice of Simon, went to the king,

5 Not to be an accuser of his countrymen, but with a view to the common good of all the people.

6 For he saw that, except the king took care, it was impossible that matters should be settled in peace, or that Simon would cease from his folly.

7 But after the death of Seleucus, when Antiochus, who was called the Illustrious, had taken possession of the kingdom, Jason, the brother of Onias, ambitiously sought the high priesthood :

8 *And went to the king, promising him three hundred

* A. M. 3329, A. C. 175.

VER. 39. Visiter. Gr. "epopt," (H.) or inspector. C.—So those who had the care of a thing were styled. M.

CHAP. IV. VER. 1. Evils. Thus traitors generally calumniate good governors. W.

VER. 2. To the. Gr. "of the affairs, who was the benefactor of the city." H.

VER. 4. King. Philopator, (M.) who knew the real state of the matter.

VER. 7. Antiochus Epiphanes, who usurped the crown. Chap. i. 11.

VER. 9. Youth, under fourteen, to exercise. Vitruv. v. 11.—Jason wished to make his countrymen adopt the pagan customs, which tended to corrupt their morals. VER. 12. C.—Antiochians, to please the vanity of Antiochus, (Serar.,) or that they might enjoy the like privileges. Salien. M.

VER. 10. Rule, as high priest. VER. 21 and 50.

VER. 11. Alliance, afterwards under Judas. 1 Mac. viii. 17. C.—John had procured real advantages for the city. M.

VER. 13. Now Gr. "Thus it was the height of Hellenism, and the increase and sixty talents of silver, and out of other revenues four-score talents.

9 Besides this he promised also a hundred and fifty more, if he might have licence to set him up a place for exercise, and a place for youth, and to entitle them, that were at Jerusalem, Antiochians.

10 *Which when the king had granted, and he had gotten the rule into his hands, forthwith he began to bring over his countrymen to the fashion of the heathens.

11 And abolishing those things, which had been decreed of special favour by the kings in behalf of the Jews, by the means of John, the father of that Eupolemus, who went ambassador to Rome to make amity and alliance, he disannulled the lawful ordinances of the citizens, and brought in fashions that were perverse.

12 For he had the boldness to set up, under the very castle, a place of exercise, and to put all the choicest youths in brothel houses.

13 Now this was not the beginning, but an increase, and progress of heathenish and foreign manners, through the abominable and unheard of wickedness of Jason, that impious wretch, and no priest.

14 Insomuch that the priests were not now occupied about the offices of the altar, but despising the temple and neglecting the sacrifices, hastened to be partakers of the games, and of the unlawful allowance thereof, and of the exercise of the discus.

15 And setting nought by the honours of their fathers, they esteemed the Grecian glories for the best :

16 For the sake of which they incurred a dangerous contention, and followed earnestly their ordinances, and in all things they coveted to be like them, who were their enemies and murderers.

17 For acting wickedly against the laws of God doth not pass unpunished : but this the time following will declare.

18 Now when the game that was used every fifth year was kept at Tyre, the king being present,

19 The wicked Jason sent from Jerusalem sinful men, to carry three hundred didrachmas of silver for the sacrifice of Hercules ; but the bearers thereof desired it might not be bestowed on the sacrifices, because it was not necessary, but might be deputed for other charges.

20 So the money was appointed by him that sent it to the sacrifice of Hercules : but because of them that carried it was employed for the making of galleys.

21 Now when Apollonius, the son of Mnestheus, was b A. M. 3330.—c 1 Mac. i. 15.

of foreign customs through," &c.—No priest. He did not deserve the title, though he was really a descendant of Aaron. Gr. "not high priest." H.

VER. 14. Temple. Where true religion is abolished, most people follow none ; but rather apply themselves to vanity and worse sins. W.—Allowance. They contributed money, (Grot.,) or rather strove to obtain the prize. C.—Discus : "a round stone, with a hole in the middle." Prot. marg. H.

VER. 15. Glories ; the honour of being gymnasiarch, or agonothete. C.

VER. 16. Dangerous. Gr. "misery, and those whose institutes they zealously adopted, and whom in all they wished to resemble, the same they found their enemies and chastisers." H.—God thus punished (C.) their perfidy. H.

VER. 19. Sinful. Gr. "spectators, being Antiochians, to carry 300 drachmas." H.—Didrachmas, or double drachmas of Alexandria, which amount only to one Roman. Hence Greek interpreters generally express thus the half sicle.—Silver, or money (C.) ; gold. M.—Thus the value would be fourteen times greater. C.

VER. 20. Galleys, or adorning them for the sports. The deputies were sent into Egypt to treat with the nobles of king Philometor, and Antiochus understood that he was wholly excluded from the affairs of the kingdom, consulting his own interest, he departed thence and came to Joppe, and from thence to Jerusalem.

22 Where he was received in a magnificent manner by Jason, and the city, and came in with torch-lights, and with praises, and from thence he returned with his army into Phenicia.

23 Three years afterwards Jason sent Menelaus, brother of the aforesaid Simon, to carry money to the king, and to bring answers from him concerning certain necessary affairs.

24 But he being recommended to the king, when he had magnified the appearance of his power, got the high priesthood for himself, by offering more than Jason by three hundred talents of silver.

25 So having received the king's mandate, he returned, bringing nothing worthy of the high priesthood: but having the mind of a cruel tyrant, and the rage of a savage beast.

26 Then Jason, who had undermined his own brother, being himself undermined, was driven out a fugitive into the country of the Ammonites.

27 So Menelaus got the principality: but as for the money he had promised to the king, he took no care, when Sostratus, the governor of the castle, called for it.

28 *For to him appertained the gathering of the taxes: wherefore they were both called before the king.

29 And Menelaus was removed from the priesthood, Lysimachus, his brother, succeeding: and Sostratus was made governor of the Cyprians.

30 When these things were in doing, it fell out that they of Tharsus, and Mallos, raised a sedition, because they were given for a gift to Antiochis, the king's concubine.

31 The king therefore, went in all haste to appease them, leaving Andronicus, one of his nobles, for his deputy.

32 Then Menelaus supposing that he had found a convenient time, having stolen certain vessels of gold out of the temple, gave them to Andronicus, and others he had sold at Tyre, and in the neighbouring cities:

33 Which when Onias understood most certainly, he reproved him, keeping himself in a safe place at Antioch, beside Daphne.

34 Whereupon Menelaus coming to Andronicus, desired him to kill Onias. And he went to Onias, and gave him his right hand with an oath, and (though he were suspected by him) persuaded him to come forth out of the sanctuary, and immediately slew him, without any regard to justice.

35 For which cause not only the Jews, but also the other nations, conceived indignation, and were much grieved for the unjust murder of so great a man.

36 And when the king was come back from the places of Cilicia, the Jews that were at Antioch, and also the Greeks, went to him: complaining of the unjust murder of Onias.

37 Antiochus, therefore, was grieved in his mind for Onias, and being moved to pity, shed tears, remembering the sobriety and modesty of the deceased.

38 And being inflamed to anger, he commanded Andronicus to be stripped of his purple, and to be led about through all the city: and that in the same place wherein he had committed the impiety against Onias, the sacrilegious wretch should be put to death, the Lord repaying him his deserved punishment.

39 Now when many sacrileges had been committed by Lysimachus in the temple, by the counsel of Menelaus, and the rumour of it was spread abroad, the multitude gathered themselves together against Lysimachus, a great quantity of gold being already carried away.

40 Wherefore the multitude making an insurrection, and their minds being filled with anger, Lysimachus armed about three thousand men, and began to use violence, one Tyrannus being captain, a man far gone both in age and in madness.

41 But when they perceived the attempt of Lysimachus, some caught up stones, some strong clubs, and some threw ashes upon Lysimachus.

42 And many of them were wounded, and some struck down to the ground, but all were put to flight: and as for the sacrilegious fellow himself, they slew him beside the treasury.

43 Now concerning these matters, an accusation was laid against Menelaus.

44 And when the king was come to Tyre, three men were sent from the ancients to plead the cause before him.

45 But Menelaus being convicted, promised Ptolemee to give him much money to persuade the king to favour him.

46 So Ptolemee went to the king in a certain court where he was, as it were to cool himself, and brought him to be of another mind:

47 So Menelaus, who was guilty of all the evil, was acquitted by him of the accusations: and those poor men, who, if they had pleaded their cause even before Scy-

* A. M. 3834, A. C. 170.

ashamed to comply with Jason's order; or they judged this use of the money more agreeable to the king. C.—Go to 1 Mac. i. 17. W.

VER. 21. Treat. Gr. "when king Ptolemy Philometor ascended the throne;" πρωτοκλισια. H.—Grotius would substitute πρωτοκουρια, "the first hair cutting," which was a great festival, the hair being presented to some deity. Cleopatra died this year, A. 3831.

VER. 22. Lights, usual in testimony of joy. C.

VER. 23. Brother, and of course a Benjamite, so that the usurpation was doubly criminal. T.—But S. Tho. Petau, &c. suppose that he resembled Simon in guilt, or was his brother-in-law. H.—By the law, those of the tribe of Benjamin could not be priests. Thus the succession was broken and restored in Mathathias. 1 Mac. ii. W.

VER. 29. Succeeding to the high priesthood, (Gr. H.) after the death of Menelaus. Jos.—Yet some think he was only his "vicar," διαδοχον, (Grot. Usher.) and he seems never to have been recognised. C.

VER. 30. Mallos, in Cilicia.

VER. 32. Temple. He was no longer there, but Lysimachus complied with his orders, (C.) ver. 39, or Menelaus had taken the vessels with him. H.

VER. 33. Daphne. This was a famous asylum, to which Onias retreated without worshipping Apollo. He had gone to Antioch to answer the calumnies of Simon; and though Jason got his place, (C.) the king could not help respecting him, (H.) and wept at his death. This is the highest praise of Onias, as even such a monster acknowledged his merit. C.

VER. 35. Man. The people, (W.) and even the king, admired his solid piety. Thus (H.) the Tyrians buried the innocent. Ver. 49. W.

VER. 41. Ashes. Gr. adds, "lying there," (H.) in the temple, near the altar, or in the place assigned for them. Lev. i. 16. C.

VER. 45. Ptolemee, the son of Dorymenus, a favourite of the king. (Ch.) whose perfidy had procured him the government of Celosyria. Chap. v. 3, and 1 Mac. iii. 38.

thians, should have been judged innocent, were condemned to death.

48 Thus they that prosecuted the cause for the city, and for the people, and the sacred vessels, did soon suffer unjust punishment.

49 Wherefore even the Tyrians, being moved with indignation, were liberal towards their burial.

50 And so through the covetousness of them that were in power, Menelaus continued in authority, increasing in malice to the betraying of the citizens.

CHAP. V.

Wonderful signs are seen in the air. Jason's wickedness and end. Antiochus takes Jerusalem, and plunders the temple.

AT the same time Antiochus prepared for a second journey into Egypt.

2 And it came to pass, that through the whole city of Jerusalem, for the space of forty days, there were seen horsemen running in the air, in gilded raiment, and armed with spears, like bands of soldiers.

3 And horses set in order by ranks, running one against another, with the shakings of shields, and a multitude of men in helmets, with drawn swords, and casting of darts, and glittering of golden armour, and of harnesses of all sorts.

4 Wherefore all men prayed that these prodigies might turn to good.

5 Now when there was gone forth a false rumour, as though Antiochus had been dead, Jason taking with him no fewer than a thousand men, suddenly assaulted the city: and though the citizens ran together to the wall, the city at length was taken, and Menelaus fled into the castle.

6 But Jason slew his countrymen without mercy, not considering that prosperity against one's own kindred, is a very great evil, thinking they had been enemies, and not citizens, whom he conquered.

7 Yet he did not get the principality, but received confusion at the end, for the reward of his treachery, and fled again into the country of the Ammonites.

8 At the last, having been shut up by Aretas, the king of the Arabians, in order for his destruction, flying from city to city, hated by all men, as a forsaker of the laws and execrable, as an enemy of his country and countrymen, he was thrust out into Egypt:

9 And he that had driven many out of their country, perished in a strange land, going to Lacedemon, as if for kindred sake he should have refuge there:

10 But he that had cast out many unburied, was himself cast forth both unlamented and unburied, neither having foreign burial, nor being partaker of the sepulchre of his fathers.

* A. M. 3834, A. C. 170.

CHAP. V. VER. 1. Second. After he had sent Apollonius, he proceeded no farther than Joppe and Jerusalem; being perhaps afraid of the Romans. Chap. iv. 21.

VER. 2. Days. These things were not seen only by people inclined to superstition, or for a short time. There must be true prodigies, as so many false ones have been published. C.

VER. 5. Dead. This rumour caused much evil to the Jews. Antiochus was informed that they had rejoiced at the news, and therefore fell upon the city.

VER. 6. Evil, as the numbers are thus lessened.

VER. 8. Shut up in prison, out of which he escaped to Egypt (M.); or he was hard pressed, (C.) or accused. Grot.

VER. 9. Lacedemon. Lit. "the Lacedemonians," (H.) who served in the 11 Now when these things were done, the king suspected that the Jews would forsake the alliance: where upon departing out of Egypt with a furious mind, he took the city by force of arms,

12 And commanded the soldiers to kill, and not to spare any that came in their way, and to go up into the houses to slay.

13 Thus there was a slaughter of young and old, a destruction of women and children, and killing of virgins and infants.

14 And there were slain in the space of three whole days fourscore thousand, forty thousand were made prisoners, and as many sold.

15 But this was not enough, he presumed also to enter into the temple, the most holy in all the world, Menelaus, that traitor to the laws, and to his country, being his guide.

16 And taking in his wicked hands the holy vessels, which were given by other kings and cities, for the ornament and the glory of the place, he unworthily handled and profaned them.

17 Thus Antiochus going astray in mind, did not consider that God was angry for a while, because of the sins of the inhabitants of the city: and therefore this contempt had happened to the place:

18 Otherwise had they not been involved in many sins, as Heliodorus, who was sent by king Seleucus to rob the treasury; so this man also, as soon as he had come, had been forthwith scourged, and put back from his presumption.

19 But God did not choose the people for the place's sake, but the place for the people's sake.

20 And, therefore, the place also itself was made partaker of the evils of the people: but afterwards shall communicate in the good things thereof, and as it was forsaken in the wrath of Almighty God, shall be exalted again with great glory, when the great Lord shall be reconciled.

21 So when Antiochus had taken away out of the temple a thousand and eight hundred talents, he went back in all haste to Antioch, thinking through pride, that he might now make the land navigable, and the sea passable on foot: such was the haughtiness of his mind.

22 He left also governors to afflict the people: at Jerusalem, Philip, a Phrygian by birth, but in manners more barbarous than he that set him there:

23 And in Garizim, Andronicus and Menelaus, who bore a more heavy hand upon the citizens than the rest.

24 And whereas he was set against the Jews, he sent that hateful prince, Apollonius, with an army of two and Supra, iii. 25, and 27. A. M. 3834, A. C. 170.

army of Philometor. Grot.—Kindred. The Spartans sprung from Abraham 1 Mac. xii. 2, (W.) 21. C.

VER. 11. Alliance with him, or refuse to submit. H.—The enterprise of Jason, and the account of their rejoicing, made him form this judgment.

VER. 14. Slain, or sold, the latter amounting to one half of the 80,000.

VER. 19. Place. Temples and victims are for our own advantage. Isa. i. 11; Jer. vi. 20, and 3 Kings viii. 27. God has often suffered sacred places to be profaned, when piety had been disregarded. C.

VER. 21. Foot. These are hyperbolic expressions, denoting the extravagance of Epiphanes after victory.

VER. 23. Garizim, or the country of Samaria, over which Andronicus alone was governor.—Who bore. Gr. and Syr. reads in the singular, as this regards Menelaus twenty thousand men, commanding him to kill all that were of perfect age, and to sell the women and the younger sort.

25 Who, when he was come to Jerusalem, pretending peace, rested till the holy day of the sabbath: and then the Jews keeping holiday, he commanded his men to take arms.

26 And he slew all that were come forth to see: and running through the city with armed men, he destroyed a very great multitude.

27 But Judas Machabeus, who was the tenth, had withdrawn himself into a desert place, and there lived amongst wild beasts in the mountains with his company: and they continued feeding on herbs, that they might not be partakers of the pollution.

CHAP. VI.

Antiochus commands the law to be abolished, sets up an idol in the temple, and persecutes the faithful. The martyrdom of Eleazar.

BUT not long after the king sent^a a certain old man of Antioch, to compel the Jews to depart from the laws of their fathers and of God:

2 And to defile the temple that was in Jerusalem, and to call it the temple of Jupiter Olympius: and that in Garizim, of Jupiter Hospitalis, according as they were that inhabited the place.

3 And very bad was this invasion of evils, and grievous to all.

4 For the temple was full of the riot and revellings of the Gentiles: and of men lying with lewd women. And women thrust themselves of their accord into the holy places, and brought in things that were not lawful.

5 The altar also was filled with unlawful things, which were forbidden by the laws.

6 And neither were the sabbaths kept, nor the solemn days of the fathers observed, neither did any man plainly profess himself to be a Jew.

7 But they were led by bitter constraint on the king's birth-day to the sacrifices: and when the feast of Bacchus was kept, they were compelled to go about crowned with ivy in honour of Bacchus.

8 And there went out a decree into the neighbouring cities of the Gentiles, by the suggestion of the Ptolemeans,

^a A. M. 3837, A. C. 167.

VER. 24. He. Syr. "Epiphanes."

VER. 26. To see, or celebrate the festival. 1 Mac. i. 30, &c. C.

VER. 27. Was the tenth. That is, he had nine others in his company. Ch.—He was the tenth lawful pontiff, under the Greeks. W.—Judas is specified, because he was the most renowned. His father and five sons, joined by four others, retired into desert places, and eat what they could find. C.

CHAP. VI. VER. 1. After, A. 3837.—Old, or senator. Gr. "Athenus," or "an Athenian senator."

VER. 2. Olympius. They thought this idol agreed best with the idea of the God of heaven, changing the names of the deities, where they had dominion. Other nations made no resistance: but the Jews knew better. C.—Garizim; viz. the temple of the Samaritans. And as they were originally strangers, the name of Hospitalis (which signifies of or belonging to strangers) was applicable to the idol set up in their temple. Ch.

VER. 4. Lewd. Priests on duty were not even allowed to approach to their wives, and the most pure women had no right to go into the interior of the temple. C.—And. Gr. "in the courts, and also bringing in improper things." H.

VER. 6. Jew. None did this except he were legally questioned. It would have unnecessarily brought on a persecution. H.—The very name was become criminal, as that of Christian was afterwards. C.

VER. 7. Sacrifices. Gr. "each month, to the sacrifice (and feast) of entrails," (H.) which were given back to him who presented the victim. Grot.—About. Gr. "to follow the march;" πομπεύειν. C.—Prot. "to go in procession to Bacchus, carrying ivy."

that they also should act in like manner against the Jews, to oblige them to sacrifice:

9 And whosoever would not conform themselves to the ways of the Gentiles, should be put to death: then was misery to be seen.

10 ^bFor two women were accused to have circumcised their children: whom, when they had openly led about through the city, with the infants hanging at their breasts, they threw down headlong from the walls.

11 And others that had met together in caves that were near, and were keeping the sabbath day privately, being discovered by Philip, were burnt with fire, because they made a conscience to help themselves with their hands, by reason of the religious observance of the day.

12 Now I beseech those that shall read this book, that they be not shocked at these calamities, but that they consider the things that happened, not as being for the destruction, but for the correction of our nation.

13 For it is a token of great goodness, when sinners are not suffered to go on in their ways for a long time, but are presently punished.

14 For, not as with other nations, (whom the Lord patiently expecteth, that when the day of judgment shall come, he may punish them in the fulness of their sins,)

15 Doth he also deal with us, so as to suffer our sins to come to their height, and then take vengeance on us.

16 And therefore he never withdraweth his mercy from us: but though he chastise his people with adversity, he forsaketh them not.

17 But let this suffice in a few words for a warning to the readers. And now we must come to the narration.

18 Eleazar, one of the chief of the scribes, a man advanced in years, and of a comely countenance, was pressed to open his mouth to eat swine's flesh.

19 But he, choosing rather a most glorious death than a hateful life, went forward voluntarily to the torment.

20 And considering in what manner he was come to it, patiently bearing, he determined not to do any unlawful things for the love of life.

21 But they that stood by, being moved with wicked pity, for the old friendship they had with the man, taking him aside, desired that flesh might be brought which it

^b 1 Mac. i. 63.

VER. 8. Ptolemeans, who resided at Ptolemais. C.—Most Gr. copies have Ptolemae. Chap. iv. 45. H.—We find that many of the neighbouring nations invaded the Jews, but were repressed by Judas. 1 Mac. v. 15.

VER. 10. Women. See 1 Mac. i. 64, &c. C.—Besides the former massacres, (chap. v.) four great martyrdoms are here recorded: first, of two women, with their children; second, of others keeping the sabbath; third, of Eleazar, ninety years old; and fourthly, of the seven brethren, with their mother. Chap. vii. W.

VER. 11. Philip, the governor of Jerusalem. Ch.—Chap. v. 22. H.—See 1 Mac. ii. 31. C.

VER. 13. Punished, lest they should become incorrigible. When God neglects to do this, his anger is most terrible. Eze. xvi. 42. C.

VER. 18. Scribes: a priest. S. Amb.—He suffered at Antioch, before the king. Chap. vii. 1. Joseph. l. 2.—The Fathers highly extol his fortitude and virtue, styling him the father of the seven brothers, and the protomartyr of the old law. C.

VER. 19. Hateful. Gr. "criminal life, and went first of his own accord to be bastinated;" τυμπανίζεσθαι. H.

VER. 20. Life. He would not eat swine's flesh to save it. H.

VER. 21. Wicked pity. Their pity was wicked, inasmuch as it suggested that wicked proposal of saving his life by dissimulation. Ch.—To feign or make outward show of consenting to a false religion, is never lawful. W.—Gr. "They were set over that wicked feast or sacrifice," σπλαγγισμῶν, (H.) in which the entrails were eaten. C.—In this sense the term is used ver. 7 and 8 by the Vulg. Here pity is preferred, as the men seemed to be actuated by it. H.—Thus generous was lawful for him to eat, that he might make as if he had eaten, as the king had commanded, of the flesh of the sacrifice :

22 That by so doing he might be delivered from death ; and for the sake of their old friendship with the man, they did him this courtesy.

23 But he began to consider the dignity of his age, and his ancient years, and the inbred honour of his grey head, and his good life and conversation from a child ; and he answered without delay, according to the ordinances of the holy law made by God, saying, that he would rather be sent into the other world.

24 For it doth not become our age, said he, to dissemble : whereby many young persons might think that Eleazar, at the age of fourscore and ten years, was gone over to the life of the heathens :

25 And so they, through my dissimulation, and for a little time of a corruptible life, should be deceived, and hereby I should bring a stain and a curse upon my old age.

26 For though, for the present time, I should be delivered from the punishments of men, yet should I not escape the hand of the Almighty neither alive nor dead.

27 Wherefore, by departing manfully out of this life, I shall show myself worthy of my old age :

28 And I shall leave an example of fortitude to young men, if with a ready mind and constancy I suffer an honourable death, for the most venerable and most holy laws. And having spoken thus, he was forthwith carried to execution.

29 And they that led him, and had been a little before more mild, were changed to wrath for the words he had spoken, which they thought were uttered out of arrogancy.

30 But when he was now ready to die with the stripes, he groaned, and said : O Lord, who hast the holy knowledge, thou knowest manifestly that whereas I might be delivered from death, I suffer grievous pains in body : but in soul am well content to suffer these things, because I fear thee.

31 Thus did the man die, leaving not only to young men, but also to the whole nation, the memory of his death, for an example of virtue and fortitude.

CHAP. VII.

The glorious martyrdom of the seven brethren and their mother.

IT came to pass also, that seven brethren, together with their mother, were apprehended, and compelled by the king to eat swine's flesh against the law, for which end they were tormented with whips and scourges.

2 But one of them, who was the eldest, said thus : What wouldest thou ask, or learn of us ? we are ready to die, rather than to transgress the laws of God, received from our fathers.

3 Then the king being angry, commanded frying-pans and brazen cauldrons to be made hot : which forthwith being heated,

4 He commanded to cut out the tongue of him that had spoken first : and the skin of his head being drawn off, to chop off also the extremities of his hands and feet, the rest of his brethren and his mother looking on.

5 And when he was now maimed in all parts, he commanded him, being yet alive, to be brought to the fire, and to be fried in the frying-pan : and while he was suffering therein long torments, the rest, together with the mother, exhorted one another to die manfully,

6 Saying : The Lord God will look upon the truth, and will take pleasure in us,^b as Moses declared in the profession of the canticle : And in his servants he will take pleasure.

7 So when the first was dead after this manner, they brought the next to make him a mocking-stock : and when they had pulled off the skin of his head with the hair, they asked him if he would eat, before he were punished throughout the whole body in every limb.

8 But he answered in his own language, and said : I will not do it. Wherefore he also, in the next place, received the torments of the first :

9 And when he was at the last gasp, he said thus : Thou indeed, O most wicked man, destroyest us out of this present life : but the King of the world will raise us up, who die for his laws, in the resurrection of eternal life.

10 After him the third was made a mocking-stock, and when he was required, he quickly put forth his tongue, and courageously stretched out his hands :

11 And said with confidence : These I have from heaven, but for the laws of God I now despise them, because I hope to receive them again from him.

12 So that the king, and they that were with him, wondered at the young man's courage, because he esteemed the torments as nothing.

13 And after he was thus dead, they tormented the fourth in the like manner.

14 And when he was now ready to die, he spoke thus. It is better, being put to death by men, to look for hope from God, to be raised up again by him ; for, as to thee, thou shalt have no resurrection unto life.

15 And when they had brought the fifth, they tormented him. But he, looking upon the king, 16 Said : Whereas thou hast power among men, though thou art corruptible, thou dost what thou wilt : but think not that our nation is forsaken by God.

^a A. M. 3857, A. C. 167.

martyr would not scandalize the weak, by doing a thing in itself lawful, which would have been deemed a prevarication. He was guided by those excellent maxims which Christ, S. Paul, and S. Saba (Mart. Ap. 12) have inculcated and practised. Matt. xviii. 7, and Rom. xiv. 14, and 1 Cor. viii. 4, 10. C.

VER. 23. The other. Lit. "hell," or the grave. H.—Under the old law the saints could not enter heaven, but at their departure were detained in limbo. W.

VER. 26. Dead. Nothing could be more express for the torments after death. As the time of the Messias drew near, these truths were more developed. Chap. vii. 9 ; Wisd. v. 16 ; Psal. i. 6. C. Grot. Matt. xii. 32.

CHAP. VII. VER. 1. Scourges, made of leather thongs ; taureis. H.—These brethren are styled Machabees ; as Judas rendered this name so famous, that all who suffered or fought valiantly for religion in those times, went by this appellation. The tombs of these martyrs were shown at Antioch. C.

VER. 6. Pleasure. Lit. "be comforted," as the Sept. translate, (H.) Deut xxxii. 36. It may imply that God will avenge or chastise his servants, and then restore them to favour. This latter-sense is here adopted. Ver. 35.

VER. 8. Language. The Jews have always been very attentive to their own language, though they be forced to learn others for the sake of commerce, and to hold conversation with those among whom they live.

VER. 9. Most wicked. The martyrs have sometimes been inspired by God to speak in harsh language to magistrates ; though their office generally commands respect. H.—Life. The resurrection is clearly specified in all these answers. The Redeemer was near at hand. C.—Christiani fuerunt . . . factis. S. Aug. Ser. i. 2

17 But stay patiently a while, and thou shalt see his great power, in what manner he will torment thee and thy seed.

18 After him they brought the sixth, and he being ready to die, spoke thus: Be not deceived without cause; for we suffer these things for ourselves, having sinned against our God, and things worthy of admiration are done to us:

19 But do not think that thou shalt escape unpunished, for that thou hast attempted to fight against God.

20 Now the mother was to be admired above measure, and worthy to be remembered by good men, who beheld her seven sons slain in the space of one day, and bore it with a good courage, for the hope that she had in God:

21 And she bravely exhorted every one of them in her own language, being filled with wisdom; and joining a man's heart to a woman's thought,

22 She said to them: I know not how you were formed in my womb; for I neither gave you breath, nor soul, nor life, neither did I frame the limbs of every one of you.

23 But the Creator of the world, that formed the nativity of man, and that found out the origin of all, he will restore to you again, in his mercy, both breath and life, as now you despise yourselves for the sake of his laws.

24 Now Antiochus, thinking himself despised, and withal despising the voice of the upbraider, when the youngest was yet alive, did not only exhort him by words, but also assured him with an oath, that he would make him a rich and a happy man, and, if he would turn from the laws of his fathers, would take him for a friend, and furnish him with things necessary.

25 But when the young man was not moved with these things, the king called the mother, and counselled her to deal with the young man to save his life.

26 And when he had exhorted her with many words, she promised that she would counsel her son.

27 So bending herself towards him, mocking the cruel tyrant, she said in her own language: My son, have pity upon me, that bore thee nine months in my womb, and gave thee suck three years, and nourished thee, and brought thee up unto this age.

28 I beseech thee, my son, look upon heaven and earth, and all that is in them, and consider that God made them out of nothing, and mankind also:

29 So thou shalt not fear this tormentor, but being made a worthy partner with thy brethren, receive death, that in that mercy I may receive thee again with thy brethren.

30 While she was yet speaking these words, the young man said: For whom do you stay? I will not obey the commandment of the king, but the commandment of the law which was given us by Moses.

31 But thou that hast been the author of all mischief against the Hebrews, shalt not escape the hand of God.

32 For we suffer thus for our sins.

33 And though the Lord, our God, is angry with us a little while, for our chastisement and correction, yet he will be reconciled again to his servants.

34 But thou, O wicked, and of all men most flagitious, be not lifted up without cause with vain hopes, whilst thou art raging against his servants.

35 For thou hast not yet escaped the judgment of the Almighty God, who beholdeth all things.

36 For my brethren having now undergone a short pain, are under the covenant of eternal life: but thou, by the judgment of God, shalt receive just punishment for thy pride.

37 But I, like my brethren, offer up my life and my body for the laws of our fathers: calling upon God to be speedily merciful to our nation, and that thou by torments and stripes mayest confess that he alone is God.

38 But in me, and in my brethren, the wrath of the Almighty, which hath justly been brought upon all our nation, shall cease.

39 Then the king being incensed with anger, raged against him more cruelly than all the rest, taking it grievously that he was mocked.

40 So this man also died undefiled, wholly trusting in the Lord.

41 And last of all, after the sons, the mother also was consumed.

42 But now there is enough said of the sacrifices, and of the excessive cruelties.

CHAP. VIII.

Judas Machabeus gathering an army, gains divers victories.

BUT ^aJudas Machabeus, and they that were with him, went privately into the towns: and calling together their kinsmen and friends, and taking unto them such as continued in the Jews' religion, they assembled six thousand men.

2 And they called upon the Lord, that he would look upon his people that was trodden down by all, and would have pity on the temple, that was defiled by the wicked:

3 That he would have pity also upon the city that was destroyed, that was ready to be made even with the ground, and would hear the voice of the blood that cried to him:

* A. M. 3838, A. C. 166.

VER. 20. Seen. The last was not yet dead: but he was before this was written, so that the mother's praise was perfect. H.

VER. 24. Despising. Lit. "despising the voice of the insulter." Gr. "fearing or perceiving that the speech was reproachful." H.—Syr. "turned aside not to near the reproaches," &c. He did not understand Hebrew; but perceiving the constancy of the young men, he thought that their mother exhorted them to refuse compliance. C.

VER. 26. Promised. A promise regards something good; so that if a person should even bind himself by oath to do evil, he must refrain, as to comply would be another sin. W.

VER. 28. Nothing, not out of pre-existent and eternal matter. S. Aug. Nat. Boni. 26. Rom. iv. 17.—So God can reduce all to nothing. Chap. viii. 18.

VER. 29. Mercy, in eternity of bliss. Ver. 23. Syr. C.

VER. 30. Life. Gr. "short labour of eternal life, are fallen under the covenant of God." H.—They enjoy that life which God promised

VER. 37. God. This was accomplished, ver. 17; chap. ix. 15.

VER. 38. Cease. The persecution was severe, but short. Judas the next year (A. 3838. C.) began to liberate the nation, (H.) by God's mercy. Chap. viii. 5. 27.

VER. 41. Consumed. Gr. "died" (H.) of joy (Sext. Bib. 5. Victoria): she placed herself amid the dead bodies, and begged of God to release her soul; which was granted. Arab. Gorion.—But most believe that she suffered martyrdom immediately after her children. Jos. &c.—The Church honoured these martyrs from the earliest ages, and before any other of the Old Testament.

VER. 42. Sacrifices. Gr. σπαγγισμους. Chap. vi. 21. H.—Read 1 Mac. ii. 1, where the wars begun by Mathathias, and prosecuted by Judas, are recorded. W.

CHAP. VIII. VER. 1. Towns. Lit. "castles." Gr. "villages." It also means a town or village; and at this time Judas chiefly dwelt in the deserts. H.—Many particulars of this war are found 1 Mac. iii. C.

VER. 2. Lord. Prayer is particularly requisite before battle. W.

4 That he would remember also the most unjust deaths of innocent children, and the blasphemies offered to his name, and would show his indignation on this occasion.

5 Now when Machabeus had gathered a multitude, he could not be withstood by the heathens: for the wrath of the Lord was turned into mercy.

6 So coming unawares upon the towns and cities, he set them on fire, and taking possession of the most commodious places, he made no small slaughter of the enemies:

7 And especially in the nights he went upon these expeditions, and the fame of his valour was spread abroad every where.

8 Then Philip seeing that the man gained ground by little and little, and that things for the most part succeeded prosperously with him, wrote to Ptolemee, the governor of Ceesyria and Phenicia, to send aid to the king's affairs.

9 And he with all speed sent Nicanor, the son of Patroclus, one of his special friends, giving him no fewer than twenty thousand armed men of different nations, to root out the whole race of the Jews, joining also with him Gorgias, a good soldier, and of great experience in matters of war.

10 And Nicanor purposed to raise for the king the tribute of two thousand talents, that was to be given to the Romans, by making so much money of the captive Jews:

11 Wherefore he sent immediately to the cities upon the sea coast, to invite men together to buy up the Jewish slaves, promising that they should have ninety slaves for one talent, not reflecting on the vengeance which was to follow him from the Almighty.

12 Now when Judas found that Nicanor was coming, he imparted to the Jews that were with him, that the enemy was at hand.

13 And some of them being afraid, and distrusting the justice of God, fled away:

14 Others sold all that they had left, and withal besought the Lord, that he would deliver them from the wicked Nicanor, who had sold them before he came near them:

15 And if not for their sakes, yet for the covenant that he had made with their fathers, and for the sake of his holy and glorious name that was invoked upon them.

16 But Machabeus, calling together seven thousand that were with him, exhorted them not to be reconciled to the enemies, nor to fear the multitude of the enemies who came wrongfully against them, but to fight manfully:

17 Setting before their eyes the injury they had unjustly done the holy place, and also the injury they had done to the city, which had been shamefully abused, besides their destroying the ordinances of the fathers.

18 For, said he, they trust in their weapons, and in their boldness: but we trust in the Almighty Lord, who at a beck can utterly destroy both them that come against us, and the whole world.

19 Moreover, he put them in mind also of the helps their fathers had received from God:^b and how, under Sennacherib, a hundred and eighty-five thousand had been destroyed.

20 And of the battle that they had fought against the Galatians, in Babylonia; how they, being in all but six thousand, when it came to the point, and the Macedonians, their companions, were at a stand, slew a hundred and twenty thousand, because of the help they had from heaven, and for this they received many favours.

21 With these words they were greatly encouraged, and disposed even to die for the laws of their country.

22 So he appointed his brethren captains over each division of his army; Simon, and Joseph, and Jonathan, giving to each one fifteen hundred men.

23 And after the holy book had been read to them by Esdras, and he had given them for a watch-word, The help of God: himself leading the first band, he joined battle with Nicanor:

24 And the Almighty being their helper, they slew above nine thousand men: and having wounded and disabled the greater part of Nicanor's army, they obliged them to fly.

25 And they took the money of them that came to buy them, and they pursued them on every side.

26 But they came back for want of time: for it was the day before the sabbath: and therefore they did not continue the pursuit.

27 But when they had gathered together their arms and their spoils, they kept the sabbath: blessing the Lord who had delivered them that day, distilling the beginning of mercy upon them.

28 Then after the sabbath they divided the spoils to the feeble and the orphans, and the widows: and the rest they took for themselves and their servants.

29 When this was done, and they had all made a com-

^a A. M. 3839.

^b 4 Kings xix. 35; Tob. i. 21; Eccl. xlviii. 24; Isa. xxxvii. 36; 1 Mac. vii. 41.

VER. 8. Philip seeing, &c. The governor of Jerusalem found himself unable to contend with Judas, especially after the victories he had obtained over Apollonius and Seron. 1 Mac. iii. Ch.

VER. 9. Twenty thousand. The whole number of the forces sent at that time into Judea, was forty thousand footmen and seven thousand horsemen (1 Mac. iii. 30); but only twenty thousand are here taken notice of, because there were no more with Nicanor at the time of the battle. Ch.

VER. 10. Talents. So much the king was in arrear, owing to his prodigality. For which reason he was gone beyond the Euphrates to raise money. His father had to pay the Romans 15,000 talents in twelve years.

VER. 13. Justice. Gr. δικην, "vengeance" (H.) against the enemies. C.

VER. 16. Seven thousand. In the Greek it is six thousand. But then three thousand of them had no arms. 1 Mac. iv. 6. Ch.—Reconciled. Gr. "conciliated at," &c. H.

VER. 20. Galatians. That is, the Gauls, who having ravaged Italy and Greece, poured themselves in upon Asia in immense multitudes, where also they founded the kingdom of Galatia, or Gallo-Græcia. Ch.—This battle is no where else recorded in Scripture. But it seems to allude to the aid given to Soter by the Jews, (W.) when he repulsed the Galatians. Appian.—Six. Gr. "eight thousand." —When. Gr. "with four thousand Macedonians; when the Macedonians being at a stand, the six thousand (Grabe substitutes eight thousand) slew twelve myriads," &c. H.—Historians have not specified this irruption, as it had no further consequences.

VER. 23. Esdras. Gr. and Syr. "Eleazar;" probably the brother of Judas. Grotius thinks that the latter read the account of the death of Eleazar, which must be understood of the martyr, (chap. v.) as the brother of Judas was slain under Eupator.—Help. So he specifies the victory of God. Chap. xiii. 15. C.

VER. 24. Above nine thousand, viz. including the three thousand slain in the pursuit. Ch.—Three thousand fell on the field of battle. 1 Mac. iv. 15.

VER. 28. Widows. Judas follows the spirit rather than the letter of the law. Num. xxxi. 27; Deut. xiv. 29 mon supplication, they besought the merciful Lord, to be reconciled to his servants unto the end.

30 Moreover, they slew above twenty thousand of them that were with Timotheus and Bacchides, who fought against them, and they made themselves masters of the high strong holds: and they divided amongst them many spoils, giving equal portions to the feeble, the fatherless, and the widows; yea, and the aged also.

31 And when they had carefully gathered together their arms, they laid them all up in convenient places, and the residue of their spoils they carried to Jerusalem:

32 They slew also Philarches, who was with Timotheus, a wicked man, who had many ways afflicted the Jews.

33 And when they kept the feast of the victory at Jerusalem, they burnt Callisthenes, that had set fire to the holy gates, who had taken refuge in a certain house, rendering to him a worthy reward for his impieties:

34 But as for that most wicked man, Nicanor, who had brought a thousand merchants to the sale of the Jews,

35 Being, through the help of the Lord, brought down by them, of whom he had made no account, laying aside his apparel of glory, fleeing through the midland country, he came alone to Antioch, being rendered very unhappy by the destruction of his army.

36 And he that had promised to levy the tribute for the Romans, by the means of the captives of Jerusalem, now professed that the Jews had God for their protector, and therefore they could not be hurt, because they followed the laws appointed by him.

CHAP. IX.

The wretched end, and fruitless repentance of king Antiochus.

AT that time Antiochus returned with dishonour out of Persia.

2 For he had entered into the city called Persepolis, and attempted to rob the temple, and to oppress the city: but the multitude running together to arms, put them to flight: and so it fell out that Antiochus being put to flight, returned with disgrace.

3 Now when he was come about Ecbatana, he received the news of what had happened to Nicanor and Timotheus.

4 And swelling with anger, he thought to revenge upon the Jews the injury done by them that had put him to flight. And therefore he commanded his chariot to be driven, without stopping in his journey, the judgment of heaven urging him forward, because he had spoken so proudly, that he would come to Jerusalem, and make it a common burying-place of the Jews.

5 But the Lord, the God of Israel, that seeth all things, struck him with an incurable and an invisible plague. For as soon as he had ended these words, a dreadful pain in his bowels came upon him, and bitter torments of the inner parts.

6 And indeed very justly, seeing he had tormented the bowels of others with many and new torments, albeit he by no means ceased from his malice.

7 Moreover, being filled with pride, breathing out fire in his rage against the Jews, and commanding the matter to be hastened, it happened as he was going with violence, that he fell from the chariot, so that his limbs were much pained by a grievous bruising of the body.

8 Thus he that seemed to himself to command even the waves of the sea, being proud above the condition of man, and to weigh the heights of the mountains in a balance, now being cast down to the ground, was carried in a litter, bearing witness to the manifest power of God in himself:

9 So that worms swarmed out of the body of this man, and whilst he lived in sorrow and pain, his flesh fell off, and the filthiness of his smell was noisome to the army.

10 And the man that thought a little before he could reach to the stars of heaven, no man could endure to carry, for the intolerable stench.

11 And by this means, being brought from his great pride, he began to come to the knowledge of himself, being admonished by the scourge of God, his pains increasing every moment.

12 And when he himself could not now abide his own stench, he spoke thus: It is just to be subject to God, and that a mortal man should not equal himself to God.

13 Then this wicked man prayed to the Lord, of whom he was not like to obtain mercy.

14 And the city, to which he was going in haste to lay it even with the ground, and to make it a common burying-place, he now desireth to make free:

15 And the Jews, whom he said he would not account worthy to be so much as buried, but would give them up to be devoured by the birds and wild beasts, and would utterly destroy them with their children, he now promiseth to make equal with the Athenians.

16 The holy temple also, which before he had spoiled, he promised to adorn with goodly gifts, and to multiply the holy vessels, and to allow out of his revenues the charges pertaining to the sacrifices.

17 Yea also, that he would become a Jew himself, and

* 2 Par. xvi. 9.

VER. 30. Timotheus. Chap. x. 24. The particulars of this war are not given. It seems to have taken place after the temple was purified. Ver. 31. We must distinguish this first war from another mentioned chap. x. 24, and 1 Mac. v. 5. Judas defeated another Timotheus beyond the Jordan. Chap. xii. 10, and 1 Mac. v. 11, 34, 37.

VER. 35. Apparel, as a general. C.—Fleeing. Gr. "like a fugitive, having rendered himself destitute, he came through the midland country to Antioch, above all being fortunate himself in," &c. H.

CHAP. IX. VER. 1. At. Read 1 Mac. iv. 28. W.—Time, A. 3840. The motives and ill success of this journey are given 1 Mac. iii. 31, and vi. 1. C.

VER. 2. Persepolis; otherwise called Elymais, (Ch.) a chief (W.) "city of Persia." Hence Elymais may be called Persepolis. H.

VER. 3. Ecbatana, capital of Media. C. See chap. i. 16. H.

VER. 8. Man. He seems to have claimed Divine honours, ver. 12; chap. v. 21 and ix. 8; Dan. xi. 36. Arab. C.

VER. 13. Not like. Because his repentance was not for the offence committed against God, but barely on account of his present sufferings. Ch.—For these he really grieved. 1 Mac. vi. 11. Yet was not sorry for the offence against God and men. So the damned acknowledge that their punishments are inflicted on account of their sins, yet have not true repentance. W.—In like manner Esau repented for the loss of his birthright. Heb. xii. 17. M.

VER. 15. Athenians. This seems to have been put for Antiochians, chap. iv. 9, in Greek; which name would suit better here, as Epiphanes had no power over Athens. Grot. C.—Yet it was highly privileged (H.) above all the cities of Greece. M.—Jason had obtained for the citizens of Jerusalem to be called Antiochians. Chap. vi. 1. But this grant had been revoked, or not carried into effect since the late troubles. C.

VER. 16. Sacrifices, as Darius, Philoactor, and afterwards (1) Mac. x. 39. Nicator did. 1 Esd. vi. 9. C.

would go through every place of the earth, and declare the power of God.

18 But his pains not ceasing, (for the just judgment of God was come upon him,) despairing of life, he wrote to the Jews, in the manner of a supplication, a letter in these words:

19 To HIS VERY GOOD SUBJECTS, the Jews, Antiochus, king and ruler, wisheth much health, and welfare, and happiness.

20 If you and your children are well, and if all matters go with you to your mind, we give very great thanks.

21 As for me, being infirm, but yet kindly remembering you, returning out of the places of Persia, and being taken with a grievous disease, I thought it necessary to take care for the common good:

22 Not distrusting my life, but having great hope to escape the sickness.

23 But considering that my father also, at what time he led an army into the higher countries, appointed who should reign after him:

24 To the end that if any thing contrary to expectation should fall out, or any bad tidings should be brought, they that were in the countries, knowing to whom the whole government was left, might not be troubled.

25 Moreover, considering that neighbouring princes, and borderers, wait for opportunities, and expect what shall be the event, I have appointed my son, Antiochus, king, whom I often recommended to many of you, when I went into the higher provinces: and I have written to him what I have joined here below.

26 I pray you, therefore, and request of you, that, remembering favours both public and private, you will every man of you continue to be faithful to me and to my son.

27 For I trust that he will behave with moderation and humanity, and following my intentions, will be gracious unto you.

28 Thus the murderer and blasphemer being grievously struck, as himself had treated others, died a miserable death in a strange country, among the mountains.

29 But Philip, that was brought up with him, carried away his body: and out of fear of the son of Antiochus, went into Egypt to Ptolemee Philometor.

CHAP. X.

The purification of the temple and city. Other exploits of Judas. His victory over Timotheus.

a A. M. 3317, A. C. 187.—b A. M. 3839.

VER. 19. SUBJECTS. Lit. "citizens." H.

VER. 23. Father: Antiochus the Great. The Persian monarchs generally took this precaution.—Countries. So profane authors style the provinces beyond the Euphrates.

VER. 25. Antiochus Eupator, nine years old.—Below. This is lost.

VER. 28. Mountains, at Tabes, (Polyb.,) in Patacene. Curt. v.—Historians relate that he lost his senses, (δαμονησας,) being terrified by a demon, on account of his criminal attempt against the temple of Diana. Polyb. excerpt. Vales. S. Jer.—This was a real crime in him, as he took the idol for a deity. But his conduct towards the temple and nation of the Jews would probably weigh heavier upon his conscience. C.

VER. 29. That was. Syr. "son of his nurse," appointed regent.—Philometor. Read 1 Mac. vi. 17. W.

CHAP. X. VER. 1. City. He had done both before the death of Epiphanes, (C) after the fourth battle against Lysias. 1 Mac. iv. W.

VER. 2. Altars. Such were erected before the houses. 1 Mac. i. 50; Jer. xi. 13.

BUT Machabeus, and they that were with him, by the protection of the Lord, recovered the temple and the city again.

2 But he threw down the altars, which the heathens had set up in the streets, as also the temples of the idols.

3 And having purified the temple, they made another altar: and taking fire out of the fiery stones, they offered sacrifices after two years, and set forth incense, and lamps, and the loaves of proposition.

4 And when they had done these things, they besought the Lord, lying prostrate on the ground, that they might no more fall into such evils; but if they should at any time sin, that they might be chastised by him more gently, and not be delivered up to barbarians and blasphemous men.

5 Now upon the same day that the temple had been polluted by the strangers, on the very same day it was cleansed again; to wit, on the five and twentieth day of the month of Casleu.

6 And they kept eight days with joy, after the manner of the feast of the tabernacles, remembering that not long before they had kept the feast of the tabernacles, when they were in the mountains, and in dens like wild beasts.

7 Therefore they now carried boughs, and green branches, and palms, for him that had given them good success in cleansing his place.

8 And they ordained by a common statute, and decree, that all the nation of the Jews should keep those days every year.

9 And this was the end of Antiochus, that was called the Illustrious.

10 But now we will repeat the acts of Eupator, the son of that wicked Antiochus, abridging the account of the evils that happened in the wars.

11 For when he was come to the crown, he appointed over the affairs of his realm one Lysias, general of the army of Phenicia and Syria.

12 For Ptolemee, that was called Macer, was determined to be strictly just to the Jews, and especially by reason of the wrong that had been done them, and to deal peaceably with them.

13 But being accused for this to Eupator by his friends, and being oftentimes called traitor, because he had left Cyprus, which Philometor had committed to him, and coming over to Antiochus the Illustrious, had revolted also from him, he put an end to his life by poison.

* A. M. 3840, A. C. 164.

VER. 3. Stones; "heated," (Gr., Syr., Serar.,) or by miracle, (Arab. Gorion. T.) or striking fire with a flint upon tinder. In this manner the Church still renews fire on Holy Saturday. The Jews could not use profane fire in the temple. Lev. x. 1. God restored the sacred fire by miracle. Chap. i. 18, &c.—Two, dating from the administration of Judas, and three since the temple was defiled. Usher, A. 3840.

VER. 6. Manner, with the like ceremonies and solemnity. C.—Green branches might be procured in November and December, as those months in Palestine are as fine as our spring. Roger.

VER. 7. Green. Gr. "beautiful;" probably the orange tree. Lev. xxiii. 40. See Diss. on mandrakes. C. H.

VER. 8. Days. Beza allows that Christ complied. John x. It is wonderful, then that Prot. should reject this book.

VER. 9. Illustrious. Go to 1 Mac. v. 1. W.

VER. 12. Macer, "lean." Gr. makros, "tall." See chap. iv. 45, and viii. 8. Polybius styles him "a prudent and active man." C.

14 But Gorgias, who was governor of the holds, taking with him the strangers, often fought against the Jews.

15 And the Jews that occupied the most commodious hold, received those that were driven out of Jerusalem, and attempted to make war.

16 Then they that were with Machabeus, beseeching the Lord by prayers to be their helper, made a strong attack upon the strong holds of the Idumeans:

17 And assaulting them with great force, won the holds, killed them that came in the way, and slew altogether no fewer than twenty thousand.

18 And whereas some were fled into very strong towers, having all manner of provision to sustain a siege,

19 Machabeus left Simon and Joseph, and Zacheus, and them that were with them, in sufficient number to besiege them, and departed to those expeditions which urged more.

20 Now they that were with Simon, being led with covetousness, were persuaded for the sake of money by some that were in the towers: and taking seventy thousand didrachmas, let some of them escape.

21 But when it was told Machabeus what was done, he assembled the rulers of the people, and accused those men that they had sold their brethren for money, having let their adversaries escape.

22 So he put these traitors to death, and forthwith took the two towers.

23 And having good success in arms, and all things he took in hand, he slew more than twenty thousand in the two holds.

24 But Timotheus, who before had been overcome by the Jews, having called together a multitude of foreign troops, and assembled horsemen out of Asia, came as though he would take Judea by force of arms.

25 But Machabeus, and they that were with him, when he drew near, prayed to the Lord, sprinkling earth upon their heads, and girding their loins with haircloth, 26 And lying prostrate at the foot of the altar, besought him to be merciful to them, and to be an enemy to their enemies, and an adversary to their adversaries, as the law saith.

27 And so after prayer taking their arms, they went forth further from the city, and when they were come very near the enemies they rested.

28 But as soon as the sun was risen both sides joined battle: the one part having, with their valour, the Lord for a surety of victory, and success: but the other side making their rage their leader in battle.

29 But when they were in the heat of the engagement, a 1 Mac. v. 6.

VER. 13. Revolted. So they interpreted (H.) his disapprobation of the cruelties exercised upon the Jews. C.

VER. 14. Gorgias, who had been defeated. 1 Mac. iv. W.—Fought. Gr. "prolonged the war." Grot.

VER. 15. The Jews, &c. He speaks of them that had fallen from their religion, and were enemies of their country, who joining with the Idumeans or Edomites, kept possession of the strong holds, and from thence annoyed their countrymen. Ch.

VER. 24. Timotheus, who had been defeated (1 Mac. viii. 30. W.) soon after Nicaeor.

VER. 26. Altar, between it and the porch. Joel ii. 17.—Law. Exod. xxiii. 22; Lev. xxvi. 7; Deut. vii. 15. C.

VER. 32. Gazara, different from Gaza, which is so called elsewhere. M.—

there appeared to the enemies from heaven five men upon horses, comely, with golden bridles, conducting the Jews:

30 Two of whom took Machabeus between them, and covered him on every side with their arms, and kept him safe; but cast darts and fire-balls against the enemy, so that they fell down, being both confounded with blindness, and filled with trouble.

31 And there were slain twenty thousand five hundred, and six hundred horsemen.

32 But Timotheus fled into Gazara, a strong hold, where Chereas was governor.

33 Then Machabeus, and they that were with him, cheerfully laid siege to the fortress four days.

34 But they that were within, trusting to the strength of the place, blasphemed exceedingly, and cast forth abominable words.

35 But when the fifth day appeared, twenty young men of them that were with Machabeus, inflamed in their minds because of the blasphemy, approached manfully to the wall, and pushing forward with fierce courage, got up upon it:

36 Moreover, others also getting up after them, went to set fire to the towers and the gates, and to burn the blasphemers alive.

37 And having for two days together pillaged and sacked the fortress, they killed Timotheus, who was found hid in a certain place: they slew also his brother, Chereas, and Apollophanes.

38 And when this was done, they blessed the Lord with hymns and thanksgiving, who had done great things in Israel, and given them the victory.

CHAP. XI.

Lysias is overthrown by Judas. He sues for peace.

A SHORT time after this^b Lysias, the king's lieutenant, and cousin, and who had chief charge over all the affairs, being greatly displeased with what had happened,

2 Gathered together fourscore thousand men, and all the horsemen, and came against the Jews, thinking to take the city, and make it a habitation of the Gentiles:

3 And to make a gain of the temple, as of the other temples of the Gentiles, and to set the high priesthood to sale every year:

4 Never considering the power of God, but puffed up in mind, and trusting in the multitude of his foot soldiers, and the thousands of his horsemen, and his fourscore elephants.

5 So he came into Judea, and approaching to Bethsura, which was in a narrow place, the space of five furlongs from Jerusalem, he laid siege to that fortress.

b A. M. 3841, A. C. 163

This Gazara was a fortress against the inroads of the Idumeans.—Chereas, brother of Timotheus. C.

VER. 35. Men. Gorionides (iii. 13) says they were Assideans, mentioned before, 1 Mac. ii. 42, and vii. 13. W.—Got. Gr. "slew every one they met." H.

CHAP. XI. VER. 1. Cousin. He was of the blood royal and governor, (ver. 22, and 1 Mac. xi. 18,) having supplanted Philip. C.—Lysias had been vanquished already. 1 Mac. iv. 28. W. C.

VER. 3. Temple, as of a farm, by selling offices and requiring money of those who offered victims. 1 Mac. x. 42. C.

VER. 5. Narrow. Gr. "secure." Prot. "strong town."

VER. 6. Angel. Knowing that the patriarchs and Moses had often received such aid, the Machabees prayed that their good cause might be espoused by the angels: and their request was granted, though they were forced to co-operate.

6 But when Machabeus, and they that were with him, understood that the strong holds were besieged, they and all the people besought the Lord with lamentations and tears, that he would send a good angel to save Israel.

7 Then Machabeus himself first taking his arms, exhorted the rest to expose themselves together with him, to the danger, and to succour their brethren.

8 And when they were going forth together with a willing mind, there appeared at Jerusalem a horseman going before them in white clothing, with golden armour, shaking a spear.

9 Then they all together blessed the merciful Lord, and took great courage: being ready to break through not only men, but also the fiercest beasts, and walls of iron.

10 So they went on courageously, having a helper from heaven, and the Lord, who showed mercy to them.

11 And rushing violently upon the enemy, like lions, they slew of them eleven thousand footmen, and one thousand six hundred horsemen:

12 And put all the rest to flight; and many of them being wounded, escaped naked: Yea, and Lysias himself fled away shamefully, and escaped.

13 And as he was a man of understanding, considering with himself the loss he had suffered, and perceiving that the Hebrews could not be overcome, because they relied upon the help of the Almighty God, he sent to them:

14 And promised that he would agree to all things that are just, and that he would persuade the king to be their friend.

15 Then Machabeus consented to the request of Lysias, providing for the common good in all things; and whatsoever Machabeus wrote to Lysias, concerning the Jews, the king allowed of.

16 For there were letters written to the Jews from Lysias, to this effect: LYSIAS to the people of the Jews, greeting.

17 John, and Abesalom, who were sent from you, delivering your writings, requested that I would accomplish those things which were signified by them.

18 Therefore whatsoever things could be reported to the king, I have represented to him: and he hath granted as much as the matter permitted.

19 If, therefore, you will keep yourselves loyal in affairs, hereafter also I will endeavour to be a means of your good.

20 But as concerning other particulars, I have given orders by word both to these, and to them that are sent by me, to commune with you.

21 Fare ye well. In the year one hundred and forty-eight, the four and twentieth day of the month of Dioscorus.

22 But the king's letter contained these words: KING Antiochus to Lysias, his brother, greeting.

23 Our father being translated amongst the gods, we are desirous that they that are in our realm should live quietly, and apply themselves diligently to their own concerns.

24 And we have heard that the Jews would not consent to my father to turn to the rites of the Greeks, but that they would keep to their own manner of living, and therefore that they request us to allow them to live after their own laws.

25 Wherefore being desirous that this nation also should be at rest, we have ordained and decreed, that the temple should be restored to them, and that they may live according to the custom of their ancestors.

26 Thou shalt do well, therefore, to send to them, and grant them peace, that our pleasure being known, they may be of good comfort, and look to their own affairs.

27 But the king's letter to the Jews was in this manner: KING Antiochus to the senate of the Jews, and to the rest of the Jews, greeting.

28 If you are well, you are as we desire: we ourselves also are well.

29 Menelaus came to us, saying that you desired to come down to your countrymen, that are with us.

30 We grant, therefore, a safe conduct to all that come and go, until the thirtieth day of the month of Xanthicus,

31 That the Jews may use their own kind of meats, and their own laws, as before: and that none of them any manner of ways be molested for things which have been done by ignorance.

32 And we have sent also Menelaus to speak to you.

33 Fare ye well. In the year one hundred and forty eight, the fifteenth day of the month of Xanthicus.

34 The Romans also sent them a letter, to this effect: QUINTUS Memmius, and TITUS Manilius, ambassadors of the Romans, to the people of the Jews, greeting.

35 Whatsoever Lysias, the king's cousin, hath granted to you, we also have granted.

36 But touching such things as he thought should be referred to the king, after you have diligently conferred among yourselves, send some one forthwith, that we may decree as it is convenient for you: for we are going to Antioch.

37 And therefore make haste to write back, that we may know of what mind you are.

38 Fare ye well. In the year one hundred and forty eight, the fifteenth day of the month of Xanthicus.

^a A. M. 3841.

^b A. M. 3841.

Sometimes God gave victory without the interference of men. Exod. xiv., and 4 Kings xix. W.

VER. 8. Horseman, in appearance, but really (H.) an angel, as five came before. Chap. x. 29.

VER. 17. Delivering (Syr.); but Gr. has, "seeing the oracle subscribed, (or underwritten,) made a petition concerning the things declared in it." H.

VER. 21. In the year one hundred and forty-eight; viz. according to the computation of the Greeks, which was different from that of the Hebrews, followed by the writer of the First Book of Machabees. However by this date, as well as by other circumstances, it appears that the expedition of Lysias, mentioned in this chapter, is different from that recorded 1 Mac. vi. 16. Ch.

VER. 22. Brother. So he is styled for honour. Ver. 35. W

VER. 23. Gods. This impious custom began in the East, and was abolished by Christianity. C.

VER. 25. Restored. It was already occupied by the Jews, but they were much disturbed by the garrison. Now their rights are admitted.

VER. 29. Menelaus. He was at Antioch, and was reputed high priest, being established by the king. But the Jews would not receive him, having chosen Judas. C.

VER. 31. Ignorance. He excuses them, and grants an amnesty. 1 Mac. xiii. 39. C.

VER. 34. Romans. Others were sent soon after to burn the ships and maim the elephants, which Eupator had more than had been agreed upon. Usher, A 3841.

CHAP. XII.

The Jews are still molested by their neighbours. Judas gains divers victories over them. He orders sacrifice and prayers for the dead.

WHEN these covenants were made, Lysias went to the king, and the Jews gave themselves to husbandry.

2 But they that were behind, viz. Timotheus, and Apollonius, the son of Genneus, also Hieronymus, and Demophon, and besides them Nicanor, the governor of Cyprus, would not suffer them to live in peace, and to be quiet.

3 The men of Joppe also were guilty of this kind of wickedness: they desired the Jews, who dwelt among them, to go with their wives and children into the boats, which they had prepared, as though they had no enmity to them.

4 Which when they had consented to, according to the common decree of the city, suspecting nothing, because of the peace: when they were gone forth into the deep, they drowned no fewer than two hundred of them.

5 But as soon as Judas heard of this cruelty done to his countrymen, he commanded the men that were with him: and after having called upon God, the just Judge,

6 He came against those murderers of his brethren, and set the haven on fire in the night, burnt the boats, and slew with the sword them that escaped from the fire.

7 And when he had done these things in this manner, he departed as if he would return again, and root out all the Joppites.

8 But when he understood that the men of Jamnia also designed to do in like manner to the Jews that dwelt among them,

9 He came upon the Jamnites also by night, and set the haven on fire, with the ships, so that the light of the fire was seen at Jerusalem, two hundred and forty furlongs off.

10 And when they were now gone from thence nine furlongs, and were marching towards Timotheus, five thousand footmen, and five hundred horsemen of the Arabians, set upon them.

11 And after a hard fight, in which, by the help of God, they got the victory, the rest of the Arabians being overcome, besought Judas for peace, promising to give him pastures, and to assist him in other things.

12 And Judas thinking that they might be profitable indeed in many things, promised them peace, and after having joined hands, they departed to their tents.

13 He also laid siege to a certain strong city, encompassed with bridges and walls, and inhabited by multitudes of different nations, the name of which is Casphin.

14 But they that were within it, trusting in the strength of the walls, and the provision of victuals, behaved in a more negligent manner, and provoked Judas with railing and blaspheming, and uttering such words as were not to be spoken.

15 But Machabeus calling upon the great Lord of the world, who without any rams or engines of war threw down the walls of Jericho, in the time of Josue, fiercely assaulted the walls.

16 And having taken the city by the will of the Lord, he made an unspeakable slaughter, so that a pool adjoining, of two furlongs broad, seemed to run with the blood of the slain.

17 From thence they departed seven hundred and fifty furlongs, and came to Characa, to the Jews that are called Tubianites.

18 But as for Timotheus, they found him not in those places, for before he had despatched any thing he went back, having left a very strong garrison in a certain hold:

19 But Dositheus, and Sosipater, who were captains with Machabeus, slew them that were left by Timotheus in the hold, to the number of ten thousand men.

20 And Machabeus having set in order about him six thousand men, and divided them by bands, went forth against Timotheus, who had with him a hundred and twenty thousand footmen, and two thousand five hundred horsemen.

21 Now when Timotheus had knowledge of the coming of Judas, he sent the women and children, and the other baggage, before him into a fortress, called Carnion: for it was impregnable, and hard to come at, by reason of the straitness of the places.

22 But when the first band of Judas came in sight, the enemies were struck with fear, by the presence of God, who seeth all things, and they were put to flight one from another, so that they were often thrown down by their own companions, and wounded with the strokes of their own swords.

23 But Judas was vehemently earnest in punishing the profane, of whom he slew thirty thousand men.

24 And Timotheus himself fell into the hands of the band of Dositheus and Sosipater, and with many prayers he besought them to let him go with his life, because he had the parents and brethren of many of the Jews, who, by his death, might happen to be deceived.

25 And when he had given him faith that he would restore them according to the agreement, they let him go without hurt, for the saving of their brethren.

26 Then Judas went away to Carnion, where he slew five and twenty thousand persons.

27 And after he had put to flight and destroyed these, he removed his army to Ephron, a strong city, wherein there dwelt a multitude of divers nations: and stout young men standing upon the walls, made a vigorous resistance: and in this place there were many engines of war, and a provision of darts.

* A. M. 3841, A. C. 165.

b Jos. vi. 20.—c A. M. 3841, A. C. 163.

CHAP. XII. VER. 2. Timotheus and Apollonius. Others of the same name were slain before. Chap. x. 37, and 1 Mac. iii. 11. W. C.

VER. 9. Off, or ten leagues. Jerusalem was on elevated ground. C.—A furlong is about the eighth part of a mile, (others say the fifth, or a thousand feet,) so that the fire was seen at the distance of thirty or forty-eight miles. W.

VER. 11. Rest. Gr. "the Nomades," (H.) who dwelt in tents, and lived on plunder, (Strabo, 16,) like Israel. Gen. xvi. 12.

VER. 13. Casphin; Chasbon, or Hesebon. 1 Mac. v. 26; Num. xxi. 25. It was famous for its waters.

VER. 17. Characa, or Carcar. Judg. viii. 10, and xi. 3. C.

VER. 18. Thing. The Jews had retired to Characa or Dathema, so that he ravaged the country and left garrisons, which were cut in pieces.

VER. 24. Deceived. Gr. "if they slew him, would not be regarded." (H.) but slain without mercy. C.

28 But when they had invocated the Almighty, who with his power breaketh the strength of the enemies, they took the city: and slew five and twenty thousand of them that were within.

29 From thence they departed to Scythopolis, which lieth six hundred furlongs from Jerusalem.

30 But the Jews that were among the Scythopolitans testifying that they were used kindly by them, and that even in the times of their adversity they had treated them with humanity:

31 They gave them thanks, exhorting them to be still friendly to their nation, and so they came to Jerusalem, the feast of the weeks being at hand.

32 And after Pentecost they marched against Gorgias, the governor of Idumea.

33 And he came out with three thousand footmen, and four hundred horsemen.

34 And when they had joined battle, it happened that a few of the Jews were slain.

35 But Dositheus, a horseman, one of Bacenor's band, a valiant man, took hold of Gorgias: and when he would have taken him alive, a certain horseman of the Thracians came upon him, and cut off his shoulder: and so Gorgias escaped to Maresa.

36 But when they that were with Esdrin had fought long, and were weary, Judas called upon the Lord to be their helper, and leader of the battle:

37 Then beginning in his own language, and singing hymns with a loud voice, he put Gorgias's soldiers to flight.

38 So Judas having gathered together his army, came into the city Odollam: and when the seventh day came, they purified themselves according to the custom, and kept the sabbath in the same place.

39 And the day following Judas came with his company, to take away the bodies of them that were slain, and to bury them with their kinsmen, in the sepulchres of their fathers.

* Deut. vii. 25.

VER. 26. Carnion. Gr. adds, "and the temple of Astergata," (H.) the idol Astarte, or deereeto of the Philistines.

VER. 29. Scythopolis. Formerly called Bethsan, (Ch.) near the lake of Tiberias.

VER. 32. Gorgias, who had been twice defeated. Chap. x. 14, and 1 Mac. iv. 1. W.

VER. 35. Maresa. Syr. "Samaria," as the Vulg. has, 1 Mac. v. 66.

VER. 39. Following, on Saturday evening, or on Sunday.—Fathers, with those of the same nation.

VER. 40. Of the donaries, &c. That is, of the votive offerings, which had been hung up in the temples of the idols, which they had taken away when they burnt the port of Jamnia, (ver. 9,) contrary to the prohibition of the law. Deut. vii. 25. Ch.—Perhaps the soldiers intended to bring them to Judas. He excused them charitably, and hoped that their temporal chastisement might have served to expiate their fault.

VER. 42. Forgotten. Syr. "imperfect." Gr. "effaced." C.—Some copies, "that they might not, on account of the sin committed, be entirely blotted out." Ald. Usher.—They were convinced that some sins might be forgiven in the other world, particularly when the living interceded. C.—The Jews began to pray for the dead after the captivity, (Grot.) when the prophets had more clearly explained what took place after death. C.—Yet the doctrine and practice might still be as ancient as the world. H.—If it had not prevailed before, Judas would never have entertained such sentiments. W.—The Jews admit a sort of purgatory for "the prevaricators of Israel," which differs from hell only in duration. Purgatory is for venial sins. This doctrine is proved beyond reply by various controvertists. C.

VER. 43. Twelve. Gr. "two." Syr. "three." S. Prosper. reads "12,000 talents." Sacrifices for the dead were not enjoined, but the practice was then established, and this author takes every opportunity of proving the resurrection against the Sadducees, who then began to appear. The Church of Christ has 40 And they found under the coats of the slain, some of the donaries of the idols of Jamnia, *which the law forbiddeth to the Jews: so that all plainly saw, that for this cause they were slain.

41 Then they all blessed the just judgment of the Lord, who had discovered the things that were hidden.

42 And so betaking themselves to prayers, they besought him, that the sin which had been committed might be forgotten. But the most valiant Judas exhorted the people to keep themselves from sin, forasmuch as they saw before their eyes what had happened, because of the sins of those that were slain.

43 And making a gathering, he sent twelve thousand drachms of silver to Jerusalem for sacrifice to be offered for the sins of the dead, thinking well and religiously concerning the resurrection.

44 (For if he had not hoped that they that were slain should rise again, it would have seemed superfluous and vain to pray for the dead.)

45 And because he considered that they who had fallen asleep with godliness, had great grace laid up for them.

46 It is therefore a holy and wholesome thought to pray for the dead, that they may be loosed from sins

CHAP. XIII.

Antiochus and Lysias again invade Judea. Menelaus is put to death. The king's great army is worsted twice. The peace is renewed.

IN the year one hundred and forty-nine, Judas understood that Antiochus Eupator was coming with a multitude against Judea,

2 And with him Lysias, the regent, who had charge over the affairs of the realm, having with him a hundred and ten thousand footmen, five thousand horsemen, twenty-two elephants, and three hundred chariots armed with hooks.

3 Menelaus also joined himself with them: and with great deceitfulness besought Antiochus, not for the welfare of his country, but in hopes that he should be appointed chief ruler.

b A. M. 3841, A. C. 163.

adopted the same practice. See Bellarm., Serar., &c. Our adversaries confess that such was the opinion of the Jews, and of ancient doctors of the Church. But they declare it superstitious, and deny the authority of these books, which has been sufficiently established. Could such holy personages authorize superstition? Would Christ and his apostles have tolerated it? S. Paul prayed for Onesiphorus after his decease. 2 Tim. i. 16. See Matt. xii. 33; Luke xvi. 9, and 1 Cor. iii. 13, and xv. 29. Eus. Vita Const. 4. S. Epip. Hær. 75. S. Cyp. 1 Ep. 9. Tert., &c. C.

VER. 45. With godliness. Judas hoped that these men who died fighting for the cause of God and religion, might find mercy; either because they might be excused from mortal sin by ignorance, or might have repented of their sin at least at their death. Ch.

VER. 46. Holy. This text is so clear, that our adversaries judge it best to deny the book to be canonical. As that has been authentically proved, (Pref.) we shall only add that the Greek version, though differing in many points, is here as express as the Vulg. (W.) 45, "considering that the best grace is laid up for those who sleep in piety. Holy and pious is the thought. (H.) Wherefore he made reconciliation (or expiation) for the dead, that they might be delivered from sin," or punishment due to it. W.—It is also worthy of notice that Judas, who acted thus charitably, was the high priest and defender of the true faith; and that the Jews still pray for the dead, as the book Mahzor, published by Genebrard, 1569, evinces. There they say, "Let him rest in peace," and "ye angels of peace, come forth to meet him." But this is acknowledged by Munster and Fagius, (in Deut. xiv.) and by Whitaker.—Sins. Go to 1 Mac. vi. 18. W.

CHAP. XIII. VER. 2. A hundred and ten thousand, &c. The difference between the numbers here set down and those recorded 1 Mac. iv., is easily accounted for, if we consider that such armies as these are liable to be at one time more numerous than at another, either by sending away large detachments, or being diminished by sickness, or increased by receiving fresh supplies of troops, according to different exigencies or occurrences. Ch.

VER. 3. Country. He had continued at Antioch, as the Jews would not re-

4 But the King of kings stirred up the mind of Antiochus against the sinner, and upon Lysias suggesting that he was the cause of all the evils, he commanded (as the custom is with them) that he should be apprehended and put to death in the same place.

5 Now there was in that place a tower fifty cubits high, having a heap of ashes on every side: this had a prospect steep down.

6 From thence he commanded the sacrilegious wretch to be thrown down into the ashes, all men thrusting him forward unto death.

7 And by such a law it happened that Menelaus, the transgressor of the law, was put to death: not having so much as burial in the earth.

8 And indeed very justly, for insomuch as he had committed many sins against the altar of God, the fire and ashes of which were holy: he was condemned to die in ashes.

9 But the king, with his mind full of rage, came on to show himself worse to the Jews than his father was.

10 Which when Judas understood, he commanded the people to call upon the Lord day and night, that as he had always done, so now also he would help them:

11 Because they were afraid to be deprived of the law, and of their country, and of the holy temple: and that he would not suffer the people, that had of late taken breath for a little while, to be again in subjection to blasphemous nations.

12 So when they had all done this together, and had craved mercy of the Lord with weeping and fasting, lying prostrate on the ground for three days continually, Judas exhorted them to make themselves ready.

13 But he, with the ancients, determined before the king should bring his army into Judea, and make himself master of the city, to go out, and to commit the event of the thing to the judgment of the Lord.

14 So committing all to God, the Creator of the world, and having exhorted his people to fight manfully, and to stand up even to death for the laws, the temple, the city, their country, and citizens: he placed his army about Modin.

15 And having given his company for a watchword, The victory of God, with most valiant chosen young men, he set upon the king's quarter by night, and slew four thousand men in the camp, and the greatest of the elephants, with them that had been upon him,

16 And having filled the camp of the enemies with exceeding great fear and tumult, they went off with good success.

17 Now this was done at the break of day, by the protection and help of the Lord.

18 But the king having taken a taste of the hardness of the Jews, attempted to take the strong places by policy:

19 And he marched with his army to Bethsura, which was a strong hold of the Jews: but he was repulsed, he failed, he lost his men.

20 Now Judas sent necessities to them that were within.

21 But Rhodocus, one of the Jews' army, disclosed the secrets to the enemies, so he was sought out, and taken up, and put in prison.

22 Again the king treated with them that were in Bethsura: gave his right hand: took theirs: and went away.

23 He fought with Judas: and was overcome. And when he understood that Philip, who had been left over the affairs, had rebelled at Antioch, he was in a consternation of mind, and intreating the Jews, and yielding to them, he swore to all things that seemed reasonable, and, being reconciled, offered sacrifices, honoured the temple, and left gifts.

24 He embraced Machabeus, and made him governor and prince from Ptolemais unto the Gerrenians.

25 But when he was come to Ptolemais, the men of that city were much displeased with the conditions of the peace, being angry for fear they should break the covenant.

26 Then Lysias went up to the judgment-seat, and set forth the reason, and appeased the people, and returned to Antioch: and thus matters went with regard to the king's coming and his return.

CHAP. XIV.

Demetrius challenges the kingdom. Alcimus applies to him to be made high priest: Nicanor is sent into Judea: his dealings with Judas: his threats. The history of Razias.

BUT after the space of three years Judas, and they that were with him, understood that Demetrius, the son of Seleucus, was come up with a great power, and a navy by the haven of Tripolis, to places proper for his purpose,

2 And had made himself master of the countries against Antiochus, and his general, Lysias.

3 Now one Alcimus, who had been chief priest, but had wilfully defiled himself in the time of mingling with the heathens, seeing that there was no safety for him, nor access to the altar,

• A. M. 3842, A. C. 162.

ceive him. Chap. iv. 24. C.—Yet now he pretended to be solicitous for their welfare, (H.) only that he might obtain power.

VER. 4. Evils. The ambition of Jason and of Menelaus had brought on all these disturbances. Chap. iv. 7, &c.; 1 Mac. i. 12.—Place. It would seem on the journey to Judea: but Josephus says he was slain after the king's return, at Antioch. The sacred historian relates what concerns him together. C.—In the. Gr. "conducting him to Berea." H.

VER. 5. Down. A beam was laid across the walls, on which the criminal, having been well regaled with wine, was placed till he fell among the ashes. V. Max. ix. 2. C.

VER. 9. With. Gr. "rendered barbarous by his designs," (H.) intending to punish the Jews worse than his father.

VER. 15. Watchword that night. W.—He usually gave some pious sentence. Chap. vii. 23.—Four. Some Gr. and Lat. copies have, "two," Syr. "three," though the old edit. of the Vulg. read, fourteen thousand.—Greatest, carrying thirty-two men. 1 Mac. vi. 37.

VER. 21. Prison. This traitor was either in the camp or at Bethsura. C.

VER. 23. Overcome. Here Eleazar signalized himself. 1 Mac. vi. 43.—Rebelle. Lysias persuaded him to treat the just exertions of Philip in this light. He was himself the usurper of the regency. He easily persuaded the young prince that peace was now most expedient; and conditions were granted to the Jews, which would have been very advantageous if they had been observed. But the king having offered sacrifice by the hands of the priests, and seeing the strength of the walls round Sion, ordered them to be demolished. C.

VER. 25. Of the. They disliked a Jewish governor, being always bitter against that nation. Chap. vi. 8, and 1 Mac. v. 15, and xii. 48. C.—Gr. "they or he raged, because they would break the agreements" (H.) with the Jews, (C.) or would revolt. Syr. Grot.

CHAP. XIV. VER. 1. But. Read 1 Mac. vii. 1. W.—Years of Eupator's reign, or dating from the purification of the temple.—Demetrius, to whom the crown belonged. 1 Mac. vii. 1.

VER. 3. Priest, after Menelaus, (1 Mac. vii. 5,) but never recognised, as Judas was then pontiff. He had, moreover, voluntarily defiled himself during the time

4 Came to king Demetrius in the year *one hundred and fifty, presenting unto him a crown of gold, and a palm, and besides these, some boughs that seemed to belong to the temple. And that day indeed he held his peace.

5 But having gotten a convenient time to further his madness, being called to counsel by Demetrius, and asked what the Jews relied upon, and what were their counsels,

6 He answered thereunto: They among the Jews that are called Assideans, of whom Judas Machabeus is captain, nourish wars, and raise seditions, and will not suffer the realm to be in peace.

7 For I also being deprived of my ancestor's glory (I mean of the high priesthood) am now come hither:

8 Principally indeed out of fidelity to the king's interests, but in the next place also to provide for the good of my countrymen: for all our nation suffereth much from the evil proceedings of those men.

9 Wherefore, O king, seeing thou knowest all these things, take care, I beseech thee, both of the country, and of our nation, according to thy humanity which is known to all men.

10 For as long as Judas liveth it is not possible that the state should be quiet.

11 Now when this man had spoken to this effect, the rest also of the king's friends, who were enemies of Judas, incensed Demetrius against him.

12 And forthwith he sent Nicanor, the commander over the elephants, governor into Judea:

13 Giving him in charge, to take Judas himself: and disperse all them that were with him and to make Alcimus the high priest of the great temple.

14 Then the Gentiles who had fled out of Judea, from Judas, came to Nicanor by flocks, thinking the miseries and calamities of the Jews to be the welfare of their affairs.

15 Now when the Jews heard of Nicanor's coming, and that the nations were assembled against them, they cast earth upon their heads, and made supplication to him who chose his people to keep them for ever, and who protected his portion by evident signs.

16 Then at the commandment of their captain, they forthwith removed from the place where they were, and went to the town of Dessau, to meet them.

17 Now Simon, the brother of Judas, had joined battle with Nicanor: but was frightened with the sudden coming of the adversaries.

18 Nevertheless Nicanor hearing of the valour of Judas's companions, and the greatness of courage, with which they fought for their country, was afraid to try the matter by the sword.

19 Wherefore he sent Posidonius, and Theodotius, and Matthias before to present and receive the right hands.

20 And when there had been a consultation thereupon, and the captain had acquainted the multitude with it, they were all of one mind to consent to covenants.

21 So they appointed a day upon which they might commune together by themselves: and seats were brought out, and set for each one.

22 But Judas ordered men to be ready in convenient places, lest some mischief might be suddenly practised by the enemies: so they made an agreeable conference.

23 And Nicanor abode in Jerusalem, and did no wrong, but sent away the flocks of the multitudes that had been gathered together.

24 And Judas was always dear to him from the heart, and he was well affected to the man.

25 And he desired him to marry a wife, and to have children. So he married: he lived quietly, and they lived in common.

26 But Alcimus seeing the love they had one to another, and the covenants, came to Demetrius, and told him that Nicanor had assented to the foreign interest, for that he meant to make Judas, who was a traitor to the kingdom, his successor.

27 Then the king, being in a rage, and provoked with this man's wicked accusations, wrote to Nicanor, signifying that he was greatly displeased with the covenant of friendship: and that he commanded him nevertheless to send Machabeus prisoner in all haste to Antioch.

28 When this was known, Nicanor was in a consternation, and took it grievously that he should make void the articles that were agreed upon, having received no injury from the man.

29 But because he could not oppose the king, he watched an opportunity to comply with the orders.

30 But when Machabeus perceived that Nicanor was more stern to him, and that when they met together as usual he behaved himself in a rough manner; and was sensible that this rough behaviour came not of good, he gathered together a few of his men, and hid himself from Nicanor.

31 But he finding himself notably prevented by the man, came to the great and holy temple: and commanded the priests that were offering the accustomed sacrifices, to deliver him the man.

32 And when they swore unto him, that they knew not where the man was whom he sought, he stretched out his hand to the temple,

33 And swore, saying: Unless you deliver Judas prisoner to me, I will lay this temple of God even with the ground, and will beat down the altar, and I will dedicate this temple to Bacchus.

34 And when he had spoken thus, he departed. But the priests stretched forth their hands to heaven, called upon him that was ever the defender of their nation, saying in this manner:

* A. M. 3843.

of persecution; or, according to most Gr. copies, (C.) when there was "no mixture" of Gentiles in the land to instigate him. H.

VER. 4. Fifty, according to the Chaldee reckoning. Chap. ii. 21. M.—Boughs; probably (H.) of gold, (W.) or adorned with leaves of that metal.

VER. 6—11. Assideans: the most zealous defenders of the faith. Alcimus had slain sixty of them. 1 Mac. vii. 12, 19. C.—This description, given by enemies through malice, serves to show the zeal and sincerity of these people in promoting God's law and virtue.—Him. See 1 Mac. vii. 26. W.

VER. 14. Gentiles and apostate Jews. C.

VER. 20. Captain. Judas laid the proposals before all the people.

VER. 24. From the heart; sincerely. C.—Gr. "he had Judas always in sight." H.—His love was only apparent. T.—Yet this is contrary to the text, (H.) and to the common opinion.

VER. 26. His successor, so as to keep Alcimus out of his office. C.

VER. 32. Knew not. This was true, and they would not seek for him (W.) if it had been required.

35 Thou, O Lord of all things, who wantest nothing, wast pleased that the temple of thy habitation should be amongst us.

36 Therefore now, O Lord, the holy of all holies, keep this house for ever undefiled, which was lately cleansed.

37 Now Razias, one of the ancients of Jerusalem, was accused to Nicanor, a man that was a lover of the city, and of good report, who for his affection was called the father of the Jews.

38 This man, for a long time, had held fast his purpose of keeping himself pure in the Jews' religion, and was ready to expose his body and life, that he might persevere therein.

39 So Nicanor being willing to declare the hatred that he bore the Jews, sent five hundred soldiers to take him.

40 For he thought by insnaring him to hurt the Jews very much.

41 Now as the multitude sought to rush into his house, and to break open the door, and to set fire to it, when he was ready to be taken, he struck himself with his sword :

42 Choosing to die nobly rather than to fall into the hands of the wicked, and to suffer abuses unbecoming his noble birth.

43 But whereas through haste he missed of giving himself a sure wound, and the crowd was breaking into the doors, he ran boldly to the wall, and manfully threw himself down to the crowd :

44 But they quickly making room for his fall, he came upon the midst of the neck.

45 And as he had yet breath in him, being inflamed in mind, he arose : and while his blood ran down with a great stream, and he was grievously wounded, he ran through the crowd :

46 And standing upon a steep rock, when he was now almost without blood, grasping his bowels, with both hands he cast them upon the throng, calling upon the Lord of life and spirit, to restore these to him again : and so he departed this life.

CHAP. XV.

Judas, encouraged by a vision, gains a glorious victory over Nicanor. The conclusion.

BUT *when Nicanor understood that Judas was in the places of Samaria, he purposed to set upon him with all violence, on the sabbath day.

2 And when the Jews that were constrained to follow him, said : Do not act so fiercely and barbarously, but give honour to the day that is sanctified : and reverence him that beholdeth all things :

* A. M. 3843, A. C. 161. 1 Mac. vii. 26.

VER. 37. Jews. No crime could be laid to his charge, but his love for religion and his country.

VER. 41. He struck himself, &c. S. Augustine (Epist. 61, ad Dulcitium et lib. 2, cap. 23, ad Epist. 2. Gaud.) discussing this fact of Razias, says that the Holy Scripture relates it, but doth not praise it, as to be admired or imitated, and that it was not well done by him, or at least not proper in this time of grace. Ch. —Whether he was thus inspired or not, we dare not decide. S. Aug., (c. Gaud. i. 41, and Ep. 61 or 204.) S. Thomas, (ii. 2, q. 64, a. 5,) and others disapprove of this action, observing that it is recorded and not praised, though other virtues of Razias be commended. C.—It was either not well done, or not to be imitated in this time of grace. S. Aug. ii. 23, c. Ep. 2. Gaud. W.

VER. 44. Neck. Venit per mediam cervicem. In the Greek it is κέντρα, which signifies a void place, where there is no building (Ch. Grot.); and also, "the belly," which accounts for his not being killed on the spot. C.

CHAP. XV. VER. 1. But. Read here 1 Mac. vii. 39. W.

3 That unhappy man asked, if there were a Mighty One in heaven, that had commanded the sabbath day to be kept.

4 And when they answered : There is the living Lord himself in heaven, the Mighty One, that commanded the seventh day to be kept.

5 Then he said : And I am mighty upon the earth, and I command to take arms, and to do the king's business. Nevertheless he prevailed not to accomplish his design.

6 So Nicanor being puffed up with exceeding great pride, thought to set up a public monument of his victory over Judas.

7 But Machabeus ever trusted with all hope that God would help them.

8 And he exhorted his people not to fear the coming of the nations, but to remember the help they had before received from heaven, and now to hope for victory from the Almighty.

9 And speaking to them out of the law, and the prophets, and withal putting them in mind of the battles they had fought before, he made them more cheerful :

10 Then after he had encouraged them, he showed withal the falsehood of the Gentiles, and their breach of oaths.

11 So he armed every one of them, not with defence of shield and spear, but with very good speeches, and exhortations, and told them a dream worthy to be believed, whereby he rejoiced them all.

12 Now the vision was in this manner : Onias, who had been high priest, a good and virtuous man, modest in his looks, gentle in his manners, and graceful in speech, and who from a child was exercised in virtues, holding up his hands, prayed for all the people of the Jews :

13 After this there appeared also another man, admirable for age, and glory, and environed with great beauty and majesty :

14 Then Onias answering, said : This is a lover of his brethren, and of the people of Israel : this is he that prayeth much for the people, and for all the holy city, Jeremias, the prophet of God.

15 Whereupon Jeremias stretched forth his right hand, and gave to Judas a sword of gold, saying :

16 Take this holy sword, a gift from God, wherewith thou shalt overthrow the adversaries of my people, Israel.

17 Thus being exhorted with the words of Judas, which were very good, and proper to stir up the courage, and strengthen the hearts of the young men, they resolved to fight, and to set upon them manfully : that valour

VER. 10. Oaths, of which Eupator had lately given an instance. Apollonius and the people of Joppe had acted perfidiously. C.

VER. 11. Not with, not only, or so much with, &c. H.—Dream. He knew it was supernatural (C.) by God's light, as S. Joseph did. Matt. i. 20. W.

VER. 12. Onias III., who had been slain (C.) at Daphne. Chap. iv. 34. H.—The Jewish and Christian Churches never doubted that the saints interceded in the other world for the living, in whose concerns they take part. C.—Prot. evade this text by denying the canonicity of the book. Yet the same is proved Gen. xlviii.; Exod. xxxii.; Jer. xv.; Luke xvi.; Apoc. v., vi., viii.; and 2 Pet. i.; and we have a right to produce the authority of this book, as Origen, (18 in John,) S. Bern. (76 in Cant., and Ser. 3, Nat., &c.) have done. Onias and Jeremias, in limbo, interested themselves for the faithful on earth, and no doubt the saints in glory will do as much. W.

VER. 15. Gold, such as kings and chief officers of Persia used. C.

VER. 17. Fight. Gr. "not to fortify the camp," (C.) or "remain there" might decide the matter, because the holy city, and the temple were in danger.

18 For their concern was less for their wives, and children, and for their brethren, and kinsfolks: but their greatest and principal fear was for the holiness of the temple.

19 And they also that were in the city, had no little concern for them that were to be engaged in battle.

20 And now when all expected what judgment would be given, and the enemies were at hand, and the army was set in array, the beasts and the horsemen ranged in convenient places,

21 Machabeus considering the coming of the multitude, and the divers preparations of armour, and the fierceness of the beasts, stretching out his hands to heaven, called upon the Lord, that worketh wonders, who giveth victory to them that are worthy, not according to the power of their arms, but according as it seemeth good to him.

22 And in his prayer he said after this manner: "Thou, O Lord, who didst send thy angel in the time of Ezechias, king of Juda, and didst kill a hundred and eighty-five thousand of the army of Sennacherib:

23 Send now also, O Lord of heaven, thy good angel before us, for the fear and dread of the greatness of thy arm,

24 That they may be afraid, who come with blasphemy against thy holy people. And thus he concluded his prayer.

25 But Nicanor, and they that were with him came forward, with trumpets and songs.

26 But Judas, and they that were with him, encountered them, calling upon God by prayers:

27 So fighting with their hands, but praying to the Lord with their hearts, they slew no less than five and thirty thousand, being greatly cheered with the presence of God.

28 And when the battle was over, and they were re-

• Supra, viii. 19.

(H.): μη στρατονηδυσθαι. C.—Grabe reads στρατευσθαι, "to act as soldiers." H.—Syr. "not to trust in troops set in array, but to take courage, and to expose their lives, in this extremity, for their country and for the temple."

VER. 28. Armour, at the beginning of the battle. 1 Mac. vii. 44.

VER. 30. Shoulder. Thus his bust was set up. But the right arm was hung over against the temple. Ver. 33, and 1 Mac. vii. 47. C.

VER. 34. Blessed Gr. "raising their voices, (M.) or looking towards heaven, praised the Lord, who had made himself manifest:" επιφανη κυριον. H.

VER. 37. Adar; our February and March. The thirteenth was the feast "of lots." Est. ix. 23. C.

VER. 38. So. Read 1 Mac. viii. 1, where more on this subject is written. After other persecutors were overcome, the land was at rest, and the author adds this general conclusion. W.

VER. 39. So. Gr. "If in a frugal and middling style, this is as well as I was able." H.—Perfectly. This is not said with regard to the truth of the narration, turning with joy, they understood that Nicanor was slain in his armour.

29 Then making a shout, and a great noise, they blessed the Almighty Lord in their own language.

30 And Judas, who was altogether ready, in body and mind, to die for his countrymen, commanded that Nicanor's head, and his hand, with the shoulder, should be cut off, and carried to Jerusalem.

31 And when he was come thither, having called together his countrymen, and the priests to the altar, he sent also for them that were in the castle,

32 And showing them the head of Nicanor, and the wicked hand, which he had stretched out, with proud boasts, against the holy house of the Almighty God,

33 He commanded also, that the tongue of the wicked Nicanor should be cut out, and given by pieces to birds, and the hand of the furious man to be hanged up over against the temple.

34 Then all blessed the Lord of heaven, saying: Blessed be he that hath kept his own place undefiled.

35 And he hung up Nicanor's head in the top of the castle, that it might be an evident and manifest sign of the help of God.

36 And they all ordained by a common decree, by no means to let this day pass without solemnity:

37 But to celebrate the thirteenth day of the month of Adar, called in the Syrian language, the day before Mar dochias' day.

38 So these things being done with relation to Nicanor, and from that time the city being possessed by the Hebrews, I also will here make an end of my narration.

39 Which if I have done well, and as it becometh the history, it is what I desired: but if not so perfectly, it must be pardoned me.

40 For as it is hurtful to drink always wine, or always water, but pleasant to use sometimes the one, and sometimes the other: so if the speech be always nicely framed, it will not be grateful to the readers. But here it shall be ended.

but with regard to the style and manner of writing, which in the sacred penmen is not always the most accurate. See S. Paul, 2 Cor. xi. 6. Ch.—The style was frequently left to their choice. H.—Inspiration did not exclude natural acquirements. C.—The author is not afraid of having said any thing erroneous, though he might be less polished, like S. Paul: imperitus sermone sed non scientia.

VER. 40. Always. Gr. "only." H.—Readers delight in variety. A middle style is adopted. C.—But. Gr. "But as wine mixed with water is pleasant, and affords delight, so the preparation (or style) of a discourse pleases the ears of those who read what is collected. But here shall be an end." H.

N. B. The Third and Fourth Book of Machabees, as also the Third and Fourth Book of Esdras, (which some call the First and Second of Esdras,) and the Prayer of Manasses, are here omitted, because they have never been received by the Church. Ch.

HISTORICAL AND CHRONOLOGICAL INDEX TO THE OLD TESTAMENT.

| | | | |
|---------------|---|---------------|---|
| B. C. 4004 | In the beginning God created heaven and earth, and all things therein, in six days. Gen. i.—Man, last created, was made Lord of all living creatures of this lower world, and placed in paradise. Gen. ii.—For transgressing God's commandment, Adam and Eve were cast out of paradise; but by God's grace repenting, had promise of a Redeemer. Gen. iii. | B. C. 2353 | Lamech died (before his father) in the year of his age 777. |
| 4003 | Peopling the world after Adam and Eve left paradise. Gen. iv. i. | 2349 | Mathusala died, aged 969, immediately before the flood, as seemeth most probable.—The same year of the world, the 17th day of the second month, Noe, with his three sons, his wife and their wives, in all eight persons, and seven pair of every kind of clean living creatures, and two pair of unclean, entered into the ark. And presently it rained forty days and forty nights together. All living creatures on the earth out of the ark were drowned. Gen. vii.—All Cain's race, with other wicked infidels, were utterly destroyed by the flood. Gen. vii. |
| 3875 | Cain, the first-born, became a husbandman; Abel, next born, a shepherd. Gen. iv. | 2348 | The whole earth being covered with water, Noe, with his family, and other living creatures, remained in the ark twelve months and ten days; then coming forth, built an altar, and offered sacrifice, which God accepting, blessed them for a new generation, making a covenant with Noe, promising never to destroy the world by water, as a token of which he placed his rainbow in the cloud. The same year Noe plants vines, and drinking of the wine was made drunk. Gen. viii. and ix. |
| 3874 | God respecting Abel's sacrifice, and not Cain's, Cain killed Abel. Gen. iv. | 2346 | Arphaxad born, the son of Sem. Gen. xi. 10. Nemrod, the son of Chus, and nephew to Cham, about threescore years after the flood, by force and subtilty drawing many followers, began a new sect of infidels, and afterwards was the principal author of building the tower of Babel, where the tongues of the builders were confounded, and so they were separated into many nations, about 140 years after the flood. Gen. xi. 4, etc.—After Nemrod, his son Belus reigned in Babylon, about the year of the world 1871, which was 215 years after the flood. |
| 3769 | Seth born. Gen. iv. 25. | 2311 | Sale born. Gen. xi. 12. |
| 3679 | Cain went forth from the face of the Lord; began a new city opposite to the city of God. Gen. iv. 17.—His generations in the right line to Lamech, are those without notice of the time when they were born or died: Henoch, Irad, Maviel, Mathusael, Lamech. Gen. iv. 18. | 2281 | Heber born. Gen. xi. 14.—Heber consented not to the building of Babel; and therefore his family kept still their former language, which henceforth, for distinction sake, was called the Hebrew tongue. He lived to see Abraham's father. And Noe, Sem, Arphaxad, Phaleg, and other godly men, lived some part of Abraham's time, who were never corrupted in faith nor religion. |
| 3609 | Enos born. Gen. iv. 26. | 2247 | Phaleg born. Gen. xi. 16. |
| 3544 | Cainan born. Gen. v. 9. | 2217 | Reu born. Gen. xi. 18. |
| 3382 | Malaleel born. Gen. v. 12. | 2185 | Sarug born. Gen. xi. 20. |
| 3317 | Jared born. Gen. v. 15. | 2155 | Nachor born. Gen. xi. 22. |
| 3130 | Henoch born. Gen. v. 18. | 2126 | Thare born. Gen. xi. 24. |
| | Mathusala born. Gen. v. 21. | 1996 | Abraham born. Gen. xi. 27. |
| | Lamech, Noe's father, born. Gen. v. 25. | 1921 | By God's commandment, Abraham, at the age of 75 years, having been much persecuted for religion, went forth out of his country, Chaldea; whereupon his father, Thare, went as far as Haran, in the confines of Mesopotamia; and Lot went farther with him into Chanaan, which country God then promised to give him, and to multiply his seed, and therein to bless all nations. Gen. xi. 31, and xii. 1, 7. |
| | Some declining from God, joining in marriage with Cain's race, begot those monstrous men, huge of stature, most wicked and cruel, called giants. Gen. vi. 4.—Seth's children and other faithful were called the sons of God, to distinguish the true Church from the wicked city begun by Cain. Gen. vi.—In the days of Enos began public prayers, by many assembling together, besides sacrifice, which was before. Gen. iv. 26.—Henoch, a prophet, pleased God in all his ways. None born in the earth like to Henoch. Eccli. xlix. 16. | 1920 | A famine in the land of Chanaan forces Abraham to go into Egypt with his family. Gen. xii. 10. |
| 3017 | Adam died at the age of 930 years (Gen. v. 5,) to whom Seth succeeded as chief patriarch, and so in the rest. | | Abraham and Lot return to Chanaan; but the land not being sufficient for both their flocks, they separate. Lot |
| | Henoch, (Mathusala's father,) in the year of his age 365, was seen no more: because God took him. Gen. v. 24.— Henoch was translated that he should not see death. Heb. xi. 5. | | |
| 2962 | Seth died, aged 912. Gen. v. 8. | | |
| 2948 | Noe born. Gen. v. 28. | | |
| 2864 | Enos died, aged 905. Gen. v. 11. | | |
| 2769 | Cainan died, aged 910. Gen. v. 14. | | |
| 2714 | Malaleel died, aged 895. Gen. v. 17. | | |
| 2582 | Jared died, aged 962. Gen. v. 20. | | |
| 2469 | Noe, the preacher of justice, forewarned all men, that except they repented, God would destroy them with a flood. | | |
| 2448 | Sem born; and the next two years, Cham and Japheth. Gen. v. 31. | | |
| | Noe, by God's commandment, built an ark, or ship, wherein himself and his family, with other living creatures, were preserved from drowning. | | |

CHRONOLOGICAL INDEX TO THE OLD TESTAMENT.

- | | |
|--|--|
| B. C. 1920 goes to Sodom. God renews his promise to Abraham, who removes to Hebron and builds an altar there. Gen. xiii. 1913 Lot (among others) being taken prisoner, Abraham, with 318 men, rescued them all. Whereupon Melchisedech offered sacrifice in bread and wine, blessed Abraham, and received tithes of him. Gen. xiv. 1911 Sarai, long barren, persuaded Abraham to take her handmaid, Agar, to wife. Gen. xvi. 1910 Ismael, Agar's son, born. Gen. xvi. 15. 1897 Circumcision was instituted that Abraham and his sons, and all the men of his family, might be distinguished from others. Gen. xvii. 11.—Sodom and Gomorrah, with their inhabitants, are for their horrible sins destroyed by fire and brimstone. The Dead Sea remains a monument of it to this day. Lot's wife, for her looking back to Sodom contrary to God's command, is turned into a pillar of salt; and Lot, fearing to continue in the plain, betakes himself to the mountain, carrying with him his two daughters. Gen. xix. 1896 Sarai conceived and bore a son, called Isaac. Gen. xxi. —Agar and Ismael, at Sarai's request, are cast out. Agar had, nevertheless, twelve sons, all dukes, before Isaac had any issue. Esau had also much issue, and prospered in the world; but his progeny, as also Ismael's, and all Abraham's offspring by his last wife, Cetura, were excluded from the promised inheritance and other blessings. Gen. xxv. 1871 Abraham, by God's commandment, was ready to offer Isaac in sacrifice, but was stayed by an angel. The former promises made to Abraham were renewed. Gen. xxii. 1856 Isaac marries Rebecca, the daughter of Bathuel, son of Nachor, Abraham's brother. Gen. xxiv. 1854 After the death of Sarai, Abraham married Cetura, by whom he had six sons. Gen. xxv. 1837 Jacob and Esau (twins) born. Gen. xxv. 25. 1821 Abraham dies at the age of 175 years. Gen. xxv. 1773 Ismael dies, aged 137. Gen. xxv. 17. Isaac blessed Jacob, thinking him to be Esau. Gen. xxvii.—Jacob going into Mesopotamia, to fly the danger of his brother's threats, upon the way the blessings of his posterity are foretold in a vision. At length coming to his uncle Laban's house, he covenants to serve him seven years for his daughter Rachel; but Laban deceives him with Lia. The marriage week being completed, Rachel is also given him to wife, upon condition of serving seven years more. Gen. xxix. The sons of Lia born, Ruben, Simeon, Levi, Juda, Issachar, and Zabulon; the sons of Rachel born, Joseph and Benjamin; the sons of Bala born, (Rachel's handmaid,) Dan and Nephtali; the sons of Zelpha born, (Lia's handmaid,) Gad and Aser. Gen. xxxv.—Jacob, returning from Mesopotamia, wrestled with an angel, and was called Israel. Gen. xxxii., and xxxiii.—Rachel died in childbed of Benjamin, and was buried in Bethlehem. Gen. xxxv. 18, 19. 1728 Joseph was sold and carried into Egypt, and shortly after cast into prison, where he interpreted the dreams of two eunuchs. Gen. xxxvii. 1716 Isaac died at the age of 180 years. Gen. xxxv. 1715 Joseph, interpreting king Pharaoh's dreams, and giving wise counsel to provide for the scarcity to come, was made ruler of Egypt. He then married, and had two sons, Manasses and Ephraim, in the seven years of plenty. Gen. xli. 1707 Jacob sent his ten sons into Egypt to buy corn, where they were threatened as suspected spies, and one was kept in prison till they should bring their brother Benjamin. Gen. xli. 1706 They returning into Egypt with Benjamin in their company, Joseph first terrified them, and afterwards manifested himself unto them; and sending for his father and whole kindred, they all went into Egypt. Gen. xliii.—xlvi. 1689 Jacob blessed and adopted the two sons of Joseph, pre- | B. C. 1689 ferring Ephraim, the younger, before Manasses. Gen. xlviii.—Prophesied of all his twelve sons, and in Judas of Christ (Gen. xlix. 10); and then died.—Joseph buried his father in Chanaan, and nourished his brethren, with their families, as their patron and superior. Gen. l. 18. 1635 Joseph died at the age of 110 years. Gen. l.—After his death the superiority of the children of Israel descended not to his sons, but to his brethren, and rested in Levi, the third brother, living longest, of all the twelve, to the age of 137 years, (Exod. vi. 16,) whose genealogy is there declared to show the descent of Aaron and Moses. Joseph, when on his death-bed, prophesied the return of his brethren into Chanaan.—Genesis ends at the death of Joseph, including the history of 2369 years. Next to it, in order of time, follows the Book of Job, who was either of the progeny of Nachor or Esau, and who lived at the same time in which the children of Israel were oppressed with servitude in Egypt. Some suppose it to have been written by Moses. 1574 Aaron born, three years before his brother Moses. Gen. vii. 7. 1573 Pharaoh, having in vain commanded the Hebrew midwives to destroy all the Israelite males, publishes an edict that they be all cast into the river. Exod. i. 16, 22. 1571 Moses born, (Exod. ii. 2,) who being hid in the flags by the river side, is found by Pharaoh's daughter, nursed by his own mother, and brought up in Pharaoh's court. 1531 At the age of forty years he went to his brethren, to comfort them; where killing an Egyptian, that oppressed an Israelite, he was forced to fly into Madian, where he marries Sephora, daughter of Jethro. Exod. ii. 11, 12, 21. 1530 Caleb, the son of Jephone, born. 1491 After other forty years, whilst Moses kept Jethro's sheep, at Mount Horeb, God appears to him in a burning bush; sends him into Egypt, with power to work miracles, and to bring the children of Israel out of bondage. Moses and Aaron having declared to Pharaoh the message sent to him by them from God, are charged as the heads of a mutiny, and dismissed with many bad words; and more grievous tasks are directly laid upon the Israelites. Exod. v.—Moses being eighty and Aaron eighty-three, being urged by God to it, return to Pharaoh, where the magicians by sorcery imitating the miracles of Aaron's rod turned to a serpent, make Pharaoh more obstinate than before; wherefore God, by the hand of Moses, lays the plagues upon Egypt. Exod. vii. 22.—On the fourteenth of the first month, in the evening, the passover is instituted. On the fifteenth, at midnight, the first-born of Egypt being all slain, Pharaoh and his servants make haste to send the Israelites away; and they, the same day in which they were let go, march away, being upwards of 600,000 men, besides children, etc., and came to Ramesses, whence, by several encampings, they reach the Red Sea, the Lord conducting them by day in a pillar of a cloud, and by night in a pillar of fire. They carry Joseph's bones with them. Exod. xii. and xiii.; Num. xxxiii.—Pharaoh and his host overtake them at the Red Sea. Moses divides the waters with his rod, and the Israelites pass on dry ground to the desert of Etham; whom, when Pharaoh and his army would follow, they were all overwhelmed by the coming of the waters together: so that the Israelites were freed from the bondage of the Egyptians; over whose carcasses, when they saw them floating on the water, and cast on the shore, they sung a canticle of praise to God. Exod. xiv. and xv.—Upon the fifteenth of the second month, the Israelites came to the desert of Sin, lying between Elim and Sinai, where, for want of food, they murmur against God and their leaders. About eventide God sends them quails, and next morning he rains down manna from heaven: upon which they lived afterwards for a space of forty years, till they came to the borders of the land of promise. A gomor of it was preserved as a memorial. Exod. xvi.—At Raphidim, the eleventh place of their encampment, the |
|--|--|

B. C.
1491

people murmur for want of water, which Moses gives them, by striking the rock Horeb with his rod. The Amalecites, falling upon the rear of the Israelites, are discomfited by Josue, whilst Moses holds up his hands to God in prayer. Exod. xvii. 1, 6, 8, 9, etc.—God publishes his law, contained in the ten commandments, with a terrible voice from Mount Sinai. Exod. xx.—The people being much affrighted, God gives sundry other laws; all which being written in the book of the covenant, Moses proposeth them to the people. This done, rising early in the morning, he builds an altar at the foot of the mountain: he sets up twelve pillars, according to the twelve tribes, and sends young men of the first-born, as ministers of those holy things, (before the institution of the Levitical priesthood,) which sacrifice first for sin, and then as thanksgiving to the Lord. And after Moses had read the book of the covenant, he takes of the blood of the calves and goats so offered, and sprinkles the book and all the people of those twelve statues representing them: and so performs a solemn covenant between God and his people. Moses and Aaron, with Nadab and Abiu, and seventy of the ancients of Israel, go up into the mount, and behold there the glory of God. The rest returning, Moses with his minister, Josue, remained there, and wait six days, when, on the seventh day, God speaks to him; and there he continues forty days and forty nights, (including the six days before the Lord's appearance,) eating no meat, nor drinking water all that while, (Deut. ix. 9,) where he received God's command with regard to the frame of the tabernacle, the priests' garments, their consecration, sacrifices, and other particulars in these and the six following chapters. See Exod. from chap. xxi. to xxxi.—At the end of forty days, God gives Moses the two tables of the law, written with God's own finger, bidding him get down quickly, for that the people had already made themselves a molten calf to worship. Moses pacifies God by prayer, and goes down; when, seeing the people keeping a festival in the camp in honour of their idol, he breaks the tables at the foot of the mount; for which the Jews keep a fast to this day. Moses having burnt and destroyed the idol, slew twenty-three thousand of the idolaters by the hands of the Levites. Exod. xxxi. and xxxii.—God commands Moses to frame new tables of stone, and bring them with him to the mount. Moses does so next morning; and whilst he stands in the cleft of a rock, God, passing by, shows him a glimpse of his glory. God renews his covenant with his people, and upon certain conditions gives them his laws again. Exod. xxxiv. 1, etc.

1490

In the first six months of this year, the tabernacle, the ark of the covenant, altar, table of shew-bread, the priests' garments, the holy ointments, the candlestick, and other vessels and utensils for the sacrifices, were finished in the desert of Mount Sinai, and brought to Moses. The tabernacle is set up and anointed with holy oil. Aaron and his sons are consecrated for the priesthood. Exod. xl.—Nadab and Abiu, for offering strange fire, are struck dead by fire from heaven. Lev. x. 1.—The princes of the tribes present their offerings toward dedicating the tabernacle. God speaks to Moses from the mercy-seat. Num. vii.—Institution of the second passover. Moses complains to God of the too great burthen of his government, who, to ease him, appoints seventy ancients to assist him. The people lust for flesh. God, in his wrath, gives quails and sends also a very grievous plague among them. Num. ix.—God rebukes the sedition of Mary and Aaron, and maintains Moses' right.—Num. xii.—From the desert of Pharan twelve spies are sent, among whom were Caleb and Josue, in order to discover the land of Chanaan. Returning, they bring with them a vine branch with a cluster of grapes upon it. Ten of the twelve sent out, speak ill of the country, declare it barren and magnify the strength of the cities and the gigantic stature of the inhabitants.

B. C.
1490

Num. xiii.—The people, frightened with this account, are about to return to Egypt, from which step Caleb and Josue endeavouring to dissuade them, are like to be stoned. At this God threatens to destroy them; but by Moses's prayer, is prevailed upon to spare them. He, nevertheless, denounced, that all who are twenty years old, Caleb and Josue excepted, shall die in the wilderness. Those who raised the evil report are all destroyed by sudden death. Some, endeavouring to enter the promised land, contrary to God's command, are smitten by the Amalecites and Chanaanites. Num. xiv.

1486

Core, Dathan, and Abiron, with many others, murmuring and rebelling against Moses and Aaron, were partly swallowed alive into the earth, and the others were burnt with fire from heaven. Num. xvi.—Twelve rods being brought by twelve princes, and laid in the sanctuary, Aaron's rod only budded, producing almonds, and was laid up before the ark, for a memorial against all future rebels. Num. xvii.

1452

In the preceding thirty-nine years, the Israelites, by seventeen encampments, having taken a compass round the hill-country of Seir and Edom, they come to the wilderness of Sin in the first month of the fortieth year after their departure from Egypt. Here Mary, sister of Moses and Aaron, died. The people again murmur against Moses and Aaron for want of water. God orders Moses to speak to the rock, and it should yield a sufficiency of water; but owing to his impatience and diffidence, he utters something or other unadvisedly with his lips, and for which transgression both he and Aaron are debarred from entering the promised land. In the fifth month of this year Aaron dies, on the top of Mount Hor, aged 123, leaving Eleazar, his son, to succeed him in the high priesthood. Num. xx.—The people, for murmuring, are plagued with fiery serpents, of which many die: upon their repentance, God commands a brazen serpent to be made, that as many as should look upon it should live. About the close of this year the Israelites pass over the torrent Zared, and coming to Arnon, on the borders of Moab, they at length arrive at Phasga. Num. xxi.

1451

Sehon, king of the Amorrites, and Og, king of Basan, slain. After these victories, the Israelites set forward and encamp in the plains of Moab. Num. xxi. and xxii.—Balaam, a soothsayer, hired by Balac, king of Moab, to curse the Israelites, was forced by God's power to prophesy good things of them. Num. xxii., etc.—The people of Israel committing fornication with the daughters of Moab, Phinees kills Zambri and Cosbi; for which zeal God settles the high priesthood upon Phinees' house for ever. Numbers of the people perished for this iniquity. God orders Moses to make war upon the Madianites. Num. xxv.—The numbering of the people in the plains of Moab, by Moses and Eleazar. Moses ordered to parcel out the land of promise among the Israelites. Num. xxvi.—God signifies to Moses that he shall die, and Josue is thereupon declared to be his successor; upon whom Moses lays his hands, and gives him instructions. Several laws are made. Num. xxvii.—Twelve thousand men, under the command of Phinees, vanquish the Madianites. Num. xxxi.—The lands that belonged to Sehon and Og, Moses divides among the tribes of Ruben, Gad, and the half tribe of Manasses. Num. xxxii.—Moses commands the people, that after their passing over the Jordan, they set up great stones, and engrave the ten commandments on them, with the form of blessing on Mount Garizim, and of cursing on Mount Hebal. He renews also the covenant which God made with them and their children on Mount Horeb. Deut. xxvii., and xxviii., and xxix.—Moses, having written this law, delivers it to the priests, the sons of Levi, and to the ancients, to be kept. The same day he writes his canticle for the remembrance of the law. Deut. xxxi. and xxxii.—Moses, now drawing near to his end, blesses every tribe in

CHRONOLOGICAL INDEX TO THE OLD TESTAMENT.

| | | | |
|---------------|---|---------------|--|
| B. C. 1451 | particular, by way of prophecy, except that of Simeon. In the twelfth month of this year he goes up into Mount Nebo, from thence beholding the land of promise, and dies there, aged 120. His body God translates into a valley of Moab, and there buries it, no man to this day knowing where he laid it. Deut. xxxiii. and xxxiv. See S. Jude.—Here ends the Pentateuch, or Five Books of Moses, containing the history of 2552 years and a half from the beginning of the world.—Josue being confirmed by God in his government, sends two spies out from Settim to Jericho, who being harboured by Rahab, are privily sent away when search is made for them. Jos. ii.—Upon the tenth day of the first month, the same day that the Paschal lamb was to be chosen out of the flock, the Israelites, under Josue, a type of Christ, pass the Jordan into the promised land, the waters being miraculously dried up for that purpose. Josue sets up twelve stones in the channel of the Jordan, etc., as a memorial of this circumstance. Jos. iii. and iv.—Upon the 14th day of the same month the Israelites celebrate their first Passover in Chanaan. Next day manna ceases. An angel appeareth to Josue, before Jericho, with a drawn sword in his hand, and promises to defend his people. Jos. v.—Jericho is besieged and taken. Jos. vi.—For the sin of Achan, the Israelites are defeated before Hai. The offender, being found out, is stoned to death, and God's wrath is turned from them. Hai is taken by ambuscade, and destroyed. An altar is built on Mount Hebal, and the law written on stones, and the blessings and curses repeated. Jos. vii. and viii.—The kings of Chanaan combine against Israel. Josue defeats them: many are slain with hailstones. At the prayer of Josue, the sun and moon stand still the space of one day. Divers cities are taken. Jos. ix. and x. | B. C. 1211 | Thola defended the country from invasion of enemies twenty-three years, and died. Judg. x. 2. |
| 1450 | From the autumn of this year, in which they began to till the ground, the rise of the sabbatical years is to be taken. | 1188 | Jair, a powerful nobleman, defended the people twenty-two years. Judg. x. 3. |
| 1445 | Josue, now grown old, is commanded by God to divide all the land on the west of the Jordan, among the nine tribes remaining and the half tribe of Manasses. Jos. xiii.—The kings of the north are overthrown, and their whole country is taken. Jos. xi. | 1187 | Jephthe, first rejected, but afterwards entreated by the ancients of the people, fought for them, and overthrew their enemies. Afterwards he made an indiscreet vow to offer his daughter in sacrifice. He killed in civil war forty-two thousand Ephraimites, and governed six years. Judg. xi. and xii. |
| 1434 | Josue gathers together all Israel, exhorts them to obedience, briefly recites God's benefits to them, renews the covenants between them and God, and dies, aged 110. Eleazar, the priest, dies the same year. Jos. xxiv. 33. The expedition and victory of Juda against the Chanaanites. Judg. i.—After the death of Josue, the Israelites, falling into idolatry, are oppressed by their enemies. An angel appearing to them, reproveth Israel. They weep for their sins. Judg. ii. | 1182 | Abesan, a fortunate good man, ruled in peace seven years. The people in this time of peace fall again into idolatry, for which God suffered the Philistines to afflict them. The tribe of Dan rob Michas. Judg. xii., xiii., and xviii.—About this time Booz, of the tribe of Juda, married Ruth, a Moabite, by whom the right line of Judas descended by Phares to David. Ruth iv., etc. |
| 1405 | Othoniel delivers the Israelites from the servitude which they were under to Chusan, and the land was quiet for forty years. Judg. iii. | 1175 | Ahialon governed likewise in peace ten years. Judg. xii. 11. |
| 1343 | Othoniel dying, the Israelites again sin against God, and are given up into the hands of Eglon, king of Moab. This second oppression lasted eighteen years. Judg. iii. | 1164 | Abdon, another nobleman, governed eight years. Judg. xii. 13. |
| 1325 | After him Aod, the second judge, killed Eglon, and so delivered Israel. He likewise slays 10,000 Moabites. After him Samgar, the son of Anath, kills 600 Philistines with an ox goad. Judg. iii. | 1137 | Samson born. Judg. xiii. 24. He did many heroical acts, killed many Philistines in his life, and more by his own death, which took place in the year of the world 2887. He governed twenty years. Judg. xiii. and xvi. |
| 1285 | Barach, by direction of Debbora, a prophetess, fighting against Sisara, chief captain of the king of Asor, Jahil, a stout woman, slew the same captain, striking a nail into his head. Judg. iv. They governed thirty-eight years. | 1116 | Heli, the high priest, dies. He governed Israel forty years. 1 Kings iv. 18.—Samuel, whose mother, being long barren, had presented him an infant in the temple, according to her vow, was a Nazarite and a prophet from a child (1 Kings i. and iii.); and after the death of Heli, governed the people before Saul twenty years, and with him twenty years more, and died. 1 Kings xxv. 1. |
| 1245 | Gedeon, confirmed by miracles that he was sent by God, overthrew the Madianites, and delivered Israel, governing forty years. Judg. vi., vii., and viii. | 1095 | By the importunity of the people to have a king, God appointed Samuel to anoint Saul. 1 Kings x. |
| 1236 | Abimelech, the base son of Gedeon, unjustly usurping authority, killed his seventy brethren, one only escaping; but within three years was hated of his followers, and slain by a woman. Judg. ix. | 1070 | Afterwards Saul declining from God, David is anointed by the prophet Samuel, and taken into Saul's family. 1 Kings xvi.—By the anointing of David, Saul was not actually deprived of the sceptre so long as he lived. |
| | | 1062 | David slew Goliath, the champion of the Philistines. 1 Kings xvii. |
| | | 1055 | Saul and his sons are slain. 1 Kings xxxi. David made king. 2 Kings ii. 4.—He ruled his kingdom as a true pattern to all kings. He wrote the book of Psalms, which are full of Divine knowledge; prepared means for building the temple, ordained divers sorts of musicians, and reigned forty years. |
| | | 1035 | At the end of this year, Joab, going with the army against the Ammonites, besieges Rabba, the metropolis of Ammon, whilst David takes his ease at Jerusalem, and commits adultery with Bethsabee, the wife of Urias, the Hethite, who was then in the army. David, not finding means to conceal his adultery with the wife of Urias, causes the latter to be slain. 2 Kings xi. |
| | | 1034 | After the death of Urias, David marries Bethsabee. The child gotten in adultery is born. David is convicted by Nathan, the prophet, of sin, and he repents: in testimony whereof he composes the 51st Psalm. The child dies. 2 Kings xii. |
| | | 1033 | Bethsabee being now David's wife, bears him a son; to whom, as to one that should prove a man of peace, God gives the name of Solomon. 2 Kings xii. 24. |
| | | 1015 | David gives orders to Solomon to build the temple. 1 Par. xxviii. 10. |
| | | 1014 | He dies in a good old age, and Solomon, his son, succeeds him. 1 Par. xxix. 28. |
| | | 1012 | Solomon layeth the foundation of the temple, in the 480th year after the departure of the children of Israel out of Egypt. 2 Par. iii. 2. |
| | | 1005 | The temple being finished, was then dedicated most solemnly, with exceeding great devotion of the king and | all the people, and with abundance of sacrifices. 2 Par. iv. 22.—And afterwards the same king Solomon wrote three sapiential books: Proverbs, Ecclesiastes, and the Canticle of Canticles. But in his old age fell from God, and it is uncertain whether he died penitent or not.

CHRONOLOGICAL INDEX TO THE OLD TESTAMENT.

B. C.

1005

975

Solomon dies, after reigning over Israel forty years. 2 Par. ix. 31.

The Israelites assemble at Sichem, in order to crown Roboam, Solomon's son, king over Israel. The people by Jeroboam sue to him for a removal of some grievance, to whom Roboam, by the advice of young counsellors, returning an harsh answer, alienates the hearts of ten tribes from him, who make Jeroboam king over them; and they fall at the same time from the house of David and the true worship of God.

Here follows the collateral lines of Juda and Israel:

Kings of Juda.

975

Roboam. He reigned seven-teen years. 3 Kings xiv. 21.

958

His son Abiam reigned wicked-ly three years. 3 Kings xv. 2.

955

Asa, a good king, destroyed idolatry, and reigned forty-one years. 3 Kings xv.

914

Josaphat governed the kingdom well twenty-five years, (3 Kings xxii. 42, and 43,) saving that he joined affinity with Achab, king of Israel, and with Jezabel. 2 Par. xviii. 1.

889

Joram reigned wickedly eight years. 4 Kings viii. 17, 18, and 2 Par. xxi. 5, 6. The three next are omitted by S. Matthew.

888

By the evil counsel of his mother Athalia, Ochozias governed wickedly one year, and was slain by Jehu, together with Joram, king of Israel. 4 Kings viii. 27, and ix. 27; 2 Par. xxii. 3, 9.

Quecn Athalia, murdering the children of her own son, the late king, usurped the kingdom six years. 4 Kings xi. 1.

The youngest son of Ochozias, called Joas, being saved from the slaughter, was made king by means of Joiada, high priest, and Athalia was slain. 4 Kings xi. 4. He governed well during the life of Joiada, but afterwards fell into idolatry, and caused Zacharias, the high priest, and son of Joiada, to be slain. 2 Par. xxiv. 22. Shortly after, the same king was treacherously slain, when he had reigned forty-one years. 4 Kings xii. 20, and 2 Par. xxiv. 25.

839

Amasias beginning well, did some good things: but after the spoil of the Idumeans, he worshipped their idols. 2 Par. xxv. 14.

810

Ozias reigned well for some time; but afterwards presuming to offer incense on the altar, was repelled by the high priests, and presently struck with leprosy, and cast out of the temple and city. He began to reign in the 27th year of Jeroboam II., and reigned in all fifty-two years. 4 Kings xv.; 2 Par. xxvi.

Kings of Israel.

Jeroboam, the first king of the ten tribes. He reigned twenty-two years. 3 Kings xii.

After him were these kings of divers families of the same ten tribes; Nadab, son of Jeroboam, reigned two years (3 Kings xiv.); Baasa, of the tribe of Issachar, reigned twenty-four years (3 Kings xv.); Ela two years (3 Kings xvi.); Zambri but seven days (3 Kings xvi.); Amri twelve years, whereof Thebni reigned in civil wars against him three years. 3 Kings xvi. 22.

Achab married Jezabel, a Sidonian, and served Baal, reigning twenty-one years. 3 Kings x., etc.

Ochozias reigned two years. 3 Kings xxii. 52.

Joram reigned twelve years. 4 Kings iii.

Jehu killed Joram and Jezabel, destroying the whole house of Achab, and reigned eight years. 4 Kings ix. and x.

Joachaz reigned seventeen years. 4 Kings xiii.

Joas reigned sixteen years. 4 Kings xiii. 10.

Jeroboam II. reigned forty-one years. 4 Kings xiv. 23.

Zacharias reigned six months. 4 Kings xv. 8.

Sellum one month. 4 Kings xv. 13.

Manahem reigned ten years. 4 Kings xv. 22.

B. C.

758

Kings of Juda.

Joathan, a godly king, governed a great part of his father's time, and after his death sixteen years. 4 Kings xv., and 2 Par. xxvii.

742

Achaz, a wicked king, after having received many benefits from God, fell into idolatry, reigning sixteen years, destroyed the holy vessels, shut up the temple, and perverted many of the people. 4 Kings xvi., and 2 Par. xxviii.

727

Ezechias, a most godly king, advanced true religion, which was much decayed. He recovered health when mortally sick, which was confirmed to him by a miracle, in the sun's returning back ten degrees. For this latter effect of God's mercy, he made a canticle of praise to him. He reigned twenty-nine years. 4 Kings xviii.; 2 Par. xix., etc. During this king's reign, Sennacherib, the Assyrian, besieges and takes many of the fenced cities of Juda, but is pacified by a tribute. 4 Kings xviii.

698

Manasses, for his great sins, was carried away captive into Babylon; where he repented, and was restored to his kingdom. He reigned and lived in captivity fifty-five years. 4 Kings xxi.

Judith killeth Holofernes either about this time or in the days of Manasses, before the captivity. See pref. to Judith.

643

Amon succeeded his father Manasses, and reigned evil two years. 4 Kings xxi. 18.

641

Josias, (the son of Anion,) a very good king, purged the Church of idolatry, repaired the temple, and celebrated a most solemn Pasch. He died after reigning thirty-one years, deeply lamented by all the people, being slain in battle by the king of Egypt. 4 Kings xxii. and xxiii.

609

Joachaz, otherwise called Jechonias, after having reigned three months, was carried into Egypt, where he died; and Eliacim, otherwise called Joakim, his brother, was made king, who in the third year of his reign was carried into Babylon, and with him Daniel and the other three children. 4 Kings xxiii.; 2 Par. xxxvi.; Dan. i. Shortly after which time happened the history of Susanna. Dan. xiii. Joakim, after his reign of three years, lived other eight years in captivity. 4 Kings xxiv.

589

Joachin, son of the former Joachaz, reigned but three months, and was carried captive to Babylon, and with him Ezechiell, the prophet, and others; and his uncle, Mathanias, (otherwise named Sedecias,) was made king, who reigned eleven years. 4 Kings xxiv.; 2 Par. xxxvi.

588

In the eleventh year of Sedecias, when king Jechonias, the younger, was prisoner in Babylon, Jerusalem was taken, the temple destroyed, and the people carried into Babylon. 4 Kings xxv.; 2 Par. xxxv.—In the mean time Daniel was in high estimation both with the faithful people and pagans, and was advanced to authority, as also by his means the other children; for which they were envied and persecuted but were miraculously protected. Dan. i., etc.—Ismael killeth Godolias, who had been appointed by Nabuchodonosor governor over the people who remained in Juda. 4 Kings xxv. 25.

588

Jeremias, Ezechiell, and others denounce God's judgments against the Edomites, insulting over the Jews when in captivity. Jer. xlix., etc.

569

Nabuchodonosor, elate with his victories over Egypt, Juda, etc., and the magnificence of his buildings, turns mad, and is driven from human society. After seven years spent among the beasts, feeding upon grass, he returns to a state of sanity, humbles himself before God, and is restored. Soon after he dies. Dan. iv.—Evilmerodac, his

Kings of Israel.

Phaceia two years. 4 Kings xv.

23. Phacee reigned twenty years. 4 Kings xv. 27.

In the twelfth year of Achaz, king of Juda, Osee had reigned over Israel nine years. Salmanasar, the Assyrian king, having rendered Osee tributary, the latter consulting with Sua, the king of Egypt, refuses to continue the tribute. Salmanasar provoked at the conduct of Osee, and jealous of the confederacy, lays siege to Samaria, and takes it, carrying the Israelites away captives. 4 Kings xvii.

Here endeth the kingdom of Israel.

- B. C.
569 son, succeeds him in the thirty-seventh year of Jechonias's captivity, whom he delivers from prison, and sets him above all his courtiers at his own table. 4 Kings xxvi. 27.
From the captivity of the Jews there were no kings; but the line of David continued in the following persons: Jechonias, Salathiel, Zorobabel, Abiud, Eliacim, Azor, Sadoc, Achim, Eliud, Eleazar, Mathan, Jacob, and Joseph, the husband of the blessed Virgin, of whom was born Jesus Christ. See S. Matthew, chap. i., etc.
- 555 Baltassar, who had succeeded his father, Evilmerodac, having made a great feast, causeth all the vessels of the Lord's house, brought by Nabuchodonosor from Jerusalem, to be used in honour of his idols: a hand appears writing on the wall of the room where they were carousing, at which the king being greatly terrified, sends for his Chaldean astrologers, who could neither read nor interpret the writing. But Daniel does both, and therefore he is declared the third man in the kingdom. That night the king is slain, Babylon taken by Cyrus, and the empire translated to the Medes and Persians, as had been frequently foretold by the prophets. Cyrus giving the kingdom of Babylon to Darius, the Mede, reserving some places, returns into Persia. Daniel's greatness caused considerable envy among some of the courtiers, and they determine upon his ruin. He is cast into a den of lions. He is miraculously preserved from injury. See Dan. v. and vi.
- 536 Cyrus succeeding Darius, released the Jews from captivity, and gave licence to Zorobabel and Jesus to bring back the people into Judea. 2 Par. xxxvi. 22; 1 Esd. i.
- 535 In the 2d year after their return, Levites are appointed to lay the foundation of the temple, and oversee the work.
- 529 Artaxerxes (otherwise called Cambyses) forbids the building of the temple to proceed. 1 Esd. iv. 7.
- 520 In the second year of Darius Hystaspes, Zorobabel and Jesus set forward the building. Aggeus prophesies that the second temple shall be greater than the former, in regard that the Messiah should honour it with his presence. Agg. ii.
- 519 Assuerus espouses Esther. Esth. i. and ii.
- 515 In the sixth year of Assuerus the temple was finished, and its dedication celebrated and the Passover kept.
- 510 Wicked Aman, seeking to destroy all the Jews, was himself hanged on the gallows he had prepared for Mardochai. Esth. vii.
- 455 Nehemias obtains the king's edict for repairing the walls of Jerusalem. 2 Esd. ii.
- 335 Alexander of Macedon passing into Asia, lays waste Persia. Jos. Ant.
- 332 Manasses (brother of Jaddus, the high priest) refusing to quit his strange wife, is driven out. Sanballat, his father-in-law, governor of Samaria, revolts from Darius, and obtains leave of Alexander to build a temple on Garizim, making Manasses high priest. Hence the rise of the schism of the Samaritans. See John iv. 20.—Alexander likewise honoureth Jaddus, the high priest. Joseph. Ant., lib. 11, c. 8.
- 277 By advice of Demetrius Phalereus, seventy-two Jews are employed to translate the Scripture into Greek.
- 176 Antiochus Epiphanes, succeeding Seleucus in Syria, reigns eleven years and some months. 1 Mac. i.
- 175 Jason, by corruption, obtains the high priesthood from Antiochus. 2 Mac. iv.
- 170 Antiochus sacks Jerusalem, pillages the temple, and destroys 40,000 inhabitants. Endeavours to abolish the true worship of God, forcing many to renounce their religion, by the most cruel torments. 1 Mac. i.
- 167 Antiochus, by edict, commands all his subjects to profess the Grecian religion, on pain of death. Many of the Jews choose the most cruel deaths. 1 and 2 Mac., etc.
- Mathathias, with his five sons, slay those sent by Antiochus, and fly to the desert. Many others follow, numbers of whom are stifled in caves, making no defence on the sabbath. Mathathias abolishes that superstition, and exhorts his sons to assert their country's cause. Mathathias
- B. C.
167 dying, Judas Machabeus succeeds, who delivers his country, and purges it of their abominations. 1 Mac. ii. and iii., etc.
- 164 Antiochus dies. 1 Mac. vi.
- 163 His son, Antiochus Eupator, succeeds him, and makes peace with the Jews, which he soon breaks, putting Mene-laüs, the high priest, to death, and raises Alcimus to that office. 2 Mac. xiii. and xiv.
- 162 Demetrius Soter, son of Seleucus, comes into Syria, where he is crowned king. 1 Mac. vii.
- 161 Demetrius Soter sends a large army under Nicanor against Judas, in which the former is slain. 1 Mac. vii.—Demetrius likewise sends Bacchides with 20,000 men against Judas, who opposes him with 800, and is slain. His brother Jonathan is chosen in his stead, who enters into alliance with the Romans, the first made between the two nations. 1 Mac. viii. 19. See Josephus.
- 160 Alcimus commanding the inner court of all the temple to be pulled down, is struck with a palsy, and dies miserably. 1 Mac. ix. 55.
- 158 Jonathan compels Bacchides to a league, and to retire from Judea. 1 Mac. ix. 70.
- 153 Alexander Balas, son of Antiochus Epiphanes, enters Syria. Demetrius desires an alliance with Jonathan. Alexander Balas is no less importunate with him, and makes him high priest. 1 Mac. x.
- 150 Demetrius is slain by Alexander. 1 Mac. x. 50.
- 148 Jonathan defeats Demetrius Nicanor, son of the former; takes Joppe and Azotus, and burns the temple of Dagon. 1 Mac. x. 75, etc.
- 145 Jonathan besieges the citadel of Jerusalem.
- 143 After various exploits of Jonathan against his enemies, he is at last slain by the treachery of Tryphon. The Jews choose Simon Machabeus in his stead. 1 Mac. xi. and xii.
- 142 The government and high priesthood was made hereditary in Simon, by whose means the Jews were discharged from all foreign tribute. He took Sion, drove out all idolaters, and placed true worshippers in the city. 1 Mac. xiv.
- 135 Simon, and his two sons, murdered by his son-in-law, Ptolemee. 1 Mac. xvi.
- Hircanus succeeded his father, Simon, in the high priesthood. Jos. Ant., l. 13, c. 12.
- 107 Judas or Aristobulus, surnamed Philellan, eldest son of Hircanus, succeeded him as governor and high priest. Joseph. Ant., l. 13, c. 19.
- 88 Anna, the prophetess, becoming a widow, serves night and day in the temple, for eighty-four years till she sees Christ. Luke ii. 37.
- 63 Jerusalem is taken by Pompey. Jos. l. 1, Bel. c. 5, l. 14, c. 8.
- 37 Herod, son of Antipater, declared king of Judea by the Romans, by the assistance of whose general, Sosius, sieges and takes Jerusalem. Antigonus, prince and high priest, is carried to Rome by Sosius, and Herod possesses the whole kingdom. See Josephus.
- 31 About this time Hilliel, a descendant of David, was born at Jerusalem, whose disciple, Jonathan, was the author of the Chaldee paraphrase.
- 28 Cæsar Octavianus, nephew of Julius, assumes the name of emperor, with the consent of the senate and people.
- 27 Herod rebuilds the temple forty-six years before the first passover of Christ's ministry, and finishes it in nine years and a half. Dionys. lib. 52. Jos. Ant., lib. 20, etc.
- 1 Gabriel appearing to Zachary, the priest, in the temple, tells him of a son that shall be born to him, whom he shall call John, who shall be a Nazarite, and forerunner of the Lord in the spirit and power of Elias. Luke i. 11.
- In the sixth month after John's conception, the same angel is sent to Nazareth to the blessed Virgin Mary, and tells her she shall conceive by the overshadowing of the Holy Ghost, bring forth a son, and call his name Jesus. Luke i. 26.
- John the Baptist born, six months before our Lord. Luke i. 57.

THIS CERTIFIES THAT

The inside of a AND the inside of of Grange of Grange
State of Indiana State of Indiana

WERE UNITED IN CONJUGATION

ACCORDING TO THE RITE OF THE HOLY ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH

at Indianapolis on the 12 day of Sept in the Year of Our Lord One Thousand Eight Hundred and Eighty
By Rev Father Nadeau P. P.
Nicholas Carey Joseph Williams

WITNESSES

MARRIAGES

Thomas William Hall to Lucy Ann Lynch ^{New York} January 8-1910

Joseph Walter Lynch to Katherine Trimmer at Montreal Nov. 28-1911

Henry Ellis Lynch to Bertha Truett, Montreal, Jan. 7, 1915

James Arthur Lynch to Dora Ladouas, Montreal, July 19, 1916

Ellen Catherine Lynch to John Daley, Montreal, June 5, 1917

Eunice Irene Lynch to John R. Mayes, Montreal, June 11, 1918

BIRTHS.

James Edward Lynch Born at Granby November 11th 1863
Prudence Ida Hull Born at Granby April 21st 1861
Michael William Edward Born at Granby January 14th 1883
Mary Francis Lynch Born at Granby June 9th 1884
Lucy Ann Lynch Born at Granby August 11th 1885
Charles Edward Lynch Born at Granby December 8th 1887
Joseph Walter Harold Lynch Born at Granby July 20th 1891
Harry Ellis Lynch Born at Granby December 22, 1890
James Arthur Lynch Born at Granby November 16, 1892
Ellen Catherine Lynch Born at Granby July 12, 1894
Gordon Raymond Lynch Born at Granby July 20, 1896
Fannie Irene Lynch Born at Granby March 7, 1898
Ruth Ida Lynch Born at Granby December 28, 1899
Copied by Annie Lynch March 27, 1902.

DEATHS.

Mrs. James Edward Lynch died at Granby January 23-1900

Ruth Ida Lynch daughter " " Granby August 2-1900

Mary Francis died at Granby April 1-1855

Thomas Hall died at Watbury Conn June 17-1914

John Lally died at Montreal Que. August 22-1922

Catherine Gore Lynch ^{second wife} died at Montreal May 23-1934

Gordon R. Lynch Killed in ^{explosion} Biloxi Jan 23-1937

Joseph Waller Harold Lynch died Austin Texas Jan 26-1945

Rev. C. E. Lynch J.C.H. died in Buffalo Oct. 26-1945

James E. Lynch. Father died in Buffalo May 11-1947

James Arthur Lynch died in Montreal May 19-1947

Rev. Bro. ^{Marcellus} John Michael died in St-Hyacinthe March 10/60

MEMORANDA

Willie made his 1st Communion and was confirmed May 24 1894

Ann made her 1st Communion May 30 1894 was confirmed October 7 1896

Phelix made his 1st Communion May 18 1898 was confirmed July 4 1898

Walter made his 1st Communion June 3rd 1900 was confirmed June 18th 1900

Barry made his 1st Communion May 21st 1902 and confirmed July 7th 1902

Arthur made his 1st Communion June 4th 1903 and confirmed May 9th 1906

Helen made her 1st Communion June 13th 1907 and confirmed Oct 3rd 1907

Jordan made his first Communion and confirmed on May 5th 1908

Enrice made her 1st Communion May 5th 1908 and confirmed same day

Willie took the gown Dec. 8th 1898 and the cross and Cross Aug 23, 1905

Charles took the gown Dec. 8th 1902 and the Cross Aug. 1, 1904

Charles was ordained a Priest - Sept - 24 - 1921

Charles said his first Mass Sept - 25 1921

LIFE OF THE BLESSED VIRGIN MARY, MOTHER OF CHRIST;

FROM THE NEW TESTAMENT SCRIPTURES, AND THE BEST TRADITIONS OF THE EAST, AS ACCEPTED BY THE GREEK AND LATIN FATHERS.

BY

BERNARD O'REILLY, D.D., L.D.

(Graduate of LAVAL UNIVERSITY, Quebec.)

Copyright, 1884.

I.

OF Mary the Mother of our Lord, and of His reputed father, Joseph, the Gospels only make such mention as connects them with His personal history. But when He had ascended into Heaven, and when the religion which He had founded spread throughout the East and the West, filling not only Palestine but the surrounding countries with flourishing Christian churches, it was both natural and inevitable that every follower of His should feel a deep interest in knowing all about these revered parents of His and their entire family. And this inquiry was stimulated by the misstatements and calumnies of the Jews regarding Mary and Joseph.

We need only recall the names of a few of the early Christian writers who record the traditions collected in Judæa itself, in the very places where the Mother of Christ and her family had lived—traditions coming down to us from the age of the Apostles, put in writing by their disciples, and repeated by the most enlightened and saintly scholars of the four succeeding centuries. Foremost among these names stands that of S. JEROME; not, as everybody knows, that he is first in the order of time, but because, in the opinion of all who believe in Christ, he labored most successfully in the native land of Jesus and Mary and Joseph, to gather and transmit to all coming generations the inspired writings of the Old and the New Testaments, together with all the historical knowledge which could throw light on them.

MARY, MOTHER OF GOD.

After S. Jerome come S. Justin Martyr, the great Origen, S. Epiphanius and S. John Damascene (both natives of Palestine), S. Gregory of Nyssa and S. Gregory Nazianzen, natives of Asia Minor, like Origen; S. Cyril of Jerusalem, S. John Chrysostom (a native of Antioch); S. Ambrose and S. Augustine, both contemporaries of S. Jerome. Such are a few of the sainted names which vouch for the existence and the authority of the traditions relating to the parentage of the Blessed Virgin Mary, to her birth and early life up to the point where S. Luke and S. Matthew take up the thread of the narrative in their Gospels. The same respected authorities supply the facts of Mary's life after the Ascension of our Lord. She was too dear to the heart of the early church, to the grateful veneration of the last and best beloved disciple of the Lord, John the Evangelist, not to be cared for reverently and tenderly by all these fervent followers of the Master; so that the details of her latest life and of her blessed death must have been remembered and recorded by the first generations of Christians—her own spiritual children all of them—most of them her own countrymen, and many of them her blood-relations.

With these preliminary remarks we may confidently enter upon our task—that of condensing into a few pages the Life of her who is the Second Eve, the Mother of the True Life, most dear to every one who holds Christ to be the Second Adam, the Messiah, the Restorer and Saviour of our race.

II.

The birth-place of Mary was that same town of Nazareth, in Lower Galilee, where was also the home of Joseph, and where, during the first thirty years of His life, the Word Incarnate was to live in obscurity and toil. S. Justin Martyr, himself a native of Palestine, who defended the faith by his writings and died for it, within fifty years after the death of S. John the Evangelist, says, that Mary was descended in a direct line from King David. Her father's name was Joachim. The Jewish writers give him also the name of Heli; the Arabic traditions of Palestine and the early commentators of the Koran call him Imram or Amram. His wife's name was Anna or Hanna, according to these same authorities. She was of the tribe of Levi.

Of these two venerable personages S. John Damascene writes as one who is only giving utterance to the living, uninterrupted testimony of the populations of Lower Galilee, when he eulogizes their virtues. This universal veneration, as soon as the Christian Religion was allowed to be professed openly, found its expression in the churches erected in the East under the invocation of S. Joachim and S. Anna. The Emperor Justinian, in 550, had one built in Constantinople, which bore the name of S. Anna down to the conquest of the city by the Turks. The reverence thus paid from the beginning of Christianity to the immediate ancestors of our Lord, is founded both on their own recorded holiness of life and on the exquisite jealousy with which the Christian conscience watched over everything nearly related to the great fact of the Incarnation. The early heretics denied its reality; asserted that the body born of the Virgin and nailed to the cross was only a shadowy body, but no substantial human flesh; in a word, that Christ was no true man, and only had the outward appearance of one. Hence the scrupulousness with which every circumstance was examined that bore on the all-important fact of His being in very deed, "bone of our bone, and flesh of our flesh," as well as "True God of True God."

The veneration paid to His Mother and her parents was reflected on Christ Himself, while it strengthened in the mind of the believer the faith in the God made Man. Hence the piety, borne witness to by Justinian at Constantinople and by S. John Chrysostom at Antioch, was the same that inspired the youthful Martin Luther, long ages afterward, to vow to S. Ann to embrace a monastic life. It was that which prompted the populations of Brittany to pay such devout homage to Sainte Anne d'Auray, and the first Canadian colonists to build, on the shore of the S. Lawrence, that famous chapel before which, departing and returning, every vessel cast anchor, in order that the crew might go thither to worship Jesus, born of the Virgin Mary, to beseech, on their journey across the deep, the protection of Mary's sainted mother, or to thank her for their delivery from storm and shipwreck. All this was natural to true believers.

It is said that the child Mary was sent, like Samuel to the pious Anna of the Old Testament, as a reward to ardent prayer after long sterility. The Moslem traditions, echoing those of the Galilean populations, affirm that the mother of the Blessed Virgin, when she first knew that her prayer was heard, knelt in thanksgiving, and said: "O Lord, I vow to consecrate to Thee the child which Thou hast given me: accept graciously my offering, O Thou to whom everything is known." And this same voice of Arab tradition, echoing the constant belief of the early Christians of Palestine, attests also the privilege claimed for Mary by the Church, and solemnly decreed as an article of faith on December 8, 1854—that of having been, by a special application of the saving grace of her Son, preserved from the stain of original sin. This is what is called her "Immaculate Conception." It was most fitting that the Second Eve, the humble and self-sacrificing parent of our redeemed humanity, should have been, at the very instant when soul and body were united, as free from every stain of moral evil as the first Eve, when the Almighty hand formed her body from out the substance of sinless Adam, and poured the breath of life into it. Even the Jewish traditions, long before the coming of Christ, affirmed the current belief from the days of the Patriarchs and from the beginning, that the stain of Adam's sin was not to touch the Messiah or His Mother. Mohammed himself bore witness to the universal existence of this belief among the nations descended from Abraham, whether Christian or not.

Anna's blessed child was born on September 8, in the year of Rome 734, that is, twenty years before the Christian era. In the Koran (chapter iii.), it is said that when the babe was born, her mother said: "O God, I have brought into the world a daughter, and have named her Miriam (Mary). I place both her and her posterity under Thy protection; preserve them from the designs of Satan."

The solemn ceremony of naming a new-born babe was performed by the Jews on the eighth day after the birth. Hence it is that the solemnity of the Holy Name of Mary is celebrated by the Church on the Sunday within the Octave of the Nativity, or that following the 8th of September. When the child had attained her third year, her parents, in fulfilment of their vow to consecrate her to God, took her from Nazareth to Jerusalem, and gave her up to the priests to be educated within the vast precincts of the temple, where other children, similarly dedicated by vow to the life of Nazarites, were brought up together.

From the first age of Christianity a house was pointed out to pilgrims and visitors as the house of S. Ann. Over this spot, as over every other made sacred by memories connected with our Lord and His Mother, the faithful kept loving watch throughout the evil days of Moslem domination. And we should not forget that, inasmuch as S. Ann herself was held in great reverence by the followers of the Koran, so when Jerusalem fell into their hands, they hastened to change into a mosque or place of Mohammedan worship, the oratory built on the site by the Christians. So did they manifest their veneration for all other places held most dear by Christians; their special regard for burial-places forbidding them from appropriating to their own religious uses the church raised over the Holy Sepulchre by S. Helena. When the Crusaders conquered Jerusalem and established a kingdom in Palestine, their piety led them to build churches and monasteries at all spots in the Holy City and throughout the kingdom hallowed by the memory of our Lord, His Mother, and His ancestors. Thus they erected a monastery with a church on the traditional site of the house of S. Ann; when Jerusalem fell afterward into the hands of Saladin, the church and monastery became a mosque, held in very great respect by its new masters.

Even so near the splendid mosque of Omar (El-Aksa), which at this day occupies the site of the temple, is a smaller one, Es-Sakhra ("the Rock"), built on the spot where Mary and the other maidens, bound by Nazarite vows, lived during their seclusion. Thus, we have monumental records recalling the childhood and girlhood of our Lady.

The Crusaders converted the humble chapel which stood on this "Rock," into a splendid church, surmounted by a gilt cupola and a lofty cross. Here, then, was spent the life of the Blessed Virgin from her third year upward. It was during the rule of Herod the Great, an Idumean, who had married Mariamne, a descendant of the Machabean line of princes, and thereby conciliated the favor of some of the most influential among the Jews. He restored the temple with the utmost magnificence, thus still further winning popular applause. He also built Cesarea on the sea-coast of the Mediterranean, naming it after the Emperor Augustus, together with other important cities here and there. But, to offset the service rendered to the national religion by the restoration and adornment of the temple, he erected in the cities, by him founded, magnificent houses of worship to the gods of Rome.

It was while this clever, but unscrupulous, prince was pushing forward the costly works on the temple, that Mary was being educated within its precincts.

In what this education consisted we can only conjecture from the ascertained Jewish customs of that age, and from the fragmentary passages of Eastern fathers. The "Proto-Gospel of S. James," a work held in general esteem during the first centuries of the Christian era, describes Mary as seated before a spindle of wool dyed purple. The Jews had borrowed and inherited from their neighbors, the Phenicians, the art of giving to the fabrics they wove that exquisite purple dye so much prized in the ancient world. Besides this, S. Epiphanius says that the Blessed Virgin was skilled in embroidery, and in weaving wool, fine linen, and cloth of gold. Especially careful were the priests, after the Captivity, to teach these privileged maidens, and all the youth of the upper classes, the knowledge of the Hebrew Scriptures. What the study of these must have been to one "full of grace," like the future Mother of the Redeemer, we need only suggest to the intelligent reader.

In these peaceful studies and useful occupations, varied by the stirring scenes of the gorgeous Jewish worship, passed Mary's girlhood. Meanwhile, as tradition informs us, both her parents closed a holy life by the death of the saints. Her father died first, when his daughter was in her thirteenth year; and she returned to Nazareth to the house of her widowed mother. When the latter was also called to her reward, it became the duty of her nearest relatives to find her a protector and a husband among her own tribesmen, in accordance with the prescriptions of the Mosaic Law.

S. Gregory of Nyssa, who follows the best traditions of the East, relates that the noble maiden was unwilling to be bound by the ties of matrimony, and besought her kinsfolk to allow her to return to the temple and continue there the secluded Virginal life which alone had a charm for her. To this they peremptorily refused to consent; and the orphan had, perforce, to choose the man who should be her husband and protector—one who, in the hidden councils of God, was to be the guardian of the Messiah and His Mother, their devoted companion and support—and, through all the Christian ages, the Protector, under God, of all those who believe in the Saviour.

Here come in the beautiful legends which have inspired Christian art, concerning the rivalry among the unwedded kinsmen of Mary for the honor of claiming her as bride. Among the descendants of David assembled in Nazareth, or in Jerusalem, at the town-house of Joachim and Ann, was Joseph, who, impoverished, as were most of his kinsfolk, supported himself amid the hills and obscurity of Galilee, by following the trade of what the Gospels call "a carpenter," or what we would more properly call "a cabinet-maker." Among the many thriving cities and industrious populations of Galilee, the art of inlaying was much in demand. He too, like Mary, like the numerous bodies of Essenes, who practiced a life of self-imposed abstinence and seclusion, aiming at a moral perfection above the reach of the multitude—aspired to the Virginal life. By what inspiration, then, was he impelled to be a suitor for the hand of his kinswoman? Or were the names of all the persons eligible for that honor submitted to the Maiden in a list, permitting her to draw by lot from among the number? Having to be so intimately connected with the Saviour in His helpless infancy and childhood, Joseph was, of course, under a special providence; and our own

THE ANNUNCIATION.

Christian sense must divine and supply many links in the chain of facts that fill up his history.

S. Jerome, recalling the ancient tradition preserved in the narrative of the "Proto-Gospel of S. James," tells us that the suitors, after praying to Him in whose hand are our lots, brought each to the temple a rod of almond-tree, and left it over night before the altar. On the morrow, that which bore the name of Joseph had blossomed. It was a renewal of the miracle by which God in the Old Law had confirmed the sons of Aaron in the priestly office. This is the event referred to in Raphael's first and pure master-piece, "The Marriage of the Blessed Virgin."

Mary, become the wife of the blameless and high-minded man thus selected by Providence, went to reside in her ancestral home at Nazareth. It is six months after the message delivered to Zachary in the temple—that he shall be given a son to be called John. He shall be great before the Lord . . . shall be filled with the Holy Ghost before his birth. He is the precursor of the Messiah, who shall herald the approach of the long-expected Saviour and point Him out, walking the earth in our flesh. The "fulness of time" has come. From before the throne of the Highest the same angelic messenger descends to announce the accomplishment of what is God's work above all others.

"The Angel Gabriel was sent from God into a city of Galilee, called Nazareth, to a Virgin espoused to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David, and the Virgin's name was MARY. And the Angel being come in, said unto her: Hail, full of grace, the Lord is with thee: Blessed art thou among women; who, having heard, was troubled at his saying, and thought with herself what manner of salutation this should be."

"The lowly maiden, among the many graces with which her soul overflowed, above all, possessed humility. She was alarmed, not so much by the presence of the angel, as by the reverence with which he addressed her. The divine favors already lavished upon her have not begotten pride. It is a characteristic of Christian sanctity, that its possessors, while intensely grateful to the Divine Goodness for every favor in the natural and supernatural order, are still most painfully conscious of their own shortcomings. The nearer God lifts them to Himself the more exalted becomes their ideal of moral perfection, the more severely do they compare what they are at the present moment, with what they might and ought to be. But the dignity that awaits Mary, singular and incommunicable as it is, had never entered into the visions of attainable holiness presented to her mind by the Spirit of God.

"The Angel calms her fears by announcing the object of his mission. She is divinely chosen in the eternal counsels to be the mother of the long-promised Redeemer, JESUS. He shall be great, and shall be called the Son of the Most High; and the Lord shall give to Him the throne of David, His father, and He shall reign in the house of Jacob forever; and of his kingdom there shall be no end."

The youth of Mary, her voluntary or enforced poverty, and her having placed herself as an affianced bride under the protection of a kinsman, . . . have not deadened in her bosom the yearning for the appearance of 'the Orient from on High,' the longing for the restoration of her own royal house. Patriotism and religion were intended by God to be one undivided and absorbing sentiment in the breast of every Hebrew woman as well as man. The daughter of David, then, must have been thrilled by the Heaven-sent assurance of the resurrection of David's line, of the coming glory and eternity of the new kingdom. But that it should be through son of hers overwhelms her. Genuine humility is not littleness of soul: it merely gives the soul an intense feeling of the distance which exists between what our own will has made us, and what God wills us to be. It is, therefore, at bottom, a vivid sense of the deficiency of one's own will in conforming with the Divine. But when it becomes clearly known to the humble soul that God requires of her the sublimest efforts of self-sacrifice, her very humility being a supernatural and irresistible tendency toward accomplishing His purpose, she puts forth a strength and a magnanimity all divine in doing what is most heroic and most painful.

"Did the divine light which must have flooded that favored soul on this occasion—unique in the whole economy of the supernatural government—enable Mary to perceive that, to become the Mother of the Second Adam she must fulfil the part of the Second Eve? that His triumph must be through suffering; that His diadem was to be a crown of thorns, and His death that of an executed criminal, the horror and abomination of His own and of all civilized peoples? If so, her acceptance of such motherhood meant a share in all this shame and torture of soul. Thus was humility satisfied; it should have its sublimest satisfaction in the cross, in her companionship with the Crucified.

"Light having been given her to understand the operations of the Divine Power, and the scruples both of her humility and her purity having been removed by the words of the Angel, she bows herself to the Divine Will, and accepts the awful responsibilities of Mother of the Redeemer. Behold the handmaid of the Lord; be it done unto me according to thy word. And the Angel departed from her." (HEROIC WOMEN OF THE BIBLE AND THE CHURCH.)

She was related on her mother's side, at least, to Elizabeth and Zachary, the parents of the Baptist, whose approaching birth the Angel had revealed to her. Probably these noble relatives had been the comforters of Anna in her widowhood, and the consolers as well of Mary herself in the first period of her orphaned life. Her first thought is to visit their privileged home. It was a long journey to the southern extremity of Judæa, and over perilous roads. But the Spirit who henceforth is the very soul of that Blessed Mother's soul, is one of generosity; and Mary goes on her way rejoicing. She is the Ark of the New Covenant, bearing over the mountains and through the valleys of Judæa, not the manna put within the former ark by Moses together with the Tables of the Law. Here is He, who is the true Bread of Life, the Divine Law-Giver, the very "Angel of the Testament" Himself. And as Mary crosses the threshold of Elizabeth, John feels the presence of Jesus; at the approach of "the Bridegroom," His "Friend" is quickened with the pulses of a new life. His mother "cried out with a loud voice . . . Blessed art thou among women! . . . And whence is this to me that the Mother of my Lord should come to me?" . . .

Mary, unwilling to deny what has been revealed to her saintly kinswoman, only thinks of referring the homage paid to herself to Him from whom every perfect gift descendeth. The light of prophecy floods her soul, as the future ages are spread out before her, and she pours forth the strains of the sublime song, which has ever since been the hymn of Christian triumph and thanksgiving:

"My soul doth magnify the Lord,
And my spirit hath rejoiced in God my Saviour!
Because He hath regarded the humility of His handmaid;
For behold from henceforth all nations shall call me Blessed.
For He that is Mighty hath done great things to me,
And Holy is His name."

"Three months did Mary abide with Elizabeth, not seeking the public eye, but both of them communing with God in prayer, in obedience to the Holy Spirit who filled them; and increasing in their own souls the zeal for His glory and for the salvation of His people. So entirely does Mary trust to the divine wisdom to disclose the secret of her heart, that, on her return to Nazareth, she makes no mention of it to Joseph. She is rewarded for her absolute trust: an angel is sent to this prudent and God-fearing man to apprise him of the Treasure lying hidden beneath his roof. He is thenceforth to be the faithful steward in God's family on earth, guarding and cherishing the two Beings in all creation the most precious in the sight of Heaven—that exalted Mother and her Babe. Joseph too, if not in very deed a Nazarite like John, received a portion above his brethren: Christ, during His helpless infancy and boyhood, was to be his sole care and portion. Christ and His Mother were to look up to him, under God's providence, as their head, guide and support. He could not but understand, once the Angel of the Lord had revealed to him Mary's secret, that of all just men whom Heaven had most favored till then, none were so privileged as himself. For beneath his lowly roof he now held the new Parents of restored humanity foreshown to Adam at Eve in the Garden. On his head were accumulated the blessings prophesied by Jacob to the first Joseph (Gen. xlix. 25, 26): 'the blessings of Heaven above, with the blessings of the deep that lieth beneath, until the desire of the everlasting hills shall come.' He has come; ere long Joseph shall look upon His face, and hold Him in his arms, and hear His voice uttering words of filial love and gratitude."—(HEROIC WOMEN OF THE BIBLE AND THE CHURCH.)

III.

The glory of our Second Eve is, that her life, from this period to the Ascension of her Son, will be identified with His; and that from His Ascension till her death at Ephesus, her sole care was to sustain and comfort the infant Church, so sorely tried in Palestine.

In Bethlehem Joseph was born, and to Bethlehem a mere accident compels Joseph and Mary to go, just as she is about to give birth to her child. They went thither in obedience to an Imperial Decree enjoining on all persons within the Roman empire to be registered in their native places. S. John the Evangelist, a near relative of the Blessed Virgin, and the disciple so dearly loved by her Son, says of the Incarnate Word, the Light of the World: "He was in the world, and the world was made by Him, and the world knew Him not. He came unto His own, and His own received Him not." Whatever may have been the circumstances that explain the fact—the fact is recorded by the Gospel, that in Bethlehem, the city of David, where Booz bestowed on Ruth, the Moabite, such kindly countenance and courteous hospitality, no one house was opened, at the hour of her sorest need, to the greatest of David's daughters, the gentle Mother of the Messiah. . . . They arrived, sore-footed and weary, at its gates, when night had already fallen. The town was full. "There was no room for them in the Inn." They sought, on the outskirts of the town, one of those natural caves, the shelter for the shepherd in stormy weather, the refuge of the poor way-farer at all times. "And she brought forth her first-born Son and wrapped Him up in swaddling clothes, and laid Him in a manger."

We do not deplore that it so befell both Mother and Babe. It was meet that He who came to "make all things new" in the world of morality, should have elected to be born in the most abject destitution. He had come to condemn the ill-uses of wealth, and to inculcate the blessedness of that spirit which despises riches in themselves, and sets store solely on the Eternal Kingdom and the supernatural virtues that lead to it. . . . So, she looks, first of all human beings, at that midnight hour, on the face of her Babe and her Saviour. What ecstasy filled her soul as the light of that countenance, that so many generations had vainly wished to behold, made all bright for her and for her saintly guardian, Joseph, in that hillside cavern! These two were the first worshippers, as they were to be the two inseparable companions and faithful Disciples of the Divine Master—the great Teacher of the Manger and the Cross. They were called "His Parents." And as such they are unspeakably dear to the Christian world.

Who are those who are first summoned to the presence of the new-born King, the Day-Star of Israel, the Hope of the world? Shepherds guarding their flocks by night. "And behold, an angel of the Lord stood by them, and the brightness of God shone round about them, and they feared, with a great fear. And the Angel said to them: Fear not. For behold I bring you good tidings of great joy, that shall be to all the people. For this day is born to you a SAVIOUR, who is Christ the Lord, in the city of David. And this shall be a sign unto you. You shall find the Infant wrapped in swaddling clothes, and laid in a manger."

To these poor folk, the first called to the knowledge of Christ and to the everlasting glories of His Kingdom, a foretaste is there given of the society which Christians are to share here and hereafter. "Suddenly there was with the Angel a multitude of the heavenly army, praising God and saying, Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace to men of good will." These first courtiers of the Saviour-King, as well as all His followers to the end of time, must accustom themselves to behold with the eyes of faith the splendors of that unseen world, in which Christ reigns, ministered to by myriads of these bright angelic spirits.

There is one sentence recorded of Mary, in the passage, which recounts the visit of the Shepherds to the new-born Babe. They had found "Mary and Joseph, and the Infant lying in the manger. And, seeing, they understood of the word that had been spoken to them concerning the Child. And all that heard wondered . . . But Mary kept all these words, pondering in her heart." The sole study of this Mother of the incarnate God, was to know Him and His mysteries. Knowing Him, therefore, better than all others, she walked more closely in His footsteps, treading, not in the paths where honor and applause might reach her on His account, but in the ways of obscurity, deep enlightened love and heroic suffering.

The eighth day came, and the parents, following the guidance of the Holy Spirit, took the Child to the Priest to have Him circumcised, in conformity with the Law. In every particular both He and they wished to give an example of perfect obedience. He had taken to Himself the flesh of Adam, in order so to hallow it by the union, that it might be our ransom on the cross. In circumcision the redeeming blood begins to flow, and the divine humility that was to shine forth in His Passion, already manifests itself in Bethlehem. Then was He given the name of Jesus, by Joseph, in compliance with the injunction of the Angel.

Mary and Joseph were soon afterward gladdened by the coming of the Magi—the "Three Wise Men," or "Three Kings" from the East. It was a memorable event. Jerusalem, where the standards and eagles of Imperial Rome were displayed on the Antonia Tower, overlooking the temple, and where the Idumean Herod was acknowledged as king, knew that the "sceptre had passed out of Juda," and, therefore, that the promised Saviour must be nigh. He had already come, and Jerusalem and Judæa knew it not. They expected a mighty Prince, manifesting himself with more than the warlike genius of David and the far-reaching wisdom of Solomon. And lo! He lay hidden in a wayside cavern at Bethlehem, swathed with the clothes of infancy, and laid in a manger! This was not the Messiah who could challenge the acceptance and worship of the worldly-minded Jews.

But in the depths of the mysterious East, through which the Israelites had been scattered, God had ever had among the idolatrous nations men who cherished the universal belief in a future Redeemer and Restorer, and looked anxiously forward to His coming. This faith of the Patriarchs, preserved, though obscured, among the Gentiles, was confirmed by contact with the dispersed Israelites, and by the holy lives of such men as the elder Tobias and his son and kinsfolk. Here are three of these noble watchers for the STAR that was to "rise out of Jacob," the "Sceptre" that was to "spring up from Israel." They had counted the years assigned by prophesy for His apparition; and God had rewarded their faith by an extraordinary light in the Heavens, while His Spirit spoke to their hearts. They had formed a holy companionship in faith and good works amid the surrounding unbelief and corruption; and now they are companions on the road to Christ.

The Gospel admirably tells their story up to their arrival in Bethlehem. What joy filled the hearts of Mary and Joseph at the sight of these kingly pilgrims from afar! Not on shepherds alone, then, had the Day-Star of Bethlehem arisen; not alone for the poor and lowly was His Kingdom; nor alone over the minds and hearts of the Israelites was His reign to extend. He was to gather all nations to Himself by the irresistible force of Truth and Charity.

Herod, alarmed by the coming of the noble Pilgrims, and the tidings that the King Messiah was born, only waited for their return to Jerusalem and the precise information expected from them, to pay his visit to Mother and Babe. We know what fell purpose he entertained.

The Three First Worshippers from among the Gentiles are gone as they came—in haste; their path lies not toward Jerusalem, where a dark and unsparing State-policy is plotting the destruction of the Prince of Peace, and their own as well; but God's Angel guides them safely towards their own people, whom they are to leave with faith in the Redeemer.

"And after they were departed, behold, an angel of the Lord appeared in sleep to Joseph, saying, Arise, and take the Child and His Mother, and fly into Egypt; and be there until I shall tell thee . . . who arose, and took the Child and His Mother by night, and retired into Egypt; and he was there until the death of Herod." Instantly, in the dead of the night, without hesitation or murmur, and trusting themselves to the ever-watchful care of Providence, Joseph and Mary betook them to flight. Not a moment too soon. For the spies of Herod had warned him of the departure of the Wise Men, and his minions were already on their way to Bethlehem. The fugitives were yet amid the secret passes of Carmel, when the sword of the first persecutor "killed all the men-children that were in Bethlehem, and in all the borders thereof, from two years old, and under."

What route Joseph chose along the southern sea-coast we have no means of ascertaining. Doubtless he avoided the most frequented, because, while firmly relying on the angelic guidance in case of great need, he used all his own sagacity in avoiding every danger to his precious charge. Nor do we know with anything like an approach to certainty, in what city or village of Egypt the Holy Family fixed their abode while waiting for the order to return to Palestine. It is likely that Joseph, in his prudence, would shun the cities where he might find large colonies of his countrymen, and with them emissaries of Herod. A quiet country hamlet, where his skill in working wood could provide for the sustenance of the two beings he worshipped, would most naturally fix the choice of Christ's devoted Guardian. As the precise date of Herod's death is unknown, so also is the duration of the Holy Family's stay in Egypt.

If by any chance the Blessed Mother learned, while there, the cruel massacre of the innocents in Bethlehem and its neighborhood, how much more keenly her heart felt the wound made by the first mortal peril that threatened the life of her Babe! Already, even before Holy Simeon prophesied about the sword which was to pierce her on Calvary, she felt its point searching her soul. The Church, in after ages, called her the "Queen of Martyrs." She was in reality such while yet in Egypt. For the babes so inhumanly slain in Bethlehem were only the first glorious band in that great army of Martyrs, who were to bear witness with their blood to the Divinity of the Lamb.

At length, the angelic messenger bade Joseph return to Judæa. "Arise, and take the Child and His Mother, and go into the land of Israel." With the same promptness and unquestioning simplicity Joseph executes the divine command. He is the head of God's family on earth; to him is the divine will intimated; and to him it belongs to see it executed, both the Word Incarnate and His Mother yielding implicit obedience to Joseph. In these last years, as the nineteenth century draws to its close, the Church has solemnly declared S. Joseph to be, under God, her protector and the guardian of all her interests. Why should he, who made of Christ and His interests, in infancy, childhood and youth, the one absorbing care of his life—not continue in Heaven to be the guardian and protector of all those who are dear to Christ?

And so, Joseph "arose and took the Child and His Mother, and came into the land of Israel. But hearing that Archelaus reigned in Judæa in the room of Herod his father, he was afraid to go thither; and, being warned in sleep, retired into the quarters of Galilee. And coming, he dwelt in a city called Nazareth."

The death of Herod, and the horror caused by the massacre of the innocents, produced a reaction in the public mind. People were naturally averse to blood and persecution. Moreover, the multitude who did not take pains to inquire minutely into the truth of things, fancied that the Babe mistaken for King Messiah by the Wise Men, must have perished in the wholesale butchery ordered by Herod. Mary, then, once restored with her infant to her obscure and peaceful abode in Nazareth, had no reason to delay the ceremony prescribed by the law, of presenting her Son in the temple of Jerusalem, and making the offering customary on this occasion. Joseph chose the opportune season, and guided the Blessed Mother on her way. They acted throughout in perfect conformity with the divine plan revealed to them, that they should conceal from the outer world the quality and mission of the Child they called their own. They left it to the Spirit of God to enlighten privileged individuals concerning the Messiah.

Mary, in presenting to the Lord in His temple, her own first-born, offered with Him a pair of turtle-doves. It was the offering of the poor; and she made no apology for it. The priests in attendance performed their function; no thought about the possibility of this child of poor parents being the Messiah, crossed their mind; no light from on high disclosed the Emmanuel . . . Two holy souls were there, however, to whom He revealed Himself—Simeon and Anna; the former, like the Three Wise Men in the East, yearning to look upon the face of his Redeemer before he closed his eyes; the latter, a saintly widow, now in her eighty-fourth year, "who departed not from the temple, by fastings and prayers serving night and day."

Simeon "came by the Spirit into the temple. And when His parents brought in the Child Jesus, . . . he also took Him in his arms, and blessed God, and said: Now Thou dost dismiss Thy servant, O Lord, according to Thy word in peace. Because my eyes have seen Thy salvation. . . . And His father and mother were wondering at these things which were spoken concerning Him. And Simeon blessed them, and said to Mary His Mother: Behold this Child is set for the fall and for the resurrection of many in Israel, for a sign which shall be contradicted. And thy own soul a sword shall pierce."

Anna also "at the same hour coming in, confessed to the Lord and spoke of Him to all that looked for the redemption of Israel."

The ceremony of Purification and Presentation ended, Mary and Joseph were not tempted, by this extraordinary occurrence in the temple, to remain in Jerusalem, and expose their Treasure to new perils by attracting to Him the attention even of the devout among the citizens. They hastened back to Galilee, and buried themselves with all their hopes and fears beneath the roof which had sheltered Joachim and Anna. "And the Child grew, and waxed strong, full of wisdom; and the grace of God was in Him."

Of the life which the Holy Family led in their lowly home at Nazareth, from the Presentation of Christ up to His twelfth year, no other account is given in the Gospel, save only that "His parents went every year to Jerusalem at the solemn day of the Pasch." The privilege they had of possessing Him who was above the Law, from whom indeed the Law had come, never prevented them from fulfilling in letter and in spirit its injunctions. They were content to bide God's own appointed time for Christ's manifestation in Israel.

But the sword of which Simeon had prophesied daily probed the bosom of the anxious Mother. She knew that His blood was to redeem the world. The time and manner alone remained a secret hidden from her motherly heart. She naturally feared every year's appointed festivals calling them to Jerusalem, lest His visit there should verify Simeon's prediction. This throws a light on the next event recorded in the blended lives of Mother and Son.

"And when He was twelve years old, they going up into Jerusalem, according to the custom of the feast, and having fulfilled the days, when they returned, the Child Jesus remained in Jerusalem; and His parents knew it not. And thinking that He was in the company, they came a day's journey, and sought him among their kinsfolk and acquaintance. And not finding Him, they returned into Jerusalem, seeking Him. And it came to pass, that after three days they found Him in the Temple sitting in the midst of the doctors, hearing them and asking them questions. And all that heard Him were astonished at His wisdom and His answers. And seeing Him, they wondered. And His Mother said to Him: Son, why hast thou done so to us? Behold Thy father and I have sought Thee sorrowing. And He said to them: How is it that you sought Me? Did you not know that I must be about My Father's business? And they understood not the word that He spoke unto them. And He went down with them and came to Nazareth; and was subject to them. And His Mother kept all these words in her heart. And Jesus advanced in wisdom and age and grace with God and men."

In this most simple and beautiful narrative stand out conspicuously, the absorbing love of Mary and Joseph for the Boy-Saviour; their solicitude for His safety, their keen sorrow at not finding Him "among their kinsfolk and acquaintance;" the affectionate freedom with which they remonstrate with Him for having left their company. This accords with what we have already written: that the interests of Jesus are those of Joseph and Mary. The Mother on missing her Divine Son, feels the sword already piercing her soul. Joseph's fatherly heart experiences a different, though scarcely less poignant sorrow, at the thought of his charge being possibly in the clutches of Herod's successor. We are also plainly taught that the Wisdom Incarnate, who astonished the doctors and their audience by His questions and His answers, had already been instructing Mary and Joseph about the supernatural purpose for which He was come down among men. "Did you not know that I must be about My Father's business?" The liberty which they allowed their EMMANUEL to be about this "business," whenever the Spirit prompted Him, was one cause of His being separated from their company. He wished to show that, being the Messiah, He could at any time He thought fit enter upon His public mission, and shed abroad among men the light of His doctrine. Having thus, in the presence of all, and within the temple of which He was the Divinity, asserted His fulness of knowledge, His divine Sonship, and His independence, He at once goes with His parents, and resumes His former position of dutiful obedience in the household of Nazareth.

Another suggestion is made in the text. The Holy Family, on their way to and from Jerusalem, have for companions their "kinsfolk and acquaintance." Neither Mary nor Joseph, though of the house of David, are without dear and near relatives in Nazareth and the neighboring cities of Galilee. It was the time for the Evangelist to make mention of other children in the home of the carpenter. They only speak of "kinsfolk" or "brethren," as the Jewish custom denominated all blood relations.

And so, one brief and pregnant sentence describes the remaining years of the Master, till, in His thirtieth, He quitted His home in Nazareth to preach the "good tidings" to His countrymen. "He went down with them, and came to Nazareth, and was subject to them. And His Mother kept all these words in her heart. And Jesus advanced in wisdom and age and grace with God and men."

Thenceforward, till His thirtieth year, Christ continued to abide at Nazareth, passing, in the eyes of the people of the place, for the son of Joseph. The veil which covered His origin and dignity was never raised by either parent. . . . "We are apt to look upon this portion of His earthly life as lost, and disposed to blame either the influence exercised on Him by His Mother, or the poverty of Joseph; or, again, to criticize the divine economy for permitting these precious, teeming years of His boyhood and youth to be spent in a little country town. . . . We forget that these long years of obscurity, obedience, progress in wisdom, in every virtue which can grace manhood, and in patient, uncomplaining toil beneath the carpenter's roof, were destined by the Eternal Wisdom to serve as the most eloquent and effective lesson for the immense majority of men in every age and country.

"The over-burdened children of toil, to-day as in the days of Christ, as every day till time shall be no more, need the teaching and example of Joseph the son of royal David, and of Jesus the Incarnate Word, to enable them to find obscurity sweet, and obedience easy, and the persevering toil of years tolerable.

"There is more than that: we are, not unfrequently, tempted to think and say that the life of His Mother, the Second Eve, the model of her sex wherever Christianity prevails, is one of comparative nullity. . . . Is she then less admirable, because her life at Nazareth is merged in that of her Son? Let every woman who reads these pages, and takes time to ponder what is here intended, lay this truth to heart, that the future of the world, the greatness and happiness of every country, depend on the growth of true manhood within the obscurity and hallowed quiet of the Christian home. Every natural and supernatural virtue that goes to make up the true man in the home of the laborer and mechanic, as well as in that of the rich, the learned, the noble, and the great, is a fruit of the mother's sowing and ripening. We, in our day and generation, are impatient of home-restraints, of slow and progressive culture: one such son as David or Samuel is glory enough for any mother. When Christ left His loved retreat at Nazareth, and filled Judæa with His name, it was said of Him: 'He hath done all things well.' What mother could desire sweeter praise for her life-labors, or a more complete eulogy on her dearest one? And since Christ's life and examples have become an influence of every day and moment, during the past eighteen hundred years, how many mothers have found light and strength in the virtues which shine forth to the attentive eye within the lowly abode of Mary at Nazareth?"—(HEROIC WOMEN OF THE BIBLE AND THE CHURCH, pp. 235, 236.)

As to Joseph, the blessed head of that holy household of Nazareth, the Gospel makes no further mention of him. He lived to rear, to the first years of manhood, that Jesus who loved to call him father. He died, as became one privileged beyond all men, blessed and loved, tended and cheered by the two beings to whom he had given his life. No Christian man and woman can think of the holy and devoted foster-father of the Saviour, and of the virtues which shine forth in his conduct, without saying that he was as "blessed among men" as Mary, his beloved companion, was "blessed among women."

IV.

It was natural that our Lord, during the eighteen last years of His life at Nazareth, should prepare His Mother for the trials which awaited them both in the fulfilment of His public mission. All through these three years it is probable that Mary lived habitually either in her own home at Nazareth, or at Capharnaum among her near relatives, the two sisters, mothers, respectively, of the Apostles James and John, the sons of Zebedee, and of James the younger and Jude, the sons of Alphaeus. As to her occupation during this period, a twofold testimony, that of Celsus, an enemy of the Christian name, and that of Tertullian, throws some light upon the matter. The former says that Mary was one who supported herself by manual labor; the latter affirms substantially the same fact. Like her husband, Joseph, like the Incarnate Word, her Son, Mary helped to elevate, in her own person, the condition of the laborer, to make of labor itself a something sacred and divine.

Her first appearance, in the public life of our Lord, was in connection with the Marriage Feast in Cana—a town situated a few miles westward of Nazareth. This marriage was the occasion of bringing together our Lord and His Mother with the first disciples, who had openly acknowledged Him as the Messiah: these were Peter and Andrew, two brothers, and Philip and Nathanael—Galileans all four of them—and the nucleus of that band of believers, recruited chiefly from Galilee, who were to be, under God, the founders of Christianity in the East and West.

The marriage at Cana took place a few months after the Baptism of our Lord by John, the solemn proclamation of His Mission by the Precursor to the crowd near the Jordan, and the public miracle by which the Father and the Holy Spirit manifested His Sonship and Divinity. Then He retired into the wild mountain tracts near the river to spend forty entire days and nights in solitude, prayer, and abstinence from all food—setting to all apostolic men to the end of time an example which they must follow, if they would continue His work with fruit. Christianity, the divinity of Christian life, the spread of God-like Christian holiness—all are based upon self-denial, self-sacrifice, and habitual prayer. PRAYER is the very soul of holiness.

It has been the sense of the Church from the days of the apostles to our own, that this first miracle of our Lord, performed at the urgent solicitation of His Mother, gave a new and solemn sanction to the institution of matrimony. The sanctity and happiness of family life, the unity and permanence of the tie which, in the Christian home, binds to each other the father and the mother, the parents and the children, is the foundation of Christian society, Christian civilization. Christ, by assisting with His Mother and His disciples, at this marriage ceremony and feast, and by sanctioning them with a public and stupendous miracle, wished us—the Church teaches—to understand that He thereby raised the primitive matrimonial ordinance to the rank of a Sacrament—"a Great Sacrament," as S. Paul calls it—blessing the whole stream of human existence in its source, by infusing into it His own blood and the merits of His passion, and nourishing the souls of regenerated humanity with the spiritual energy divinely connected with His sacraments.

It is but the simple truth to say, that Mary by her presence at this Marriage Feast, and by her active part in obtaining the stupendous miracle performed on the occasion, showed herself to be the true Mother of the New Life, the Second Eve whose pleading with the Second Adam resulted, not in the ruin, but in the elevation and sanctification of the human family.

One word about the seeming rebuke which our Lord addressed on this occasion to her. The festivities, as usual in the country and in that age, had lasted several days, and to them all, the near relatives, at least, of the wedded pair and their families had been invited. The wine—the home-made, wholesome growth of each farm throughout the land—gave out. Mary's watchful eye detected this, and the secret prompting of the Holy Spirit urged her to say to her Son: "They have no wine." It was a womanly and motherly act. He, however, for the sake of His future fellow-workers there present, as well as for the instruction of us all, will have her understand that what He is going to do, what she evidently expects Him to do, belongs to the Divine Order, in which the claims or obligations of flesh and blood must never influence the dispensers of God's mysteries. "And Jesus saith to her: Woman (lady, rather), what is it to Me and to thee? My hour is not yet come. His Mother saith to the waiters: Whatsoever He shall say to you, do ye." The solemn hour, indeed, for proclaiming from the cross, at the very consummation of His mediatorial office, that she is His Mother and that He is her son, has not yet come. That was to be the hour of supreme love for both, of love united in the oblation and consummation of such suffering as the hearts of mother and son never endured before or since. It is clear that she does not take His answer for a rebuke. The eloquence of the miracle accomplished at her suggestion and entreaty should explain the "What is it to Me and to thee?" and do away with the obscurity or apparent harshness of the idiomatic expressions of a foreign language, or the style of address among a people so different in every way from ourselves.

On the other hand, the petition of the Blessed Mother has been held up as a model of the confidence and humility which should ever be found in prayer. She knows to Whom she pleads, she states in the simplest terms the need of her friends, and leaves the rest to the Almighty Goodness.

Such is also the way in which Martha and Mary represent the case of their brother Lazarus: "Lord, he whom Thou lovest is sick." In both cases, a miracle is asked for; in both it is granted; whereas it would have been refused, if the asking it had been deemed an unwarrantable interference with the power of the Man-God.

"This beginning of miracles did Jesus in Cana of Galilee, and manifested His glory, and His disciples believed in Him. After this He went down to Capharnaum, He and His Mother, and His brethren, and His disciples; and they remained there not many days. And the Pasch of the Jews was at hand, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem."

The miracle just performed naturally bound His own kinsfolk to the Master. Accompanied by these "His brethren," and by His disciples, He takes His Mother with Him to Capharnaum, then the most important city of Galilee, and the centre of a thriving commerce, favorably situated on the Lake of Gennesareth. This city was to be the chief centre of our Lord's public labors in Galilee during the three ensuing years. He did not then, however, fix His abode there and that of His Mother. He intended to return and to preach in Nazareth the truth concerning Himself and His mission—only, when His own townsfolk had rejected Him, would He seek a second home for His widowed Parent and Himself. Meanwhile, the celebration of the Pasch calls both Him and His Mother to Jerusalem. Hitherto, with the sole exception of His disputation with the doctors in His twelfth year, nothing had been done, or is recorded of Him as having been done, in Jerusalem, to assert His divine mission as the Messiah. On this memorable visit to the capital, He openly asserted His authority. He startled priests and people, indeed, the entire multitude of Jews from Palestine and other countries come to the Passover, by casting the traders out of the temple. To those who challenged His right to do such acts, He replied only by affirming that were the temple itself destroyed, He could rebuild it in three days. This, of course, was an obscure prophesy of His own return to life, three days after His death on the cross. His hearers did not understand Him, and only resolved to punish His temerity. He, however, must have pointed to His own body, the very Reality figured by the temple; for His disciples present on the occasion so understood His meaning, and remembered it three years afterward. But although He refused to perform a miracle to satisfy His enemies, S. John assures us that at this same Pasch in Jerusalem, "many believed in His name, seeing the signs which He did. But Jesus did not trust Himself unto them, for that He knew all men." Then also took place the secret interview with Nicodemus, as well as the discourse in which our Lord so emphatically asserted His mission and His divinity.

His Mother, who closely watched His every movement while in the capital, and who hung upon every word of His, could not help hearing the murmurs and threats of the Pharisees, as well as the praise of such as were drawn to Christ by His miracles and teaching. She returned with Him to Galilee as she had come, in the company of His disciples. He at once began, while yet in northern Judæa, near the Jordan, with them the work of teaching and baptizing (S. John iii. 22). At that very time John the Baptist was pursuing his holy labors on the banks of the Jordan, at Ennon (or Ænon), not far from the southern border of Galilee. The fame of Christ's teaching in the neighborhood, of His wondrous works, and of the many whom His disciples were baptizing, soon reached the ears of John. John's followers questioned him with regard to the authority which the Christ had for so doing. The answer of the Precursor contains the most solemn testimony in all the Gospel to the Mission of Christ and to His Divinity. "Ye yourselves do bear me witness, that I said I am not CHRIST, but that I am sent before Him. He that hath the Bride, is the Bridegroom: but the friend of the Bridegroom, who standeth and heareth Him, rejoiceth with joy because of the Bridegroom's voice. This my joy therefore is fulfilled. He must increase, but I must decrease. He that cometh from above, is above all. He that is of earth, of the earth he is, and of the earth he speaketh. He that cometh from Heaven is above all. And what He hath seen and heard, that He testifieth; and no man receiveth His testimony. He that hath received His testimony, hath set to his seal that God is true. For He whom God hath sent speaketh the words of God: for God doth not give the Spirit by measure [to Him]. The Father loveth the Son; and He hath given all things into His hand. He that believeth in the Son hath life everlasting; but he that believeth not the Son, shall not see life, but the wrath of God abideth in him."

How consistent is the conduct of the holy son of Elizabeth with the prediction of the Archangel Gabriel, when he foretold his birth and his mission toward Christ! And how the echo of this glorious testimony, reaching the Blessed Virgin, who had not yet parted from Christ and His disciples, must have filled her soul with joy! "I am not [the] Christ. . . . I am sent before Him. . . . He must increase, but I must decrease." The small band of believers who now follow the Messiah must go on increasing, till the society they form fills Judæa and Galilee, till it spreads beyond Palestine and Asia, and fills the whole earth. "I must decrease;" my disciples are only prepared for the teaching of the Divine Master. He is the Heavenly Bridegroom to whom belongs the Bride, the Church to be redeemed by His blood and born anew of the baptism which typifies it. How can I, His friend and Precursor, not rejoice, when He is so near me, when the voice of His teaching and the fame of His miracles reach my ears? What am I, what are all the preceding prophets, compared to Him who "cometh from above," and "is above all?" "He that is of the earth, of the earth he is, and of the earth he speaketh." I am earth-born, a poor child of human parentage, like you all, with the feelings of human nature, and its limited knowledge and still more limited power. "But He that cometh from Heaven," the Word co-eternal with the Father, born of Him before the earth was, who testifieth among us only to what He hath seen in His Father's bosom and what He hath heard from Him who is the Essential Truth and Holiness, who sets the seal of divinity to His teaching by the miracles we behold—how is it that "no man receiveth His testimony?"

It is a tremendous condemnation of Jewish chicanery and incredulity.

From the neighborhood of Ennon our Lord with His company "returned in the power of the Spirit, into Galilee, and the fame of Him went out through the whole country. And He taught in their synagogues, and was magnified by all." So writes S. Luke. But S. Matthew, who was himself a Galilean, adds further particulars. "And coming into His own country, He taught them in their synagogues, so that they wondered and said: How came this man by this wisdom and [these] miracles?" The miracles were the credentials, the seal of His mission, the attestation that His "wisdom" was not of earth but of Heaven. They were too earthly and grovelling to rise above their own low ideas and prejudices. But the Messiah wished to preach to the city in which He had spent childhood and youth, before He began the circuit of all Galilee. It is a great event in the History of His blessed Mother, as it seems to have severed her connection with her native place.

And He came to Nazareth, where He was brought up; and He went into the synagogue according to His custom, on the Sabbath day. And He rose up to read; and the book of Isaias the prophet was delivered unto Him. And as He unfolded the book, He found the place where it was written: The Spirit of the Lord is upon Me; wherefore He hath anointed Me; to preach the Gospel to the poor He hath sent Me, to heal the contrite (broken) of heart; to preach deliverance to the captives, and sight to the blind; to set at liberty them that are bruised; to preach the acceptable year of the Lord, and the day of reward. And when He had folded the book, He restored it to the minister, and sat down. And the eyes of all in the synagogue were fixed on Him. And He began to say to them: This day is fulfilled this Scripture in your ears. And all gave testimony to Him; and they wondered at the words of grace that proceeded from His mouth, and they said: Is not this the son of Joseph? And He said to them: Doubtless you will say to Me this similitude, 'Physician, heal thyself:' as great things as we have heard [that you have] done in Capharnaum, do also here in Thy own country."

This is the same challenge to perform miracles before their eyes, which the Jews made to Him in Jerusalem. The speakers are animated only by a mixture of curiosity and envy. The well-attested miracles performed in their immediate neighborhood, at Cana, as well as in the city of Capharnaum, together with those which heralded His return to Galilee, should have disposed His own townsmen to listen to that "wisdom," and to bow to the authority of Him who challenged their belief in Him, as the Messiah described in Isaias. And then comes the sudden ending of His work in their midst.

"Amen, I say to you, that no prophet is accepted in his own country. In truth I say to you, there were many widows in the days of Elias in Israel, when Heaven was shut up three years and six months, when there was a great famine throughout all the earth. And to none of them was Elias sent, but to Sarepta of Sidon, to a widow woman. And there were many lepers in Israel in the time of Eliseus the prophet; and none of them was cleansed but Naaman the Syrian. And all they in the synagogue, hearing these things, were filled with anger. And they rose up and thrust Him out of the city; and they brought Him to the brow of the hill whereon their city was built, that they might cast Him down headlong. But He, passing through the midst of them, went His way." (S. Luke iv.)

The Blessed Mother was a witness of all this scene. Need we describe her agony of apprehension, while the blind and sacrilegious crowd dragged their Messiah to the cruel death they wished to inflict? or her grief at seeing her own people rejecting the Saviour, and closing to themselves every road to salvation?

From Nazareth our Lord directed His steps to Capharnaum, where His Mother and His disciples soon joined Him. There He recruited His apostles, Mary, meanwhile, finding a welcome in the family of her "sister" or near kinswoman, Mary, the wife of Zebedee, whose two sons, James and John, attached themselves to our Lord.

How far Christ permitted, during His repeated missionary circuits through Galilee and its "hundred cities," His Mother to accompany Him, we cannot say from the Gospel narrative or from tradition. We know that a band of devoted Galilean women ministered to His wants and those of His disciples during the three years of His public life. It would be against all probability to suppose that His Blessed Mother should have had no share in these ministrations.

At any rate, she must have been with Him in Jerusalem during the celebration of the second Pasch, mentioned by S. John (v. 1-47). After this occurred the Sermon on the Mount, the healing of the Centurion's servant, and the resurrection of the widow's son at Naim, as well as Christ's second circuit of Galilee. The hatred of His enemies, the scribes and Pharisees, was becoming daily more open, and more threatening. Rumors circulated of serious peril to the Master's safety. John the Baptist had already been imprisoned by Herod Antipas, brother of Archelaus, and tetrarch of Galilee. So the Blessed Mother, alarmed by these flying rumors, hastened with some of her kinsfolk to the scene of our Lord's preaching. Then happened that incident from which non-Catholic readers of the Gospel draw an inference most injurious to Christ and to His Mother. The multitudes that surrounded Him night and day, and the demands upon His time, were such that He had not even leisure "to eat bread." "And it was told Him: Thy Mother and Thy brethren stand without, desiring to see Thee. Who, answering, said to them, My Mother and My brethren are they who hear the word of God, and do it." We know, by His taking His Mother with Him to Capharnaum, after the Miracle of Cana, and by His appearing in the synagogue at Nazareth, proclaiming Himself the Messiah, without denying that Mary was His Mother—how far it was from the mind of our Lord, by word or act, to deny or to sligh: His Mother and her relatives. This would not be the act of a dutiful and loving son. But He was on His Messianic work; and He would have all understand, that its freedom and dignity required of all engaged in it to be above the cares and claims of family or relationship; just as elsewhere He says to the young man called to follow Him, and asking to go home and bury his father, "Allow the dead to bury their dead."

V.

It is in the last stage of His mortal career that we shall find His Mother by His side. She had heard of His utterance about His approaching death: "Behold we go up to Jerusalem; and all things shall be accomplished which were written by the prophets concerning the Son of Man. For He shall be delivered to the Gentiles, and shall be mocked, and scourged, and spit upon." Every mother's heart is prophetic of coming sorrow: how much more so the Mother to whom Simeon had foretold suffering unutterable, incomprehensible?

She is not mentioned as having been present during His triumphant entry into Jerusalem; although it is most unlikely that she would not, with the pious women from Galilee and His other devoted disciples, have joined Him on His way to the capital on this last visit. But if Mary was anxious to shun the pageants in her Son's honor, she would be present when the hour of humiliation came.

We are never to forget that, in our Lord's Passion, the Godhead personally and inseparably united to our humanity in His Person, eclipsed Itself, as it were, and allowed the Man, as man, to suffer, to expiate, to atone for His brethren of the entire race of Adam. It was only at the supreme moment of desolation and agony that the Son was to be visibly sustained by His Mother. Tradition affirms, and the Church authorizes the tradition, that, on His way to Calvary, He met His Mother, as if she could not be withheld from acknowledging as her own Son, the Man of Sorrows whom they have been scourging, crowning with thorns, condemning, like the most abominable of criminals, to be crucified between two men, who were thieves and murderers.

During the memorable passage through the Red Sea, Moses had by his side Mary, the Deliverer, his heroic sister, the Mother of her people. When Jesus, the true Moses, was treading the streets of Jerusalem, bearing a portion of, at least, His own cross, when the multitude, athirst for His blood, divided on His way, mocking, deriding, cursing; His Mother, that Mary who is mother to us all, walked by His side, setting her foot firmly in every depth of shame and bitterness to which He had to descend.

And there she stands beneath the Cross on Calvary! "Now there stood by the Cross of Jesus, His Mother and His Mother's sister Mary [wife] of Cleophas, and Mary Magdalen. When Jesus therefore had seen His Mother and the disciples standing, whom He loved, He said to His Mother, Woman, behold thy son. After that He saith to the disciple: Behold thy Mother. And from that hour the disciple took her to his own." Solicitude for her welfare is uppermost in the mind of the Divine Sufferer. Let us read it the light of these words of His, the narrative of the Evangelists regarding the last three years of His life: is it likely that her welfare, her comfort, her happiness ever ceased to be His care?

Of course, to all who believed in Christ, and who, in these first years, risked everything by openly confessing Him, the Blessed Mother was an object of special and filial veneration. This was particularly true of the apostles, who felt like their disciples that in reverencing and honoring the Mother they were honoring and reverencing the Son. S. John was now privileged to hold Christ's place toward her. The last time she is mentioned by name in the New Testament is in the first chapter of the Acts of the Apostles, where we find her with her near relatives in the assembly which elected S. Matthias. So long as S. John remained in Jerusalem Mary was his charge, cherished and revered by that Virgin Apostle. When, at the dispersion of the apostles, John went to reside in Ephesus, thither also Mary went with him. It is probable, however, that as John, like the other apostles, traveled through Palestine and Asia Minor, preaching the Gospel, founding new churches, and confirming in the faith such as already existed, that his adopted mother did not separate from him. Not before the decade intervening between the years 60 and 70 of the present era, did the Beloved Disciple assume at Ephesus the government of all the churches of Anterior Asia. If our Blessed Lady died between these dates, she must have passed her eightieth year. Tradition in the Church always assigned the night of August 14-15 as the date of her passage to a happy immortality. On the 15th of August the Church has always celebrated her Assumption, that is, her being received into Heaven in body and soul. It was but proper that the body which had known nothing of sin or stain, the body of the Mother of our Ransom on the Cross, should not have been touched by the corruption of the grave. All the bitterness of death had passed over her soul on Calvary: her own death was all peace and sweetness and unspeakable anticipation of the eternal reunion with her Son, her Saviour, her God.

It must seem, to every candid and reflecting mind, both natural and logical, that Christians, from the day when Christ first began to have followers and worshippers, should have shown to His Mother a singular reverence. The Apostles, the early disciples, whose faith had never wavered, or had only been temporarily shaken, during the Saviour's brief but necessary period of suffering, must have felt their veneration for the heroic Mother very much increased by the preternatural courage she displayed in His hour of bitter and mortal trial.

The narrative of S. John is sublime in its simplicity and brevity. It is the tradition of the Eastern Church, derived from the first believers in Jerusalem—from the contemporaries and relatives of our Lord and His Mother, that "the coat without seam, woven from the top throughout," for which the Roman soldiers cast lots, while He, the wearer, was hanging in His death-agony overhead—was the fruit of her labor of love. Like the saintly mother of the child-prophet Samuel, Mary would allow no hands but her own to weave her Son His principal garment. It might be said to be His sole worldly wealth; and His executioners cast lots for it, while she was looking on, or within reach of their discussion. . . . "And the soldiers indeed did these things. Now there stood by the cross of Jesus, His Mother, and His Mother's sister, Mary (wife) of Cleophas, and Mary Magdalen. . . ." Then ensued the bequeathing to the Beloved Disciple of the dearest earthly treasure possessed by Jesus of Nazareth—His widowed and homeless Mother. She, however, had been too willing a learner in His school, too close an imitator of His divine examples, to repine at her poverty and homelessness. Her sorest trial was her separation from Him.

When the short joys of the Forty Days' converse with Him after His resurrection, were ended—she had been too well enlightened by Him not to understand that the divinest work yet reserved to her by Providence, remained to be fulfilled. This was, that, as she had been the Mother of the Body given on the cross as the ransom for the entire race of man, as she had nursed that Body with more than a mother's devotion—so now she should devote the remaining years of her life to forming His mystic body, His church.

As the body of the faithful grew, first in Jerusalem and throughout Palestine, and next through all the countries of Asia, Africa, and Europe—the divinity of Christ was more openly, more solemnly, more courageously affirmed. Men and women everywhere bore witness to it by suffering imprisonment, stripes, and death. They honored their belief by leading God-like lives, even when these were not crowned by the glory of martyrdom.

It is the constant affirmation of Christian writers, that Christ's Blessed Mother, all through these trial-full years of the infant Church, was to Apostles, disciples, and believers of every class a model and a comforter, all that a mother and such a Mother, should be. We find, that when the Apostles returned to Jerusalem, after the Ascension, they went to where our Blessed Lady was staying—in the house of that saintly Mary, "the mother of John-Mark" (Acts xii. 12). This is the house, according to the most venerable traditions, in which our Lord celebrated the Last Supper, which was the first place of meeting and divine worship for believers in Jerusalem. It was the centre and nursery of Christianity in the great city all through this first period of persecution, loving labor, and wonderful growth. "And when they were come in (from Mount Olivet), they went up into an Upper Room, where abode Peter and John, James and Andrew, Philip and Thomas, Bartholomew and Matthew, James and Alpheus and Simon Zelotes, and Jude (the brother) of James. All these were persevering with one mind in prayer with the women, and Mary the Mother of Jesus, and with His brethren."

In the election of S. Matthias, which is next recorded, and which evidently took place in the same spacious Upper Room, as well as in the assembly on the Day of Pentecost, the text indicates that she was also present. It was a matter of course, that His Mother should be the very soul of these meetings, although it was left to Peter and his brother-Apostles to regulate everything that pertained to the doctrine and discipline of the Christian society. All through the triumphs and trials which, alternately, awaited the Apostolic labors, Mary was present to cheer, encourage, and sustain. What joy filled her soul, when on that very day of Pentecost, after S. Peter's inspired address to the multitude, no less than "three thousand souls" were baptized and added to the body of the faithful! "And they were persevering in the doctrine of the Apostles, and in the communication of the breaking of bread, and in prayers. And fear came upon every soul: many wonders also and signs were done by the Apostles in Jerusalem; and there was great fear in all. And all they that believed, were together, and had all things in common. Their possessions and goods they sold, and divided them to all, according as every one had need. And continuing daily with one accord in the temple, and breaking bread from house to house, they took their meat with gladness and simplicity of heart, praising God and having favor with all the people. And the Lord increased daily together such as should be saved."

What a blessed and blissful family was that which daily increased around the Second Eve, the Mother of the New Life! Heroic prayer, heroic poverty, heroic charity: one mind, one heart, one faith; brother sharing with brother earthly goods as well as divinest graces—and the supernatural fervor of all fed and sustained by that “Supersubstantial Bread,” the “communication” of which, like a heavenly fire kindled in the hearts of the receivers, made men and women the light of the world, and the Gift within them shed abroad, wherever they went, the sweet odor of Christ.

Surely the sons of the “Valiant Woman” were rising up before the nations and calling her “Blessed”—aye, “Blessed among women.”

VI.

It is usual with Protestants, in speaking of the Blessed Virgin Mary, to show a repugnance to calling her “the Mother of God.” In so doing, they are doing, unawares, what Nestorius and his master, Theodore (afterward Bishop of Mopsuestia), a teacher in the school of Antioch, openly taught people to do in the beginning of the fifth century. In the preceding centuries such men as Origen, S. Alexander of Alexandria, and S. Athanasius, only expressed the common belief and orthodox sense of Christians, by emphatically calling Mary “the Mother of God.”

Arianism and Nestorianism are the legitimate parents of modern Unitarianism. Arius denied the divinity of the Son of God, and therefore refused to Christ, the Incarnate Son, the title and quality of true God. Theodore and Nestorius, while admitting that the Son was God, denied that the man Christ, born of the Virgin Mary, was in any sense true God. “It is madness to say” (such are his words) “God was born of the Virgin; not God, but the temple in which God dwelt was born of Mary.” These false teachers affirmed that the Divine Word had His dwelling in every human soul; but in Christ He manifested extraordinary power. He participated of the glory of the Word and Son more than any other human being; but it was only, after all, a difference in degree. It was, according to them, an error to say “God was born of the Virgin Mary,” “God suffered, rose again from the tomb, and ascended into Heaven.” These things could only be affirmed of human nature.

The whole Nestorian controversy thus turned on the great dogma, or doctrinal fact, whether Mary was and should be called “the Mother of God.” On June 22d, 431, a general council assembled at Ephesus—the city in which Mary had spent the last years of her life, and which cherished toward her a deep and tender piety. The cathedral church in which the 160 bishops met, under the presidency of S. Cyril, Patriarch of Alexandria, who represented Pope S. Celestine I.—was named in honor of “the Mother of God.” The session lasted far into the night, and the doctrine of Nestorius and his school was solemnly condemned—the Blessed Virgin Mary was declared to be truly θεοτόκος, Mother of God.

The city, thereupon, was spontaneously illuminated, and the bishops, on issuing from the cathedral, were escorted to their lodgings by the joyous multitude, bearing lighted torches, and breaking forth into hymns of praise and thanksgiving.

It must not be forgotten that it was the Person of Christ Himself, at once both true God and true man, who thus triumphed in this solemn definition of faith. The heretics denied that the Son of the Virgin Mary was God; the bishops of the East and West assembled affirmed that He was, and that she was most truly Mother of God.

Her honor, therefore, was reflected on her Son. But, while He is very God, she is only a human being; she, the Mother of Christ, is only a creature—the most highly honored indeed of all created beings; while He is Creator.

In going back to the time of the Council of Ephesus, A. D. 431—two years before S. Patrick, sent by the same Pope Celestine I., landed in Pagan Ireland, we are amazed to find, in the writings of such men as S. Cyril of Alexandria, and in the authentic descriptions of popular manners among Eastern Christians, how deeply reverence for the Mother of God had penetrated all classes in the community. The great Christian writers of that and the preceding century—these saintly men whom we call the Fathers of the Church, speak of Mary, not only as the Mother of God, but as the “Second Eve.” Long before them, one whose doctrine was derived from the immediate disciples of the Apostles—S. Irenæus—draws out an elaborate parallel between Mary and the first Eve. “Mary, by her obedience, became both to herself and to all mankind the cause of salvation. . . . The knot of Eve’s disobedience was loosed by Mary’s obedience. . . . What the Virgin Eve bound by unbelief, that the Virgin Mary unbound by faith. . . . As by a Virgin the human race had been given over to death, so by a Virgin it is saved.”

It is also to be remarked here, that just as the title “Virgin Mother” was given to the Church by the early Fathers, so we find them applying the same prophetic passages of Scripture both to the Virgin Mother of Christ, and to His spouse the Church, who is the Virginal Mother of His children here below. Indeed, it is but natural to assume that she who is the Parent of Christ our Head, entertains all a parent’s affection for His members, and performs towards them throughout the ages, both in Heaven and on earth, all a Mother’s offices of love and watchfulness.

Hence, the constant application now to the Church, and now to the Immaculate Mother, of that passage in Apocalypse xii. 1: “And a great sign appeared in Heaven, a woman clothed with the sun and the moon under her feet, and on her head a crown of twelve stars. And being with child, she cried travailing in birth, and was in pain to be delivered. And there was seen another sign in Heaven: and behold a great red dragon having seven heads and ten horns. . . . And the dragon stood before the woman, who was ready to be delivered, that, when she should be delivered, he might devour her son. . . . And her son was taken up to God and to His throne. And there was a great battle in Heaven, Michael and his angels fought with the dragon, and the dragon fought and his angels. . . . And that great dragon was cast out, that OLD SERPENT, who is called the Devil and Satan, who seduceth the whole world.”

It is only carrying out the idea of S. Irenæus, to see the conflict prophesied in Genesis iii. 14, 15, at the very beginning of Revealed History, described as it happened in the last half of the first century of Christianity, as it has continued down to our own day. The Second Eve is foretold to the First in the memorable passage: “I will put enmities between thee and the woman, and thy seed and her seed: she shall crush thy head and thou shalt lie in wait for her heel. To the woman also He said: I will multiply thy sorrows, and thy conceptions: in sorrow shalt thou bring forth children. . . .”

The enemy of God and of mankind has never ceased from that day till now, to make war on God’s children here below; in the Old Law on the Church which God established through Moses—amid what “sorrows” did she bring forth sons to God! In the New Law, how the battle has gone on, between the Church of Christ and the seven-headed serpent of Heresy—ever watchful to devour each generation of Christians! It is surely IN SORROW, especially in our days, that the Church brings forth her children; and she needs the embattled hosts of Michael, invisibly aiding her, to cast out the Old Serpent, the Adversary.

HOLMAN HUNT, PINX.

W.G. JACKMAN, SCULPT.

THE LIGHT OF THE WORLD.

"BEHOLD, I STAND AT THE DOOR -AND KNOCK."

who art in heaven, hallowed be thy name; thy kingdom come;
thy will be done on earth, as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread; and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them who trespass against us; and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil.

THE NEW TESTAMENT
OF
OUR LORD AND SAVIOUR JESUS CHRIST.

FIRST PUBLISHED BY THE ENGLISH COLLEGE AT RHEIMS, A. D. 1582.

TRANSLATED FROM

THE LATIN VULGATE:

DILIGENTLY COMPARED WITH

THE ORIGINAL TEXT, AND OTHER EDITIONS IN DIVERS LANGUAGES.

WITH

USEFUL NOTES,
CRITICAL, HISTORICAL, CONTROVERSIAL, AND EXPLANATORY.

SELECTED FROM THE MOST EMINENT COMMENTATORS, AND THE MOST ABLE AND JUDICIOUS CRITICS,

BY THE LATE REV. GEO. LEO HAYDOCK.

THE TEXT CAREFULLY COLLATED WITH THAT OF THE ORIGINAL EDITION, AND THE ANNOTATIONS ABRIDGED

BY THE VERY REV. F. C. HUSENBETH, D.D., V.G.

"All things that are read in the Holy Scriptures, we must hear with great attention to our instruction and salvation; but those things especially must be committed to memory that serve most to confute heretics; whose deceits cease not to circumvent or ensnare all the weaker sort and the more negligent persons."—S. Aug., Tract. 2, in Epis. Joan.

GENERAL PREFACE TO THE NEW TESTAMENT OF OUR LORD AND SAVIOUR JESUS CHRIST.

"GOD, who diversely, and many ways, spoke in times past to our fathers by the prophets; last of all, in these days hath spoken to us by his Son, whom he hath appointed heir of all things, by whom also he made the world." Heb. i. 1, 2. He hath spoken to our fathers in the Old Testament, He hath spoken to us in the New. Moses was the mediator of the old alliance, and the prophets its ministers. The former gave the law, the latter announced the Messias. The law itself led to the Messias, whom the prophets announced. But the law and the prophets could bring nothing to perfection; they could neither give what they promised, nor realize what they represented; they left man in expectation; they raised, but could not satisfy his hopes.

Our Lord, Jesus Christ, appearing in the world, and a new alliance superseding the old, the shadows have all vanished, the figures are accomplished, the prophecies realized, the law perfected; a new people have taken the place of the old, and the days predicted by Jeremy have arrived: "Behold the days shall come, and I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel, and with the house of Juda; not according to the covenant which I made with their fathers. . . . But this shall be the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel . . . I give my law in their bowels, and I will write it in their hearts; and I will be their God, and they shall be my people." Jer. xxxi. 31. The old covenant, given on Mount Sinai, was limited to the house of Israel; the new covenant is general, and includes all the children of men, without exception. The old was ratified by the blood of victims of goats and oxen; the new cemented by the blood of the Son of God. The latter in the intention of the Sovereign Legislator was first, and to this every thing we find in the Old Testament has some reference. The spirit of the old law was that of fear and servitude, whilst the spirit of love and liberty is the soul of the new. The old was temporary and not designed to continue; the new is permanent and to extend through all ages. The former only promised temporal and perishable goods, the latter such as are infinite and eternal.

The Catholic Church, heir to the promises which God made to the Synagogue, preserves with great care and respect the Books of the Old Testament, as her grand charter, as the titles of her possession and election, as well as of the reprobation of her rival, the Synagogue. But she preserves with a still more sovereign attention and veneration the Books of the New Testament, as the proof of her adoption, as the pledge of her happiness, as the declaration of the will of her Father and Lord, as the genuine code of the life, miracles, and doctrines of her God, and the rule she is to follow in her actions and in her conduct.

ORIGIN OF THE BOOKS OF THE NEW TESTAMENT.

OUR Lord Jesus Christ has left us nothing in writing. He gave all his instructions by word of mouth, preaching in public and in private to his apostles and to all the people, inculcating the truths of salvation during the three years of his missionary career: but before he quitted them, he promised to give them an invisible and interior Master, who should teach them all things whatever he shall have said to them, and enable them to answer their opponents, and to carry the gospel truths to the utmost limits of the earth. S. John xiv. 22, and xvi. 13.

It was in the execution of these promises that the apostles received the Holy Ghost, fifty days after the resurrection of Jesus Christ, and that, animated with his fire, and illumined with his Divine light, they have left us the holy Gospels, and the other books of the New Testament, which we consider with reason as the work of Jesus Christ himself. Let us then no longer say, happy are they who have seen the Lord, and who have heard from his mouth the words of life. Many of those have persecuted him, and have imbrued their hands in his blood; whilst many of those who have not seen him, have believed in him. Moreover, we read, we hear, we preserve in the sacred books the instructions he gave to the people. Jesus Christ is in heaven, and he is still preaching on earth: etiam hic est veritas Dominus. S. Aug.

The apostles were in no great hurry to write: they began, after the example of their Master, to teach by word of mouth, and to practise the truths they had learned. They were no ways apprehensive of forgetting what they had heard, nor of varying in what they taught; they had impressed too deeply the truths they had received from his lips both on their mind and heart, and they felt perfectly secure in the promises made to them, that his Holy Spirit should never abandon them.—After some years, the zeal and pious curiosity of the faithful engaged them to commit to writing what they knew, for the consolation and instruction of their disciples. This was the motive of S. Matthew's writing. S. Mark probably had the same motive in abridging what had been penned by S. Matthew, wishing at the same time to subjoin some additional few facts and circumstances which he had learned elsewhere.

S. Luke informs us that he was determined to write, because accounts were in circulation relative to the life and doctrines of Jesus Christ, differing from what they had received from the apostles; and that he gave his account with all exactitude, from the mouth of those who had been witnesses, and who were charged to deliver them to their disciples, thinking that he should do a service to the Church in writing faithfully, and in order, all that had passed from the beginning.—Lastly, the holy Fathers teach us that the heresy of Cerinthus, and that of the Nicolaites, who denied the Divinity of Jesus Christ, gave rise to the Gospel of S. John.

The Acts of the Apostles are a continuation of the Gospel of S. Luke, a narrative of what happened to the infant church of Jerusalem, from the ascension of Jesus Christ till the conversion of S. Paul; and of what happened to this great apostle, from his conversion till his first journey to Rome. S. Luke gives scarce any thing here, of which himself was not eye-witness, as the inseparable companion of the labours and preaching of the apostle.—S. Paul penned his Epistles according to the wants and occurrences of different churches, without any premeditated design of reducing to writing, or giving a body of the maxims and truths which he preached; although, by an effect of Divine Providence, he has drawn out for us very many excellent and most important instructions therein, which serve as a supplement to the holy Gospels.—In the same manner, the other apostles that have left us any instructions in writing, penned their epistles for the edification and instruction of those churches exclusively to which they were addressed. Well convinced, at the same time, that they would be communicated in process of time to all the other churches, through respect for whatever came from that pure source, and through the eagerness of the faithful to preserve such invaluable monuments. S. John wrote his Apocalypse, or Book of Revelations, by the express order of Jesus Christ, who enjoined him to send the same to the seven churches of Asia Minor, whom he wished to make the depository of the revelations contained therein; and which relate, in great measure, to events that were to befall his church militant on earth, till its complete union with his church triumphant in heaven.

CANON OF THE BOOKS OF THE NEW TESTAMENT.

BOTH in the Old and New Testament there are Books, the authenticity of which has never been disputed. There are others which, during a certain period, and in certain churches, have been questioned: but at this day there is not one in the canon that has not been acknowledged authentic by the greatest part of the ancient churches. In vain did the ancient heresiarchs attempt to corrupt the genuine text, or to forge false Gospels; they have never been able to corrupt the originals of the Catholic Churches: whilst the Books that have been corrupted, mutilated, changed, or invented by them, have all been despised or forgotten; have all been suppressed, proscribed, and condemned by the Catholic Church.

We cannot precisely tell the year in which the canon of the New Testament was formed; but we find it clearly marked as far back as the second age of the Church, though it was not universally received in its present form till after the fourth century. Eusebius, in his 3rd Book, and 24th chapter, on Church History, informs us, that the bishops of Asia presented to S. John the Gospels of the three evangelists, who had written before him, and which were then public and universally known. S. John approved of and received them; and to supply what was wanting in them, wrote his own, in which he mentions what Jesus Christ had done at the commencement of his preaching, and what had been omitted by the other evangelists. The first three Gospels we find cited in S. Clement's Epistle to the Corinthians, written previously to S. John's Gospel. S. Polycarp, in his Epistle to the Philippians, quotes five or six times the Gospels of S. Matthew and S. Luke, without naming them. S. Barnaby, in his Epistle, frequently quotes the four Gospels. S. Ignatius repeatedly cites them in his seven Epistles, and alludes to them, particularly to the Gospel of S. John.

S. Justin, the martyr, speaks expressly of the Commentaries of the Apostles, the name he gives to the Gospels, which, he says, were written by the apostles, or by their disciples. Tertullian appeals to the Gospel which from the beginning has been given by the apostles, and which is preserved as a sacred deposit in the apostolic churches. "If it be evident," says this author, "that that is truest which is first, and that that is first which was from the beginning; it is equally evident that that was delivered to us from the apostles, which has always been holden as most sacred in the apostolic churches."

We have here, then, from the end of the first, and from the beginning of the second age, and in the third, the canon of the four Gospels received, acknowledged, and authorized in the Church by the Apostles themselves; since S. John had seen the Gospels of S. Matthew, S. Mark, and S. Luke, and S. Paul usually cites the Gospel according to the text of S. Luke. This canon was made, not in a solemn assembly, not in a council, but by the consent of the churches, and by the judgment of the bishops, the major part of whom had seen and known the apostles and their disciples.

The Epistles of the apostles are not less authentic, and they were collected together about the same period as the four Gospels. S. Polycarp distinctly cites the Epistles of S. Paul, and those of S. Peter and S. John. He does not indeed quote the Epistle to the Hebrews, nor the Second of S. Peter, nor the Second and Third of S. John, because most probably they did not find a place in the earliest collections. S. Ignatius, in his Epistle to the Philadelphians, clearly marks the Gospels, the Apostles, and Prophets, as composing the whole code of Scripture. "Let us have recourse," says he, "to the gospel, as to the flesh of Jesus Christ, and to all his apostles, looking upon the epistles of these holy men as the ecclesiastical senate; let us also love and esteem the prophets," or the books of the Old Testament. Tertullian tells us, that in his time the originals of the Epistles were preserved.

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE OF THE BOOKS OF THE NEW TESTAMENT.

THE original text of the Books of the New Testament, if we except the Gospel of S. Matthew, was Greek. The Gospel of S. Matthew was written originally in Hebrew, or in Syriac, which was the vulgar language at that period in Palestine, but was translated very early into Greek. The original text was in preservation at the time of S. Epiphanius and S. Jerom; but since that time has been entirely lost. The Greek translation is very ancient, the Latin version is scarcely less ancient, and very exact and faithful.

Different Versions of the Scriptures into English, with the Dates of the same.

It will perhaps be acceptable to many to see a list of the early translations, with their dates. The first we find is by

| | |
|--|------|
| James Coverdale,* in the year of our Lord | 1535 |
| Thos. Matthew, | 1538 |
| Richard Taverner, | 1539 |
| Henry VIII.'s Bible, printed by Ed. Whitechurch and Rd. Grafton, | 1539 |
| Ditto, second edition, revised and corrected by Cuthbert, bishop of Durham, and Nicholas, bishop of Rochester; printed by Grafton, | 1541 |

* See Ward's Errata to Protestant Bibles, ed. 1737; also defence of same, by the Rev. J. L. 1811.—The Bibles quoted by Ward are, 1st, The translation begun by Tindal in 1526, and finished by Coverdale in 1535, as altered by Cranmer and the Genevan editors, of which an edition was given 1562. 2ndly, The two editions of 1577 and 1579, from the version called Bishop's Bible, which appeared in 1568; and lastly, the version now in use, called King James's Bible, first published in 1610. In this several of the former errors are corrected, but several still remain to be corrected. Ward very justly remarks, "the changes were made too late. The people were deceived by a vast number of corruptions in the sacred texts, during the reigns of Henry VIII., Edward VI., and Elizabeth, till they had in general renounced the ancient faith, and embraced the new system. And when this was effected, and the growing sect of Puritans began to turn these corruptions against you, particularly at the famous conference of Hampton Court, in the beginning of the first James's reign, at last you thought proper to correct them." See p. 17.—To mention some of the many variations still existing, compare the differences that are found in the Catholic and Protestant version with the Greek text and Latin Vulgate.

IN S. MATTHEW.

Ch. iii. 2, and 8; xix. 11. In this latter text it is certainly of moment, to prove the possibility of leading a continent life, whether we translate it according to the Vulgate and Greek, not all take this word, or mistranslate it thus, "all men cannot receive this saying;" again, (1 Cor. vii. 9,) if they do not contain; "if they cannot contain."

IN S. LUKE.

Ch. i. 6, and 28; iii. 8; and xviii. 42. Thy faith hath made thee whole, is translated, "thy faith hath saved thee," in favour of faith only. It was on the same ground; do penance is every where rendered, "repent ye;" but the judicious Mr. Bois, prebend of Ely, in his Veteris Interpretis cum Beza, commended

| | |
|---|----------|
| Edmund Beche's Bible, printed by John Daye, | 1549 |
| Ditto, second edition, by ditto, | 1551 |
| English Testament, printed at Geneva, by Conrad Badius | 1557 |
| Rheims Testament, by John Fogny; the fifth edition of this was given in folio and with cuts, anno 1738, | 1582 |
| Harrison's Bible, printed at London, | 1562 |
| Rouen Bible, | 1566 |
| Bishop's Bible, printed by Rd. Jugge, | 1568 |
| Ditto, edition by ditto, | 1572-7-9 |
| Geneva Bible, by Christ. Barker, | 1578 |
| Douay Bible, printed at Douay, by Laurence Kellem, | 1609 |
| King James's Bible, printed by Robt. Barker, | 1610 |
| Ditto, second edition, same date (it is not known which was first printed). | — |

It is certain that no printed book, with a date, existed previously to the celebrated Psalter of 1457; the Bible by Fust and Gutenberg, but without date, was printed in 1450, a copy of which is in the Imperial Library at Paris, probably brought thither by the German librarian, who, for his knowledge of books, is a second Magliabechi. He not only possesses a schedule of the Libri desiderati, but also knows the exact place in each great library of Europe, where they are to be found.

DR. WITHAM'S REMARKS TO THE READER.

A TRANSLATION of the New Testament into English, from the ancient Latin version, was made by some Catholic divines in the University of Douay two hundred and thirty years ago, and published by them at Rheims, anno 1582. By the date, that translation was before the amendments and corrections made, under Sixtus V. and Clement VIII., to reduce the Latin Vulgate to its former purity. Yet the differences betwixt that Douay translation and the present Latin Vulgate are so few and inconsiderable, that they must have followed a very correct Latin edition.

The authors of that translation are to be commended for their endeavours to give us a true and literal translation, not a paraphrase, as most of the French translations seem to be. This liberty of a paraphrase would indeed have rendered this laborious work much easier, but less exact, and with no small danger of mistaking and misrepresenting the true sense of the word of God. In this I have endeavoured to follow them.

They followed with a nice exactness the Latin text, which they undertook to translate, at the same time always consulting and comparing it with the Greek, as every accurate translator must do, not to mistake the true sense of the Latin text. They perhaps followed too scrupulously the Latin, even as to the placing of the words; but what chiefly makes that edition seem so obscure at present, and scarcely intelligible, is the difference of the English tongue as it was spoken at that time, and as it is now changed and refined: so that many words and expressions both in the translation and annotations, by length of time, are become obsolete and no longer in use.

It must needs be owned that many places in the Holy Scriptures are obscure, and hard to be understood: δυσνόητα, says S. Peter, 2 Ep. iii. 16. They must be obscure in a literal translation, as they are in the original. These places, as S. Peter there tells us, the unlearned, by their own false interpretations, turn and "wrest, as they do other Scriptures, to their own perdition." Nor yet is it lawful, even to prevent such fatal mistakes, to make any alterations or additions, that are not contained in the literal sense of the text. If the reader, in this edition, find sometimes a word or two in a different character, it is merely because, though they are not expressed in the very letter of the text, yet they seemed necessary to represent to the reader the true and literal sense and construction of such places, and so cannot be looked upon as any alteration or addition.

I am by no means for changing that simplicity of style, and that plain manner of relating and expressing these Divine truths, in which the sacred writers, inspired by the Holy Ghost, have delivered to us these oracles of the word of God. I am of the opinion of M. Godeau, the learned bishop of Vence, who would not in his paraphrase change thou into you, even when the words were addressed to God himself. He says, that to speak to God by thou and thee, is to pay greater honour and veneration to the grandeur and majesty of God. And yet it is certain, they sound more awkwardly in the French language than in English; for, hitherto, both Catholics and Protestants have used them in their English Scriptures and Prayer Books, though the French not so frequently: we have also another reason for retaining them in the Scripture; for the change of thou into you, would very often make the sentence of a doubtful signification, as I could show by many examples.

by Walton in his Polyglot, declares he would not have this common translation of pœnitentiam agite changed; and brings the words of Melancthon, "Let us not be ashamed of our mother-tongue; the Church is our mother, and so speaks the Church."

ACTS OF THE APOSTLES.

Ch. xiv. 22, And when they had ordained to them priests, is rendered, "and when they had ordained them elders in every church, and had prayed with fasting:" now it is evident that here are not meant elders as to years and age: and if they look to the derivation, priest and the French word pretre are derived from presbyter. See also ch. xv. and xvi.—Ch. xvii. 23, And seeing your idols, is rendered, "And behold your devotions."—Ch. xx. 28, Take heed to yourselves, and to the whole flock, wherein the Holy Ghost hath placed you "bishops" to "rule" the church of God, is rendered, "overseers to feed the church."

S. PAUL'S EPISTLE TO THE ROMANS.

Ch. v. 6, When as yet we were weak, is rendered, "when we were yet without strength," taking away free-will.—Ch. xi. 4, for Baal, is given in italics, "the image" of Baal. Frequently the words idols and idolaters are changed into images and image-worshippers, to prove Catholics to be idolaters; also Acts xix. 35.

FIRST EPISTLE TO THE CORINTHIANS.

Ch. i. 10, No schisms among you: Prot. "no divisions."—Ch. ix. 5, To carry about a woman, a sister: Prot. "to lead about a woman, a wife;" to show that S. Paul was married. The contrary is clear from ch. vii. 7, 8.—Ch. xi. 27, Whosoever shall eat this bread, or drink, etc., thus, "shall eat and drink."—Ch. xv. 10, The grace of God with me: Prot. "The grace of God which was with me:" thus they would have it seem that the apostle did nothing at all, but was moved as a thing without life or will, and taking away free co-operation with Divine grace.

EPISTLE TO THE PHILIPPIANS.

Ch. ii. 25, and iv. 3, My sincere companion. Prot. "true yoke-fellow," as if S. Paul had written this to his wife.

EPISTLE TO THE COLOSSIANS.

Ch. i. 12, Worthy to be partakers, thus, "meet to be partakers," against meritorious works.

TWO EPISTLES TO TIMOTHY.

1st Ep. iv. 14, and 2d Ep. i. 6, Stir up the grace of God which is in thee by the imposition of my hands, thus, "the gift of God," lest holy orders should be proved a sacrament.—The word catholic, at the head of the Epistles of S. James and of S. Peter, is converted into "general." Sir Thos. More has a long dissertation against his contemporary, Tindal, for substituting congregation for church. And here we must remark, that the Latin version was in general use long before any reform in the doctrines of the Church was thought of; of course it is not open to the same objections with all subsequent translations.

I have also retained such phrases, and ways of speaking, which may be called either Hebraisms or Grecisms, as taken from the idioms of those languages, but yet may be well enough understood in English. Nor did I think it necessary to change many words and expressions which, though coming from Hebrew and Greek derivations, are sufficiently understood by a long ecclesiastical use and custom, at least by those who are acquainted with the style of the sacred writers.

But notwithstanding the obscurity in the Holy Scriptures, and the simplicity and plainness of the style and phraseology, these sacred penmen are falsely accused of barbarisms and solecisms in many places in the Greek: and though they have sometimes neglected the ordinary rules of grammar (which the Latin interpreter has also done), yet in them we may discover not only more sublime thoughts, but even a true, natural, and solid eloquence, far surpassing the studied and artificial rhetoric of the most celebrated profane classics. Of this see the judicious critic, and eloquent Dr. Blackwall, in his book entitled, The Sacred Classics Defended, etc. An. 1728.

I know English Protestants are apt to blame us for translating from the Latin Vulgate rather than from the Greek. Is not the Greek, say they, the fountain? Were not the originals of all, or almost all, the New Testament, written in Greek? They were so. But then we desire first to know where they, or we, may find this Greek fountain pure, clear, and unmixed, as it was in the beginning? where we may be able to meet with those originals, or αὐτόγραφα, written by those divinely inspired authors? It is certain they are not now extant, nor have been seen or heard of for many ages.

But they will tell us, though the originals be lost, we may meet with many copies, and Greek MSS., some of them, perhaps, written a thousand years ago, as the most learned critics conjecture. We must desire of them, secondly, to know whether any one of these MS. copies agree in all, or almost all, places one with another, or with the Greek Testaments printed from them, and from which the Protestants have made their translations into vulgar tongues? It is evident to a demonstration, that no such authentic MSS. can be found.

The immense labours, and almost incredible pains, which many Protestants, as well as divers Catholics, have taken, for two hundred and eighty years, to turn over, read, and compare the best and most ancient MSS. in all the most famous libraries in the world, have made it evident to all mankind in how many thousand places they differ one from another.

The Greek edition of the New Testament, printed at Oxford, E Theatro Sheldoniano, An. 1675, has given us out of divers MSS. about twelve or thirteen thousand different readings, as they have been numbered by a Protestant* author, G. D. T., who published a neat edition of the New Testament at Amsterdam, Ex Officina Westeniana, An. 1711. And when in his Prolegom. he gives us an account of the indefatigable labours of the learned Dr. Mills, he tells us, that out of about 120 MSS. he published An. 1707 about thirty thousand different readings; and moreover, that the said Dr. Mills, in his Prolegom. owns that he looks upon above two thousand of these to be the true and genuine readings, according to which all printed copies ought to be corrected, and the present readings cast out, which, says he, would occasion no small changes in our books.

This said critic, in the same place, blames Dr. Mills for not attending to the consequences and advantages which, he apprehends, the Papists may pretend to draw from thence, who always cry the fountains are corrupted; 2ndly, the Socinians; 3rdly, the Atheists, and all they who make a jest of all revealed religion.

I am sorry to find any of our adversaries so ill-natured, and so unjust to us, as to join us in such ill company as that of Socinians, Deists, Atheists, etc. We detest not only their errors, but also the consequences which they bring against the authority of the Holy Scriptures, from the different readings, either in the Greek or Latin MSS. and copies, of which I may say, with a Protestant critic, that they seem more for pomp† and show than for use and profit; a great number, especially of Dr. Mills's, being frivolous, and of no moment, like those of Mr. James, in his book, to which he thought fit to give the title of Bellum Papale, setting forth those small differences betwixt the amendments of Sixtus V. and Clement VIII.

It is true, the Catholics, from such a multitude of differences, even in the most ancient MSS. now extant (which, as M. Simon shows, differ as much one from another, and from the printed Greek copies, as those of a later date), may draw these inferences:

I. That the Protestants set too great a value, and lay too great stress, upon the Greek text, such as it now is, from which they have made so many different translations into vulgar languages; so that even Luther,‡ Calvin, Beza, and King James I., when he ordered a new translation, made loud and just complaints, that by them was shamefully corrupted the purity of the word of God. For, as S. Jerom§ said, that which varies cannot be true; especially, when it must remain doubtful which readings ought to be preferred, and when every translator follows and sets down that reading which, in his private opinion, he judges best, or rather which agrees best with the principles of his sect; by which liberty, says Dr. Walton,|| in his Proleg., they have often followed Lesbiam regulam; that is, by endeavouring to make the word of God conformable to their creed, not their creed to the word of God.

II. From such a multitude of various readings, and differences in all these MSS., it must needs follow that the Greek fountain has not run clear and unmixed for many ages.

III. For the same reason, the present Greek text cannot be accounted authentic in such a manner as they would have people to believe. By an authentic writing, deed, or testament, is often understood the very original itself, written, made, or signed by the author of it. No Greek MS., nor any part of the New Testament, can now be called authentic in this sense. A writing may be also esteemed authentic in a less degree, when, though it be not the original itself, it can at least be proved to be a copy agreeing exactly, and word for word, with that writing that was the original: this again cannot be pretended of the Greek MSS. now extant because of such a number of differences, even in the most ancient copies that can be met with. The Protestants, therefore, must needs allow that writings, in a true sense, may be looked upon as authentic, when there are sufficient grounds and authority to believe, and to be convinced, that notwithstanding many small changes which have happened in seventeen or eighteen hundred years, they still contain, in all things of moment, the sense of the originals; so that whether they be copies in the same primitive language, or were faithfully translated, credit may be given to them as to the originals. Can our adversaries show any other sense in which the present Greek can be called authentic?

They need not, therefore, quarrel with the Decree of the Council of Trent (Sess. 4), which, without deciding anything concerning the Hebrew or Greek Scriptures, and without denying them to be authentic, declared the Latin Vulgate to be received, and made use of as authentic, ordering a correct edition of it to be published, and to be preferred before all other Latin translations and

* Ne posset ingens ista farrago præjudicare atque obesse Testamento . . . Pontificii ubique corruptos esse fontes clamant; Sociniani Christum et Spiritum Sanctum et Novo Testamento erasum et eliminatum vellunt; athei et irrisores totum deletum desiderant; quique cuncti ex tanta multitudine lectionum contra sacratissimum codicem argumenta mutuari possunt, et sæpius mutuati sunt, et adhuc mutantur. In the preface, p. 26.

† In pompam magis quam in usum. Dr. Mills in Proleg. p. 137.

‡ See Simon in his Critiques on the New Testam. c. ult., citing the words of Grotius, Lutherus dixit per tot versiones incertiores fieri lectores quam antea fuerunt. Lez vero tot esse interpretes, qui non tam convertunt quam pervertunt: ut, nisi audaciæ eorum occurratur futurum sit inter paucos annos, ut ipsarum quoque rerum possessionem depellamur. See Simon on the New Testam. c. 24.

§ S. Hieron. Præfat. in Evang., verum non esse quod variat.

|| Walton Proleg. 6. p. 37, pro norma fidei Lesbiam regulam haberemus, nec jam verbum Dei ultra esset, sed aliorum qui hoc sibi temerè promittunt.

editions. And that this is the true sense of that Decree, see Pallavicina, who wrote the History of the Council, Salmeron, who was there present, Bellarmin, and divers other learned Catholic writers, cited for this purpose by Dr. Walton in his 10th Prolegomena. The same Catholic writers allow, and teach that recourse may be had, even to the present Hebrew and Greek, to find, and prove the true sense of the Scriptures. See Bellarm. l. 2, de Verbo Dei, c. 11.

But the Protestants will still pretend that translations of the New Testament ought rather to be made from the Greek, being the language in which it was written, and therefore the Greek must certainly have more of the original than translations into Latin, Syriac, etc.* Yet this only shows that the Greek MSS. and copies, as we have them at present, have indeed more of the original, as to words, but does not prove that they have more of the original, as to the true sense, than a faithful and exact translation, taken from the originals soon after they were written, if such a translation hath been always kept with equal or with greater care. For it is certain that many times one word, or one letter, added or omitted, quite changeth the sense of a whole sentence; and such changes, when they come to be very numerous, alter the sense of a large writing or book. This may happen to any book, to any deed, to any last will and testament, of which a number of copies have been taken, though in the same language. Put the case, that when S. Jerom undertook a new translation into Latin of the Old Testament, he could meet with no Hebrew text but what was full of faults and changes, and that the Greek version of the Sept. had been faithfully translated, and more carefully preserved, it is certain that though he might still find in the Hebrew more of the original as to the very words, yet not more of the true sense. Many who opposed S. Jerom's new translation from the Hebrew, and were for sticking to the former version taken from the Sept., judged this to be the very case; especially, finding that Christ himself, and his apostles, cited the places of the Scriptures as they were in the Sept.

To apply this to the question we are about, and give reasons for translating from the Latin Vulgate: It is not to be doubted but that a Latin translation of all the New Testament was made, either in the apostles' time, or very soon after. No doubt but this translation was not only read by particulars, but in all churches and meetings where the Latin tongue was spoken. It is this translation that S. Jerom and S. Aug. sometimes called vetus, and communis, sometimes vulgata, and Itala, or Italica. And S. Aug., speaking of the Latin versions, of which there had been very many before his time, says, Itala ceteris præferatur. l. 2, de Doct. Christ. c. 15.

This common and Vulgate edition S. Jerom corrected, by order of Pope Damasus, from the Greek MSS., which doubtless were not so different as those now to be met with in our days; yet he tells us what caution he used in correcting it, only from the best MSS., and such as seemed true ones. This Latin Vulgate, with S. Jerom's amendments, was much approved by the learned men; yet it was not generally used in the churches till two hundred years after; they still retained in their public Liturgy, and read in their Church meetings, the common ancient Vulgate, and then by degrees S. Jerom's corrections were received, at least for the most part, though in some places the New Testament was still retained, according to that ancient and common Italica.

The learned Cassiodorus, in the 6th age, took great pains to have the Scriptures corrected from the faults that had happened by the ignorance or negligence of transcribers, and placed MSS. as correct as possible, both of the ancient Vulgate and with S. Jerom's amendments, in his library.

The emperor Charles the Great, who was both learned himself and a great encourager of learning, employed Alcuin, and divers learned men to correct those frequent faults, which by such a multitude of written copies, were found in the Latin Scriptures. He tells us he corrected in this manner all the Books† of the Old and New Testament.

The Latin writers and interpreters in every age, and also the scholastics from the 12th and 13th century, have much contributed to make us able to discern the true readings from the changes and faults of transcribers, before printing was invented.

The learned men in most universities, and in all parts of the Western Church, were consulted, who having compared the Latin with the Greek copies, sent their remarks to Rome, where, after examining and advising with men that were judged the most capable in this kind of learning, were published the correct editions of the Latin Vulgate, by Sixtus V. and Clement VIII. Can it be said that greater care, or equal care, has been taken as to any edition of the Greek Testament?

It may be also observed, that neither S. Jerom, nor any of the Fathers, thought it convenient to make new translations from the Greek MSS. They contented themselves to correct those faults which inevitably happened in the MS. copies. They had a due veneration for that version which had been made use of from the beginning of the Christian religion in all the Latin churches. Erasmus was the first who undertook a new translation from the printed Greek, published by Cardinal Ximenes, and by Robert Stephens. Beza blames Erasmus for abandoning in many places the Latin Vulgate, which, says he, is more conformable to many Greek MSS. which Erasmus wanted. The learned Protestant, Mr. Bois,‡ prebend of Ely, at the request of Launcelot, bishop of Winchester, in his book entitled Veteris Interpretis cum Beza aliisque recentioribus, Collatio, commended by Dr. Walton, defends the old Latin translation, where it was changed by Beza and others. See what he says on the 4th chapter of S. Matt. p. 5. And what heavy complaints the author of the preface makes, not only of new readings, but of all kind of novelties in matters of religion, introduced without necessity.

Dr. Walton,§ in his Proleg., and other learned Protestants, own that the Latin Vulgate ought to be held in great esteem, and that it ought not to be changed by any private persons, having been authorized and used in the Church for so many ages; especially, saith Walton, since it belongs to the Church to judge of the sense of the Scriptures, and to recommend this sacred Depositum to the faithful. The Church, in a General Council, has declared the ancient Latin Vulgate authentic; but we do not find any Greek copy or edition, such as we can meet with at present, recommended to us by the Church.

As to the annotations in this edition, I have not followed those in the Rheims Testament. They chiefly insisted on the controversies occasioned by the late changes of religion in England. I have made it my endeavour to expound also the literal sense. I am persuaded that, aiming at brevity, these notes may seem obscure to those who have not read any other commentary; but I hope they may be useful, both for the preventing of false interpretations, and for a more easy understanding of the word of God,

* The question is not, says a learned prelate, between a version and an original in ordinary circumstances. But here is a version partly made and partly corrected by the first biblical scholar, and one of the greatest and most holy men who ever lived, S. Jerom. He corrected the old Latin version of the New Testament from the Greek, and translated the Old from the Hebrew, in consequence of an order from Pope Damasus, under the eye of the great S. Augustin, and of that constellation of illustrious Doctors, who adorned the Church at the commencement of the fifth century. A version which was made when the best and purest copies of the Hebrew, Chaldaic, Greek, and Latin, together with the Polyglots of Origen, etc., were in existence; a version, which has been constantly in the hands of the Western Church in all its extent during fifteen centuries, and which in the mean while has been transcribed a million of times. Hence no material error could creep into the whole, or even into any comparatively great number of copies. On the other hand, the Hebrew and Greek originals having been, during many ages, chiefly in the hands of wandering Jews, and divided, oppressed Asiatics, the Church cannot answer for what changes they may have undergone. Hence the Church recommends to her children the Latin Vulgate, but says nothing of the other texts.

† Universos ad amissim correximus. See Simon on the New Testam. c. 9.

‡ Nova nunc spiramus, suspiramusque omnia, nova lumina, Angliam novam, novum. . . . Evangelium, ac si abjuratis Orthodoxorum partibus, in Castra concesseramus Novati, Novatoresque rectius audiremus, quam reformati—Davidicos numeros, vernaculo sermone nostro, rythmis, pessimis, sensu pejori redditos, etc.

§ Magni faciendam. Non sollicitandam a privatis.

especially in the Epistles of S. Paul. I am not conscious to myself that I have omitted to examine the greatest difficulties, nor those passages that have been perverted by false expositions: nor yet have I used any harsh language, or reflections on those who have fallen into the greatest errors and mistakes. I have always been mindful of that excellent admonition of the apostle to his disciple, S. Timothy, as spoken to every minister of the gospel: Be mild even towards all men . . . patient, admonishing with modesty those who resist the truth, in hopes that God will at some time give them repentance to know, and acknowledge the truth, 2 Tim. ii. 24. If I have not been acquainted with the Scriptures from my very infancy, as S. Paul witnesseth of the same S. Timothy, my inclinations, at least, led me very early to take the greatest delight in searching the sense of the Holy Scriptures, the commentaries, and interpretations of the ancient Fathers, especially on the New Testament, in their own works, and language they wrote; in citing of which, I have never trusted any eyes but my own, which I soon found very necessary; not omitting, at the same time, what I could learn from later authors and critics.

But as I am conscious to myself, so I freely own to the public, that I do not look upon myself sufficiently qualified to make a new translation, which therefore I have not pretended to. I am far from being so perfect in the Greek as I could wish, and of Hebrew I know nothing. I have consulted, on the most difficult places, those whom I thought were best able to assist me. I have been always cautious not to expound the Scriptures by my own private judgment, not to follow a blind guide, nor to split upon the same dangerous rock as all heretics have done, rashly wresting the Scriptures to their own perdition, 2 Pet. iii. 16. I submit all to the judgment of the Church, and of the head of the Church, the successor of S. Peter, to those pastors and bishops whom Christ left to govern his church, with whom he promised to remain to the end of the world. Matt. xxviii. 20.

I shall only add, that I have not published this translation and notes, that every one, though never so ignorant, might read and put his own construction on the sense of these sacred writings. The dangerous and pernicious consequences of reading Scriptures without humility, and an entire submission to the Church, I have elsewhere taken notice of. I beg leave to conclude with this charitable advice, that whosoever takes the Holy Scriptures in hand to read them, first make this, or the like prayer, to the Father of Lights.

A Prayer before the Reading of any Part of the Holy Scriptures.

COME, O Holy Spirit, fill the hearts and minds of thy faithful servants, and inflame them with the fire of thy Divine love.

LET US PRAY.

O GOD, who by the inspiration of the Holy Ghost, didst instruct the hearts of thy faithful servants; grant us in the same Spirit, to discern what is right, and enjoy his comfort for ever: Through our Lord Jesus Christ, who liveth and reigneth one God, with thee and the same Spirit, world without end. Amen.

ON READING THE HOLY SCRIPTURES.

THE Catholic Church earnestly wishes that the truths and maxims of God's word may be deeply impressed on the minds of all her children, says a learned prelate; and she requires of all her pastors, from the highest to the lowest, as the most important of all their duties, to be unremittingly assiduous in inculcating this word to the young and ignorant. To qualify themselves for fulfilling this obligation, she enjoins all her pastors constantly to read and study the Holy Scriptures, which she has the merit of having preserved inviolate, during the many centuries that have elapsed since their delivery.—With respect to the laity, she never interdicted the Bible to them, as Protestants suppose; but, at a time when coblers and tailors were insulting heaven with their blasphemies, and convulsing the earth with their seditions, all grounded on the misinterpretations of the Bible, she enjoined that such as took this mysterious book in hand, should have received a tincture of learning, so as to be able to read it in one or other of the learned languages; unless their respective pastors should judge from their good sense and good dispositions, that they would derive no mischief from reading it in the vulgar tongue. Reg. 4. Ind. Trid. At present the Catholic prelates do not think it necessary to enforce even this restriction, and accordingly Catholic versions are to be found in folio, quarto, and octavo, with the entire approbation of those prelates.

One restriction is necessary still; not to give to the Divine word any other sense than what the universal Church has always given. Hence the sayings—Nil nisi quod traditum est. Quod ubique, quod semper, quod ab omnibus. From the old Church we receive the Bible, and with it the genuine sense, or interpretation of the Bible. For want of an infallible tribunal, which Catholics acknowledge as always existing, and of Divine origin, all that dissent from this Church must necessarily harbour doubts as to the real sense of the sacred writings. Hence a modern writer presumes to offer canons or rules of his own, for the better interpretation of the Scriptures; because, as he says, whilst “Christians of almost every denomination profess to adopt the same Scriptures as the rule of faith and practice, they yet draw, or seem to draw, from them conclusions widely different. Many causes, doubtless, contribute to this effect; and none, perhaps, more than that corruption of our nature, which blinds the understanding, which in one man exalts itself against the humbling truths of the gospel, and in another refuses obedience to its self-denying precepts. Still we find differences of opinion, which exist between those who appear to believe with sincerity, and to study with candour, the revealed will of God; differences which are, I think, to be traced in a considerable degree to a wrong method of interpreting the sacred writings.”

This reasoning evidently shows the necessity of a visible and fixed authority. Hence the amiable Fenelon, in his argument with Ramsay, says: “The Christian Church, without such a fixed and visible authority, would be like a republic to which wise laws had been given, but without magistrates to look to their execution. What a source of confusion this! Each individual, with the book of laws in his hand, would dispute about their meaning. The sacred oracles, in that case, would serve only to feed our vain curiosity, to increase our pride and presumption, and to make us more tenacious of our own opinions. There would indeed be but one original text, but as many different manners of explaining it as there are men. Divisions and subdivisions would multiply without end, and without remedy. Can we think that our Sovereign Lawgiver has not provided better for the peace of his republic, and for the preservation of his law?”

“If there be no infallible authority, which may say to us all, this is the true meaning of the Holy Scripture: how can we expect that illiterate peasants, or simple mechanics, should engage in a discussion wherein the learned themselves cannot agree? God would have been wanting to the necessities of almost all men, if, when he gave them a written law, he had not at the same time provided them a sure interpreter, to spare them the necessity of research, of which they are utterly incapable. Every man of common understanding has need of nothing more than a sincere sense of his ignorance, to see the absurdities of the sects, who build their separation from the Catholic Church upon the privilege of deciding on matters far above their comprehension. Ought we then to hearken to the new reformers, who require what is impossible; or to the ancient Church, which provides for the weakness of our nature?” If we listen to the former, we should soon be found to resemble those men of latter days, whom S. Paul tells us to avoid; ever learning, and never attaining to the knowledge of truth (2 Tim. iii. 7); because they trust to their own lights, and not to the visible authority appointed by Jesus Christ. How evident does all this speak for itself, when we behold a Voltaire extracting mental poison from the Song of Solomon: or, another Cromwell reading to a ruthless soldiery God's ordinances concerning the smiting of the Ammonites and Chanaanites, in order to induce them to kill every Catholic, man, woman, and child; or the fanatic, maintaining from the Revelations, that no king is to be obeyed but King Jesus; or, finally, when we hear those dangerous comments of our modern Moravian and Antinomian Methodists on S. Paul's Epistles, importing, that they being made free by Jesus Christ, are not subject to any law either of God or man. Surely in such cases, it would be advisable, if possible, to withdraw the Bible from every such profaner of it; and instead of it, to put into his hands the Catechism, in which he would find the bread of God's word, broken and prepared for his weak digestion, by those prelates to whom this duty particularly belongs. This the Protestant owns when he finds the Socinian abusing private interpretation, by repeatedly citing and expounding the sacred text against the Divinity of Jesus Christ, and the Presbyterian against Episcopacy.

So direful are the effects of the very best things when abused, that Fenelon, in his long and instructive answer to the bishop of Arras, on the promiscuous uses of Scripture, which occurs in his spiritual works, (vol. iv., page 228, ed. 1767,) says, "that he has not unfrequently found the greatest difficulty imaginable, in rectifying erroneous notions, conceived by an improper and ill-digested perusal of the Holy Scriptures."—He shows the wisdom of the Jews, in portioning out parts of the sacred writings according to the abilities and discretion of the reader. The beginning of the Book of Genesis, certain parts of the prophet Ezechiel, and the Song of Solomon, were not allowed to be read by any persons under 30 years of age. S. Jerom acted in the same manner with regard to young Læta, page 232. The good archbishop then shows that, if in the early ages this precaution was necessary, it is infinitely more so in ours, (p. 270,) when pastors have lost so much of their authority, and laics can set themselves up for judges; when persons read more through a spirit of curiosity than of edification, more like proud dogmatizing philosophers than meek and humble disciples. . . . "Christians," concludes this great light and ornament of France, p. 272, "ought to be first taught the spirit of the Scriptures, before they be permitted to read the letter of the Scriptures. These should only be placed in the hands of simple, docile, and humble souls, who are willing to feast upon them in silence, and not to argue, cavil, and dispute about them; who receive them from the holy Catholic Church, and only wish to find the true and genuine sense, as expounded by this infallible Church, which Jesus Christ commands us to hear."

We must, says Fenelon to Ramsay, submit to this Church, or reject the Bible as a fiction. The prelate tells him to consult the sacred writings, to examine the extent of the promises made by Jesus Christ to the Church and her pastors, the depository of his ordinances: "Whatsoever ye shall bind on earth, shall be bound also in heaven: that he will be with her till the end of the world; that the gates of hell shall not prevail against her; that she is the pillar and ground of truth;" and to her pastors he says, "He who heareth you, heareth me: and he who despiseth you, despiseth me." "You cannot," says the archbishop, "evade the force of these expressions by any comments; you have no remedy but in rejecting the authority both of the Lawgiver and of his law."

SCRIPTURE ALONE CANNOT BE THE WHOLE RULE OF FAITH AND LIFE.

The learned Walton (Prolegom. c. iv. 56) asserts, what every one versed in antiquity must allow, that "some parts of the New Testament were doubted of for some ages, till at length, by consent of the whole Church, all the books, as they are read at present, were received and approved." Here then we see that, for a chief proof of the inspiration, authenticity, and due rendering of the word of God, we are referred to the general consent of Christians; therefore Scripture, though the rule of faith and life, cannot be the whole rule; since from Scripture alone, an exact canon of the sacred books cannot by human art be learned.—When we have, by a common consent, come to an understanding of what is Scripture, and what is not, even then, in which book of Scripture do we read a full and fair account of infant baptism, or of the obligation of keeping holy the Sunday? But in vain shall we seek in particular parts of Scripture what is not to be found in the whole Bible. In the Divine law, like the law of the land, there is the lex scripta and lex non scripta. Blackstone's Commentaries, vol. i. sect. 3.—Apostolical traditions are one part of the rule of faith and life. The apostles received it in commission from their Divine Master, "to preach the gospel to every living creature, and to teach whatever he had commanded them;" and we must suppose that such of the apostles as never committed their instructions to paper, complied with the full import of their commission. S. Paul exhorts the Thessalonians to hold fast the traditions he had taught them, whether by word or writing, 2 Thess. ii. 15. And he gives this rule to Timothy, "The things which thou hast heard of me among many witnesses, the same commit thou to faithful men, who may be able to teach others also," 2 Tim. ii. 2.—The Church was Christian before the New Testament was written. See Rom. i. 7, 8; 1 Cor. i. 2; 1 Pet. i. 2, 3; Luke i. 4. And at this day, most persons settle their notions on religious subjects in an early period of life, either before they read the Scriptures, or before they are capable of collecting the system of Christianity from Scripture alone. And though a great deal is said of private spirit and gospel liberty of receiving and interpreting the Scripture according to each one's private opinion, the many canons, articles, and restraining constitutions, are a standing demonstration of the necessity of an authoritative interpreter of this rule of faith and life. The Catholic, then, convinced from S. Peter, that "no prophecy of Scripture is made by private interpretation," (2 Pet. i. 19, 20,) and that in the Epistles of S. Paul there "are some things hard to be understood, which the unlearned and unstable wrest," as they do "also the other Scriptures, to their own perdition," (2 Pet. iii. 17,) feels happy in being called upon by God to submit all to the existing infallible tribunal, not because the obvious text is contrary to his tenets, and favourable to his adversaries, (for the obvious sense of the words, "this is my body," and the promise, "my flesh is meat indeed;" and again, "hear the Church; if you will not hear the Church, you shall be to me as a heathen or publican," etc., etc., is certainly conformable to the Catholic tenets,) but because, in submitting his weak judgment to the infallible authority of the Church, which God has promised to direct into all truth, and to protect against all the powers of earth and hell, his mind enjoys peace and security, which are no where else to be found or enjoyed. Again, if, for argument sake, we omit the solemn promises Jesus Christ has made to his Church of infallibility and indefectibility, will not common sense and common prudence tell us, that it is far safer to explain the Scripture in the sense in which it is at present understood by a vast majority of Christians, and in which, for many hundred years, it was universally understood, than to receive the private interpretation of a comparatively small number of dissenters; which, being founded on what is called evangelical liberty, and private spirit, the constant sources of disunion, can afford very little peace of mind or conscience. Hence both reason and religion satisfy the Catholic, that, if he is to receive from the Catholic Church the canon and letter of the Scriptures, as handed down from the primitive ages, so is he to receive from the same authority the once universally received interpretation of the text. It is by obedience to this holy Catholic Church, which the apostles in their creed command us to believe; a Church fallible of itself, but infallible by virtue of the promises of Jesus Christ, that we are to be no more "tossed to and fro, and carried about by every wind of doctrine," Eph. iv. 11, 16. This is the highway wherein the way-faring men, though fools, shall not err. Isa. xxxv. 8. This is that way of which S. Jerom, in his comments on the fifth and sixth chapters of S. Matthew, says, "Si a recta via paululum declinaveris, non interest, utrum ad dexteram vadas, an ad sinistram, cum verum iter amiseris:" "If you decline ever so little from the true way, it is of no consequence whether you take to the right or to the left hand, since you lose the true road." Hence the holy Catholic Church has, in every age, branded those persons with the stigma of heretics, who, like Luther and Calvin, have obstinately defended their own private and individual sentiments in opposition to her solemn decision.

The following most excellent PRAYERS are recommended to the frequent repetition of persons of all denominations and sects whatsoever, who, in sincerity of heart, wish to arrive at the knowledge of the ONE, ONLY, TRUE AND SAVING FAITH, "without which it is impossible to please God," and consequently obtain eternal happiness.

I. O Lord, I humbly beseech thee to teach me thy true religion, that leads to everlasting happiness, through Jesus Christ thy Son, our Lord. Amen.

II. O Lord, I humbly beseech thee to guide me to that form of religion which is most pleasing to thee for me to follow upon earth, in order to fulfil thy will here, and obtain everlasting happiness hereafter, in the name of Jesus Christ thy Son. Amen.

III. Almighty and eternal God, Father of mercies, Saviour of mankind, I humbly entreat thee, by thy sovereign goodness, to enlighten my mind and touch my heart, that by true faith, hope and charity, I may live and die in the true religion of Jesus Christ. I am sure, that as there is but one true God, so there can be but one faith, one religion, one way of salvation, and that every other which is opposite to this, can only lead to endless misery. It is this faith, O my God! which I earnestly desire to embrace, in order to save my soul. I protest, therefore, before thy Divine attributes, that I will follow that religion which thou shalt show me to be true; and that I will abandon, at whatever cost, that in which I shall discover error and falsehood: I do not deserve, it is true, this favour, on account of my sins, for which I have a profound sorrow, because they offend a God so good, so great, so holy, and worthy of my love; but what I do not deserve, I hope to obtain from thy infinite mercy, and I conjure thee to grant, through the merits of the precious blood which was shed for us poor sinners, by thy only begotten Son, Jesus Christ. Amen.

FOUR EVANGELISTS.

It was the will of Jesus Christ that the history of his life, and the abridgment of the instructions he gave to men, should be transmitted down to us by four different Evangelists, who are like four witnesses; two of whom depose to what they have seen, S. Matthew and S. John; the other two depose to what they have learned and heard, S. Mark and S. Luke. All the four follow the impulse of the Spirit, which enables them to discern the truth to which they bear witness, and which furnishes them with the expressions and with the facts which they are appointed to record. They wrote at different periods, and in different places; and it seems to have been the wise design of an all-protecting Providence, that they should not follow the same order in their narratives, nor exactly the same expressions. This apparent disagreement obviates the objection of collusion, which in other circumstances would undoubtedly have been urged by unbelievers, to destroy or weaken the authority of the writers. The most learned men have spent great part of their lives in studying the spirit and letter of this Divine book; they have composed harmonies, in which they show that every real difficulty and apparent contradiction, which surprises the smatterer in biblical knowledge, and seems to weaken and almost stagger his faith in the inspiration of the Holy Scriptures, to the man who unites in himself humility, piety, and erudition, is easily and satisfactorily reconcilable. We shall, in the notes upon the text, give some of these difficulties, with their solutions. It is for the reader to judge of the execution of the work, but it is for God to give his blessing to the performance, that it may produce the desired and expected fruit; for neither he who planteth, nor he who watereth, is anything; it is God only who can give the increase. Let every one, then, that takes up these sacred oracles, which contain "the words of eternal life," look up to heaven for light and grace, that he may not only read but understand, and may be enabled from above to practice in himself what he is taught therein. Let him first endeavour to correct the corruption of his nature, which blinds the understanding, exalts itself against the humbling truths of the gospel, and refuses obedience to its self-denying precepts, which can only be effected by a sincere and feeling conviction of our own nothingness, and by prayer made with humility, confidence, and perseverance; and he will soon discover that faith is essentially necessary to please God; that this faith is but one, as God is but one (Eph. iv. 4, 5); and that faith, which does not show itself by good works, is dead. Hence, when S. Paul speaks of works that are incapable of justifying us, he speaks not of the works of moral righteousness, which are certainly availing in virtue of their being united to and sanctified by the infinite merits of Jesus Christ, but of the Mosaic law, on which the self-conceited Jews laid such great stress, as necessary to, and efficient of, eternal salvation.

THE SUM OF THE NEW TESTAMENT.

"THAT which was the sum of the Old Testament, viz. Christ and his Church, as S. Aug. affirms, (de Cat. Rudibus, c. 3, 4,) the very same is the sum of the New Testament also." Again, in his work upon Exodus, he says, "In the Old Testament there is the occultation of the New; and in the New, the manifestation of the Old."—"In the Old doth the New lie hidden; and in the New doth the Old lie open. Hence our Saviour declared, 'I am not come to destroy the law or the prophets. I am not come to destroy, but to fulfil. For, amen, I say unto you, till heaven and earth pass, one jot or one tittle shall not pass from the law till all be fulfilled.'" B. Huetius draws up the sum of his evangelical demonstration, in a series of connected propositions, each of which he proves most satisfactorily to every rational inquirer after truth, thus: The books of the Old and New Testament were written at the period and by the persons to whom they are attributed. Hence it follows, that the whole history of Jesus of Nazareth was foretold long before in the Old than it happened in the New Testament. This, then, being ceded, that the books of the Old and New Testament were written at the period and by the persons to whom they are attributed, and that the prophecies of Jesus of Nazareth in the Old Testament were realized in the New, the consequence is, that the books of the New and of the Old Testament are true. Now, if the prophecies of the Old Testament relative to Jesus of Nazareth are completed in the New, and the books of both the Old and New Testaments are true, it follows that Jesus of Nazareth is the Messias. Again, if this be allowed, it must certainly be allowed that the Christian religion is true. If this be true, all others must be false: "If an angel from heaven preach a gospel to you besides that which we have preached to you, let him be anathema," Ep. ad. Gal. i. 8.—The learned author brings together, to perfect his historic demonstration, such a group of events, of prophecies, of figures; a picture of connexions so multiplied and so self-evident; in a word, a whole so perfectly connected in all its parts, that the demonstration is complete of itself, without passing through the trammels of syllogistic forms and figures.

The additional Notes, in this edition of the New Testament, will be marked with the letter A. Such as are taken from various Interpreters and Commentators, will be marked as in the Old Testament. B. Bristow, C. Calmet, Ch. Challoner, D. Du Hamel, E. Estius, J. Jansenius, M. Menochius, Po. Polus, P. Pastorini, T. Tirinus, V. Bible de Vence, W. Worthington, Wi. Witham.—The names of other authors, who may be occasionally consulted, will be given at full length.

ILON-RE. DE VINCENNES

CH. AN. 20. 11

THE
HOLY GOSPEL OF JESUS CHRIST,
ACCORDING TO
S. MATTHEW.

This and other titles, with the names of those that wrote the Gospels, are not the words of the Evangelists themselves. The Scripture itself no where teacheth us which books or writings are to be received as true and canonical Scriptures. It is only by the channel of unwritten traditions, and by the testimony and authority of the Catholic Church, that we know and believe that this Gospel, for example, of S. Matthew, with all contained in it, and that the other books and parts of the Old or New Testament, are of Divine authority, or written by Divine inspiration; which made S. Augustine say, I should not believe the gospel, were I not moved thereunto by the authority of the Catholic Church: Ego Evangelio non crederem, nisi me Ecclesie Catholice commoveret auctoritas. Lib. cont. Epist. Manichei, quam vocant fundamenti. Tom. viii. c. 5. p. 154. A. Ed. Ben. Wi.

B. MATTHEW, author of the Gospel that we have under his name, was a Galilean, the son of Alpheus, a Jew, and a tax-gatherer, and was known also by the name of Levi. His vocation happened in the second year of the public ministry of Christ; who, soon after forming the college of his apostles, adopted him into that holy family of the spiritual princes and founders of his Church. Before his departure from Judea, to preach the gospel to distant countries, he yielded to the solicitations of the faithful; and about the eighth year after our Saviour's resurrection, the forty-first of the vulgar era, he began to write his Gospel: i. e. the good tidings of salvation to man, through Christ Jesus, our Lord. Of the agiographers, S. Matthew was the first in the New, as Moses was the first in the Old Testament. And as Moses opened his work with the generation of the heavens and the earth, so S. Matthew begins with the generation of Him who, in the fulness of time, took upon himself our human nature, to free us from the curse we had brought upon ourselves, and under which the whole creation was groaning. A.—This holy apostle, after having reaped a great harvest of souls in Judea, preached the faith to the barbarous nations of the East. He was much devoted to heavenly contemplation, and led an austere life; for he eat no flesh, satisfying nature with herbs, roots, seeds, and berries, as S. Clement of Alexandria assures us. Pedag. l. 2. c. 1. S. Ambrose says that God opened to him the country of the Persians. Rufinus and Socrates tell us, that he carried the gospel into Ethiopia, meaning, probably, the southern or eastern parts of Asia. S. Paulinus informs us that he ended his course in Parthia; and Venantius Fortunatus says, by martyrdom.—See Butler's Saints' Lives, Sept. 21st.

CHAPTER I.

The genealogy of Christ: he is conceived and born of a virgin.

THE book of the generation of JESUS CHRIST, the son of^a David, the son of Abraham.

2^b Abraham begot^c Isaac. And Isaac begot Jacob.
^aAnd Jacob begot Judas and his brethren.

3^d And Judas begot Phares and Zara, of Thamar.
^eAnd Phares begot Esron. And Esron begot Aram.

4 And Aram begot Aminadab. ^fAnd Aminadab begot Naasson. And Naasson begot Salmon.

5 And Salmon begot Booz of Rahab.^h And Booz begot Obed of Ruth. And Obed begot Jesse.

^a Luke iii. 31.—^b Gen. xxi. 3.—^c Gen. xxv. 25.—^d Gen. xxix. 35.—^e Gen. xxxviii. 29; 1 Par. ii. 4.—^f Ruth iv. 18; 1 Par. ii. 5.—^g Num. vii. 12.—^h Ruth iv. 22.
ⁱ 1 Kings xvi. 1.—^k 2 Kings xii. 24.

6ⁱ And Jesse begot David, the king. ^jAnd David, the king, begot Solomon, of her that had been the wife of Urias.

7^k And Solomon begot Roboam. ^lAnd Roboam begot Abias. ^mAnd Abias begot Asa.

8 And Asa begot Josaphat. And Josaphat begot Joram. And Joram begot Ozias.

9ⁿ And Ozias begot Joatham. ^oAnd Joatham begot Achaz. ^pAnd Achaz begot Ezechias.

10^q And Ezechias begot Manasses. ^rAnd Manasses begot Amon. ^sAnd Amon begot Josias.

11^t And Josias begot Jechonias and his brethren, about the time they were carried away to Babylon.

¹ 3 Kings xi. 45.—² 3 Kings xiv. 31.—³ 3 Kings xv. 8.—⁴ 2 Par. xxvi. 23.—⁵ 2 Par. xxvii. 9.
⁶ 2 Par. xxviii. 27.—⁷ 2 Par. xxxii. 33.—⁸ 2 Par. xxxiii. 20.
⁹ 2 Par. xxxiii. 25.—¹⁰ 2 Par. xxxvi. 2.

CHAP. I. VER. 1. The first English Testament, divided into verses, was that printed at Geneva, by Conrad Badius, in the year 1557. A.—“The book of the Generation,” is not referred to the whole Gospel, but to the beginning, as in Gen. v. “This is the book of the generation of Adam.” E.—The book of the Generation, i. e. the genealogy or pedigree, which is here set down in the first sixteen verses. In the style of the Scriptures, any short schedule or roll is called a book, as the bill or short writing of a divorce is called a little book. Matt. v. 31. Wi.—Jesus, in Hebrew Jesuah, is the proper name of Him, who was born of the Virgin Mary, who was also the Son of God, “a name given by the angel before he was conceived in the womb.” Luke ii. It signifies Saviour, “because he was to save his people from their sins.” E.

VER. 5. See Jos. ii. et dein. We no where else find the marriage of Salmon with Rahab; but this event might have been known by tradition, the truth of which the Divinely inspired evangelist here confirms. Bible de Vence. In this genealogy only four women are mentioned, of whom two are Gentiles, and two adulteresses. Here the greatest sinners may find grounds for confidence in the mercies of Jesus Christ, and hopes of pardon, when they observe how the Lord of life and glory, to cure our pride, not only humbled himself by taking upon himself the likeness of sinful flesh, but by deriving his descent from sinners, and inspiring the holy evangelist to record the same to all posterity. A.

VER. 6. Extract from S. Chrysostom's first Homil. upon the first chapter of S. Matthew: “How, you will say, does it appear that Christ descended from David? For if he be born not of man, but of a virgin, concerning whose genealogy nothing is said, how shall we know that he is of the family of David? We have here two difficulties to explain. Why is the genealogy of the Virgin passed over in silence, and why is Joseph's mentioned, as Christ did not descend from him? How shall we know that the Virgin is descended from David? Hear the words of the Almighty addressed to the archangel Gabriel: ‘Go to a virgin espoused to a man, whose name is Joseph, of the house and family of David.’ What could you wish plainer than this, when you hear that the Virg'n is of the family of David! Hence it also appears that Joseph was of the same house, for there was a law which commanded them not to marry any one but of the same tribe. . . . It was not the custom among the Hebrews to keep the genealogies of women. The evangelist conformed to this custom, that he might not at the very beginning of his Gospel offend by transgressing ancient rites, and introducing novelty.”

VER. 8. Joram begot Ozias. Three generations are omitted, as we find 2 Par. xxii.; for there, Joram begot Ochozias, and Ochozias begot Joas, and Joas begot Amazias, and Amazias begot Ozias. This omission is not material, the design of S. Matthew being only to show the Jews that Jesus, their Messiah, was of the family of David; and he is equally the son, or the descendant of David, though the said three generations be left out: for Ozias may be called the son of Joram, though Joram was his great-grandfather. Wi.

VER. 11. Josias begot Jechonias, &c. The genealogy of Christ, as it appears by the 17th verse, is divided by the evangelist into three fourteen generations, and so it is to contain forty-two persons. The first class of fourteen begins with Abraham, and ends with David. The second class begins with Solomon, and ends with Jechonias. The third class is supposed to begin with Salathiel, and to end, says S. Jerom, with our Saviour Christ. But thus we shall only find in the third class thirteen generations, and in all only forty-one, instead of forty-two. Not to mention in these short notes other interpretations, the conjecture of S. Epiphanius seems the most probable, that we are to understand two Jechonias, the father and the son, who had the same name. So that the true reading should be, Josias begot Jechonias and his brethren, and Jechonias begot Jechonias, and Jechonias begot Salathiel. Thus Jechonias named in the 12th verse is not the same, but the son of him that was named in the 11th verse; and from Jechonias the son, begins the third class, and so Christ himself will be the last or fourteenth person in that last series or class. There are several difficulties about reconciling this genealogy in S. Matthew with that in S. Luke, chap. iii. But it may suffice to take notice.

12 And after they were carried to Babylon, Jechonias begot Salathiel. And Salathiel begot Zorobabel.

13 And Zorobabel begot Abiud. And Abiud begot Eliacim. And Eliacim begot Azor.

14 And Azor begot Sadoc. And Sadoc begot Achim. And Achim begot Eliud.

15 And Eliud begot Eleazar. And Eleazar begot Mathan. And Mathan begot Jacob.

16 And Jacob begot Joseph, the husband of Mary, of whom was born Jesus, who is called Christ.

17 So all the generations from Abraham to David, are fourteen generations: and from David until the carrying away to Babylon, fourteen generations: and from the carrying away to Babylon till Christ, fourteen generations.

18 Now the birth of Christ was thus:^a When Mary, his mother, was espoused to Joseph, before they came together, she was found with child of the Holy Ghost.

19 Whereupon Joseph, her husband, being a just man, and not willing publicly to expose her, was minded to put her away privately.

20 But while he thought on these things, behold the angel of the Lord appeared to him in his sleep, saying:

^a Luke i. 27.—^b Luke i. 31; Acts iv. 12.—^c Isa. vii. 14.

that no one can reasonably doubt but that both the evangelists copied out the genealogical tables, as they were then extant, and carefully preserved by the Jews, and especially by those families that were of the tribe of Juda, and of the family of David, of which the Messiah was to be born. For if the evangelists had either falsified, or made any mistake as to these genealogies, the Jews undoubtedly would have objected this against their Gospels, which they never did. Wi.—The difficulties here are: 1. Why does S. Matt. give the genealogy of Joseph and not of Mary? 2. How is it inferred that Jesus is descended of David and Solomon, because Joseph is the son of David? 3. How can Joseph have two men for his father, Jacob of the race of Solomon, and Heli of the race of Nathan? To the 1st it is generally answered, that it was not customary with the Jews to draw out the genealogies of women; to the 2nd, that Jesus being the son of Joseph, either by adoption, or simply as the son of Mary, his wife, he entered by that circumstance into all the rights of the family of Joseph; moreover, Mary was of the same tribe and family as Joseph, and thus the heir of the branch of Solomon marrying with the heiress of the branch of Nathan, the rights of the two families united in Joseph and Mary, were transmitted through them to Jesus, their son and heir; to the 3rd, that Jacob was the father of Joseph according to nature, and Heli his father according to law; or that Joseph was the son of the latter by adoption, and of the former by nature. A.—In the transmigration, † or transportation to Babylon; i. e. about the time the Jews were carried away captives to Babylon. For Josias died before their transportation. See 4 Kings xxiv. Wi.—Some think we are to read: Josias begot Joakim and his brethren; and Joakim begot Jouchim, or Jechonias. Jechonias was son to Joakim, and grandson to Josias. The brothers of Jechonias are not known, but those of Joakim are known. 1 Par. iii. 15, 16. Besides, this reading gives the number 14. A.

VER. 12. By the text of the First Book of Paral. iii. 17, 19. it appears that Zorobabel was grandson to Salathiel. In comparing the present genealogy with that of S. Luke, (chap. iii.) we find that in this last part S. Matthew has suppressed many generations, to bring the list to the number 14; for there are a greater number from Zorobabel to Jesus Christ in S. Luke, but in a different branch. V.—The evangelist was well aware that the suppressed names could be easily supplied from the Jewish records; and that every person could reply most satisfactorily to any objection on that head, who was the least acquainted with the Jewish tables. A.

VER. 16. The husband of Mary. The evangelist gives us rather the pedigree of S. Joseph, than that of the blessed Virgin, to conform to the custom of the Hebrews, who in their genealogies took no notice of women; but as they were near akin, the pedigree of the one sheweth that of the other. Ch.—Joseph, the husband of Mary. So he is again called, ver. 19: but in ver. 18, we read, when Mary, his mother, was espoused to Joseph. These different expressions of being husband, and being espoused, have occasioned different interpretations. Some think that Joseph and the blessed Virgin were truly married at the time of Christ's conception: others, that they were only then espoused, or engaged by a promise to marry afterwards. S. Jerom says, when you hear the name of husband, do not from thence imagine them to be married, but remember the custom of the Scriptures, according to which, they who are espoused only, are called husbands and wives. Wi.

VER. 18. The account of the birth of Jesus Christ follows his genealogy. From these words, "before they came together," Helvidius and others have started objections, which have been answered long ago by S. Jerom, where he shows, in many examples from Scripture, that the words before and until do not signify what happened afterwards; for that point is left indefinite, but only what was done before, or not done. Thus when it is said, Sit thou at my right hand, till I make thine enemies thy footstool, Psal. cix., by no means signifies that after the subjec-

Joseph, son of David, fear not to take unto thee Mary thy wife: for that which is conceived in her, is of the Holy Ghost.

21 And she shall bring forth a son:^b and thou shalt call his name Jesus: for he shall save his people from their sins.

22 Now all this was done that the word might be fulfilled which the Lord spoke by the prophet, saying:

23 'Behold a virgin shall be with child, and shall bring forth a son, and they shall call his name Emmanuel, which being interpreted is, God with us.

24 And Joseph rising up from sleep, did as the angel of the Lord had commanded him, and took unto him his wife.

25 And he knew her not till she brought forth her first-born son, and he called his name Jesus.

CHAP. II.

The offerings of the wise men: the flight into Egypt: the massacre of the innocents: and the return of Jesus from Egypt.

NOW^d when Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Juda, in the days of king Herod, behold, there came wise men from the east to Jerusalem.

^d A. M. 4000, being four years before the common account called Anno Domini. Luke ii. 7.

tion of his enemies, the Son of God is no longer to sit at the right hand of his Father.

VER. 20. Fear not to take, &c., i. e. fear not to marry her, if we suppose them not yet married; or if married already, the sense is, fear not to keep and remain with thy chaste wife; lay aside all thoughts of dismissing and leaving her. Wi.

VER. 21. Jesus . . . he shall save, &c. The characteristic name of Saviour was peculiar to the Messiah, by which he was distinguished, as well as by the adorable name of Jesus. The expectations of both Jew and Gentile looked forward to a saviour. S. Augustine, in the 18th book, 23rd chapter, de Civitate Dei, introduces a curious anecdote. He mentions there, that he received from the eloquent and learned Proconsul Flaccianus, a book containing in Greek the verses of one of the Sibyls, which related to the coming of Christ. The substance of them is much the same as occurs in the prophecies of Isaias, from which Virgil has likewise copied into his Pollio, many of the sublime thoughts which we find in that beautiful eclogue. It is remarkable that of the initials of these verses, S. Augustine had formed an acrostic to the following import, Ἰησοῦς Χριστὸς Θεοῦ υἱὸς σωτὴρ; that is, Jesus Christ, the Son of God, Saviour. A.

VER. 23. Behold a virgin, &c. The Jews sometimes objected, as we see in S. Justin's Dialogue with Tryphon, that the Hebrew word alma, in the prophet Isaias, signified no more than a young woman. But S. Jerom tells us that alma signifies a virgin kept close up. Let the Jews, says he, show me any place in which the Hebrew word alma is applied to any one that is not a virgin, and I will own my ignorance. Besides, the very circumstances in the text of the prophet are more than a sufficient confutation of this Jewish exposition; for there a sign, or miracle, is promised to Achaz, and what miracle would it be for a young woman to have a child, when she had ceased to be a virgin? Wi.—How happens it that no where in the Gospels, or in any other part, do we find Christ called Emmanuel? I answer, that in the Greek expression the name is given for the thing signified; and the meaning is: He shall be a true Emmanuel, i. e. a God with us, true God and true man. E.

VER. 24. The heretic Helvidius argues from this text, and from what we read in the Gospel of Christ's brethren, that Christ had brothers, and Mary other sons. But it is evident that in the style of the Scriptures they who were no more than cousins were called brothers and sisters. A.

VER. 25. See note on ver. 18.—S. Jerom assures us that S. Joseph always preserved his virginal chastity. It is "of faith" that nothing contrary thereto ever took place with his chaste spouse, the blessed Virgin Mary. S. Joseph was given her by Heaven to be the protector of her chastity, to secure her from calumnies in the birth of the Son of God, to assist her in her flight into Egypt, &c., &c. A.

* V. 1. Liber Generationis. Βίβλος γενέσεως. So Gen. v. 1, Hic est liber generationis Adam. Βίβλος, &c.

† V. 11. See S. Epiphani. Hær. 6, pag. 21. Edit. Petav. ἐπειδὴ τινες, &c.

‡ In transmigratione, ἐπὶ τῆς μετοικεσίας. i. e. circa tempus transmigrationis.

§ V. 16. Joseph virum Mariæ, ὃν ἄνδρα Μαρίας. And ver. 19, vir ejus, ἄνθρωπός αὐτῆς. But ver. 18, μνηστεύσεως, desponsata, μνηστεύομαι, is not properly the same as γαμεῖν.

§ V. 23. Eecce Virgo, ἰδοὺ ἡ παρθένος. So is it read, not only here in S. Matt., but in the Sept. Isa. vii. S. Hier. l. 1. Cont. Jovin. tom. iv. parte 2, pag. 174. Ostendat mihi, ubi hoc Verbo (Alma) appellantur et nuptæ, et imperitiam con fitebor, et cætera.

CHAP. II. VER. 1. King Herod the Great, surnamed Ascalonite, was a foreigner, but a proselyte to the Jewish religion. S. Jerom.—This city is called

2 Saying: Where is he that is born King of the Jews? for we have seen his star in the east, and we are come to adore him.

3 And Herod the king hearing this, was troubled, and all Jerusalem with him.

4 And assembling together all the chief priests, and the scribes of the people, he inquired of them where Christ should be born.

5 But they said to him: In Bethlehem of Juda: For so it is written by the prophet:

6 *And thou Bethlehem, the land of Juda, art not the least among the princes of Juda: for out of thee shall come forth the ruler, who shall rule my people Israel.

7 Then Herod privately calling the wise men, inquired of them diligently the time of the star's appearing to them:

8 And sending them into Bethlehem, said: Go, and search diligently after the child; and when you have found him, bring me word again, that I also may come and adore him.

9 And when they had heard the king, they went their way: and behold the star which they had seen in the east, went before them, until it came and stood over where the child was.

10 And seeing the star, they rejoiced with exceeding great joy.

11 And going into the house, they found the child with Mary his mother, and falling down they adored him: and opening their treasures, they offered to him gifts: gold, frankincense, and myrrh.

12 And having received an answer in sleep, that they should not return to Herod, they went back another way into their own country.

13 And when they were departed, behold an angel of the Lord appeared in sleep to Joseph, saying: Arise, and take the child and his mother, and fly into Egypt, and be there until I shall tell thee. For it will come to pass that Herod will seek the child to destroy him.

14 Who, rising up, took the child and his mother by night, and retired into Egypt:

15 And he was there until the death of Herod: that it might be fulfilled which the Lord spoke by the prophet, saying: 'Out of Egypt have I called my son.'

16 Then Herod perceiving that he was deluded by the wise men, was exceeding angry, and sending, killed all the men children that were in Bethlehem, and in all the confines thereof, from two years old and under, according to the time which he had diligently inquired of the wise men.

17 Then was fulfilled that which was spoken by Jeremias the prophet, saying:

18 'A voice in Rama was heard, lamentation and great mourning: Rachel bewailing her children, and would not be comforted, because they are not.'

19 Now Herod being dead, behold an angel of the Lord appeared in sleep to Joseph in Egypt.

20 Saying: Rise, and take the child and his mother, and go into the land of Israel: for they are dead who sought the life of the child.

21 Who, rising up, took the child, and his mother, and came into the land of Israel.

* Mic. v. 2; John vii. 42.—Psal. lxxi. 10.

* Osee xi.—Jer. xxxi. 15.

Bethlehem of Juda, to distinguish it from another Bethlehem, which was situated in the division of the tribe of Zabulon. A.—*Wise men. Both the Latin and Greek text may signify wise philosophers and astronomers, which is the common exposition. The same word is also many times taken for a magician or soothsayer, as it is applied to Simon, (Acts viii. 9,) and to Elymas, Acts xiii. 6, and 8.—From the east. Some say from Arabia, others from Chaldaea, others from Persia. Divers interpreters speak of them as if they had been kings, princes, or lords of some small territories. See Baron. An. i. sect. 20. Tillemont, note 12, on Jesus Christ. The number of these wise men is uncertain. S. Leo, in his sermons on the Epiphany, speaks of them as if they had been three, perhaps on the account of their three-fold offerings. What is mentioned in later writers as to their names, is of still less authority, as Bollandus observed. There are also very different opinions as to the time that the star appeared to these wise men, whether before Christ's birth, or about the very time he was born, which seems more probable. The interpreters are again divided as to the year, and day of the year, when they arrived at Bethlehem, and adored the Saviour of the world. Some think not till two years after Christ's birth. See S. Epiphanius. Her. 30, num. 29, p. 134. And S. Jerom puts the massacre of the Holy Innocents about that time in his chronicle. But taking it for granted that the wise men came to Jerusalem and to Bethlehem the same year that Christ was born, it is not certain on what day of the year they adored him at Bethlehem. It is true the Latin Church, ever since the 4th or 5th age, has kept the feast of the Epiphany on the 6th day of January. But when it is said in that day's office, This day a star led the wise men to the manger, it may bear this sense only, this day we keep the remembrance of it; especially since we read in a sermon of S. Maximus (appointed to be read in the Roman Breviary on the 5th day within the octave of the Epiphany) these words: What happened on this day, he knows that wrought it; whatever it was, we cannot doubt but it was done in favour of us.

VER. 2. We have seen his star. They knew it to be his star, either by some prophecy among them, or by Divine revelation. We know not whether it guided them during the whole course of their journey from the East to Jerusalem. We read nothing more in the Gospel, but that it appeared to them in the East, and that they saw it again, upon their leaving Jerusalem to go to Bethlehem. WI.

VER. 6. And thou Bethlehem, &c. This was a clear prophecy concerning the Messiah, foretold by Micheas (chap. v. 2); yet the words which we read in the evangelist are not quite the same as we find in the prophet, neither according to the Hebrew nor to the Greek text of the Sept. The chief difference is, that in the prophet we read: And thou Bethlehem art little; but in the evangelist, thou art not the least. Some answer, that the words of the prophet are to be expounded by way of an interrogation, art thou little? It is certain the following words, both in the prophet and in the Gospel, out of thee shall come forth a leader or a captain,

&c., show that the meaning is, thou art not little. S. Jerom's observation seems to clear this point: he tells us that the Jewish priests, who were consulted, gave Herod the sense, and not the very words of the prophet; and the evangelist, as an historian, relates to us the words of these priests to Herod, not the very words of the prophet. WI.

VER. 11. And going into the house. Several of the Fathers, in their homilies, represent the wise men adoring Jesus in the stable, and in the manger: yet others, with S. Chrys., takes notice, that before their arrival, Jesus might be removed into some house in Bethlehem.—Prostrating themselves, or falling down, they adored him, not with a civil worship only, but, enlightened by Divine inspiration, they worshipped and adored him as their Saviour and their God.—Gold, frankincense, and myrrh.† Divers of the ancient Fathers take notice of the mystical signification of these offerings: that by gold was signified the tribute they paid to him, as to their king; by incense, that he was God; and by myrrh, (with which dead bodies used to be embalmed,) that now he was also become a mortal man. See Amb. l. 2, in Luc. c. 2. S. Greg., &c. WI.—The Church sings, "hodie stella Magos duxit ad præsepium," but it is not probable that the blessed Virgin should remain so long in the open stable, and the less so, because the multitude, who hindered Joseph from finding accommodations either among his relatives or in the public caravansaries, had returned to their own homes. E.

VER. 14. It is very probable that Joseph, with Jesus and his Mother, remained in some part of Egypt, where the Jews were settled, as at Alexandria. That many Jews dwelt in Egypt, particularly from the time of the prophet Jeremy, is evident from Josephus, and also from the first chapter of the Second Book of Machab. Mention is also made of them in Acts ii., and Acts vi., under the name of Alexandrines.

VER. 15. Out of Egypt have I called my son.† S. Jerom understands these words to be taken out of the prophet Osee, (chap. xi. 2,) and granted they might be literally spoken of the people of Israel: yet as their captivity in Egypt was a figure of the slavery of sin, under which all mankind groaned, and as their delivery by Moses was a figure of man's redemption by our Saviour Christ, so these words in a mystical and spiritual sense agree to our Saviour, who in a more proper sense was the Son of God, than was the people of Israel. WI.

VER. 18. A voice in Rama was heard.§ S. Jerom takes Rama, not for the name of any city, but for a high place, as appears by his Latin translation. Jer. xxxi. 15. But in all Greek copies here in S. Matthew, and in the Sept. in Jeremy, we find the word itself Rama, so that it must signify a particular city. Rachel, who was buried at Bethlehem, is represented weeping (as it were in the person of those desolate mothers) the murder and loss of so many children: and Rama being a city not far from Bethlehem, in the tribe of Benjamin, built on a high place, it is said that the cries and lamentations of these children, and their mothers, reached even to Rama.

22 But hearing that Archelaus reigned in Judea in the room of Herod, his father, he was afraid to go thither: and being warned in sleep, he retired into the parts of Galilee.

23 And he came and dwelt in a city called Nazareth: that it might be fulfilled, what was said by the prophets: That he shall be called a Nazarene.

CHAP. III.

The preaching of John: his penance: his baptism. His reproaches against the Pharisees and Sadducees. Jesus Christ comes to him, and is baptized.

NOW, "in those days came John the Baptist, preaching in the desert of Judea,

2 And saying: "Do penance: for the kingdom of heaven is at hand.

3 For this is he, who was spoken of by Isaiah the prophet, saying: "A voice of one crying in the desert: Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make straight his paths.

4 And John himself had his garment of camels' hair, and a leathern girdle about his loins, and his food was locusts and wild honey.

• A. D. 30.—b Mark i. 4; Luke iii. 3.—c Isa. xl. 3; Mark i. 3; Luke iii. 4.—d Mark i. 5.

VER. 23. He shall be called a Nazarene, or a Nazarene. Jesus was called a Nazarene, from the place where he was bred up in Galilee; and the Christians by the Jews were sometimes called Nazarenes, from Jesus of Nazareth. The evangelist would show that this name, which the Jews through contempt gave to Christ and his disciples, had an honourable signification: and that this title was given in the predictions of the prophets to the Messias. But where, or in what prophet? For we find not the words exactly in any of the prophets. To this S. Chrysostom answers, that S. Matthew took it from some prophetic writings that have been lost. S. Jerom gives two other answers: first, that the word Nazarene, from the Hebrew Nezer, signifies separated, and distinguished from others by virtue and sanctity: and so some that were particularly consecrated, and devoted to the service of God, were called Nazarenes, as Joseph, (Deut. xxxiii. 16,) Samson, Judg. xvi. 17, &c. Thus a Nazarene signifies one that is holy: and all the prophets, says S. Jerom, foretold that Christ should be holy. Therefore also it was that S. Matthew did not cite any one prophet, but the prophets in general. The second answer is, that a Nazarene (if derived from the Hebrew Netser) signifies a flower, or bud; and so in the prophet Isaiah, (xi. 1,) it is foretold of the Messias, that a flower shall ascend from the root of David. Wi.—The reason why Jesus is called of Nazareth, and not of Bethlehem, is, because he was educated there, and was generally supposed to have been born there. Hence he was called the Galilean; and the people argued from that circumstance that he was not the Messias, nor even a prophet, saying, Can the Christ come from Galilee? Search the Scriptures, and see that out of Galilee a prophet riseth not. John vii. 52. Again, in Nazareth the Word was made flesh, though in Bethlehem he was produced to the world; and our Lord gives himself the same title, when he addressed Saul. I am Jesus of Nazareth, whom thou persecutest. Acts xxii. He remained at Nazareth till he was about thirty years of age. A.

• V. 1. Magi, oi Magoi.

† V. 11. Aurum, &c. Pulcherrimè, says S. Jerom on this place, Juvenius Munerum Sacramenta comprehendit, Thus, Aurum, Myrrham, Regique, Hominique, Deoque, Dona ferunt. See S. Amb. in Luc. i. 2, c. 2. S. Greg. hom. 10 in Evang., &c.

† V. 15. Ex Ægypto vocavi filium meum. In the Sept. τὰ τέκνα αὐτοῦ, filios ejus.

§ V. 18. Vox in Excelso audita est. Jer. xxxi. 15.

§ V. 23. Nazareus, νὰζωραῖος. S. Chrys. hom. 9 in Matt. p. 66, Ed. Latinæ, Multa ex Prophetis periere monumenta.—S. Hieron. in Matt. pluraliter Prophetas vocans, ostendit se non verba de Scripturis sumpsisse, sed sensum: Nazareus Sanctus interpretatur, Sanctum autem Dominum futurum, omnia Scriptura commemorat. Possumus et aliter dicere, quod etiam iisdem verbis juxta Hebraicam veritatem in Isaia Scriptum sit. Cap. xi. 1. Exiet Virgo de radice Jesse, et Nazareus de radice ejus condescendit.

CHAP. III. VER. 1. In those days, i. e. at the time of Jesus Christ, whose history this book contains. This expression does not always mean that what is going to be narrated happened immediately after that which precedes. V.—John the Baptist was so called from his baptizing the people in water. The Jews took this for some token of their Messias: for they said to him, (John i. 25,) Why dost thou baptize if thou art not the Christ? Wi.—The Baptist was about thirty years of age. He, as well as our Lord, in conformity with the Jewish law, did not enter upon his public ministry before that age. A.

VER. 2. Desert, in Greek ἐρημος, hence hermit. S. John the Baptist is praised by S. John Chrysostom as a perfect model, and the prince of an Eremitical life. Hom. 1 in Mar., and hom. 1 in J. Bap.—Do penance. Beza would have it translated repent. We retain the ancient expression, consecrated in a manner by the use of the Church; especially since a true conversion comprehends

5 "Then went out to him Jerusalem and all Judea, and all the country about Jordan:

6 And they were baptized by him in the Jordan, confessing their sins.

7 And seeing many of the Pharisees, and Sadducees 'coming to his baptism, he said to them: Ye brood of vipers, who hath showed you to flee from the wrath to come?

8 Bring forth, therefore, fruit worthy of penance.

9 And think not to say within yourselves: 'We have Abraham for our father: for I tell you that God is able of these stones to raise up children to Abraham.

10 For now the axe is laid to the root of the trees. Every tree therefore that yieldeth not good fruit, shall be cut down, and cast into the fire.

11 "I indeed baptize you with water unto penance: but he who is to come after me, is stronger than I, whose shoes I am not worthy to carry: he shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost and with fire.

12 Whose fan is in his hand, and he will thoroughly

• Luke iii. 7.—f John viii. 39.—g Mark i. 8; Luke iii. 16; John i. 26; Acts i. 5.

not only a change of mind, and a new life, but also a sorrow for past offences accompanied with self-denials, and some severities of a penitential life.—The kingdom of heaven, which many times signifies the present condition of Christ's Church. Wi.—In this and other places of holy writ, instead of "do penance," Protestants give "repent ye;" but general use has rendered μετάνοια, by penitencia, or penance; and in this text, not any kind of penance, or grief for sins committed, but that which is joined with a desire of appeasing Him who has been offended by sin; and this also by some external signs and works. For as many as heard this μετάνοια, obeyed the voice, received from him the baptism of penance, confessed their sins, and it was said to them: Bring forth fruit worthy of repentance, ver. 8. Therefore, all this was contained in the penance preached by the Baptist. And here we must not omit, that whilst sectarists preach faith alone, both the Baptist and Jesus Christ begin their ministry with practising and preaching penance. T.—Pœnitentiam agite, μετάνοιτε. Which word, according to the use of the Scriptures and the holy Fathers, does not only signify repentance and amendment of life, but also punishing past sins by fasting, and such like penitential exercises. Ch.

VER. 4. His garment of camels' hair,† not wrought camel, as some would have it, but made of the skin of a camel, with the hair on it. Thus Elias (4 Kings i. 8) is called an hairy man, with a leathern girdle about him.—Locusts, not sea-crabs, as others again expound it; but a sort of flies, or grasshoppers, frequent in hot countries. They are numbered among eatables, Lev. xi. 22. Wi.

VER. 6. Baptized. The word baptism signifies a washing, particularly when it is done by immersion, or by dipping, or plunging a thing under water, which was formerly the ordinary way of administering the sacrament of baptism. But the Church, which cannot change the least article of the Christian faith, is not so tied up in matters of discipline and ceremonies.—Confessing their sins. We bring not this as a proof for sacramental auricular confession; yet we may take notice, with Grotius, that it is a different thing for men to confess their sins, and to confess themselves sinners. And here is expressed a declaring of particular sins, (as also Acts xix. 18,) such as is recommended in the Protestant Common Prayer Book, in the Visitation of the Sick. Wi.

VER. 7. Pharisees and Sadducees. These are the names of two sects at that time among the Jews. There are different conjectures about the name of the Sadducees. This at least we find by the Gospels, and by the Acts of the Apostles, that they were a profane sort of men, that made a jest of the resurrection, and of the existence of spirits, and of the immortality of souls. To these the Pharisees were declared adversaries, as being a more religious sect, who pretended to be exact observers of the law, and also of a great many traditions, which they had, or pretended to have, from their forefathers.—Brood of vipers. S. John the Baptist, and also our Saviour himself, (Matt. xxiii. 33,) made use of this sharp reprehension to such as came to them full of hypocrisy.—The wrath to come: meaning punishments for the wicked after death. Or as some expound it, the destruction that was shortly to fall on the city of Jerusalem, on the temple, and the whole nation of the Jews. Wi.

VER. 8. See note for ver. 2.

VER. 11. Here S. John tacitly insinuates the Divinity of Jesus Christ. He acknowledges his unworthiness, and it is this his humility that makes him the more acceptable to God. "I ought to be baptized of thee, and dost thou come to me?" T.—Whose shoes I am not worthy to carry. In S. Mark, (i. 7,) and in S. Luke, (iii. 21,) we read, the latchet of whose shoes. I am not worthy to untie. The sense is the same, and S. John might use both these expressions. His meaning is, that he was not worthy to do him the least, or the lowest service.—He shall baptize you in, or with the Holy Ghost, i. e. by his baptism he will give you a remission of your sins, and the graces of the Holy Ghost, signified also by fire, which may allude to the coming of the Holy Ghost at Pentecost, in the shape of fiery tongues. Wi.

cleanse his floor: and gather his wheat into the barn, but the chaff he will burn with unquenchable fire.

13 *Then cometh Jesus from Galilee to the Jordan, unto John, to be baptized by him.

14 But John stayed him, saying, I ought to be baptized by thee, and comest thou to me?

15 And Jesus answering said to him: Suffer it now: for so it becometh us to fulfil all justice. Then he suffered him.

16 And Jesus being baptized, went up presently out of the water: and behold the heavens were opened to him: and he saw the Spirit of God descending as a dove, and coming upon him,

17 *And behold a voice from heaven, saying: This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.

CHAP. IV.

Christ's fast of forty days: he is tempted: begins his preaching in Galilee according to the prophet: fixes his abode at Capharnaum: calls Peter and Andrew, James and John: his miracles, reputation, and numerous followers.

THEN *Jesus was led by the spirit into the desert, to be tempted by the devil.

2 And when he had fasted forty days and forty nights, he was afterwards hungry.

* Mark i. 9.—A. D. 30. Luke iii. 22; ix. 35; 2 Pet. i. 17.
* A. M. 4435, A. D. 31. Mark i. 12; Luke iv. 1.

VER. 16. He . . . went up, &c. Christ was in the river when he was baptized. As soon as he went out, and was praying says S. Luke, (iii. 21,) the heavens were opened to him, or in favour of him; and he saw the Spirit of God descending: i. e. Christ himself saw the shape of the dove, which was also seen by the Baptist, as we find, John i. 33. And it was perhaps seen by all that were present. —As a dove, or like a dove in a homely shape. The dove was an emblem of Christ's meekness and innocence. Wi.—Calmet supposes that it was S. John that saw the Spirit of God descend thus upon Jesus Christ. The Greek text is favourable to this interpretation. But the Vulgate supposes it was Jesus Christ himself. S. John declares that he saw the Spirit (John i. 32); but this apparent disagreement is easily cleared, by supposing that both saw the shape of the dove, and also the surrounding crowd, and that they all heard the voice of the Father, as it was heard by the disciples in the transfiguration on Mount Thabor, (chap. xvii.,) and by the crowd in the temple. John xii. T.

VER. 17. This most solemn testimony of God the Father, relative to his own beloved Son, is repeated below in chap. xvii.; and is of such great moment, that the Holy Ghost would have it repeated not only by three evangelists, Matthew, Mark, and Luke, but also by S. Peter, as a fourth evangelist, 2 Ep. i. T.—In Greek, the emphatic article ὁ υἱός μου ὁ ἀγαπητός, strengthens the proof that Jesus Christ, upon whom the Spirit of God descended in the shape of a dove, was not the adoptive, but natural Son of God, born of Him before all ages, and should silence every blasphemous tongue and pen that can attempt to rob Jesus Christ of his Divinity, and poor man of all hopes of salvation, through this God-man, Christ the Lord. But if it here be asked, why Jesus Christ, who was innocence itself, yes, and the very essence of sanctity, condescended so far as to be baptized with sinners, we answer, with the Holy Fathers, that it was, first, to sanction the baptism and ministry of his precursor; second, not to lose this opportunity of teaching humility, by placing himself among sinners, as if he had stood in need of the baptism of penance for the remission of sins; and lastly, with S. Ambrose, that it was to sanctify the waters, and to give to them the virtue of cleansing men from their sins by the laver of baptism. A.

* V. 2. Pœnitentiam agite, μετανοείτε. There is no need of translating in Latin, resipiscite, though more according to the etymology of the word. The judicious Mr. Bois, prebend. of Ely, in his book entitled, Veteris Interpretis cum Beza, &c., Collatio. Londini, an. 1655, commended by Walton in his Polyglot, declares he would not have this common translation of pœnitentiam agite changed: and brings these words of Melancthon, Let us not be ashamed of our mother tongue; the Church is our mother, and so speaks the Church.

† V. 4. S. Hierom, lib. 2, cont. Jovin. tom. iv. part. 2, p. 201. Orientalis, et Libyæ populos . . . locustis vesci, moris est. Theophylactus, by ἀκριδες, understands hinds of trees.

‡ V. 6. Confitebatur peccata sua. ἱξομολογούμενοι τὰς ἀμαρτίας αὐτῶν.

CHAP. IV. VER. 1. Jesus Christ was led by the Holy Ghost, immediately after his baptism, into the desert,* to prepare, by fasting and prayer, for his public ministry, and to merit for us by his victory over the enemy of our salvation, force to conquer him also ourselves. By this conduct he teaches all that were to be in future times called to his ministry, how they are to retire into solitude, in order to converse with God in prayer, and draw down the blessing of heaven upon themselves and their undertaking.

VER. 2. Jesus wished to manifest a certain corporeal weakness, arising from 3 And the tempter coming, said to him: If thou be the Son of God, command that these stones be made bread.

4 But he answered, and said: It is written: *Man liveth not by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God.

5 Then the devil took him up into the holy city, and set him on the pinnacle of the temple,

6 And said to him: If thou be the Son of God, cast thyself down, for it is written: *That he hath given his angels charge of thee, and in their hands shall they bear thee up, lest perhaps thou hurt thy foot against a stone.

7 Jesus said to him: It is written again: *Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God.

8 Again the devil took him up into a very high mountain: and showed him all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them,

9 And said to him: All these will I give thee, if falling down thou wilt adore me.

10 Then Jesus said to him: Begone, Satan, for it is written: *The Lord thy God thou shalt adore, and him only shalt thou serve.

11 Then the devil left him; and behold angels came and ministered to him.

* Deut. viii. 3; Luke iv. 4.—Psal. xc. 11.—Deut. vi. 16.
* Deut. vi. 13.

his continued fast, that the devil might venture to tempt him; and after a fast of forty days and forty nights he was hungry. A.—Christ was well acquainted with the thoughts of the wicked fiend, and his great desire of tempting or trying him. —On this example, as well as that of Moses and Elias, who also fasted forty days, the fast of Lent was instituted by the apostles, and is of necessity to be observed according to the general consent of the ancient Fathers. S. Jerom (Ep. 54, ad Marcel.) says, we fast forty days, or make one Lent in a year, according to the tradition of the apostles. S. Aug. (Serm. 69,) says, by the due observance of Lent, the wicked are separated from the good, infidels from Christians, heretics from Catholics.

VER. 3. And the tempter coming, ὁ πειράζων, who looked upon this hunger as a favourable moment to tempt him, and to discover if he were truly the Son of God, as was declared at his baptism, desired Jesus to change by a miracle the stones into bread, to appease his hunger and to recover his strength. A.—By this we are taught, that amidst our greatest austerities and fasts, we are never free from temptation. But if you fasts, says S. Gregory, do not free you entirely from temptations, they will at least give you strength not to be overcome by them. S. Thos. Aquin.

VER. 4. Man liveth not by bread alone. The words were spoken of the manna, Deut. viii. 3. The sense in this place is, that man's life may be supported by any thing, or in any manner, as it pleaseth God. Wi.

VER. 5. In the text of S. Luke this temptation is the third: but most commentators follow the order of S. Matt. In Palestine, all buildings had a flat roof, with a balustrade or a parapet. It was probably upon the parapet that the devil conveyed Jesus. The three temptations comprise the three principal sources of sin: 1. sensuality; 2. pride; and 3. concupiscence. 1 John ii. 16. We may hope to conquer the first by fasting and confidence in Divine Providence; the second by humility; the third by despising all sublimary things, as unworthy a Christian's solicitude. A.—The devil took him, &c.† If we ask in what manner this was done, S. Gregory answers, that Christ might permit himself to be taken up and transported in the air by the devil, he that afterwards permitted himself to be tormented and nailed to a cross by wicked men, who are members of the devil. Others think the devil only conducted him from place to place. The text in S. Luke favours this exposition, when it is said, the devil led him to Jerusalem, to a high mountain, &c. Wi.

VER. 8. Showed him all the kingdoms of the world, and their glory; and, as S. Luke says, in a moment of time. We cannot comprehend how this could be done from any mountain, or seen with human eyes. Therefore many think it was by some kind of representation; or, that the devil showing a part, by words set forth the rest. Wi.

VER. 9. All these will I give thee. The father of lies here promised what was not his to give. For though he be called the prince of this world, (John xii. 31,) meaning of the wicked, who wilfully make themselves his slaves; yet so restrained is the devil's power, that he could not go into the swine till Christ permitted it. Matt. viii. 31. Wi.

VER. 10. Jesus Christ does not here cite the words, but the substance of the text. Deut. v. 7, and 9; vi. 13; x. 20.—It is remarkable that our Lord bore with the pride and insolence of the devil, till he assumed to himself the honour due to God alone. S. Chry.

VER. 12. Jesus then left the wilderness, and passed a few days on the banks of the Jordan, affording his holy precursor an opportunity of bearing repeated testimony of him and of his Divine mission, as we read in the first chapter of S. John,

12 Now when Jesus had heard that John was delivered up, ^ahe retired into Galilee:

13 And leaving the city Nazareth, he came and dwelt in Capharnaum, on the sea coast, in the confines of Zabulon and Nephtholim:

14 That what was said by Isaias, the prophet, might be fulfilled:

15 ^bThe land of Zabulon and the land of Nephtholim, the way of the sea, beyond the Jordan, Galilee of the Gentiles:

16 The people that sat in darkness, saw great light: and to them that sat in the region of the shadow of death, light is sprung up.

17 ^cFrom that time Jesus began to preach, and to say: Do penance, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand.

18 And Jesus walking by the sea of Galilee, ^dsaw two brothers, Simon, who is called Peter, and Andrew his brother, casting a net into the sea (for they were fishers).

19 And he saith to them: Come after me, and I will make you become fishers of men.

20 And they, immediately leaving their nets, followed him.

21 And going on from thence, he saw two other brothers, James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother, in a ship with Zebedee their father, mending their nets: and he called them.

^a Mark i. 14; Luke iv. 14; John iv. 43.—^b Isa. ix. 1.—^c Mark i. 15.—^d Mark i. 16; Luke v. 2.

and then retired into Upper Galilee to avoid the fury of the Jews. There were two Galilees, that of the Jews and that of the Gentiles; this latter was given by the king of Tyre to king Solomon. S. Jer.—This conduct of Jesus Christ shows that on some occasions it is not only lawful, but advisable, to flee from persecution. S. Chry.—Jesus Christ enters more publicly on his mission, and about to occupy the place of his precursor, the Baptist, he chooses Galilee for the first theatre of his ministry, the place assigned by the ancient prophets.

VER. 13. Nazareth was situated in Lower Galilee; and Capharnaum, a maritime town, in Higher Galilee. According to the historian, Josephus, it did not belong to Herod, the tetrarch, who sent the Baptist to confinement, but to Philip, the tetrarch, his brother. C.—He leaves Nazareth for good and all, and retires to Capharnaum, a very flourishing and much frequented emporium, both for the Jews and Gentiles. Here he makes his chief residence, a place well calculated for his preaching, being on the limits of both Galilees, although he made frequent excursions through Galilee to disseminate his doctrines. Syn. crit.

VER. 16. And a light is risen, &c. This light, foretold by the prophet Isaias, (chap. ix. 1,) was our Saviour Christ, the light of the world, who now enlightened them by his instructions, and by his grace. Wi.

VER. 17. Jesus began not to preach till S. John had announced his coming to the world, that the dignity of his sacred person might thus be manifested, and the incredulous Jews be without excuse. If after the preaching of S. John, and his express testimony of the Divinity of our Redeemer, they could still say: Thou givest testimony of thyself, thy testimony is not true; what would they not have said, if, without any precursor, he had, all on a sudden, appeared amongst them. He did not begin to preach till S. John was cast into prison, that the people might not be divided. On this account also S. John wrought no miracle, that the people might be struck with the miracles of our Saviour, and yield their assent to him. S. Chry. Hom. 14.

VER. 18. Jesus wished not only to prove that the establishment of his religion was heavenly, but also to humble the pride of man; and therefore he did not choose orators and philosophers, but fishermen, says S. Jerom. Cyprian, the eloquent orator, was called to the priesthood; but before him was Peter, the fisherman. S. Chry.—Jesus saw two brothers, &c. If we compare what is related by the evangelists, as to the time that S. Peter and S. Andrew became Christ's disciples, we shall find Andrew, who had been a disciple of S. John Baptist, to have brought to Christ his brother Simon. John i. 40. But at that time they staid not with him, so as to become his disciples, and to remain with him as they afterwards did, by quitting their boat, their nets, their fishing, and all they had in the world, which is here related; and by S. Mark, (chap. i.) and by S. Luke, chap. v. Wi.

VER. 21. It was objected by the ancient enemies of Christianity, Porphyrius, Julian the apostate, and others, that Christ chose for his apostles simple and ignorant men, easy to be imposed upon, and not such as would have been on their guard against deception; thus converting that into an argument against the doctrine of Jesus Christ, which of all other circumstances most solidly and forcibly establishes its Divinity and authority. Salmeron, trac. 25.—If Christ had persuaded the ignorant apostles only, there might be some room for such an argument. But if these twelve ignorant men triumphed over the learning, the elo-

22 And they, immediately leaving their nets and their father, followed him.

23 And Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom: and healing all diseases, and infirmities among the people.

24 And his fame went throughout all Syria, and they brought to him all sick people, that were taken with divers diseases and torments, and such as were possessed by devils and lunatics, and those that had the palsy, and he healed them:

25 ^eAnd great multitudes followed him from Galilee, and from Decapolis, and from Jerusalem, and from Judea, and from beyond the Jordan.

CHAP. V.

Christ's sermon on the mount. The eight beatitudes, &c.

NOW^f Jesus seeing the multitudes, he went up into a mountain, and when he had sat down, his disciples came to him.

2 And opening his mouth he taught them, saying:

3 ^gBlessed are the poor in spirit: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

4 ^hBlessed are the meek: for they shall possess the land.

5 ⁱBlessed are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted.

6 Blessed are they that hunger and thirst after justice: for they shall be filled.

^e Mark iii. 7; Luke vi. 17.—^f A. D. 31.—^g Luke vi. 20.—^h Psal. xxxvi. 11.—ⁱ Isa. lxi. 2.

quence, the sophisms of the philosophers themselves, over the strong arm of power in the hands of tyrants, and finally over the devils and passions of men, which were the last to give up the combat against a doctrine that established itself on their ruin, then we may conclude with S. Paul, that it was wisdom in God to choose the weak things of this world to confound the strong—the foolish and the things that are not, to confound those which are. A.

VER. 23. The synagogues were religious assemblies with the Jews, wherein they met on the sabbath and festival days, to pray, to read and hear expounded the word of God, and to exercise the other practices of their law. C.

VER. 24. Many came to Christ to beg to be cured of their corporal infirmities; nor do we read of a single one here, who came to be delivered from spiritual sickness. Our blessed Saviour nevertheless, bearing with their imperfection, condescends to heal them, that he might thence take occasion of exciting their faith, and preparing them for their spiritual cure. Jan.—It is much to be regretted that the conduct of Christians at the present day is not more reasonable than that of the Jews here mentioned.

^g V. 1. S. Mark (i. 13) tells us, Christ was with wild beasts, eratque cum bestiis, μετὰ τῶν θηρίων.

^h V. 5. Assumpsit, παραλαμβάνει, statuit eum, ἵστησιν. S. Greg. Hom. 16. in Evang. t. 1, pag. 1492. Ed. Ben. Quid mirum si se ab illo permisit in montem duci, qui se pertulit etiam a membris illius crucifigi?

CHAP. V. VER. 1. What is said here does not follow immediately what was said in the preceding chapter. See Luke vi.

VER. 2. Opening his mouth. It is a Hebraism, to signify he began to speak. Wi.—This is a common expression in Scripture, to signify something important is going to be spoken.

VER. 3. The poor in spirit; ^g which, according to the common exposition, signifies the humble of mind and heart. Yet some understood it of such as are truly in poverty and want, and who bear their indigent condition with patience and resignation. Wi.—That is, the humble; and they whose spirit is not set upon riches. Ch.—What is this poverty of spirit, but humility and contrition? This virtue of humility is placed in the first place, because it is the parent of every other virtue, as pride is the mother of every vice. Pride deprived our first parents of their original innocence, and nothing but humility can restore us to our former purity. We may pray and fast, we may be possessed of mercy, chastity, or any virtues, if humility do not accompany them they will be like the virtue of the Pharisee, without foundation, without fruit. Hom. 15.

VER. 4. The land of the living, or the kingdom of heaven. The evangelist prefers calling it the land of the living in this place, to show that the meek, the humble, and the oppressed, who are spoiled of the possession of this earth by the powerful and the proud, shall obtain the inheritance of a better land. M.—They shall possess the land, is the reward annexed by our Saviour to meekness, that he might not differ in any point from the old law, so well known to the persons he was addressing. David, in Psalm xxxvi., had made the same promise to the meek.

VER. 5. Not those that mourn for worldly motives, but such as mourn for 7 Blessed are the merciful: for they shall obtain mercy.

8 *Blessed are the clean of heart: for they shall see God.

9 Blessed are the peace-makers: for they shall be called the children of God.

10 *Blessed are they that suffer persecution for justice sake: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

11 Blessed are you when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake;

12 Rejoice and be exceeding glad, because your reward is very great in heaven: for so they persecuted the prophets, that were before you.

13 You are the salt of the earth. *But if the salt lose its savour, with what shall it be salted? It is then good for nothing, but to be cast out, and to be trodden upon by men.

14 You are the light of the world. A city that is set on a mountain cannot be hid.

15 *Neither do men light a candle, and put it under a bushel, but upon a candlestick, that it may give light to all that are in the house.

16 Let your light so shine before men,* that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father who is in heaven.

17 Think not that I am come to destroy the law or the prophets: I am not come to destroy, but to fulfil.

18 *For amen, I say unto you, till heaven and earth pass, one jot or one tittle shall not pass from the law, till all be fulfilled.

19 *Whosoever, therefore, shall break one of these least commandments, and shall teach men so, he shall be called the least in the kingdom of heaven: but whosoever shall do and teach, the same shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven.

20 For I say to you, that unless your justice abound^a more than that of the Scribes and of the Pharisees, you shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven.

21 You have heard that it was said to them of old: *Thou shalt not kill. And whosoever shall kill, shall be guilty of the judgment.

22 But I say to you, that whosoever is angry with his brother, shall be guilty of the judgment. And whosoever shall say to his brother, Raca, shall be guilty of the council. And whosoever shall say, Thou fool, shall be guilty of hell fire.

* Psal. xxiii. 4.—^a 1 Pet. ii. 20, and iii. 14, and iv. 14.—^c Mark ix. 49; Luke xiv. 34.—^d Mark iv. 21; Luke viii. 16, and xi. 33.

* 1 Pet. ii. 12.—^f Luke xvi. 17.—^g James ii. 10.—^h Luke xi. 39.—ⁱ Exod. xx. 13; Deut. v. 17.

their sins, are blessed. The sorrow that is according to God, says S. Paul, worketh penance stedfast unto salvation, but the sorrow of the world worketh death. 2 Cor. vii. 10. M.

VER. 6. Hunger and thirst; i. e. spiritually, with an earnest desire of being just and holy. But others again understand such as endure with patience the hardships of hunger and thirst. Wi.—Rupertus understands those to whom justice is denied, such as poor widows and orphans. Maldonatus, those who from poverty really suffer hunger and thirst, because justice is not done them. M.

VER. 7. Not only the giving of alms, but the practice of all works of mercy, both corporal and spiritual, are recommended here, and the reward will be given on that day when God will repay every one according to his works, and will do by us as we have done by our brethren. A.

VER. 8. The clean of heart are either those who give themselves to the practice of every virtue, and are conscious to themselves of no evil, or those who are adorned with the virtue of chastity. For nothing is so necessary as this purity in such as desire to see God. Keep peace with all and chastity, says S. Paul, for without this none can see God. Many are merciful to the poor and just in their dealings, but abstain not from luxury and lust. Therefore our Saviour, wishing to show that mercy was not sufficient, adds, that if we would see God, we must also be possessed of the virtue of purity. S. Chrys. Hom. 15. By this we shall have our heart exempt from all disordinate love of creatures, and shall be exclusively attached to God. A.

VER. 9. To be peaceful ourselves and with others, and to bring such as are at variance together, will entitle us to be children of God.

VER. 10. Heretics and malefactors suffer occasionally, but they are not on this account blessed, because they suffer not for justice. For, says S. Aug., they cannot suffer for justice who have divided the Church; and where sound faith or charity is wanting there cannot be justice. Cont. Epis. Parm. l. i. c. 9. Ep. 50. Ps. 4. Conc. 2. B.—By justice here we understand virtue, piety, and the defence of our neighbour. To all who suffer on this account he promises a seat in his heavenly kingdom.

VER. 12. Reward, in Latin merces, in Greek μισθος, signifies wages done for hire, and due for work, and presupposeth merit. B.

VER. 13. The former instructions Jesus Christ gave to the multitude. Now he addresses his apostles, styling them the salt of the earth, meant to preserve men from the corruption of sin, and to make them relish the truths of salvation. C.—It is not the property of salt to restore what is already corrupted, but to preserve from corruption. Therefore the virtue of the merits of Christ delivers us from the corruption of sin; but the care and labour of the apostles preserves us from again returning to it. Chrys. 15.

VER. 15. This light of the world, city on a mountain, and candle upon a candlestick, signify the Catholic Church, so built upon Christ, the mountain, that it must be visible, and cannot be hidden or unknown. S. Aug. cont. Fulg. Therefore the Church being a candle not under a bushel, but shining to all in the house, i. e. in the world, what shall I say more, saith S. Aug., than that all are blind who shut their eyes against the candle which is set on the candlestick? Tract. 2, in Ep. Jo.

VER. 17. Not to destroy the law, &c. It is true, by Christ's coming, a multitude of ceremonies and sacrifices, and circumcision, were to cease: but the moral precepts were to continue, and to be complied with, even with greater perfection. Wi.—To fulfil. By accomplishing all the figures and prophecies, and perfecting all that was imperfect. Ch.

VER. 18. Amen. That is, assuredly, of a truth. This Hebrew word Amen, is here retained by the example and authority of all the four evangelists, who have retained it. It is used by our Lord as a strong asseveration, and affirmation of the truth. Ch.

VER. 19. He shall be called; i. e. (by a frequent Hebrew idiom) he shall be the least in the kingdom of heaven; that is, according to S. Aug., he shall not be there at all; for none but great in sanctity and virtue shall find admittance into heaven. Wi.

VER. 20. Of the Scribes and of the Pharisees. The Scribes were the doctors of the law of Moses; the Pharisees were a precise set of men, making profession of a more exact observance of the law; and upon that account greatly esteemed among the people. Ch.—See how necessary it is, not only to believe, but to keep all the commandments, even the very least. B.—Our Saviour makes this solemn declaration at the opening of his mission, to show to what a height of perfection he calls us. Aquin.—Your justice. It is our justice when given us of God. Aug. in Psal. xxx. l. de Spir. et Lit. c. 9. So that Christians are truly just, and have in themselves inherent justice, by doing God's commandments, without which justice of works, no man can be saved. Aug. de Fide et Oper. c. 16. Whereby we see salvation, justice, and justification do not come of faith only, or imputation of Christ's justice. B.

VER. 21. Shall be guilty of the judgment. That is, shall deserve to be punished by that lesser tribunal among the Jews, called the judgment, which took cognizance of such crimes. Ch.—Among the Jews at the time of Christ, there were three sorts of tribunals: the first composed of three judges, to try smaller causes, as theft; there was one in each town: the second, of twenty-three judges, who judged criminal causes, and had the power of condemning to death. This was called the little sanhedrim, and of this it is supposed Jesus Christ speaks: the third, or great sanhedrim of seventy-two judges, who decided on the most momentous affairs, relating to religion, the king, the high priest, and the state in general. It is this last that is designed under the name of council in the next verse. A.

VER. 22. Whosoever is angry with his brother. In almost all Greek copies and MSS. we now read angry without a cause: yet S. Jerom, who corrected the Latin of the New Testament from the best copies in his time, tells us that these words, without a cause, were only found in some Greek copies, and not in the true ones. It seems at first to have been placed in the margin for an interpretation only, and by some transcribers afterwards taken into the text. This as well as many other places may convince us, that the Latin Vulgate is many times to be preferred to our present Greek copies.—Raca.† S. Augustin thinks this was no significant word, but only a kind of interjection expressing a motion of anger. Others take it for a Syro-Chaldaic word, signifying a light, foolish man, though not so injurious as to call another a fool.—Shall be guilty of the council:‡ that is, shall deserve to be punished by the highest court of judicature, called the council, or sanhedrim, consisting of seventy-two persons, where the highest causes were tried and judged, and which was at Jerusalem.—Thou fool; this was a most provoking injury, when uttered with contempt, spite, or malice.—Shall be guilty of hell fire.|| Lit. according to the Greek, shall deserve to be cast into the Gehennom of fire. Gehennom was the valley of Hinnom, near to Jerusalem, where the worshippers of the idol Moloch used to burn their children, sacrificed to that idol. In that place was a perpetual fire, on which account it is made use of by our Saviour, (as it hath been ever since,) to express the fire and punishments of hell. Wi.—Here is a plain difference between sin and sin; some mortal, that lead to hell, some venial, and less punished. B.

23 Therefore, if thou offerest thy gift at the altar, and there shalt remember that thy brother hath any thing against thee;

24 Leave there thy gift before the altar, and first go to be reconciled to thy brother: and then come and offer thy gift.

25 *Make an agreement with thy adversary quickly, whilst thou art in the way with him: lest perhaps the adversary deliver thee to the judge, and the judge deliver thee to the officer, and thou be cast into prison.

26 Amen, I say to thee, thou shalt not go out from thence, till thou pay the last farthing.

27 You have heard that it was said to them of old: *Thou shalt not commit adultery.

28 But I say unto you, that whosoever looketh on a woman to lust after her, hath already committed adultery with her in his heart.

29 *And if thy right eye cause thee to offend, pluck it out, and cast it from thee: for it is better for thee that one of thy members should perish, than that thy whole body should be cast into hell.

30 And if thy right hand cause thee to offend, cut it off, and cast it from thee: for it is better for thee that one of thy members should perish, than that thy whole body should go into hell.

31 It hath also been said: *Whosoever shall put away his wife, let him give her a bill of divorce.

32 But I say to you: *that whosoever shall put away his wife, excepting the cause of fornication, causeth her to commit adultery: and whosoever shall marry her that is put away, committeth adultery.

33 Again you have heard that it was said to them of old: *Thou shalt not forswear thyself: but thou shalt perform thy oaths to the Lord.

34 But I say to you, not to swear at all, neither by heaven, for it is the throne of God:

* Luke xii. 58.—b Exod. xx. 14.—c Mark ix. 46; Infra, xviii. 9.—d Deut. xxiv. 1; Infra, xix. 7.—e Mark x. 11; Luke xvi. 18; 1 Cor. vii. 10.—f Exod. xx. 7; Lev. xix. 12; Deut. v. 11; James v. 12.

VER. 24. Leave thy offering. This is not to be understood as if a man were always bound to go to the person offended; but it is to signify, that a man is bound in his heart and mind to be reconciled, to forgive every one, and seek peace with all men. Wi.

VER. 25, 26. Agree whilst you are in the way, or wayfaring men, i. e. in this life, lest you be cast into prison, i. e. according to SS. Cyprian, Ambrose, and Origen, into purgatory; according to S. Augustin, into hell, in which, as the debt is to be paid to inflexible justice, it can never be acquitted, and of course no release can be hoped for from that prison. A.

VER. 29. Whatever is an immediate occasion of sin, however near or dear it may be, must be abandoned, (M.) though it prove as dear to us, or as necessary, as a hand or an eye, and without delay or demur. A.

VER. 32. Excepting the cause of fornication. A divorce or separation as to bed and board, may be permitted for some weighty causes in Christian marriages; but even then, he that marrieth her that is dismissed commits adultery. As to this, there is no exception. See again Matt. xix. 9. Wi.—The knot of marriage is so sacred a tie, that the separation of the parties cannot loosen it, it being not lawful for either of the parties to marry again upon a divorce. Aug. de Bon. Conjug. c. 7. B.

VER. 34. Swear not at all. We must not imagine that here are forbidden all oaths, when there is a just and necessary cause of calling God to witness. An oath on such an occasion is an act of justice and religion. Here are forbidden unnecessary oaths in common discourse, by which the sacred name of God, which never ought to be pronounced without reverence and respect, is so frequently and scandalously profaned. Wi.—It is not forbid to swear in truth, justice, and judgment; to the honour of God, or our own or neighbour's just defence; but only to swear rashly, or profanely, in common discourse, and without necessity. Ch.

VER. 39. Not to resist evil; ¶ i. e. not to resist or revenge thyself of him that hath done evil to thee.—Turn him the other cheek. Let him have also thy cloak. These are to be understood as admonitions to Christians, to forgive every one, and to bear patiently all manner of private injuries. But we must not from hence conclude it unlawful for any one to have recourse to the laws, when a man is injured, and cannot have justice by any other means. Wi.—What is here commanded, is a 35 Nor by the earth, for it is his footstool: nor by Jerusalem, for it is the city of the great King:

36 Neither shalt thou swear by thy head, because thou canst not make one hair white or black.

37 *But let your speech be yea, yea: no, no: for whatsoever is more than these, cometh from evil.

38 You have heard that it hath been said: *An eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth.

39 But I say to you, not to resist evil: but if any man strike thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also.

40 *And if any man will go to law with thee, and take away thy coat, let him have thy cloak also.

41 And whosoever shall force thee to go one mile, go with him other two.

42 *Give to him that asketh of thee, and from him that would borrow of thee, turn not away.

43 You have heard that it hath been said: *Thou shalt love thy neighbour, and hate thy enemy.

44 But I say to you: *Love your enemies, *do good to them that hate you: *and pray for them that persecute and calumniate you, 45 That you may be the children of your Father, who is in heaven: who maketh his sun to rise upon the good and the bad, and raineth upon the just and the unjust.

46 For if you love those that love you, what reward shall you have? do not even the publicans the same?

47 And if you salute your brethren only, what do you more? do not also the heathens the same?

48 Be you therefore perfect, as also your heavenly Father is perfect.

CHAP. VI.

Alms, prayer, and fasting recommended, but ostentation to be avoided. Forgiveness of injuries urged: simplicity of intention, and greater solicitude for the next than this life.

* James v. 12.—b Exod. xxi. 24; Lev. xxiv. 20; Deut. xix. 21.—c Luke vi. 29. ¶ 1 Cor. vi. 7.—d Deut. xv. 8.—e Lev. xix. 18.—f Luke vi. 27. ¶ Rom. xii. 20.—g Luke xxiii. 34; Acts vii. 59.

Christian patience under injuries and affronts, and to be willing even to suffer still more, rather than to indulge the desire of revenge: but what is further added does not strictly oblige according to the letter, for neither did Christ, nor S. Paul, turn the other cheek. S. John xviii., and Acts xxiii. Ch.

VER. 41. Go with him other two. **

VER. 43. And hate thy enemy. The words of the law (Lev. xix. 18) are only these: thou shalt love thy friend as thyself; but by a false gloss and inference, these words, and hate thy enemy, were added by the Jewish doctors. Wi.

VER. 46. The publicans. These were the gatherers of the public taxes: a set of men odious and infamous among the Jews for their extortions and injustice. Ch.

VER. 48. Jesus Christ here sums up his instructions, by ordering us to be perfect as our heavenly Father is perfect; i. e. to imitate, as far as our exertions, assisted by Divine grace, can reach, the Divine perfection. Wi.

* V. 3. The humble. See S. Chrys. Hom. 15, in Matt. S. Jerom on this place, in his Commentary on S. Matt. S. Aug. Sermon. Domini in Monte, tom. iii. part 2, p. 166, &c.

† V. 22. εἰκῇ, sine causa, is in most Greek copies at present, as also in S. Chrys.; and so it is in the Prot. translation. But S. Jerom, who examined this reading, says positively that εἰκῇ was wanting in the true copies. In quibusdam Codicibus additur sine causa, Cæterum in variis definita sententia est, et ira penitus tollitur.

‡ Ibid. Raca. S. Aug. (Sermon. Domini in Monte, p. 174) affirms it to be, non vocem significantem aliquid, sed indignantis animi nectum, &c.

§ Ibid. reus erit Concilii. τῷ συνεδρίῳ.

¶ Ibid. gehennæ ignis, ἐν ὅχῳ ἔσται εἰς τὴν γένεσιν τοῦ πυρός.

¶ V. 39. Non resistere malo, τῷ πονηρῷ, as before, a malo est. ἐκ τοῦ πονηροῦ ἔστιν. In both places ὁ πονηρὸς seems to signify an evil spirit, or an evil man.

 V. 41. Vade cum eo et alia duo. In the ordinary Greek copies, we only read ὑπάγε μετ' αὐτοῦ δύο. But in other MSS. ὑπάγε μετ' αὐτοῦ ἐτι ἄλλα δύο.

TAKE heed that you do not your justice before men, that you may be seen by them: otherwise you shall not have a reward from your Father, who is in heaven.

2 Therefore when thou dost an alms-deed, sound not a trumpet before thee, as the hypocrites do in the synagogues, and in the streets, that they may be honoured by men. Amen, I say to you, they have received their reward.

3 But when thou dost alms, let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doth:

4 That thy alms may be in secret, and thy Father, who seeth in secret, will repay thee.

5 And when you pray, you shall not be as the hypocrites, who love to pray standing in the synagogues, and at the corners of the streets, that they may be seen by men: Amen, I say to you, they have received their reward.

6 But thou, when thou shalt pray, enter into thy chamber, and having shut the door, pray to thy Father in secret: and thy Father, who seeth in secret, will reward thee.

7 And when you are praying, speak not much, as the heathens do: for they think that they are heard for their much speaking.

8 Be not you therefore like them. For your Father knoweth what you stand in need of, before you ask him.

9 You therefore shall pray in this manner: ^bOur Father who art in heaven, hallowed be thy name.

* A. M. 4035, A. D. 31.—^b Luke xi. 2.

CHAP. VI. VER. 1. Your justice; * in the common Greek copies, your alms, which seems to be the sense in this place. Wi.—Hereby it is plain that good works are justice, and that man doing them doth justice, and is thereby just and justified, and not by faith only. All which justice of a Christian man, our Saviour here compriseth in the three eminent good works, alms-deeds, prayer, and fasting. Aug. 1. Perf. Just. c. 8. So that to give alms is to do justice, and the works of mercy are justice. Aug. in Psal. xlix. 5. B.

VER. 2. This may be understood figuratively, that we must avoid all ostentation in the performance of our good works. Many respectable authors are of opinion, that it was customary with the Pharisees and other hypocrites to assemble the poor they designed to relieve by sound of trumpet. M.

VER. 3. Be content to have God for witness to your good works, who alone has power to reward you for them. They will be disclosed soon enough to man, when at the day of general retribution the good and the evil will be brought to light, and every one shall be rewarded according to his works. A.

VER. 4. This repaying or rewarding of good works, so often mentioned here by Jesus Christ, clearly evinces that good works are meritorious, and that we may do them with a view to a reward, as David did, propter retributionem. A.

VER. 6. Because he who should pray in his chamber, and at the same time desire it to be known by men, that he might thence receive vain glory, might truly be said to pray in the street, and sound a trumpet before him: whilst he who, though he pray in public, seeks not thence any vain glory, acts the same as if he prayed in his chamber. M.—Jesus Christ went up to the temple, to attend public worship on the festival days.

VER. 7. Long prayer is not here forbidden; for Christ himself spent whole nights in prayer: and he saith, we must pray always; and the apostle, that we must pray without intermission, 1 Thess. v.: and the holy Church hath had from the beginning her canonical hours for prayer, but rhetorical and elaborate prayer, as if we thought to persuade God by our eloquence, is forbidden; the Collects of the Church are most brief and most effectual. Aug. Ep. 121, c. 8, 9, 10. B.

VER. 9. As God is the common Father of all, we pray for all. Let none fear on account of their lowly station here, for all are comprised in the same heavenly nobility. . . By saying, "who art in heaven," he does not mean to insinuate that he is there only, but he wishes to withdraw the humble petitioner from earth, and fix his attention on heaven. Chry. Hom. 20. Other prayers are not forbidden. Jesus Christ prayed in different words, (John viii.,) and the apostles (Acts i. 24;), but this is an example of the simple style to be used in prayer, and is applicable to all occasions.—Hallowed be thy name, from the word holy, be held and kept holy, be glorified by us, and that not only by our words, but principally by the lives we lead. The honour and glory of God should be the principal subject of our prayers, and the ultimate end of our every action; every other thing must be subordinate to this. A.

VER. 10. Those who desire to arrive at the kingdom of heaven, must endeavour so to order their life and conversation as if they were already conversing in heaven.

VER. 11. Our supersubstantial bread.† So it is at present in the Latin text:

10 Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven.

11 Give us this day our supersubstantial bread.

12 And forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors.

13 And lead us not into temptation. But deliver us from evil. Amen.

14 For if you forgive men their offences, your heavenly Father will also forgive you your offences.

15 But if you will not forgive men, neither will your Father forgive you your sins.

16 And when you fast, be not as the hypocrites, sad: for they disfigure their faces, that to men they may appear fasting. Amen, I say to you, they have received their reward.

17 But thou, when thou fastest, anoint thy head, and wash thy face,

18 That thou appear not fasting to men, but to thy Father who is in secret: and thy Father who seeth in secret, will reward thee.

19 Lay not up for yourselves treasures on earth: where the rust, and the moth consume, and where thieves dig through, and steal.

20 But lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven: where neither the rust nor the moth doth consume, and where thieves do not dig through, nor steal.

21 For where thy treasure is, there is thy heart also.

* Eccl. xxviii. 3, 4, and 5: Infra, xviii. 35; Mark xi. 25.—† Luke xii. 33; 1 Tim. vi. 19.

yet the same Greek word in S. Luke is translated daily bread, as we say it in our Lord's prayer, and as it was used to be said in the second or third age, as we find by Tertullian and S. Cyprian. Perhaps the Latin word, supersubstantialis, may bear the same sense as daily bread, or bread that we daily stand in need of; for it need not be taken for supernatural bread, but for bread which is daily added, to maintain and support the substance of our bodies. Wi.—In S. Luke the same word is rendered daily bread. It is understood of the bread of life, which we receive in the blessed sacrament. Ch.—As we are only to pray for our daily bread, we are not to be over-solicitous for the morrow, nor for the things of this earth, but being satisfied with what is necessary, turn all our thoughts to the joys of heaven. Chry. Hom. 20.

VER. 13. God is not the tempter of evil, or author of sin. James i. 13. He tempteth no man: we pray that he would not suffer the devil to tempt us above our strength: that he would remove the temptations, or enable us to overcome them, and deliver us from evil, particularly the evil of sin, which is the first, and the greatest, and the true efficient cause of all evils. A.—In the Greek we here read, for thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory; which words are found in some old Greek liturgies, and there is every appearance that they have thence slipped into the text of S. Matt. They do not occur in S. Luke, (xi. 4,) nor in any one of the old Latin copies, nor yet in the most ancient of the Greek texts. The holy Fathers prior to S. Chrysostom, as Grotius observes, who have explained the Lord's prayer, never mention these words.—And not being found in Tertullian, S. Cyprian, S. Jerom, S. Ambrose, S. Augustin, &c., nor in the Vatican Greek copy, nor in the Cambridge MSS., &c., as Dr. Wells also observes, it seems certain that they were only a pious conclusion, or doxology, with which the Greeks in the fourth age began to conclude their prayers, much after the same manner as, Glory be to the Father, &c. was added to the end of each psalm. We may reasonably presume that these words at first were in the margin of some copies, and afterwards by some transcribers taken into the text itself. Wi.

VER. 16. He condemns not public fasts as prescribed to the people of God, (Judg. xx. 26; 2 Esd. ix.; Joel ii. 15; John iii.,) but fasting through vain-glory and for the esteem of men. B.

VER. 17. The forty days' fast, my dear brethren, is not an observance peculiar to ourselves; it is kept by all who unite with us in the profession of the same faith. Nor is it without reason that the fast of Christ should be an observance common to all Christians. . . Is it much for us to fast with Christ, who expect to sit at the table of his Father with him? Is it much for the members to suffer with the Head, when we expect to be made one day partakers with him in glory? Happy the man who shall imitate such a Master. He shall accompany him whithersoever he goes. S. Bern. Sermon in Quad.—Observe how closely prayer and fasting are connected. Prayer gives us power to fast, fasting enables us to pray. Fasting gives strength to our prayer, prayer sanctifies our fast, and renders it worthy of acceptance before the Lord. S. Bern. Sermon de Orat. et Jejun.

VER. 20. By doing good works, distributing your superfluities to the indigent. A.

22 *The light of thy body is thy eye. If thy eye be simple, thy whole body will be lightsome.

23 But if thy eye be evil, thy whole body shall be darksome. If, therefore, the light that is in thee be darkness, how great will the darkness itself be?

24 "No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other: or he will hold to the one, and despise the other. You cannot serve God and mammon.

25 "Therefore I say to you, be not solicitous for your life, what you shall eat, nor for your body what you shall put on. Is not the life more than the food: and the body more than the raiment?

26 Behold the fowls of the air, for they sow not, neither do they reap, nor gather into barns: yet your heavenly Father feedeth them. Are not you of much more value than they?

27 And which of you by thinking can add to his stature one cubit?

28 And for raiment why are you solicitous? Consider the lilies of the field how they grow: they labour not; neither do they spin.

29 And yet I say to you, that not even Solomon, in all his glory, was arrayed as one of these.

30 Now if God so clothe the grass of the field, which to-day is, and to-morrow is cast into the oven: how much more you, O ye of little faith?

31 Be not solicitous, therefore, saying: What shall we eat, or what shall we drink, or wherewith shall we be clothed?

* Luke xi. 34.—† Luke xvi. 18.—‡ Psal. lxx. 23; Luke xii. 22; Phil. iv. 6; 1 Tim. vi. 7; 1 Pet. v. 7.

VER. 22. Every action is lighted or directed by the intention. If the intention be upright, the whole body of the action is good, provided it proceed not from a false conscience. If the intention be bad, how bad must be the action! Christ does not here speak of an exterior, but an interior eye. He, therefore, who directs all his thoughts to God, may justly be said to have his eye lightsome, and consequently his heart undefiled with worldly affections; but he who has all his thoughts corrupted with carnal desires is, beyond a doubt, enveloped in darkness. Chrys.

VER. 24. Behold here a fresh motive to detach you from the love of riches, or mammon. We cannot both serve God and the world, the flesh and the spirit, justice and sin. The ultimate end of action must be one, either for this or for the next life. A.

VER. 25. A prudent provision is not prohibited, but that over-solicitude which draws the soul, the heart, and its affections from God, and his sweet all-ruling providence, to sink and degrade them in empty pursuits, which can never fill the soul. A.—Be not solicitous; § i. e. too solicitous with a trouble and anxiety of mind, as appears by the Greek.—For your life; lit. for your soul, which many times is put for life. Wi.

VER. 27. Why should the children of God fear want, when we behold the very birds of the air do not go unprovided? Moreover, what possible good can this anxiety, this diffidence procure them? Almighty God gives life and growth, which you cannot do with all your solicitude, however intensely you think. Apollo may plant, Paul may water, but God alone can give the increase, 1 Cor. iii. 6. Of how much greater consequence is it then to love and serve Him, and to live for Him alone! A.

VER. 30. O ye of little faith; that is, of little confidence in God and his providence. M.

VER. 32. It is not without reason that men are in such great fear and distress, when they are so blind as to imagine that their happiness in this life is ruled by fate. But such as know that they are entirely governed by the will of God, know also that a store is laid up for them in his hands. S. Chrys.

VER. 33. || Your Father knoweth; he does not say God knoweth, but your Father, to teach us to apply to him with greater confidence. S. Chrys.—He that delivers himself entirely into the hands of God, may rest secure both in prosperity and adversity, knowing that he is governed by a tender Father. Aquin.

VER. 34. The morrow will bring with it cares enough, to occupy you in providing what will then be necessary for you. Christ does not prohibit all care about temporal concerns, but only what hinders us from seeking the kingdom of heaven in the first instance; or what makes us esteem more the things of this world than those of the next. M.—He who supplied our wants to-day, will supply them also to-morrow. The evil of the day is sufficient, without borrowing to-morrow's burden to increase the load. It is the curse of the envious and wicked 32 For after all these things do the heathens seek. For your Father knoweth that you have need of all these things.

33 Seek ye therefore first the kingdom of God, and his justice: and all these things shall be added unto you.

34 Be not therefore solicitous for to-morrow: for the morrow will be solicitous for itself. Sufficient for the day is the evil thereof.

CHAP. VII.

Rash judgment and the profanation of holy things condemned. Confidence in prayer, and earnest endeavours for salvation, recommended. Caution against false teachers. Perseverance in the practice of Christian virtues.

JUDGE not,^d that you may not be judged.

2 For with what judgment you have judged, you shall be judged: and with what measure you have measured, it shall be measured to you again.

3 And why seest thou a mote in thy brother's eye: and seest not a beam in thy own eye?

4 Or how sayest thou to thy brother: Let me cast the mote out of thy eye: and behold a beam is in thy own eye?

5 Thou hypocrite, cast out first the beam out of thy own eye, and then shalt thou see to cast out the mote out of thy brother's eye.

6 Give not that which is holy to dogs: neither cast ye your pearls before swine, lest they trample them under their feet, and turning upon you, tear you.

7 Ask, and it shall be given you: seek, and you shall find: knock, and it shall be opened to you.

8 For every one that asketh, receiveth: and he that to be self-tormented, whilst they who live by faith can always rejoice in hope, the true balm of every Christian's breast, the best friend of all in distress.

^d A. D. 31. Luke vi. 37; Rom. ii. 1.—^e Mark iv. 24.—^f Infra, xxi. 22; Mark xi. 24; Luke xi. 9; John xiv. 13; James i. 6.

* V. 1. Justitiam. In almost all Greek copies, ἐλεημοσύνην.

† V. 7. Nolite multum loqui, μη βαρτολογήσητε, which is balbutire, nugari, &c.

‡ V. 11. Supersubstantialiam, ἐπιούσιον, which Greek word is translated, quotidianam, Luc. xi. 3. So it is expounded by S. Chrys. ὁμ. xv. p. 138, τὴν ἐστὶν τὸν ἄρτον τὸν ἐπιούσιον; τὸν ἐφ' ἡμέραν. S. Greg. of Nyssa (tom i. p. 750, Edit. Paris. an. 1638) calls it ὁ ἄρτος τῆς σημερινῆς χρείας ἐστὶν. Panis hodiernæ, or quotidianæ necessitatis. Suidas expounds it, ὁ τῇ οὐσίᾳ ἡμῶν ἀρμόζων, qui est convenientis nostræ substantiæ, or ὁ καθ' ἡμέραν ὀσός, quotidianus.

§ V. 25. Μὴ μεριμνᾶτε. It does not seem well translated, take no thought.

|| V. 33. Et justitiam ejus, δικαιοσύνην αὐτοῦ, non αὐτῆς, Dei, not Regni.

CHAP. VII. VER. 1. Judge not,* or condemn not others rashly, that you may not be judged or condemned. Wi.—S. Jerom observes, Christ does not altogether forbid judging, but directs us how to judge. Where the thing does not regard us, we should not undertake to judge. Where it will bear a favourable interpretation, we should not condemn. Magistrates and superiors, whose office and duty require them to judge faults, and for their prevention to condemn and punish them, must be guided by evidence, and always lean towards the side of mercy, where there are mitigating circumstances. Barefaced vice and notorious sinners should be condemned and reprobated by all. A.

VER. 2. This rule, which God will infallibly follow, should put a check to the freedom with which we so frequently condemn our neighbour. A.—As we behave towards our neighbours, interpreting their actions with charitableness, and excusing their intentions with mildness; or, on the contrary, judging them with severity, and condemning them without pity; so shall we receive our judgment. A.

VER. 3. Mote and beam, light and grievous sins. M.

VER. 5. Thou hypocrite, cast out first the beam, &c. Correct first thy own greater faults, before thou censure the less failings of others. Wi.

VER. 6. Give not that which is holy, or holy things, (as in the Greek,) to dogs; i. e. to scandalous libertines, or infidels, who are not worthy to partake of Divine mysteries and sacraments, who sacrilegiously abuse them, and trample them under their feet, as hogs do pearls. Wi.—The sacred mysteries should not be given to those that are not properly instructed in the sublime nature of them; nor should we hold any communication of religion with those that are enemies to the truths of Christ, which they tread under their feet and treat contemptuously, and will be so far from having any more friendship for you on account of such a criminal complaisance, that it is more probable they will betray you and turn against you. A.

VER. 7. After having preached these great and wonderful truths, after having seeketh, findeth: and to him that knocketh, it shall be opened.

9 *Or what man is there among you, of whom if his son ask bread, will he reach him a stone?

10 Or if he ask a fish, will he reach him a serpent?

11 If you then being evil, know how to give good gifts to your children: how much more will your Father, who is in heaven, give good things to them that ask him?

12 *All things, therefore, whatsoever you would that men should do to you, do you also to them. For this is the law and the prophets.

13 *Enter ye in at the narrow gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way that leadeth to destruction, and many there are who enter by it.

14 How narrow is the gate, and strait is the way, which leadeth to life: and few there are who find it!

15 Beware of false prophets, who come to you in the clothing of sheep, but inwardly they are ravenous wolves.

16 By their fruits you shall know them. Do men gather grapes off thorns, or figs off thistles?

17 Even so every good tree yieldeth good fruit, and the bad tree yieldeth bad fruit.

18 A good tree cannot yield bad fruit, neither can a bad tree yield good fruit.

19 *Every tree that yieldeth not good fruit, shall be cut down, and shall be cast into the fire.

* Luke xi. 11.—b Tob. iv. 16; Luke vi. 31.—c Luke xiii. 24.—d Supra, iii. 10. e Infra, xxv. 11; Luke vi. 46.—f Acts xix. 13.

commanded his apostles to keep themselves free from the vices of mankind, and make themselves like not to the angels or archangels only, but to the Lord of all things; and not only observe justice themselves, but likewise to labour for the correction of others, lest they should be disheartened at these almost insurmountable difficulties; our Redeemer subjoins, Ask, and ye shall receive, &c. When we offer our petitions to the Almighty, we must imitate the example of Solomon, who immediately obtained what he asked of the Lord, because he asked what he ought. Two things, therefore, are necessary to every prayer, that it be offered up with perseverance and fervour, and that it contain a lawful prayer. Chry. Hom. 24.

VER. 12. For this is the law and the prophets; that is, all precepts that regard our neighbour are directed by this golden rule, do as you would be done by. Wi.—The whole law, and all the duties between man and man, inculcated by the prophets, have this principle for foundation. The Roman emperor Alexander Severus, is related to have said, that he esteemed the Christians for their acting on this principle. A.

VER. 14. Our Saviour in another place says, my yoke is sweet, and my burden light. How comes it then that so few bear it, or how can we reconcile these texts together? The answer is at hand; for if soldiers and mariners esteem wounds, storms, and shipwreck easy to be borne with, in hopes of temporal rewards, surely no one can complain that the duties of a Christian are difficult, when compared with the glory which shall be revealed in us. Chry.

VER. 15. In the clothing of sheep. Beware of hypocrites, with their outward appearance of sanctity, and sound doctrine—by their fruits you shall know them. Such hypocrites can scarcely ever continue constant in the practice of what is good. Wi.—Beware of false prophets, or heretics. They are far more dangerous than the Jews, who being rejected by the apostles, are also avoided by Christians, but these having the appearance of Christianity, having churches, sacraments, &c., &c., deceive many. These are the rapacious wolves, of whom St. Paul speaks, Acts xx. Chry. Hom. 19. Origen styles them the gates of death, and the path to hell. Corn. in Job, lib. i. tom. ii.

VER. 16. As the true Church is known by the four marks of its being one, holy, catholic, and apostolical, so heretics and false teachers are known by certain vices, and the pernicious effects of their novelties in religion. As the true Church is one, by its members submitting with humility to the authority established by Christ, (he that will not hear the Church, let him be unto thee as a heathen or a publican, Matt. xviii. 17,) so are false teachers known by their separation from the ancient Church, and their divisions among themselves, the necessary consequences of rebelling against the authority established by Christ, and alone capable of determining controversies. What bloody tumults and wars were there not produced in Germany, by the first Reformers in that country! Calvin overturned the government of Geneva; and his followers, under the name of Hugonots, filled France for a great length of time with slaughter and civil wars, frequently shaking the throne itself. In this country, the first cause of its separation from the universal Church, was the unbridled passion of a tyrant. In the reign of his successor, the insatiate avarice of a corrupt nobility, gratified with the sacrilegious plunder of the Church, established what is called the Reformation. The fear of being compelled to disgorge the fruits of their rapine, contributed much to the confirmation of that order of things in the reign of Elizabeth. She was inclined 20 Wherefore by their fruits you shall know them.

21 *Not every one that saith to me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven: but he that doth the will of my Father, who is in heaven, he shall enter into the kingdom of heaven.

22 Many will say to me in that day: Lord, Lord, have not we prophesied in thy name, and in thy name cast out devils, and done many wonderful works in thy name?

23 And then will I profess unto them: I never knew you: depart from me, you that work iniquity.

24 *Therefore whosoever heareth these my words, and doth them, shall be likened to a wise man, who built his house upon a rock.

25 And the rain fell, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and they beat upon that house, and it fell not, for it was founded upon a rock.

26 And every one that heareth these my words, and doth them not, shall be like a foolish man, who built his house upon the sand.

27 And the rain fell, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and they beat upon that house, and it fell, and great was the fall thereof.

28 And it came to pass when Jesus had fully ended these words, the people were in admiration at his doctrine.

29 *For he was teaching them as one having authority and not as their Scribes and Pharisees.

g Psal. vi. 9; Infra, xxv. 41; Luke xiii. 27.—h Luke vi. 48; Rom. ii. 13; James i. 22.—i Mark i. 22; Luke iv. 32.

to it by the circumstances of her birth, which could not be legitimate, if her father's marriage with Catharine of Arragon were valid, as the first authority in the Catholic Church had declared. The natural spirit of this heresy, though checked a while and kept under by the despotical government of this queen, appeared in its own colours soon after, and produced its natural fruits in the turbulence of the times that succeeded, and the multiplicity of sects that are continually springing up to this very day.—As the true Church is holy, recommending various exercises of religion tending to purify human nature, and render men holy, as fasting, confession of sins, evangelical counsels, &c., so false teachers cast off all these, promising liberty, (2 Pet. ii. 16,) and giving full rein to the lustful passions, thus giving a liberty of living, as well as a liberty of believing.—Another fruit of false teachers is, separation from what was the Universal Church before their time, and which continues to be still the far greater part, not being confined to one state or country.—Finally, false teachers are to be known by their not being able to show that they have received their doctrine and mission from the apostles, in a regular succession from them.

VER. 18. A good tree cannot yield bad fruit, &c. Not but that both good and bad men may change their lives. This, according to the unanimous consent of the Fathers, is only to be understood while they remain such. If a bad tree begin to produce good fruit, it becomes a good tree, &c. Wi.

VER. 21. Here Jesus Christ shows, that it is not sufficient to believe in him and hear his words, but that in order to salvation we must join works with faith; for in this shall we be examined at the last day. M.—Without faith they could not cry out, Lord, Lord. Rom. x. But the strongest faith without the works of justice, will not be available to salvation. 1 Cor. xiii. 13.

VER. 22. Have not we prophesied in thy name? The gift of prophecy, and of doing miracles, may sometimes be granted to bad men, as to Caiaphas, and Balaam. Wi.

VER. 23. So as to approve and reward your works. Here he shows that even prophecy and miracles will not save us without good works. M.—How much less will faith, unassisted by good works, preserve us from condemnation. A.—The gift of miracles is bestowed on men not for their own good, but for the advantage of others. We must not then be surprised if men, who had indeed faith in Christ, but whose lives did not correspond with their faith, should be honoured with these extraordinary gifts, since the Almighty sometimes employs as his instruments in working similar wonders, men destitute both of faith and virtue.

VER. 24. In the Greek text, "I will compare him;" an apposite comparison, to show the necessity of good works. It is the duty of each individual to erect this spiritual edifice of good works in the interior of his soul, which may be able to resist all the attacks of our spiritual enemy: whilst those men who have true faith and no works are compared to a fool, and are sure to perish. M.

VER. 25. The Scribes and Pharisees only explained the law, and laid open the promises of Moses, whereas our Saviour gives new laws, and makes new promises in his own name; But I say to you, &c. The energy also with which our Saviour spoke, together with the miracles which he wrought, had far greater influence on the minds of the people than the frigid manner in which the Scribes delivered their doctrines. M.

VER. 29. He taught as one having power ἐξουσίαν, to found a law of his own

CHAP. VIII.

Cure of a leper : of the centurion's servant : of the mother-in-law of S. Peter. Dispositions for following Jesus Christ. The storm appeased. Devils driven out of two men possessed, and suffered to go into the swine.

AND when he was come down from the mountain, great multitudes followed him.

2^a And behold a leper coming, adored him, saying : Lord, if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean.

3 And Jesus stretching forth his hand, touched him, saying : I will. Be thou made clean. And immediately his leprosy was cleansed.

4 And Jesus said to him : See thou tell no man : but go,^b show thyself to the priest, and offer the gift which Moses commanded for a testimony to them.

5 And when he had entered into Capharnaum, there came to him a centurion, beseeching him,

6 And saying : Lord, my servant lieth at home sick of the palsy, and is grievously tormented.

7 And Jesus said to him : I will come, and heal him.

8 And the centurion making answer, said : "Lord, I am not worthy that thou shouldst enter under my roof : but only say the word, and my servant shall be healed.

9 For I also am a man under authority, having soldiers

* A. D. 31. Mark i. 40; Luke v. 12.—^b Lev. xiv. 2.—^c Luke vii. 1.

Hence he said, Ego autem dico vobis ; " But I say to you," viz. as a legislator, announcing to you not the law of Moses, or of any other, but my own law. Est. in diff. loca.—All agree that S. Matthew anticipates the sermon on the mount, in order thus to prefix the doctrines of Christ to the account of his miracles : for we cannot doubt that the discourse on the mount, which is mentioned by S. Matthew, is the same as that recorded by S. Luke. The beginning, the middle, and the conclusion correspond with each other. If S. Matthew mentions some particulars omitted by S. Luke, it is because his design was to collect together several instructions, which Jesus delivered on different occasions ; and these, for the most part, are to be found in other parts of S. Luke.—This admirable sermon may be divided into three parts, viz. the exordium, the body of the discourse, and the conclusion. The exordium comprises the eight beatitudes, and merits our most serious attention. The body of the discourse is chiefly addressed to the apostles, whom Jesus had recently chosen, in order to instil into them, and all succeeding pastors of the Church, a right sense of the great duties belonging to their ministry ; and, in the second place, it refers to all the faithful in general. The conclusion consists of an exhortation to a life of piety, and contains several advices, some of which chiefly regard pastors, others indiscriminately all the faithful in general.—May this excellent abridgment of thy doctrine, O Jesus ! be the rule of our manners, the pattern of our life. Amen. A.

* V. 1. Nolite judicare, κρινειν, which signifies either to judge, or to condemn.

† V. 18. Non potest Arbor bona, &c. S. Jerom, on this place, brings divers examples to show that men's natures are not necessarily or unchangeably good or bad. See S. Aug. lib. 2, de Serm. Dominici in Monte, c. 24, p. 232. Non potest esse nix calida, cum enim calida esse ceperit, non jam eam nivem, sed aquam vocamus. See also S. Chrys. ὁμ κ' γ, pag. 168, linea 1. Edit. Savil.

CHAP. VIII. VER. 1. And when he was come down from the mountain. S. Matthew says that Jesus Christ ascended the mountain, and sat down to teach the people ; while S. Luke affirms that he descended, and stood in a plain place. But here is no contradiction ; for he first ascended to the top of the mountain, and then descended to an even plain, which formed part of the descent. Here he stood for a while, and cured the sick, as is mentioned by S. Luke ; but afterwards, according to the relation of S. Matthew, he sat down, which was the usual posture of the Jewish doctors. S. Aug.

VER. 2. As the three evangelists relate the cure of the leper in nearly the same words, and with the same circumstances, we may conclude they speak of the same miracle. S. Matthew alone seems to have observed the time and order of this transaction, viz. after the sermon on the mount ; the other two anticipate it. The Bible de Venice seems to infer, from the connexion S. Matthew makes between the sermon on the mount and the cure of the leper, that it was not the same leper as that mentioned Mark i. 40 ; Luke v. 12. V.—Adored him. In S. Mark it is said, kneeling down, chap. i. 40. In S. Luke, prostrating on his face. It is true, none of these expressions do always signify the adoration or worship which is due to God alone, as may appear by several examples in the Old and New Testament ; yet this man, by Divine inspiration, might know our blessed Saviour to be both God and man. Wl.

VER. 3. Jesus, stretching forth his hand, touched him. By the law of Moses, whosoever touched a leper contracted a legal uncleanness : but not by touching in order to heal him, says Theophylactus. Besides, Christ would teach them that he was not subject to this law. Wl.—Touched him. To show, says S. Cyprian, that his body, being united to the Divinity, had the power of healing and giving under me, and I say to this man, Go, and he goeth : and to another, Come, and he cometh : and to my servant, Do this, and he doth it.

10 And Jesus hearing this, wondered, and said to those that followed him : Amen, I say to you, I have not found so great faith in Israel.

11 And I say unto you, that many shall come from the East, and the West, and shall sit down with Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, in the kingdom of heaven.

12 But the children of the kingdom shall be cast out into exterior darkness : there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

13 And Jesus said to the centurion : Go, and as thou hast believed, so be it done to thee. And the servant was healed at the same hour.

14 And when Jesus was come into Peter's house, he saw his mother-in-law lying, and sick of a fever :

15 And he touched her hand, and the fever left her, and she arose and ministered to them.

16 And when evening was come, they brought to him many that were possessed with devils : and he cast out the spirit with his word : and all that were sick he healed :

17 That it might be fulfilled, which was spoken by the d Luke vii. 6.—e Mal. i. 11.—f Mark i. 32.

life. Also to show that the old law, which forbade the touching of lepers, had no power over him ; and that so far from being defiled by touching him, he even cleansed him who was defiled with it. S. Ambrose.

VER. 4. For a testimony to them. That is, when the priest finds thee truly cured, make that offering which is ordained in the law. Wl.—S. Chrysostom, in his third book on the priesthood, says, " the priests of the old law had authority and privilege only to discern who were healed of leprosy, and to denounce the same to the people ; but the priests of the new law have power to purify, in very deed, the filth of the soul. Therefore, whoever despiseth them, is more worthy to be punished than the rebel Dathan and his accomplices."

VER. 5. A centurion. The same who (Luke vii. 3) is said to have sent messengers to our Saviour. But here is no contradiction : for what a man does by his servants, or friends, he is many times said to do himself. He came not in person out of humility, but by his message showed an extraordinary faith. Wl.—The centurion shows a much stronger faith in the power of Christ, than those who let down the sick man through the roof, because he thought the word of Christ alone sufficient to raise the deceased. And our Saviour, to reward his confidence, not only grants his petition, as he does on other occasions, but promises to go with him to his house to heal his servant. Chry. Hom. 27. The centurion was a Gentile, an officer in the Roman army. According to S. Luke he did not come to him in person, but sent messengers to him, who desired him to come down and heal his servant, whereas he seems here not to wish him to come : " Lord, I am not worthy," &c. These difficulties may be easily removed. A person is said to appear before the judge when his counsel appears for him ; so he may be said to have come to Jesus, when he sent his messengers. Or it may be that he first sent his messengers, and afterwards went himself. As to the second difficulty, it may be said the messengers added that of their own accord, as appears from the text of S. Luke. M.—S. Augustin is of opinion that he did not go himself in person, for he thought himself unworthy, but that he sent first the ancients of the Jews, and then his friends, which last were to address Jesus in his name and with his words. l. 2, de Cons. Evang. c. 20.

VER. 7. On this occasion our Saviour does what he never did before : every where indeed he meets the will of his supplicants, but here he runs before his request, saying, " I will come ;" and this he does to teach us to imitate the virtue of the centurion.

VER. 8. Origen says, when thou eatest and drinkest the body and blood of our Lord, he entereth under thy roof. Thou also, therefore, humbling thyself, say, Domine, non sum dignus ; Lord, I am not worthy, &c. So said S. Chrysostom in his mass, Litturg. Græc. sub finem ; and so doth the Catholic Church say at this day in every mass. See S. Augustin, Ep. 118. ad Janu. B.—See Luke vii. 6.

VER. 10. Christ here compares the faith of the centurion with that of the people in general, and not with that of his blessed mother and the apostles, whose faith was beyond a doubt much greater. M.—The Greek says, " neither in Israel." —Jesus hearing this, wondered. That is, by his outward carriage, says S. Aug., seemed to admire : but knowing all things, he could not properly admire any thing.

VER. 14. Into Peter's house. According to S. Mark, (i. 29,) and S. Luke, (iv. 38,) the cure of Peter's mother-in-law seems to have been performed previously to the sermon on the mount, of which S. Luke makes mention in chap. vi. We may suppose that S. Matthew mentions it in this order, on occasion of the miracle performed in the same place on the centurion's servant. V.

VER. 17. In the Greek of the seventy-two interpreters, for infirmities we have ἀσθενειαι, viz. : but the evangelist refers this to our bodily infirmities, because, as prophet^a Isaïas, saying: He took our infirmities, and bore our diseases.

18 And Jesus seeing great multitudes about him, gave orders to pass over the water.

19 And a certain scribe came and said to him: Master, I will follow thee whithersoever thou shalt go.

20 And Jesus said to him:^b The foxes have holes, and the birds of the air nests: but the Son of man hath not where to lay his head.

21 And another of his disciples said to him: Lord, permit me first to go, and bury my father.

22 But Jesus said to him: Follow me, and let the dead bury their dead.

23 ^cAnd when he entered into the ship, his disciples followed him.

24 And behold a great tempest arose in the sea, so that the ship was covered with waves, but he was asleep.

25 And his disciples came to him, and awaked him, saying: Lord, save us, we perish.

26 And Jesus saith to them: Why are you fearful, O ye of little faith? Then rising up, he commanded the winds, and the sea, and there came a great calm.

27 But the men wondered, saying: Who is this, for even the winds, and the sea obey him?

28 ^dAnd when he was come on the other side of the water, into the country of the Gerasens, there met him two men possessed with devils, coming out of the se-pulchres, exceeding fierce, so that no one could pass by that way.

29 And behold they cried out, saying: What have we to do with thee, Jesus, Son of God? art thou come hither to torment us before the time?

30 ^eAnd not far from them, there was a herd of many swine feeding.

31 And the devils besought him, saying: If thou cast us out hence, send us into the herd of swine.

32 And he said to them: Go. And they going out went into the swine; and behold, the whole herd ran violently down a steep place into the sea, and perished in the waters.

33 And they that kept them, fled: and coming into the city, told every thing, and concerning them that had been possessed by the devils.

34 And behold the whole city came out to meet Jesus, and when they saw him, they besought him that he would depart from their coasts.

CHAP. IX.

Christ heals one sick of a palsy; calls Matthew; cures the issue of blood raises to life the daughter of Jairus; gives sight to two blind, and heals a dumb man possessed by the devil. Harvest, and workmen.

AND entering into a ship, ^ahe passed over the water, and came into his own city.

2 ^bAnd behold they brought to him a man sick of the palsy lying on a bed. And Jesus seeing their faith, said

^a Isa. liii. 4; 1 Pet. ii. 24.—^b Luke ix. 58.—^c Mark iv. 36; Luke viii. 22.
^d Mark v. 1; Luke viii. 26.

^e Mark v. 11; Luke viii. 32.—^f Mark v. 17; Luke viii. 37.—^g A. D. 31.
^h Mark ii. 3, and 22; Luke v. 18.

S. Chrysostom observes, diseases are the punishment of sins, and frequently arise from the diseases of the soul. M.

VER. 20. By the fox is meant craft and cunning, by the birds pride. Thus then our blessed Lord answered him; pride and deceit dwell in your heart, but you have left no place for the Son of man to rest his head, who can rest only in the meek and humble. S. Augustin.

VER. 22. Let the dead bury their dead. The first words, let the dead, cannot mean those that were dead by a corporal death; and therefore must needs be understood of those who were spiritually dead in sin. Wi.—Two similar answers are mentioned in Luke ix. 57, 60. Jesus Christ may have given the same answers on two different occasions. V.—God will not suffer us to go and bury a deceased parent, when he calls us to other employments. S. Chry.

VER. 23. This bark is the Catholic Church. The sea denotes the world. The winds and tempests show the attempts of the wicked spirits to overturn the Church. The Lord seems to sleep when he permits his Church to suffer persecution and other trials, which he permits, that he may prove her faith, and reward her virtue and merits. Chry. Hom. 23, in Matt. viii.

VER. 25. Should God appear to sleep, with the apostles, we should approach nearer to him, and awaken him with our repeated prayers, saying, "Lord, save us, or we perish." A.

VER. 26. Why are you fearful, having me with you? Do you suppose that sleep can take from me the knowledge of your danger, or the power of relieving you? A.—He commanded the winds. Christ showed himself Lord and Master of the sea and winds. His words in S. Mark (iv. 39) demonstrate his authority: Rising up he rebuked the wind, and said to the sea: Peace, be still. Wi.—As before our Lord restored Peter's mother-in-law on the spot, not only to health, but to her former strength; so here he shows himself supreme Lord of all things, not only by commanding the winds to cease, but, moreover, by commanding a perfect calm to succeed. Chry. Hom. 29. How many times has he preserved his Catholic Church, when (to all human appearance, and abstracting from his infallible promises) she has been in the most imminent danger of perishing!

From this allegory of the ship and the storm, we may take occasion to speak of the various senses in which the words of Scripture may be occasionally taken. . . . The sense of Scripture is twofold, literal and spiritual. The literal is that which the words immediately signify. The spiritual or mystic sense is that which things expressed by words mean, as in Genesis xxii., what is literally said of the immolation of Isaac, is spiritually understood of Christ: and in Col. ii. 12, by the baptism of Christ, S. Paul means his burial.

VER. 28. Two men possessed with devils. S. Mark (chap. v.) and S. Luke, (chap. viii.), in the same passage, mention but one man, who is also said to be possessed with a legion of devils. These evangelists seem to make mention only of one of them, because he might be much more fierce, and famous than the other. Wi.

VER. 29. Before the time which God has marked to drive us from the world, and to bury us for ever in the prison of hell. V.—What have we to do with thee? Or what hast thou to do with us? what harm have we done thee? Wi.

VER. 30. *And not far from them. In all Greek copies at present we read,

There was afar off. Beza himself here owns that the Latin Vulgate is to be preferred before all the Greek copies and MSS. Wi.

VER. 31. Send us into the herd of swine. According to S. Luke, they begged of him two things; the first, that they might not be sent into hell, there to be tormented with more grievous torments, as they will be at the end of the world; the second, that they might be permitted to go into the herd of swine, that these being destroyed, the inhabitants of that country might be ill affected towards our Saviour, and refuse to receive him. The event seems to confirm this opinion. M.

VER. 32. Many reasons might be brought why our Saviour suffered the devils to enter into the swine: 1. To show that the devils had no power even over swine without his permission. 2. That such as were freed from their power, might acknowledge the greatness of the favour done them, by seeing from how great a multitude they were liberated. 3. To punish those Jewish citizens, who fed upon swine's flesh contrary to their law. And, 4. To show how willingly the devils dwell in the hearts of those who are addicted to a voluptuous and carnal life, aptly designated by the swine. M.

VER. 34. That he would depart from their coasts. S. Jerom thinks these people did this out of a motive of humility, looking upon themselves unworthy of his presence: others judge that the loss of the swine made them apprehend lest Christ, being a Jew, might do them greater damages. Wi.

* V. 30. Erat non longè, but now in all Greek copies, erat longè, ἦν ἐκ μακρῶν. Beza says the reading in the Latin is to be followed, repugnante fide omnium Græcorum Codicum, sed rectius.

CHAP. IX. VER. 1. The cure of the paralytic (ver. 2) is generally supposed to have been anterior, in point of time, to the cure of two possessed persons. Chap. viii. Carrieres supposes the contrary. V.—Into his own city. Not of Bethlehem, where he was born, nor of Nazareth, where he was brought up; but of Capharnaum, says S. Chrysostom, where he is said to have dwelt since he began to preach. See Matt. iv. 13. Wi.—S. Jerom understands this city to be Nazareth, which was Christ's own, because he was conceived there. S. Austin, S. Chrysos., Euthy., Theophylactus, think it was Capharnaum, because this miracle was performed at the last-mentioned place, according to S. Mark's relation; and S. Matthew calls it Christ's own city, because, after leaving Nazareth, he chose Capharnaum for the chief place of his abode. If S. Jerom's interpretation be admitted, we must suppose that S. Matthew, having told us that Christ came to his own city, Nazareth, and omitting to relate what happened there, passed immediately to the history of the cure of the paralytic, which took place at Capharnaum. Such omissions and change of place, without the reader's being informed of the transition, are not unfrequent in the evangelists. We must likewise observe that they frequently invert the order of facts, as to the time of their happening. Jansen.

VER. 2. Thy sins are forgiven thee. We do not find that the sick man asked this; but it was the much greater benefit, and which every one ought to prefer before the health of the body. Wi.—He says this, because he wished to declare the cause of the disease, and to remove it, before he removed the disease itself. He to the man sick of the palsy: Son, be of good heart, thy sins are forgiven thee.

3 And behold some of the scribes said within themselves: This man blasphemeth.

4 And Jesus seeing their thoughts, said: Why do you think evil in your hearts?

5 Which is easier to say, Thy sins are forgiven thee; or to say, Rise up, and walk?

6 But that you may know that the Son of man hath power on earth to forgive sins, then saith he to the man sick of the palsy: Rise up, take thy bed, and go into thy house.

7 And he rose up, and went into his house.

8 And the multitude seeing it, feared, and glorified God, who had given such power to men.

9 And when Jesus passed on from thence, he saw a a Mark ii. 14; Luke v. 27.—b Osce vi. 6; Infra, xii. 7.

might also desire to show the paralytic, what he ought to have prayed for in the first place. M.—The sick man begs for corporal health, but Christ first restores to him the health of his soul, for two reasons: first, that he might insinuate to the beholders, that the principal intent of his coming into the world was to cure the evils of the soul, and to let them know that the spiritual cure ought most to be desired and petitioned for. A second reason why Christ forgave the sick man his sins, was, that he might take occasion from the murmurs of the Pharisees, to speak more plainly of his power and Divinity, which he proved not only by restoring the man instantaneously to health, but by another miracle equally great and conclusive, which consisted in seeing their thoughts they had never expressed; for the evangelist observes, that they murmured in their hearts. He afterwards cures the sick man to show, says he, that the Son of man has power to forgive sins. Jansen.—We may here observe likewise, that when Christ afterwards gave his apostles their mission, and empowered them to preach to the whole world, he communicates this same power to them, and seems to refer to the miracles which he had wrought, to prove that he himself had the power which he gave them. All power, says he, is given to me in heaven and on earth. As the Father sent me, so I send you. . . . Whose sins you shall forgive, they are forgiven. A.—Seeing their faith. It does not follow from hence, as Calvin would have it, that faith alone will save us. For S. Chrysos. says, "Faith indeed is a great and salutary thing, and without it there is no gaining salvation." But this will not of itself suffice without good works; for S. Paul admonishes us, who have made ourselves deserving a participation of the mysteries of Christ, thus, (Heb. iv.) "Let us hasten, therefore, to enter into that rest." He tells us to hasten, that is, faith alone will not suffice, but we must also strive all our life by good works to render ourselves worthy to enter the kingdom of heaven: for if those Israelites, who murmured and would not bear the calamities of the desert, were not, on that account, permitted to enter the land of promise, how can we think ourselves worthy of the kingdom of heaven (figured by the land of promise) if we will not in this world undergo the labours of good works? S. Chrysos.—Son, &c. Oh the wonderful humility of the God-man! Jesus looks with complacency on this miserable wretch, whom the Jewish priests disdain to look upon, and in the midst of all his miseries calls him his son. S. Tho. Aquin.

VER. 3. This man blasphemeth, by pretending to have a power to forgive sins, which none but God can do; and they looked upon Jesus as a man only. It is true, and what all Catholics teach, that God alone hath power of himself to forgive sins. But Christ, who was both God and man, could, and did communicate this power of forgiving sins in his name, to bishops and priests, as his ministers and instruments in the sacraments of baptism and penance. We have Christ's clear words for it, (John xx. 23,) whose sins you shall forgive, they are forgiven them, &c. Wi.

VER. 4. Jesus seeing their thoughts. By showing that he knew their hidden thoughts, as well as by healing the man, to confirm his words and doctrine, he gave them a proof of his Divine power. Wi.—Had not our Saviour been truly God, and equal to his Father, he would have rebuked the Scribes, for attributing that to God only which he exercised. But so far from denying their assertion, he immediately admits the truth of it, and answers them by another no less wonderful act of his almighty power. He tells them publicly the evil they had thought in their hearts, whilst the Scriptures repeatedly affirm that God alone can know the secrets of men's hearts. Thou alone knowest the hearts of the children of men, 3 Kings viii. 39, and 2 Par. vi. 30. And man seeth those things that appear, but the Lord beholdeth the heart, 1 Kings xvi. 7. The searcher of reins and hearts is God, Psal. vii. 10. The heart is perverse above all things, and unsearchable. Who can know it? I am the Lord that search the heart and prove the reins, Jer. xvii. 9, and 10; and innumerable other texts of Scripture might be brought to prove that God only can know the minds and thoughts of men. Our Saviour, therefore, shows himself to be equal to his Father, by thus revealing to all the malicious murmurings of his enemies, who, for fear of the multitude, dared not to publish themselves what their wicked hearts devised. S. Chrys. Hom. 30.

VER. 5. The power of working miracles, and of forgiving sins, is proper to God, but can be communicated by God to man equally in the sacraments of baptism and penance. A.—Which is easier? It is more difficult to remit sins than to restore the health of the body. S. Austin remarks, (tract. 72 in Joannem,) it is more difficult to justify a man than to create the heavens and the earth; but man sitting in the custom-house, named Matthew: and he saith to him: Follow me. And he rose up, and followed him.

10 And it came to pass as he was at table in the house, behold many publicans and sinners came, and sat down with Jesus and his disciples.

11 And the Pharisees seeing it, said to his disciples. Why doth your master eat with publicans and sinners?

12 But Jesus hearing it, said: They that are in health need not a physician, but they that are sick.

13 Go then and learn what this meaneth: I will have mercy, and not sacrifice. For I am not come to call the just, but sinners.

14 Then came to him the disciples of John, saying: "Why do we, and the Pharisees fast often, but thy disciples do not fast?"

c 1 Tim. i. 15.—d Mark ii. 13; Luke v. 33.

Christ speaks thus, because the Pharisees might otherwise have said, that as he could not confer visible health upon the body, he had recourse to the invisible remission of sins, and that it was easy to grant in words, what no one could discern whether it was really granted or not. In this sense, therefore, the word, "Be thou healed," is more difficult than simply to say, "Thy sins are forgiven thee;" which any one could say, though he might not effect what his word implied. M.

VER. 6. But that you may know. Thus Christ proves that he had the power of remitting sins; as a falsity cannot be confirmed by a miracle, since in this case God would bear testimony to a falsity. M.—Take thy bed, &c. This doubtless was commanded him, to convince the whole world that this was no phantom, and to add still greater credibility to the fact, and he rose, &c.

VER. 8. Fearful, and glorified God. Here it may be observed, that the people, before they praised, feared God, for the fear of God is the beginning of wisdom. And S. Basil says, that fear, as a good guide, necessarily leads us to piety; and charity taking us, after having been exercised a little in fear, makes us perfect men. S. Basil.

VER. 9. Named Matthew. It is remarked by S. Jerom, that the other evangelists, out of respect to this apostle, did not call him Matthew, (the name he generally went by,) but Levi: whereas he, in his own Gospel, to show the goodness of God, who from a publican had made him an apostle, styles himself Matthew the publican. S. Thos. Aquin.—S. Austin. de Concor. Evan. It is most probable, says S. Austin, that S. Matthew does not mention what had happened to him before he began to follow Jesus; for it is supposed that this evangelist was called antecedent to the sermon on the mount; for S. Luke names the twelve that were chosen, and calls them apostles. S. Matthew mentions his vocation to the apostleship as one of the miracles that Jesus performed, for certainly it was a great miracle for a publican to become an apostle.—Rose up, and followed him. When we hear the voice of God calling us to virtue, we must not delay. The devil, says S. Basil, does not advise us to turn entirely from God, but only to put off our conversion to a future time. He steals away our present time, and gives us hopes of the future. But when that comes, he steals that also in the same manner; and thus by giving us present pleasure, he robs us of our whole life. S. Basil.

VER. 13. I am not come. The just appear to be mentioned ironically, as it is said in Genesis, Behold Adam is become as one of us: and, If I hunger, I will not tell thee, Psal. xlix. For S. Paul asserts, that none on the earth were just; all have sinned, and need the glory of God. Rom. iii. S. Chrys. Hom. 31.—Christ came to call all men, both just and unjust, since he called Nathanael, who was a just man. But the meaning of these words is, I came not to call you, Scribes and Pharisees, who esteem yourselves just, and despise others, and who think you have no need of a physician; but I came to call those who acknowledge themselves sinners. Theophylactus.—Or the meaning may be, I came not to call the just to penance, of which they have no need; thus in S. Luke, (chap. v.,) I came not to call the just, but sinners to repentance.—Mercy, and not sacrifice. Christ here prefers mercy to sacrifice; for, as S. Ambrose says, there is no virtue so becoming a Christian as mercy, but chiefly mercy to the poor. For if we give money to the poor, we at the same time give him life: if we clothe the naked, we adorn our souls with the robe of justice: if we receive the poor harbourless under our roof, we shall at the same time make friends with the saints in heaven, and shall afterwards be received by them into their eternal habitations. S. Ambrose.

VER. 14. Then came. When the Pharisees in the prior question had been discomfited. By S. Mark (xi. 18) we learn that the Pharisees joined with the disciples of the Baptist, and thus is reconciled what we read in S. Luke, (v. 33,) who only mentions the Pharisees. V.—Why do we, and the Pharisees fast? It is not without reason that the disciples of S. John should ask this question, fasting being always esteemed a great virtue, witness Moses and Elias; the fasts which Samuel made the people observe in Masphat, the tears, prayers, and fasting of Ezechias, of Judith, of Achab, of the Ninivites, of Anna, the wife of Helchana, of Daniel, of David, after he had fallen into the sin of adultery. Aaron, and the other priests, also fasted before they entered into the temple. Witness also the fasts of Anna the prophetess, of S. John the Baptist, of Christ himself, of Cratellus the centurion, &c., &c., &c. S. Jerom.

VER. 15. *Can the children of the bridegroom. This, by a Hebraism, sig-

15 And Jesus said to them: Can the children of the bridegroom mourn, as long as the bridegroom is with them? But the days will come, when the bridegroom shall be taken away from them, and then they shall fast.

16 And no man putteth a piece of new cloth to an old garment: for it taketh away what was whole from the garment, and the rent is made worse.

17 Neither do they put new wine into old bottles: otherwise the bottles break, and the wine runneth out, and the bottles are lost. But new wine they put into new bottles: and both are preserved.

18 While he was speaking these things to them, behold a certain ruler came, and adored him, saying: Lord, my daughter is just now dead: but come, lay thy hand upon her, and she shall live.

19 And Jesus rising up, followed him, with his disciples.

20 And behold a woman who was troubled with an issue of blood twelve years, came behind him, and touched the hem of his garment.

21 For she said within herself: If I shall but touch his garment, I shall be healed.

22 But Jesus turning about, and seeing her, said: Take courage, daughter, thy faith hath made thee whole. And the woman was made whole from that hour.

23 And when Jesus came into the house of the ruler, and saw the minstrels and the crowd making a rout, he said:

24 Give place: for the girl is not dead, but sleepeth. And they laughed at him.

* Mark v. 22; Luke viii. 41.—b Mark v. 25; Luke viii. 43.

nifies the friends or companions of the bridegroom, as a lover of peace is called a child of peace: he that deserves death, the son of death, &c. Wi.

VER. 16. A piece of new cloth. By the Greek is signified new-woven cloth, that has not yet passed the hands of the fuller. Wi.—And no one putteth, &c. Christ, by these similitudes, justifies the manner of life which he taught his disciples, which at first was adapted to their understandings; lest if, in the beginning, he had required them to fast contrary to what they had been accustomed, they might have been frightened at the austerity of his institute, and deserted him. He compares, therefore, his disciples to an old garment, and to old bottles; and an austere mode of life to new clothes and new wine. And he argues, that if we do not put new cloth to an old garment, because it tears the garment the more, nor put new wine into old bottles, because by its fermentation it would easily break them, so in like manner his disciples, who had been accustomed to a less rigid mode of life, were not at once to be initiated into an austere discipline, lest they should sink under the difficulty, and relinquish the pursuit of a more perfect life. M.

VER. 17. New wine into old bottles. These vessels were made of skins, or were leather bottles, in which wine used to be carried and kept. Wi.—They were made of goat-skins prepared and sowed together, as is common in Spain and other southern countries to this day. A.—They were to wait till they were renewed by the Holy Ghost, before they could enter with advantage on the hard ways of penance. V.

VER. 18. A certain ruler. Lit. a prince of a synagogue. He is called Jairus, Mark v.; Luke viii.—My daughter is just now dead: or, as the other evangelists express it, is at the point of death; and her father having left her dying, he might think and say she was already dead. Wi.—In effect, news was shortly after brought him that she was dead. It is thus that some commentators explain the apparent difference found in Mark v. 22, and Luke viii. 41.—But come, lay thy hand, &c. Let us admire and imitate the humility and kindness of our Redeemer; no sooner had he heard the request of the ruler, but rising up, he followed him. Though, says S. Chrysostom, he saw his earthly disposition, requesting him to come and lay his hand upon her.

VER. 20. And behold a woman. This woman, according to Eusebius, came from Cæsarea Philippi, who, in honour of her miraculous cure, afterwards erected a brazen monument, descriptive of this event, before the door of her house in Cæsarea Philippi. Euseb.

VER. 22. Επιστρέψας καὶ ἰδὼν, turning about and seeing, as if he were ignorant, and wished to see who it was that had touched him, as the other evangelists relate. In S. Mark (v. 29) we see she was cured on touching the garment; and Jesus only confirms the cure by what he says in verse 34.—But Jesus turning about. Our Divine Saviour, fearing lest he might alarm the woman by his words, says immediately to her, Be of good heart; and at the same time calls her his daughter, because her faith had rendered her such. S. Chrysos.

25 And when the crowd was turned out, he went in, and took her by the hand: and the girl arose.

26 And the fame hereof went abroad into all that country.

27 And as Jesus was departing from thence, there followed him two blind men, crying out, and saying: Son of David, have mercy on us.

28 And when he was come to the house, the blind men came to him. And Jesus saith to them: Do you believe that I can do this unto you? They say to him: Yea, Lord.

29 Then he touched their eyes, saying: According to your faith, be it done unto you.

30 And their eyes were opened: and Jesus strictly charged them, saying: See that no man know it.

31 But they going out, spread his fame abroad in all that country.

32 And when they were gone out, behold they brought to him a dumb man, possessed with a devil.

33 And the devil being cast out, the dumb man spoke, and the multitude wondered, saying: The like was never seen in Israel.

34 But the Pharisees said: He casteth out devils by the prince of the devils.

35 And Jesus went about all the cities, and towns, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness, and every disease.

36 And seeing the multitudes, he had compassion on them: because they were distressed, and lying as sheep having no shepherd.

* Infra, xii. 22; Luke xi. 14.—d Mark vi. 6.

VER. 23. And when Jesus . . . saw the minstrels. It was a custom among the Jews at funerals to hire persons to make some doleful music, and great lamentations. Wi.

VER. 24. The girl is not dead. Christ, by saying so, insinuated that she was not dead in such a manner as they imagined; that is, so as to remain dead, but presently to return to life, as if she had been only asleep. Wi.—But sleepeth. In the 11th chapter of S. John, Christ again calls death a sleep. Our friend Lazarus sleepeth. Thus he teaches us to be no longer in dread of death, since it was reduced to the condition of a sleep.

VER. 25. He took her by the hand; and as in his hands is the key both of life and death, (Apoc. i. 18,) so he commanded the soul to return and the girl to arise. A.

VER. 27. Son of David, have mercy on us. The blind men style our Saviour Son of David, to show the great respect they had for him. Thus the prophets also did, when they addressed those kings to whom they wished to testify particular respect and esteem. S. Chrysos. Hom. 33.

VER. 30. And Jesus strictly charged them. Although our Saviour strictly charged them to keep the miracle silent, they nevertheless published it throughout all that country; not being able to contain themselves, they became the evangelists and publishers of what they were commanded to conceal. Thus we are admonished not only to keep silent ourselves whatever is to our own commendation, but likewise to endeavour to hinder others from publishing it. On the other hand, whatever redounds to the glory of the Almighty, we must ourselves publish, and exhort others to make it known to the whole world. Therefore it is said, Go and relate the glory of God. S. Chrysos. Hom. 33.

VER. 34. By the prince of the devils. What more foolish ever entered the mind of man. Is it possible, as he afterwards says, that devils should be expelled by devils? They assist and strengthen, not weaken and destroy one another. S. Chrysos. Hom. 33.

VER. 36. He had compassion on them. The bowels of his compassion yearned to see multitudes cast down and oppressed, like sheep that are without a shepherd. The Pharisees indeed were their shepherds; but they acted the part of ravenous wolves, not only neglecting to lead the people to virtue, but even hindering, as much as they could, their advancement in good; for when the admiring multitude cried out, "Never did the like appear in Israel," they immediately decried it, saying, "By the prince of devils he casteth out devils." S. Chrysos. Hom. 33.

* V. 15. Filii sponsi, υἱοὶ τοῦ νυμφῶνος, so filius pacis, filius mortis, &c.

† V. 16. Πάντι ἰουδίσ, ἀνθρώπων.

‡ V. 17. In utero, εἰς ἀσκούς, uterus ex eorio.

§ V. 18. Modo defuncta est, ἀπὸ τελευτήσας. Mark v. 23. In extremis καὶ ἰσχυρῶς ἔχει, (Luke viii. 42,) moriebatur, ἀπέθνησκει.

37 Then he saith to his disciples :^a The harvest indeed is great, but the labourers are few.

38 Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he send forth labourers into his harvest.

CHAP. X.

Christ sends out his twelve apostles, with the power of miracles. The lessons he gives them.

AND^b when he had called his twelve disciples together, he gave them power over unclean spirits, to cast them out, and to heal all manner of diseases, and all manner of sicknesses.

2 Now the names of the twelve apostles are these : The first, Simon, who is called Peter, and Andrew, his brother.

3 James, the son of Zebedee, and John, his brother, Philip, and Bartholomew, Thomas, and Matthew, the publican, and James, the son of Alphaeus, and Thaddeus.

4 Simon Chananeus, and Judas Iscariot, who also betrayed him.

5 These twelve Jesus sent; and commanded them, saying : Go not into the way of the Gentiles, and into the cities of the Samaritans enter not :

6 But go rather^c to the lost sheep of the house of Israel.

7 And going, preach, saying : The kingdom of heaven is at hand.

^a Luke x. 2.—^b A. D. 32. Mark vi. 7, and 13; Luke ix. 1, and 6.

CHAP. X. VER. 1. Before this time the twelve were called disciples, and not apostles. But now he selects these from the disciples, and makes them, as it were, masters and interpreters of the ways of God to man. He sent afterwards seventy-two other disciples, (Luke x. 1,) but these twelve only to the whole world. A.—His twelve, &c. Christ chose twelve apostles, that they might correspond to the number of the Jewish patriarchs, by whom they may be said to have been pre-figured; and that as the whole Jewish people were descended according to the flesh from the twelve patriarchs, so the whole Christian people might be descended according to the spirit from the twelve apostles. M.

VER. 2. First, Simon.^a Simon was the first of the apostles, not in the time of his vocation, as his brother Andrew was called to the apostleship before him, but in dignity, inasmuch as he was constituted the vicar of Christ, and the head of the Church. M.—Who is called Peter. When he first came to our Saviour, (John i. 42,) he said, Thou art Simon, the son of Jonas, (or John,) thou shalt be called Peter; in Chaldaic, Cephus; that is to say, a rock, designing to make him the first fundamental stone or head of his whole Church. See also Matt. xvi. 18. Beza, without any grounds, would have the word first to be an addition. But it is found in all Greek MSS. as well as in the ancient Fathers. Wi.

VER. 3. James, the son of Zebedee, called James the greater, put to death by Herod. Acts xii. 2. He was brother to John the evangelist. The other James was called the less, also James of Alphaeus, and the brother of our Lord, bishop of Jerusalem, martyred there about the year 61. Wi.—Some take Bartholomew to be the same as Nathaniel. Bartholomew signifies son of Tholmew; and he might have been called Nathaniel, son of Tholmew. V.

VER. 5. Go not into the way of the Gentiles, or among the Gentiles. In this first mission, the apostles were ordered to preach to the Jews only, or to the children of the kingdom. Matt. viii. 12. See also Matt. xv. 24, and Acts xiii. 46. Wi.—These twelve Jesus sent. We must here take notice that this commandment, given by Christ to the apostles, of confining their preaching to the house of Israel, does not contradict one related in Matthew, (chap. xxviii.,) Go teach all nations, &c. We observe that these two commandments were given at two very different times; the first indeed, (the subject of our present annotation,) the apostles received before the resurrection of Christ; the other after. It was necessary first to warn the Jews of the arrival of the Messiah amongst them; otherwise they might have excused themselves for having rejected him, by saying, "He had sent his apostles to preach, not to them, but to the Gentiles and Samaritans." S. Jerom.

VER. 7. And going, &c. What the apostles were to preach, is the second thing to be taken notice of in their mission. We here learn what it is, viz. that The kingdom of heaven is at hand. We here behold the great dignity to which the apostles were raised, when sent to preach. For, says S. Chrysostom, they are not sent to announce sensible things, like Moses and the prophets, but something wholly new, and before unheard of. They are not, like the prophets, to confine themselves to the preaching of temporal things, their doctrine is wholly heavenly; they are sent to announce the good things of eternity. S. Thos. Aquin.

VER. 8. Heal the sick, &c. This verse contains the third observation respecting the mission of the apostles: Christ not only gave them power to preach, but also to work miracles, in order, says S. Gregory, that works might give force and efficacy to their words, that as their doctrine was new, so their works might be new, and such as were before unheard of. S. Jerom also says, men would never have given credit to the apostles, unlearned and illiterate as they were, had they not been able to work miracles in proof of the great promises they made to them

8 Heal the sick, raise the dead, cleanse the lepers, cast out devils: gratis you have received, gratis give.

9 "Do not possess gold, nor silver, nor money in your purses :

10 Nor scrip for your journey, nor two coats, nor shoes, nor a staff; for the workman is worthy of his meat.

11 And into whatsoever city or town you shall enter, inquire who in it is worthy : and there abide till you go thence.

12 And when you come into a house, salute it, saying : Peace be to this house.

13 And if that house be worthy, your peace shall come upon it : but if it be not worthy, your peace shall return to you.

14 And whosoever shall not receive you, nor hear your words : going forth out of that house, or city, shake off the dust from your feet.

15 Amen I say to you, it shall be more tolerable for the land of Sodom and Gomorrah in the day of judgment, than for that city.

16 "Behold I send you as sheep in the midst of wolves. Be ye therefore wise as serpents, and simple as doves.

17 But beware of men. For they will deliver you

^a Acts xlii. 46.—^b Mark vi. 8; Luke ix. 3, and x. 4.—^c Luke x. 3.

of heaven. It was necessary that the greatness of their works should confirm the greatness of their promises. S. Jerom.—Gratis you have received. Here our Saviour admonishes his apostles not to work for the sake of lucre; but having themselves received gratuitously the light of faith, they should in the same manner communicate it to others. S. Jerom.

VER. 10. Nor two coats, nor shoes; † i. e. provide not yourselves with another coat for a reserve, but go like poor people, who have but just what is necessary. They were not to wear shoes, but they were allowed sandals, or soles with tops tied to their feet. Mark vi. 9.—Nor a staff. So Luke, chap. ix. 3: yet S. Mark says, but a staff only. To reconcile these expressions, some distinguish betwixt a staff necessary to walk with (which even the poorest people had) and another staff for their defence, which at least they were not to seek for. And the meaning of these admonitions is, that they were to go on their mission, not regarding whether they had a staff or not, unless it were necessary for them to walk with. Wi.

VER. 11. And there abide, &c. That is, stay in the same house as long as you remain in the same city: remove not from house to house, as it is said, Luke x. 7, but be content with what you meet with. Wi.—Into whatsoever, &c. Lest the apostles should be induced to think, by what our Saviour had said in the preceding verse, viz. the workman is worthy, &c., that every door would be open for their entrance, he here tells them to inquire at their entry into any city, who amongst the inhabitants were worthy. S. Chrysostom, Hom. 33.

VER. 13. And if that house, &c., i. e. if it be worthy to receive your peace. In S. Luke (chap. x. 6) it is written, And if the son of peace be there: that is, a lover of peace, or one worthy of peace and prosperity. Thus a son of death means one deserving of death. M.—Your peace shall come upon it. If men will not hearken to your instructions, you have this comfort and peace of mind, that you have discharged your duty. Wi.

VER. 14. Shake off the dust from your feet. It was common enough with the Jews, or at least with the preachers and prophets, to use some extraordinary outward actions, to make what they said more taken notice of by the people, as here the shaking off the dust from their feet was to denote to the obstinate unbelievers, that the very dust which their feet had contracted, in coming to preach to them the gospel, should hereafter rise in judgment against them. Wi.

VER. 16. Wise as serpents, &c. It is a proverbial way of speaking; and an admonition to be circumspect and discreet, but harmless, innocent, sincere in all our actions and dealings. Wi.—Simple. That is, harmless, plain, sincere, and without guile. Ch.—In the midst of wolves. Although Christ sent his apostles not only against wolves, but even into the very midst of wolves, still he commands them to behave with the meekness of sheep and simplicity of doves. Thus he evinces the greatness of his power, in overcoming the wolves by the sheep, which were continually exposed to be devoured and torn in pieces by them, still never failing to change the fierce nature of the ravenous wolf into their own nature, in mildness and innocence. As long as we retain the nature of sheep, we easily overcome our adversaries; but no sooner are we changed into wolves, than we become the derision of our enemies: the supreme Pastor, who superintends the sheep, not the wolves, withdrawing from us the powerful protection of his grace, and leaving us to the misery of our own weakness.—As sheep, &c. He compares them to sheep, not only because of their innocence, but also because they were sent unarmed and destitute of all human support. M.—Wise, &c. That you may guard against the snares of your enemies. The prudence of the serpent is celebrated, because when it cannot escape, it strives at least to preserve its head free from hurt.

up in councils, and they will scourge you in their synagogues.

18 And you shall be brought before governors, and before kings, for my sake, for a testimony to them, and to the Gentiles.

19 But when they shall deliver you up, ^abe not thoughtful how or what to speak: for it shall be given you in that hour what to speak.

20 For it is not you that speak, but the spirit of your Father that speaketh in you.

21 The brother also shall deliver up the brother to death, and the father the son; and the children shall rise up against their parents, and shall put them to death.

22 And you shall be hated by all men for my name's sake: but he that shall persevere unto the end, he shall be saved.

23 And when they shall persecute you in this city, flee into another. Amen I say to you, you shall not finish all the cities of Israel, till the Son of man come.

24 ^bThe disciple is not above his master, nor the servant above his lord.

25 It is enough for the disciple that he be as his master, and the servant as his lord. If they have called the master of the house Beelzebub, how much more them of his household?

26 Therefore fear them not: ^cfor there is nothing hid, that shall not be revealed: nor secret that shall not be known.

27 That which I tell you in the dark, speak ye in the light: and that which you hear in the ear, preach ye upon the house-tops.

28 And fear not those that kill the body, and cannot kill the soul: but rather fear him that can destroy both soul and body in hell.

29 ^dAre not two sparrows sold for a farthing. and not one of them shall fall on the ground without your Father

30 But the very hairs of your head are all numbered.

31 Fear not therefore: you are of more value than many sparrows.

32 ^eWhosoever therefore shall confess me before men, I will also confess him before my Father, who is in heaven.

33 But whosoever shall deny me before men, I will also deny him before my Father, who is in heaven.

34 ^fDo not think that I am come to send peace upon earth: I came not to send peace, but the sword.

35 For I am come to set a man at variance against his father, and the daughter against her mother, and the daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law.

36 ^gAnd a man's enemies shall be they of his own household.

37 ^hHe that loveth father or mother more than me, is not worthy of me; and he that loveth son or daughter more than me, is not worthy of me.

38 ⁱAnd he that taketh not up his cross, and followeth me, is not worthy of me.

39 He that findeth his life shall lose it: ^jand he that shall lose his life for my sake, shall find it.

^a Luke xii. 11.—^b Luke vi. 40; John xiii. 16, and xv. 20.—^c Mark iv. 22; Luke viii. 17, and xii. 2.—^d 2 Kings xiv. 11; Acts xxvii. 35.

^e Mark viii. 38; Luke ix. 26, and xii. 8; 2 Tim. ii. 12.—^f Luke xii. 51.—^g Mic. vii. 6.—^h Luke xiv. 26.—ⁱ Infra, xvi. 24; Mark viii. 34; Luke xiv. 27.—^j Luke ix. 24, and xvii. 33.

whilst it leaves the rest of its body exposed. Thus Christians, who have Christ for their Head, must preserve his faith and religion, though with the loss of every thing else. M.

VER. 17. They will deliver you up in councils. Christ, in this and the following verse, warns his apostles of the many troubles and persecutions to which the preaching of the faith would expose them.

VER. 18. For a testimony to them, &c. That is, that by suffering with fortitude and constancy, you may bear testimony of me, as men must know, that it is not any vain thing for which they see you are prepared to die. Or the sense may be, that this may be for you a testimony against them in the day of judgment, and may render them inexcusable, since they will be unable to say that they have not heard the gospel. M.

VER. 19. Be not thoughtful, with too great a concern of mind. W.—That the apostles might not be discouraged at the description, which our Saviour gave them in the two preceding verses, of the troubles which they would have to sustain in their ministry, he now endeavours to console them. When you are called before councils, says he, do not think how or what to speak, for it shall be given you in that hour what to speak. A truly comfortable thought for all who should afterwards engage in the ministry of Christ. A.

VER. 22. He that shall persevere, &c. We are here told, that to be saved it is not sufficient that we were once virtuous, we must persevere to the end. We are also assured of the same truth in Ezechiel, If the just man shall turn away from his justice, and shall commit iniquity, he shall die in his sins, and his justices which he hath done shall not be remembered. Chap. iii. 20. A.

VER. 23. Flee into another. Tertullian, with some others, held it never lawful to fly in the time of persecutions, against both the doctrine and example of our Saviour, Christ.—You shall not finish, &c. S. Chrys. thinks the sense of these words is, you shall not go through, and have finished your preaching in all the cities of Israel, till I, who follow you, shall come, and join you again. Others expound it, till the coming of me, your Messiah, shall be published, and owned after my resurrection. W.

VER. 24. The disciple is not above, &c. If we therefore are disciples of Christ, we ought to embrace with joy opprobrious and evil language, willingly receive and bear with patience all those things which our noble Lord and Master underwent for us. S. Austin.

VER. 25. Beelzebub. In the Greek Beelzeboul. It was the name the Jews gave to the greatest of the devils, and also to the idol of Accaron. The word signifies the lord of flies; either because of the multitude of flies that were in the temple of that idol, or because the people used to sacrifice to this idol, when they were molested with flies. W.

VER. 26. For there is nothing hid, &c. Even in this life, for truth, however much oppressed, is yet accustomed at length to rise superior to oppression. What Christ therefore says here is, although the wicked persecute you, yet your virtue shall at length be known. M.

VER. 27. That which I tell you, &c. We must not suppose that our Saviour was accustomed to deliver his instructions to his apostles in the secret of the night, or teach them in private by whispers. But here he uses a figure of speech, to convey to the minds of his apostles the insignificance of Judea, where he was speaking, in comparison of the whole world, which they were to instruct; and the low whisper of his voice, compared to the sound which they shall send forth to the ends of the earth. S. Chrysos. Rom. 35.—Upon the house-tops. The tops of the houses in Palestine were flat, and the inhabitants were accustomed to assemble on them and discourse together in great numbers. To preach, therefore, on the top of a house, is the same as to preach where there is a great concourse of people. M.

VER. 28. Fear not those that, &c. Men are afraid of a prison, yet they are not afraid of hell fire. They fear temporal punishments, but dread not the torments of eternal fire. S. Austin in Baradius.—He who continually fears hell, will never fall into it; but he who is negligent, will undoubtedly fall. S. Chrys. in Baradius.

VER. 29. Are not two sparrows? The sense is, sparrows are of very small value, and yet Divine Providence defends and feeds them; how much more, therefore, will not God take care of you, who so far excel them? No one, therefore, will be able to rob you of life without God's permission. M.

VER. 34. I came not to send, &c. That is, dissension and war, in order that the false peace of sinners may be destroyed, and that those who follow me may differ in morals and affections from the followers of this world. The sword, therefore, is the gospel, which separates those parents who remain in infidelity. &c., &c., &c. M.—It must be observed, that the gospel does not necessarily of itself produce dissensions amongst men, but that Christ foresaw from the depravity of man's heart, that dissensions would follow the propagation of the gospel. A.

VER. 35. I am come to set a man at variance, &c. Not that this was the end or design of the coming of our Saviour; but that his coming and his doctrine would have this effect, by reason of the obstinate resistance that many would make, and of their persecuting all such as should adhere to him. Ch.

VER. 36. And a man's enemies, &c. He here alludes to our own passions of love, hatred, anger, envy, &c., which are our greatest enemies; and it is again these that we must make use of the sword our Saviour came to send amongst men. Baradius.

VER. 37. Is not worthy of me, &c. That is, is not worthy to be my disciple, and to enjoy my kingdom. M.

VER. 38. He that, &c. There are two kinds of crosses which our Saviour here commands us to take up; one corporal and the other spiritual. By the former, he commands us to restrain the unruly appetites of the touch, taste, sight, &c. By the other, which is far more worthy our notice, he teaches us to govern the affections of the mind, and restrain all its irregular motions, by humility, tranquillity, modesty, peace, &c. S. Austin.

VER. 39. He that findeth, &c. Behold the great losses that befall such 40 "He that receiveth you, receiveth me : and he that receiveth me, receiveth him that sent me.

41 He that receiveth a prophet in the name of a prophet, shall receive the reward of a prophet : and he that receiveth a just man in the name of a just man, shall receive the reward of a just man.

42 ^b And whosoever shall give to drink to one of these little ones, a cup of cold water only in the name of a disciple : Amen, I say to you, he shall not lose his reward.

CHAP. XI.

John sends his disciples to Christ, who upbraids the Jews with their incredulity, and calls to him such as are sensible of their burthens.

AND it came to pass, when Jesus had made an end of commanding his twelve disciples, that he passed from thence, to teach and preach in their cities.

2 "Now when John had heard, in prison, the works of Christ, sending two of his disciples, he said to him :

3 Art thou he that art to come, or do we look for another ?

4 And Jesus making answer, said to them : Go and relate to John what you have heard and seen.

5 "The blind see, the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead rise again, "the poor have the gospel preached to them.

6 And blessed is he that shall not be scandalized in me.

7 "And when they went their way, Jesus began to say

^a Luke x. 16 ; John xiii. 20.—^b Mark ix. 49.—^c Luke vii. 18.—^d Isa. xxxv. 5.

love their souls above measure ; and, on the contrary, the advantages that follow from hating them as they ought. S. Chrysos. Hom. 36.—That is, he that findeth in this life pleasures and comforts, and places his affections upon them, will certainly soon lose them. For Isaias says, (chap. xl. 6,) "All flesh is grass, and all the glory thereof as the flower of the field. The grass is withered, and the flower is fallen."

VER. 41. The reward of a prophet. That is, shall be partaker of the reward of a prophet, or shall receive the same reward as a prophet ; as, according to the law of David, (1 Kings xxx. 24,) he who descended to the battle, and he who remained with the baggage, shared equally. So Saul, whilst he kept the clothes of those who stoned Stephen, stoned him by the hands of them all, as S. Austin observes. M.

* V. 2. Primus Simon, πρῶτος Σίμων. See S. Jerom, S. Chrysostom, &c.

† V. 10. Neque virginam, ἡδὲ πόρνειον, and in divers MSS. both here and in S. Luke, ix. 3, μήτε πόρνειον, neque Virgas. But in S. Mark, (vi. 8,) nisi Virgam tantum, εἰ μὴ ῥάβδον μόνον, in all MSS.

CHAP. XI. VER. 2. The order of time is not here observed by the evangelist. S. John's deputation to Jesus Christ took place some time before ; and the text of the 7th chap. of S. Luke, gives it soon after the cure of the centurion's servant ; hence all that follows, in chap. xi. of S. Matthew, is placed by persons who have drawn up evangelical harmonies, immediately after the first 17 verses of chap. viii. A.

VER. 3. Art thou he that art to come ? * (Greek, who cometh ?) i. e. the Messias. John the Baptist had already, on several occasions, declared that Jesus was the Messias. John i. He could not then doubt of it himself, but sent his disciples to take away their doubt. Wi.—S. John the Baptist sent his disciples not to satisfy his own doubts, but for the sake of his disciples, who, blinded by the love they bore their master, and by some emulation, would not acknowledge Christ to be the Messias. S. Chrysos. in Baradius.—John does not here propose this question as ignorant of the real case, but in the same manner as Christ asked where Lazarus was laid. So John sends his disciples to Jesus, that seeing the signs and miracles he performed, they might believe in him. As long, therefore, as John remained with his disciples, he constantly exhorted them to follow Jesus ; but now that he is going to leave them, he is more earnest for their belief in him. S. Thos. Aquin.

VER. 4. Go and relate, &c. S. Luke here relates that Christ wrought more miracles when the disciples of S. John came than usual, by which he proved in a much stronger manner than he could have done by words, that he was the Messias. For the prophets only wrought miracles by invoking the name of God, whereas he did it by his own authority. S. Cyril.

VER. 5. The blind see, &c. † Christ shows them who he was by the miracles, which were foretold concerning the Messias.—The poor have the gospel preached to them. This is the sense held forth by the prophet Isaias, chap. lxi. 1. Wi.—That is, they are declared to have the kingdom of heaven, and are styled blessed. Here also he fulfils the prophecy of Isaias, (chap. lxi.) which in the Septuagint version is rendered, He sent me to preach the gospel to the poor. Nicolaus de Lyra to the multitude, concerning John ; What went you out into the desert to see ? a reed shaken with the wind ?

8 But what went you out to see ? a man clothed in soft garments ? Behold they that are clothed in soft garments, are in the houses of kings.

9 But what went you out to see ? a prophet ? yea, I tell you, and more than a prophet.

10 For this is he of whom it is written : "Behold I send my angel before thy face, who shall prepare thy way before thee.

11 Amen I say to you, there hath not risen among them that are born of women a greater than John the Baptist : yet he that is the lesser in the kingdom of Heaven is greater than he.

12 And from the days of John the Baptist until now, the kingdom of heaven suffereth violence, and the violent bear it away.

13 For all the prophets and the law prophesied until John :

14 And if you will receive it, "he is Elias that is to come.

15 He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

16 But whereunto shall I esteem this generation to be like ? It is like to children sitting in the market-place who cry out to their companions,

17 And say : We have piped to you, and you have

^e Isa. lxi. 1.—^f Luke vii. 24.—^g Mal. iii. 1 ; Mark i. 2 ; Luke vii. 27.—^h Mal. iv. 5.

VER. 6. Scandalized in me. That is, who shall not take occasion of scandal or offence from my humility, and the disgraceful death of the cross which I shall endure (Ch.) ; or on my account, that is, at the doctrine of the cross ; or when I shall die on an infamous cross. Wi.

VER. 8. Clothed in soft, &c. That the Baptist was not like the reeds, changeable by nature, the respect that the whole Jewish people paid him sufficiently evinced. Our Redeemer, therefore, proceeds to show that S. John was not changeable by his manner of life.

VER. 9. More than a prophet. John was a prophet, because he foretold the coming of Christ ; and he was more than a prophet, because he saw him, which was a privilege that none of the ancient prophets enjoyed ; and not only did he see him, but pointed him out, before he was acknowledged in that character. Again, he was more than a prophet, inasmuch as he was the precursor of the Messias, who even deigned to receive baptism at his hands. M.

VER. 11. He that is the lesser, &c. Maldonatus and Tolletus suppose the meaning to be, that he who is the least in sanctity in the Church of Christ is greater than John ; not that John did not excel in sanctity many, nay even most of the children of the Church of Christ, but that those who belong to the Church, on account of this circumstance of their being under the new law, which is the law of children, are greater than those under the old law, which was the law of bondsmen, as the least among the children is greater than the greatest among the bondsmen. Now John in this respect did not belong to the Church of Christ, as he was slain before Christ's death, before which time the gospel was not fully established. M.—There hath not risen . . . a greater, &c. This comparison, by what we find, Luke vii. 28, is only betwixt John and the ancient prophets, to signify that John was greater than any of the prophets, at least by his office of being the immediate precursor of the Messias. The comparison cannot be extended to Christ himself, who was both God and man, nor to his blessed Virgin Mother ; nor need we understand them of his apostles. Wi.

VER. 12. Suffereth violence, &c. It is not to be obtained but by main force, by using violence upon ourselves, by mortification and penance, and resisting our perverse inclinations. Ch.—The kingdom of heaven, &c. That is, the kingdom of heaven is to be obtained by mortification, penance, poverty, and those practices of austerity which John, both by word and example, pointed out.

VER. 13. All the prophets and the law prophesied until John : as if he had said, all they who prophesied before, foretold the coming of the Messias ; but now John points him out present with you, so that now all the types and figures of the ancient law will be fulfilled, and at an end. Wi.

VER. 14. He is Elias, &c. Not in person, but in spirit. Luke i. 1. Ch.—John is here styled Elias, not in the same manner as those who taught the transmigration of souls ; but the meaning is, that the precursor came in the spirit and virtue of Elias, and had the same fulness of the Holy Ghost. The Baptist is not undeservedly styled Elias, both for the austerity of his life, and for his sufferings. Elias upbraided Achab and Jezabel for their impieties, and was obliged to flee. John blamed the unlawful marriage of Herod and Herodias, and died for his virtue. S. Jerom, in S. Thos. Aquin.

VER. 17. We have piped. Christ, says S. Jerom on this place, was represented by the children that piped, or played on pipes, and S. John by those that not danced: we have lamented, and you have not mourned.

18 For John came neither eating nor drinking; and they say: He hath a devil.

19 The Son of man came eating and drinking, and they say: Behold a man that is a glutton and a wine-drinker, a friend of publicans and sinners. And wisdom is justified by her children.

20 Then he began to upbraid the cities, wherein were done the most of his mighty works, because they had not done penance.

21 *Woe to thee, Corozain, woe to thee, Bethsaida: for if in Tyre and Sidon the mighty works had been done that have been done in you, they would long ago have done penance in sackcloth and ashes.

22 But I say unto you, it shall be more tolerable for Tyre and Sidon in the day of judgment, than for you.

23 And thou, Capharnaum, shalt thou be exalted up to heaven? thou shalt go down even unto hell. For if the mighty works had been done in Sodom that have been done in thee, perhaps it would have remained until this day.

24 But I say unto you, that it shall be more tolerable for the land of Sodom in the day of judgment than for thee.

25 At that time Jesus answered, and said: I give thanks to thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent, and hast revealed them to little ones.

* Luke x. 13.—b John vi. 46; vii. 28; viii. 19, and x. 15.—c Jer. vi. 16.

mourned; because Christ refused not, upon occasions, to eat and converse with sinners. Wi.—We have lamented. This part is to be understood of S. John, who led a most austere life, and notwithstanding was despised by the Jews. S. Jerom, in S. Thos. Aquin.—Similar to this is the complaint of the Almighty, by the mouth of the prophet Isaiah: What is there that I should have done to my vineyard, and have not done it? Our Redeemer and the Baptist imitated skilful huntsmen, who make use of various and opposite stratagems, that if the nimble animal escape one, he may fall into another. If the Jews admired fasting and penance, whose words should have led them to the Son of God? If fasting appeared sorrowful and forbidding, why did they not join themselves to Jesus, who came eating and drinking, and compassionating their infirmities? which way soever they chose they might have arrived at salvation? S. Chrys. Hom. 38.

VER. 19. Came eating and drinking. Whereas John came living in the wilderness on locusts, wild honey, &c. Yet most part of the Jews neither regarded Christ nor S. John: nay, the Pharisees here (ver. 18) say of John, that he is possessed with a devil.—Wisdom is justified by her children. That is, by such as are truly wise; and the sense seems to be, that the Divine wisdom and providence hath been justified, i. e. approved, owned, and declared just and equitable by those that, being truly wise, have made good use of the favours and graces offered them at this time of their redemption, when others have remained obstinate in their blindness, and refused to believe in Christ. Wi.

VER. 21. Woe to thee, Corozain, &c. These four verses show us how dangerous it is to resist the Divine graces, and not to make good use of those favourable opportunities which the Divine Providence hath placed us in, of working our salvation and of improving ourselves in virtue and sanctity. Wi.—Sackcloth and ashes, &c. It was the custom for those who were in mourning, to be clothed with sackcloth, and sit in ashes. M.

VER. 23. If we compare this with Luke x. 15, it will appear that Jesus Christ twice made this reproach to these two impenitent cities. V.

VER. 25. Jesus answered, &c. lit. Jesus answering said; where we may take notice, that answering, in the style of the Scripture, is often put when it is no answer to any thing that was said before. Wi.—Because thou hast hid, &c. Jesus gives thanks to his heavenly Father, because he had revealed the secret of his coming to his disciples, who, according to the false opinion of men, are called children and fools, and had hid it from the Scribes and Pharisees, whom he in ridicule calls the wise and prudent. By this prayer, he also begs that his heavenly Father would complete what he had begun in his apostles. S. Jerom.—Christ does not rejoice that it was not revealed to the wise and prudent, but because it was revealed to his little ones. S. Thos. Aquin.

VER. 28. All you that, &c. That is, you who are wearied with the heavy load of your sins, and the grievous yoke of the old law. M.

VER. 29. Take up my yoke, &c. Fear not the yoke of Christ, for it is a yoke of the greatest sweetness. Be not disheartened when he mentions a burden, because it is a burden exceeding light. If then our Saviour says, that the way of virtue is exceeding narrow, and replete with difficulties and dangers, we must call 26 Yea, Father; for so hath it seemed good in thy sight.

27 All things are delivered to me by my Father. *And no one knoweth the Son, but the Father: neither doth any one know the Father, but the Son, and he to whom the Son will reveal him.

28 Come to me, all you that labour, and are heavy laden, and I will refresh you.

29 Take up my yoke upon you, and learn of me, because I am meek, and humble of heart: *and you shall find rest to your souls.

30 *For my yoke is sweet and my burthen light.

CHAP. XII.

Christ reproves the blindness of the Pharisees, and confutes their attributing his miracles to satan.

AT* that time Jesus went through the corn on the sabbath-day: and his disciples being hungry, began to pluck the ears of corn, and to eat.

2 And the Pharisees seeing them, said to him: Behold thy disciples do that which is not lawful to do on the sabbath-days.

3 But he said to them: Have you not read what David did when he was hungry, and they that were with him:

4 How he entered into the house of God, and did eat the loaves of proposition, which it was not lawful for him to eat, nor for them that were with him, *but for the priests only?

* John vi. 3.—* A. D. 31. Mark ii. 23; Luke vi. 1.—† 1 Kings xxi. 6.—‡ Lev. xxiv. 9.

to mind that it is so to the slothful only. Perform therefore with alacrity what is required, and then will all things be easy; the burden will be light, and the yoke sweet. S. Chrysos. Hom. 39.

VER. 30. For my yoke is sweet, &c. For though, in regard of our weak nature, it be ever so bad a yoke, yet the grace of God renders it easy and light, because our Lord himself helps us to bear it, according to that of the prophet Osee, (xi. 4.) I will be unto them as he that takes the yoke from off their heads.

* V. 3. Qui venturus es, ó ἐρχόμενος, qui venit, who cometh.

† V. 5. Pauperes evangelizantur, πτωχοὶ εὐαγγελίζονται. In the prophet Isaiah, εὐαγγελίζεσθαι πτωχοῖς ἐπέσταλέ με.

CHAP. XII. VER. 1. And his disciples being hungry. It is remarked by S. Jerom, that the Pharisees did not accuse the disciples of theft, but of a breach of the sabbath. S. Luke calls this sabbath, Sabbatum secundo primum, which is differently explained by interpreters. Ribeira, following S. Chrysostom and Theophilactus, thinks that every sabbath was so called, which followed immediately any feast. Maldonatus is of opinion that some particular sabbath is pointed out by this name, and conjectures that it was the sabbath of Pentecost, because it is the second of the great feasts, viz. the Passover, Pentecost, Scenopagia, or of the Tabernacles.—In the Greek, Sabbath is in the plural, and means the days of the sabbath or rest, which were a part of the feast. The three great feasts lasted a whole week each. They were all three called πῶτα, i. e. great, solemn feasts. The first was that of the Passover, with the seven days of unleavened bread, called πρωτόπρωτον, the first-first sabbath by excellence: the second was the great feast of Pentecost, δευτερόπρωτον, the second-first sabbath, (which seems to have been the feast meant by the evangelist in this place, as at this season the corn was ripe in Palestine,) and the third was the feast of tabernacles, τριτόπρωτον, the third-first great sabbath. Many, however, are of opinion, that by second-first sabbath is meant the octave day of the feast, which was ordered to be equally solemnized with the first day of the feast. Lev. xxiii. 36, 39, and Num. xxix. 35.

VER. 3. *What David, &c. Christ shows them that the law need not always be taken according to the bare letter.—Into the house of God; i. e. where the tabernacle was then kept: not into the temple, which at that time was not built.—Eat the loaves, &c. Christ speaks of those loaves which were ordered to be placed on a table within the tabernacle, and changed from time to time. This translation seems as literal as may be, and more intelligible than loaves of proposition, or show-bread. Wi.

VER. 4. How he entered, &c. The house of God was then at Nob. In S. Mark, the high priest is called Abiathar. See chap. ii. 26. To this difficulty some answer, that the father and son bore these two names, Achimelec and Abiathar. This they attempt to prove from 2 Kings viii. 19, and 1 Par. xxiv. 3. Others say that Abiathar, son of Achimelec, was present, and sanctioned the action of his father, thus making it his own. Others again contend that it ought to have been translated, in the chapter called Abiathar, instead of under Abiathar: for 5 Or have ye not read in the law, *how that on the sabbath-days the priests in the temple break the sabbath, and are without blame?

6 But I tell you that there is here a greater than the temple.

7 And if you knew what this meaneth: *I will have mercy, and not sacrifice: you would never have condemned the innocent.

8 For the Son of man is Lord even of the sabbath-day.

9 And when he was departed from thence, he came into the synagogue.

10 *And behold there was a man who had his hand withered, and they asked him, saying: Is it lawful to heal on the sabbath-days? that they might accuse him.

11 But he said to them: *What man shall there be among you, that hath one sheep: and if the same fall into a pit on the sabbath-day, will he not take hold on it and lift it up?

12 How much better is a man than a sheep? Therefore it is lawful to do a good deed on the sabbath-day.

13 Then he saith to the man: Stretch forth thy hand. And he stretched it forth, and it was restored to health like as the other.

14 And the Pharisees going out, made a consultation against him, how they might destroy him.

15 But Jesus knowing it, retired from thence: and many followed him, and he healed them all.

16 And he charged them that they should not make him known.

* Num. xxviii. 9.—b 1 Kings xv. 22; Eccles. iv. 17; Osee vi. 6; Supra, ix. 13. c Mark iii. 1; Luke vi. 6.

the Jews divided the Scripture into parts, and called them by the name of the most remarkable person or thing spoken of in them. Thus Romans, ii. 2. In Elias, means in the part called Elias.

VER. 5. Break the sabbath; i. e. they do that, which if the Divine worship did not require, would not be allowed on the sabbath, as the work they do, of its own nature, is servile.

VER. 7. Mercy, and not sacrifice. Osee vi. 6. The meaning of this is, if you then approve of the mercy of the high priest, who refreshed the famished fugitive David, why do you condemn my disciples? S. Jerom.

VER. 8. Lord . . . of the sabbath. He proves that he can dispense with the observations of the feast, because he is master of the feast. In S. Mark (ii. 27) it is written, the sabbath was made for man, and not man for the sabbath; i. e. man's salvation is to be preferred to the observation of the sabbath. M.—In the concurrence of two incompatible precepts, we must give the preference to that which is the end and object of the other; thus we must prefer the preservation of life to the observance of the sabbath. A.—This offering of the shew-bread before the Lord was a continual sacrifice, as the holy Fathers observe, and a figure of a more excellent kind of shew-bread, viz. Jesus Christ himself in the holy eucharist. A.

VER. 9. He came into the synagogue. This happened some days later, but again on a sabbath. M.

VER. 10. Is it lawful? His enemies perceiving in what manner he excused his disciples, have recourse to a fresh stratagem. S. Jerom.—By this question they did not seek learning or improvement, but merely an occasion to insnare Jesus Christ in his words. Jesus seeing their malice, avoids their captious question by proposing one to them, as we read in S. Mark. Is it lawful to do good or ill on the sabbath? As if he had said, whether is it better to assist your neighbour on a sabbath, or to abandon him in his distress, when you are able to afford him relief? Unable to give an answer, that would not be a justification of his actions, they remain silent; but he still presses the subject, by retorting their own actions upon themselves. They afforded relief to brute animals that stood in need of it on a sabbath. It was therefore cruelty, or mere malice, to cavil at his relieving the sick man on the sabbath. Jans.

VER. 13. Stretch forth. Our Saviour places the man that had the withered hand in the midst of the Jews, and looking round upon the multitude, (according to S. Mark,) he ordered him to stretch out his hand, that by these several ways he might excite the pity of the stiff-necked people; but no sooner had he performed this act of charity, than they, swelling with anger, went out, meditating destruction. So ruinous and pestiferous is the voice of envy! S. Chry. Hom. 41.—S. Matthew having mentioned this miracle, takes occasion to narrate others which Christ performed on his second return from Judea. We have frequently to mention that the particular tunc, then, and such like, do not always relate to what immediately goes before. A.

17 That the word might be fulfilled which was spoken by Isaias, the prophet, saying:

18 *Behold my servant whom I have chosen, my beloved in whom my soul hath been well pleased. I will put my spirit upon him, and he shall show judgment to the Gentiles.

19 He shall not contend, nor cry out, neither shall any man hear his voice in the streets.

20 The bruised reed he shall not break, and smoking flax he shall not extinguish: till he send forth judgment unto victory.

21 And in his name the Gentiles shall hope.

22 Then was brought unto him one possessed with a devil, blind and dumb: and he healed him, so that he both spoke and saw.

23 And all the multitude were amazed, and said: Is not this the Son of David?

24 *But the Pharisees hearing it, said: This man casteth not out devils, but by Beelzebub, the prince of the devils.

25 And Jesus knowing their thoughts, said to them. *Every kingdom divided against itself shall be made desolate: and every city or house divided against itself shall not stand.

26 And if satan cast out satan, he is divided against himself: how then shall his kingdom stand?

27 And if I by Beelzebub cast out devils, by whom do your children cast them out? Therefore they shall be your judges.

d Deut. xxii. 4.—e Isa. xlii. 1.—f Supra, ix. 34; Mark iii. 22; Luke xi. 15.
g Luke xi. 17.

VER. 18. Behold my servant, &c. The words are out of the prophet Isaias, chap. xli. 1. And it is observed that the Jews, before the coming of Jesus, used to expound them of their Messias. Wi.—There is some difference in the text of Isaias, whence this is taken. The apostles and evangelists did not confine themselves to cite the very words of the text, but only the sense. V.

VER. 19. He shall not contend. These words do not occur in the prophet, but are added by S. Matthew to express more fully the sense, because he offered himself up to the will of his heavenly Father, and delivered himself into the hands of those who persecuted him. Aquin.—Nor cry out; because, like a lamb in the hands of the shearer, he opened not his mouth.

VER. 20. The bruised reed. The prophet here shows the mildness of our Saviour, who, though he could have broken them like a reed, and as a bruised reed, yet would not do it; and though he could have easily extinguished their rage and anger, yet he bore with it for a while, with singular clemency, till he should send forth judgment unto victory, i. e. till justice shall have appeared triumphant, till Christ shall have fulfilled all things, and raised his most illustrious trophy: till the Gentiles shall have placed their confidence in his most adorable name, and the Jews have no plea, notwithstanding their unparalleled obduracy, to make in reply. S. Chrys. Hom. 41.—Judgment unto victory. The exposition, most conformable to the literal sense of the prophet, is, he will support the weak by his mildness, until it come to pass that his judgment, which he came to announce to the Gentiles, be led to victory, by his truth becoming universally triumphant over the world, and in his name all nations shall hope. Jansenius.

VER. 25. Every kingdom. Strong as a kingdom may appear, it is easily overturned by divisions; and lest it should be objected that ruin was brought upon it by a multiplicity of clashing affairs, it is added that cities and families share the same fate, if subject to similar divisions. S. Chrys. Hom. 42.

VER. 27. Your children, &c. Some, by their children, understand exorcists, that were among the Jews, that sometimes cast out devils; but it is more commonly taken for Christ's disciples and apostles, who were of the Jewish nation, to whom he had given power to cast out devils: as if he had said, If you allow them to cast out devils by Divine power, why do not you also believe this of me, their master? Wi.—S. Chrysostom says the apostles and disciples of Christ are here meant, for they had already cast out devils in virtue of the power conferred upon them by their Divine Master, without ever having it said of them, that in the prince of devils they cast out devils. Thus he shows that envy was the origin and cause of their persecuting spirit, and that not his actions but his person gave them such great umbrage. Hom. 42.—If Christ alludes here to their own exorcists, who drove out devils by the invocation of the adorable name of God, he confounds the unjust malice and prevention of the Pharisees; if to the apostles, he constitutes them his umpires. S. Thos. Aquin.

VER. 28. Kingdom of God. Christ either calls himself and his comings the kingdom of God, because it was the beginning of the kingdom of God, and laid 28 But if I by the Spirit of God cast out devils, then is the kingdom of God come unto you.

29 Or how can any one enter into the house of the strong man, and rifle his goods, unless he first bind the strong man? and then he will rifle his house.

30 He that is not with me, is against me: and he that gathereth not with me, scattereth.

31 *Therefore I say to you: Every sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven men, but the blasphemy against the Spirit shall not be forgiven.

32 And whosoever shall speak a word against the Son of man, it shall be forgiven him: but he that shall speak against the Holy Ghost, it shall not be forgiven him neither in this world, nor in the world to come.

33 Either make the tree good, and its fruit good: or make the tree evil, and its fruit evil: for by the fruit the tree is known.

34 O generation of vipers, how can you speak good things, whereas you are evil? for out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh.

35 A good man out of a good treasure bringeth forth good things: and an evil man out of an evil treasure bringeth forth evil things.

36 But I say unto you, that every idle word that men shall speak, they shall render an account for it in the day of judgment.

* Mark iii. 28, and 29; Luke xii. 10.—b Luke vi. 45.—c Infra, xvi. 4; Luke xi. 29; 1 Cor. i. 22.

open the way to us; or the sense may be, If I, as proved in an argument above, cast out devils by the Spirit of God, therefore what I, my apostles, and John preach, is true, viz. that the kingdom of God is at hand; because the Holy Ghost, who worketh miracles by us, proveth that our preaching is true. Mald.

VER. 29. How can any one enter; how can I drive satan from his possession? i. e. cast him out from the bodies of men, unless I am stronger than he, and first unarm him. Maldon.

VER. 30. He that is not with me. This sentence is not to be understood as directly spoken of heretics and schismatics, although at first sight it may appear so, but of the devil, who wishes to lead the souls of men captive, whilst Christ wishes to free them. He entices men to wickedness, Jesus Christ draws them to virtue: how therefore can the works of Christ be compared with those of satan! S. Jer.—There is no medium. We must either be with Christ, or against Christ: if we are not of Christ, whose then must we be, when nothing but sin can separate us from Christ and God? Oh, where will the generality of Christians, who show themselves so indifferent with regard to salvation, find themselves at the last day! Can they say they are with Christ?

VER. 31. The blasphemy against the Spirit, or against the Spirit and the Holy Ghost. S. Augustin takes notice, that this is one of the most difficult places in the Scriptures. According to the common exposition, here is not meant a sin committed by speaking directly against the third person of the blessed Trinity, the Holy Ghost, but that sin by which the obstinate Jews wilfully opposed Christ, and attributed those miracles to Beelzebub, which he performed by the Spirit of God, of which they could not be ignorant, but by a wilful blindness. Wi.—Now this kind of sin is usually accompanied with so much obstinacy, and such wilful opposing the Spirit of God, and the known truth, that men who are guilty of it, are seldom or ever converted; and therefore are never forgiven, because they will not repent. Otherwise there is no sin which God cannot or will not forgive to such as sincerely repent, and have recourse to the keys of the Church. Ch.—Therefore I say: this therefore is not referred to what immediately precedes, but to what is said in ver. 24. Maldon.

VER. 32. Whosoever, &c. It was their duty to have a knowledge of the Holy Ghost, and they obstinately refused to admit what was clear and manifest. Though they were ignorant of the Divinity of Jesus Christ, and might take him to be merely the son of a poor artisan, they could not be ignorant that the expelling of demons, and miraculous healing of all diseases, were the works of the Holy Ghost. If, therefore, they refused to do penance for the insult offered to the Spirit of God, in the person of Christ, they could not hope to escape condign punishment. Chrys. Hom. 42.—Against the Son of man, it shall be forgiven him; i. e. they who, for want of sufficient instruction, were invincibly ignorant that Christ was God, might more easily be brought to the true knowledge and faith of Christ, and so receive a forgiveness of their sins: but if he that shall speak against the Holy Ghost, i. e. against the Spirit of God in Christ, and shall oppose the known truth, by attributing to the devil that doctrine, and those miracles, which evidently were from the Spirit and the hand of God, that sin shall never be forgiven him. But how is this consistent with the Catholic doctrine and belief, that there is no sin any man commits of which he may not find pardon in this life! To this I answer, that in what man-

37 For by thy words thou shalt be justified, and by thy words thou shalt be condemned.

38 Then some of the Scribes and Pharisees answered him, saying: Master, we would see a sign from thee.

39 But he answering, said to them: An evil and adulterous generation seeketh for a sign: and a sign shall not be given it, but the sign of Jonas, the prophet.

40 For as Jonas was in the whale's belly three days and three nights; so shall the Son of man be in the heart of the earth three days and three nights.

41 *The men of Ninive shall rise in judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: because they did penance at the preaching of Jonas. And behold a greater than Jonas is here.

42 The queen of the south shall rise in judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: because she came from the ends of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon, and behold a greater than Solomon is here.

43 *And when an unclean spirit is gone out of a man, he walketh through dry places, seeketh rest, and findeth none.

44 Then he saith: I will return into my house from whence I came out. And coming he findeth it empty, swept, and garnished.

45 Then he goeth, and taketh with him seven other spirits more wicked than himself, and they enter in and d Jonas iv. 1.—e Jonas iii. 5.—f 3 Kings x. 1; 2 Par. ix. 1. g Luke xi. 24.

ner soever we expound this place, it is an undoubted point of Christian faith, that there is no sin which our merciful God is not ready to pardon; no sin for the remission of which God hath not left a power in his Church, as it is clearly proved by those words, Whose sins you shall forgive, they are forgiven them, &c. S. Chrys. therefore expounds these words, shall not be forgiven them, to imply no more, than shall scarcely, or seldom be forgiven; that is, it is very hard for such sinners to return to God, by a true and sincere repentance and conversion: so that this sentence is like to that (Matt. xix. 26) where Christ seems to call it an impossible thing for a rich man to be saved. In the same place S. Chrys. tells us, that some of those who had blasphemed against the Holy Ghost, repented, and had their sins forgiven them. S. Augustin, by this blasphemy against the Spirit, understands the sin of final impenitence, by which an obstinate sinner refuseth to be converted, and therefore lives and dies hardened in his sins. Wi.—Nor in the world to come. From these words S. Augustin (De Civ. l. xxi. c. 13) and S. Gregory (Dial. iv. c. 39) gather, that some sins may be remitted in the world to come; and consequently that there is a purgatory, or a middle place. Ch.—S. Aug. says these words would not be true, if some sins were not forgiven in the world to come: and S. Gregory says, we are to believe from these words in the existence of the fire of purgatory, to expiate our smaller offences, before the day of judgment. S. Isidore and Ven. Bede say the same. S. Bernard, speaking of heretics, says, they do not believe in purgatory: let them then inquire of our Saviour, what he meant by these words. A.

VER. 33. Either make the tree good, &c. This is connected with what had been said of their attributing his works to Beelzebub. He condemns them for blaspheming him on all occasions, when at the same time they were not able to find fault with his life and doctrine. Wi.

VER. 36. That every idle word. By idle words, S. Jerom, &c. expound words that are neither profitable to the speaker nor the hearer; but S. Chrys. says, false and abusive language. Wi.—This shows there must be a place of temporal punishment hereafter, where these slighter faults shall be punished. Ch.

VER. 39. Sign of Jonas. I will give no other sign than my death and resurrection, as then, though unwillingly, they will acknowledge me, and people will believe and be converted. M.

VER. 40. In the whale's belly. The word signifies a great fish, and was not perhaps that which we commonly call a whale. In the prophet Jonas it is called a great fish.—Three days and three nights; not three whole days and three nights, but part of three natural days, from which, in common computation, the nights used not to be separated. We have an instance of this, Esther iv. 16, where the Jews were ordered to fast with her three days and three nights: and yet (chap. v. 1) Esther, after part of three days, went to the king.—In the heart of the earth; by which is signified, Christ's descent into hell; as S. Paul says, (Ephes. iv. 9.) that he descended into the inferior parts of the earth, and this cannot be understood of the grave only. Wi.

VER. 42. Queen of Saba, a province of Arabia, situate to the south of Judea 3 Kings x. 1, and seq.

VER. 45. Seven is taken frequently, in Scripture, for an indefinite number for several. V.

dwell there :^a and the last state of that man is made worse than the first. So shall it be also to this wicked generation.

46 ^bAs he was yet speaking to the multitudes, behold his mother and his brethren stood without, seeking to speak to him.

47 And one said to him : Behold thy mother and thy brethren stand without, seeking thee.

48 But he, answering him that told him, said : Who is my mother, and who are my brethren ?

49 And stretching forth his hand towards his disciples, he said : Behold my mother and my brethren.

50 For whosoever shall do the will of my Father, who is in heaven, he is my brother, and sister, and mother.

CHAP. XIII.

The parables of the sower of the cockle : of the mustard seed, &c.

THE same day Jesus going out of the house, sat by the sea-side.

2 ^cAnd great multitudes were gathered together unto him, so that he went into a ship and sat : and all the multitudes stood on the shore.

3 And he spoke to them many things in parables, saying : Behold the sower went forth to sow ;

^a 2 Pet. ii. 20.—^b Mark iii. 31 ; Luke viii. 19.

VER. 46. His mother and his brethren ; i. e. his mother and relations. Wi.—See ver. 55 of the next chapter. Ch.

* V. 3. Panes Propositionis, τούς ἀρούρας τῆς προθέσεως. They are also elsewhere called, panes faciales, ἀρούρας ἐνοπίους, (Deut. xxv. 30,) and faciei, τοῦ προσώπου. 2 Esd. x. 33.

† V. 31. Spiritus blasphemia, ἡ δὲ τοῦ Πνεύματος βλασφημία. S. Aug. (Serm. 71, de verbis Evang. Matt. c. 5, p. 388, tom. 5) says of this place : Fortē in omnibus Scripturis Sanctis, nulla major quæstio, nulla difficilior. And again, (c. 12, pag. 394,) he gives this interpretation : ipsa ergo impenitentia, est Spiritus blasphemia. See also S. Jerom on this place. S. Chrysostom's exposition is more easy, when he thinks the sense is, that such a sin shall scarcely be forgiven. ὑπὲρ πάντα αὐτῇ ἡ ἀμαρτία ἀσγγνωστός. ὁμ. μα. p. 274.

‡ V. 36. De omni verbo otioso, πᾶν ῥῆμα ἀργόν. Some MSS. have πονηρόν. S. Jerom says, Otiosum verbum est, quod sine utilitate et loquentis dicitur, et audientis. In like manner, S. Greg. Hom. 6, in Evang., S. Bern., &c. But S. Chrys. adds, τὸ ψευδές, τὸ συκοφαντικόν.

§ V. 40. In ventre Ceti, τοῦ κήτους. By Cete, is signified any very great fish, and so it is said in the prophet Jonas to have been, piscem grandem.

CHAP. XIII. VER. 1. On the same day Jesus left the house in which he had performed the miracle, and delivered the preceding discourse, and sat himself down on the shore of the sea of Galilee, where multitudes crowded unto him.

VER. 3. To them he spoke many things, from a ship, in parables ; probably many more than are here recorded. By familiar and well-known objects, Jesus Christ would thus convey more pleasingly his Divine instructions, and teach them to spiritualize their daily labours, and by things natural, which meet the senses, led them to the knowledge of things Divine, which we cannot naturally comprehend. A.—In his sermon on the mount, Jesus Christ does not make use of parables to convey his instructions to the Jews, for then his auditors were composed of a mixed multitude, and the major part of them illiterate people ; but here, on the contrary, they are the Scribes and Pharisees, the doctors of the law. Chrys.—Jesus Christ speaks sometimes in plain, and sometimes in obscure terms, that, by what they understand, they may be led to the search of what they do not understand. S. Jerom.

VER. 4. And whilst he soweth. S. Matthew and S. Mark subjoin the following parables to what goes before, but S. Luke places the parable of the sower immediately after the second journey through Galilee, which he anticipates. Jesus Christ successively proposed four parables to the people, and then dismissed them ; and being now retired with his disciples, he unfolded to them the meaning of the parables when in the house. Ver. 36. S. Matthew, however, interrupts the course of the parables, and after the first, anticipates the request of the disciples to have it explained ; but from S. Mark we learn that this did not take place till Christ was alone in the house.

VER. 5. Had no deepness of earth ; and therefore the seed, not able to shoot do-wards, shot upwards, and for want of necessary moisture and nutriment, was burned by the scorching heat of the sun.

VER. 8. Some a hundred-fold. This difference of fruits is the difference of merits here, and of rewards hereafter, according to the diversity of states, &c.

VER. 9. He that hath ears to hear. By these words we are exhorted to examine the meaning of the parables. S. Jer. See chap. xi. 15. We are also taught that not all, but only such as have had the sense of the Scriptures opened to their

4 And whilst he soweth, some fell by the way side, and the birds of the air came and eat them up.

5 And other some fell upon stony ground, where they had not much earth : and they sprung up immediately, because they had no deepness of earth.

6 And when the sun was up, they were scorched : and because they had not root, they withered away.

7 And others fell among thorns : and the thorns grew up and choked them.

8 And others fell upon good ground : and they brought forth fruit, some a hundred-fold, some sixty-fold, and some thirty-fold.

9 He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

10 And his disciples came and said to him : Why speakest thou to them in parables ?

11 He answered and said to them : Because to you it is given to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven : but to them it is not given.

12 ^dFor he that hath, to him shall be given, but he that hath not, from him shall be taken away even that which he hath.

13 Therefore do I speak to them in parables : because seeing they see not, and hearing they hear not, neither do they understand.

^a A. D. 31. Mark iv. 1 : Luke viii. 4.—^d Infra, xxv. 29.

understanding from above, can properly understand them. The apostles themselves were in ignorance till Jesus Christ gave them the true meaning : aperuit illis sensum, ut intelligerent Scripturas : "he opened their understanding, that they might understand the Scriptures." S. Luke xxiv. 45. It is God who speaketh in the Scripture, and it is God who giveth us to understand what is therein delivered. His truths he conceals from the proud, while he reveals them to the little and humble. How can any persons pretend that the most mysterious, as well as the most sacred book in the world, is open to every understanding ?

VER. 10. And his disciples came. How great was the concern of the apostles for the welfare of their countrymen ! They did not say to Jesus, Why speakest thou thus to us ; but, Why speakest thou to them in parables ? S. Thos. Aquin.

VER. 11. To you it is given. The mysteries of the kingdom of God are not disclosed to the Scribes and Pharisees, who were unwilling to believe in him, (though it was the duty and occupation of the Scribes to expound the sacred oracles to others,) but to those who adhered closely to Christ, and believed in him : let us therefore run in company with the apostles to Jesus Christ, that he may disclose to us the mysteries of his gospel. S. Thos. Aquin.—Can we then suppose, for a single moment, that the mere putting of a Bible into every man's hand will convert the world. The command given to the apostles and their successors in the ministry is, Go ye, therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, &c., teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you. And lo, I am with you all days, even to the end of the world. S. Matt. xxviii. 20. There is not a single word to them about writing. For more than 400 years after Jesus Christ, the canon of Scripture, as now generally received by Protestants, remained unsettled. Wi.

VER. 12. But he that hath not, from him shall be taken away, even that which he hath. We read again, (Matt. xxv. 29,) That also which he seemeth to have, shall be taken away ; and in S. Luke, (chap. viii. 18,) That also which he thinketh he hath. One passage helps to expound another : so that each of those texts, with a little reflection, will be found true ; and such a truth, as ought to be a subject of fear and apprehension to all that are negligent and indolent in the service of God. For, as S. Augustin observes, they who have received graces and favours from God, and have not made good use and profited by them, they may be said not to have them, although they are not yet taken from them. And why ? but because they make no more use of them than if they had them not. See the parables of the talents, Matt. xxv., and Luke xix. Wi.

VER. 13. Because seeing they see not, &c., i. e. they see not as they might, and ought to do, by shutting their eyes against the lights given them.—Therefore do I speak to them in parables : because seeing they see not, &c. This passage, by which the prophet Isaias (vi. 9) was ordered to foretell the obstinate blindness of the Jews, in refusing to receive and believe in their Messiah, is cited six times in the New Testament ; to wit, here in S. Matthew, also Mark iv. 14 ; Luke viii. 10 ; John xii. 40 ; Acts xxviii. 26 ; and Rom. xi. 8. In all these places we must detect the false interpretation of those who, not without heresy and blasphemy, would have God to be the author and cause of sin. When it is said, (Isa. vi. 9,) Blind the heart of this people, &c., the prophet is only commanded to foretell their blindness, of which, by their wilful obstinacy, they were the true cause. And when we read in S. Mark, that to those that are without, all things are done in parables, that seeing they may see, and not see, &c., the word that does not signify the cause, nor the end, but only the event, and the consequence of what would happen by the wilful blindness of the Jews, and by the just permission of God. S. Matthew here expounds to us the words of the prophet, by which it clearly appears that 14 And the prophecy of Isaias is fulfilled in them, who saith: *By hearing you shall hear, and shall not understand: and seeing you shall see, and shall not perceive.

15 For the heart of this people is grown gross, and with their ears they have been dull of hearing, and their eyes they have shut: lest at any time they should see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and understand with their heart, and should be converted, and I should heal them.

16 But blessed are your eyes, because they see, and your ears, because they hear.

17 *For, amen I say to you, many prophets and just men have desired to see the things that you see, and have not seen them: and to hear the things that you hear, and have not heard them.

18 Hear you therefore the parable of the sower.

19 When any one heareth the word of the kingdom, and understandeth it not, there cometh the wicked one, and catcheth away that which was sown in his heart: this is he that received the seed by the way side.

20 And he who received the seed upon stony ground, is he that heareth the word, and immediately receiveth it with joy.

21 Yet hath he not root in himself, but is only for a time: and when there arise tribulation and persecution because of the word, he is presently scandalized.

22 And he who received the seed among the thorns, is he that heareth the word, and the care of this world and the deceitfulness of riches choke up the word, and he becometh fruitless.

23 But he who received the seed into good ground, is he that heareth the word, and understandeth and beareth fruit, and yieldeth one a hundred-fold, and another sixty, and another thirty.

24 *Another parable he proposed to them, saying:

* Isa. vi. 9; Mark iv. 12; Luke viii. 10; John xii. 40; Acts xxviii. 26; Rom. xi. 8.—b Luke x. 24.

they were the cause of their own blindness; and that, by their obstinacy, they had made themselves unworthy of particular lights from God. For the heart of this people (ver. 15) is grown gross . . . and their eyes they have shut, &c. The Jews therefore shut their own eyes, hardened their own hearts, which God only permitted. See Rom. ix. 18, &c. Wi.

VER. 15. And should be converted. In this the prophet shews the atrocity of the Jewish wickedness, and the malice of their hearts, but that he may attach them to God, their Father, he immediately subjoins, lest being converted, I should heal them; and this he says in order to manifest to them the goodness of God, if they would repent. S. Chrys. ex D. Tho.

VER. 16. But blessed are your eyes. As the eyes of such as see and will not believe are miserable, so, he says, blessed are your eyes; you see my miracles, you hear my heavenly doctrines, &c. Aquin.—Had we not read in a preceding part, that Christ exhorted his auditors to search after the knowledge of his words, we might perhaps have thought that Jesus here spoke of corporal eyes and ears; but the eyes here mentioned seem to me to be those which can discern the mysteries of Christ. S. Jer. ex D. Thom. Aquin.

VER. 17. Amen, I say to you. S. Jerom remarks, that these words of our Saviour seem to contradict another part of Scripture, where it is said, Abraham desired to see my days; he saw them, and rejoiced. But S. Jerom answers his own objection thus: Abraham indeed saw my days, but only in a dark manner, in enigma, but not in reality, whilst you have your Lord with you; you speak to him, and interrogate him at pleasure. Aquin.—Christ declares his disciples more blessed than the ancient patriarchs and prophets. . . . They saw him only by faith, but the disciples with their corporal eyes. S. Chrys.

VER. 19. When any one heareth. This seed falleth upon four different kinds of soil, which represent four different sorts of persons. The 1st, such as continue obdurate in vice; the 2nd, such as are unsteady and inconstant in their good resolutions; the 3rd, such as are absorbed in the cares and pleasures of life; the 4th, such as have every proper disposition for receiving the word of God with fruit. —There cometh the wicked one, ὁ πονηρὸς, the devil, and taketh away the word that was sown in their hearts, lest believing they should be saved. A.

VER. 21. And suffers shipwreck in his faith. Maldon.

VER. 24. Another parable he proposed. As in the preceding parable our Lord spoke of those who did not receive the word, so in this he speaks of those

The kingdom of heaven is likened to a man that sowed good seed in his field.

25 But while men were asleep, his enemy came and oversowed cockle among the wheat, and went his way.

26 And when the blade was sprung up, and brought forth fruit, then appeared also the cockle.

27 Then the servants of the master of the house came and said to him: Master, didst thou not sow good seed in thy field? from whence then hath it cockle?

28 And he said to them: An enemy hath done this. And the servants said to him: Wilt thou that we go and gather it up?

29 And he said: No, lest while ye gather up the cockle, you root up the wheat also together with it.

30 Let both grow until the harvest, and in the time of the harvest I will say to the reapers: Gather up first the cockle, and bind it into bundles to burn, but gather the wheat into my barn.

31 *Another parable he proposed to them, saying: The kingdom of heaven is like to a grain of mustard seed, which a man took and sowed in his field.

32 Which indeed is the least of all seeds: but when it is grown up, it is greater than any herbs, and becometh a tree, so that the birds of the air come, and dwell in the branches thereof.

33 Another parable he spoke to them: *The kingdom of heaven is like to leaven, which a woman took and hid in three measures of meal, until the whole was leavened.

34 All these things Jesus spoke in parables to the multitudes: and without parables he did not speak to them.

35 That the word might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying: *I will open my mouth in parables, I will utter things hidden from the foundation of the world.

* Mark iv. 26.—d Mark iv. 31; Luke xiii. 19.—e Luke xiii. 21.—f Psal. lxxvii. 2.

who receive the corrupted word; for it is a diabolical machination to confound error with truth. S. Chrys. ex D. Tho.—There are three things worthy of observation in this parable. 1st, That the Church of God on earth consists of both good and bad; the 2nd, That God is not the author of evil; the 3rd, That God does not always punish the wicked on the spot, but patiently bears with them. M.

VER. 25. Were asleep. When the superiors or pastors of the Church were lulled asleep or negligent, or when the apostles were dead, as S. Augustin expounds it, the devil spread the tares of error and sin amongst a great number of Christians. These falling from the state of grace, or becoming heretics, are yet mingled with the rest of the faithful in the same outward profession of Christianity, not unlike the good corn and cockle in the same field.

VER. 29. No, lest, &c. The prayers of repenting sinners are never despised. We are taught also by this example not to cut off too hastily a fallen brother; for, whatever he may be to-day, to-morrow perhaps he may see his error and embrace the truth. S. Jerom.—Jesus Christ exhorts us to bear with infidels and heretics, not on our own account only, as wicked men are frequently of use to the virtuous, but also on their account; for sometimes the persons who have been corrupted and perverted, will return to the paths of virtue and truth. Let, therefore, both grow until the harvest, i. e. to the day of judgment, when the power of rectifying another's error shall be no more. S. Aug. ex D. Tho.—S. Augustin affirms that no one should be compelled by force to an unity of religious tenets: such as dissent from us must be persuaded by words, overcome by argumentation, and convinced by reason. S. Thos. Aquin.

VER. 32. The least of all seeds. That is, it is one of the least seeds; but in hot countries it is observed to grow to a considerable height, and to become a bush or a little tree. Wi.

VER. 33. In three measures. Sata, the word here used, was a particular Hebrew measure, which corresponds not to any particular measure that we make use of, and therefore I have put measures, as it is in other English translations. See Walton de Ponderibus et Mensuris, before his first tome, p. 42. Wi.—It was the Seah of the Jews, the third part of the Epha, and contained about ten pints, and appears to be the ordinary quantity they baked at a time. V.—By the woman here mentioned, S. Jerom understands the Church gathered from all nations; or the power and wisdom of God, according to S. Augustin.

VER. 35. By the prophet. It is taken from Psal. lxxvii. 2.

36 *Then having sent away the multitudes, he came into the house, and his disciples came to him, saying: Explain to us the parable of the cockle of the field.

37 He made answer, and said to them: He that soweth good seed, is the Son of man.

38 And the field is the world. And the good seed are the children of the kingdom. And the cockle are the children of the wicked one.

39 And the enemy that sowed them, is the devil. But the harvest is the end of the world. And the reapers are the angels.

40 Even as cockle therefore is gathered up, and burnt with fire, so shall it be at the end of the world.

41 The Son of man shall send his angels, and they shall gather out of his kingdom all scandals, and them that work iniquity.

42 And shall cast them into the furnace of fire: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

43 *Then shall the just shine as the sun, in the kingdom of their Father. He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

44 The kingdom of heaven is like unto a treasure hid-den in a field: which, when a man hath found, he hideth, and for joy thereof goeth, and selleth all that he hath, and buyeth that field.

45 Again, the kingdom of heaven is like to a merchant seeking good pearls.

46 Who when he had found one pearl of great price, went his way, and sold all that he had, and bought it.

47 Again, the kingdom of heaven is like to a net cast into the sea, and gathering together of all kind of fishes.

48 Which, when it was filled, they drew out, and sitting by the shore they chose out the good into vessels, but the bad they cast forth.

49 So shall it be at the end of the world, the angels shall go out, and shall separate the wicked from among the just,

50 And shall cast them into the furnace of fire: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

51 Have ye understood all these things? They say to him: Yea.

52 He said unto them: Therefore every scribe instructed in the kingdom of heaven, is like to a master of a house, who bringeth forth out of his treasure new things and old.

53 And it came to pass, when Jesus had finished these parables, he departed from thence.

54 *And coming into his own country, he taught them in their synagogues, so that they wondered, and said: How came this man by this wisdom, and these mighty works?

55 *Is not this the carpenter's son? Is not his mother called Mary; and his brethren James, and Joseph, and Simon, and Jude?

56 And his sisters, are they not all with us? Whence then hath he all these things?

57 And they were scandalized in his regard. But Jesus said to them: A prophet is not without honour, save in his own country, and in his own house.

58 And he wrought not many miracles there, because of their unbelief.

CHAP. XIV.

Herod puts John to death. Christ feeds five thousand in the desert. He walks upon the sea, and heals all the diseased with the touch of his garment.

AT that time Herod, the tetrarch, heard of the fame of Jesus:

2 And he said to his servants: This is John the Baptist: he is risen from the dead, and therefore mighty works show forth themselves in him.

3 *For Herod had apprehended John, and bound him and put him in prison, because of Herodias, his brother's wife.

4 For John said to him: It is not lawful for thee to have her.

* Mark iv. 34.—b Apoc. xiv. 15.—c Wisd. iii. 7; Dan. xii. 3.—d Mark vi. 1; Luke iv. 16.

VER. 44. Like unto a treasure. This hidden treasure is the gospel of Christ, which conducts to the kingdom of heaven. Thus he who, by the knowledge which the gospel affords, has found the kingdom of heaven, should purchase it at the expense of every thing most near and dear to him: he cannot pay too great a price for his purchase.

VER. 52. Every scribe; i. e. master, or teacher. Wi.—Because you know how invaluable is the treasure, the pearl, the kingdom, here mentioned; you, who are scribes and teachers, should cultivate it yourselves, and communicate the same blessing to others. Thus imitating a father of a family, who draws from his treasure both new and old things, and distributes them to his children, according to their several wants and necessities.

VER. 55. Is not this the carpenter's son? * I find carpenter in all translations, though the Greek word signifies, in general, a workman or craftsman. The Latin is also a general word, which of itself signifies no more a carpenter than a smith. But the common belief of the faithful is, that S. Joseph was a carpenter, which may be confirmed by what Theodoret relates (l. 3, Hist. c. 18) of one Lihanius, under Julian the Apostate, who, asking scornfully of a holy man, what the carpenter's son was doing at that time? the holy man made him this smart reply, that he was making a coffin for Julian; who was killed not long after. Wi.—His brethren. These were the children of Mary, the wife of Cleophas, sister to our blessed Lady (Matt. xxviii. 56; John xix. 25); and therefore, according to the usual style of the Scripture, they were called brethren, that is, near relations to our Saviour. Ch.

* V. 55. Fabri filius, τοῦ τέκτονος, artificis. S. Hilary (Can. or cap. 14. in Matt. p. 678. Ed. Ben.) thought that S. Joseph wrought with fire and iron. We find in a manner the same in S. Amb. l. 3, in Luc. in initio, p. 52. See also S. Chrysologus, Sermon. 48. S. Justin (Dialogo cum Tryphone, p. 69) says, Christ made atrata and juga; and in the Greek edition, (Parisii, ann. 1551, p. 93,) ἄροτρα καὶ ζύγα. Theodoret, (l. 3, Hist. c. 18, p. 656,) Sandalipam fabricat, ὑλαιοσκόμον . . . κατασκευάζει.

* John vi. 42.—f A. D. 32. Mark vi. 14, 30; Luke ix. 7.—g Mark vi. 17; Luke iii. 19.

CHAP. XIV. VER. 1. Tetrarch. This word, derived from the Greek, signifies one that rules over the fourth part of a kingdom: as Herod then ruled over Galilee, which was but the fourth part of the kingdom of his father Ch.—S. John had been now imprisoned in the castle of Macherus about a year, at the instigation of Herodias.—Josephus, in his Antiquities of the Jews, gives the following account: This Herod, who was also called Antipas, was the son of Herod the Great, by his sixth wife, Cleopatra, of Jerusalem. A general opinion obtained among the Jews, that Herod's discomfiture by the Parthians was the effect of Divine vengeance upon himself and his army, for the blood of John, surnamed the Baptist. He was a man of immaculate character, whose object was to exhort the Jews to the practice of virtue and piety, point out the necessity of repentance, and hold forth by baptism the import of regeneration to a new life, which he made to consist, not in abstaining from a particular sin, but in an habitual purity of both mind and body. Such was the influence of this great and good man, as appeared from the multitude of his disciples, and the veneration of his life and doctrines, that Herod was apprehensive of a revolt. He therefore sent him bound to prison, where, by the malice of Herodias, his brother's wife, he was afterwards put to death, which inhuman act was shortly followed by the marked vengeance of Heaven on its execrable author, as the Jews were firmly convinced. B. xviii. c. 7.

VER. 2. Risen from the dead. S. Jerom thinks these words are spoken by Herod ironically; but they are generally supposed to be his real sentiments, the dictates of a guilty conscience. For he respected John, as appears from ver. 9 and was afraid he was returned to avenge his unjust murder. Jans.—Mighty works show forth themselves in him,* or work in him. Wi.

VER. 3. Because of Herodias, his brother's wife. In the common Greek copies we read, his brother Philip's wife, as it is in the Latin in S. Mark vi. 17. Wi.—He is a different person from Philip the tetrarch, mentioned by S. Luke iii. l. v.

VER. 7. He promised. Wicked promises and wicked oaths are not binding. That promise is wicked, in which the thing promised is wicked; and that oath is not binding, by which impiety is promoted. S. Isidore.

5 And when he would have put him to death, he feared the people: *because they esteemed him as a prophet.

6 But on Herod's birth-day, the daughter of Herodias danced before them: and pleased Herod.

7 Whereupon he promised, with an oath, to give her whatsoever she would ask of him.

8 But she being instructed before by her mother, said: Give me here in a dish the head of John the Baptist.

9 And the king was struck sad: yet because of his oath, and for them that sat with him at table, he commanded it to be given her.

10 And he sent and beheaded John in the prison.

11 And his head was brought in a dish: and it was given to the damsel, and she brought it to her mother.

12 And his disciples came and took the body, and buried it, and came and told Jesus.

13 *Which, when Jesus had heard, he retired from thence by a ship into a desert place apart: and the people having heard of it, followed him on foot out of the cities.

14 And he coming forth saw a great multitude, and had compassion on them, and healed their sick.

15 And when it was evening, his disciples came to him, saying: This is a desert place, and the hour is now past: send away the multitudes, that going into the town, they may buy themselves victuals.

16 But Jesus said to them: They have no need to go: give you them to eat.

17 They answered him: *We have here but five loaves and two fishes.

* Infra, xxi. 26.—b Mark vi. 31; Luke ix. 10; John vi. 3.

18 He said to them: Bring them hither to me.

19 And when they had commanded the multitude to sit down upon the grass, he took the five loaves and the two fishes, and looking up to heaven, he blessed and brake, and gave the loaves to his disciples, and the disciples to the multitude.

20 And they did all eat, and were filled. And they took up what remained, twelve baskets full of fragments.

21 And the number of them that had eaten, was five thousand men, besides women and children.

22 *And forthwith Jesus obliged his disciples to get up into the ship, and to go before him over the water, while he sent the multitude away.

23 And when he had dismissed the multitude, *he went up into a mountain alone to pray. And when the evening was come he was there alone.

24 But the ship in the midst of the sea was tossed with the waves: for the wind was contrary.

25 And in the fourth watch of the night, he came to them walking upon the sea.

26 And when they saw him walking on the sea, they were troubled, saying: It is an apparition. And they cried out for fear.

27 And immediately Jesus spoke to them, saying: Be of good heart: It is I, be not afraid.

28 And Peter making answer, said: Lord, if it be thou, bid me come to thee upon the waters.

29 And he said: Come. And Peter, going down out of the ship, walked upon the water to come to Jesus.

30 But seeing the wind strong he was afraid: and

* John vi. 9.—d Mark vi. 45.—e John vi. 15; Mark vi. 46.

VER. 9. Yet because of his oath, which could not bind him, being unjust. Wi.

VER. 13. Which, when Jesus had heard. Our Saviour did not retire till he was informed of the death of the Baptist, by message; and this he did, not because he was ignorant of it before, but that he might show to the world, not only by his appearance, but also by his manner of acting, the reality of the mystery of his incarnation Chrys. Hom. 50.—He did not retire through fear, as some may think. Hence the evangelist does not say, he fled, but he retired, to show us that he did not fear his enemies. Jer.—The desert was called of Bethsaida, not because it was on the same side as the town, but opposite to it. V.

VER. 15. And when it was evening.† To understand this and other places, we may take notice that the Hebrews counted two evenings: the first began when the sun was declining, about three in the afternoon; and such was the evening here mentioned. The second evening was after sunset, or the night-time, as it is taken here in this chap., ver. 23. Wi.

VER. 16. But Jesus said. It may perhaps be asked here, if then our Lord, as S. John relates, looking upon the multitude, inquired of Philip how so great a multitude could be fed in the desert, how can this be true, which S. Matt. relates, that the disciples first desired Jesus to send away the multitude? But we are to understand, that after these words our Lord looked upon the multitude, and said to Philip what S. John mentions, which S. Matt. and the other evangelists omit. S. Aug. de Coneórd. Evang.—They have no need to go: give you them to eat. This he says for our instruction, that when the poor ask us alms, we send them not to other persons and other places, if we are able to relieve them ourselves. E.

VER. 19. Commanded the multitude to sit down.† Lit. to lie down, as it was then the custom of the Jews, and of other nations, at meat. See Mark vi., and John vi., &c.—He blessed. S. Luke (ix. 16) says, he blessed them. S. John (vi. 11) says, when he had given thanks: some take this blessing and giving thanks for the same; but blessing them, must be referred to the loaves, and giving thanks, must be to God. The loaves miraculously increased partly in the hands of Christ, when he broke them, partly in the hands of the disciples, when they distributed them about. Wi.—He blessed and brake. From this let Christians learn to give thanks at their meals, begging of God that his gifts may be sanctified for their use. If God could cause bodies, in their natural state, to be in many places at one and the same time, how much more easy would it be to do the same with spiritual bodies, with the properties of which we are entirely unacquainted; so that from this it appears, that the objection that Christ's body cannot be in many different places in the holy Eucharist, is nugatory. But who are we, to ask such a question of the Almighty, who know not what is possible and what is not possible for him to do! Bp. Hay, Sincere Christian

VER. 20. And they did all eat, and were filled. This miraculous multiplication of the loaves was effected on a Thursday evening—an excellent figure of the blessed Eucharist. On the next morning, Friday, he cured the sick at Genesareth, and arrived at Capharnaum for the first vespers of the sabbath; where, in the Synagogue, he made his promise of the holy Eucharist, which he instituted on a Thursday evening, the eve of his death. See Evangelie médité, tom. iii. p. 425.

VER. 22. And forthwith Jesus, &c. In this we have the genuine picture of a Christian life. After eating of the miraculous bread we must, like the disciples, prepare ourselves for labour. As bread was given Elias, to enable him to walk forty days to the mountain of God, Horeb, so the blessed Eucharist, the true heavenly bread, is given us that we may be able to support the hardships to which we are exposed. Paulus de Palæcio.—We here also see the ardent love of the disciples for their Lord, since they were unwilling to be separated from him even for a moment. Theophylactus also adds, that they were unwilling for him to go, ignorant how he could return to them.

VER. 23. Alone to pray. By our Saviour's conduct on this occasion, we are taught to leave occasionally the society of men, and to retire into solitude, as a more proper place to commune with heaven in earnest and fervent prayer. The company of mortals is often a great distraction to the fervent Christian. Dion Carth.

VER. 25. And in the fourth watch of the night. The Jews, under the Romans, divided the night, or the time from sunset to sunrise, into four watches, each of them lasting for three hours. And the hours were longer or shorter, according as the nights were at different seasons of the year. At the equinox, the first watch was from six in the evening till nine; the second, from nine till twelve; the third, from twelve till three in the morning; and the fourth, from three till six, or till sunrise. Wi.—They had been tossed by the tempest almost the whole night. S. Jer.

VER. 28. And Peter . . . said. Every where Peter appears full of faith and love. He now with his usual ardour believes he can do at the command of his Master, what by nature he is unable to perform. He deserves to be with his Lord, and cannot bear delay; and, in reward of his eagerness, Christ works a miracle in his favour. Jans.—Lord, if it be thou. Peter, by saying if, did not doubt in faith, as Calvin pretends; nor was he guilty of any arrogance, as others conjecture; for our Lord granted his request. Tirinus.

VER. 29. Let those who argue that the body of our Saviour was not a real but an aerial body, or phantom, because he walked upon the waters, explain to us how S. Peter, whom they will not deny to be a true man, walked on the waters. S. Jer.

VER. 30. He was afraid. As long as Peter had his eye and faith fixed on Christ, the liquid element yielded not to his steps; but the moment he turns his thoughts on himself, his own weakness, and the violence of the winds and waves, he begins to lose confidence, and on that account to sink. Again his faith saves him; he calls upon his Lord, who stretcheth forth his arm, and takes hold of him. Jan.—By his confidence in God, we learn what we can do by the Divine assistance; when he began to sink, he cried out, saying: Lord, save me.

31 And immediately Jesus stretching forth his hand, took hold of him, and said to him: O thou of little faith, why didst thou doubt?

32 And when they were come up into the ship, the wind ceased.

33 Then they that were in the ship came and worshipped him, saying: Thou art truly the Son of God.

34 "And when they were gone over, they came into the country of Genesar.

35 And when the men of that place had knowledge of him, they sent out into all that country, and brought to him all that were diseased.

36 And they besought him that they might touch but the hem of his garment. And as many as touched, were made whole.

CHAP. XV.

Christ reproves the Scribes. He cures the daughter of the woman of Chanaan: and many others: and feeds four thousand with seven loaves.

THEN^b came to him from Jerusalem Scribes and Pharisees, saying:

2 "Why do thy disciples transgress the tradition of the ancients? For they wash not their hands when they eat bread

3 But he answering said to them: Why do you also

^a Mark vi. 53.—^b A. D. 32. Mark vii. 1.—^c Mark vii. 5.—^d Exod. xx. 12; Deut. v. 16; Eph. vi. 2.

and by his fear, what we are of ourselves: also, that no one receives from God the strength he stands in need of, but he who feels that of himself he can do nothing. S. Ang. Scr. 76.

VER. 32. And when they were come up into the ship. S. Mark (vi. 51) tells us, Christ went up with S. Peter into the ship. Nor is this denied by S. John, (vi. 21,) when he says, They were willing therefore to take him into the ship: and presently the ship was at the land. They not only would, but did also take him into the ship, which was presently at the shore. Wi.

VER. 36. Hence the veneration Catholics pay to holy relics is vindicated. Not only Christ's words, but his very garments had a virtue and power communicated to them. B.

* V. 2. Operantur in eo, ἐνεργοῦσιν ἐν αὐτῷ; which shows that operantur is taken actively, not passively, as in some places.

† V. 15. Vespere facto, ὀψίας γενομένης. See Matt. xxvi. 20.

‡ V. 19. Benedixit. S. Luke, (ix. 16,) benedixit illis, εὐλόγησε αὐτοὺς, which is not the same as εὐχαριστεῖν.

CHAP. XV. VER. 1. The Pharisees observed a rigid and simple mode of life, disdaining all luxurious delicacies. They scrupulously followed the dictates of reason, and paid the greatest veneration and implicit obedience to the opinions and traditions of their seniors.

VER. 2. Why do thy disciples transgress the tradition. The Pharisees had various traditions delivered down from their ancestors, called ἐντέλματα, of which some were works of supererogation, others were contrary to the law. E.—It is a great proof of malice in the Pharisees, and of irreproachable character in our Lord, that they should be reduced to notice trifles, no ways connected with either piety or religion. . . They, moreover, betrayed their superstition, by insisting on the observance of these outward ceremonies, as essential parts of piety, which were not commanded by any law, (were certainly of no Divine origin,) and which, at most, were duties of civility, or emblems of interior purity. Jans.

VER. 3. Why do you also. The Jews understanding the saying of the prophets, "wash yourselves and be clean," in a carnal manner, they made a precept of not eating without first washing their hands. Ven. Bede.

VER. 5. *The gift whatsoever proceedeth from me, shall profit thee. This gift is called Corban, Mark vii. 11. Now, as to the sense of this obscure place, I shall mention two expositions that seem preferable to others. The first is, as if a son said to his father or mother, Whatsoever was mine, (with which indeed I might have assisted you, my parents,) I have given, i. e. promised to give to the temple; and being to keep this promise, I need not, or I cannot now assist you. The second interpretation is, as if the son said to his father or mother, Whatsoever gift I have made to God will be profitable to you, as well as to me; or, let it be profitable to you. (which is more according to the Greek text, both here and in S. Mark,) and therefore I am no further obliged to assist you. Wi.—That is, the offering that I shall make to God, shall be instead of that which should be expended for thy profit. This tradition of the Pharisees was calculated to enrich themselves, by exempting children from giving any further assistance to their transgress the commandment of God for your tradition? For God said:

4 "Honour thy father and mother: "And he that shall curse father or mother, let him die the death.

5 But you say: Whosoever shall say to his father or mother, The gift whatsoever proceedeth from me, shall profit thee.

6 And he shall not honour his father or his mother and you have made void the commandment of God for your tradition.

7 Ye hypocrites, well hath Isaías prophesied of you, saying:

8 "This people honoureth me with their lips: but their heart is far from me.

9 And in vain do they worship me, teaching doctrines and commandments of men.

10 And having called together the multitudes unto him, he said to them: Hear ye and understand.

11 Not that which goeth into the mouth, defileth a man but what cometh out of the mouth, this defileth a man.

12 Then came his disciples, and said to him: Dost thou know that the Pharisees, when they heard this word, were scandalized?

13 But he answering said: "Every plant which my heavenly Father hath not planted, shall be rooted up.

14 Let them alone: "they are blind, and leaders of parents, if they once offered to the temple and the priests that which should have been the support of their parents. But this was a violation of the law of God, and of nature, which our Saviour here condemns. Ch.—They committed a double crime. They neither offered the gift to God, nor succoured their parents in their distress. Chrys. Hom. 52.

^a Exod. xxi. 17; Lev. xx. 9; Prov. xx. 20.—^b Isa. xxix. 13; Mark vii. 6. ^c John xv. 2.—^d Luke vi. 39.

VER. 9. In vain they worship, or think they worship God, who neglect the Divine commandments to observe the commands of men. We must not here suppose that Christ censures the commands of the Church, or the tradition of the apostles, because these are in no wise contrary to the Divine law, but rather serve to enforce it, and reduce it to practice; nor are they so much the commands of men, as of God, delivered to us by his ambassadors. Christ censures such as are merely human, such as those mentioned here, which are vain and futile, as the superstitious washing of hands; or erroneous, as that the soul is defiled by meat; or openly contrary to natural and Divine law, as the defrauding parents of their just support. Tirinus.—It is evidently erroneous to argue from this text against apostolical traditions. S. Paul tells the Thessalonians to stand fast, and hold the traditions which they had been taught, whether by word of mouth, or by epistles. 2 Thess. ii. 14.—Commandments of men. The doctrines and commandments here reprehended, are such as are either contrary to the law of God, (as that of neglecting parents, under pretence of giving to God,) or at least are frivolous, unprofitable, and no ways conducing to true piety, as that of often washing hands, &c. without regard to the purity of the heart. But as to the rules and ordinances of the Holy Church, touching fasts, festivals, &c., these are no ways repugnant to, but highly agreeable to God's holy word, and all Christian piety; neither are they to be counted among the doctrines and commandments of men, because they proceed not from mere human authority, but from that which Christ has established in his Church; whose pastors he has commanded us to hear and obey, even as himself. Luke x. 16; Matt. xviii. 17. Ch.

VER. 11. Not that which goeth into the mouth, &c. We must heartily pity and pray to God for those who blindly pretend from hence, that to eat any kind of meats, or as often as a man pleaseth, on fasting-days, can defile no man. Wi.—No uncleanness in meat, nor any dirt contracted by eating it with unwashed hands, can defile the soul; but sin alone, or a disobedience of the heart to the ordinance and will of God. And thus, when Adam took the forbidden fruit, it was not the apple which entered into the mouth, but the disobedience to the law of God, which defiled him. The same is to be said if a Jew, in the time of the old law, had eaten swine's flesh; or a Christian convert, in the days of the apostles, contrary to their ordinance, had eaten blood; or if any of the faithful, at present, should transgress the ordinance of God's Church, by breaking the fasts: for in all these cases the soul would be defiled, not indeed by that which goeth into the mouth, but by the disobedience of the heart, in wilfully transgressing the ordinance of God, or of those who have their authority from him. Ch.

VER. 12. Scandalized. It must be here observed, that Christ was not the direct cause of scandal to the Jews, for such scandal would not be allowable; he only caused it indirectly, because it was his doctrine, at which, through their own perversity, they took scandal. Dion. Carth.

VER. 14. Let them alone "It must not be hence inferred, that he desired us the blind. And if the blind lead the blind, both fall into the pit.

15 *And Peter answering, said to him: Explain to us this parable.

16 But he said: Are you also yet without understanding?

17 Do you not understand, that whatsoever entereth into the mouth, goeth into the belly, and is cast out into the privy?

18 But the things which proceed out of the mouth, come forth from the heart, and those things defile a man.

19 For out of the heart proceed evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false testimonies, blasphemies.

20 These are the things that defile a man. But to eat with unwashed hands doth not defile a man.

21 ^b And Jesus went from thence, and departed into the confines of Tyre and Sidon.

22 And behold a woman of Chanaan, who came out of those parts, crying out, said to him: Have mercy on me, O Lord, thou Son of David, my daughter is grievously troubled by a devil.

23 But he answered her not a word. And his disciples came and besought him, saying: Send her away, for she crieth after us:

24 And he answering, said: I was not sent^c but to the sheep that are lost of the house of Israel.

25 But she came and worshipped him, saying: Lord, help me.

26 But he answered, and said: It is not good to take the bread of the children, and to cast it to the dogs.

27 And she said: Yea, Lord: for the whelps also eat of the crumbs that fall from the table of their masters.

28 Then Jesus answering, said to her: O woman, great is thy faith: be it done to thee as thou wilt. And her daughter was cured from that hour.

29 And when Jesus had departed from thence, he

* Mark vii. 17.—^b Mark vii. 24.—^c Supra, x. 6; John x. 3.—^d Isa. xxxv. 5.

the conversion of the Scribes and Pharisees. He only says: If, through their own perversity, they choose to take scandal, let them do it; we must not neglect to teach the truth, though it displease men. S. Jer.—When, says S. Gregory, we see scandal arise from our preaching the truth, we must rather suffer it to take place than desert the truth. Our Lord says they are blind, let us leave them. For the land which has often been watered with the dews of heaven, and still continues barren, is deserted. Behold your house shall be left desolate. Luke xiii. 35.

VER. 21. Confines of Tyre. It perhaps may be asked, why Jesus went among the Gentiles, when he had commended his apostles to avoid those countries? One reason may be, that our Saviour was not subject to the same rules he gave his disciples; another reason may be brought, that he did not go then to preach: hence S. Matthew observes that he kept himself retired. S. Chry.

VER. 22. It is probable the woman first cried out before the door, and assembled a crowd, and then went into the house.—Have mercy on me. The great faith of the Chanaanæan woman is justly extolled. She believes him to be God, whom she calls her Lord, and him a man, whom she styles the Son of David. She lays no stress upon her own merits, but supplicates for the mercy of God; neither does she say, have mercy on my daughter, but have mercy on me . . . To move him to compassion, she lays all her grief and sorrow before him in these afflicting words: my daughter is grievously afflicted by a devil. Glossa.

VER. 26, 27. And to cast it to the dogs; i. e. to Gentiles, sometimes so called by the Jews. Wl.—The diminutive word Kυνάρια, or whelp, is used in both these verses in the Septuagint. Our Lord crosses the wishes of the Chanaanæan, not that he intended to reject her, but that he might bring to light the hidden and secret treasure of her virtue. Let us admire not only the greatness of her faith, but likewise the profoundness of her humility; for when our Saviour called the Jews children, so far from being envious of another's praise, she readily answers, and gives them the title of lords; and when Christ likened her to a dog, she presently acknowledges the meanness of her condition. S. Chry. Hom. 53. He refused at first to listen to her petition, says the same saint, to instruct us with what came nigh the sea of Galilee: and going up into a mountain, he sat there.

30 *And there came to him great multitudes, having with them the dumb, the blind, the lame, the maimed, and many others: and they cast them down at his feet, and he healed them:

31 So that the multitudes wondered, seeing the dumb speak, the lame walk, the blind see: and they glorified the God of Israel.

32 *Then Jesus called together his disciples, and said: I have compassion on the multitudes, because they continue with me now three days, and have nothing to eat: and I will not send them away fasting, lest they faint in the way.

33 And the disciples say unto him: Whence then should we have so many loaves in the desert, as to fill so great a multitude?

34 And Jesus said to them: How many loaves have you? But they said: Seven, and a few little fishes.

35 And he commanded the multitude to sit down on the ground.

36 And taking the seven loaves and the fishes, and giving thanks, he brake, and gave to his disciples, and the disciples gave to the people.

37 And they did all eat, and had their fill. And they took up seven baskets full, of what remained of the fragments.

38 And they that did eat, were four thousand men, besides children and women.

39 And having sent away the multitude, he took ship, and came into the coasts of Magedan.

CHAP. XVI.

Christ refuses to show the Pharisees a sign from heaven. Peter's confession is rewarded. He is rebuked for opposing Christ's passion. All his followers must deny themselves.

AND^c there came to him the Pharisees and Sadducees, tempting: and they asked him to show them a sign from heaven.

* Mark viii. 1.—^c A. D. 32. Mark viii. 11, 26.

faith, humility, and perseverance we ought to pray. To make his servants more sensible of his mercy, and more eager to obtain it, he often appears to pay no attention to their prayers, till he has exercised them in the virtues of humility and patience. Ask, and you shall receive; knock, and it shall be opened to you. A.

VER. 32. They continue with me now three days, eager to hear his Divine instructions, and to witness the greatness of his miracles. The disciples, as if not remembering what Jesus had done on a similar emergency, (see Matthew xiv. 16,) expressed their solicitude and uneasiness for the hungered multitude. A.

VER. 37. Seven baskets full remained, to intimate that God remunerates with a liberal hand all alms given for his sake.

VER. 39. Magedan. Some copies read Μαγδαλάν, others Μαγαδαν, or Μαγεδαν: this last is found in the Vulgate, and in the best MS. copies. Matt. Polus. l. 4, p. 409.

* V. 5. Mark vii. 11. Quodcumque ex me, tibi profuerit. In the Greek, both in S. Matthew and S. Mark, ὃ ἐάν ἐξ ἐμοῦ, ὠφεληθῇς, tibi prosit.

CHAP. XVI. VER. 1. The Pharisees and Sadducees. These were widely opposite in their religious sentiments to each other, but closely united in their design of persecuting Jesus Christ, and they come and ask of him a sign or prodigy from heaven, to convince them that he was the Christ, the Messiah. V.—The Sadducees deny the immortality of the soul, and affirm that our only obligation is the observance of the law; insomuch, that they prided themselves on their right of disputing the most important points with their teachers.—S. Chrys. is of opinion he would have granted them any sign they wished, had they been willing to believe; but as their object was curiosity and censure, he refused to comply. They mistrusted, it would seem, his other miracles, as the effect of some occult quality inherent in him, and wished to see a miracle performed upon distant objects in the heavens or clouds, which would be to them less suspicious and objectionable. A.

2 But he answered and said to them:^a When it is evening, you say: It will be fair weather, for the sky is red.

3 And in the morning: To-day there will be a storm, for the sky is red and lowering.

4 You know then how to discern the face of the sky: and can you not know the signs of the times?^b A wicked and adulterous generation seeketh after a sign: and a sign shall not be given it, 'but the sign of Jonas the prophet. And he left them and went away.

5 And when his disciples were come over the water, they had forgotten to take bread.

6 And he said to them: "Take heed, and beware of the leaven of the Pharisees, and of the Sadducees.

7 But they thought within themselves, saying: Because we have taken no bread.

8 And Jesus knowing it, said: Why do you think within yourselves, O ye of little faith, because you have no bread?

9 Do you not yet understand, neither do you remember 'the five loaves among the five thousand men, and how many baskets you took up?

10 'Nor the seven loaves, among the four thousand men, and how many baskets you took up?

11 Why do you not understand that it was not con-

^a Luke xii. 54.—^b Supra, xii. 39.—^c Jonas ii. 1.—^d Mark viii. 15; Luke xii. 1.
^e Supra, xiv. 17; John vi. 9.

VER. 4. You know then how to discern the face of the sky, &c. Jesus Christ does not condemn every observation made upon the weather, from external appearances in the heavens. He only upbraids the Jews for so closely examining these signs, and neglecting at the same time to notice the many signs and predictions which so plainly manifested him to be the promised Messiah. Dion. Carth.

VER. 5. Forgotten to take bread. The disciples had just filled seven baskets with fragments, but had forgotten to take any with them into the ship; or, according to others, had distributed all among the poor. Barradius.—They were so taken with the company of Christ, that they even forgot the necessities of life. S. Anselm.

VER. 6, 7. Beware of the leaven, &c. The disciples, not understanding the meaning of Christ's words, supposed he was instructing them not to touch the bread of the Scribes and Pharisees. V.

VER. 13. Cesarea Philippi, was first called Paneades, and was afterwards embellished and greatly enlarged by Philip the tetrarch, son of Herod the Great, and dedicated in honour of Augustus; hence its name.—The Cesarea here mentioned continued to be called by heathen writers Panea, from the adjoining spring Paneum, or Panium, which is usually taken for the source of the Jordan.

VER. 16. Simon Peter answering. As Simon Peter had been constituted the first in the college of apostles, (Matt. x. 2,) and therefore surpasseth the others in dignity as much as in zeal, without hesitation, and in the name of all, he answers: Thou art the Christ, the Redeemer promised to the world, not a mere man, not a mere prophet like other prophets, but the true and natural Son of the living God. Thus SS. Chrys., Cyril, Ambrose, Austin, and Tiranus. When our Saviour inquired the opinion of the vulgar, all the apostles answered; but when he asks their opinion of him, Peter, as the mouth of the rest, and the head of the whole college, steps forth, and anticipates the others. Chrys. Hom. 55.—Tu es Christus, Filius Dei vivi; or, as it is in the Greek, ὁ Χριστός, ὁ Υἱός; The Christ, the Son, the Christ formerly promised by the law and the prophets, expected and desired by all the saints, the anointed and consecrated to God: ὁ Υἱός, the Son, not by grace only, or an adoptive filiation like the prophets, to whom Christ is here opposed, but by natural filiation, and in a manner that distinguishes him from all created beings.—*Thou art * Christ, the Son of the living God*, not by grace only, or by adoption, as saints are the sons of God, but by nature, and from all eternity, the true Son of the living God. Wi.

VER. 17. Blessed art thou, Simon Bar-Jona. Σίμων is undoubtedly Συμεών, as written 2 Pet. i. 1. Βαριωνᾶ is son of Jona, or John, an abridgment for Βαριωνᾶ. Bar, in Chaldaic, is son; hence S. Peter is called, in John xxi. 16, and 17, Simon, son of John. It was customary with the Jews to add to a rather common name, for the sake of discrimination, a πατρωνυμικόν, or patronymic, as appear from Matt. x. 3, and xxiii. 35; Mark ii. 14; John vi. 42. P.

VER. 18. Kḗyw. And I say to thee, and tell thee why I before declared, (John i. 42,) that thou shouldst be called Peter, for thou art constituted the rock upon which, as a foundation, I will build my Church, and that so firmly, as not to suffer the gates (i. e. the powers) of hell to prevail against its foundation; because if they overturn its foundation, (i. e. thee and thy successors,) they will overturn also the Church that rests upon it. Christ therefore here promises to Peter, that he and his successors should be to the end, as long as the Church should last, its supreme pastors and princes. T.—In the Syriac tongue, which is that which cerning bread I said to you: Beware of the leaven of the Pharisees, and of the Sadducees?

12 Then they understood that he said not that they should beware of the leaven of bread, but of the doctrine of the Pharisees, and of the Sadducees.

13 ^e And Jesus came into the confines of Cesarea Philippi: and he asked his disciples, saying: Who do men say that the Son of man is?

14 And they said: "Some say that thou art John the Baptist, and others Elias, and others Jeremias, or one of the prophets.

15 Jesus saith to them: But who do you say that I am?

16 Simon Peter answering said: 'Thou art Christ, the Son of the living God.

17 And Jesus answering, said to him: Blessed art thou, Simon Bar-Jona: because flesh and blood hath not revealed it to thee, but my Father, who is in heaven.

18 ^k And I say to thee: That thou art Peter; and upon this rock I will build my church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it.

19 ^l And I will give to thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven. "And whatsoever thou shalt bind upon earth, it shall be bound also in heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt loose upon earth, it shall be loosed also in heaven

^f Supra, xv. 34.—^g Mark viii. 27.—^h Mark viii. 28; Luke xix. 9.—ⁱ John vi. 70.
^j John xii. 42.—^k Isa. xxii. 22.—^l John xx. 23.

Jesus Christ spoke, there is no difference of genders, as there is in Latin, between petra, a rock, and Petrus, Peter; hence, in the original language, the allusion was both more natural and more simple. V.—Thou art Peter; and upon this rock (i. e. upon thee, according to the literal and general exposition of the ancient Fathers) I will build my Church. It is true, S. Augustin, in one or two places, thus expounds these words, and upon this rock, (i. e. upon myself): or upon this rock, which Peter hath confessed: yet he owns that he had also given the other interpretation, by which Peter himself was the rock. Some Fathers have also expounded it, upon the faith, which Peter confessed; but then they take not faith, as separated from the person of Peter, but on Peter, as holding the true faith. No one questions but that Christ himself is the great foundation-stone, the chief corner-stone, as S. Paul tells the Ephesians (chap. ii. 20); but it is also certain, that all the apostles may be called foundation-stones of the Church, as represented Apoc. xxi. 14. In the mean time, S. Peter (called therefore Cephas, a rock) was the first and chief foundation-stone among the apostles, on whom Christ promised to build his Church. Wi.—Thou art Peter, &c. As S. Peter, by Divine revelation, here made a solemn profession of his faith of the Divinity of Christ, so in recompence of this faith and profession, our Lord here declares to him the dignity to which he is pleased to raise him: viz. that he, to whom he had already given the name of Peter, signifying a rock, (John i. 42,) should be a rock indeed, of invincible strength, for the support of the building of the Church; in which building he should be, next to Christ himself, the chief foundation-stone, in quality of chief pastor, ruler, and governor; and should have accordingly all fulness of ecclesiastical power, signified by the keys of the kingdom of heaven.—Christ, by building his house, that is, his Church, upon a rock, has thereby secured it against all storms and floods, like the wise builder, Matt. vii. 24, 25.—The gates of hell, &c. That is, the powers of darkness, and whatever satan can do, either by himself or his agents. For as the Church is here likened to a house, or fortress, built on a rock; so the adverse powers are likened to a contrary house or fortress, the gates of which, i. e. the whole strength, and all the efforts it can make, will never be able to prevail over the city or Church of Christ. By this promise we are fully assured that neither idolatry, heresy, nor any pernicious error whatsoever shall at any time prevail over the Church of Christ. Ch.

VER. 19. And I will give to thee the keys, &c. This is another metaphor, expressing the supreme power and prerogative of the prince of the apostles. The keys of a city, or of its gates, are presented or given to the person that hath the chief power. We also own a power of the keys, given to the other apostles, but with a subordination to S. Peter and to his successor, as head of the Catholic Church.—And whatsoever thou shalt bind, &c. All the apostles, and their successors, partake also of this power of binding and loosing, but with a due subordination to one head invested with the supreme power. Wi.—Loose on earth. The loosing the bands of temporal punishments due to sins, is called an indulgence: the power of which is here granted. Ch.—Although Peter and his successors are mortal, they are nevertheless endowed with heavenly power, says S. Chrys., nor is the sentence of life and death passed by Peter to be attempted to be reversed, but what he declares is to be considered a Divine answer from heaven, and what he decrees, a decree of God himself. He that heareth you, heareth me, &c. The power of binding is exercised, 1st, by refusing to absolve; 2nd, by enjoining penance for sins forgiven; 3rd, by excommunication, suspension, or interdict; 4th, 20 Then he charged his disciples, that they should tell no one that he was Jesus the Christ.

21 From that time forth Jesus began to show to his disciples, that he must go to Jerusalem, and suffer many things from the ancients and the Scribes, and the chief priests, and be put to death, and the third day rise again.

22 And Peter taking him, began to rebuke him, saying: Lord, be it far from thee; this shall not be unto thee.

23 But he turning, said to Peter: *Go after me, satan, thou art a scandal unto me: because thou dost not relish the things that are of God, but the things that are of men.

24 Then Jesus said to his disciples: †If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me.

25 *For whosoever will save his life, shall lose it: and he that shall lose his life for my sake, shall find it.

26 For what doth it profit a man, if he gain the whole world, and lose his own soul? Or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?

27 For the Son of man shall come in the glory of his Father, with his angels: †and then will he render to every man according to his works.

* Mark viii. 33.—† Supra, x. 38; Luke ix. 23, and xiv. 27.—‡ Luke xvii. 33; John xii. 25.
§ Acts xvii. 31; Rom. ii. 6.

by making rules and laws for the government of the Church; 5th, by determining what is of faith by the judgments and definitions of the Church. T.

VER. 20. Tell no one that he was Jesus, the Christ. In some MSS., both Greek and Latin, the name Jesus is not here found, and many interpreters think it superfluous in this place. The Greek expressly says the Christ, adjoining the article, which the Latin tongue does not express. V.—But why did he lay this injunction? To avoid the envy of the Scribes, and not to appear to raise his own glory. He wished the people to be induced to own him for their Messiah, not from the testimony of his retainers, but from his miracles and doctrines; and lastly, because as his time was not yet come, the apostles were not yet fit to deliver, nor the people to receive, this grand tenet. Mat. Polus.

VER. 21. From that time, &c. Now when the apostles firmly believed that Jesus was the Messiah, and the true Son of God, he saw it necessary to let them know he was to die an infamous death on the cross, that they might be disposed to believe that mystery (Wi.); and that they might not be too much exalted with the power given them, and manifestation made to them. A.

VER. 22. Peter taking him, &c., out of a tender love, respect, and zeal for his honour, began to expostulate with him, and as it were to reprehend him, † saying, Lord, far be it from thee, God forbid, &c. Wi.

VER. 23. Go after me, satan. § The words may signify, begone from me; but out of respect due to the expositions of the ancient Fathers, who would have these words to signify come after me, or follow me, I have put, with the Rheims translation, go after me. Satan is the same as an adversary (Wi.): and is here applied to Peter, because he opposed, out of mistaken zeal, Christ's passion, without which the great work of man's redemption could not be effected. Peter, however, unknowingly or innocently, raised an opposition against the will of God, against the glory of Jesus, against the redemption of mankind, and against the destruction of the devil's kingdom. He did not understand that there was nothing more glorious than to make of one's life a sacrifice to God. V.

VER. 24. If any man will come. S. Chry., Euthymius, and Theophylactus, show that free-will is confirmed by these words. Do not expect, O Peter, that since you have confessed me to be the Son of God, you are immediately to be crowned, as if this were sufficient for salvation, and that the rest of your days may be spent in idleness and pleasure. For, although by my power, as Son of God, I could free you from every danger and trouble, yet this I will not do for your sake, that you may yourself contribute to your glory, and become the more illustrious. S. Chry. Hom. 66.

VER. 25. Whosoever will save his life. Lit. his soul. In the style of the Scriptures the word soul is sometimes put for the life of the body, sometimes for the whole man. Wi.

VER. 26. And lose his own soul. Christ seems in these words to pass from the life of the body to that of the soul. Wi.

VER. 27. Shall come in the glory. Jesus Christ wishing to show his disciples the greatness of his glory at his future coming, reveals to them in this life as much as it was possible for them to comprehend, purposely to strengthen them against the scandal of his ignominious death. S. Chry.

VER. 28. Till they see the Son of man coming in his kingdom. Some expound this, as fulfilled at his transfiguration, which follows in the next chapter. Others understand it of the glory of Christ, and of his Church, after his resurrection and ascension, when he should be owned for Redeemer of the world: and this state of the Christian Church might be called the kingdom of Christ. Wi.

28 Amen, I say to you, †there are some of them standing here, who shall not taste death, till they see the Son of man coming in his kingdom.

CHAP. XVII.

The transfiguration of Christ: he cures the lunatic child; foretells his passion, and pays the didrachma.

AND †after six days Jesus taketh unto him Peter and James, and John his brother, and bringeth them up into a high mountain apart:

2 And he was transfigured before them. And his face did shine as the sun: and his garments became white as snow.

3 And behold there appeared to them Moses and Elias, talking with him.

4 Then Peter answering, said to Jesus: Lord, it is good for us to be here: if thou wilt, let us make here three tabernacles, one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias.

5 And as he was yet speaking, behold a bright cloud overshadowed them. †And behold a voice out of the cloud, saying: This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased: hear ye him.

6 And the disciples hearing, fell upon their face, and were very much afraid.

* Mark viii. 30; Luke ix. 28.—† A. D. 32. Mark ix. 1; Luke ix. 28.
§ Supra, iii. 17; 2 Pet. i. 17.

* V. 16. Tu es Christus, Filius Dei vivi. ὁ Χριστός ὁ Υἱὸς τοῦ Θεοῦ. Where the Greek articles seem significant.

† V. 18. S. Aug. serm. 13, de Verbis Domini, in the new edit. serm. 76, t. 5, p. 415, expounds these words super hanc Petram, i. e. super hanc Petram, quam confessus es, super meipsum. See also Tract. 24, in Joan. t. 3, p. 822. But he elsewhere gave the common interpretation, as he says, l. 1, Retrae., and in Psal. lxi. Petrus, qui paulo ante Christum confessus erat Filium Dei, et in illa Confessione appellatus erat Petra, super quam fabricatur Ecclesia, &c. See S. Jerom on this place, l. 3, p. 97, ædificabo (inquit Christus) super te Ecclesiam meam. S. Chrys. hom. 55, in Matt., &c.

‡ V. 22. Increpare, ἐπιτιμᾶν, by saying, absit a te Domine, ἰλεώς σοι, propitius sit tibi Deus, &c.

§ V. 23. Vade post me, ὑπάγε ὀπίσω μου.

CHAP. XVII. VER. 1. And after six days. S. Matt. reckons neither the day of the promise, nor the day of the transfiguration: S. Luke, including both, calls the interval about eight days, ὥστε ἡμεραι ὀκτώ. S. Chry.—He took Peter, as head of the apostolic college; James, as first to shed his blood for the faith; and John, as he was to survive all the rest, and to transmit to posterity the circumstances of this glorious mystery; or, according to S. Chry., on account of their more excellent love, zeal, courage, sufferings, and predilection. The mountain is generally believed to be Thabor, and as such is considered by Christians as holy, and was much frequented by pilgrims, as S. Jerom testifies. Others, however, do not think the transfiguration took place on Mount Thabor, which was in the middle of Lower Galilee, because S. Mark (ix. 29) says, that Christ and his apostles, departing thence, passed through Galilee, and not out of Galilee, and suppose it might be Libanus, because it was near Cesarea Philippi; in the borders of which Christ appears at this time to have been.—But Thabor is very generally supposed to have been the mountain.

VER. 2. Transfigured. Let no one think that he changed his natural form, laying aside his corporeal, and assuming a spiritual form; but when the evangelist says his countenance shone like the sun, and describes the whiteness of his garments, he shows in what the transfiguration consisted. He added to his former appearance splendour and glory, but laid not aside his substance. . . . The Lord was transfigured into that glory with which he will appear again at the day of judgment, and in his kingdom. S. Jer.

VER. 3. Moses and Elias. Jesus Christ had been taken by the people for Elias, Jeremias, or one of the prophets. He therefore chose the chief of all the prophets to be present, that he might show his great superiority over them, and verify the illustrious confession of Peter.—It is hence evident, that the saints departed can and do, with the permission of God, take an interest in the affairs of the living. S. Aug. de Curâ pro Mort. c. 15, 16.—For as angels elsewhere, so here the saints also, served our Saviour; and as angels, both in the Old and New Testament, were frequently present at the affairs of men, so may saints. B.

VER. 6. And were very much afraid. There were two causes that might produce this fear in the apostles, the cloud that overshadowed them, or the voice of God the Father, which they heard. Their human weakness could not bear such refulgent beams of glory, and trembling in every limb, they fall prostrate on the ground. S. Jer.—The Almighty, it seems, was pleased to fulfil the wish of Peter, thereby to show that Himself is the tent or pavilion, under the shade of which the blessed shall live for ever, and to sanction the public and explicit confession

7 And Jesus came and touched them: and said to them: Arise, and be not afraid.

8 And when they lifted up their eyes, they saw no man but only Jesus.

9 And as they came down from the mountain, Jesus charged them, saying: Tell the vision to no man, till the Son of man be risen from the dead.

10 And his disciples asked him, saying: "Why then do the Scribes say that Elias must come first?"

11 But ^bhe answering, said to them: Elias indeed shall come, and restore all things.

12 But I say to you, "that Elias is already come, and they knew him not, "but have done unto him whatsoever they had a mind. So also the Son of man shall suffer from them.

13 Then the disciples understood that he had spoken to them of John the Baptist.

14 "And when he was come to the multitude, there came to him a man falling down on his knees before him, saying: Lord have pity on my son, for he is lunatic, and suffereth much: for he falleth often into the fire, and often into the water.

15 And I brought him to thy disciples, and they could not cure him.

16 Then Jesus answered, and said: O unbelieving and perverse generation, how long shall I be with you? how long shall I suffer you? Bring him hither to me.

* Mark ix. 10.—^b Mal. iv. 5.—^c Supra, xl. 14.—^d Supra, xiv. 10.—^e Mark ix. 16; Luke ix. 38.

of Peter relative to the Divinity of Jesus Christ, by his own no less public and explicit confession, joined with an express command to hear and obey him. S. Chrysostom very justly remarks, that this voice was not heard till after the departure of Moses and Elias, that no possible doubt might exist to whom it was referred, and that it was to Christ only and to no other.—Hear ye Him: i. e. as the law and the prophets are fulfilled and verified in Jesus Christ, your new legislator and prophet, you are to hear and obey Him in preference to either Moses or Elias, or any other teacher. A.

VER. 9. Tell the vision to no man, till the miracle of his resurrection has prepared the minds of men for the belief of this. Expose not an event so wonderful to the rash censure of the envious Pharisees, who calumniate and misrepresent my most evident miracles. Jesus Christ also gave a lesson here to his followers to observe the closest secrecy in all spiritual graces and favours.

VER. 10. Elias must come first. The prophet Elias will come again in person before my second coming to judgment, and will re-establish all things, by the conversion of the Jews to the Christian faith, according to the common opinion. But John the Baptist, who was Elias in spirit, is already come. See Matt. xi. 14. Wi.—This was a vulgar error spread by the Scribes among the Jewish people. It proceeded from an erroneous interpretation of Scripture. They confounded the two comings of our Saviour. The Baptist was the precursor of Christ at his first coming, and was styled by our Lord Elias, because he performed the office of Elias: and he shall go before Him in the spirit and power of Elias. Luke i. 17.—But this prophet in person will be the precursor of the second coming of Christ. Wherefore Malachi, predicting this coming of Christ, says: I will send to you Elias the Thesbite; thus evidently distinguishing him from the Baptist, who was also Elias in spirit and in the dignity of his office. S. Chry. Hom. 58.—Jesus Christ here confirms the literal sense of the prophecy (Mal. iv. 5); but, in the next verse, he shows a prior, though less perfect accomplishment of the same, in the person of John the Baptist, who was raised by God to prepare the ways of the Lord.

VER. 11. Shall . . . restore all things. According to S. Chry., Theophylactus, and others, these words signify that Elias shall restore all the Jews to the one true faith towards the end of the world; or, according to S. Augustin, he shall strengthen those that shall be found wavering in the persecution of Antichrist.

VER. 15. I brought him to thy disciples. By these words the man here mentioned privately accuses the apostles, though the impossibility of the cure is not always to be attributed to the weakness of God's servants, but sometimes to the want of faith in the afflicted. Jerom.—Stand astonished at the folly of this man! how he accuses the apostles before Jesus! But Christ frees them from this inculpation, imputing the fault entirely to the man himself. For it is evident, from many circumstances, that he was weak in faith. Our Saviour does not inveigh against this man alone, not to wound his feelings too sensibly, but against the whole people of the Jews. We may infer, that many of the by-standers entertained false notions of his disciples, from these words of deserved reproach: O! unbelieving and incredulous generation, how long shall I be with you? In which words he shows us how much he wished for his passion, and his departure hence. S. Chrys.—We must not imagine that our Saviour, who was meekness and mild-ness itself, uttered on this occasion words of anger and intemperance. Jesus is not angry with the man, but with the vices of the man; and in him he upbraids the Jews, in general, for their incredulity and perversity. S. Jer.

VER. 18. Why could not we? The disciples began to apprehend that they had incurred their Master's displeasure, and had thereby lost their power of working miracles. They come therefore secretly to Jesus Christ, to learn why they could not cast out devils. He answered them, that it was their want of faith, which probably failed them on this occasion, on account of the difficulty of the cure, little reflecting that the virtue of the Lord, which worked in them, was superior to every possible evil of both mind and body.

VER. 19. If you have faith as a grain of mustard-seed. Christ insinuates to his apostles, as if they had not yet faith enough to work great miracles, which require a firm faith, joined with a lively confidence in God. The mustard-seed is brought in with an allusion to its hot and active qualities. Wi.—That is, a perfect faith; which, in its properties and its fruits, resembles the grain of mustard-seed in the parable. Chap. xii. 31. Ch.—By faith is here understood, not that virtue by which we assent to all things that are to be believed of Christ; the first of the theological virtues, in which the apostles were not deficient; but that confidence in the power and goodness of God, that he will on such an occasion exert these, his attributes, in favour of the supplicant. To have a true faith of this kind, and free from all presumption, is a great and high privilege, which the Holy Ghost breathes into such only as he pleases. Jans.

VER. 20. See here the efficacy of prayer and fasting! What the apostles could not do, prayer accompanied with fasting can effect. How then can that be genuine religion, which makes fasting an object of ridicule? We see also here that the true Church in her exorcisms follows Scripture, when she uses, besides the name of Jesus, many prayers and much fasting to drive out the devils, because these, as well as faith, are here required. B.

VER. 22. They were troubled exceedingly, not being able to comprehend the mystery of Christ's sufferings and death, which was so opposite to the notions they had of the glorious kingdom of the Messias. Wi.—This grief was the consequence of their attachment to their Divine Master. They were ignorant, as S. Mark and S. Luke notice, of the word that was spoken.

VER. 23. They that received the didrachmas, (τὰ διδραχμα,) in value about fifteen pence of our money. Wi.—A tax, according to some, laid on every person who was twenty years of age, for the service of the temple. See Exod. xxx.

VER. 25. Then the children. From these words and the following, that we may not scandalize them, some argue that Christians are exempt from taxes. The fallacy of this deduction is victoriously demonstrated from the express words of S. Paul, (Rom. xiii.,) commanding us to be subject to the higher powers, not only for wrath, but also for conscience sake: Render tribute to whom tribute is due, custom to whom custom, &c. The word children then does not mean subjects, but must be understood in its natural limited sense. Jans.

VER. 26. But that we may not. Jesus Christ pays the tribute, not as one subject to the law, but as consulting the infirmity of the people; but he first shows himself exempt from the above example, lest his disciples might take occasion f Luke xvii. 6.—g Infra, xx. 18; Mark ix. 30; Luke ix. 44.

✠ NOW WHEN JESUS WAS BORN IN BETHLEHEM OF JUDA, IN THE DAYS OF KING HEROD, BEHOLD, THERE CAME WISE MEN FROM THE EAST TO JERUSALEM. SAYING: WHERE IS HE THAT IS BORN KING OF THE JEWS? FOR WE HAVE SEEN HIS STAR IN THE EAST, AND WE ARE COME TO ADORE HIM.—ST. MATT. II. 1, 2.

✠ AND SHE BROUGHT FORTH HER FIRST-BORN SON, AND WRAPPED HIM UP IN SWADDLING-CLOTHES, AND LAID HIM IN A MANGER: BECAUSE THERE WAS NO ROOM FOR THEM IN THE INN.—ST. LUKE II. 7.

✠ NOW JESUS SEEING THE MULTITUDES, HE WENT UP INTO A MOUNTAIN, AND TAUGHT THEM, SAYING: BLESSED ARE THE POOR IN SPIRIT: FOR THEIRS IS THE KINGDOM OF HEAVEN.—ST. MATT. V. 1-3.

† AND WHEN THE CROWD WAS TURNED OUT, HE WENT IN, AND TOOK HER BY THE HAND, AND THE GIRL AROSE.—ST. MATT. IX. 25.

✠ THEN ALL THOSE VIRGINS AROSE AND TRIMMED THEIR LAMPS, AND THE FOOLISH SAID TO THE WISE, GIVE US OF YOUR OIL,
FOR OUR LAMPS ARE GONE OUT.—ST. MATT. XXV. 7, 8.

† WHICH, WHEN THE PEOPLE KNEW, THEY FOLLOWED HIM: AND HE RECEIVED THEM, AND SPOKE TO THEM OF THE KINGDOM OF GOD, AND HEALED THEM WHO HAD NEED OF HEALING.—ST. LUKE IX. 11.

† THEN JESUS CAME WITH THEM TO A COUNTRY PLACE, WHICH IS CALLED GETHESEMANI, AND HE SAID TO HIS DISCIPLES: SIT YOU HERE, TILL I GO YONDER, AND PRAY.—ST. MATT. XXVI. 36.

† AND TAKING THE CHALICE HE GAVE THANKS: AND GAVE TO THEM, SAYING: DRINK YE ALL OF THIS.—ST. MATT. XXVI. 27 first come up, take : and when thou hast opened its mouth, thou shalt find a stater : take that, and give it to them for me and thee.

CHAP. XVIII.

Christ teaches humility, to beware of scandal, and to flee the occasions of sin : to denounce to the Church incorrigible sinners, and to look upon such as refuse to hear the Church as heathens. He promises to his disciples the power of binding and loosing : and that he will be in the midst of their assemblies. No forgiveness for them that will not forgive.

AT^a that hour the disciples came to Jesus, saying : Who, thinkest thou, is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven ?

2 ^b And Jesus calling unto him a little child, set him in the midst of them,

3 And said : Amen I say unto you, ^c unless you be converted, and become as little children, you shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven.

4 Whosoever therefore shall humble himself as this little child, he is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven.

5 And he that shall receive one such little child in my name, receiveth me.

6 ^d But he that shall scandalize one of these little ones that believe in me, it were better for him that a mill-stone were hanged about his neck, and that he were drowned in the depth of the sea.

7 Woe to the world because of scandals. For it must scandal therefrom. S. Chrys. Hom. 59.—For me and thee. A great mystery this : Jesus Christ paid not only for himself, but for the future representative of Him and his Church, in whom, as chief, the rest were comprised. S. Aug. q. ex Nov. Tes. q. 75, tom. 4. Jesus Christ here, as well as on many other occasions, pointedly marks the precedence of Peter, which might give rise to the strife and contention of the disciples, in the commencement of the ensuing chapter, on the subject of superiority. Thus S. Jer., Chrys., Tirinus, &c.

* A. D. 32. Mark ix. 33 ; Luke ix. 46.—^b Infra, xix. 14.—^c 1 Cor. xiv. 20.—^d Mark ix. 41 ; Luke xvii. 2.—^e Supra, v. 30 ; Mark ix. 42.

CHAP. XVIII. VER. 1. Who, thinkest thou? This altercation for superiority among the apostles, whilst they were upon their road to Judea, might have arisen from another cause besides the precedence given by Jesus Christ to Peter above, as S. Chrysostom (hom. 59, in Matt.) affirms. A report prevailed among the disciples, that Christ would soon die ; and they wished to know who would be the first, when he was gone. Jans.—Or expecting that by his future resurrection he would enter into full possession of his temporal kingdom, they wished to learn which of them should be the greater in this new and glorious state. Calmet supposes that Peter was not with them, but that he had gone before with his Master to Capharnaum. C.

VER. 2. And Jesus calling . . . a little child. In S. Mark (ix. 32) we find that Jesus did this in the house, when they were arrived at Capharnaum.

VER. 3. You shall not enter, &c., i. e. you shall have no place in my kingdom of glory, in heaven, where none shall find admittance but they that are truly humble. Wi.—Our Lord in this and the next chapter teaches us, 1st, To sit down in the lowest place ; 2nd, to bear patiently with our neighbour ; 3rd, not to scandalize a weak brother ; 4th, mildly to correct him when faulty ; and 5thly, to forgive him when repentant.

VER. 4. Greatest in the kingdom of heaven, because more conformable to me here on earth. Humble souls, who are little in their own eyes, are so dear and closely united to the Almighty, that Christ declares them to be the most acceptable, the first in merit, not highest in authority or dignity, either in church or state, as some idle fanatics pretend. Jans.

VER. 5. He that shall receive. To receive, in the style of the Scriptures, is to honour and favour, to be charitable, and kind to any one. Wi.—What greater proof can we wish for of the merit of good works !!!

VER. 6. But he that shall scandalize, shall by their evil doctrine or example draw others into sinful ways. The words scandalize, and scandal, being sufficiently understood, and authorized by use, both in English and French, might, I thought, be retained. The words offend and offences, in the Prot. translation, do not express sufficiently the sense. Wi.—That is, shall put a stumblingblock in their way, and cause them to fall into sin. Ch.

VER. 7. It must needs be, not absolutely, but the weakness and wickedness of the world considered that scandals should happen. Wi.—Considering the wickedness and corruption of the world, such things always will happen ; but the judgments of God, though slow, will be terrible in the extreme.—We must not suppose for a moment that Christ subjects human actions to the control of rigid fatality. It is not the prescience or prediction of Christ, which causes these evils to take place ; they do not happen because Christ foretold them ; but Christ foretold them because they would infallibly happen. The Almighty permits scandals, because the good are benefited by them, making them more diligent and more watchful : witness the great virtue of Job, of Joseph, and many others perfected in needs be that scandals come : nevertheless woe to that man by whom the scandal cometh.

8 ^e And if thy hand or thy foot scandalize thee, cut it off, and cast it from thee. It is better for thee to enter into life maimed or lame, than having two hands or two feet, to be cast into everlasting fire.

9 And if thy eye scandalize thee, pluck it out, and cast it from thee. It is better for thee with one eye to enter into life, than having two eyes to be cast into hell fire.

10 Take heed that you despise not one of these little ones : for I say to you, ^f that their angels in heaven always see the face of my Father who is in heaven.

11 ^g For the Son of man is come to save that which was lost.

12 ^h What think you ? If a man have a hundred sheep, and one of them should go astray ; doth he not leave the ninety-nine in the mountains, and go to seek that which is gone astray ?

13 And if it be so that he find it, amen, I say to you, he rejoiceth more for that than for the ninety-nine that went not astray.

14 Even so it is not the will of your Father, who is in heaven, that one of these little ones should perish.

15 ⁱ But if thy brother shall offend against thee, go, temptation. If the less virtuous receive any detriment from scandals, they owe it to their own sloth and laziness. S. Chry. Hom. 60.

^f Psal. xxxiii. 8.—^g Luke xix. 10.—^h Luke xv. 4.—ⁱ Lev. xix. 17 ; Eccli. xix. 18 ; Luke xvii. 3 ; James v. 19.

VER. 8. And if thy hand or thy foot, &c. These comparisons are to make us sensible, that we must quit and renounce what is most dear to us, sooner than remain in the occasions of offending God. Wi.—These words more properly mean our relatives and friends, who are united to us as closely as the different members of the body.

VER. 10. Their angels. The Jews also believed that men had their good angels, or angels appointed to be their guardians. See Gen. xlviii. 16. Wi.—Observe the dignity of the humble and little, whom the world despises. They have angels constantly pleading their cause in the Divine presence. They are now weak and unable to defend themselves, but they have their advocates in heaven, accusing those who offer them any injury or scandal. It is evident from many parts of Scripture, that angels are appointed guardians of kingdoms, countries, cities, and even individuals. Exod. xxiii. ; Dan. x. ; Apoc. xii. ; et alibi. The angel of the Lord shall encamp round about them that fear him, and he shall deliver them. Psal. xxxiii. S. Jerom does not hesitate to affirm that every man has an angel assigned him at his birth, which he confirms from chap. xii. of Acts, where it is related that the girl thought she saw Peter's angel. The thing is so plain, that Calvin dares not deny it, and yet he will needs doubt of it. L. I, Inst. c. 14, sect. 7. The opinion of S. Augustin is universal in the Catholic Church : " I esteem it, O my God, an inestimable benefit, that thou hast granted me an angel to guide me from the moment of my birth, to my death." De Dilig. Deo. Medit. c. 12.

VER. 12. If a man have a hundred sheep? This is to show the goodness and mercy of God towards sinners. By the one sheep, some understand all mankind, and by the ninety-nine, the angels in heaven. Wi.—Jesus Christ manifests his tender regard and solicitude for us poor weak creatures, by becoming himself the Son of man, thus abandoning in some measure the angels who are in heaven. He is come down upon earth to save by his death what was lost, imitating thus, with regard to men, the conduct themselves observe with regard to their sheep. V.

VER. 14. Even so it is not. Here some may perhaps object, that since the Almighty does not wish any of his little ones to perish, he must consequently wish all to be saved, and therefore that all will be saved. Now this is not the case : the will of the Almighty is therefore sometimes frustrated in its effects, which is contrary to Scripture. To this objection, S. John Damascene replies, that in God we must distinguish two distinct wills ; the one antecedent, the other consequent. A person wills a thing antecedently, when he wills it merely as considered in itself. For instance, a prince wishes his subjects to live, inasmuch as they are all his subjects. But a person wills a thing consequentially, when he wills a thing in consideration of some particular circumstance. Thus, though the king wishes all his subjects to live, he nevertheless wills that some should die, if they turn traitors, or disorganize the peace of society. In the same manner, the Almighty wishes none of his little ones to perish, inasmuch as they are all his creatures, made to his own image, and destined for the kingdom of glory ; though it is equally certain that he wills the eternal punishment of many who have turned away from his service, and followed iniquity. If we observe this distinction, it is easy to see what our Saviour meant, when he said that it was not the will of his Father that any of these little ones should perish. S. John Dam.

VER. 15. Offend against thee. S. Chrysostom, S. Basil, and S. Jerom.

and reprove him between thee and him alone. If he shall hear thee, thou shalt gain thy brother.

16 But if he will not hear thee, take with thee one or two more, ^athat in the mouth of two or three witnesses every word may stand.

17 ^bAnd if he will not hear them: tell the church. And if he will not hear the church, let him be to thee as the heathen and the publican.

18 ^cAmen, I say to you, whatsoever you shall bind upon earth, shall be bound also in heaven: and whatsoever you shall loose upon earth, shall be loosed also in heaven.

19 Again I say to you, that if two of you shall agree upon earth, concerning any thing whatsoever they shall ask, it shall be done for them by my Father, who is in heaven.

20 For where there are two or three gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them.

21 Then Peter came unto him, and said: ^dLord, how often shall my brother offend against me, and I forgive him? Till seven times?

22 Jesus said to him: I say not to thee, till seven times; but till seventy times seven times.

23 Therefore is the kingdom of heaven likened to a king, who would take an account of his servants.

24 And when he had begun to take the account, one was brought to him, that owed him ten thousand talents.

25 And as he had not wherewith to pay it, his lord commanded that he should be sold, and his wife and children and all that he had, and payment be made.

26 But that servant falling down, besought him, saying: Have patience with me, and I will pay thee all.

27 And the lord of that servant being moved with compassion, let him go, and forgave him the debt.

28 But when that servant was gone out, he found one of his fellow-servants that owed him a hundred pence: and laying hold of him, he throttled him, saying: Pay what thou owest.

29 And his fellow-servant falling down, besought him, saying: Have patience with me, and I will pay thee all.

30 And he would not: but went and cast him into prison, till he should pay the debt.

31 Now his fellow-servants seeing what was done, were very much grieved, and they came, and told their lord all that was done.

32 Then his lord called him: and said to him: Thou wicked servant, I forgave thee all the debt, because thou besoughtest me.

33 Shouldst not thou then have had compassion also on thy fellow-servant, even as I had compassion on thee?

34 And his lord being angry, delivered him to the torturers until he should pay all the debt.

35 So also shall my heavenly Father do to you, if you forgive not every one his brother from your hearts.

CHAP. XIX.

Christ declares matrimony to be indissoluble: he recommends the making one's self an eunuch for the kingdom of heaven; and parting with all things for him. He shows the danger of riches, and the reward of leaving all to follow him.

AND it came to pass when Jesus had ended these words, he departed from Galilee, ^eand came into the confines of Judea beyond the Jordan.

2 And great multitudes followed him; and he healed them there.

3 ^fAnd the Pharisees came to him tempting him, saying: Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife for every cause?

4 And he answered, and said to them: Have ye not

^a Deut. xix. 15; John viii. 17; 2 Cor. xiii. 1; Heb. x. 28.—^b 1 Cor. v. 9; 2 Thess. iii. 14.

^c John xx. 23.—^d Luke xvii. 4.—^e A. D. 32. Mark x. 1, 12; Luke xvi. 1, 18.—^f Mark x. 2.

derstand from this verse, that the injured person is to go and admonish his brother. Others understand against thee, to mean in thy presence, or to thy knowledge, because fraternal correction is a duty, not only when our brother offends us, but likewise when he offends against his neighbour, and much more when he offends God. It is, moreover, a duty not peculiar to the injured, but common to all. When the offence is not personal, our advice will be less interested. This precept, though positive, is only obligatory when it is likely to profit your brother, as charity is the only motive for observing it. Therefore, it not only may, but ought to be omitted, when the contrary effect is likely to ensue, whether it be owing to the perversity of the sinner, or the circumstances of the admonisher. Jans.

VER. 17. Tell the church. This not only shows the order of fraternal correction, but also every man's duty in submitting to the judgment of the Church. Wi.—There cannot be a plainer condemnation of those who make particular creeds, and will not submit the articles of their belief to the judgment of the authority appointed by Christ. A.

VER. 18. Whatsoever you shall bind, &c. The power of binding and loosing, which in a more eminent manner was promised to S. Peter, is here promised to the other apostles and their successors, bishops and priests. Wi.—The power of binding and loosing, conferred on S. Peter, excelled that granted to the other apostles, inasmuch as to S. Peter, who was head and pastor of the whole Church, was granted jurisdiction over the other apostles, while these received no power over each other, much less over S. Peter. T.

VER. 19. That if two of you. From these words we learn how superior is public to private prayer. The efficacy of the former is attributed to the presence of Christ in those assemblies. The Father, for his Son's sake, will grant petitions thus offered. Jans.—The fervour of one will supply for the weakness and distractions of the other.

VER. 20. There am I in the midst of them. This is understood of such assemblies only as are gathered in the name and authority of Christ; and in unity of the Church of Christ. S. Cyprian de Unitate Ecclesiae. Ch.—S. Chrysostom, Theophylactus, and Euthymius explain the words in his name, thus, assembled by authority received from Christ, in the manner appointed by him, or for his sake, and seeking nothing but his glory. Hence we may see what confidence we may place in an oecumenical council lawfully assembled. T.—S. Greg. lib. 7. Regist. Epist. 112.

VER. 21. S. Peter knew the Jews to be much given to revenge; he therefore thought it a great proof of superior virtue to be able to forgive seven times. It was for this reason he proposed this question to our Lord; who, to show how much he esteemed charity, immediately answered, not only seven times, but seventy times seven times. He does not mean to say that this number must be the bounds of our forgiving; we must forgive to the end, and never take revenge, however often our brother offend against us. B.

VER. 22. Till seventy times seven; i. e. 490 times: but it is put by way of an unlimited number, to signify we must pardon private injuries, though never so often done to us. Wi.

VER. 24. Ten thousand talents. It is put as an example for an immense sum. It is not certainly agreed what was the value of a talent. A talent of gold is said to be 4900 lb.; of silver 375 lb. See Walton's Prolegomena, Dr. Harris's Lexicon, &c. Wi.—The 10,000 talents, according to some authors, amount to £1,875,000 sterling, i. e. 740,000 times as much as his fellow servant owed him; the hundred pence amounting to not more than £3. 2s. 6d.

VER. 35. So also shall my heavenly Father do to you. In this parable the master is said to have remitted the debt, and yet afterwards to have punished the servant for it. God doth not in this manner with us. But we may here observe, once for all, that in parables, diverse things are only ornamental to the parable itself; and a caution and restriction is to be used in applying them. Wi.—Not that God will revoke a pardon once granted; for this would be contrary to his infinite mercy, and his works are without repentance. It means that God will not pardon, or rather that he will severely punish, the ingratitude and inhumanity of the man, who, after having received from God the most liberal pardon of his grievous transgressions, refuses to forgive the slightest offence committed against him by his neighbour, who is a member, nay, a son of his God. T.

CHAP. XIX. VER. 3. Is it lawful? Here again the Pharisees, ever anxious to insnare Jesus in his words, come to him and ask him, Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife for every cause? But Jesus Christ, the wisdom of the eternal Father, silences them with the authority of that Scripture they attempted to bring against him. What God has joined together, let no man put asunder; intimating, that the connexion between husband and wife is so strict, that by it they become as one flesh, and can no more be separated than one member from another. Dion. Carth.—To put away his wife for every cause, or upon every occasion. They did not doubt of it, if the cause was considerable. Wi.

head, that he* who made man in the beginning, made them male and female? And he said :

5 °For this cause, shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave unto his wife, and they two shall be in one flesh.

6 Wherefore they are no more two, but one flesh. What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder.

7 They say to him : °Why then did Moses command to give a bill of divorce, and to put away ?

8 He saith to them : Moses because of the hardness of your hearts permitted you to put away your wives : but from the beginning it was not so.

9 °And I say to you, whosoever shall put away his wife, except it be for fornication, and shall marry another, committeth adultery ; and he who shall marry her that is put away, committeth adultery.

10 His disciples say unto him : If the case of a man with his wife be so, it is not good to marry.

11 He said to them : All receive not this word, but they to whom it is given.

12 For there are eunuchs, who were born so from their mother's womb : and there are eunuchs, who were made so by men : and there are eunuchs, who have made themselves eunuchs for the kingdom of heaven's sake. He that can receive it, let him receive it.

13 °Then were little children presented to him, that he should lay his hands upon them and pray. And the disciples rebuked them.

14 But Jesus said to them : °Suffer the little children, and forbid them not to come to me : for the kingdom of heaven is for such.

15 And when he had laid his hands upon them, he departed thence.

16 And behold one came and said to him : Good master, what good shall I do that I may have life everlasting ?

17 And he said to him : Why askest thou me concerning good ? One is good, God. But if thou wilt enter into life, keep the commandments.

18 He saith to him : Which ? And Jesus said : °Thou shalt do no murder, Thou shalt not commit adultery, Thou shalt not steal, Thou shalt not bear false witness.

19 Honour thy father and thy mother : and, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.

20 The young man saith to him : All these have I kept from my youth : what is yet wanting to me ?

21 Jesus saith to him : If thou wilt be perfect, go sell

* Gen. i. 27.—b Gen. ii. 24 ; 1 Cor. vi. 16 ; Eph. v. 31.—c Deut. xxiv. 1.—d Supra, v. 32 ; Mark x. 11 ; Luke xvi. 18 ; 1 Cor. vii. 10.

• A. D. 33. Mark x. 13 ; Luke xviii. 15.—f Supra, xviii. 3. g Exod. xx. 13.

VER. 5. These words were pronounced by Adam. Gen. vi. 24.—And they two shall be in one flesh.† I translate thus, with submission to better judges ; yet the sense may be, by a kind of Hebraism, they shall be esteemed as one person. Wi.

VER. 8. Moses, because of the hardness of your hearts, permitted you, &c. Whether this was permitted in the old law, so that the man who was divorced from his wife could marry another woman, is disputed. Some think this second marriage was still unlawful, though tolerated, and not punished. At least in the new law, a divorce upon just causes may be sometimes permitted ; but this does not make it lawful for the man or woman so separated to marry another. Wi.—The latter part of this verse of S. Paul, (Rom. vii. 3,) and the constant tradition of the Church, show that the exception only refers to separation, but not to the marrying another during the life of the parties. In this place Christ restores the original condition of the marriage state, and henceforth will have it to be a perfect figure of the hypostatic union of his Divine person with our human nature, as also of his nuptial union with his Church, and consequently that it should be indissoluble. T.

VER. 9. And I say to you. It is worthy of remark, that in the parallel texts, S. Mark, x. 2, and S. Luke, xvi. 18, and S. Paul, 1 Cor. vii. 10, omit the exception of fornication ; and also that S. Matthew himself omits it in the second part of the verse ; and says absolutely, that he who shall marry her that is put away, committeth adultery. It perhaps crept in here from chap. v. 32, where it is found in a phrase very similar to this, but which expresses a case widely different. Divorce is in no case admitted but in that of adultery. This is what Christ teaches in chap. v. 32, and to this the exception is referred, marked in the two texts. But in this very case the separated parties cannot contract a second marriage without again committing adultery, as we must infer, from a comparison of this text with the parallel texts of S. Mark and of S. Luke. V.—If we did not understand it in this manner, the case of the adulteress would be preferable to the case of her who should be put away without any crime of her own ; as in this supposition, the former would be allowed to marry again, which the latter would not be allowed. T.—This universally received doctrine of the Catholic Church was confirmed in the general Council of Trent. Sess. 24, Can. 6.

VER. 11. All receive not this word.† To translate all cannot take, or cannot receive this word, is neither conformable to the Latin nor Greek text. To be able to live singly, and chastely, is given to every one that asketh, and prayeth for the grace of God to enable him to live so. Wi.—Jesus Christ takes occasion from the remark of the Pharisees to praise holy virginity, which he represents as a great and good gift of heaven ; and such it has ever been considered in the eye of true and genuine religion. Hence it appears that besides commandments, there are evangelical counsels, to the observance of which it is both lawful and meritorious for a Christian to devote himself, especially for the purpose of employing himself with great liberty and less encumbrance in the service of his God.—All cannot receive it, because all do not wish it. The reward is held out to all. Let him who seeks for glory, not think of the labour. None would overcome, if all were afraid of engaging in the conflict. If some fail, are we to be less careful in our pursuit of this virtue ? Is the soldier terrified, because his comrade fights and falls by his side ? S. Chrys.—He that can receive it, let him receive it. He that can fight, let him fight, overcome, and triumph. It is the voice of the Lord animating his soldiers to victory. S. Jer.

VER. 12. And there are eunuchs, who have made themselves eunuchs, &c.

It is not to be taken in the literal sense, but of such who have taken a firm and commendable resolution of leading a single life.—He that can receive it, let him receive it. Some think that to receive, in this and the foregoing verse, is to understand ; and so will have the sense to be, he that can understand what I have said of different eunuchs, let him understand it ; as when Christ said elsewhere, he that hath ears to hear, let him hear. But others expound it as an admonition to men and women, not to engage themselves in a vow of living a single life, unless, after a serious deliberation, they have good grounds to think they can duly comply with this vow, otherwise let them not make it. Wi.

VER. 13. That he should lay his hands upon them. It was the custom to present children to men reputed holy, as it is now the custom for bishops and priests to pray and give a blessing to others. Wi.—It was customary with the Jews to present their children to the elders, that they might receive their blessing ; hence they present them on this occasion to our Lord. Remigius.

VER. 14. Jesus said . . . Suffer the little children, &c. He here blames the conduct of the apostles, and shows that his assertions in praise of virginity were not meant as derogatory from the holiness of the marriage state, by giving his blessing to these little ones, the fruits of lawful wedlock ; and declares that the kingdom of heaven is the portion of such as resemble these little ones, by the innocence of their lives and simplicity of their hearts. He, moreover, shows that confidence in our own strength, in our own free-will, and in our merits, is an invincible obstacle to salvation. S. Mark (x. 16) says, that embracing them, and laying his hands upon them, he blessed them. Hence probably arose the ancient custom of presenting children to bishops and priests, to receive their blessing, beside that of confirmation immediately after baptism.—Nicephorus tells us that the celebrated S. Ignatius, afterwards bishop of Antioch, was one of these children who, on this occasion, received Christ's blessing.

VER. 17. Why askest thou me concerning good ? In the ordinary Greek copies, Why dost thou call me good ? Wi.—One is good, &c. God alone, by his own nature, is essentially, absolutely, and unchangeably good ; at the same time, he is the source of all created goodness, as all goodness is a mere emanation from him. The person here addressing our Saviour, appears not to have believed that Christ was God : wherefore our Saviour, to rectify his misconception, tells him that God alone is good, insinuating thereby, that he should believe him to be God, or cease to address him by the title of good. T.

VER. 21. If thou wilt be perfect. This shows there is a difference betwixt things that are of precept, and those that are of counsel only, which they aim at that aspire to the greatest perfection. Wi.—Evangelical perfection essentially consists in the perfect observance of God's commandments, which is greatly assisted by embracing not only voluntary poverty, but also the other counsels given to us in the Gospels, such as perpetual chastity, and entire obedience.—Follow me. Thus to follow Christ, is to be without wife and care of children, to have no property, and to live in community ; this state of life hath a great reward in heaven. This state, we learn from S. Augustin, the apostles followed ; and he himself not only embraced it, but exhorted as many others as he possibly could to embrace it : Aug. Ep. 89, in fine, and in Psal. ciii. Conc. 3, post med. B.—In this chapter Jesus Christ delivers the evangelical counsels. In ver. 12 he recommends continency—here he proposes voluntary poverty, and immediately adds that of obedience, follow me. S. Augustin teaches, that the apostles bound themselves by κτλ to the observance of these three counsels. De Civit. Dei, b. 17, c. 4.

what thou hast and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come, follow me.

22 And when the young man had heard this word, he went away sorrowful: for he had great possessions.

23 Then Jesus said to his disciples: Amen, I say to you, that a rich man shall hardly enter into the kingdom of heaven.

24 And again I say to you: It is easier for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of heaven.

25 And when the disciples had heard this, they wondered very much, saying: Who then can be saved?

26 And Jesus beholding, said to them: With men this is impossible: but with God all things are possible.

27 Then Peter answering, said to him: Behold we have left all things, and have followed thee: what therefore shall we have?

28 And Jesus said to them: Amen, I say to you, that you, who have followed me, in the regeneration, when the Son of man shall sit on the seat of his majesty, you also shall sit on twelve seats, judging the twelve tribes of Israel.

29 And every one that hath left house, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands,

* Infra, xx. 16; Mark x. 31; Luke xiii. 30.

VER. 24. It is easier for a camel, &c. This might be a common saying, to signify any thing impossible, or very hard. Some by a camel, would have to be meant a cable, or ship-rope, but that is differently writ in Greek, and here is commonly understood a true camel. Wi.—But nothing is impossible to God.

VER. 27. Behold we have left all! What confidence this in Peter! He had been but a fisherman, always poor, living by his industry, and gaining his bread by the sweat of his brow; yet with great confidence he says, we have left all. S. Jer.—For we are not to consider what he left, but the will with which he left his all. He leaves a great deal, who reserves nothing for himself. It is a great matter to quit all, though the things we leave be very inconsiderable in themselves. Do we not observe with how great affection we love what we already have, and how earnestly we search after what we have not? It is on this account that S. Peter, and his brother, S. Andrew, left much, because they denied themselves even the desire and inclination of possessing any thing. S. Gregory on S. Matt. hom. 5.—Though I have not been rich, I shall not, on that account, receive a less reward; for the apostles, who have done the same thing with me, were no richer than myself. He therefore leaves all the world, who leaves all he has, and the desire of ever having more. S. Aug. Ep. 89, ad Hilary.

VER. 28. In the regeneration. Jesus Christ here calls the general resurrection the regeneration, because there will then be a renovation of the human body, and of the whole world. The promise which is here made to the apostles of sitting on thrones at the general judgment, and passing sentence on the twelve tribes of Israel, must not be understood as limited to the apostles, or to the Jews. For S. Paul says, (1 Cor. vi. 2, and 3,) that not only he, but also many of the Corinthians to whom he was writing, would judge not merely the twelve tribes, but the whole world, and, moreover, angels themselves. It is the opinion of many of the holy Fathers, S. Jerom, S. Austin, S. Gregory, and others, that all apostolical men, i. e. such as, renouncing the goods of this life, adhere to Christ in mind and affection, and by every possible means promote his reign and the propagation of his gospel, will be so far honoured as to sit in judgment with him at the general resurrection. T.—You also shall sit on twelve seats, or thrones, meaning at the general resurrection, when Christ will appear on the throne of his majesty, with his heavenly court, and with his elect, shall condemn the wicked world. Wi.

VER. 29. Shall receive a hundred-fold. In S. Mark we read a hundred-fold now in this time, and in the world to come life everlasting. Which hundred-fold is to be understood of the blessings in this life, of interior consolations, of the peace of a good conscience, and in general of spiritual gifts and graces, which are much more valuable than all temporal goods. And besides these spiritual graces in this world, he shall have everlasting glory in the world to come. Wi.

* V. 3. Quacunque ex causa, κατὰ πᾶσαν αἰτίαν, ex qualibet causa.

† V. 5. Erunt duo in carne una, δύο εἰς σάρκα μίαν, in carnem unam, as Gen. ii. 7, factus est homo in animam viventem. See Maldon.

‡ V. 11. Non omnes capiunt, οὐ πάντες χωροῦσι. Maldonat will needs have χωρεῖν to signify intelligere, as it does sometimes. But S. Jerom on this place, unusquisque consideret vires suas, &c. And S. Chrys. (Hom. 63) ut singulare esse certamen perdisas. The said S. Jerom adds, Sed his datum est, qui petierunt; qui voluerunt, qui ut acciperent, laboraverunt. And S. Chrys., His enim datum est, qui sponte id eligunt. δέδοται γὰρ ἰκεῖνοις τοῖς βουλομένοις. Ed. Sav. p. 397.

§ V. 17. Quid me interrogas de bono? ἐρωτᾷς περὶ ἀγαθοῦ. In the common Greek copies, τί με λέγεις ἀγαθόν.

or my name's sake, shall receive a hundred-fold, and shall possess life everlasting

30 But many that are first, shall be last: and the last shall be first.

CHAP. XX.

The parable of the labourers in the vineyard. The ambition of the two sons of Zebedee. Christ gives sight to two blind men.

THE kingdom of heaven is like to a master of a family, who went out early in the morning to hire labourers into his vineyard.

2 And when he had agreed with the labourers for a penny a day, he sent them into his vineyard.

3 And he went out about the third hour, and saw others standing idle in the market-place,

4 And he said to them: Go you also into my vineyard, and I will give you what shall be just.

5 And they went their way. And again he went out about the sixth and the ninth hour: and did in like manner.

6 But about the eleventh hour he went out and found others standing, and he saith to them: Why stand you here all the day idle?

7 They say to him: Because no man hath hired us. He saith to them: Go you also into my vineyard.

† A. D. 33; Mark x. 32, 34; Luke xviii. 31, 34.

|| V. 24. Camelum, κάμηλον, which is observed to be different from κάμιλον, a cable, or ship-rope. See Mr. Legh, Critica Sacra.

CHAP. XX. VER. 1. There are various opinions respecting who are meant by the first, and who by the last, in this parable. Many of the Fathers suppose that the saints of different states and degrees are here designed, whose reward will suffer no diminution from the circumstance of their having come to the service of Christ at a late age of the world, according to SS. Hilary, Gregory, and Theophylactus, or, at a late age of life, according to SS. Basil, Jerom, and Fulgentius. In the latter case, however, we must understand that their greater fervour in co-operating with Divine grace, in the latter part of their life, has supplied and compensated for the defect of their preceding negligence; hence it may sometimes happen that the reward of such as enter late in life on the service of God, will exceed that of the less fervent who have entered at an earlier period. But as Christ rather seems to speak here of his militant than of his triumphant Church, many commentators explain the parable of the Jews and Gentiles. For the Jews, after bearing the heavy yoke of the Mosaic law for so many ages, received nothing more than what was promised to the observance of that law; whilst Christians receive a more plentiful reward for their more easy labour under the sweet yoke of the gospel. In which sense Christ says to the Jews, Luke xiii. 29: Publicans and harlots shall go before you into the kingdom of heaven. "And strangers shall come from the east, and from the west, and the north, and the south, and shall sit down in the kingdom of God. And behold they are last that shall be first, and they are first that shall be last." Ibid. 30.—Hence the Jews may be supposed to murmur, that they who are first in their vocation to be the people of God, and first in the observance of his law, should not be preferred to others, who in these respects have been far posterior to them. T.

VER. 2. The Roman penny, or denarius, was the 8th part of an ounce, which, at the rate of 5s. per ounce, is 7½d. It is put here for the usual hire of a day-labourer.

VER. 3. About the third hour. As the Jews divided their nights into four watches, each watch comprehending three hours, so they divided their days into four greater hours, from sunrise to sunset, and each of these great hours contained three lesser hours; so that the whole day, from sunrise to sunset, consisted of twelve hours, as also did the night. The first of the great hours, comprehending the three first lesser hours, contained half of the space betwixt the rising of the sun and mid-day; and the end of this time was called the third hour. The next great hour was from that time till mid-day, called the sixth hour. The following great hour contained half of the time betwixt noon and the setting of the sun, the end of which was called the ninth hour. The fourth great hour comprehended the last three lesser hours remaining till sunset, so that at the end of the eleventh hour, mentioned here, ver. 6, began the last lesser hour of the twelve hours of the day; of which our Saviour said, (John xi. 9,) are there not twelve hours in the day?—The design of this parable was to show that the Gentiles, though called later than the Jews, should be made partakers of the promises made to the Jews; this is also the meaning of ver. 16, where it is said: the last shall be first, and the first last. Wi.

VER. 4. I will give you what shall be just. The prospect of a reward is therefore a good motive, authorized here by Christ himself.

VER. 7. No man hath hired us. S. Chrys. again puts us in mind, that in parables all the parts are not significant, but some things to be taken as mere 8 And when evening was come, the lord of the vineyard saith to his steward: Call the labourers and pay them their hire, beginning from the last even to the first.

9 When therefore they came, who had come about the eleventh hour, they received every man a penny.

10 But when the first also came, they thought that they should have received more: and they likewise received every man a penny.

11 And when they received it, they murmured against the master of the house,

12 Saying: These last have worked but one hour, and thou hast made them equal to us, that have borne the burden of the day and the heats.

13 But he answering one of them, said, Friend, I do thee no wrong: didst thou not agree with me for a penny?

14 Take what is thine, and go thy way: I will also give to this last even as to thee.

15 Or is it not lawful for me to do what I will? is thy eye evil, because I am good?

16 *So shall the last be first, and the first last. For many are called, but few chosen.

17 And Jesus going up to Jerusalem, took the twelve disciples apart, and said to them:

18 Behold we go up to Jerusalem, and the Son of man shall be betrayed to the chief priests and to the Scribes, and they shall condemn him to death.

19 And shall deliver him to the Gentiles to be mocked, and to be scourged, and to be crucified, and the third day he shall rise again.

* Supra, xix. 30; Mark x. 31; Luke xiii. 30.—b Mark x. 35.—c Mark x. 41.

ornaments of parabolical discourses, as here murmurings, which cannot be found in heaven: nor can men pretend they are not hired into God's service; God hath given lights, called, hired, and promised heaven to all. The rewards in heaven are also different. And they who are last called, if they labour with greater fervour, may deserve a greater reward than others called before them. Wi.

VER. 14. I will also give. Some are called to the service of their God, and to a life of virtue, from their infancy, whilst others, by a powerful call from above, are converted late in life, that the former may have no occasion to glory in themselves, or to despise those who, even in the eleventh hour, enter upon the path of rectitude; and that all might learn that there is time sufficient, however short, left them to repair by their diligence and fervour their past losses. S. Chry. Hom. 65.

VER. 16. Few chosen: only such as have not despised their caller, but followed and believed him; for men believe not, but of their own free-will. S. Aug. l. 1, ad Simplic. q. 2. B.—In effect, many, after their call, have attained to faith and justification; but few in comparison are elected to eternal glory, because the far greater part do not obey the call, but refuse to come, whilst many of those who come fall away again; and thus very few, in comparison with those that perish, will at the last day be selected for eternal glory. T.

VER. 18. Behold we go, &c. Jesus had repeatedly spoken to his apostles of his passion; but as much of what he had said had escaped their memory, now that he is upon the road to Jerusalem in company with his disciples, he brings it back to their recollection, to fortify them against the scandal they might take at his ignominious death. S. Jerom.

VER. 19. The third day he shall rise again. We may take notice, that as often as Christ mentioned his sufferings and death, he also joined his resurrection, that they might take notice, and not lose their faith. Wi.

VER. 20. Then come to him. Upon Christ's informing his apostles that he should die and rise again, they conceived that he would immediately reign in Jerusalem with great glory and power; and it was this made the mother of the sons of Zebedee petition that they might take precedence, and be honoured by the other apostles. But Christ answers them, that they knew not what they asked, for honours were to be bestowed not on relationship, but on merit: in like manner, the dignities of the Church are not to be conferred upon relatives, but upon the worthy. Nic. de Lyra.—On comparing the 27th chapter of S. Matt. with the 15th of S. Mark, it will appear that she was the same as Salome.—In S. Mark x. 35, we find that the sons themselves made this petition: both the sons and their mother might make it; at least the sons may be said to have done what they got their mother to desire for them; and therefore Christ directed his answer to them: You know not what you ask. You think, says S. Chrys., of temporal preferments, of honours, and crowns, when you should be preparing yourselves for conflicts and battles. Wi.

VER. 23. The chalice. It is a metaphor signifying Christ's sufferings and death. See Psal. x. 7, and lxxiv. 9; Isa. li. 17. The apostles replied, We can drink thy cup. Their answer showed their readiness, but want of humility. Wi.

20 *Then came to him the mother of the sons of Zebedee with her sons, worshipping and desiring something of him.

21 And he said to her: What wilt thou? She saith to him: Say that these my two sons may sit, the one on thy right hand, and the other on thy left, in thy kingdom.

22 But Jesus answered, and said: You know not what you ask. Can you drink of the chalice that I shall drink? They say to him: We can.

23 He saith to them: Of my chalice indeed you shall drink: but to sit on my right or left hand, is not mine to give you, but to them for whom it is prepared by my Father.

24 *And when the ten heard it, they were moved with indignation against the two brethren.

25 *But Jesus called them to him, and said: You know that the princes of the Gentiles lord it over them: and they that are the greater, exercise power upon them.

26 It shall not be so among you; but whosoever will be the greater among you, let him be your minister:

27 And he who would be the first among you, shall be your servant.

28 *Even as the Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a redemption for many.

29 *And when they went out from Jericho, a great multitude followed him.

30 And behold two blind men sitting by the way side, heard that Jesus passed by, and they cried out, saying: O Lord, Son of David, have mercy on us.

d Luke xxii. 25.—e Phil. ii. 7.—f Mark x. 46; Luke xviii. 35.

VER. 23. Of my chalice indeed you shall drink. S. James was the first apostle that suffered martyrdom at Jerusalem. Acts xii. 2. And S. John at Rome was put into a cauldron of boiling oil, and banished into Patmos.—*Is not mine to give you. The Arians objected these words against Christ's Divinity. S. Aug. answers that the words are true if taken of Christ, as he was man. The easier answer is, that it was not his to give to them, while they were in those dispositions of pride and ambition. So that the distinction made, is not betwixt the Father and his eternal Son, as if the Father could give what the Son could not, but betwixt persons worthy and not worthy of such a favour.

VER. 24. The ten . . . were moved with indignation against the two brethren, who had petitioned for the first and chief places. Wi.—The disciples understood from our Lord's answer, that the request came in the first instance from the two disciples; but as they saw them much honoured by Christ, they did not dare openly to accuse them. S. Chry.—The other ten apostles were as much wrong in their anger and jealousy as the former two were in their untimely petition. In his answer to both, we cannot sufficiently admire the wonderful meekness of our blessed Saviour's character. Jansenius.

VER. 25. Princes of the Gentiles lord it over them: tyrannize over those that are under them, by arbitrary and violent proceedings. Wi.—Our Lord, wishing to extinguish the indignation conceived against the two brothers, lays before them the difference of secular and ecclesiastical princes, showing that precedence in the Church is neither to be sought for by him who is not possessed of it, nor too eagerly loved by him who has it; for secular princes are lords of their subjects, keeping them under subjection, and govern them in every particular according to their will; but ecclesiastical princes are honoured with precedence, that they may be servants of their inferiors, administer to them whatever they have received from Christ, neglect their own convenience for the good of their neighbour, and be willing even to die for the spiritual good of their subjects. It is neither just nor reasonable, therefore, to desire precedence in the Church, without these qualifications. No prudent man is willing to subject himself to such servitude and danger, as to take upon himself the obligation of having to give an account of the wickedness and perversity of others, unless, fearless of the Divine judgments, he abuse his ecclesiastical superiority. S. Chrys.

VER. 28. A redemption for many; i. e. for all, as it is sometimes the style of the Scriptures. See S. Paul, 1 Tim. ii. 6. Wi.—Certain Puritans pretend from this part of Holy Scripture, that all superiority is forbidden: but it is merely pride, ambition, and haughtiness, not superiority, that is here proscribed. Jesus Christ himself, as Son of man, was their and our Superior, Lord, and Master, notwithstanding his humility. B.—For the Divine appointment of both civil and ecclesiastical government, see Rom. xiii. 2, and 1 Cor. xii. 28; Heb. xiii. 7, 17.

VER. 30. Two blind men. S. Mark, (x. 46,) when he seems to relate the same passage, mentions but one, called Bartimeus; perhaps because he was the more famous of the two. Wi.—These were very opportunely presented to our 31 And the multitude rebuked them that they should hold their peace. But they cried out the more, saying: O Lord, Son of David, have mercy on us.

32 And Jesus stood still and called them, and said: What will ye that I should do to you?

33 They say to him: Lord, that our eyes may be opened.

34 And Jesus having compassion on them, touched their eyes. And immediately they received sight, and followed him.

CHAP. XXI.

Christ rides into Jerusalem upon an ass: he casts the buyers and sellers out of the temple: curses the fig-tree: and puts to silence the priests and Scribes.

AND^a when they drew nigh to Jerusalem, and were come to Bethphage, unto Mount Olivet, then Jesus sent two disciples,

2 Saying to them: Go ye into the village that is over against you, and immediately you shall find an ass tied, and a colt with her: loose them and bring them to me.

3 And if any man shall say any thing to you, say ye, that the Lord hath need of them: and forthwith he will let them go.

4 Now all this was done that the word might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying:

5 "Tell ye the daughter of Sion: Behold, thy King

^a A. D. 33. Mark xi. 1, 10; Luke xix. 29; John xii. 12.—^b Isa. lxii. 11; Zac. ix. 9; John xii. 15.

Lord, that they might go up to Jerusalem with him, after they had received sight from his Divine hands, and appear there as witnesses of the Divinity of his mission. S. Chrys. hom. 66, in Matt.

* V. 23. Non est meum dare vobis. Now we read only in the Greek, οὐκ ἔστιν ἡμῶν δοῦναι. It is so also in S. Chrys., in S. Cyril, (in Thesaur. Assertione 26, tom. 5, p. 243,) where he answers this objection of the Arians. Nor is ἡμῶν in the Greek text of S. Epiphanius, (Hær. 69, p. 742,) though it be put there in the Latin translation. S. Aug. has not vobis: (l. 1, de Trin. c. 12, p. 763. G. tom. 8,) but in Psal. ciii. (tom. 4, p. 1157) he says, Quid est non est meum dare vobis? non est meum dare superbis. S. Amb. (l. 5, de Fide, tom. 4, c. 3, p. 147,) Non dixit non est meum dare, sed non est meum dare vobis, hoc est, non sibi potestatem desse asserens, sed meritum creaturæ. Besides, the Fathers, who did not read vobis in the text, show by their expositions, that they took the sense to be the same, and no ways favourable to the Arians. See S. Aug. l. 1, de Trin., p. 766. A. non est meum dare, ac si diceretur, non est humanæ potestatis hoc dare, ut per illud intelligatur hoc dare, per quod Deus est æqualis Patri, &c. See S. Chrys. Hom. 66. S. Cyril in Thesaur. Assert. 26, p. 243. S. Epiphanius. Hær. 69, p. 782, &c.

CHAP. XXI. VER. 1. Bethphage, was a village of the priests, and signifies the house of figs and dates, or the house of the fountain, or, of the flatterer, situated on the declivity of Mount Olivet, about a mile to the east of Jerusalem, a subbath day's journey. As Bethphage was probably so called from the fig and date-trees growing there, Mount Olivet was from the great number of olive-trees; τῶν ἐλαιῶν. This triumphal entry of Jesus Christ into Jerusalem from Bethania, was on the first day of the week, answering to our Sunday, the very day on which, by the appointment of the law, (Exod. xii. 3,) the lamb was brought thither, to be sacrificed at the Passover. To show, moreover, that in himself all the figures of the old law were realized, he chose that very night for the institution of the Passover of the new law, the blessed eucharist, which was appointed for the immolation of the paschal lamb in the old law, and the very day for the redemption of the world, in which the people of God had formerly been redeemed from Egyptian bondage.

VER. 2. Go ye into the village; in Latin, Castellum; but in Greek, εἰς κώμην, which is before you, contra vos, as Virgil says, Italian contra. Æneid l. 8. Some authors think it was Bethphage. A.—An ass tied, and a colt with her*. This colt, which never yet had been rid upon, represented the people of the Gentiles, to whom God had not given a written law, as he had done to the Jews. Here was manifestly fulfilled the prophecy of Zachary, chap. ix. It was now the first day of the week, in which Christ suffered; he was pleased to enter into Jerusalem in a kind of triumph, the people making acclamations to him, as to their King and Messiah. W.—Both Jews and Gentiles, figured by the ass and the colt, are to be loosed and conducted by the hands of the apostles of Christ to their Redeemer.

VER. 3. 4. The Lord hath need. Not our Lord, or your Lord, but the Lord, viz. of all, both of the beasts and of their masters, and of every creature. Christ cometh to thee, meek, and sitting upon an ass and a colt, the foal of her that is used to the yoke.

6 And the disciples going, did as Jesus commanded them.

7 And they brought the ass and the colt: and laid their garments upon them, and made him sit thereon.

8 And a very great multitude spread their garments in the way: and others cut down boughs from the trees, and strewed them in the way:

9 And the multitudes that went before and that followed, cried, saying: Hosanna to the Son of David: "Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord. Hosanna in the highest.

10 And when he was come into Jerusalem, the whole city was moved, saying: Who is this?

11 And the people said: This is Jesus the prophet, from Nazareth of Galilee.

12 "And Jesus went into the temple of God, and cast out all who were selling and buying in the temple, and overthrew the tables of the money-changers, and the chairs of them that sold doves.

13 And he saith to them: It is written: "My house shall be called the house of prayer: but you have made it a den of thieves.

14 And the blind, and the lame came to him in the temple: and he healed them.

* Psal. cxvii. 26; Mark xi. 10; Luke xix. 38.—^d Mark xi. 15; Luke xix. 45 John ii. 14. ^e Isa. lvi. 7; Jer. vii. 11; Luke xix. 46.

here discovers two of his own attributes, his omniscience and his supreme dominion. Now this was done not by accident, nor through novelty, or to avoid fatigue, but, as the evangelist declares, to accomplish the prophecy of Isaiah and of Zachary.

VER. 7. Sit thereon. S. Jerom reprobrates the opinion of those, who suppose that Christ rode upon both the ass and the colt, though without sufficient reason. The Greek indeed, ἐπὶ αὐτῶν, upon them, may be referred either to the beasts or to τὰ ἱμάτια, the garments; but the very general sentiment is, that he first sat upon the ass for a short time, and then mounted the colt. It may be asked why Jesus, who, through humility, had during his whole life travelled on foot, and in no one previous instance is found to have allowed himself the convenience of riding, should on this occasion enter Jerusalem riding? One reason was, as mentioned in note on ver. 4, supra, to fulfil the prophecy of Zacharias, who had given this mark of the Messiah. Hence S. John (Chrys. Hom. 66) challenges the Jews to show him any other king of theirs, who had entered Jerusalem riding on an ass. Other reasons were, to give a faint specimen of his real kingly dignity before he suffered; to be publicly acknowledged for the Messiah; to confirm the faith of his disciples; and to leave his enemies no excuse for their incredulity. On this, as on all other occasions, magnificence is admirably blended with humility, in our Saviour's actions. Even in this his triumph we cannot help admiring his humility, in riding upon an ass. Jans.

VER. 9. Hosanna,† or hosiah-na, was an acclamation of the Jews: when applied to God, means, Save us, I beseech Thee; when applied to a sovereign prince, means vivat, in Latin, or long live the king. V.—Hosanna, says S. Jerom, is the same as, Save, I beseech thee. Psal. cxvii. Some will have the word Hosanna directed to Christ himself, and the sense to be, Save us, O thou Son of David: others understand Hosanna, directed to God, as if the people said, Save, O Lord, this our King; by which the people wished peace, safety, and prosperity to Jesus their Messiah. W.

VER. 11. The prophet, &c. It was amidst these acclamations that Christ wept, and foretold the destruction of the city. Luke xix. 42. W.

VER. 12. And cast out all. Since the Jews came to the temple from all parts of Judea, such as came from a distance did not bring with them their sacrifices, but purchased them at Jerusalem. The money-changers were persons who lent out money to the poor, that they might purchase the victims, &c.—Into the temple. Into that part of it called the court of the Gentiles, where pigeons were to be sold for sacrifices, where there were tables of money-changers, &c. S. Jerom here admires this as one of the greatest of Christ's miracles, that a poor man should be permitted to cast the buyers and sellers out of the temple, to overturn their stalls, their money-tables, &c., without any opposition. W.

VER. 13. My house shall. That man is a thief, and turns the temple of God into a den of thieves, who makes religion a cloak for his avarice. Of all the innumerable miracles which Jesus performed, none appear greater in my eyes than this: that one man, at that time so contemned and despised, who was afterwards nailed to the tree of the cross, should with his single power be able to expel from the temple that multitude of Scribes and Pharisees, who were so maliciously bent upon his destruction, and so greedy of gain.

15 And when the chief priests and the Scribes saw the wonderful things that he did, and the children crying in the temple, and saying: Hosanna to the Son of David: they were moved with indignation.

16 And said to him: Hearest thou what these say? And Jesus said to them: Yea, have you never read: *Out of the mouth of infants and of sucklings thou hast perfected praise.

17 And leaving them, he went out of the city into Bethania: and remained there.

18 And in the morning, as he returned into the city, he was hungry.

19 *And seeing a fig-tree by the way-side, he came to it: and found nothing on it but leaves only, and he said to it: May no fruit grow on thee henceforward for ever. And immediately the fig-tree withered away.

20 *And the disciples seeing it, wondered, saying: How is it presently withered away?

21 And Jesus answering, said to them: Amen, I say to you, if you shall have faith, and stagger not, not only this of the fig-tree shall you do, but also if you shall say to this mountain, Take up and cast thyself into the sea, it shall be done.

22 *And all things whatsoever you shall ask in prayer, believing, you shall receive.

23 And when he was come into the temple, the chief priests and ancients of the people came to him as he was teaching, and said: *By what authority dost thou these things? and who gave thee this authority?

24 Jesus answering, said to them: I also will ask you one word, which if you shall tell me, I will also tell you by what authority I do these things.

25 The baptism of John, whence was it? from heaven or from men? But they thought within themselves, saying:

26 If we shall say, From heaven, he will say to us: Why then did not you believe him? But if we shall say,

From men, we are afraid of the multitude: *for all held John as a prophet.

27 And answering Jesus, they said: We know not. And he said to them: Neither do I tell you by what authority I do these things.

28 But what think you: A certain man had two sons, and coming to the first he said: Son, go work to-day in my vineyard.

29 And he answering, said: I will not. But afterwards, being moved with repentance, he went.

30 And coming to the other, he said in like manner And he answering, said: I go sir. And he went not.

31 Which of the two did the father's will? They say to him: The first. Jesus saith to them: Amen, I say to you, that the publicans and the harlots shall go into the kingdom of God before you.

32 For John came to you in the way of justice, and you did not believe him. But the publicans and the harlots believed him: but you seeing it, did not even afterwards repent, that you might believe him.

33 Hear ye another parable: *There was a certain master of a family who planted a vineyard, and made a hedge round about it, and dug in it a wine-press, and built a tower, and let it out to husbandmen: and went into a strange country.

34 And when the time of the fruit drew near, he sent his servants to the husbandmen, that they might receive the fruits of it.

35 And the husbandmen having laid hold of his servants, they beat one, they killed another, and another they stoned.

36 Again he sent other servants more than the former. and they did to them in like manner.

37 And last of all he sent to them his son, saying: They will reverence my son.

38 But when the husbandmen saw the son, they said

* Psal. viii. 3.—b Mark xi. 13.—c Mark xi. 20.—d Supra, vii. 7; Mark xi. 24; John xiv. 13, 16, 23.

* Mark xi. 28; Luke xx. 2.—f Supra, xiv. 5.—g Isa. v. 1; Jer. ii. 21; Mark xii. 1; Luke xx. 9.

VER. 15. Hosanna. S. Augustin (l. de Doct. Christ. c. 11) thinks this word is an interjection of joy, without any particular meaning, denoting only affection, as Racha is an expression of indignation. This opinion seems supported by the interpreters not having translated either of these words, but retained them in the Greek and in the Latin versions. It seems more than probable, according to S. Jerom, that the whole sentence is taken from Psal. cxvii. 25. and 26, in which supposition, hosanna will signify God save; the word me, though in the verse of the Psalm just mentioned, is not in the Hebrew. It is a familiar acclamation among the Jews, which they sung every day on the feast of the tabernacles, carrying branches in their hands. (The feast of the tabernacles was figurative of Christ's Divinity, resting under the tabernacle of our humanity.) The manner in which it was chaunted, was not unlike our litanies. First was sung some name or attribute of the Deity, as "For thy own sake, O Lord of lords," to which the people answered, "Hosanna," or "save us," "by thy covenant," "save us," "thy holy temple," "Hosanna, save us." These litanies were very long, and are said at present by the Jews in their synagogues. Many things have undoubtedly been added in process of time, but they most probably were in use from the beginning. Juns.

VER. 16. Have you never read: Out of the mouth, &c. The words are Psalm viii. 3, which some apply to the praises the people gave to David, when he had conquered Goliath, but Christ applies them to the present circumstances. Wi.

VER. 17. And having viewed all about (as we read in S. Mark xi. 11); when the hour of evening was come, he went out of the city into Bethania, as usual, with the twelve apostles. Hence we may collect in how great poverty our Saviour lived, and how far he was from flattering the great ones of this world, since he could not find a friend to offer him his house for a night's repose, and to ease his fatigued members, but is obliged to go to Bethania, a small village, to the house of Martha and Mary. S. Jer.

VER. 18. In the morning, returning into the city, he was hungry. This hunger, though real and pressing, was mysterious, and affords an opportunity of giving instruction both to the Jews and to all his disciples. By the fig-tree was represented the Jewish synagogue; the hunger of Christ was a figure of his extreme desire of finding it productive of good works, (and there is no time ex-season when the servants of God can be excused from bringing forth good works,) answerable to the pains of cultivation he had taken for more than three years. The leaves were their pompous show of exterior service, the barren foliage of legal rites, void of the internal spirit and good works, the only valuable produce of the tree. By the withering of the tree subsequent to Christ's imprecation, the reprobation and utter barrenness of the synagogue are represented. S. Mark observes, (xi. 13,) that it was not the season for figs; nor are we to suppose that our Saviour went up to the tree expecting to find fruit; but if some of the evangelists mention this circumstance, they only relate the surmises of the disciples. Though he had before shown his power by innumerable miracles, Christ still thought this necessary to excite the hearts of his disciples to greater confidence. He had often exercised his power to do good, but now for the first time shows himself able to punish. S. Chry. Hom. 68.

VER. 20. The disciples, &c. This surprise of the disciples, at the sudden withering of the fig-tree, happened the following morning. See Mark xi. 20.

VER. 24, 25. The baptism of John, by which is also understood his doctrine and preaching, was it from heaven or not? Wi.

VER. 28. A certain man had two sons, &c. The ancient interpreters, by the first son generally understand the Gentiles, as also publicans and scandalous sinners; and by the second the Jewish people. Wi.—By these two sons are to be understood, says S. Chrysostom, the Gentiles and the Jewish people; the latter our Redeemer wishes to make sensible of their own great ingratitude, and of the ready obedience of the cast-off Gentiles. For they having never heard the law nor promised obedience, have still shown their submission by their works; whereas the Jews, after promising to obey the voice of God, had neglected the performance. Hom. 68.

VER. 33. A certain master of a family, &c. This master is God; the vineyard, the Jews; the husbandmen, the Jewish priests; the servants, God's prophets, sent from time to time; the son, called (Mark xii. 6) his only and most dear son, is our Saviour Christ, whom they persecuted to death. Wi.

VER. 38. Heir. From this text it appears that the princes of the Jews knew Jesus to be the Messiah, and that it was only through envy and malice they were blinded as not to acknowledge him for the Son of God. When, therefore, the among themselves: *This is the heir, come, let us kill him, and we shall have his inheritance.

39 And taking him, they cast him forth out of the vineyard, and killed him.

40 When the lord therefore of the vineyard shall come, what will he do to those husbandmen?

41 They say to him: He will bring those evil men to an evil end: and will let out his vineyard to other husbandmen, that shall render him the fruit in due season.

42 Jesus saith to them: Have you never read in the Scriptures: *The stone which the builders rejected, the same is become the head of the corner? By the Lord this hath been done, and it is wonderful in our eyes.

43 Therefore I say to you, the kingdom of God shall be taken from you, and shall be given to a nation bringing forth the fruits thereof.

44 And whosoever shall fall on this stone, shall be broken: but on whomsoever it shall fall, it will grind him to powder.

45 And when the chief priests and Pharisees had heard his parables, they understood that he spoke of them.

46 And seeking to lay hands on him, they feared the multitudes: because they held him as a prophet.

CHAP. XXII.

The parable of the marriage feast: Christ orders tribute to be paid to Cæsar: he confutes the Sadducees: shows which is the first commandment in the law: and puzzles the Pharisees.

* Infra, xxvi. 3, and xxvii. 2; John xi. 53.—^b Psal. cxvii. 22; Acts iv. 11; Rom. ix. 33; apostle says, (1 Cor. ii. 8,) If they had known, they would not have crucified the Lord of glory, this, it is probable, must be understood of the common people, since we can hardly believe that the princes of the people were ignorant of it, as Christ had so repeatedly inculcated this truth, that he even says himself they had no excuse, and were only actuated by hatred against him and his Father. S. John xv. 22. T.

VER. 41. He will bring those evil men to an evil end. This answer was made by some of them. Yet S. Luke (xx. 16) tells us, that others among them, (whom we may take to be the Scribes and Pharisees,) cried out, God forbid; seeing well enough that this was a prediction of their future ruin. Wi.

VER. 42. The head of the corner. By these words, (Psal. cxvii.,) which the Jews themselves expounded of their Messiah, Christ showed them, that although they, who should have been the architects, had rejected him, yet he should be the chief corner-stone to unite the Jews and the Gentiles, converted into one Christian Church, militant on earth and triumphant in heaven. See Acts iv. 11. Wi.—S. Anstin remarks, that this parable was addressed not only to the opponents of Christ's authority, but likewise to the people.

VER. 43. The kingdom of God shall be taken from you. By this dreadful conclusion he tells them in plain terms, that they shall be forsaken, and punished for their blindness and obstinacy. Wi.

VER. 45. They understood that he spoke of them. This parable, though immediately addressed to the Jews, contains an admirable instruction for Christians. For, what the Jews have suffered for their wickedness and ingratitude, has also been the fate of many Christian kingdoms, and the mournful lot of many once flourishing happy churches, whose candlesticks are removed, and light extinct. The same conduct God observes with regard to particular persons, in punishment of their repeatedly abusing his graces; he at last withdraws them, and leaves the sulphur to himself, and to the miserable consequences of this merited privation of grace.

* V. 2. A prophecy of the coming of the Messiah was here so manifestly accomplished in the person of Jesus, that I cannot but set down the words of the prophet Zachary, chap. ix., Ece Rex tuus veniet tibi justus et Saluator, ipse pauper, et ascendens super asinam, et super pullum filium asinae. They are no less clear in the Hebrew, and other languages. See the Protestant translation in the prophet Zacharias.

† V. 9. Hosanna Filio David, וְיָיִן אֲבִיבִי. See Maldonat.

CHAP. XXII. VER. 1. Jesus answered, and spoke to them again in parables, and concludes his discourse with again describing, 1st. the reprobation of the Jews; 2nd. the calling of the Gentiles to the true faith; and, 3rd. the final judgment of both the one and the other.

VER. 2. Is like to a man being a king, &c. This parable seems different from that of Luke xiv. 16. See S. Aug. l. 2. de Cons. Evang. c. 70. The main design in this parable is to show the Jews that they were all invited to believe in Christ; though so few of them believed.—The king is God; his son is Jesus Christ; the spouse is the Church the marriage is Christ's incarnation; the feast, the grace

AND Jesus answered, and spoke to them again in parables, saying:

2 *The kingdom of heaven is like to a man being a king, who made a marriage for his son.

3 And he sent his servants, to call them that were invited to the marriage: and they would not come.

4 Again he sent other servants, saying, Tell them that were invited: Behold, I have prepared my dinner: my beeves and fathings are killed, and all things are ready: come ye to the wedding.

5 But they neglected, and went their ways, one to his farm, and another to his merchandise.

6 And the rest laid hands on his servants, and having treated them contumeliously, put them to death.

7 But when the king heard of it, he was angry, and sending his armies, he destroyed those murderers, and burnt their city.

8 Then he saith to his servants: The wedding indeed is ready, but they that were invited, were not worthy.

9 Go ye therefore into the highways, and as many as you shall find, invite to the wedding.

10 And his servants going out into the highways, gathered together all that they found, both bad and good: and the wedding was filled with guests.

11 And the king went in to see the guests: and he saw there a man who had not on a wedding-garment.

1 Pet. ii. 7.—^c A. D. 33.—^d Luke xiv. 16; Apoc. xix. 9.

of God in this life, and his glory in the next. His servants were the prophets, and lastly, his precursor, S. John. Wi.—The same takes place in the kingdom of heaven, as when a king makes a marriage feast for his son. Jesus Christ seems to have had two things in view in this parable: 1st. that many are called to the kingdom of heaven, i. e. his Church, and that few come, as he concludes, ver. 14, many are called, &c.; 2nd. that not all that come when called will be saved, i. e. will be reputed worthy of the celestial feast; because some have not on the wedding-garment, as he shows, ver. 11. M.

VER. 3. His servants. John the Baptist and Christ himself, who took the form of a servant, to call such as had been formerly invited to the nuptials that were to be celebrated in his time. The Jews were invited by Moses and the prophets, and were instructed to believe that the Messiah would celebrate this happy feast. On the predetermined day they were again called by his servants, saying, Do penance; for the kingdom of heaven is at hand: come to the feast, i. e. become members of his Church, by believing in Christ. Jans.—In the same manner, S. Chrysostom says that the Jews had been invited by the voice of the prophets, and afterwards by the Baptist, who declared to all that Christ should increase, but that he himself should decrease. At length, they were invited by the Son in person, crying aloud to them: Come to me, all you that labour, and are heavily laden, and I will refresh you. Matt. xi. 28. And again: If any man thirst, let him come to me and drink. S. John vii. 37.

VER. 5. One to his farm. After they had put to death the Son of God, still did the Almighty invite them to the marriage-feast; but they with futile excuses declined and slighted the proffered favour, wholly taken up with their temporal concerns and sensual enjoyments, their oxen, lands, and wives. From the punishment inflicted on these, we learn, that no consideration, how specious soever it may appear, can prove a legitimate excuse for neglecting our spiritual duties. S. John. Chrys. Hom. 70.

VER. 6. Put them to death. Thus the Jews had many times treated the prophets. Wi.

VER. 7. Sending his armies. Here our Redeemer predicts the destruction of Jerusalem, by the armies of Vespasian and Titus, sent against them by the Almighty, in punishment of their incredulity and impiety. S. Chrys. Hom. 70.—Thus the king destroyed those murderers, and burnt their city; for sooner or later God is observed to exert his vengeance on all such as despise his word, or persecute his ministers. See the miseries to which the Jews were reduced in Josephus, book the 6th, c. 9. Hist. of the Jewish War; who declares, that in the last siege of Jerusalem 1,100,000 persons perished, and that the city was completely destroyed.

VER. 8. Were not worthy. The Almighty knew full well that they were not worthy; he still sent them these frequently repeated invitations, that they might be left without any excuse. S. Chrys. Hom. 70.

VER. 9. Go ye therefore into the highways. The apostles first kept themselves within the precincts of Judea, but the Jews continually sought their destruction. Therefore S. Paul said to them, (Acts xiii. 46,) To you it behaved us first to speak the word of God, but seeing you reject it, and judge yourselves unworthy of eternal life, behold we turn to the Gentiles. S. Chrys. Hom. 70.

VER. 10. Both bad and good. Christ had before told the Jews that his 12 And he saith to him: Friend, how camest thou in neither not having a wedding-garment? But he was silent.

13 Then the king said to the waiters: "Having bound his hands and feet, cast him into the exterior darkness: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

14 For many are called, but few are chosen.

15 Then the Pharisees going away, consulted among themselves how to insnare him in his speech.

16 And they send to him their disciples with the Herodians, saying: Master, we know that thou art a true speaker, and teachest the way of God in truth, neither carest thou for any man: for thou dost not regard the person of men.

17 Tell us therefore what dost thou think? is it lawful to give tribute to Cæsar, or not?

18 But Jesus knowing their wickedness, said: Why do you tempt me, ye hypocrites?

19 Show me the coin of the tribute. And they offered him a penny.

20 And Jesus saith to them: Whose image and inscription is this?

21 They say to him: Cæsar's. Then he saith to them: "Render therefore to Cæsar the things that are Cæsar's: and to God, the things that are God's.

* Supra, viii. 12; Infra, xxv. 30.—b Mark xii. 13; Luke xx. 20.—c Rom. xiii. 7.

and publicans should, in preference to them, inherit the kingdom of heaven, and that the first should be last, and the last first, which preference of the Gentiles more tormented the Jews than even the destruction of their city. Chrys. 70.—Good and bad, persons of every tribe, tongue, people, nation, sex, and profession, without any exception of persons or conditions. Hence it is evident that the Church of God doth not consist of the elect only; and, that faith alone, without the habit of charity and good works, will not suffice to save us. B.

VER. 11. Wedding-garment, which Calvin erroneously understands of faith, for he came by faith to the nuptials. S. Augustin says it is the honour and glory of the spouse, which each one should seek, and not his own; and he shows this, in a sermon on the marriage feast, to be charity. This is the sentiment of the ancients, of S. Gregory, S. Ambrose, and others. S. Chrysostom says that the garment of life is our works; and this is here mentioned, that none might presume, (like Calvin and his followers,) that faith alone was sufficient for salvation.

VER. 12. Not having a wedding-garment. By this one person are represented all sinners void of the grace of God. Wi.—To enter with unclean garments, is to depart out of this life in the guilt of sin. For those are no less guilty of manifesting a contempt for the Deity, who presume to sit down in the filth of an unclean conscience, than those who neglected to answer the invitations of the Almighty. He is said to be silent, because, having nothing to advance in his own defence, he remains self-condemned, and is hurried away to torments; the horrors of which words can never express. S. Chrys. Hom. 70.

VER. 16. The Herodians. That is, some that belonged to Herod, and that joined with him in standing up for the necessity of paying tribute to Cæsar; that is, to the Roman emperor. Some are of opinion that there was a sect among the Jews called Herodians, from their maintaining that Herod was the Messiah. Ch.

VER. 17. Is it lawful, reasonable, and just, to give tribute to Cæsar? It was at that time a question much agitated among the Jews, whether they, being the peculiar people of God, ought to be subject and pay taxes to Cæsar, or to any prince whatsoever, or be exempt from them. Wi.—Some even among the Pharisees were of opinion, that it was unlawful for the people of God to serve strangers and idolaters, as we learn from Josephus. The question, therefore, proposed to our Saviour was insidious in the extreme, and not easy to be answered, without incurring the displeasure of one or other of the parties. For, if he answered that it was lawful, he would expose himself to the hatred of the Jews, who were aggrieved with what was generally thought an unjust extortion, and a mark of servitude injurious to God; if he denied the legality of this hated capitation-tax, he would incur the displeasure of the Herodians, and be denounced to Cæsar. This latter appears to have been their wish; as, in that case, it would have been very easy to persuade Pilate that Christ and his disciples, coming from Galilee, were favourers of that sect, who, from the name of their founder, Judas Galilæus, were called Galilæans; and some of whom, as we read in S. Luke, (xiii. 1,) Pilate put to death, whose blood he mingled with their sacrifices.

VER. 18. Ye hypocrites! Our Divine Saviour knowing their malice, and that it was their wish, in proposing this question, to render him odious to the people, or a suspicious character to the prince, answers them in these severe words. . . . Another motive was, to let them see that the secrets of their inmost hearts were open to him, and thus induce them to be converted from their wickedness; for, certainly, if they perceived that he could read their hearts, they must thence conclude that he was something more than human. Tostatus.

VER. 21. Render therefore to Cæsar the things that are Cæsar's. He 22 And when they heard this, they wondered, and leaving him went their way.

23 The same day the Sadducees came to him, who say "there is no resurrection: and asked him, 24 Saying: Master, Moses said: "If a man die having no son, his brother shall marry his wife, and raise up issue to his brother.

25 Now there were with us seven brethren: and the first having married a wife, died: and not having issue, left his wife to his brother.

26 In like manner the second, and the third, and so on to the seventh.

27 And last of all the woman died also.

28 At the resurrection therefore whose wife shall she be of the seven? for they all had her.

29 And Jesus answering, said to them: You err, not knowing the Scriptures, nor the power of God.

30 For in the resurrection they shall neither marry, nor be given in marriage: but shall be as the angels of God in heaven.

31 But as touching the resurrection of the dead, have you not read that which was spoken by God, saying to you:

32 'I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, d Acts xxiii. 6.—e Deut. xxv. 5; Mark xii. 19; Luke xx. 28.—f Exod. iii. 6.

neither directly decided the question, nor offended the Herodians. They admired his wisdom, were quite disappointed, and retired with confusion. Wi.—The reasoning of Christ appears to be this: As you are the subjects of Cæsar, which you plainly acknowledge by admitting his coin, upon which he inscribes himself lord of Asia, Syria, and Judea, &c., it is but just you pay him the tribute due from subjects to their sovereign; nor have you any reason to object on the plea of religion, since he demands of you, for the exigencies of the public service only, temporal things, and such as are in some respects already his own, by being stamped with his own image and superscription. But spiritual things, which belong to God alone, as your souls, stamped with his image, Divine worship, religious homage, &c., God, not Cæsar, demands of you. "Give therefore to Cæsar what belongeth to Cæsar, and to God what belongeth to God." T.—What our Saviour here commands us to give to God, is nothing else but our heart and affections.—Although Christ clearly establishes here the strict obligation of paying to Cæsar what belongs to Cæsar, yet he is afterwards accused, as we have mentioned above, (see note on ver. 17,) as if he forbade tribute to be paid to Cæsar. In like manner, in spite of the most explicit declarations of the Catholic Church, respecting her loyalty and subjection to temporal powers, her enemies fail not to calumniate her doctrine as inimical to the state, and subversive of due subordination. But let our opponents attend to the following authority and public declaration of Pope Clement XIV., addressed to all Catholic bishops in the Christian world. "Be careful," says he, "that those whose instruction in the law of the gospel is committed to your charge, be made sensible from their very infancy of their sacred obligation of loyalty to their kings, of respect to their authority, and of submission to their laws, not only for wrath, but for conscience sake."—But princes should not exact, and subjects should not affect to give them, ecclesiastical jurisdiction. S. Athanasius quotes the following strong words, from an epistle of the famous confessor Hosius, to Constantius, the Arian emperor: "Cease, I beseech thee, and remember that thou art mortal. Fear the day of judgment, and meddle not with ecclesiastical matters; neither do thou command us in this kind, but rather learn them of us. To thee God hath committed the empire; to us he hath committed what belongs to the Church. And as he who, with a malicious eye, hath designs upon thine empire, opposeth the ordinance of God; so do thou also beware lest, by an improper interference in ecclesiastical matters, thou be made guilty of a great crime. For it is written, Give to Cæsar, &c. Therefore, neither is it lawful for us on earth to hold the empire, neither hast thou, O emperor, power over incense and sacred things." Athan. Ep. ad Solit. vitam agentes.

VER. 24. Raise up issue to his brother, to be heirs of his name and of his effects, as we read in Ruth iv. 10: suscitare nomen defuncti, &c., to raise up the name of the deceased in his inheritance, lest his name be cut off from among his family, and his brethren, and his people. A.

VER. 29. You err. The Sadducees erred in supposing that there would be no resurrection, or if there was, that the future state would be like the present. Unable to conceive any thing else, they thought themselves justified in concluding that the soul would not survive the body. Had they known the Scriptures, they would not have fallen into this error; since therein are found abundant testimonies of a resurrection, as Job xiv., and xix.; Isa. xxvi.; Eze. xxxvii.; Dan. xii.

VER. 30. As the angels. Not in every respect, for the body shall be likewise raised with the soul, whilst the angels are pure spirits: but in this we shall be like unto angels, we shall be endowed with immortality, and impassibility; and our joys, like those of the angels, shall be wholly spiritual. Jans.

and the God of Jacob: He is not the God of the dead, but of the living.

33 And when the multitudes heard this, they were in admiration at his doctrine.

34 And when the Pharisees heard that he had silenced the Sadducees, they came together.

35 And one of them, a doctor of the law, asked him, tempting him:

36 Master, which is the great commandment in the law?

37 Jesus said to him: 'Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with thy whole heart, and with thy whole soul, and with thy whole mind.

38 This is the greatest and first commandment.

39 And the second is like to this: 'Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.

40 On these two commandments dependeth the whole law and the prophets.

41 And the Pharisees being gathered together, Jesus asked them,

42 Saying: What think you of Christ? whose son is he? They say to him: David's.

43 He saith to them: 'How then doth David in spirit call him Lord: saying:

44 'The Lord said to my Lord: Sit on my right hand, until I make thy enemies thy footstool?

* Mark xii. 28; Luke x. 25.—b Deut. vi. 5.—c Lev. xix. 18; Mark xii. 31.

d Luke xx. 41.—e Psal. cix. 1.—f A. D. 33. 2 Esd. viii. 4.

VER. 32. He is not the God of the dead. Jesus Christ here proves the resurrection of the body by the immortality of the soul; because in effect these two tenets are inseparable. The soul being immortal, ought necessarily to be one day reunited to the body, to receive therein the recompence or punishment which it has merited in this same body, when it was clothed with it.—By this text S. Jerom refutes the heretic Vigilantius, and in him many of modern date, who, to diminish the honour Catholics pay to the saints, call them designedly dead men. But the Almighty is not the God of the dead; of consequence these patriarchs, dead as they are in our eyes as to their bodies, are still alive in the eyes of God as to their souls, which he has created immortal, and which he will undoubtedly have the power of reuniting to their bodies. Wi.

VER. 34. The Pharisees heard that he had silenced their adversaries the Sadducees, &c. Some of them, says S. Luke, (xx. 39,) applauded him, saying, Master, thou hast said well. Wi.

VER. 40. On these two, &c. Whereby it is evident that all dependeth not upon faith only, though faith be the first, but much more upon charity, which is the love of God and of our neighbour, and which is the sum of all the law and the prophets; because he that hath this double charity, expressed here by these two principal commandments, fulfilleth all that is commanded in the law and the prophets. B.

VER. 45. If David then call him Lord, how is he his son? It was allowed of as a certain truth, that the Messiah was to be the son of David. Christ shows them, by David's own words, that he was the Lord as well as the son of David: and this is what they could not answer to. Wi.—Jesus Christ here inculcates to the Pharisees, that two natures must be admitted in the Messiah; in one of which, viz. in his human nature, he is the son of David, and as such inferior to him; and in the other, viz. in his Divine nature, he is the Son of God, and consequently superior to David; whence this latter, by the inspiration of the Holy Ghost, justly calls him Lord. T.

CHAP. XXIII. VER. 1. Then Jesus, &c. Jesus thus spoke to the multitude a few days previous to his passion. It is here observable that our Saviour, after he had tried all possible remedies, after he had taught and confirmed his doctrines by innumerable miracles, after he had secretly by his parables reprehended them for their wickedness, but without effect, now publicly upbraids their vices. But before his reprehension of the Pharisees, he instructs the people, lest they should despise the authority of the priesthood. Salmieron.

VER. 2. The Scribes. They, who professed the greatest zeal for the law of Moses, and gloried in being the interpreters of it, sat upon the chair of Moses, succeeded to his authority of governing the people of God, of instructing them in his law, and of disclosing to them his wills. Such, therefore, as did not depart from the letter of the law, were called Scribes. But such as professed something higher, and separated themselves from the crowd, as better than the ordinary class of men, were called Pharisees, which signifies separated. Origen.—God preserveth the truth of the Christian religion in the Apostolic See of Rome, which in the new law answers to the chair of Moses, notwithstanding the discrediting conduct of some few of its bishops. Yes, though a traitor, as vile as Judas himself, were a bishop thereof, it would not be prejudicial to the integrity of the faith of God's Church, 45 If David then call him Lord, how is he his son?

46 And no man was able to answer him a word. neither durst any man from that day forth ask him any more questions.

CHAP. XXIII.

Christ admonishes the people to follow the good doctrine, not the bad example of the Scribes and Pharisees: he warns his disciples not to imitate their ambition: and denounces divers woes against them for their hypocrisy and blindness.

THEN Jesus spoke to the multitude and to his disciples, 2 Saying: 'The Scribes and the Pharisees have sitten on the chair of Moses.

3 All therefore whatsoever they shall say to you, observe and do: but according to their works do ye not: for they say and do not.

4 'For they bind heavy and insupportable burdens: and lay them on men's shoulders: but with a finger of their own they will not move them.

5 And all their works they do for to be seen of men: 'For they make their phylacteries broad and enlarge their fringes.

6 'And they love the first places at feasts, and the first chairs in the synagogues,

7 And salutations in the market-place, and to be called by men, Rabbi.

8 'But be not you called Rabbi. For one is your Master, and all you are brethren.

* Luke xi. 46; Acts xv. 10.—h Num. xv. 38; Deut. vi. 8, and xxii. 12.

i Mark xii. 39; Luke xi. 43, and xx. 40.—k James iii. 1.

or to the ready obedience and perfect submission of sincere good Christians, for whom our Lord has made this provision, when he says: Do that which they say, but do not as they do. S. Aug. Ep. 165.

VER. 3. All therefore whatsoever they shall say. S. Augustin, in his defence of the See Apostolic, thus argues, contra lit. Prtil.: 'Why dost thou call the apostolic chair the chair of pestilence? If, for the men that sit therein, I ask: did our Lord Jesus Christ, on account of the Pharisees, reflect upon the chair, wherein they sat? Did he not commend that chair of Moses, and, preserving the honour of the chair, reprove them? For he saith: They have sat on the chair of Moses. All therefore whatsoever they shall say to you, observe and do. These points if you did well consider, you would not, for the men whom you defame, blaspheme the See Apostolic, wherewith you do not hold communion.' l. 2, c. 51. We are taught to obey bad no less than good ministers, in those things that are not expressly contrary to the law of God. Hence appears how unfounded and unreasonable is the excuse so often adduced by persons in justification of their misdeeds, viz. that they saw their pastors do the same. Such must attend to the rule here given by Jesus Christ. What they say, do: but according to their works, do ye not. Dion. Carthus.

VER. 4. Heavy and insupportable burdens. Some understand in general the ceremonies of the law of Moses; but Christ seems rather here to mean the vain customs, traditions, and additions, introduced by the Jewish doctors, and by their Scribes and Pharisees. Wi.

VER. 5. *Phylacteries. These were pieces or scrolls of parchment, on which were written the ten commandments, or some sentences of the law, which the Jews were accustomed to fasten to their foreheads, or their arms, to put them in mind of their duty. Thus they interpreted those words, Deut. vi. 8, Thou shalt tie them as a sign on thy hand: and they shall be, and move before thy eyes. Perhaps all the Jews, and even our Saviour himself, wore them; and that he only blames the hypocrisy and vanity of the Scribes and Pharisees, who affected to have them larger than others; and the like they did as to the fringes which the Jews wore on their garments. Wi.—That is, parchments, on which they wrote the ten commandments, and carried them on their foreheads before their eyes: which the Pharisees affected to wear broader than other men; so to seem more zealous for the law. Ch.

VER. 7. Rabbi. A title like that of master, or doctor. Judas gave it to our Saviour. Matt. xxvi. 49. And the disciples of S. John the Baptist call him so. John iii. 26.—Christ blames their pride and vanity in affecting such titles, rather than the titles themselves. Wi.—Διδασκαλος, properly a preceptor, as John iii. 10, Art thou a master in Israel, and knowest not these things? V.

VER. 8. One is your Master, or teacher, who is the Christ, and under him one vicar, the successor of S. Peter, with whom all Catholic teachers are one, because they all teach one and the same doctrine in every part of the Christian world; whereas in the multiplicity of modern sects, which are every day dividing and subdividing into fresh sects, no two leaders can be found teaching in all points exactly the same tenets; as each is not only allowed, but expected to follow his own private spirit, and to build his creed upon his own interpretation of Scripture. A.

9 *And call none your father upon earth: for one is your Father, who is in heaven.

10 Neither be ye called masters: for one is your Master, Christ.

11 He that is the greatest among you shall be your servant.

12 *And whosoever shall exalt himself, shall be humbled: and he that shall humble himself, shall be exalted.

13 But woe to you Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites: because you shut the kingdom of heaven against men: for you go not in yourselves: and those that are going in, you suffer not to enter.

14 Woe to you Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites: because you devour the houses of widows, making long prayers: therefore you shall receive the greater judgment.

15 Woe to you Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites: because you go round about sea and land to make one proselyte: and when he is made, you make him the child of hell two-fold more than yourselves.

16 Woe to you blind guides, who say: Whosoever shall swear by the temple, it is nothing: but he that shall swear by the gold of the temple, is a debtor.

17 Ye foolish and blind: for whether is greater, the gold, or the temple that sanctifieth the gold?

18 And whosoever shall swear by the altar, it is nothing: but whosoever shall swear by the gift that is upon it, he is a debtor.

19 Ye blind: for whether is greater, the gift, or the altar that sanctifieth the gift?

* Mal. i. 6.—b Luke xiv. 11, and xviii. 14.—c Mark xii. 40; Luke xx. 47.

VER. 9, 10. Call none your father . . . Neither be ye called masters, &c. The meaning is, that our Father in heaven is incomparably more to be regarded than any father upon earth: and no master to be followed, who would lead us away from Christ. But this does not hinder but that we are by the law of God to have a due respect both for our parents and spiritual fathers, (1 Cor. iv. 15,) and for our masters and teachers. Ch.

VER. 13. You shut the kingdom of heaven. This is here taken for eternal happiness, which can be obtained only by faith in Christ, since he calls himself the gate. S. John, chap. x.—Now the Pharisees, by refusing to believe in him, and conspiring against him, deterred those who would otherwise have believed in Christ, from professing his name and following his doctrines, and thus shut the gate of heaven against them. Nic. de Lyra.

VER. 14. You devour the houses of widows. Here our blessed Saviour severely reprehends the hypocrisy and other vices of the Scribes and Pharisees, a little before his death, to make them enter into themselves, and to hinder them from seducing others. Wi.—The Pharisees, by every means in their power, endeavoured to persuade the widows of the poor to make vows or offerings for the temple, by which they themselves became rich, and thus they devoured the houses of widows. Nic. de Lyra.—Whoever is a perpetrator of evil, deserves heavy chastisements; but the man who commits wickedness under the cloak of religion, is deserving of still more severe punishment. Origen.—The same is said of fasting, alms, prayers. Matt. vi.

VER. 15. Because whilst a Gentile he sinned without a perfect knowledge of the evil, and was not then a two-fold child of hell; but after his conversion, seeing the vices of his masters, and perceiving that they acted in direct opposition to the doctrines they taught, he returns to the vomit, and renders himself a prevaricator, by adoring the idols he formerly left, and sells his soul doubly to the devil. S. Chrys.

VER. 16. Woe to you blind guides. Avarice seems to have been the chief motive of the Pharisees in teaching this doctrine, since they taught that those who swore by the temple were guilty of no sin, nor under any obligation at all; whereas they who swore by the gold of the temple, were bound to pay a certain sum of money to the priests, by which they themselves were enriched. Nic. de Lyra.—Whosoever shall swear by the temple, it is nothing, &c. To understand this obscure place, we may take notice, that a good part of what was offered on the altar, and given to the treasury of the temple, fell to the share of the Jewish priests; and therefore it was not their interest to have such promises, or oaths, dispensed with. This made them teach the people, that if any one had made a promissory oath or vow to give their money or goods to the temple, or to the altar itself, as it is said ver. 18, such oaths or promises were not obligatory, or might easily be dispensed with. But if any one had sworn or vowed to give any thing to the treasury of the temple, or to join it to the offerings to be made on the altar, then such oaths and promises, which turned to their profit, were by all means to be 20 Whosoever therefore sweareth by the altar, sweareth by it, and by all things that are upon it:

21 And whosoever shall swear by the temple, sweareth by it, and by him that dwelleth in it.

22 And he that sweareth by heaven, sweareth by the throne of God, and by him that sitteth thereon.

23 *Woe to you Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites who pay tithe of mint, and anise, and cummin, and have let alone the weightier things of the law, *judgment, and mercy, and faith. These things you ought to have done, and not to leave those others undone.

24 Blind guides, who strain out a gnat, and swallow a camel.

25 Woe to you Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites: because you make clean the outside of the cup, and of the dish: but within you are full of extortion and uncleanness.

26 Thou blind Pharisee, first make clean the inside of the cup, and of the dish, that the outside may become clean.

27 Woe to you Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites: because you are like to whited sepulchres, which outwardly appear to men beautiful, but within are full of dead men's bones, and of all filthiness.

28 So you also outwardly, indeed, appear to men just: but within, you are full of hypocrisy and iniquity.

29 Woe to you Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites, who build the sepulchres of the prophets, and adorn the monuments of the just, d Luke xi. 42.—e Mic. vi. 8; Zac. vii. 9.

VER. 19. Sanctifieth. The altar is sanctified by our Lord's body thereon. Theophylactus, the close follower of S. Chrysostom, writeth thus upon this text: "In the old law, Christ will not allow the gift to be greater than the altar; but with us the altar is sanctified by the gift: for the bread, by the Divine grace, is converted into our Lord's body, and therefore is the altar sanctified by it."

VER. 23. You . . . who pay tithe, &c. The tithes of these small things are not found in the law. Nor yet doth Christ blame them so much for this, as for neglecting more weighty matters, and tells them by a proverb, that they strain out a gnat, and swallow a camel. Wi.—The Pharisees pretended the greatest exactitude even in the smallest commands of the law, when the observance of them could impress the people with a favourable idea of their sanctity; whereas they omitted the more essential precepts of the law, when it did not procure them the praise of men. Nic. de Lyra.

VER. 25. Woe to you. Jesus Christ here condemns, in forcible language, the principal vices of the Pharisees, viz. their hypocrisy, false devotion, boundless ambition, insatiable avarice, false zeal, and ignorance in deciding upon cases of conscience. S. Luke represents our Saviour as saying this to the Pharisees at dinner (chap. xi.); so that Christ must either have repeated these things at different times; or S. Matthew, according to custom, must have added them to other words of our Saviour, which, though spoken on another occasion, had some connexion with the same subject.

VER. 26. Thou blind Pharisee. The vices of the Scribes and Pharisees are not unfrequently to be found in Christians. The genuine characters of the pharisaical and hypocritical spirit, are: 1. to be punctiliously exact in trifles; 2. to be fond of distinction and esteem; 3. to be content with external piety; 4. to entertain a high opinion of ourselves, and to be impatient of reproof; 5. to be harsh to others, and ready to impose on them what we do not observe ourselves. Sins abundantly sufficient to rob us of every good, and to leave our house quite desolate! not less so than the temple and city of Jerusalem!

VER. 27. Whited sepulchres. The Jews, lest they should be defiled with touching the sepulchres, whitened them on the outside, in order to distinguish them. But this exterior whiteness, covering interior corruption, was a genuine picture of the pharisaical character. But these men, says S. Gregory, can have no excuse before the severe judge at the last day; for, whilst they show to the view of mankind so beautiful an appearance of virtue, by their very hypocrisy they demonstrate that they are not ignorant how to live well. Moral. 26.

VER. 29. Build the sepulchres, &c. This is not blamed, as if it were in itself evil to build or adorn the monuments of the prophets: but the hypocrisy of the Pharisees is here taxed; who, whilst they pretended to honour the memory of the prophets, were persecuting even unto death the Lord of the prophets. Ch.—Jesus Christ foresaw that they would shortly accomplish the wickedness of their fathers in shedding his blood, as their fathers did the blood of the prophets. Hilary.—And although they seemed to honour the prophets, and to abhor the murder of 30 And say : If we had been in the days of our fathers, we would not have been partakers with them, in the blood of the prophets.

31 Wherefore you are witnesses against yourselves, that you are the sons of them who killed the prophets.

32 Fill ye up then the measure of your fathers.

33 'You serpents, generation of vipers, how will you escape the judgment of hell?

34 Therefore, behold, I send to you prophets and wise men, and Scribes : and some of them you will put to death, and crucify, and some you will scourge in your synagogues, and persecute them from city to city :

35 That upon you may come all the just blood, that hath been shed upon the earth, ^bfrom the blood of Abel ^cthe just, even unto the blood of ^cZacharias, the son of Barachias, whom you killed between the temple and the altar.

36 Amen, I say to you, all these things shall come upon this generation.

37 ^dO Jerusalem, Jerusalem, thou that killest the prophets, and stonest them that are sent unto thee, how often would I have gathered together thy children, as the hen gathereth her chickens under her wings, and thou wouldest not ?

38 Behold, your house shall be left to you desolate.

39 For I say to you, you shall not see me henceforth till you say : Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord.

CHAP. XXIV.

Christ foretells the destruction of the temple : with the signs that shall come before it, and before the last judgment. We must always watch.

AND ^eJesus being come out of the temple went away. And his disciples came to show him the buildings of the temple.

2 And he answering, said to them : Do you see all these things ? Amen, I say to you, ^fthere shall not be left here a stone upon a stone that shall not be thrown down.

3 And as he was sitting on Mount Olivet, the disciples came ^gto him privately, saying : Tell us, when shall these things be ? and what shall be the sign of thy coming, and of the consummation of the world ?

4 And Jesus answering, said to them : ^hTake heed that no man seduce you :

^a Supra, iii. 7.—^b Gen. iv. 8 ; Heb. xi. 4.—^c 2 Par. xxiv. 22.—^d Luke xiii. 34.

^e A. D. 33. Mark xiii. 1 ; Luke xxi. 5.—^f Luke xix. 44.—^g Ephes. v. 6 ; Colos. ii. 18.

the just, it was merely that in their persecution of Jesus Christ he might appear to the people neither a prophet, nor just. M.

VER. 35. From the blood of Abel, &c. Not that the Jews, to whom Christ spoke, should be punished for crimes which they themselves did not commit, nor be more severely punished than they themselves deserved ; but he speaks of the Jewish people, which, by putting to death their Messiah, should shortly fill up the number of their sins ; so that God would destroy their whole nation, as if the blood of Abel, and of the prophets unjustly murdered, came upon them at once. See Maldonat.—Of Zacharias, the son of Barachias. Some think this was Zachary, numbered among the lesser prophets, whose father's name was Barachias ; but we do not read of his being murdered in this manner. The more common opinion is, that here is meant Zachary, who, preaching to the people, (2 Par. xxiv. 20,) was stoned to death in the very place where Christ was now speaking. But there he is called the son of Joiada, and not of Barachias. Some conjecture his father might have had both names ; and S. Jerom tells us, that in an ancient copy of S. Matthew, called the Gospel of the Nazarenes, he found this Zacharias, of whom our Saviour speaks, called the son of Joiada. Wi.—Others suppose that he was the eleventh of the twelve prophets ; but it is not mentioned that he was slain between the temple and the altar. S. Jerom.—That upon you may come, &c. Not that they should suffer more than their own sins richly deserved ; but that the justice of God should now fall upon them with such a final vengeance once for all, as might comprise all the different kinds of judgments and punishments, that had at any time before been inflicted for the shedding of just blood. Ch.

VER. 36. Amen, I say to you. More severe punishments were inflicted on these Jews, on account of their more grievous and heinous transgressions ; for nothing had been able to recall them from their wickedness. S. Chrys. Hom. 73.

VER. 37. And thou wouldest not. Three truths may be gathered from these words of our Saviour : 1. They who perish, perish by their own fault, because they refuse to listen to the voice of God calling them to salvation ; 2. that man's will is free, and that it is an error in man to lay all his wickedness to the charge of God, or of blind chance ; for God justly attributes the reprobation of man to his own perverse will, which often opposes that of God, and brings destruction on itself ; 3. how necessary it is for man to subject his will to that of the Almighty, and ever to say with our Saviour, Nevertheless, not my will, but thine be done. Salmeron.

VER. 39. Till you say, Blessed is he that cometh. Hereafter you shall own me for your Messiah, and the world's Redeemer, at least at the day of judgment. Wi.

* V. 5. Phylacteria, φυλακτήρια. Conservatoria, or preservatoria. See S. Jerom on this place, p. 188, and S. Chrys. hom. 72, in Matt.

† V. 35. In Evangelio quo utuntur Nazareni, pro filio Barachiae, filium Joiadae, reperimus scriptum.

CHAP. XXIV. VER. 1. After the fatigues of preaching and teaching, Jesus towards evening left the temple, as it is in the Greek, ἐπορεύετο ἀπὸ τοῦ ἱεροῦ, and went towards Mount Olivet, where he was accustomed to spend his nights, as we learn from S. Luke, chap. xxi. ver. penult. Jans.—His disciples came to show him the buildings, not moved by curiosity, for they had seen them frequently before, but by pity ; because he had on a former occasion, and only just before in Jerusalem, threatened the destruction of the temple and city, hoping that the splendour and magnificence of so fine a structure, consecrated to God, might alter his determination, as S. Hilarius observes. But the anger of God, provoked by sins, is not to be appeased with stones and buildings. He therefore answered Jer. : (Jans.)

VER. 2. Do you see all these things ? Examine again and again this magnificence, that the sentence of Heaven may appear more striking.—A stone upon a stone. We need not look on this as an hyperbole. The temple was burnt by the Romans, and afterwards even ploughed up. See S. Greg. Naz. Orat. 2, cont. Julianum ; Theodoret. l. 3, Histor. c. 20, &c. Wi.—Julian the Apostate, wishing to falsify the predictions of Daniel and of Jesus Christ, attempted to rebuild the temple. For this purpose, he assembled the chief among the Jews, and asking them why they neglected the prescribed sacrifices, was answered, that they could not offer any where else but in the temple of Jerusalem. Upon this he ordered them to repair to Jerusalem, to rebuild their temple, and restore their ancient worship, promising them his concurrence in carrying on the work. This filled the Jews with inexpressible joy. Hence flocking to Jerusalem, they began with scorn and triumph to insult over the Christians. Contributions came in from all parts. The Jewish women stripped themselves of their most costly ornaments. The emperor opened his treasures to furnish every thing necessary for the building. The most able workmen were convened from all parts ; persons of the greatest distinction were appointed to direct the work ; and the emperor's friend, Alpius, was set over the whole, with orders to carry on the work without ceasing, and to spare no expense. All materials were laid in to an immense quantity. The Jews of both sexes bore a share in the labour ; the women helping to dig the ground, and carry away the rubbish in their aprons and gowns. It is even said that the Jews appointed some pick-axes, spades, and baskets, to be made of silver, for the honour of the work. Till this time the foundations and some ruins of the walls had remained, as appears from S. Cyril, in his Catechism, 15, n. 15, and Euseb. Dem. Evang. l. 8, p. 406. These ruins the Jews first demolished with their own hands, thus concurring to the accomplishment of our Saviour's prediction. They next began to dig the new foundations, in which many thousands were employed. But what they had thrown up in the day, was, by repeated earthquakes, the night following cast back again into the trench. When Alpius the next day was earnestly pressing on the work, with the assistance of the governor of the province, there issued, says Ammianus Marcellinus, such horrible balls of fire out of the earth near the foundations, as to render the place inaccessible from time to time to the scorched workmen. And the victorious element continuing in this manner obstinately bent, as it were, to drive them to a distance, Alpius thought proper to abandon, though reluctantly, the enterprise. This great event happened in the beginning of the year 363, and with many very astonishing circumstances is recorded both by Jews and Christians. See the proofs, and a much fuller account of this astonishing event, which all the ancient Fathers describe as indubitable, in Alban Butler's Life of S. Cyril of Jerusalem, March 18th. Thus they so completely destroyed whatever remained of the ancient temple, that there was not left one stone upon another ; nor were they permitted by Heaven even to begin the new one. Maldonat.

VER. 4. And Jesus answering. Various are the interpretations given here. Some will have it refer to the destruction of Jerusalem, which took place A. D. 70 ; and others, to the end of the world. That of S. Chrys. seems to be very conformable to the context, and is followed by many. He explains all, to the 23rd verse exclusively, of what shall precede the destruction of Jerusalem ; nor is there any circumstance which cannot easily be referred to that event, as will appear from a careful and attentive observation of the history of the Jews, and of the Church at that time, in the writings of Josephus and Eusebius. Even the preaching of the gospel to the whole world, which seems to favour the contrary explanation, is by the same Father said to have taken place before the destruction of Jerusalem. The verses subsequent to the 22nd, are explained by S. Chrys. of the second coming of Christ, previous to the general judgment. Jans.—Such as were 5 For many will come in my name, saying, I am Christ: and they will seduce many.

6 And you shall hear of wars, and rumours of wars. See that ye be not troubled. For these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet.

7 For nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom, and there shall be pestilences, and famines, and earthquakes in places.

8 Now all these are the beginnings of sorrows.

9 *Then shall they deliver you up to be afflicted, and shall put you to death: and you shall be hated by all nations for my name's sake.

10 And then shall many be scandalized, and shall betray one another, and shall hate one another.

11 And many false prophets shall rise, and shall seduce many.

12 And because iniquity hath abounded, the charity of many shall grow cold.

13 But he that shall persevere to the end, he shall be saved.

14 And this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in the whole world, for a testimony to all nations, and then shall the consummation come.

* Supra, x. 17; Luke xxi. 12; John xv. 20, and xvi. 2.—b Mark xiii. 14; Luke xxi. 20.

for a more particular explanation of every thing preceding the 23rd verse, how it applies to the Jews, may consult the concordance of Jansenius.

VER. 5. For many will come. One of these was Simon Magus, who in the Acts (chap. viii. 10) is mentioned as calling himself the power of God; hence the apostle S. John (1 Ep. ii. 18) says, And as you have heard that Antichrist cometh, even now there are become many Antichrists. By Antichrists I understand heretics, who, under the name of Christ, teach doctrines different from Christ; neither is there any reason for us to be surprised, if many be seduced, since our Lord declares that many will be seduced. S. Jerom.

VER. 6. Shall hear of wars. Most authors understand this second sign of the Jewish wars which preceded the ruin of Jerusalem; others, of the wars of Antichrist, previous to the end of the world. Both are very probable. The first is proved from history, and from the events; the latter, from what we learn from the Apocalypse, will certainly happen. M.

VER. 9. Then shall they deliver you up, &c. The fourth sign shall be the persecution raised against the Church, which will be two-fold; it will regard both body and soul. See Luke xxi. 12; Mark xiii. 9. All this happened to the apostles previously to the siege of Jerusalem, as well as to the martyrs in subsequent times. A similar persecution, attended probably with additional severity, will most probably be the lot of the faithful during the reign of Antichrist. The calamities, bloodshed, and utter ruin which took place at the destruction of the city and temple of Jerusalem, are a figure of the still more dreadful calamities, bloodshed, and ruin to be expected towards the end of the world; and which should be frequently present to our minds. The last chapter of the Apocalypse, which is the last communication of the Divine will to man, is deserving our frequent and very attentive perusal. In it Jesus Christ, by his repeated warnings, wishes to awaken us to a sense of that day of general retribution, saying: Surely I come quickly: behold I come quickly: and my reward is with me, to render to every man according to his works. (Behold the merit of good works proceeding from faith and charity.) With what earnestness have the servants of God, in every age, prayed with S. John (ibid): Come, Lord Jesus; come, put a final end to the reign of sin and Satan; come, admit thy elect, who have been purified in the waters of the great persecution, and in the blood of the Lamb, to thy heavenly bosom; to that happy sanctuary and asylum, where no hunger or thirst, no scorching heat of the sun, no fiery temptation will any more reach or molest them; where the sigh and the groan will not be heard; where all tears will be wiped away from every eye, and where they will be inebriated at the torrent of immortal delights, and will see and enjoy the Lord Jesus, without any apprehension of offending him, for ever and ever. A.

VER. 11. And many false prophets shall rise, like unto those lying teachers mentioned by S. Peter, (2 Ep. ii. 1,) who shall bring in sects of perdition, (i. e. heresies destructive of salvation,) bringing upon themselves swift destruction.

VER. 12. And because iniquity hath (literally, shall) abounded, shall arrive at its height, the charity of many, carried away by the force of bad example, will grow cold; and scarcely, even among Christians, will a person be found willing to assist Christians, lest he may be known for a Christian. Of this we have an example, 2 Tim. iv. 16, At my first answer, no man stood with me, but all forsook me: may it not be laid to their charge; but the Lord stood by me, and strengthened me. Maldonatus.

VER. 13. But he that shall persevere to the end, in the midst of this trying and afflicting scene, in faith and charity, (or, as it is in the Greek, he that shall preserve his patience to the end. ὁ ὑπομένων, proof against heresies, persecutions, 15 *When therefore you shall see the abomination of desolation, which was spoken of by *Daniel, the prophet, standing in the holy place: he that readeth, let him understand.

16 Then let those that are in Judea flee to the mountains:

17 And he that is on the house top, let him not come down to take any thing out of his house:

18 And he that is in the field, let him not go back to take his coat.

19 And woe to them that are with child, and that give suck in those days.

20 But pray that your flight be not in the winter, or on the "sabbath.

21 For there shall be then great tribulation, such as hath not been from the beginning of the world until now, neither shall be.

22 And unless those days had been shortened, there should no flesh be saved: but for the sake of the elect, those days shall be shortened.

23 *Then if any man shall say to you: Lo, here is Christ, or there: do not believe him.

24 For there shall arise false Christs, and false prophets, hatreds, or scandals,) shall be saved. To perseverance alone this promise is made; for, non querantur in Christianis initia sed finis. Tert.

* Dan. ix. 27.—d Acts i. 12.—e Mark xiii. 21; Luke xvii. 23.

VER. 14. This gospel . . . shall be preached in the whole world, to serve as a testimony to all nations, of the solicitude of Heaven in having the doctrine of salvation announced to them. This then is a fifth sign, and not till then shall the consummation come.—And then shall the consummation come. The end of the world, says S. Jerom. The destruction of Jerusalem, say S. Chrys. and others. Wi.—If the final destruction of Jerusalem be here meant, the gospel had been preached throughout the major part of the then known world. See Rom. x., and Col. i. 6, 23. If the end of the world, there is the greatest probability that the true faith will have been announced to every part of the globe before that period.

VER. 15. The abomination of desolation was first partly fulfilled by diverse profanations of the temple, as when the image of Cæsar was set up in the temple by Pilate, or Adrian's statue in the holy of holies, and when the sacrifices were taken away; but will be more completely fulfilled by Antichrist and his precursors, when they shall attempt to abolish the holy mass. S. Hippolytus, in his treatise de Anti-Christo, mentioned by Eusebius, S. Jerom, and Photius, thus writeth: "The churches shall lament with great lamentations, because there shall neither be made oblations, nor incense, nor worship grateful to God. . . In those days the liturgy (or mass) shall be neglected, the psalmody shall cease, the reciting of Scripture shall not be heard."—The prophet Daniel (xii. 11) calculates the reign of Antichrist, from the time that the daily sacrifice shall be taken away; which, by able commentators, is understood of the sacrifice of the mass, which Antichrist will endeavour to suppress.—*The abomination of desolation, or the abominable desolation. Instead of these words, we read in S. Luke, (xxi. 20.) When you shall see Jerusalem surrounded by an army. Christ said both the one and the other. But the words in S. Luke seem rather to give us a sign of the ruin of Jerusalem, than of the end of the world.—Spoken of by Daniel, the prophet. The sense is, when you shall see that very prophecy of Daniel literally fulfilled hereafter. What follows in the prophecy of Daniel confirms this exposition; when the prophet adds, that the desolation shall continue to the end; that the Jews from that time shall be no more the people of God, for denying their Messiah; and that they shall put the Christ to death. But what then was this desolation, which, by the following verse, was to be a sign to the Christians to fly out of Judea? Some expound it of the heathen Roman army, approaching and investing Jerusalem, called the holy city. Others understand the profanation of the temple, made by the Jews themselves, a little before the siege under Vespasian; when in the civil dissensions, those called the Zealots had possessed themselves of the temple, and placed their warlike engines upon the pinnacles; and a part, at least, of the temple was defiled with the dead bodies of those killed there. It was at that time that the Christians, according to Christ's admonition, left Jerusalem and Judea, and fled to Pella, beyond the river Jordan. See Euseb. l. 3, 11st. c. 5. Wi.

VER. 16. Then let those. It is well known that this prophecy was verified to the letter in the destruction of Jerusalem. For, as the Roman army advanced, all the Christians who were in the province, forewarned by Divine admonition, retired to a distance, and crossing the Jordan, took refuge in the city of Pella, situated in Traconitis, and became subjects of king Agrippa, who was in amity with the Romans. Remigius.

VER. 20. In the winter: an inconvenient season for flying away.—Or on the sabbath, when it was lawful to travel only about a mile. Wi.—Pray to God that you may be enabled to escape those evils, and that there may be no impediment to your flight. Estius in dif. loca.

and shall show great signs and wonders, insomuch as to deceive (if it were possible) even the elect.

25 Behold, I have told it to you beforehand.

26 If therefore they shall say to you: Behold he is in the desert: go ye not out: Behold he is in the closets, believe it not.

27 For as the lightning cometh out of the east, and appeareth even unto the west: so shall also the coming of the Son of man be.

28 ^aWheresoever the body shall be, there shall the eagles also be gathered together.

29 ^bAnd immediately after the tribulation of those days, the sun shall be darkened, and the moon shall not give her light, and the stars shall fall from heaven, and the powers of the heavens shall be moved:

30 And then shall appear the sign of the Son of man in heaven: and then shall all the tribes of the earth mourn: and they shall see the Son of man coming in the clouds of heaven with great power and majesty.

31 ^cAnd he shall send his angels with a trumpet, and a great voice: and they shall gather together his elect, from the four winds, from the farthest parts of the heavens to the utmost bounds of them.

32 Now learn a parable from the fig-tree: when its branch is now tender, and the leaves come forth, you know that summer is nigh.

33 So also you, when you shall see all these things, know that it is near, even at the doors.

^a Luke xvii. 37.—^b Isa. xlii. 10; Ezech. xxxii. 7; Joel ii. 10, and iii. 15; Mark xiii. 24; Luke xxi. 25.—^c Apoc. i. 7.

VER. 26. Behold he is in the desert. This prediction of false Christs may be understood before the destruction of Jerusalem, but chiefly before the end of the world. Wi.

VER. 28. Wheresoever the body, &c. This seems to have been a proverb or common saying among the Jews. Several of the ancient interpreters, by this body, understand Christ himself, who died for us; and they tell us, that at his second coming the angels and saints, like eagles, with incredible swiftness, will join him at the place of judgment. Wi.

VER. 29. The sun shall be darkened, &c. These seem to be the dreadful signs that shall forewarn the day of judgment.—The stars shall fall, not literally, but shall give no light. Wi.

VER. 30. The sign of the Son of man, &c. The Fathers generally expound this of the cross of Christ, that shall be seen in the air. Wi.—This sign is the cross much more resplendent than the sun itself. Therefore the sun hides its diminished head, whilst the cross appears in glory; because the great standard of the cross excels in brightness all the refulgent rays that dart from the meridian sun. S. Chrys. Hom. 77.

VER. 34. This generation; i. e. the nation of the Jews shall not cease to exist, until all these things shall be accomplished; thus we see the nation of the Jews still continue, and will certainly continue to the end of the world. T.—Then the cross, which has been a scandal to the Jew, and a stumblingblock to the Gentile, shall appear in the heavens, for the consolation of the good Christian. Hoc signum crucis erit in celo, cum Dominus ad judicandum venerit.—If it be to be understood of the destruction of Jerusalem, the sense may be, this race of men now living; if of the last day of judgment, this generation of the faithful, saith Theophylactus; shall be continued; i. e. the Church of Christ, to the end of the world. Wi.—By generation, our Saviour does not mean the people that were in existence at that time, but the faithful of his Church; thus says the Psalmist, This is the generation of them that seek the Lord. Psal. xxiii. 6. S. Chrys. Hom. 77.

VER. 35. Shall pass away: because they shall be changed at the end of the world into a new heaven and new earth. Ch.

VER. 36. No one knoweth, . . . but the Father alone. The words in S. Mark (xiii. 32) are still harder; neither the angels, nor the Son, but the Father. The Arians objected this place, to show that Christ, being ignorant of the day of judgment, could not be truly God. By the same words, no one knoweth, but the Father alone, (as they expound them,) the Holy Ghost must be excluded from being the true God. It is the common answer of the Fathers, that Christ here speaks to his disciples, only as he was the ambassador of his Father; and so he is only to know what he is to make known to men. He is said not to know, says S. Aug., what he will not make others know, or what he will not reveal to them. Wi.—By this Jesus Christ wished to suppress the curiosity of his disciples.

VER. 37, 38. And as it was. The same shall take place at the coming of the 34 Amen, I say to you, this generation shall not pass till all these things be done.

35 ^eHeaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away.

36 But of that day and hour no one knoweth, no not the angels of heaven, but the Father alone.

37 ^fAnd as it was in the days of Noe, so shall also the coming of the Son of man be.

38 For as in the days before the flood, they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Noe entered into the ark,

39 And they knew not till the flood came, and took them all away: so shall also the coming of the Son of man be.

40 Then shall two be in the field: the one shall be taken, and the other shall be left.

41 Two women shall be grinding at the mill: the one shall be taken, and the other shall be left.

42 Watch ye, therefore, because you know not at what hour your Lord will come.

43 But this know ye, ^gthat if the master of the house knew at what hour the thief would come, he would certainly watch, and would not suffer his house to be broken open.

44 Wherefore be you also ready, because at what hour you know not, the Son of man will come.

45 Who, thinkest thou, is a faithful and wise servant, whom his lord hath set over his family, to give them meat in season?

^d 1 Cor. xv. 52; 1 Thess. iv. 15.—^e Mark xiii. 31.—^f Gen. vii. 7; Luke xvii. 26. ^g Mark xiii. 35; Luke xii. 39.

Son of man at the last day, as at the general deluge. For, as then they indulged their appetites, unmindful of the fate that was attending them, γαυώμενοι καὶ ἐκγαμίζοντες, marrying and giving in marriage, solely occupied with the concerns of this life, and indifferent to those of the next; so shall it be at the end of the world. They are not here accused of gross sins, but of a supine security of their salvation, as is evident from what follows. Jans.

VER. 39. And they thought not of the deluge, though preached and predicted by Noe, (which rendered their ignorance and incredulity inexcusable,) till it came and swept them all away. So shall it be at the coming of the Son of man. S. Luke adds, (chap. xvii. 28,) likewise as it was in the days of Lot; they shall be eating and drinking, buying and selling, planting and building, i. e. totally immersed in worldly pursuits. Hence the apostle; when they shall say peace, viz. from past evils, and security, viz. from future, then shall destruction come upon them on a sudden.

VER. 40. Then of two men, who shall think of nothing less than of going to appear before God, one shall be taken to be placed among the number of the elect, and the other shall be left condemned to eternal fire with the damned, on account of his crimes. V.

VER. 41. Two women. Slaves of both sexes were employed in grinding corn. Of these, one shall be carried up to heaven by angels, the other shall be left a prey to devils, on account of her bad life. V.—In many ancient MSS. both Greek and Latin, what we read in S. Luke, (xvii. 34,) of two men in the same bed, one shall be taken, and the other shall be left, is here added.

VER. 42. Watch ye, therefore. That men might not be attentive for a time only, but preserve a continual diligence, the Almighty conceals from them the hour of their dissolution: they ought therefore to be ever expecting it, and ever watchful. But to the eternal infamy of Christians be it said, much more diligence is used by the worldly wise for the preservation of their wealth, than by the former for the salvation of their immortal souls. Though they are fully aware that the Lord will come, and like a thief in the night, when they least expect him, they do not persevere watching, nor guard against the irreparable misfortune of quitting the present life without previous preparation. Therefore will the day come to the destruction of such as are reposed in sleep. S. Chrys. hom. 78, on S. Matt.

* V. 15. Abominatio, nem desolationis, βέβηλγμα τῆς ἐρημώσεως. The same words are in the Sept. Dan. ix. See S. Jerom. in this place, and S. Chrys. hom. 76, and 77, in Matt.

† V. 28. Corpus; in most Greek copies, πῶμα, cadaver. See again S. Jerom. and S. Chrys. Hom. 77, p. 492.

‡ V. 34. Generatio hæc. Theophylact, ἡ γένεα τῶν χριστιανῶν.

§ V. 36. S. Aug. l. 83, QQ. quæst. 60, tom. 6, p. 33. Ed. Ben. dicitur nescire filius, quia facit nescire homines, i. e. non prodit eis, quod indutiter scirent. See the same, S. Aug. l. 1, de Trin. c. 12, tom. 8, p. 764 and 765. and lib. de Gen. cont. Manich. c. 22, p. 659, tom. 1.

46 "Blessed is that servant, whom, when his lord shall come, he shall find so doing.

47 Amen, I say to you, he shall set him over all his goods.

48 But if that evil servant shall say in his heart: My lord is long a coming:

49 And shall begin to strike his fellow-servants, and shall eat, and drink with drunkards:

50 The lord of that servant shall come, in a day that he expecteth not, and in an hour that he knoweth not:

51 And shall separate him, and appoint his portion with the hypocrites. "There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

CHAP. XXV.

The parable of the ten virgins, and of the talents: the description of the last judgment.

THEN shall the kingdom of heaven be like to ten virgins, who, taking their lamps, went out to meet the bridegroom and the bride.

2 Now five of them were foolish, and five were wise.

3 But the five foolish, having taken their lamps, took no oil with them:

4 But the wise took oil in their vessels, with the lamps.

5 And while the bridegroom tarried, they all slumbered and slept.

6 And at midnight there was a cry made: Behold the bridegroom cometh, go ye forth to meet him.

7 Then all those virgins arose and trimmed their lamps.

* Apoc. xvi. 15.—b Supra, xiii. 42; Infra, xxv. 30.

CHAP. XXV. VER. 1. Ten virgins. By these are signified all mankind. By the bridegroom, Christ; by the bride, the Church; by oil, grace and charity. Wi.—The kingdom of heaven is not unfrequently compared to the Church militant; which, as it is composed of both just and wicked, reprobate and elect, is deservedly compared to five wise and five foolish virgins: the wise constantly aspiring after their blessed country; the foolish, with all their fasts and austerities, wishing to procure nothing more than the empty esteem of men. S. Gregory.—Went out to meet the bridegroom and the bride; in the Greek, it is simply, before the bridegroom. The custom among the Jews was, that the bridegroom should go to fetch his spouse, and conduct her with solemnity to his house. V.—The young women of the vicinity, in order to do her honour, went to meet her with lighted lamps.

VER. 4. But the wise took oil. Under this parable, we have the state of all Christians in their mortal pilgrimage justly delineated. The wise took oil in their lamps, the necessary qualifications of grace and charity, joined with Divine faith, and an additional supply of oil in their vessels; i. e. they laid up in store for themselves a solid foundation of good works. S. Gregory teaches, that by the lamps, faith is meant; and by the light, good works. Hence he concludes that the bad, although they have lamps, i. e. faith, no less than the good, shall be excluded; because their lamps are out, i. e. their faith is dead, without charity and good works to enlighten them. Hom. 12.—S. Augustin also declares, that these lighted lamps are good works, viz. works of mercy and good conversation, which shine forth before men. Ep. 120, c. 33.—And, that this oil is a right inward intention, directing all our works to the greater glory of God, and not to the praise of ourselves in the sight of men. Idem. ibid.

VER. 5. And while the bridegroom (Jesus Christ) tarried, i. e. delayed his coming, and thus protracted the time of repentance, they all slumbered and slept; viz. they all died.

VER. 6. There was a cry. So shall we all have to rise again at the sound of the last trumpet, to meet our Judge, either like the wise virgins, who, having their oil ready, and their lamps trimmed and burning, soon prepare themselves to give in their accounts to their Lord; or, like the foolish, who, having made no provision of the oil of good works, are compelled to seek it at the time they are to be judged. S. Augustin.

VER. 8. For our lamps are gone out. Thus too many, trusting to their faith alone, and leading a tepid, indifferent life, are negligent in preparing themselves by good works for the coming of the Bridegroom. But when they perceive themselves called away from this life, to go and meet their Judge, they then begin to find their lamps extinguished, and to think of procuring for themselves the oil of good works, by bequeathing their effects to the poor. Though we ought not to despair of the salvation of these, still there is great room to fear; for a death-bed repentance is seldom sincere, more seldom or never perfect, and always uncertain. Jansenius.

VER. 10. And the door was shut After the final day of judgment, there will 8 And the foolish said to the wise: Give us of your oil: for our lamps are gone out.

9 The wise answered, saying: Lest there be not enough for us and for you, go you rather to them that sell, and buy for yourselves.

10 Now while they went to buy, the bridegroom came and they who were ready, went in with him to the marriage, and the door was shut.

11 But at last came also the other virgins, saying: Lord, Lord, open to us.

12 But he answering, said: Amen, I say to you, I know you not.

13 "Watch ye, therefore, because ye know not the day nor the hour.

14 "For even as a man going into a far country, called his servants, and delivered to them his goods;

15 And to one he gave five talents, and to another two, and to another one, to every one according to his proper ability: and immediately he took his journey.

16 And he that had received the five talents, went his way, and traded with the same, and gained other five.

17 And in like manner he that had received the two, gained other two.

18 But he that had received the one, going his way, digged in the earth, and hid his lord's money.

19 But after a long time, the lord of those servants came, and reckoned with them.

20 And he that had received the five talents, coming, brought other five talents, saying: Lord, thou deliveredst be no room for prayers and good works. S. Jerom.—For, after having received those within its walls, who have put on in some degree the nature of the angels, the gate to the city of bliss is closed for ever. S. Aug.

* A. D. 33. Mark xiii. 33.—d Luke xix. 12.

VER. 13. Watch ye. S. Austin asks, how can we be always watching, it being necessary for each one to give himself sufficient time to sleep and rest from his many labours? He answers the question in these words: We may always keep watching in our hearts by faith, hope, charity, and all other good works. But when we awake, like the five wise virgins, we must arise and trim our lamps, by supplying them with the oil of good works. Then they will not go out, nor will the soothing oil of a good conscience be wanting to us. Then will the Bridegroom come and introduce us to his house, where we shall never need sleep or rest; nor will our lamps ever be in danger of going out. Whilst we are in this life, we labour; and our lamps, blown about by the winds of innumerable temptations, are always in danger of being extinguished; but soon their flame shall become more brilliant, and the temptations we have suffered here shall not diminish, but increase its lustre. S. Aug. Serm. 24.

VER. 14. But that the apostles and all men might learn how they ought to watch, and to prepare for the last day, he subjoins another instructive parable of the ten talents. It has a great affinity with that mentioned in S. Luke, xix. 11. But this last was spoken at a different time, place, and occasion. It differs also in some points.—For even as a man, &c. This passage is to be understood of our Divine Redeemer, who ascended to heaven encompassed by his human nature. The proper abode for the flesh is the earth; when, therefore, it is placed in the kingdom of God, it may be said to be gone into a far country. S. Gregory.

VER. 15. In the parable of the talents, the master is God, talents, graces, &c. Wi.—From this it appears, we can do no good of ourselves, but only by means of God's grace, though he requires our co-operation; since the servants could only make use of the talents given them to gain others. (A talent is £187 10s.) It is also worthy of remark, that both he who received five and he who received only two talents, received an equal reward of entering into the joy of our Lord; which shows, that only an account will be taken according to what we have received, and that however mean and despicable our abilities may be, we still have an equal facility with the most learned of entering heaven. Jans.

VER. 18. He that had received the one. The man who hid this one talent, represents all those who, having received any good quality, whether mental or corporal, employ it only on earthly things. S. Gregory.—Origen is also of the same sentiment: if you see any one, says he, who has received from God the gift of teaching and instructing others to salvation, yet will not exercise himself in this function, he buries his talent in the ground, like this unworthy servant, and must expect to receive the like reward.

VER. 19. After a long time. This represents the time that is to intervene between our Saviour's ascension and his last coming.

to me five talents; behold I have gained other five over and above.

21 His lord said to him: Well done, thou good and faithful servant: because thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will set thee over many things: enter thou into the joy of thy lord.

22 And he also that had received the two talents came and said: Lord, thou deliveredst two talents to me: behold I have gained other two.

23 His lord said to him: Well done, thou good and faithful servant: because thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will set thee over many things: enter thou into the joy of thy lord.

24 But he that had received the one talent, came, and said: Lord, I know that thou art a hard man; thou reapest where thou hast not sown, and gatherest where thou hast not strewed:

25 And being afraid, I went and hid thy talent in the earth: behold here thou hast that which is thine.

26 And his lord answering, said to him: Thou evil and slothful servant, thou knewest that I reap where I sow not, and gather where I have not strewed.

27 Thou oughtest, therefore, to have committed my money to the bankers, and at my coming, I should have received my own with usury.

28 Take ye away, therefore, the talent from him, and give it him that hath ten talents.

29 *For to every one that hath, shall be given, and he shall abound: but from him that hath not, that also which he seemeth to have shall be taken away.

30 And the unprofitable servant, cast ye out into the exterior darkness. There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

31 And when the Son of man shall come in his majesty, and all the angels with him, then shall he sit upon the seat of his majesty:

32 And all the nations shall be gathered together before him, and he shall separate them one from another, as the shepherd separateth the sheep from the goats:

33 And he shall set the sheep on his right hand, but the goats on the left.

34 Then shall the king say to them that shall be on his right hand: Come, ye blessed of my Father, possess the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world.

35 *For I was hungry, and you gave me to eat: I was thirsty, and you gave me to drink: I was a stranger, and you took me in:

36 Naked, and you clothed me: *sick, and you visited me: I was in prison, and you came to me.

37 Then shall the just answer him, saying: Lord, when did we see thee hungry, and fed thee: thirsty, and gave thee drink?

38 And when did we see thee a stranger, and took thee in: or naked, and clothed thee?

39 Or when did we see thee sick, or in prison, and came to thee?

40 And the king answering, shall say to them: Amen, I say to you: as long as you did it to one of these, my least brethren, you did it to me.

41 Then shall he say to them also, that shall be on his left hand: *Depart from me, ye cursed, into everlasting fire, which was prepared for the devil and his angels.

42 For I was hungry, and you gave me not to eat: I was thirsty, and you gave me not to drink:

43 I was a stranger, and you took me not in: naked and you clothed me not: sick, and in prison, and you did not visit me.

44 Then shall they also answer him, saying: Lord, when did we see thee hungry or thirsty, or a stranger, or naked, or sick, or in prison, and did not minister to thee?

45 Then shall he answer them, saying: Amen, I say to you: as long as you did it not to one of these least ones, neither did you do it to me.

* Supra, xlii. 12; Mark iv. 25; Luke viii. 18, and xix. 26.—b Isa. lviii. 7; Eze. xviii. 7, and 16.

VER. 20. I have gained other five. Free-will, aided by the grace of God, doth evidently merit as we see here.

VER. 24. I know that thou art a hard man. This is an insignificant part, that is, an ornament of the parable only; as also when it is said, I should have received mine with usury. Ver. 27. Wi.—This seems to have been an adage levelled at avaricious men, who are never pleased but with what increases their hoards.

VER. 26. Thou evil and slothful servant, for thus calumniating thy master; if I wish to reap where I have not sown, how ought you to fear my just indignation, if where I have sown I find nothing by your neglect to reap. Thus our Lord retorts the accusation upon the servant, as in Luke xix. 22, Out of thy own mouth I judge thee, thou wicked servant.

VER. 29. To every one that hath, &c. That is, who hath, so as to have made good use of, or to have improved, what was committed to his trust and management. See the notes Matt. xlii. 12. Wi.

VER. 30. And the unprofitable servant. Thus not only the rapacious, the unjust, and evil-doers, but also all those who neglect to do good, are punished with the greatest severity. Let Christians listen to these words, and while time will permit them, embrace the means of salvation. S. Chrys. Hom. 79.

VER. 34. Shall the king say to them . . . on his right hand. By setting forth to all the world the good works of his faithful servants, the Sovereign Judge silences the murmurs of the reprobate, who might otherwise object that they had it not in their power to do good. In the same manner, the conduct of the wise virgins was the condemnation of the foolish ones; the diligence of the faithful servant, of the sloth and drunkenness of the idle one; the zeal of the servants who multiplied the talents intrusted to them, of him that hid his talent in the ground; and the fervour of the observers of the commandments, of the negligence and remissness of those who are ever transgressing them. S. Chrys. Hom. 80.—These works of mercy, says S. Austin, prevail towards life everlasting, and to the blotting out of former sins: in Psal. xlix.

VER. 35. For I was hungry, &c. We may take notice, that the wicked at the day of judgment are said to be condemned for having omitted to perform good works. Wi.—S. Austin, in his thirty-third sermon, brings a beautiful reason why the kingdom of heaven is bestowed solely upon the works of mercy, and eternal damnation for the neglect of them; viz. because, however just a man may be, still he has many failings to atone for, on account of which the kingdom of heaven might be justly denied him: but because he has shown mercy to his neighbours, he deserves in like manner to have mercy shown him. But the wicked not having shown mercy to their neighbours, nor redeemed their sins by alms-deeds, or the like, are thus delivered up to eternal damnation. Jans. Concord.

VER. 36. And you visited me. How easy are the things our Saviour requires at our hands! He will not say at the day of judgment, "I was in prison, and you delivered me; I was sick, and you healed me; but only this, you visited me, you came to me." S. Chrys. Hom. 80.—This seems particularly addressed to Christians engaged in the cares of the world, whose salvation principally depends on the practice of works of mercy.

VER. 40. As long as you did it to one of these, my least brethren. Can there be a more forcible motive to charity, than the assurance of revelation that the Son of God will accept all good offices done to the afflicted, as done to himself. This condescension on the part of Jesus Christ, will fill the elect with sentiments of profound admiration and astonishment.

VER. 41. Prepared for the devil. When Christ invited the just to his heavenly kingdom, he calls it a kingdom prepared for them from the foundation of the world; a kingdom of inexpressible happiness, which from all eternity he designed for those who he knew would faithfully serve him. But, when he pronounces the sentence of the reprobate, he speaks in a widely different manner. He calls it an everlasting fire, prepared not for them, but for the devils and wicked spirits, their accomplices. They have chosen to cast themselves into it; they must therefore look upon themselves as the authors of all their miseries and sufferings. S. Chrys. Hom. 80.—The pain of loss is here expressed by depart from me, and the pain of sense by eternal fire. M. and Maldonatus.

VER. 42. Gave me not. Jesus Christ chargeth them not here with a want of faith, but with a want of good works. They certainly believed, but they attended not to good works; as if a dead faith, i. e. a faith not working by charity, could bring them to heaven. S. Aug. de Fide et Oper. c. 15, et ad Dulcit. q. 2, ad *

46 *And these shall go into everlasting punishment : but the just, into life everlasting.

CHAP. XXVI.

The Jews conspire against Christ. He is anointed by Mary. The treason of Judas. The last supper. The prayer in the garden. The apprehension of our Lord: his treatment in the house of Caiphas.

AND *it came to pass, when Jesus had ended all these words, he said to his disciples :

2 *You know that after two days shall be the Pasch, and the Son of man shall be delivered up to be crucified.

3 Then were gathered together the chief priests, and the ancients of the people, into the palace of the high priest, who was called Caiphas :

4 And they consulted together, that by subtilty they might apprehend Jesus, and put him to death.

5 But they said : Not on the festival day, lest there should be a tumult among the people.

6 And when Jesus was in Bethania, in the house of Simon, the leper,

7 There came to him a woman having an alabaster-box of precious ointment,^d and poured it on his head as he was at table.

* Dan. xii. 2; John v. 29.—^b A. D. 33.—^c Mark xiv. 1; Luke xxii. 1; John xii.—^d Mark xiv. 3;

VER. 46. Everlasting punishment. The rewards and torments of a future life are declared by Jesus Christ, who is truth itself, to be eternal. Let no one be found to argue hence against the goodness and mercy of God, for punishing sins committed in time with punishments that are eternal. For, 1. according to human laws, we see murder and other crimes punished by death, which is in some measure an eternal exclusion from society. 2. The will of the sinner is such, that he would sin eternally if he could; it is an eternal God, a God of infinite majesty, who is offended. He essentially hates sin; and as in hell there is no redemption, the sin eternally continuing, the hatred God bears to sin must eternally continue, and with it eternal punishment. The doctrine of those who pretend, with Origen, to question the eternity of the duration of hell's torments; who can say with him, video infernum quasi senescentem, must encourage vice and embolden the sinner; for if the conviction of eternal torments is not capable to restrain his malice, the doctrine of temporal punishment would be a much less restraint. The present world would not be habitable, were there nothing for the wicked to apprehend after this life.

CHAP. XXVI. This second council of the Jews against Jesus, was held on the Wednesday, two days before the Passover; and because on this day Judas sold Christ, and the Jews decreed his death, the ancient custom, according to S. Austin, originated of fasting on Wednesdays (Ep. 36, tom. 3, p. 80): and the general custom of abstaining from flesh on Fridays, because on that day Jesus suffered death for our redemption.—In the notes on these two following chapters, I shall join all the chief circumstances related by the other evangelists, that the reader may have a fuller and more exact view of the history of Christ's sufferings and death. Wi.

VER. 2. You know that after two days shall be the Pasch; * or the feast of the Pasch. The Protestants translate, of the Passover. The French all retain the same word in their language, Pâque; as the author of the Latin Vulg. and all other Greek versions have done. It is indeed an evident mistake, (as S. Aug. observed) to take Pascha for a Greek word. It is certain that the word Pascha, or Pasche, is from a Hebrew derivation, signifying a passing by, or passing over. Yet it must also be observed, that this same word Pascha has diverse and different significations: sometimes it is put for the Paschal lamb, that was sacrificed, as Luke xxii. 7; elsewhere for the first day of the Paschal feast and solemnity, which lasted seven days; as in this place, and Ezec. xlv. 21. Again, it is taken for the sabbath day, that happened within the seven days of the solemnity. John xix. 14.—And it is also used to signify all the sacrifices that were made during the seven days' feast; as John xviii. 28. Wi.

VER. 5. Not on the festival day. Such a day seemed to them at first improper, at least to some of them; but this was overruled, when Judas informed them how he could and would put him into their hands on Thursday night. S. Jerom takes notice, that when they said, Not on the festival, it was not through a motive of religion that they made this objection, but only lest a tumult should happen in his favour among the people (Wi.); for they looked upon him as a great prophet.—We know that by a decree of Divine Providence, what had been so long and so earnestly sought for by the Jewish princes, viz. an opportunity of murdering the innocent Lamb of God, was not granted to them, except on the very feast of the Pasch. For it was only fitting, that what had been for such a length of time figuratively promised, should be manifestly fulfilled; that the true Lamb should supersede the figurative one; and that by one grand sacrifice, the vast variety of offerings and holocausts should be done away. S. Leo the Great.

VER. 6. When Jesus was in Bethania, &c. S. Aug. observes, that this pouring of the ointment on Jesus is not related by S. Matthew in due order of time. It was not done on this Wednesday, but, as S. John expressly tells us, (xii. 1,) six days before the Pasch, or Paschal feast, began. This anointing was different from 8 And the disciples seeing it, had indignation, saying : To what purpose is this waste ?

9 For this might have been sold for much, and given to the poor.

10 And Jesus knowing it, said to them : Why do you trouble this woman ? for she hath wrought a good work upon me.

11 For the poor you have always with you : but me you have not always.

12 For she, in pouring this ointment upon my body, hath done it for my burial.

13 Amen, I say to you, wheresoever this gospel shall be preached in the whole world, that also which she hath done, shall be told for a memory of her.

14 *Then went one of the twelve, who was called Judas Iscariot, to the chief priests :

15 And he said to them : What will you give me, and I will deliver him unto you ? But they appointed him thirty pieces of silver.

16 And from thenceforth he sought opportunity to be tray him.

17 *And on the first day of the azymes, the disciples

John xi. 2, and xii. 3.—^e Mark xiv. 10; Luke xxii. 3.—^f Mark xiv. 12; Luke xxii. 7.

that done in the house of the Pharisee, and in Galilee, set down by S. Luke, chap. vii. 37. Wi.—S. Matthew mentions the fact in this place, because it was in some measure the occasion of Judas's treason. V.

VER. 7. A woman. This was Mary, the sister of Lazarus. S. John xii. 3. V.—It is not the use, but the abuse of things, which is blame-worthy. That man is not to be blamed, who does not exceed the rules followed by good, honourable, and conscientious men, with whom he associates. What, therefore, in some is often reprehensible, in another is highly commendable. S. Augustin.

VER. 8. Indignation. It was chiefly Judas, who blamed aloud this profusion. V.—S. Matt. and S. Mark mention the disciples. But such of them as spoke, were persuaded to what they said either by Judas's words, or by their feeling and affection for the poor; but the only motive of Judas was avarice. S. Thos. Aquin.

VER. 10. Why do you trouble this woman? By this, our Saviour teaches us, that we are not to expect the more perfect acts of virtue from persons still novices, or young in the service of God. He takes the part of the woman, and speaks in her behalf; that the tender bud of her faith might not be blasted, but that her virtues might be watered with tenderness, and thus assisted to produce greater fruit for the future. When, therefore, we behold any good action done, though some imperfection may creep in with it, still ought we to behold it with kindness, and assist it to bring forth more perfect acts for the time to come. S. Chrys. Hom. 81.

VER. 11, 12. Me you have not, or you will not have always, in this visible manner.—She . . . hath done it for my burial. S. Mark (xiv. 8) says, She hath prevented the time to anoint me, which is done at burials, for my time of being buried will be in a few days. Wi.—Me you have not always; viz. in a visible manner, as when conversant here on earth: and as we have the poor, whom we may daily assist and relieve. Ch.

VER. 14. The chief priests were then assembled; Judas, the disciple who chiefly regretted the expense of the perfumes that had been used on his Lord and Master at the feast of Bethania, and wished for an opportunity to make good the loss, went to the chief priests, saying :

VER. 15. What will you give me? The impious wretch did not betray his Divine Master out of fear, but out of avarice. He sells him for the paltry consideration of thirty pieces of silver, about £3 15s., the price of a common slave. See Exod. xxi. 32. It is probable that even the obdurate heart of Judas would not have betrayed his Master to the Jews, had he not expected that Jesus would escape from their hands on this occasion, as he had done at Nazareth, and in the temple

The Paschal Supper.

VER. 17. The first day of the azymes; unleavened bread. S. Mark (xiv. 12) adds, when they sacrificed the Pasch: and S. Luke (xxii. 7) says, And the day of the unleavened bread came; on which it was necessary that the Pasch (i. e. the Paschal lamb) should be killed. From hence it follows, that Christ sent his apostles that very day (the 14th day of the month of Nisan) on which, in the evening, or at night, the Pasch was to be eaten; and which was to be with unleavened bread. It is true, the 15th day of that month is called (Exod. xii. 1) the first day of unleavened bread: but we must take notice, that the Jews began their feasts, or festivals, from sunset of the evening before; and consequently on the evening of the 14th day of the moon: at which time there was to be no leavened bread in any of their houses. This shows that Christ eat the Pasch, or Paschal lamb, after sunset. And when the Paschal supper was over, he consecrated the blessed Eucharist, in unleavened bread, as the Latin Church doth. There are two or three difficulties relating to this matter in S. John, of which in their proper places. Wi.—The Passover was the most solemn rite of the old law. When God ordered the Israelites to sprinkle the blood of the lamb upon their door-posts, it was solely with a view of signifying, that the blood of the true Lamb was to be the distinctive came to Jesus, saying: Where wilt thou that we prepare for thee to eat the Pasch?

18 But Jesus said: Go ye into the city to a certain man, and say to him: The master saith: My time is near at hand, I will keep the Pasch at thy house with my disciples.

19 And the disciples did as Jesus had appointed them, and they prepared the Pasch.

20 *Now when it was evening, he sat down with his twelve disciples.

21 And whilst they were eating, he said: Amen, I say to you, ^bthat one of you is about to betray me.

* Mark xiv. 17; Luke xxii. 14.—^b John xiii. 21.

mark of as many as should be saved. Every thing was mysterious and prophetic. A bone of the lamb was not to be broken; and they broke not the arms or legs of Jesus Christ, on the cross. The lamb was to be free from blemish; to express the perfect sanctity of Jesus Christ, the immaculate Lamb of God. The Paschal lamb was to be sacrificed and eaten; because Christ was to suffer and die for us: and unless we eat his flesh, we shall have no life in us. The door-posts of the Israelites were to be sprinkled with blood, that the destroying angel might pass over them; or with the blood of Christ our souls are to be purified, that sin and death may not prevail against us. In every house was eaten a whole lamb; and Christ, at communion, is received whole and entire by every faithful soul.—The manner in which it was to be eaten, shows the proper dispositions for Christians when they receive the blessed sacrament. The roasting by fire expresses Divine charity; the unleavened bread, sincerity, truth, and a good conscience; the bitter herbs, repentance and contrition for sin; the girded loins and shod feet, the restraint upon our passions and lusts, and a readiness to follow the rules of the gospel; the staff, our mortal pilgrimage, and that having no lasting dwelling here, we should make the best of our way to our true country, the heavenly Chanaan.—On this day the pasover was to be eaten, at least by a part of the people, according to S. Matt., S. Mark, and S. Luke; i. e. according to some, by the Galileans; for, according to S. John, it appears that the priests, and the Jews properly so called, such as dwelt in Judea, did not immolate it till the next day. John xiii. 1; xviii. 28, and xix. 14. V.

